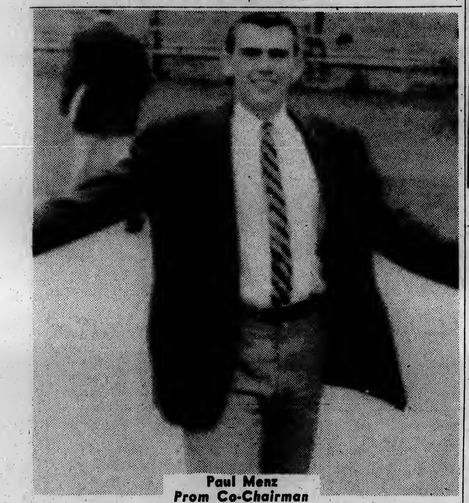
R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.

Tickets Are Numbered:

Opera-Classica to Sponsor Trip to "Telephone Hour"

The Villanova Opera-Classica club is sponsoring a New York City field trip on Dec. 12, 1955 and the club has a limited number of free tickets available to those interested.



Miss Renata Tebaldi will appear in Carnegie Hall as guest soloist on the Telephone Hour at 9 p. m. Miss Tebaldi will be featured in "Ebben n'andro lontane" from La Wally, "Poveri fieri" from Adriana Lecouvreur, and "Ah fors e lui" and "Sempre libera" from La Traviata. Tickets for this trip may be secured from Victor Romano for a two dollar transportation fee. Miss Tebaldi will star as Mimi in the club's second opera of the year, La Boheme, which will be held on Nov. 2 at 7:30 p. m. in Barry Hall Lounge.

ENGINEER Out November 15th

The VILLANOVA ENGINEER will put in its first appearance of the semester on Nov. 15, Editor Jake Clancy announced at a staff meeting last week.

Clancy said the deadline for students writing articles for the January issue is Dec. 15.

Students interested in writing for the ENGINEER may get information from Clancy in 319 Sullivan or Len Bellanca in 105 Sullivan.

Paul Menz
Prom Co-Chairman

Prom's Decoration Theme Also Considered:

Senior Steering Committee Lines Up Band Possibilities

Dave Burns
Prom Co-Chairman

Phil Butler
Decorations Head

Morrow, Thornhill And Mooney

The steering committee of the Class of 1956 met last Thursday, with newly-elected president Jerry Guerrisi presiding for the first time.

The steps taken and the projects discussed were these:

1. The committee heard a report from Mike Horan (who later submitted his declination of the post of senior prom chairman) on the situation of band possibilities for the Belle Air Ball January 13. From a list of seven bands gotten from agent Bill Honney, the following were chosen in order of the committee's preference: Buddy Morrow, Claude Thornhill and Art Mooney. The newly-appointed prom chairman will attempt to sign Morrow, the No. 2 and 3 bands serving as alternates.

The steering committee agreed that the pressure of time made it advisable to go ahead and sign a prom band without first polling the class. Guerrisi and the group are in agreement that an early signing of the band is "most desirable", and that final negotiations are being made. There is chance, Guerrisi added, that "we may have the band signed by Wednesday" (today)

2. Bob Ford, Don Alton, Owen Hickey and Larry Fitzpatrick appointed a committee of four to look into the possibility of a Class of 1956 scholarship fund.

3. President Guerrisi said that the committee investigating the possibility of a second dinner

(Continued on Page 11)

By Puerto Rican Govt.:

Senior Carlos Conde Is Awarded Two-Year Harvard Scholarship

The government of Puerto Rico disclosed last week that Carlos Conde, a senior Finance major, will be the first Villanova student to receive one of its two-year scholarship grants on the basis of a test he took last summer.

This announcement closely followed the introduction of scholarship committees within the various fraternities.

Conde, a native of the island, chose Harvard above four other prominent American universities as the school he preferred to continue his study in the field of Industrial Management.

Upon receiving his degree from Harvard, Conde, who possesses a 3.5 average, will work two years in a managerial position for the Puerto Rican government.

★ ★ Fraternity Row ★ ★

Scholarship Plan Is Outlined

Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O.S.A. Dean of Arts and Sciences, suggested last week that the work of the Scholarship Committee be handled by each fraternity. Father Sullivan pointed out that information available from a fraternity-run committee would be more accessible to the students of the each school.

"Doing this would also strengthen the bond of brotherhood so important in the fraternities," he added.

Dr. John McEnerney, moderator of the Arts and Sciences fraternity, Delta Pi Mu, hailed Father Sullivan's idea. "Owen Hickey, DPM president, has already appointed John L. Sullivan to head our fraternity scholarship committee."

Father Sullivan also made available information concerning

(Continued on Page 11)

Bob McCaffrey
DPM Gridder

DPM SHUTS OUT DPE, 6-0

In a close, intensely played game, Delta Pi Mu edged Delta Pi Epsilon last Friday, 6-0, on a long last period pass from junior Bill Hattrick to Art Voute.

(Continued on Page 11)

DPE Dance Details To Be Posted

Although the location and orchestra have not been chosen for the DPE dinner dance this Saturday, president Lou Donatelli stated that all frat members will be given the complete details this week.

Lou Colameco, pledge chairman, went on to comment that all accepted pledges must attend this affair as a final requirement before they are recognized as a fraternity brother.

75 Pledges

Some 75 pledges were fully instructed as to what would be expected from them during "Hell Week" between Nov. 7-11, at a meeting held in 201 C&F last Thursday.

Fifteen of these pledges, due to their wholehearted participation in the parade for the North Carolina State game were permitted to attend the combined

(Continued on Page 11)

Lou Donatelli
D.P.E. president

Smoke WINSTON the easy-drawing filter cigarette!

LKD Pledges End Initiation Tonight, 7:15

Fifty pledges of L.K.D. premed fraternity will undergo the final phase of initiation tonight during "Hell Night" proceedings to begin at 7:15 p.m. in the basement of C&F auditorium.

All pledges are instructed to have the usual equipment with them tonight, including material for a blindfold, paddle, old clothes, surgeon's hat, sign, and so forth.

Tonight's activities will end ten days of pledging for the 50 underclassmen. During that time the newcomers helped out around campus in various fashions, even helping VILLANOVAN circulation mananger Nick Pedano get the campus weekly in the mails last week. They'll do the same with today's issue.

Community Breakfast

L.K.D.'s annual communion

(Continued on Page 11)

Dance Set Nov. 18:

Greenlee, Monahan Named Mardi Gras Chairmen

The Rev. George A. McLaughlin, O.S.A., moderator of the N.F.C.C.S., has announced the appointment of Jim Greenlee and Jack Monahan as co-chairmen of its annual Mardi Gras Ball, to be held on Friday night, Nov. 18.

Although the dance will be held early this year due to a conflict with the Senior Prom in January, the well-liked Mardi Gras theme will be kept.

Villanovans Play

Co-chairman Monahan promises "some surprise entertainment" to share the feature billing along with Bob Schiller's Villanovans. The nature of the surprise will be divulged shortly.

The popular beauty queen contest is again scheduled for the affair this year. Three faculty members whose identities are not yet known, will choose the queen and her court. All dates present will be eligible.

Prom Tickets Raffled

An added feature of the dance will be the raffle of Juinor and Senior Prom tickets for door prizes. Ed. Fletcher, veteran ticket chairman, hopes to have ducats on sale soon.

Other chairmen include: George Sinnott and Frank Collins, decorations; Paul Donohue and Pat Kean, publicity; John Coffey and Dale McSain, refreshments.

Bob Schiller
Leads "Villanovans"
For Mardi Gras

Villanova Press Hopes To Print All Campus Material

With the ultimate hope of printing all material originating on campus and with the main objective of encouraging the faculty and students of Villanova to put their ideas in print, The Villanova Press started official operation on Oct. 7, of this year.

Fr. Vrana Moderator

Fr. Vrana, O.S.A., who was in charge of St. Rita's Press until it was disbanded in 1932, suggested that the Research and Development Department acquire a press to print their forms. This was done in 1952 and since then it has grown, under Fr. Vrana's supervision, into The Villanova Press.

The Press does not intend to go into competition with outside printers but will be a great convenience to Villanova.

Faculty Use Facilities

Some of those who have received permission from the school authorities and have taken advantage of The Press's facilities are Dr. Hartman and Mr. Driscoll, who have prepared supplements to the books used in their courses. The Business Whirl is printed there and the programs for the Sophomore Cotillion were also made by The Press.

Staff to be Enlarged

The offices of The Villanova Press are located in Galberry Hall and the present staff consists of Mr. Harry Gray, printer and Miss Charlotte Watson, secretary. In July, 1956 the staff will have been enlarged so that it may handle the large volume of work expected.

The Villanova Press, a non-profit organization, is still attached to The Research and Development Department headed by Capt. Gillan but Fr. Vrana is it's moderator and has the final say in The Press' operation.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Law School Party, Game Recounted

With over two-thirds of the students attending the affair, the Law School Halloween Party, sponsored by the Inter Club Council, was a definite success. The representatives of the Council decorated and made all arrangements for the affair.

Alligator Loop

The opening game of the "Alligator" league—the law school inter-class football series—took place on Mendel field last Monday. It pitted the third year men, champions a year ago, against the first year class. The Frosh took full advantage of two breaks early in the game to roll to an 8-0 lead in the opening minutes. After intercepting a pass in their own territory, the first year men pushed to a touchdown on a series of successful passes by La Rocca. Though their try for an extra point failed, the frosh scored moments later when, after the "dead ball" rule grounded the kick-off on the third year goal line, the Freshmen line trapped Furman behind his own goal line for two more points. The Seniors rallied with a touchdown march of their own late in the first half, Gribbin scoring on a Furman pass; the same combination missed connections for the extra point, however, and the half-time score was 8-6. Both sides threatened in the second half, but no more scoring resulted.

Law Review

Editor-in-Chief Bob Garbarino is rounding the first issue of the Villanova Law Review into shape for its deadline date in

(Continued on Page 11)

Visiting Bishop Addresses Group Of Professors

The Villanova University chapter of American Association of University Professors heard a talk by His Excellency, Bishop Peter Canixsius van Lierde, O.S.A., on The Significance of the Present Pontificate for the Modern World, at a meeting recently.

Emphasizes Modern Challenge

In the course of the informal talk, His Excellency emphasized the profound change worked upon the social, cultural and religious life of the modern world by the tremendous development of scientific and technical proficiency, the profound problems that these developments have produced and the efforts of the present Pontiff, Pius XII, to meet the challenges to the Church brought about by them.

Stressing that the Pope has urged acceptance of the whole of modern technical and scientific achievement, Bishop van Lierde expressed the desire of the Pope to spiritualize this world. "Let us not destroy its riches," he said, "but let us use them to lift up man as the center of the world."

Problem: Lethargy

To bring this about, the present Pontiff has stressed the development of the supranational character of the Church, in keeping with the growing supranational culture and spirit of the modern world. In addition, continued the Bishop, the Pope has recognized clearly the significance of the laity in the Church as the instrument for overcoming the religious lethargy and atheism of large portions of humanity.

And to bring about this apostolate of the laity, Pius XII has been in the forefront of the establishment of the various programs of Catholic Action and the development of secular institutes. All of this is part of the Pontiff's plan, according to His Excellency, to mobilize the whole of Christ's Church, clergy and laity to meet the challenges of the modern world.

Laity Must Work

In conclusion His Excellency stressed the special responsibilities of the laity in this program of Christian perfection, emphasizing the importance of their duties and the fact that the laity alone could do this needed apostolic work.

Women Students To Get Blazers

Reverend Joseph J. Burns, O.S.A., Dean of Women, has arranged for the ordering of official Villanova blazers for the women enrolled in the University. The Nursing Sororities voted to adopt a dark-blue jacket, similar in style to those worn by men students, for the Division of Nursing.

Because student nurses spend only two years on campus, all underclassmen will be permitted to order the blazers, which will be delivered on or about December 16.

Fittings will be taken by a representative of the supplying firm, the Brooks-Allen Company, of Rochester, New York, in Austin Lounge on November 4.

MARINE CORPS SCHOOLS, QUANTICO, VA., JULY 12, 1955, "After a hard days work, this food sure hits the spot." says Robert L. McLaughlin, Jr., candidate for the Platoon Leaders Class being conducted at Quantico, Va.

Candidates for the Platoon Leaders Class attend two six week training periods while on vacation from college. Upon successful completion of the course and graduation from college, candidates are commissioned second lieutenants in the Marine Corps or Marine Corps Reserve.

McLaughlin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. McLaughlin, Sr. ,of 1226 Center st., Ashland, Pa., and husband of the former Miss Helene C. Ginley of 137 West Main st.. Girardville, Pa. A graduate of St. Joseph's High School, Ashland, Pa., he is now attending Villanova University, Villanova, Pa., and is a Junior PLC.

Robert L. McLaughlin

Dr. Edward Burke:

Phila. Chemist Speaks At Law School Forum Tonight

Dr. Edward J. Burke, Philadelphia Police Chemist, will be the speaker at the second Law School Forum this evening at 8:15 p.m. in Room 215, Mendel Hall. Dr. Burke will recount some of his experiences in gathering evidence in narcotics cases and poisonings. In his official capacity he has been involved in most of the famous Philadelphia prosecutions requiring chemical evidence during the past quarter of a century.

Extensive Experience

Holding three degrees in chemistry from Villanova University (B.S., M.S., Ph.D.), he served briefly as an instructor here before working for the Du Pont Corporation. During the years 1943 to 1945, he was President of the Alumni Association and is still a member of its Board of Governors. Teaching at the Philadelphia Police Academy is one of the additional duties of his office. He has lectured also at the University of Pennsylvania, St. Joseph's College, and the Philadelphia County Medical Association.

All interested Villanova students are invited to attend this lecture. The Forum series will be continued each month throughout the academic year. The December speaker will be Abraham Freedman, Esq., Philadelphia City Solicitor.

Conference Series On Legal Ethics Continues Thurs.

A series of conferences on legal ethics, which was opened by the Rev. Edward M. Dwyer, O.S.A., will continue at the Law School when two former Chancellors of the Philadelphia Bar Association appear on Thursday evening. Arthur Littleton, Esq., and Walter Gibbons, Esq., will discuss ethical problems arising in the handling of civil cases.

Prominent Attorneys

Both of the speakers are prominent Philadelphia attorneys wtih extensive experience. Mr. Littleton has recently been appointed to a Committee of the American Bar Association which is restudying the present Canons of Professional Ethics. He is also a member of the Pennsylvania Board of Bar Examiners. Mr. Gibbons is one of the original members of The Board of Consultors to the Law School.

The discussion tomorrow night will be followed in subsequent weeks by meetings devoted to such topics as criminal litigation, the lawyer as lobbyist, and the lawyer as public servant. In the spring a second series of discussions will focus on problems of special interest to Catholic lawyers.

Physics Club

Because of the Papal Blessing given in the chapel last Thursday, there was no meeting of the Physics Club. Therefore, the demonstration scheduled for last week will take place tomorrow.

The demonstration will be given by Ed Meyer, a junior member of the club, and will consist in the effects of a high voltage discharge through a vacuum.

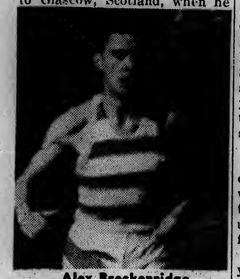
President Charles Schwerdtferger cordially invites everyone interested to attend the meeting in the physics lab at 10:30 a.m.

Nursing Faculty Member Honored

Miss Constance O'Brien, R.N., B.S., a member of Villanova's Nursing division faculty, has been appointed vice-chairman of the Pennsylvania League of Nursing Department of Baccaleureate and higher degrees program.

Miss Chase, of the University of Pennsylvania, who had been vice chairman in the June election moved up to the chairmanship of the department which had been left vacant through the appointment of Sister M. Alma, Dean of the Nursing Division, to the Board of the Pennsylvania League of Nursing.

Miss Dorothy Boyle, faculty member of Villanova's Division of Nursing, has been appointed vice chairman of the Faculty Organization of the division of Nursing of Villanova, and Miss Mary L. Pepper was appointed secretary of the Organization.



READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Consistent Alex Bolsters Cross-Country Team Mark

Paced by a twenty three old junior from Scotland, the Villanova cross country squad has ben moving along at an undefeated clip this season. The Blue and White's four wins this year have naturally been team efforts, but their power seems to lie mostly in individual strength. If this is true, then due credit must be given to Alex Breckenridge, who has been the team's mainstay in the four wins.

Alex is usually so far ahead of any of his fellow runners, except for teammate Ron Delany, that they probably don't get to meet him. This is unfortunate for them, because he is as great a person as he is a runner.

Born in Buffalo, N. Y., Breckenridge moved with his parents to Glascow, Scotland, when he was three. Here the family settled permanently, and young Alex grew up.

Alex Breckenridge

Began Running Late

Surprisingly, it was not until a month before his graduation from high school,, that Alex first ran in competition. After his graduation he did his running for the Victoria Park Club in Glascow. It was while running here that he was noticed by Villanova officials and offered a scholarship to the university.

This season Alex seems to have reached his peak. In the first three meets, it was Breckenridge leading the way to a Villanova victory. In the fourth run, at West Point last Friday, he finished second, behind Delaney, who sped to a course record.

IC4A's IN TWO WEEKS

With the important ICAAAA meet coming up in two weeks, Alex will have a chance to show his heels to some mighty tough competition. At his present clip, many informed persons feel there is a very good chance that Alex Breckenridge will be the first to break the tape.

Varsity, Frosh Mermen Begin Fall Practice

by Bill Smith

Villanova's swimming team, which faces a thirteen meet schedule this season, met last week to begin training for the forthcoming year.

Coach Ed Geisz started his mermen with hour-long sessions in calisthenics and running, but also planned on having his team swim at least two hundred laps a day in the pool before the end of this week.

Among the returning lettermen from last year's squad are Captain Pat Keane, Don Couig, Bob Duffy, Jim Donnelly, Denny Rinkacs and Don Nalty. Lou Shoner and Mike Klesius, outstanding for the frosh team last year, are expected to bolster the team considerably in the coming season.

Geisz Optimistic

Coach Geisz optimistically predicted that this year's team would do a great deal better than last year's club, which ran up a winning mark of seven wins, five losses and one tie.

Geisz also stated that this year's group of freshmen swimmers is probably the best that ever entered Villanova and it is encouraging to note their large number. Twenty frosh hopefuls reported to the initial practice last week.

Among the brighter prospects on the yearling squad is Larry Palacio, the national Catholic scholastic breast stroke champion last season. Palacio is a native of Philadelphia, and attained his title while at St. Joseph's High School.

Try-outs Being Held

Geisz also mentioned that it is still not too late to join the swimming team and announced that anyone interested could still obtain a try-out. All that is necessary is to report to the University pool in the Field House during hours of practice, either 11 p.m. or 3 p.m.

Villanova halfback John Bauer (20), takes a hand-off from quarterback John Ferruolo and plunges through the Richmond line for the Wildcats second score of the ball game. Bauer also converted stafely, as Villanova went on to win, 16-14.

Cats Register First Win, Edge Richmond by 16-14

by Henry Nichols

The Villanova Wildcats' football potential became a reality last Saturday afternoon as they ground out a close but convincing 16-14 decision over a tough Richmond eleven to the delight of some 7,000 fans.

There were many heroes in the Main Liners initial victory as the team showed a ground atack that by far exceeded their best effort to date. Names like McComb, Bauer, Sapienza, Parr, Ferruolo, Cherubini, Barry, Flynn, and Van Injaian were more than just players in the lineup; they were the spearheads for a fighting, scrapping, and victory-starved Villanova Wildcat football team.

It was evident from the start that the 'Cats were a "different" team. Early in the first quarter, after taking the ball on the Richmond 40, they marched to the Spider one, where they lost the ball on downs. On first down, the Rebels' Buddy Davis was in punt formation in his own end zone and he dropped the pass from center. Ron Cherubini dropped him before he could run it out and the 'Cats had two points.

The lead lasted for approximately three minutes, On the second play after receiving the kickoff, 'Cat quarterback John Ferruolo fumbled on his own 21 and Richmond's Erik Christenson ,a thorn in Villanova's side all day, recovered. The Spiders drove to the 'Cats' one where Frank Pajaczkowski dove over for the score. Wilson made good the PAT and Richmond went ahead 7-2.

Villanova's first touchdown drive started on their own 44 after center Al Copeland intercepted a stray Spider pass. With Parr doing the running and catching, and Ferruolo doing the throwing, the Wildcats advanced to the enemy's 28 where pass in the end zone for the touchdown. Bauer converted to give the 'Cats a 9-7 lead.

In the second half, the 'Cats wasted little time. After the kick-off they traveled 68 yards in 13 plays for their final score. Bauer, the day's leading ground gainer, Parr, and Sapienza took turns toting the leather to the Richmond 20. Ferruolo connected to Van Injaian for 18 yards and a first down on the Spider two and then Bauer went on to win its fourth consecutive meet of the current season to remain undefeated.

A specia ltreat was in store

(Continued on Page 11)

Delany First, Alex Second as Harriers Remain Undefeated

Last Friday afternoon at the hilly, picturesque cross-country course at West Point, our will-o-the-wisp runners invaded and overcame the Army team. Led by the great running of Ron Delany, who broke Arnie Sowell's course record of 27:04 minutes, the Wildcats went to a 22-23 victory. Delany did the mile distance in 26:01 minutes.

He was closely followed by Alex Breckenridge, who also broke Sowell's record with a 26:04 clocking. John Kopil was third for the Cats with a 27:29 performance and George Browne placed fourth, in 27:50. Sam Roake, a newcomer to the hill-and-dalers, came in 12th.

Cats Still Unbeaten

Tom Winter led Army's harriers by placing fifth, but to no avail, as the Villanova team

Ron Delany

(Continued on Page 10)

'Cats On Road Again:

Villanova Meets Seminoles In Florida On Saturday

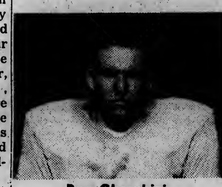
by Darryl Ditenfest

Villanova's Wildcats get a chance this weekend to avenge the humiliation of last year's 52-13 setback when they travel to Campbell Stadium in Tallahassee, Florida next Saturday to battle Florida State.

The Seminoles, who last year were a nemesis to their opposition, were one of the most highly rated teams in pre-season polls this season. They haven't quite lived up to the prognostications of the football minds, however, and at present hold a record of one victory and four defeats.

One Victory to Date

Their one victory came in their season opener, when they barely edged out North Carolina State, 7-0, in the initial game for both schools. Since then, they have suffered defeats at the hands of Miami (34-0), Virginia Tech (24-20), the same team that whipped Penn 33-0, Georgia (47-14) and Georgia Tech 47-14). Last weekend, the Seminoles had an open date.



Although the team is loaded with talent, Villanovans will probably best remember FSU's outstanding end, Tom Feamster, who caught four touchdown passes, and ran for another, in last year's romp. The quarterback who threw most of those passes, Len Swantic, is also back to haunt the Wildcat dreams.

Feamster Leads Line

Leading the line, besides Feamster, will be tackle Bill Proctor, who has been outstanding for the Seminoles, center Troy Barnes, another stalwart, and Ham Bisbee, a slight, 175 pound pass catcher. Other probable forward wall starters will be Len Jacobs and Tom Gibson, the guards, and Don Powell, the other tackle.

Making up coach Tom Nugent's backfield will be: quarterback Swantic, an aerial ace, and Bud Leonard at fullback. The speedy halfback duo, composed of Billy Odom, one of the best Southern

(Continued on Page 11)

Ron Cherubini
His Tackle Important

Ruane Gets New Position And Successor

An ex-VILLANOVAN sports editor, Jim Gallo, was appointed last week to the position of sports publicity director for Villanova. He succeeds Gene Ruane, who will now take exclusive charge of the public relations department of the University.

The move was made to relieve Ruane of the pressing duties which both positions entailed. Formerly, he had handled both jobs.

Allentown Native

Gallo, who served the Villanovan in an editorial capacity during the 1950-51 school year, is a native of Allentown, Pa. He was a naval ROTC regular while at Villanova, and, upon graduation, spent three years in the Navy, where he gained experience in public relations as a Public Information Officer.

While at Villanova, the liberal arts school graduate also wrote for the Belle Air, and played 150 pound football. As an end for the lightweight team, he was outstanding in the 1949 championship which the lightweight Wildcats won.

Previous to his appointment at Villanova, Gallo worked in his hometown of Allentown, where he collaborated as an editor on that city's Junior Chamber of Commerce newspaper.

Basketball Practice Opens In Field House

by Ben Klemanowicz

If you happened to be in the Field House yesterday, no doubt you saw a distinguished, grey-haired gentleman supervising a panting, slightly-clad group of athletes.

The group is Villanova's varsity basketball team; the grey-haired man, Al Severance, the coach. Yesterday was the first day of practice.

Ordinarily, a coach would be looking forward to a season which finds three of last year's starters returning. Such is not the case with Mr. Severance.

Beginning his 20th year as varsity coach; Severance finds himself with the task of filling two positioins — one left by a blond haired boy who easily made the impossible shots; the other left by the chief rebounder captain, and steadying influence of the team.

Jim Smith

Only One Win?

Anyone who knows anything about last year's edition of the basketball Wildcats recognizes these two as Bob Schafer and Jack Devine. Schafer was the high scorer on last year's team, averaging 22.3 points a game, and the all time Villanova point-getter besides being a strong rebounder. The fact that he was one of the Philadelphia Warrior's draft choices speaks well enough for his talent.

Devine, although not as prolific a scorer with a 15.1 average, was the team's leading rebounder and quarterback. So valuable were these two that a certain sports magazine predicted Villanova would win but one game this season in the city series.

But there's no real cause for despair. Remember those starters back from last year's club. And two other players are back with enough competition to be considered seasoned.

The three returning starters are Jim Smith, Alex Griffith and Jack Weissman. The other seasoned hoopsters are John Cirino, a sure starter last year when rebounding strength was needed, and Marty Milligan. Other dependable returnees are Larry Tierney, Jim Fahey and Bob Powers, a junior who is reputed to possess much potential.

Kelly Big If

The varsity will be strengthened by only two graduates of last year's freshman club—Jack Kelly and Tom Brennan.

Standing 6-4, he was the leading scorer and rebounder on last year's yearling team. If he can fit in with such seasoned operatives as Smith, Griffith and Weissman, he might just fill one of those holes on the starting five. But those two vacant places are still open.

SPORTS CHATTER

Hope Lies Undying, Etc.

By BOB STRAYTON

At four o'clock last Saturday afternoon, a leaden sky cast a gloomy shadow over the hinterlands surrounding Villanova's Goodreau Stadium. That sky was not precursory to the feelings which Villanova football supporters experienced a scant, few minutes later. Their team, the Wildcats, had succeeded in winning their very first football game of the 1955 season. The vanquished, of course, was the Richmond ball team. The score was 16-14. The fans were jubilant, and well they should have been.

After the initial period of rejoicing had subsided, many of those fans became reflective. They reminisced about the farings of that same Villanova team in previous encounters during the season. They remembered Baylor, and how the Wildcats had done so well, despite the score. Complementing those thoughts, they also remembered the games which followed, the period of hopelessness that came after losses to Kentucky, Boston College, Indiana, and North Carolina State.

Bitter Thoughts on N. C. State

The latter game they especially recalled with bitter thoughts, because after it, their despair had receded to its lowest ebb. They were supporters who had become accustomed to digging into a bag of tricks and coming up with any number of patent excuses for the Villanova team's failure, but this game had them stumped. The optimistically inclined said that State had been underrated, or that Villanova was nervous in the stadium. The pessimistic said that the players were no good, the coaches were no good, and the team was playing completely out of its class.

Regardless of whether he was an optimist or pessimist, however, the average supporter foresaw nothing but defeat for the remainder of the schedule. From the depths of his frustration, the fan conjured up a disastrous 0-10 record in his mind. What else could it possibly be? The Wildcats had disappointed him in fourteen out of their last fifteen contests. Should he be rash enough, or naive enough, to expect anything better next week? During the N.C. State game, he was reminded of what had transpired at the Villanova-Syracuse contest of two seasons past. Cheering had done it then; it might do it now. So he cheered, just as Jim Leaming asked him to do, but to no avail. Favored Villanova had lost the game. It was a bitter pill for him to swallow, but swallow it he did.

Satisfaction Came at Last

It seemed then that there was nothing left, when actually there was. The fans returned the following Saturday to witness the next Villanova game, this one against the Richmond team, not because he wanted to kill an afternoon, but because that same "hope that lies undying in the human breast" prompted him to do so. He had come, he had seen, Villanova had conquered. He was elated for the moment. The sweetness of unexpected victory dulled his mind with glowing adjectives of praise for his team. Yet his sub-conscious warned him against becoming too hopeful for the future. This was probably a lucky victory, as the Philadelphia sports writers had intimated.

But was it? Here was a Villanova team that had tasted nothing but the tartness of defeat since the start of the season. After experiencing a hard-won victory, it would not seem likely for the team to revert to its losing ways, at least not without a struggle. There is an old axiom, and a very true one, which says what you don't have, you don't miss. Previous to the Richmond game, the Wildcats had not had victory; consequently they did not miss it. True, they might have desired it, but their desire was not tempered with the realization of what victory meant. They merely had an idea of what winning felt like. Without a more concrete base for their desire, namely a victory and the knowledge of what it is to win, they could not give their all in quest of it. Thusly they lost. Just as a spark is necessary to cause a flame, so also is a victory necessary to cause the need for it.

Team Much Better Than Some Think

Villanova has four more games remaining before the termination of 1955 football activity. As a team, it is a great deal better than many people of doubtful authority in this vicinity would have us believe. Villanova can win all four games. As a matter of fact, it has a good chance to win all four contests. Florida State, our opponent on Saturday, thrashed the Wildcats 52-13 last year. Thus far this season, FSU is holding a 1-4 lease on life. On of the teams they lost to was Virginia Tech. Richmond tied Virginia Tech, 7-7. Villanova beat Richmond. Therefore, it would seem valid, logically, to say that the Wildcats should beat Florida State. The three other games, against Houston, Detroit, and Dayton, all depend on how we fare against the Seminoles. A five and five record is very respectable. It is much closer than in the realm of possibility, as far as Villanovas' chances are concerned.

Anyway, who knows, we might end up with the same record as Holy Cross?

THE CAMPUS BARBER SHOP
First Class Work
Popular Prices

HERBERT TAREYTON
CIGARETTES

Two Tournaments Feature Last Week's Intramurals

The fourth week of intramural activity saw two tournaments take some of the action away from the regular football schedule.

While the contests on Mendel and Austin Fields went on at the usual rugged pace, other students were showing their ability in far different fields.

TV'ers Win

In regular intramural play:

The TV Boys rolled to their second win by downing the Sinners 6-0 in the 4:30 Mendel League. Maurice O'Sullivan intercepted a pass on the Sinners' 20 and moved to the six. Willie Dowling tossed to Vince DiDomenico for the score.

New Record

The Horns smashed the Shingles 39-0 to eclipse the scoring mark set for a single game two weeks ago by the Never Losers. The winners rolled up 13 points in the first period, six in both the second and fourth quarters and 14 in the third period.

Tafs' Streak Ends

In the 4:30 Austin League:

The undefeated and twice-tied Litmus Blues ended the Syob Tafs' winning streak by taking a win on first downs after the score was tied 6-6.

The game was decided on a 20-yard pass from Herb Rammrath to Jerry Lee for the first down that gave the Blues the triumph. The Blues had jumped off to a 6-0 lead on Terry McHugh's five yard sprint around end, climaxing a 75-yard drive.

The losers didn't score until the last minute when Okenka hurled a 50-yard pass to Jim Egizio.

Protest Approved

The Burrs outscored the Bay Shores 6-0 on a last period touchdown. The losers' protest of the game was upheld by Intramural League officials. Game will be replayed on Nov. 30.

The Redskins topped the Protoplasts on a forfeit.

In another 4:30 Mendel League game the Castoffs pushed across a second quarter touchdown to topple Ye Old Timers.

Opposers Still on Top

The Opposers continued unbeaten in the Morning League by smashing the Aces 13-0.

Both touchdowns were set up by intercepted passes, and came on passes from Don Flynn, passing out of a spread formation. Scoring were Nessler and Matthews.

The second touchdown came after Robinson snagged a stray Ace pass on the line of scrimmage. Daugherty grabbed another Ace toss in the waning minutes of the game and rambled from the 50-yard stripe to the two. The game ended after one play had been smothered by the Ace defenders.

Charlie Wins

In the Navy League Charlie Co. extended its unbeaten string to five games with two wins in two days, over Able Co.

The score one day was 2-0 and bounced back from a tie with 6-0 the next. The Drill Team Baker Co. one afternoon to squeeze out a 2-0 victory the next day.

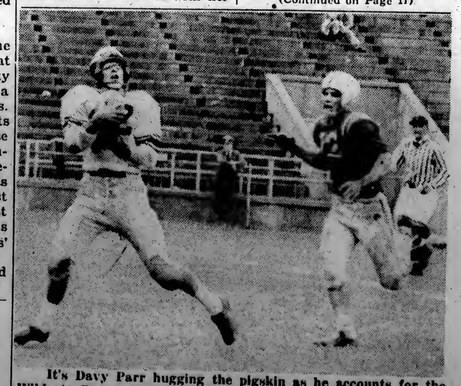
Delany 1st Alex 2nd

(Continued from Page 9)

for the many weekend visitors to the Academy who lined the paths o fthe course, as they saw a sight familiar to Villanovans—Delany and Breckenridge far out in front. For Ronnie, it was by far his best race of the season. The former IC4A frosh cross country champ took the lead in the race and was never headed.

Ran Side by Side

At the start, Ron and Alex took the lead. Before a half-mile had gone by, it was evident the men to follow were Delany and Breckenridge. They ran shoulder to shoulder for four and a half miles with neither boy giving an inch.



In the last quarter mile, Delany sprinted. Breckenridge called on his reserve, but did not have enough left to catch the fleeing Delany. After his victory, Delany remarked happily: "It was very hilly, and very enjoyable to run."

Sam Roake, the winner of last week's intramural cross-country meet, who ran for Villanova last Friday, was the big surprise for the 'Cats as he made the change-over from intramural to varsity. In this his first race, he ran a respectable twelfth.

Quantico on Saturday

This Saturday, the Wildcats take on the Quantico Marines, who will be led by the fabulous

(Continued on Page 11)

It's Davy Parr hugging the pigskin as he accounts for the Wildcats first score in the Richmond game last Saturday. Davy was on the receiving end of a pass from John Ferroulo.

Open Season

(Continued from Page 3)

Lonely it stands like part of a ghost town.

Dormitory lights blaze on through the night. Books are recovered from the far reaches of the room, notes are feverishly sought after, copied and pored over. Television sets are completely abandoned. The conventionally noisy halls are mysteriously quiet. Worried students study and sweat, cram and strain. On through the black of night, illuminated by jabbing rays of light—rays that batter watering eyes — all that is heard is the rhythmic breathing of bodies hard at work.

Radio Silent

Local stores report a fantastic sale of coffee. Those forbidden hotplates and heaters suddenly appear from oblivion. The fever rages on. Singers are hushed, whistlers are quieted, radios lie in disuse.

A rebellious few are amused by this confusion. They laugh; it is a joke. Next year they will not laugh, it will be no joke, they will not be here. But others will take their place and others theirs and so on through the years. That is no joke.

Yes, four times a year life becomes utter confusion. The multitudes migrate from the "T" to the library, from the Pie Shoppe to the dorms, from the sacks to the desks, from health to ill health, from teacher to teacher. Why? Because it is once again time for the universal evil of college life, the unwelcomed, dreaded, sure fire tell all, the-teachers - open - book - on - all - students: the exam.

Prom Chairmen

(Continued from Page 1)

House. Phil Butler will be in charge of decorations; Henry Guerrisi will handle publicity; Tom Meaney and Nick Mazzoni, tickets (the following handle these chores throughout the year); and Jim Bambury, programs; John Henry, favors, and Bernie Steinfelt, refreshments.

SPALDING

United Nations

(Continued from Page 4)

mises reached, a world war of the most devasting type would have already been initiated.

The U.N. is the key to world peace. It is the only alternative left to a troubled and embittered civilization. While national representatives gather for sincere discussion, there will be no war.

There are some who point out the arms race as an example of the U.N.'s uselessness. That is a foolish conclusion. It is necessary for all nations to be equally capable of commanding respect before a solution acceptable to all may result.

There were those who scoffed at the thirteen colonies with their independent governments, when they attempted to write mutual laws in 1787. The first ten years under that constitution were also restless.

Just as time and sustained discussion solved the "voluminous" problem of those independent states, so too, on a much larger basis, can they solve the problems of the United Nations.

Scholarship

(Continued from Page 7)

he Rotary Foundation Fellowships for Advanced Study. These grants, sponsored by Rotary International, pay transportation, maintenance, tuition, fees, books, etc. for one academic year. Required is a working knowledge of the language of the country in which a person wishes to study. The closing date is Nov. 1 and correspondence should be addressed to the Rotary Club in the applicant's home city.

Father also urged all prospective graduate students to seek out awards given by various colleges and universities in preference to the government grants which are much more high competitive. "One shou'd not blind himself to either of these major sources, however," he continued.

Bob Ford, who first proposed the Scholarship Committee idea at a recent Student Council meeting, will serve as coordinator of information and publicity for the various fraternities.

Cats Meets Seminoles

(Continued from Page 9)

ballplayers this year and Al Corso possess the qualities which have caused so much trouble to opponents in the past.

Delaney 1st' Alex 2nd

(Continued from Page 10)

Wes Santee, and Bill Rock, a Villanova track alumnus from last year. The meet will be held starting at 10:30, from the Villanova Field House.

A sidelight of last week's meet is that our team had to go all the way to West Point to get a crowd. The students here somehow fail to realize that the cross-country team should be supported just as any other of the school's sports is. The members of the team would probably do better if their fellow students would come out to witness the finished product of long, long hours of practice.

Blood Drive

(Continued from Page 5)

Essig said that last week's two-day visit probably would be the Bloodmobile's only trip to the campus during this academic year.

DPE Dance

(Continued from Page 7)

DPM-PDE closed ball held last Saturday.

Other chairmen connected with this orientation program include: Bill Dobias, paddles; Ray Clarke, signs; and Hank Ademczyk, regs.

Social chairman Paul Porreca announced that a newly initiated highlight of this year's dance, to be held Nov. 12, will be the choosing of the "Sweetheart of D.P.E." and her lady-in-waiting. The queen will be chosen by three judges who have not yet been announced. Members who wish to enter their rdates into the contest are requested to turn in a photograph to either Don Weir, 332 Sullivan, or Paul Porecca, 211 Sullivan.

President Lou Donatelli stated that, due to exams, the meeting of Nov. 9 will be strictly a business meeting and of short duration.

Closer Bond

(Continued from Page 1)

alumni activities, directed that all queries be forwarded to Mr. Harris in the alumni office in Mendel. Henry Whalen asked Ford to report to the council on all pertinent information concerning the alumni.

Social Committee: O'Rourke

A social committee, the function of which would be to form rules for the acquiring of a date for a dance, was suggested by Jack O'Rourke. That some group had acquired dates sans representation on the council prompted the suggestion.

Since many students are in the dark concerning graduation requirements, Henry Whalen introduced a motion to have posted on the bulletin boards the methods by which a student can jeopardize his degree, e.g., the loss of credits due to a failure in R.O.T.C. The motion, which was passed unanimously, also included the publishing of the situation in the VILLANOVAN each semester.

Approval from the deans is necessary and Henry Whalen, Bob Ford and Meany volunteered to see the deans of the several schools.

DPM SHUTS OUT DPE, 6-0

(Continued from Page 7)

Although the game had been scoreless to that point, DPM obviously was the better team throughout the game. A Hattrick to Bob McCaffery was, capped by McCaffery's 25-yard run was called back in the first period because of an offside penalty. Norm Peer, who cut off tackle and zipped 30 yards in the second period for seemingly a second score, had his efforts nullified by another penalty call.

DPM was leading on first downs, 3-1, when a fine running demonstrations by Voute and Norm Peer, plus the Hattrick-Voute pass combination resulted in the lone score of the game. The extra-point conversion, a pass from Hatrick, was blocked by aggressive Dave Burns.

The coaching was a study in contrasts. Burns, captain of DPE, concentrated on a two-platoon system and relied on a heavy line led by Jerry Guerrisi, president of the Class of '56, and Nick Mazzoni. DPM captain Mike Horan substituted carefully and employed a hard-charging line, led by Jim Judge, Dick Fitzpatrick and Horan.

Law School

(Continued from Page 8)

November. The first set of galleys is back and the staff can be heard mumbling through the proof reading any afternoon in their offices on the fifth floor of the stacks in the Library Building. As plans are set at the present, the publication will make its initial appearance in early January of 1956.

LKD

(Continued from Page 7)

breakfast will be held Saturday. All members of the fraternity, including the frosh now undergoing pledging, will attend 8:30 Mass in the University chapel, assembling outside at 8:15; then they will proceed to the Viking Inn in Ardmore to hear University President Father James A. Donnellon during the breakfast.

President Charlie Gibley urges all frat members who have cars to bring them Saturday morning.

Student Committee

(Continued from Page 1)

favorably received" by Father President, according to Peer. Father President said that "I certainly can see your problem and your needs" concerning such a lounge in which to receive and entertain parents and dates. Father Donnellon said that he would have to consult University procurator Father John J. Curran, O.S.A., concerning the matter.

Cars and Permissions

The other matters brought forth—senior car and weekend permission privileges—must be taken to the University's Board of Discipline for final action, as Father Donnellon informed the group. This Board of Discipline consists of Dean of Men Father Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., and all the priests who serve as hall prefects. Father Donnellon pointed out that any matters dealing with discipline or handbook regulations and changes thereof must ultimately be decided by this body.

Asked if he is personally in favor of senior automobile privileges (provided the car is registered and a written note from the parents is obtained), Father Donnellon indicated that the parking problem would seem to him to be the only obstacle.

Must Go To Board

Peer said that Father Donnellon also "seemed receptive" to the idea of senior permission freedom on Friday and Saturday nights (provided they sign in and out); that matter must also go before the Board of Discipline.

Father President assured the committee that he would present the student body case "clearly and reasonably" to the Board of Discipline, and would, when he sees fit, urge that certain recommendations and proposals be accepted.

Father Donellon also expressed his hopes for a closer and more effective student-administrative tie through the group, adding that "you gentlemen must serve as a very important liason between the elements; most important, you must be loyal to both. I'm sure that you will be."

Steering Committee

(Continued from Page 7)

dance—made up of Tom Meaney, Nick Mazzoni and Owen Hickey—is going ahead with its project and will report at the next steering committee meeting.

4. Dinner Dance chairman Tom McInerney reported that John Ferro, manager of the dance's location, Palumbo's night club, has offered to allot $100 for the class' use in handling tips, special guests and miscellaneous projects connected with the January 14 affair.

5. Father's Day chairman, Harry Nash, reported that he will ha. a list of possible speakers for the April 21 event ready for the next steering committee meeting.

6. Jack Kilker, connected with the decorations committee for the prom, reported that various themes for the dance atmosphere have been discussed, but, that nothing has yet been definitely decided.

Intramural Star Added to Ranks Of Varsity Runners

Sam Roake, junior mechanical engineer, won his second straight cross-country championship last week as he outdistanced the number two man of a fiel dof ten by 500 yards on the twolmile intramural cross-country course.

So impressive was his victory that varsity coach Jumbo Elliott invited the Great Neck (L.I.) native to participate with the team for the rest of the season. "We're very happy to have Sam with us," commented Elliott, because the team had been operating without five genuine distance men all season." Previously the harriers had rounded out their complement with one or two quarter milers.

Although Sam finished 12th in the Army meet, he did it in a respectable time of 29:20, not bad for a man who had neither trained nor run in three years.

On Wednesday Ed Geisz's golf tournament was won by Ned Sherlock with a score of 76-6-70. The Calloway Handicap System, with the handicap dependent on a person's score, was employed for the first time in Intramural competition.

On the basis of real scores, Sherlock was followed by Terry Flynn and Bill Mawn, of whom carded 79's. After handicaps were dtermined, however, Jay Gibney, with an 81-9-72, and Villanovan Feature Editor Bill Jones, with an 82-9-73, were second and third. Flynn had a 79-6-73 and Mawn scored a 79-5-74.

Mawn led until the 13th hole when he was tied by the eventual winner, Sherlock, who went ahead on the 14th, there to remain. The later posted fine 36 on the back nine.

VILLANOVA vs. RICHMOND

(Continued from Page 9)

rammed it over. He also added his second PAT and the 'Cats lead 16-7.

Richmond got their second touchdown on a 15 yard pass from Theodose to Wacker just before the third period ended.

Two of the outstanding plays of the game took place during the fourth quarter. Van Injaian threw a block that wiped out two Spiders as they were about to tackle Sapienza on an interception, and McComb chased a double reverse around his opposite end and nailed the ball carrier for a loss.

After Saturday's victory, . . . FLORIDA STATE, WATCH OUT!!!

Have You Seen It Yet?
THE VILLANOVA PHARMACY
ON LANCASTER AVE, JUST WEST OF THE CAMPUS
A Complete Drug Store for All Your Needs
821 LANCASTER AVE.
Villanova, Pa.
LAwrence 5-7667

Organization News . . . .

INTER-CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

Affairs of interest on the campuses of neighboring girl's colleges this coming month range from kindlers to a play featuring Villanonans.

This Friday, the girls of Immaculata are holding an informal-mixer in their Field House, to which Villanova men are cordially invited. Advance information from Immaculata says only that the mixer will be the dance with foreign flair.---?

Coming up at Harcum Junior College on Nov. 17, 18, and 21 will be the presentation by their experimental theater of "The Heiress", adapted from a novel by Henry James.

Under the direction of Mrs. Florence Ullrich. Bill Brown from Villanova will essay the lead role of Morris Townsend opposite Jocelyn McGrath of Harcum. Other Villanovans in the production are Joe Eszerski and Jack Erdlin.

NAVY ANNOUNCEMENT

Lieutenant-Colonel Elliot E. Wilson, executive officer of the Villanova NROTC unit, calls the attention of contract students in the unit to the test to be given here in the C&F auditorium on Dec. 10 as part of the competition for selection of NROTC midshipmen, regular status.

Applications for the test are due in Princeton on Nov. 19 and should be mailed from Villanova by Nov. 17. Further inquiries should be made at the Navy building.

Students who now have no connection with the Navy are invited to look into the possibilities of the competition.

Tonight (Nov. 2 Wed.) over WVIL, Al Hibbler, Decca Recording Star, is interviewed over WVIL at 8:15. John Rosica does the interviewing chores.

ACADEMIC AWARD

An award to a member of the senior class for "academic excellence" is being planned by the Villanova chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

Announcement of the proposed award, which would be presented at commencement exercises, was made at a meeting of the chapter last Wednesday night.

The award will be known as the "Villanova Chapter A.A.U.P. Award for Academic Excellence."

Norm Gandia, a sophomore Commerce and Finance student from Long Island, is sworn into the Platoon Leaders Class, the Marine Division of Villanova's Naval ROTC program, by Captain John J. Grace, USMC instructor, in a ceremony held last Thursday in Commodore John Barry Hall. Gandia was the first accepted PLC candidate sworn in this year.

THE ACTIVATED CHARCOAL FILTER

All the pleasure comes thru

...THE TASTE IS GREAT!

© A. T. CO.

All the pleasure comes thru in Filter Tip Tareyton. You get the full, rich taste of Tareyton's quality tobaccos in a filter cigarette that smokes milder,

smokes smoother,
draws easier

...the only filter cigarette with a genuine cork tip.

Tareyton's filter is pearl-gray because it contains Activated Charcoal for real filtration. Activated Charcoal is used to purify air, water, foods and beverages, so you can appreciate its importance in a filter cigarette. Yes, Filter Tip Tareyton is the filter cigarette that really filters, that you can really taste...and the taste is great!

THE BEST IN FILTERED SMOKING

FILTER TIP TAREYTON

PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

Villanovan

Vol. 30—No. 6 Villanova Univ., Villanova, Pa. November 16, 1955

Thirty-two Men of Class of 1956 Are Honored by Who's Who Selection

Arts Students Dominate Annual List

The Arts and Sciences School dominated the annual senior listing of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities by placing 16 of its members among the total of 32.

The Commerce and Finance School followed with eight representatives; the Engineering School contributed seven and the Pre-Medical Division placed one student.

All Majors

From the Arts and Sciences: Frank Adams, philosophy; Don Alton, English; Phil Butler, education; John Eddinger, English; Bob Farley, philosophy; Dick Fitzpatrick, English; Bob Ford, liberal arts; Bob Fredericks, chemistry; Owen Hickey, history; Bob McCaffery, mathemathics; Harry Nash, English; Jack Padova, English; Pete Quinn, history; Charlie Schwerdtfeger, physics; Jim Smith, English, and Phil Taddeo, history.

Eight C&F

From the C&F division: Joe Barrett, economics; Bob Cas-

(Continued on Page 11)

CLASS OF 1955 graduate, Ensign Stephen Lyons, USNR, poses with his bride, the former Anne Ruof, after marriage in University chapel last Saturday. Miss Ruof is formerly of the Villanova school. The marriage is the first involving a Villanova man and a coed.

Scholastics, Activities Are Criteria

Thirty-two men of the Class of 1956 have been honored by selection to the 1955-'56 edition of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

The listings, returned last week from Who's Who headquarters at the University of Alabama, carried an additional two seniors due to the increased growth of the University. The normal number was 30, with the University submitting two alternates in case of increased acceptance quotas.

Number of Factors

The annual coveted award is based on a number of factors that show up over the course of a man's college career: his scholastic acumen, his interest and participation in extra- curriculars, his character traits of leadership and discipline, his intangible contributions to the University and his potential worth to society upon graduation.

Final Screening

The list of 32 names was narrowed down from an original 50 names submitted by a student

(Continued on Page 3)

Law School Bids Returned; Advance Plans Underway

Construction of the new Law School building will begin shortly said the Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, University President when he announced that the contract had been awarded to the firm of Dagit and Farrell.

Dagit and Farrell are the contractors who handled the construction of Sullivan Hall and the recently opened Dougherty Hall.

Completion of the building to the point where it will be available for use is not expected until early in 1957.

NFCCS-Sponsored:

Student Tryouts For Variety Show Tomorrow Night

Once again the time of year has arrived when the various young men of the National Federation of Catholic College Students will be given a chance to display their wares in the second annual N.F.C.C.S. variety show, which will soon be appearing on the college scene.

John Rosica, chairman of this second annual show, has announced this week that auditions for the show will be held tomorrow evening, Thursday, November 17, at 7 P.M. in the Villanova Field House.

Anyone, or any group, with ability to sing, dance, play a musical instrument, or any other talent is cordially invited to audition. As far as the talent is concerned, they will not have to put much time into the show, at most, two pre-show rehersals.

Bob Lawler, Sophomore C. and F., has been appointed talent chairman for the Villanova campus. Lawler, along with Rosica will conduct auditions. They will select talent from the various other Catholic Colleges in the area, under the auspices of the N.F.C.C.S.

Last year the social committee of the N.F.C.C.S., headed by Jim Michener, who graduated last June, set out to do something different for the Philadelphia region. They decided on a variety show with Michener as its head. Thus the N.F.C.C.S. variety show was born.

Rosica hopes to make the show the success it was last year. With the cooperation of all involved he is sure this can be accomplished.

A jazz concert will be held in the Rosemont tea house this Sunday afternoon from two to five. Billy Gresham's band will provide the music. Admission is by ticket only.

Annual Thanksgiving Dance:

Gala Holiday Alumni Ball November 25 In New York

The New York Alumni Club has invited students to its annual Thanksgiving dance, to be held Friday, Nov. 25, in the Hotel Roosevelt, 46th and Madison ave.

Tickets price dat $4 a couple for students, may be purchased from campus representative Bob Strayton (338 Good Counsel).

New York club officials have promised an "even better party" than last year. The Roosevelt was also the site of the '54 dance.

Band Unannounced

Dancing will get underway at 9 and will continue until 1. The band has not been announced.

Tickets will be available at the door at $5 a couple, but New York club officials warned students that the dance will probably be a sell-out.

The Hotel Roosevelt can accommodate 1,500 persons in the main ballroom.

FATHER'S DAY MEETING

All seniors interested in working on the April 21 Father's Day are requested to attend an important meeting with chairman Harry Nash next Monday afternoon at 5 p. m. in 215 Mendel Hall.

TURF AND TINSEL leaders: left to right, Tom Gorham, assistant treasurer; Don Weir, treasurer; Nick Rinaldi, secretary; Jack Padova, president; Jim Lombardi, business co-chairman; and Barry Ballister, program chairman, all set for another Spring production. (Story on Page 3).

Field House Friday Night:

'Villanovans', Atmosphere Enliven Mardi Gras Dance

Two Immaculata juniors who have been singing professionally since they were 13 have been signed to perform during the second anual Mardi Gras Ball Friday night in the Field House.

Villanova chapter of the National Federation of Catholic College Students, dance sponsors, announced that the Murphy sisters, Phyllis and Eileen, had been lined up for an appearance at the dance to be held from 9 till 1 with music by the Villanovans.

The sisters have done radio and TV work in the Reading area where they live, according to Jim Greenlee and Jack Monaghan, ball co-chairmen.

Judging Beauty Contest

At the same time Monaghan announced the judges for the beauty contest, open to all girls attending the dance. A queen and two attendants will be selected.

Handling the judging will be: Dr. Walter Klein, chairman of the Industrial Administration department; Mr. John Bauman, statistics instructor in the C & F school and Mr. George Noake, director of the Turf and Tinsel society.

Decorations chairman Frank Collins reported that door prizes will be tickets to the Junior and Senior Proms. He said a couple

(Continued on Page 3)

Charity Ball Set:

Juniors Prepare Annual St. Joe's Orphans' Project

Plans for the Juniors' orphans project, considered by many one of the more rewarding of the year's activities, have begun to take shape with the scheduling of the Charity Ball Dec.10 in the Field House.

Following the dance Dec. 10 will be the annual outing when Villanovans take out the boys at St. John's Home for a tour through the Christmas-decorated stores.

The climax of the three-way project is the orphans' party, slated for Dec. 13 at the Home. Even Santa Claus will put in an appearance as a group of Villanova football players and entertainers distribute gifts and entertain the boys.

Big Names Maybe?

Hanging over the Charity Ball is the prospect of intermission entertainment by "big name" celebrities. Class president Jack Decker said last week there was a "chance" some celebrities might be corralled to add to the dance.

There's also a chance the attire may be of a "come as you are" variety, Decker said. A band has not been chosen.

Tickets are $1 a couple and will be placed on sale in the Pie Shoppe right after the Thanksgiving layoff by ticket co-chairmen Joe Keffer and Dick Mason. Dance chairman is Art Odabash.

Transportation Set

Details of the outing were released by Mike Boruch, chairman of that phase of the project and an end on the varsity football team.

Students will have the chance to sign up to take out orphans in religion sections and in the Pie Shoppe after Thanksgiving. Dates may be taken along as well as cars.

Transportation from behind

(Continued on Page 11)

Organization News . . . .

INTER-CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

Affairs of interest on the campuses of neighboring girl's colleges this coming month range from kindlers to a play featuring Villanonans.

This Friday, the girls of Immaculata are holding an informal-mixer in their Field House, to which Villanova men are cordially invited. Advance information from Immaculata says only that the mixer will be the dance with foreign flair.---?

Coming up at Harcum Junior College on Nov. 17, 18, and 21 will be the presentation by their experimental theater of "The Heiress", adapted from a novel by Henry James.

Under the direction of Mrs. Florence Ullrich. Bill Brown from Villanova will essay the lead role of Morris Townsend opposite Jocelyn McGrath of Harcum. Other Villanovans in the production are Joe Eszerski and Jack Erdlin.

NAVY ANNOUNCEMENT

Lieutenant-Colonel Elliot E. Wilson, executive officer of the Villanova NROTC unit, calls the attention of contract students in the unit to the test to be given here in the C&F auditorium on Dec. 10 as part of the competition for selection of NROTC midshipmen, regular status.

Applications for the test are due in Princeton on Nov. 19 and should be mailed from Villanova by Nov. 17. Further inquiries should be made at the Navy building.

Students who now have no connection with the Navy are invited to look into the possibilities of the competition.

Tonight (Nov. 2 Wed.) over WVIL, Al Hibbler, Decca Recording Star, is interviewed over WVIL at 8:15. John Rosica does the interviewing chores.

ACADEMIC AWARD

An award to a member of the senior class for "academic excellence" is being planned by the Villanova chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

Announcement of the proposed award, which would be presented at commencement exercises, was made at a meeting of the chapter last Wednesday night.

The award will be known as the "Villanova Chapter A.A.U.P. Award for Academic Excellence."

Norm Gandia, a sophomore Commerce and Finance student from Long Island, is sworn into the Platoon Leaders Class, the Marine Division of Villanova's Naval ROTC program, by Captain John J. Grace, USMC instructor, in a ceremony held last Thursday in Commodore John Barry Hall. Gandia was the first accepted PLC candidate sworn in this year.

THE ACTIVATED CHARCOAL FILTER

All the pleasure comes thru

...THE TASTE IS GREAT!

All the pleasure comes thru in Filter Tip Tareyton. You get the full, rich taste of Tareyton's quality tobaccos in a filter cigarette that smokes milder,

smokes smoother,
draws easier

... the only filter cigarette with a genuine cork tip.

Tareyton's filter is pearl-gray because it contains Activated Charcoal for real filtration. Activated Charcoal is used to purify air, water, foods and beverages, so you can appreciate its importance in a filter cigarette. Yes, Filter Tip Tareyton is the filter cigarette that really filters, that you can really taste...and the taste is great!

© A. T. CO.

THE BEST IN FILTERED SMOKING

FILTER TIP TAREYTON

PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

Villanovan

Vol. 30—No. 6 Villanova Univ., Villanova, Pa. November 16, 1955

Thirty-two Men of Class of 1956 Are Honored by Who's Who Selection

Arts Students Dominate Annual List

The Arts and Sciences School dominated the annual senior listing of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities by placing 16 of its members among the total of 32.

The Commerce and Finance School followed with eight representatives; the Engineering School contributed seven and the Pre-Medical Division placed one student.

All Majors

From the Arts and Sciences: Frank Adams, philosophy; Don Alton, English; Phil Butler, education; John Eddinger, English; Bob Farley, philosophy; Dick Fitzpatrick, English; Bob Ford, liberal arts; Bob Fredericks, chemistry; Owen Hickey, history; Bob McCaffery, mathemathics; Harry Nash, English; Jack Padova, English; Pete Quinn, history; Charlie Schwerdtfeger, physics; Jim Smith, English, and Phil Taddeo, history.

Eight C&F

From the C&F division: Joe Barrett, economics; Bob Cas-

(Continued on Page 11)

CLASS OF 1955 graduate, Ensign Stephen Lyons, USNR, poses with his bride, the former Anne Ruof, after marriage in University chapel last Saturday. Miss Ruof is formerly of the Villanova school. The marriage is the first involving a Villanova man and a coed.

Scholastics, Activities Are Criteria

Thirty-two men of the Class of 1956 have been honored by selection to the 1955-'56 edition of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

The listings, returned last week from Who's Who headquarters at the University of Alabama, carried an additional two seniors due to the increased growth of the University. The normal number was 30, with the University submitting two alternates in case of increased acceptance quotas.

Number of Factors

The annual coveted award is based on a number of factors that show up over the course of a man's college career: his scholastic acumen, his interest and participation in extra- curriculars, his character traits of leadership and discipline, his intangible contributions to the University and his potential worth to society upon graduation.

Final Screening

The list of 32 names was narrowed down from an original 50 names submitted by a student

(Continued on Page 3)

NFCCS-Sponsored:

Student Tryouts For Variety Show Tomorrow Night

Once again the time of year has arrived when the various young men of the National Federation of Catholic College Students will be given a chance to display their wares in the second annual N.F.C.C.S. variety show, which will soon be appearing on the college scene.

John Rosica, chairman of this second annual show, has announced this week that auditions for the show will be held tomorrow evening, Thursday, November 17, at 7 P.M. in the Villanova Field House.

Anyone, or any group, with ability to sing, dance, play a musical instrument, or any other talent is cordially invited to audition. As far as the talent is concerned, they will not have to put much time into the show, at most, two pre-show rehersals.

Bob Lawler, Sophomore C. and F., has been appointed talent chairman for the Villanova campus. Lawler, along with Rosica will conduct auditions. They will select talent from the various other Catholic Colleges in the area, under the auspices of the N.F.C.C.S.

Last year the social committee of the N.F.C.C.S., headed by Jim Michener, who graduated last June, set out to do something different for the Philadelphia region. They decided on a variety show with Michener as its head. Thus the N.F.C.C.S. variety show was born.

Rosica hopes to make the show the success it was last year. With the cooperation of all involved he is sure this can be accomplished.

A jazz concert will be held in the Rosemont tea house this Sunday afternoon from two to five. Billy Greshem's band will provide the music. Admission is by ticket only.

Charity Ball Set:

Juniors Prepare Annual St. Joe's Orphans' Project

Plans for the Juniors' orphans project, considered by many one of the more rewarding of the year's activities, have begun to take shape with the scheduling of the Charity Ball Dec.10 in the Field House.

Following the dance Dec. 10 will be the annual outing when Villanovans take out the boys at St. John's Home for a tour through the Christmas-decorated stores.

The climax of the three-way project is the orphans' party, slated for Dec. 13 at the Home. Even Santa Claus will put in an appearance as a group of Villanova football players and entertainers distribute gifts and entertain the boys.

Big Names Maybe?

Hanging over the Charity Ball is the prospect of intermission entertainment by "big name" celebrities. Class president Jack Decker said last week there was a "chance" some celebrities might be corralled to add to the dance.

There's also a chance the attire may be of a "come as you are" variety, Decker said. A band has not been chosen.

Tickets are $1 a couple and will be placed on sale in the Pie Shoppe right after the Thanksgiving layoff by ticket co-chairmen Joe Keffer and Dick Mason. Dance chairman is Art Odabash.

Transportation Set

Details of the outing were released by Mike Boruch, chairman of that phase of the project and an end on the varsity football team.

Students will have the chance to sign up to take out orphans in religion sections and in the Pie Shoppe after Thanksgiving. Dates may be taken along as well as cars.

Transportation from behind

(Continued on Page 11)

Annual Thanksgiving Dance:

Gala Holiday Alumni Ball November 25 In New York

The New York Alumni Club has invited students to its annual Thanksgiving dance, to be held Friday, Nov. 25, in the Hotel Roosevelt, 46th and Madison ave.

Tickets, price dat $4 a couple for students, may be purchased from campus representative Bob Strayton (338 Good Counsel).

New York club officials have promised an "even better party" than last year. The Roosevelt was also the site of the '54 dance.

Band Unannounced

Dancing will get underway at 9 and will continue until 1. The band has not been announced.

Tickets will be available at the door at $5 a couple, but New York club officials warned students that the dance will probably be a sell-out.

The Hotel Roosevelt can accommodate 1,500 persons in the main ballroom.

FATHER'S DAY MEETING

All seniors interested in working on the April 21 Father's Day are requested to attend an important meeting with chairman Harry Nash next Monday afternoon at 5 p. m. in 215 Mendel Hall.

Law School Bids Returned; Advance Plans Underway

Construction of the new Law School building will begin shortly said the Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, University President when he announced that the contract had been awarded to the firm of Dagit and Farrell.

Dagit and Farrell are the contractors who handled the construction of Sullivan Hall and the recently opened Dougherty Hall.

Completion of the building to the point where it will be available for use is not expected until early in 1957.

Field House Friday Night:

'Villanovans', Atmosphere Enliven Mardi Gras Dance

Two Immaculata juniors who have been singing professionally since they were 13 have been signed to perform during the second anual Mardi Gras Ball Friday night in the Field House.

Villanova chapter of the National Federation of Catholic College Students, dance sponsors, announced that the Murphy sisters, Phyllis and Eileen, had been lined up for an appearance at the dance to be held from 9 till 1 with music by the Villanovans.

The sisters have done radio and TV work in the Reading area where they live, according to Jim Greenlee and Jack Monaghan, ball co-chairmen.

Judging Beauty Contest

At the same time Monaghan announced the judges for the beauty contest, open to all girls attending the dance. A queen and two attendants will be selected.

Handling the judging will be: Dr. Walter Klein, chairman of the Industrial Administration department; Mr. John Bauman, statistics instructor in the C & F school and Mr. George Noake, director of the Turf and Tinsel society.

Decorations chairman Frank Collins reported that door prizes will be tickets to the Junior and Senior Proms. He said a couple

(Continued on Page 3)

TURF AND TINSEL leaders: left to right, Tom Gorham, assistant treasurer; Don Weir, treasurer; Nick Rinaldi, secretary; Jack Padova, president; Jim Lombardi, business co-chairman; and Barry Ballister, program chairman, all set for another Spring production. (Story on Page 3).

A New Idea . . .

The formation, in the first few weeks of this school year, of Scholarship Committees within the different fraternities is an important and much-needed development.

As these committees are set up now, the students themselves are responsible for the greater part of the work, with a certain amount of assistance from the moderators of the fraternities. The committee members gather information concerning scholarships and grants from national sources as well as from colleges and universities, then publicize this information on the bulletin boards and in the Villanovan. The faculty moderators serve as counsellors to the applicants.

However, we do not feel that this is enough. It is our belief that a committee should be formed of faculty members, to be responsible for determining the outstanding students in each course of study and interesting them in applying. A series of interviews by committee members would give a clear indication of the most eligible candidates.

A unified group of this type would be able to establish one set of standards and make a complete list of awards available.

Jack Monaghan and Jim Greenlee Mardi Gras Co-Chairmen

Villanovan

VILLANOVA UNIVERSITY VILLANOVA, PA.

HARRY C. NASH, EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

TOM SMITH ..... Managing Editor
FRANE BELANY ..... News Editor
BILL JONES ..... Feature Editor
JACK DOWNING, BILL BROWN ..... Copy Editors
STEVE DERNOCCO ..... Business Manager
BOB STRATTON, BOB FORD ..... Sports Editors
SIG HOLTZ, JOE EZERSKI ..... Photography Editors
NICK PEDANO ..... Circulation Manager

FACULTY ADVISOR—REV. L. A. RONCIONE, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; Scholar, Gentleman, Athlete

LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1930. Under the Act of Mar. 3, 1879.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Member of Catholic Press Association, Catholic College Press Association.

Member
Associated Collegiate Press

Letters to the Editor . . .

WAS HEMINGWAY STORY PROPER IN CATHOLIC PAPER?

Dear Sirs:

One of the wonderful guarantees of liberty in our country is freedom of the press but I hardly think that a newspaper representing a Catholic university is the place to eulogize Ernest Hemmingway.

Ernest Hemmingway is admittedly a great writer. His economy of phrase, his selectivity, his sensitivity to word and scene rank him among the foremost authors of our times. But Midshipman Barrett seems to have gone overboard in his admiration. To say that Hemmingway appeals to young people's budding individuality with his message to (among other things) drink deeply and love deeply is to say that we ought to thrust off all our traditional values, to reduce ourselves to a world of sensation, to eliminate spirituality. And then he cites Jake Barnes, one of the original wastelanders, who certainly drank deeply, and—well, got as far as he could with Lady Brett. It was Brett Ashley who summed up this Hemmingway code when she said, "It's what we've got instead of God."

T. S. Eliot characterized the Hemmingway man when he wrote in his poem, The Hollow Men:

"Those who have crossed
With direct eyes, to death's other kingdom
Remember us—if at all—not as lost
Violent souls, but only
As the hollow men
The stuffed men."

It was Eliot who wrote in "After Strange Gods" that our chief modern sin is "excessive individualism", that we must reaffirm our faith in tradition. Perhaps Mr. Barrett thinks this is all a lot of NADA but I feel that Christian orthodoxy is the only way to find A Clean, Well-Lighted Place. And Mr. Hemmingway? He would probably state with great Irony and Pity, "Isn't it pretty to think so."

(Signed)
Sincerely,
Leo A. Gonsalves, Class of '57

P. S. About that African tiger, there are no tigers in Africa.

ED:—About that spelling, there is only one 'm' in 'Hemingway'.

ERROR IN SC REPORTING CORRECTED BY ALUMINI REP.

Dear Sir:

The VILLANOVAN erred in its report on the Student Council meeting of Oct. 24. Although it is correct that the relationship between the alumni and student body was discussed, this was done through an objective study of the position of Alumni Representative.

During this discussion, Father McLaughlin, moderator of the Council, observed that this job had not meant much in the past, due, among other things, to an unclear definition of its purposes. He expressed the hope that more would be done to correct this situation in the future. The question of alumni interest never was raised.

If I may, I'd like to make the observation that Villanova's Alumni is extremely interested and active organization. In addition this group, led by the Board of Governors, is highly interested in the student-body and its problems.

(Signed)
Respectfully,
Robert H. Ford
Alumni Representative

ED:—The correction is appreciated.

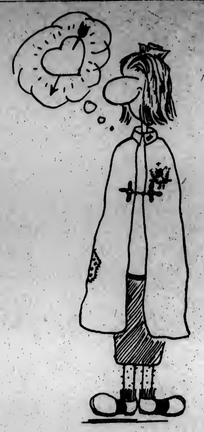
INDIANA MAN REBUFFS "LACK OF SPIRIT" CHARGE

Dear Sir:

It is not, and has never been, my practice to vent my displeasure with certain newspapers, magazines, etc., by writing letters to the editor. I usually assume he (or they) have more to do than read my criticisms and so this letter for me is a "first".

I would like to take exception with certain items contained in two articles in the Oct. 26th edition of the VILLANOVAN. Both concerned themselves to one degree or another with the lack of spirit—a difficulty gauged intangible at Indiana University. A few things need to be cleared up immediately.



First of all, on that Saturday Oct. 15th, there were 25,000 fans at Memorial stadium to see the Hoosiers play a "first time" non-conference (and therefore relatively non-important) rival, hardly indicative of no spirit!

Secondly, I. U. has never been wildly excited by football, basketball is the sport and attendance is always good at Hoosier home games.

Thirdly, if anyone would doubt the lack of spirit, let him attend a Purdue-Indiana OLD OAKEN bucket fead and he will witness Indiana (and Purdue) spirit at a zenith-believe me, it's quite a sight!

I hope I've made my point in this brief letter. My thanks for all the nice things said about Indiana in Bruce Martin's article

(Continued on Page 5)

Peering . . .

By Dick Poer

. . . Around our campus in the dim hours of the morning (with late permission, of course) I find that it looks just as dark and sinister as the Philadelphia Home for Incurables. The light of this Catholic University fails to shine at night. Something should be lit and I don't mean the students. Why not illuminate the twin chapel crosses, which could then be seen for miles?

. . . At the recent announcement concerning our Nurses getting the once hallowed Junior Blazers. If you think the act is now complete, you're wrong, because the Maintenance Men are next on the list and the Dishwashers follow them.

. . . At the great inconsistency in the cafeteria. Why is it that students are required to dress up for every meal, whether it be good or bad? Some meals are simply not too tasty, to put it in a nice sort of way. I say dress for the occasion!

. . . At all the parents and sons walking about the campus these beautiful Fall weekends. Perhaps we should have guided tours—"And on your left we have the graveyard."

. . . At one engineer who smiled last week and was immediately turned in to the Dean. With the quarterly examinations now over, everyone seems to be well on the road to recovery, but there are still a few nursing that exam week ailment—the mental Charlie Horse.

. . . At the coming weekend which boasts of two consecutive Proms—Chestnut Hill's Friday, and Rosemont's Saturday. For double acting longevity I heartily recommend carnations, if you know what I mean.

. . . At all the phones recently installed in Sullivan Hall after a year's waiting. "Bells, bells, is all I hear," he said as they pushed him out a window.

Past president of the Villanova University Fund Campaign, Mr. Edwin K. Daly, Sr., President of Horn and Hardart Baking Company, poses with his successor in the fund position, Mr. William F. Kelly, President of the First Pennsylvania Banking and Trust Company, at the fund-raising banquet held in Dougherty Hall last week.

PUBlicly Speaking . . .

By JIM & MIKE

EDITORS NOTE: The authors of this article speak from first hand experience, and are Local experts in the field.

We, the authors of this column, have come to the conclusion that this is the tiredest university in the land. The men of Villanova can outsleep anyone anytime, anywhere.

Whenever a student at Villanova gets a break between classes he immediately heads for his sack, or in the case of a day-hop, for the library. Dougherty Hall is liable to soon become a day-hop dormitory. Granted, some will have foresight to own Nashes, but for the most part day-hops will be content to obtain their after lunch siesta in comfortable lounge chairs, absorbing the piped-in music. This will become apparent to anyone who cares to notice the piles of empty brown lunch bags on the tables.

The problem of sleep on campus is becoming increasingly important. Some students have gotten into the habit of sleeping during the ten minute breaks between classes. This, as anyone knows, is a complete waste of pinochle time. Navy drills are being constantly fouled up due to the marchers falling asleep. One commando even committed the supreme sin of falling asleep while playing bridge at the "T". This is neither a reflection upon the sparkling conversation nor the adroit bridge playing of the young ladies across the tracks. It was just that he was tired???

This terrible trend must be controlled. Villanova men should content themselves with the normal college amount of twelve hours sleep per night if a future generation of Rip Van Winkles is to be avoided.

These are the juniors concerned with successful execution of the annual St. John's Orphanage projects—the Charity Ball, the party at the orphanage and the outing, left to right: class president Jack Decker, orphanage and Charity Ball chairman Art Odabash, publicity chairman Jerry Lee, orphanage party co-chairmen Tim Kennedy and Mike Boruch, and ticket chairman Joe Keffer, handling Charity Ball preparations in that field.

John Bauman, left, manager of the new University Shop in Dougherty Hall, looks on approvingly as a University of Penn shop representative fingers one of the store's many reps. Student salesmen Jack Gebhard also looks over the new Rogers Peet stock.

A flash gun attachment and reflector for an Argus camera may be laying around somewhere between the chapel and parking lot.

If found, they should be turned into the information booth in Mendel Hall.

Mr. Edmond P. Reiley (Class of 1935) reported that he apparently dropped the equipment after the Villanova-Richmond game.

Editor Dick Fitzpatrick of the Belle Aire Yearbook noted that there were thirty professors who have not submitted portraits for publication this year. Most of these, according to Fitzpatrick, have recently joined the faculty and may have portraits taken at the Carl Wolf Studios, 2013 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

Portraits which have already been taken may be left at the Information Desk on the first floor of Mendel Hall.

The Holiday Brings Reflections: by Bill Jones

Thanksgiving: Are We Appreciative Of The True Wealth We Possess?

In a very few days almost all students will depart in various directions on their merry way home for a five day Thanksgiving vacation. It will be a time for relaxation and merriment, a break from the rigors of everyday study. But some will forget that it is also a time for giving thanks to God. The meaning of Thanksgiving is, today, quickly being lost in the hectic struggle of life. It is, to most of us, merely a holiday from the various strains which bind us to our work.

Itself Significant

The name, Thanksgiving, is significant in itself. As we all know, it originated in colonial America when the Pilgrims set aside a special day for giving thanks to God for everything they had, no matter how small or seemingly insignificant.

People, at times, mumble, "Look at all my troubles. What have I to be thankful for?" A troubled cynic of this type is easily answered. . . We, thank God, are lucky enough to live in a democratic, God fearing nation. We are embued with the rights of life, liberty, and the freedom of speech and Religion. We should be thankful for living in these United States of America.

Do We Appreciate?

We, the students of Villanova, have even more to be grateful for. We are able to attend college and to obtain our ever necessary higher education. We are attending college, thanks to the grace of God and the sacrifice of our parents, something for which we should be extremely thankful.

We will be sitting down to a huge dinner this coming Thanksgiving day, a feast made possible by the fruits from our great land of plenty. There are many people in other countries who do not know what a feast looks like; they have never seen or tasted one. Yet these poor people are deeply grateful for what they have. Let us reflect on these thoughts before we sit down to our Thanksgiving meal. Let us realize how lucky we really are.

On Gratitude

In many of our homes saying grace before and after meals is not a custom. Yet on Thanksgiving day every Christian family should, out of gratitude for the bounty which is being bestowed on them, take a few fleeting moments before and after their meals to thank God from the very bottom of their hearts.

Let us have a great time on our vacation. Let us completely relax. But let us not forget that Thursday, November 24th is not just a holiday—it is a day of thanksgiving.

The Real Thanksgiving . . .

Delegates at Large

Editor-in-chief Harry Nash and co-sports editor Bob Ford will embark by plane tonight for the Associated College Press convention in Detroit tomorrow through Saturday.

The two seniors are scheduled to take off from International Airport in Philadelphia at 7:50 p.m. and arrive in Detroit at 10:30 p.m.

They will represent the VILLANOVAN at convention sessions and round tables.

IRS Meeting

Today the International Relation Society will attend an inter - collegiate conference given by the World Affairs Council. The topic under discussion will be "careers in the international field."

The guest speakers will outline the vast opportunities for college graduates in the department of state, the foreign service and also non-government organizations.

The meeting will be held in the John Wanamaker store, Ardmore, Pa.

Scholastics

(Continued from Page 1)

nominating committee composed of the class' three presidents and the three publication editors in the senior year. Additional names were then added by the deans on the basis of marks, chapel attendance and discipline followed, with the final list undergoing acceptance by Rev. Joseph A. Kemme, O. S. A., chaplain; Rev. Thomas A. Burke, O. S. A., registrar, and Thomas W. Mullen, then acting president of the Class of '56.

Jack Padova President:

Turf and Tinsel Planning December Casting Meeting

Villanova's Turf and Tinsel Club has started the wheels in motion for another spring presentation. Four vacant offices were recently filled. Al Lutz was made head of advertising, John Walsh in charge of the advertising tickets and Barry Ballister responsible for the program. John Rossica will handle the publicity for the club

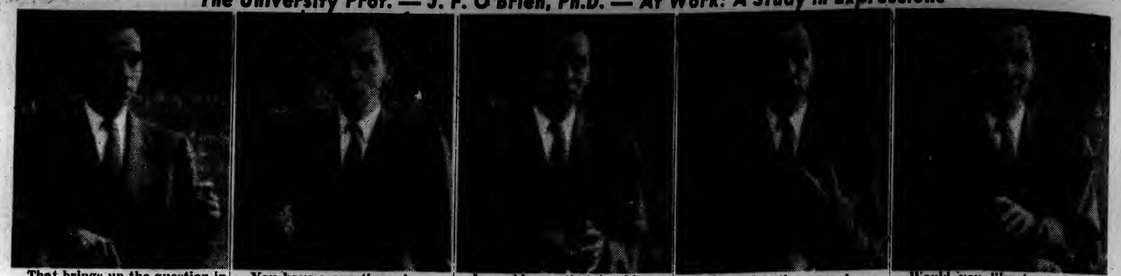
According to Jack Padova, the club's president, all is set for continued success of the organization. The theme has been decided for the show and the troupe's producers—Bob Whelan, Jack Kelly and George Noake—are busy planning the choreography and music as well as putting finishing touches on the script itself.

T N' T, as the organization is commonly know, has always been one of the brighter and more popular campus organizations. The club dates from 1933, when Harry Stuhldreher and Marty Gill first conceived the idea of an all-male musical comedy group. It was originally designed for athletes to develop a sense of teamwork and provide recreation during the "off" season. However, in 1935, due to disorganization, the club died. It wasn't until 1948 that the field house was once again alive with music and laughter of T 'n' T. Fr. Michael J. O'Donnell, O.S.A., was named faculty moderator and it was under his tutelage that the club made its comeback. No longer was it open only to athletes; anyone with the energy and the talent to fill a part in any activity of Turf and Tinsel could become a member. A second change was the use of entirely original material and new song numbers.

The revived group presented "John Smith", "Cleo Was a Lady," Piper-Heidsieck "98", "Pardon the Expression", and "Robin Hoodwick". All were successful and Turf and Tinsel earned itsel fa permanent position at Villanova.

Fr. John Maher, O.S.A., took over post as moderator in 1954 when T n' T had Michaelangelo and Leonardo Da Vince duelling in paint and beautiful "women" vieing for their affections. Jessica James was last year's hit.

Tryouts will be held in early December and all parts will be assigned before Christmas vacation. The Accounting department has been re-organized under Tom Gorham, senior accounting major. This is the first year the club has taken on a reported "air of professional organization". Anyone with any interest or talent is invited to attend the December meeting.



NFCCS

(Continued from Page 1)

of surprizes have been added to the Mardi Gras theme, which seemed well received last year.

Tickets, priced at $2 a couple, are on sale in the Pie Shoppe, according to ticket chairman Ed Fletcher.

The University Prof. — J. F. O'Brien, Ph.D. — At Work: A Study in Expressions

That brings up the question in ethics of . . . | You have a question, uh . . . Quinn? . . . | I would say that in this respect . . . | And as for the second consideration of circumstance . . . | Would you like to contribute on that point, Fitzpatrick?

Strictly Opinion

By DON ALTON

Villanova is growing at such a rapid pace that it is possible that the present Senior Class will have trouble recognizing their old Alma Mater in a few short years. Even today one can find an old grad wandering around looking for the kid brother in Sullivan Hall, and the few who still return for those reasonable and fast dollar haircuts are even finding greater difficulty. The barber shop is sporting a sign on the door informing all that it has moved to Dougherty Hall.

The wishes of a myriad of Villanovans have finally become a reality. We are now sporting a Student Union building, and the old Pie Shoppe is in its last days. Soon the pinochle players will be filling up the new lounges in Dougherty, and the Rogers Peet credit cards will be getting a good workout in our Clothing shop. Everyone has a new office and all is right with the world. . . . There is only one thing that has been of some concern to the few interested parties. Has Villanova retained any tradition in this enterprising enlargement? We still have the twin spires on the chapel, but there has even been talk that they will be no more when the new University chapel rises to the sky.

In the dime past . . . back when we were a college . . . an underclassman had two singular traditions that he accepted with the usual collegiate vigor. It used to be a long two years until Joe Villanova could wear his class blazer and college ring. These two objects were traditionally a just reward for plugging through the dark days of underclass life into a blossoming, intelligent Junior. Today this tradition is no more.

On Monday mornings this campus looks like some academy. The uniform of the day for all but the freshmen is blazer and appropriate choice of charcoals to match. This scene is soon to be altered by the addition of Charcoal skirts and the usual knee-socks plus Villanova blazers. Now the freshmen nurses will have their own blazers to sport around the quad. It will be a close race between the males and females of the class of '59. Who will win the race to the blazer?

Villanova has been turning out men since 1842, and during these years we have seen traditions established and fade into the background. It has been a sad sight to watch the blazer fall from its lofty position of respect to a uniform for the several thousand students of Villanova University. It is about time that some people start thinking of tradition at our University.

It seems that this column has overlooked one tradition that has been maintained at our green campus. The student body, student government, and student editorials still ring out in an effort to avoid the curse of the college student, a multitude of examinations on the same day. During the recent quarterly exams every professor decided to test on the same day. As a result one of our engineering students had four tests in one day plus two lab reports, and the majority of students had that three-in-one expression. One lad had something to say about the ultimate good derived from a Shakespearian water processing unit. This is just about how those facts collect in the student's mind. There have been motions in the Student Councils of old to ask the responsible parties to assist the scholars among us by dividing up the exams, and there is something said about a limit of two in a day, but they still pile up. This is one tradition that instructors and students alike would enjoy destroying.

* * * * *

The several new telephones in Sullivan Hall are the result of some industrious party, and now all of our well turned phone booths are full. It has been noted that this maneuver was executed one week before the local colleges—female type—throw their proms. We may have had some outside influnce working for the additional phones.

VU Law Testing Center

Villanova served as a testing center for the nationwide administration of the Law School Admission Test November 12, 1955.

Many law schools give first consideration to applicants for entrance in the fall of 1956 who have taken the Law School Admission Test in November.

Applications to take the test on November 12, 1955, and a Bulletin of Information which describes the procedure for making application and shows sample test questions were obtained from Villanova School of Law or directly from the Law School Admission Test, Educational Testing Service at Princeton.

The Middle East

UN Must Employ Charter Power in Isreal-Arab Dispute

"Russia will contribute toward peace in the Middle East as it will throughout the world." This reply by Foreign Minister Molotov constitutes Russia's only rebuttal to renewed Western accusations of war mongering.

The latest focal point of world tension is again the Middle East. The dissatisfactory Palestine-Arab armistice, previously quiet, has flared anew.

Russia Inciting Unrest

Russia, original proponent of Palestine partition, which was later agreed to by the United States and Britian is again inciting aggression. Repeating a procedure which was familiar in Korea, the Soviets are supplying large quantities of arms to encourage aggressor Arab nations.

The Arab League, never pleased with the Palestine treaty, is still seeking the unification of Palestine.

The Jews long awaited Palestine, the homeland which was originally promised them by the now defunct League of Nations in 1922. In 1947, the United Nations, realizing the impossibility of an Arab-Israel reconciliation, resolved upon a petition giving Israel about one third of the land originally allocated them. The Arab League had at first openly defied the right of the U. N. to legislate or even mediate in Palestine, but often several cease fire agreements entered the armistice treaty under pressure from the United States, Great Britian and Russia.

Israel Praised

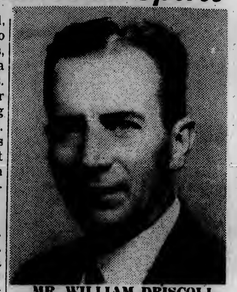
The infant Israel nation has proved worthy of the faith displayed by the U. N. in it. In eight years it has progressed rapidly in reforestation, farming, transportation and government, now having diplomatic relations with most of the world. Its increase in population and the ambition of its people have frightened the Arabs who fear further spread of Islam boundaries.

This fear and innate bitterness toward the Jewish religion cause unrest among the Arab nations. This unrest is being capitalized on by Russia in the supply of ammunitions to the Arabs.

Again the U. N. is in a critical situation. Should it ignore this crisis? Then it is setting a dangerous precedent. What would prevent a stranger member state from defying it in a similar situation in the future?

Arms to Israel?

There are many who believe that the United States should supply arms to Israel. Obviously this alone is not the solution; it would merely create a predicament similar to Korea.



The only alternative is for the U. N. to use the power invested in its charter for maintaining world peace, if another ultimatum is ignored by those involved in the Palestine dispute, a U. N. police force should restrain the principles from further clashes.

The 1947 Arag-Jew debacle was very ably handed by the Secretary General Trygve Lee. Now we will see whether Dag Hammarskjold is equally adept.

Here For 23 Years:

by Bob O'Connor

Mr. Driscoll Exemplar Of The True Villanovan Spirit

MR. WILLIAM DRISCOLL

Villanova's engineering school, though small in comparison to those of larger universities, ranks high up on the list as a producer of skilled engineers. One of the main reasons for this lofty perch is the teaching skill of the school's personnel. Perhaps no one on this staff is better acquainted with his most important job than Mr. William G. Driscoll, Professor of Physics.

B. S. from Villanova

Mr. Driscoll, with his B. S. from Villanova in 1932 and M. S. from University of Pennsylvania in 1936, has been teaching here at Villanova for 23 years. Along with teaching physics he was also a ground instructor in the days when Villanova had Civilian Pilot Training courses.

In a recent interview, he remarked that the world needed more scientists and engineers. He particularly stressed the need for physicists. Mr. Driscoll said, "The work in science is getting top heavy; there are not as many students being prepared for science or engineering as are needed." In stressing the need for more physicists he said, "The number of physicists being trained is small because proper training in secondary schools is lacking." In comparing scientific fields with regards to the men that are needed to fill the positions, Mr. Driscoll took as an example a tree. Science in the last two decades has spread out into many branches. Science like a tree needs a continuous flow of new blood to fill the branches or it will die. And so it is dying in the secondary schools.

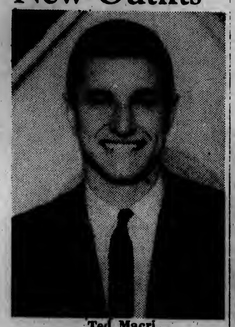
Physics declining

Statistic-wise, the national enrollment in secondary schools in 1890 was .25 million with .1 million taking physics. In 1950 the enrollment was 5.4 million only .3 million taking physics. This is a drop in percentage from 22 per cent to 4 per cent. This, however, is not only true of physics but also of geometry and algebra. In 1910, 31 per cent took geometry, and in 1950 only 13 per cent of the students were taking it. The same noticeable drop also occurs in algebra. In 1920, 56 per cent took algebra while by 1950 it was down to 27 per cent. These figures are based on the national enrollment.

Mr. Driscoll points out the indication is that the country is going to run out of qualified students for science work, whether physics or engineering. Here at Villanova this year we have an increase in freshmen physics majors. The normal amount of 5 has increased to 20. Mr. Driscoll however points out that only about half of the students going for a B. S. in physics will attain that degree. The reason cited for this is that the secondary school training does not equip the student sufficiently.

Physics Teachers Needed

"The real need now is for teachers in physics." The reason pointed out by Mr. Driscoll is that industries are offering better paying jobs.



In concluding Mr. Driscoll said, "If the country is to get ahead in science, not merely for war but for mankind, it must build up a real nucleus of science students. America needs scientists not for war, but for making it easier for mankind to live."

ST. MARY'S HOSPITAL

Student nurses at St. Mary's Hospital have invited Villanova students to an informal dance Friday at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the nurses' home at Frankford and Palmer Avenues in Philadelphia.

Admission to the dance is 75 cents and music will be provided by the Blue Notes. Refreshments will be served. The hospital is located near the Berks Street "el" stop on the PTC.

Cheerleaders Count On New Outfits

Ted Macri

With an eye on the coming heavy basketball schedule, the cheerleaders plan the formulation of a new rotation plan, designed to lighten the burden of the present members: Jim Naiman, Jack Estock, John Flynn, and Ted Macri. To this end Macri said that new cheerleaders are needed and especially Freshmen, who should see Father McLaughlin.

New uniforms, which will be ready by basketball season, may be added incentive for hesitant enlistees. New trousers with an horizontal stripe differentiate these uniforms from the ones in present use.

Macri also commented on the "increasing amount of school spirit at the football games" and hopes "there will be no deviation from this trend during the oncoming basketball season."

All Tickets For Opera-Classica Trip are Sold

Mr. Angeline

All tickets for the Opera-Classica club's trip to New York Dec. 12 for the "Telephone Hour" have been distributed, the club announced last week.

At the same time Mr. Angeline's club released its schedule for the next few weeks. Tonight members will hear highlights from Johann Strauss' "Die Fledermaus."

Sung in German

The operetta will be sung in German.

Umberto Giordan'o 'Andrea Chenierv," sung in Latin will be presented Nov. 30.

Giacomo Puccini's "Madame Butterfly has been scheduled for Dec. 7.

All programs will be held at 6:30 p.m. in 208 C&F.

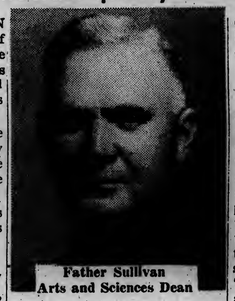
Student Replies From Within:

by Bob Ford

The Arts and Science Division: What Improvements Could Be Made?

THREE UNIVERSITY Arts students, Barry Shea, Bob Strayton, and Jack O'Leary (l. to r.), adjust neckties before venturing into Arts and Science Dean Father Sullivan's office to discuss some academic strategy.

Villanovans in all phases of that school's curriculum offer opinions on possible steps to heighten the intellectual quality of their field



In this issue, the VILLANOVAN offers the second in a series of inquiries concerning possible improvements within the various schools on campus. The school under consideration this week is that of Arts and Sciences.

In order to broaden the scope of the poll, opinions of faculty members and an alumnus were included, along with those of the students.

Question: What improvements would you suggest for the Arts and Sciences School?

Dr. Bernard L. Bonniwell, Assistant Professor, Psychology

"The ARTS AND SCIENCES, faced with the secular challenge of the present century, can no longer be satisfied to seek truth for truth's sake alone but must activate truth so that it may profoundly affect the behavior of man. The scholar of vision must certainly understand the folly of cataloguing and re-cataloguing the books of the past when that wisdom no longer touches the heart and intellect of mankind. Wisdom becomes the powerful good only when it is accepted by man. It no longer suffices to say that wisdom is equivalent in all generations for in practice wisdom is only when it is accepted by man. It no longer suffices to say that wisdom is only for those who accept it. Wisdom, lacking recognition and acceptance, has no behavioral existence. Man, the behavioral organism, must be motivated to know and to live the truth. Thus the prime need of the ARTS and SCIENCES is to become less and less remote from the world of today and to seek an understanding of the masterful weaving of Philosophical and Behavioral Truths—wherein man, singularly perfected in his own consciousness, may know, feel, believe and act in conformity to his true nature.

Father Sullivan
Arts and Sciences Dean

Leo Rogers
Arts Sophomore

The Arts school should be kept at its present size, emphasizing quality rather than quantity. There should be a wider variety of subjects offered in the first two years. This would enable the student to take a few subjects of his preference instead of all standard courses before he reaches his major. More classical courses, such as Greek, would bring Villanova to the level of most other Arts schools.

Herb Ramrath
Chemistry Junior

"The biggest improvement that should and must be made is in facilities. The Chemistry department, one of the best and without a doubt one of the biggest in the University, shares part of the fourth floor of Mendel Hall with the Physics Department, and is doing a tremendous job even though hindered by lack of space. I think that along with the new Law and Engineering buildings, priority should also be given to a new Science building.

Bob Arkinson
Arts Sophomore

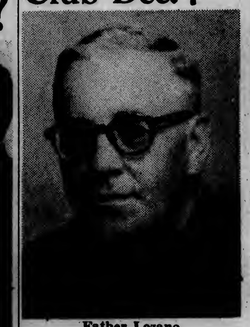
In the three semesters that I've been enrolled in the Arts School, I've found nothing radically lacking.

The instructors have proved to be a most competent group. After considering the entire four year curriculum, I find it to be extremely well balanced. Perhaps a Seminar to be given in the first semester of the Freshman year concerned with study habits would help.

One thing I don't approve at all is the placing of Arts students in C. and F. sections. I believe it tends to hinder him considerably.

Bill D'Amato
English Senior

I would suggest a more varied amount of cultural courses be presented. I believe that there should be inquiries made as to the possiblity of Villanova Arts students using the cultural and educational facilities of Philadelphia. Another improvement that would be useful is the formulation of a society that would see to the problems of the Arts school as a more cohesive unit. This society could present grievances of Arts students to the proper authorities. I would further suggest the addition of more competent instructors to teach in the Arts School.



Matt Heim
English Senior

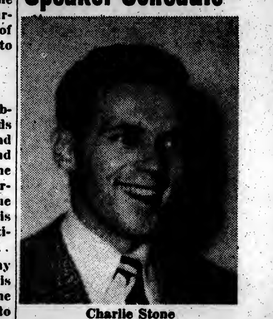
A unified curriculum is probably one of the most basic needs of the student in Arts and Science. The list of required and elective subjects offered to the Arts' man is extensive and varied. Much of their potential value is lost, however, because of this lack of unification which ultimately appears on his roster. . .

The subject matter of many English courses, for example, is closely related to material in the history courses. It would be to the students' advantage if such courses were more closely intergrated.

EDWIN K. DALY, Jr., Arts alumnus now in law study at Harvard: In general, the Arts the Science School offers a very sound curriculum. A greater variety of courses within the major field should definitely be desirable, but this to be coming about as rapidly as funds and manpower permit. An expanded Arts faculty also be a great improvement. These, naturally, are long-term goals. In the more immediate future, more emphasis on outside reading would improve the caliber of a number of courses, since some professors tend merely to follow the textbook in their lectures.

"Noche" Set By Spanish Club Dec. 7

Father Lozano



"Noche Espanola," the, annual social highlight of the Spanish Club is slated for Dec. 7 this year. On the Spanish Night program will be a play enacted entirely in Spanish by Students from Villanova and Rosemont.

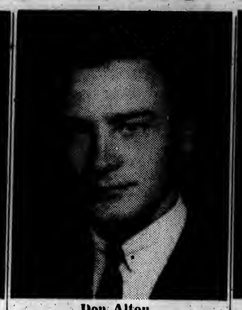
These plans were outlined to the second monthly meeting of the Spanish Club by its moderator Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O.S.A. The affair is open only to Spanish Club members and their dates.

At the same meeting Mr. DiVincenzo, professor of Spanish, spoke on the beautiful islands of Cuba and Puerto Rico.

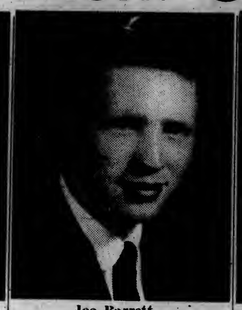
The Mendel Bulletin, Villanova's scientific publication goes to press the latter part of January. The printing task will be done by the recently organized University Press located in Galberry Hall.

Marketing Club Meets to Plan Speaker Schedule

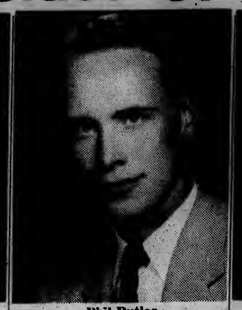
Charlie Stone



Membership cards for the Marketing Club have arrived and will be distributed to all members tomorrow at 10:30 in the C & F building. Professor Frederick Burgess, moderator, urges all members to be present.

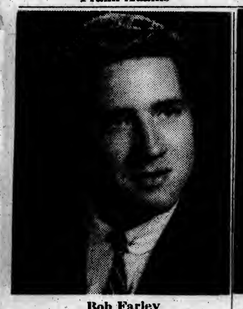


A committee will be formed at this meeting to arrange a schedule of speakers for future meetings, said Charles Stone, club president. Several men from the business world have been contacted and have expressed the desire to speak at future meetings.



The aim of the moderator and the officers of the club is to obtain speakers from as many fields of business as possible.

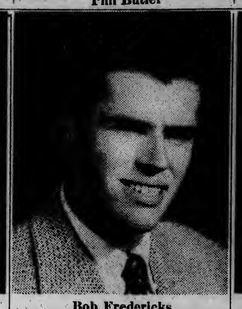
Who's Who Men: Class of 1956



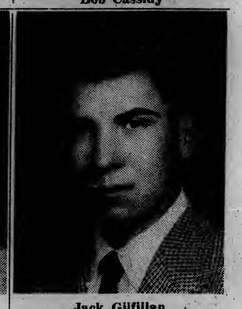
Frank Adams

Don Alton

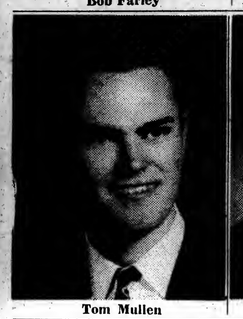
Joe Barrett



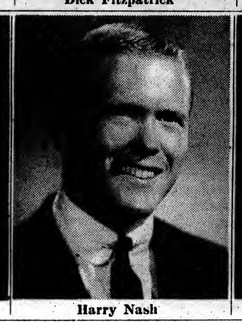
Phil Butler



Bob Cassidy



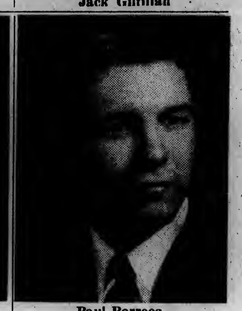
Bob Farley



Dick Fitzpatrick

Bob Ford

Bob Fredericks



Jack Gilfillan

Tom Mullen

Harry Nash

Jack Padova

Dick Peer

Paul Porreca

National Collegiate Who's Who Histories

FRANCIS M. ADAMS . . . Malvern Prep, Merion Station, Pa., B.A. in Philosophy, activities: DPM 1, 4, Treasurer 2, Secretary 3; IRS 1, 2, Secretary-Treasurer 3, 4; Student Council 3, 4, Chairman Fraternities and Societies 4; Steering Committee 3, 4; Orientation Committee 4; Sanctuary Soc. 1; French Club 2; Sophomore Cotillion Committee 2; Charity Ball Committee 3.

J. DONALD ALTON, JR. . . . Atlantic City High School, Atlantic City, N.J., B.A. in English, activies: NROTC, Company Commander 4 WVIL 1, 2, Program Director 3, Station Manager DPM 2, 4, Social Chairman 3 Football 150's 2, 3; Villanova Singers 3, 4; Steering Committee 3, 4; Charity Ball Chairman 3; Turf & Tinsel 2, 3; VILLANOVAN 3, 4; BELLEAIR 4; Quarterdeck Society 4.

JOSEPH M. BARRETT . . . Baltimore City College High School, Baltimore, Md., B.S. in Economics. Activities; NROTC; LYNX 2, 3, 4; Co-Editor-in-Chief 4; Co-Chairman Junior Jazz Concert 3; Student Council 4; Belle Masque 4; Belle Air 4; Intramurals 1, 2 ,3, 4; Class Advisory Committee 3; Orientation Committee 4; VILLANOVAN 4.

PHILIP R. BUTLER . . . Central Catholic High School, Coatesville, Pa., B.S. in Educatio. Activities: Steering Committee 3, 4; Decorations Chairman 2, 3, 4; Turf & Tinsel 2, 3, 4; Stage Manager 3, 4; Intramural Council 1, 2, 3; intramurals 1, 2, 3, 4; DPM 2, 3, 4.

JOHN R. CASSIDY . . . Chaminade High School, Garden City, N.Y., B.S. in Economics. Activities: NROTC; Marketing Club, 2, 3, 4; LYNX 2; Associate Editor 3; BUSINESS WHIRL Copy Editor 3, 4; BELLE AIR Feature Editor 4; Villanova Singers 3, 4; Turf & Tinsel 2, 3, 4; DPE 2, 3, 4; Quarterdeck Society 4.

CARLOS A. CONDE DEL PINO III . . . Academia Del Perpetuo Socorro, Santurce, P.R., B.S. in Economics. Activities: Spanish Club 3, 4, President 1, 2; LYNX 2, 3, 4; Intramurals 2, 3; Co-Chairman Blazer Ball; Sanctuary Society 4; VILLANOVAN 4; Turf & Tinsel 4; Belle Air 4; Opera-Classica Club 4.

ROBERT W. CONNOR . . . Lancaster Catholic High School, Lancaster Pa., B.S. in Biology. Activities: Soph Cotillion Committee; LKD 1, 2, 3, 4; Editor-in-Chief MENDEL BULLETIN 4; VILLANOVAN 1, 2, 3, 4; Intramurals 1, 2, 3, 4; Turf & Tinsel 2, 3, 4.

JOHN L. DOWNING . . Northeast Catholic High School, Philadelphia, Pa., B.S. in Electrical Engineering. Activities: VILLANOVAN 2, 3, 4, Copy Editor 3, 4; Student Council 3, Ways & Means Committee Chairman 4; AIEE-IRE 2, 3, Chairman 4; VILLANOVA ENGINEER 2, 3, 4; Steering Committee 3, 4; Registration Committee 3, 4; Co-Chairman Junior Prom Queen Contest 3; IRS 3, 4;

JOHN W. EDDINGER . . . Bethlehem Catholic High School, Bethlehem, Pa., B.A. in English. Activities: Belle Masque I; IRS 2, 3, 4; LYNX 3, Co-Editor 4; VILLANOVAN 3, 4; WVIL 3, Chief Announcer 4; Spanish Club 3, President 4; Villanova Singers 4; BELLE AIR 4; Arts, Activities Editor 4; Co-Chairman Charity Ball Committee; DPM 2, 3, 4.

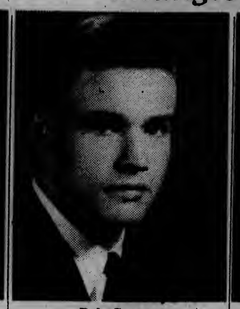
EDWARD H. ERNST . . . Marmion Military Academy, Fort Wayne, Indiana, B.S. in Mechanical Engineering. Activities: NROTC; PKP 1, 2, 3, 4; ASME 2, 3, Treasurer 4, Battalio Commander 4; Intramurals 1, 2; Owl Hop Committee 3, 4; Rifle Team 3, 4; Quarterdeck Society 4.

ROBERT J. FARLEY . . . West Philadelphia Catholic High School, Upper Darby, Pa., B.A. in Philosophy. Activities: VILLANOVAN 3, Associate Editor 4; LYNX 2, 3, Poetry Editor 4; Philosophy Club 3, 4; BELLE AIR 4, Sports Editor 4; French Club 2, 3; DPM 1, 2, 3, 4; Intramurals 1, 2; Junior Prom Committe; Steering Committee 3, 4; WVIL 4; VILLANOVA ENGINEER 4; IRS 3, 4; Turf & Tinsel 4.

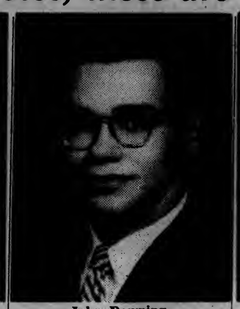
RICHARD B. FITZPATRICK . . . Brooklyn Prep, Ossining, N. Y., B.A. in English. Activities: NROTC; Turf & Tinsel 1, 2, 3, 4; Football 150's 2, 3; Villanova Singers 3, 4; WVIL 2, 3; BELLE AIR Editor 4; Chairman Soph Cotillion; Chairman Junior Dinner Dance; Steering Committee 2, 3, 4; DPM 3, 4, V. President 2; Student Council 4; Sanctuary Society 4; Quarterdeck Society 4.

ROBERT H. FORD . . . St. Peter's High School, Holmdel, N. J., B.A. Activities: NROTC; Recreation Committee 1; VILLANOVAN 1, 2, Copy Editor 3, Feature Editor 4, Sports Editor 4; Schola Cantorum 2; Villanova Singers, Secretary 3, President 4; French Club 1, 2, 3, 4; Alumni Representative 4; Student Council, Ways & Means Committee 4, Elections Committee 4; IRS 2, 3, 4; DPM 2, 3, 4; WVIL 3; BELLE AIR 4; Blazer Chairman 3; Junior Week Queen Contest Chairman 3; Intramurals 1, 2, 3, 4; Turf & Tinsel 2; Class Steering Committee 3, 4; Orientation Committee 2; Orphans Committee 3.

ROBERT J. FREDERICKS . . . . Augustinian Academy, Staten Island, N.Y., B.S. in Chemistry. Activities: Student Council 2, Fraternities & Societies Chairman 3, Elections Committee Chairman 4; Steering Committee 2, 3, 4; Orientation Committee 2; Vilanova Chemical Society 1, 2, V. President 3, President 4; Junior Prom Committee 3; NROTC Drill Team 2, 3; DPM 2, 3, 4; Intramurals 1, 2, 3, 4; Physics Club 4; MENDEL BULLETIN 3, Chemical Section Editor 4; NROTC.

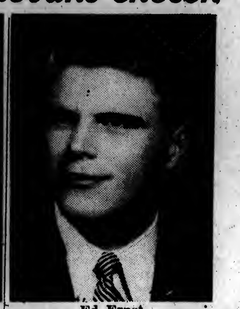


JOHN G. GILFILLAN . . Salesianum Catholic High School, Wilmington, Del., B.S. in Mechanical Engineering. Activities: Intramurals 1, 2, 3, 4; ASME 2, 3, 4; PKP 3, 4; Turf & Tinsel 2, 3, 4; Band 1, 2, 3; President 4; VILLANOVA ENGINEER 4.

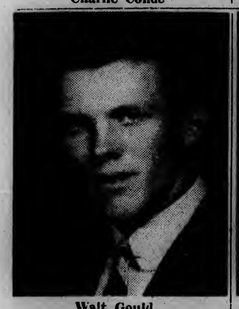


WALTER D. GOULD . . Chris-

(Continued on Page 7)

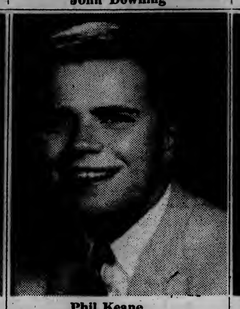


. . . . On the basis of scholastics, activities and intangibles, these are the 32 Villanovans chosen



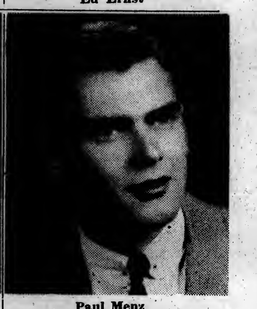
Charlie Conde

Bob Connor

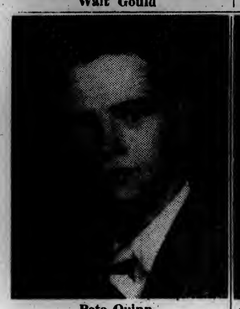


John Downing

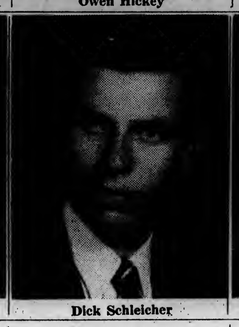
John Eddinger



Ed Ernst



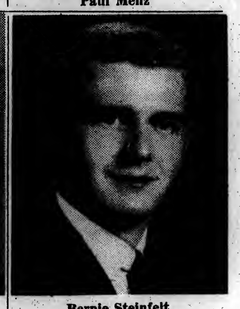
Walt Gould



Owen Hickey

Phil Keane

Bob McCaffery



Paul Menz

Pete Quinn

Dick Schleicher

Charles Schwerdtfeger

Jim Smith

Bernie Steinfelt

Who's Who Histories

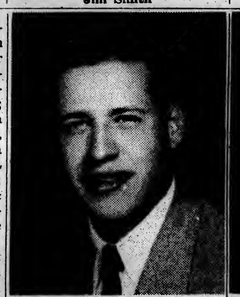
(Continued from Page 6)

ian Brother's Academy, Albany, N. Y., B.S. in Civil Engineering. Actvivities: ROTC Rifle Team 2, 3, Captain 4; ASCE 2, 3, 4; Sanctuary Society 2, 3, 4; NROTC; Drill Team 1, 2; Commander 3, 4; University Rifle Team 2, 3, Captain 4, ROTC Pistol Team 2, 3, 4; University Marching Band Director 4; Blazer Ball Decorations Committee; Intramurals 1, 2, 3, 4. vv

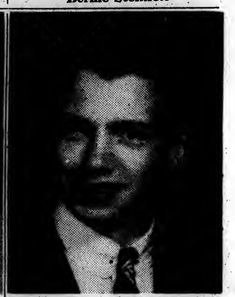
OWEN W. HICKEY . . Aquinas Institute, Rochester, N. Y., B.A. in History. Activities: Turf & Tinsel 1, 2, 3, 4; Social Chairman 3, 4; DPM 2, 3, 4; Student Council 2, President 4; IRS 3, 4; Ring Chairman 3; Steering Committee 2, 3, 4; Mother's Day Committee, VILLANOVAN 3; Intramurals 1, 3; NROTC, Drill Team 1, 2, 3, 4;WVIL 4, Villanova Singers 3; Orphans Committe 3.

PHILIP T. KEANE . . . Scarsdale High School, B.S. in Economics. Activities: NROTC; Editor BusinessWhirl 3, 4; BelleAir Editor 4; Glee Club I; Villanova Singers 3, 4; Turf & Tinsel 2, 3, 4; DPE 2, 3, 4; Mother's Day Committee 3; Marketing Club 2, 3, 4; Refreshments Chairman Soph Cotillion; intramurals 1, 2, 3, 4; Steering Committee 4.

ROBERT A. McCAFFERY . . . . Southold High School, Southold, N. Y., B.S. in Mathmatics. Activities: NROTC; Quarterdeck Society, President 4; Sanctuary society I, 2, 3, 4; Class Secretary 3, Steering Committee 3, 4; DPM 2, 3, 4; Mother's Day Committee; Junior Prom Committee; Intramurals 1, 2, 3, 4; BELLE AIR 4; Chess Club 3, 4; Math Club 3, 4;



PAUL G. MENZ . . . Sacred Heart High School, Millville, N. J.; B.S. in Mechanical Engineering. Activities: Intramurals I, 2, 3; ASME 2, 3; Secretary 4; PKP 1, 2, Treasurer 3, Student Council Representative 4; Junior prom Committee; Villanova Singers 3, 4; Turf & Tinsel 3, 4; Orientation Committee 4; Sanctuary Society 4; Senior Prom Co-Chairman.



THOMAS W. MULLEN . . . Chaminade High School, W. Hempstead, N. Y., B.S. in Electrical Engineering. Activities: Intramurals 1, 2, 3, 4; Villanova Singers 3, 4; AIEE 1, 2, 3, 4; Social Co-Chairman 4; Steering Committee 3; Class V-President 4;

HARRY C. NASH, III . . St. Paul's High School, Portsmouth, Va., B.A. in English. Activities: Steering Committee 2, 4; President 3; Father's Day Chairman 4; Villanovan 1, Sports Editor 2, Managing Editor 3, Editor-in-Chief 4; DPM 4, Recording Secretary 2, Vice-President 3; Schola Cantorum 1, Villanova Singers 3, 4; Intramurals 1, 2, 3, 4; Student Council 3, 4; Basca Award Hall Chairman 4; WVIL 3, 4; IRS 2, 3, 4; LYNX 3, 4; Sanctuary Society 2, 3; Turf & Tinsel 4; Shamokinaki Co-Chairman 3; President's Committee for Students 4; BA 1, 2, 3, 4

JOHN R. PADOVA . . . Northeast Catholic High School, Philadelphia, Pa.,v B.A. in English. Activities: Student Council 4; DPM 2, 3, 4; Villanova Singers 1, 2, 3, 4; WVIL 1, 2, 3, 4. Turf & Tinsel 1, 2, 3, President 4; Orientation Committee 2, 4; Steering Committee 2, 3, 4; Soph Cotillion Committee 2; Mother's Day Committee 3; Intramurals 1, 2, 3, 4.

RICHARD A. PEER . . . Seton Hall Prep, E. Orange, N. J., B.S. in Economics. Activities: NROTC; Student Council, V. President 3, President 4; VILLANOVAN 3, 4; Turf & Tinsel 1, 2, 4; DPE 2, 3, 4; Steering Committee 3, 4; Intramurals 1, 2, 3, 4; Belle Air 4; Mother's Day Committee 3, Sanctuary Society 4; WVIL 3, 4; Junior Week Talent

Phil Taddeo

Henry Whalen

Show Chairman; Orientation Committee 2, 3, 4; Football 150's 3.

PAUL R. PORRECA . . . Sacred Heart High School, Millville, N. J., B.S. in Economics. Activities: Marching Band 1; Soph Cotillion Band Committee 3; Football 150's 3; Turf & Tinsel 3, 4; Villanova Singers 3; Blazer Ball Chairman 3; Steering Committee 3, 4; Sanctuary Society 4; DPE 2, Pledgemaster 3, Social Chairman 4; Spirit Committee 4; Spanish Club 1, 2, 3.

PETER J. QUINN . . . Northeast Catholic High School, Ithan, Pa., B.A. in History. Activities: IRS 2, 3, V. President 4; WVIL 3, News Staff Head 4; Student Council 2, Secretary 4; Belle Masque 1, 2; Chairman Spirit Committee; Steering Committee 3, 4; Circulation Editor of the BelleAir 4; Orientation Committee 2, 3, 4; NROTC, Company Commander 4; Intramural tennis 2, 3, 4; Fall Navy Dance Committee 3; Quarterdeck Society 4.

RICHARD J. SCHLEICHER . . . Mount Carmel High School, Inglewood, California, B.S. in Mechanical Engineering. Activities; NROTC; Drill Team; Quarterdeck Society 4; Rifle

(Continued on Page12)

letters to the editor • • • (Continued from Page 2)

and may the game on the 15th be the beginning of a long and friendly athletic rivalry.

(Signed)
Bob Skillman
(Indiana '54)

UN BRANDED

Dear Sir,

I came across, and read entirely, the naive article on the U. N. by a certain Mr. Greenlee. It was especially disturbing to me when I realized that here was a staff member on the University weekly who spouts out the nauseating, liberal, internationalist "line".

While preparing his article, Mr. Greenlee obviously ignored the legions of Americans who oppose this clearing-house for Communist propaganda. Anyone who dares voice an anti-U. N. view is branded by Mr. Greenlee as an agnostic. I resent this!

The UN is a debacle, a complete fiasco. Worse still, it poses a threat to the United States.

Rather than let Mr. Greenlee's propaganda go unchallenged, lest some unsuspecting students be ensnared by it, I have requested, from the publishers of "HUMAN EVENTS", permission to reprint several of their articles on the U. N. When this permission is received, I will submit these articles, now in my possession, to the VILLANOVAN for publication.

(Signed)
J. P. Lynch

For State Convention Funds:

ICG Planning Joint Social At Rosemont In December

Rosemont and Villanova are uniting ,at least as far as their respective ICG chapters are concerned, to present a party and dance on Dec. 8 and to raise funds for the annual state convention in Harrisburg. Lou Donatelli, social chairman, disclosed the plans at last Thursday's meeting of the Intercollegiate Conference on Government.

Conventions Discussed

Also at the Thursday meeting the set-up was discussed for both the Regional Convention and the State Convention. The Southeastern Regional Convention will be Saturday, March 17, Don Seaton, Regional Director, announced. The State Convention will be April 12 to 14. Both Conventions will follow the form of National Nomination Conventions, with the floor open to the nominations of candidates from both parties, following the formation of a general party platform by the delegates.

John McNicholas, chairman of the Membership and Publicity Committee announced that the dues for the year would be one dollar payable by semesters. The first semester dues are payable on or before the next meeting, Dec. 1. Seaton urged the members to pay their dues as soon as possible so that Villanova might be assured of a Committee Chair at the Regional Convention, where prompt payment of regional dues is considered in the assigning of committee positions.

Penn Meeting

Last night a group of ICG members travelled to the University of Pennsylvania's Houston Hall for the Regional Executive Meeting. Villanova Chairman Frank Psyk and Vice-Chairman Frank Stagnitto took active part in this meeting, which brought together the student chairmen of the eleven ICG schools in the area for the formulation of Regional Strategy and policy. Regional Director Seaton asked the members to attend in the hope that with an acquaintance with Regional activities might continue Villanova's leadership in the Region.

The next meeting of the Villanova chapter will be tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. in room 104 C&F. All members are urged by Psyk to attend. Anyone interested is invited, he said.

Bishop van Lierde Goes To Vatican

The Most Reverend Peter C. van Lierde, O.S.A., Vicar General of the Vatican City who was a recent visitor to the University monastery, has returned to Rome.

The bishop, who is also Papal Sacristan, celebrated a law Pontifical Mass in the University chapel on October 27 before his departure for New York and a plane to Brussels.

Papal Benediction

After the Mass, Bishop van Lierde imparted the Papal Benediction to those in attendance, including members of the University's senior class. The Benediction was one of three the bishop imparted in this country by permission of the Holy Father. The other Benedictions were given in St. Rita's Church in Chicago and, after the bishop's departure from Villanova, during ordination of Augustinian seminarians in the Bronx.

Rev. Edward M. Dwyer, O.S.A., Dean of the University, served as the bishop's chaplain for the Mass in the Villanova chapel. The Mass was served by seminarians of St. Mary's Hall.

Love of Education

Rev. Joseph E. Greenlee, O.S.A., Prior Provincial, introduced Bishop Van Lierde for his remarks following the low Pontifical Mass. The visiting bishop gave a short talk on the theme of St. Augustine's love of education, and exhorted the students present to emulate the great saint's combination of intellect will and the arts in attaining a balance of knowledge and understanding.

The bishop told Father Greenlee that he would make a report to the Holy Father on his visit to this country, and would, once it is compiled, show the Pope a scrapbook of his activities at Villanova.

Tonight at 8:15, Bill Kelly interviews Sarah Vaughn over WVIL.

PKP Plans Communion Breakfast

Phi Kappa Pi has taken two more steps toward making this a successful year activity-wise. Final plans have been made for the engineering fraternity's annual Communion Breakfast, and the fraternity's bowling league has gotten off to a fast start.

On Sunday, Dec. 11, the members will receive Holy Communion in a body at the 9 a.m. Mass. Immediately following Mass, the breakfast will be held at Stouffer's Restaurant in Ardmore.

Father Sullivan Speaker

The principal speaker will be the Dean of the Arts and Science School, Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O.S.A.

The bowling pins began to fly on Monday, Nov. 7. Due to the wide response from members, who formed 15 teams, the league has been divided into afternoon and evening divisions with all games to be played at the Field House lanes.

Chairman Frank Okenka promises that playoffs will be arranged at the end of the season and prizes awarded to the various winners.

Anyone interested in donating his services as a pin boy is cordially invited to the alleys anytime the league is bowling, said Okenka.

Singers Prepare Choral Festival

Plans for the Choral Festival, sponsored by the Villanova Singers, took another and important step forward last week at the meeting of the presidents of the glee clubs participating in the Festival.

Seven organizations have indicated that they will attend. These include Temple, St. Josephs, St. Peter's, Rosemont and Immaculata, as well as Villanova. Chestnut Hill, Bryn Mawr and La Salle, previously invited, will be unable to take part because of previous commitments.

Also Radio Broadcast

Another meeting of this group has been scheduled for Dec. 1, at which time the program will be determined.

Dean Reuschlein, director of the Singers, announced last week that the glee club will prepare a one-half hour radio broadcast to be presented over WFLN-FM on New Year's Eve. The show will be tape-recorded.

On Nov. 21 the Singers will appear at the Hundredth Anniversary celebration of Our Mother of Consolation parish in Chestnut Hill.

Beta Gamma

The Beta Gamma Debating Society is in urgent need of more students to participate in scheduled debates. Also needed are members of the faculty as judges.

The debating season starts in December with first contests being against King's College and participation in tournaments at Temple and La Salle. This year's question to be argued is: "Resolved: that the non-agricultural industries of the U. S. should guarantee an annual wage."

At present, activity is confined to practice debates with other nearby schools (also debates within club itself).

PCS Meeting

The second meeting of the President's Committee for Students, scheduled for last Thursday, was postponed until a later date because Father Donnelion was out of town. Father McLaughlin, Dean of Student Activities, told Student Council chairman Dick Peer that the Board of Discipline, which must ultimately decide on many of the proposals recently forwarded, has not yet convened.

Because of the Thanksgiving layoff, this is the last VILLANOVAN until Dec. 7. Deadline for the next issue is Dec. 1.

Engineers Attend Joint Meeting, EE Trip Today

Engineers and physicists thronged C&F Auditorium last night to hear three noted speakers discuss "Research in Engineering." The meeting was held jointly by Villanova's A. I. E. E.-I. R. E., A. S. M. E., branches, and Physics Club.

A.I.E.E. chairman Jack Downing introduced Dr. Robert C. Good, Mr. Walter W. Felton and Mr. Herman P. Schick, all from Franklin Institute, to the large audience.

Noted Research Organization

Philadelphia's famous Franklin Institute, popularly known for its museum and planetarium, is one of the country's foremost research organizations.

Dr. Good discussed the field of engineering research from the physicists's viewpoint, while Mr. Felton and Mr. Schick elaborated on the work of the mechanical and electrical engineer, respectively.

Also presiding at the first joint engineering meeting of the year were Stan Rodkin, A.S.M.E. head, and Charley Schwerdtfeger, president of the Physics Club.

E. E. Field Trip Today

Following the speakers' talks Downing reminded the electrical engineers present of the field trip to the General Electric Switchgear Plant in Philadelphia today. The E.E.'s, some 60 strong, will leave from the Dynamo Lab in Mendel Hall at 12:30 for the afternoon tour.

The traditional refreshments and informal discussion with the speakers brought the evening to a close.

Civil Service Exams

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced new examinations for Engineering and Statistical Draftsman positions in Washington, D. C., and vicinity. The salaries for Engineering Draftsmen range from $2,960 to $6,390 a year; and for Statistical Draftsmen, from $2,960 to $4,525.

No written tests are required but applicants must have had appropriate experience or education, or a combination of education and experience. They must furnish a sample of their work.

Further information and application forms may be obtained at many post offices throughout the country, or from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C. Applications will be accepted in the Commission's office in Washington until further notice.

Chem Group, Physics Club Meet Tom'w

The joint membership of the Villanova Chemical Society and the Physics Club will meet tomorrow morning at 10:30 a.m. in 215 Mendel Hall to hear Mr. Joseph Gilligan, a prominent member of Villanova's Department of Biology, give a talk entitled "Catching up with the Human Race", or "Why go to College?" All freshman are especially urged to attend this meeting. All others are cordially invited.

Last Wednesday evening, Dr. Edgar E. Stinson, assistant professor of chemistry, spoke before a well attended meeting of the Villanova Chemical Society. The title of his talk was "Bio-chemistry as a Career". He defined biochemistry as "the chemistry of life".

Wonder Drug Research

Dr. Stinson, who has been teaching organic chemistry and biochemistry at Villanova since 1953, pointed out that biochemists are employed principally in food, paper, pharmaceutical concerns, hospitals and universities. He said that the development of many of our new wonder drugs could be traced to the research of biochemists.

Dr. Stinson also discussed the current research he is engaged in, "The Study of Nucleic Acids." Nucleic acids, which are found in the cells of organisms, are important because they may be involved, in some manner, in the formation of cancer. The composition and structure of the two different types of nucleic acids found in cells were discussed.

Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Senior Heads Pre-Law Group

A Pre-Law Society has been formed by the pre-law students in Commerce and Finance, purpose of which is to acquaint students who are interested in a legal profession with procedures of gaining admission to law schools and the intricacies of jurisprudence.

Mainly instrumental in the foundation of this pre-law society was Larry Fitzpatrick, a senior pre-law student from Frankford. He went through the proper channels and got the nucleus of the club together. Through the assistance of Jim Lemperas and Tom Morris a constitution was composed. Larry said he hoped enough interest would be generated among the sophomores and juniors to keep the club on the same plane as the Accounting Society and the Marketing Club.

New Officers

The officials of the new club are: Larry Fitzpatrick, president; Tom Morris, vice-president; Jack Decker, secretary; Bob Spatola, treasurer; and Bill Mowatt, liason officer.

In connection with the club, Villanova's law school announced that competitive scholarships are being offered for next year. They include three Dougherty Fellowships for free tuition, books, room and board; Prefect Grants, for a limited number, which grant room and board for prefectures; and fifteen tuition scholarships.

Frosh Beat Delaware, 28-6; Bullis Last Game of Season

Hopes for Villanova's football ffutre received a needed boost two weeks ago, when the fledglings of the Freshman team rolled to an impressive 28-6 victory over Delaware's Blue Hens, in a Goodreau Stadium contest played Nov. 4.

It was victory number five for the Frosh, who have yet to taste defeat. From the outset, it was evident that Villanova was in full control. Quarterback Jim Grazione passed, ran, and faked the Blue Hens into frustration.

JIM GRAZIONE

Paces Frosh to Victory

With just three minutes gone by in the initial stanza, Grazione lobbed to pass to halfback Rollie West. West then galloped thirty yards before he was knocked out of bounds a yard short of a touchdown. He carried for the score on the next play. The conversion was good also.

Three More Scores

Villanova scored three more times in the first half to complete their point total for the day. Little Bill Mallory intercepted a pass and scooted 49 for one of the TD's. West tromped eight for another, and Bill Bogely snuk around right end for the final tally. All three conversions were good.

Rollie West

Frosh coach Dave Di Filipo had his work cut out for him in the final half of the game. His main problem consisted of finding ball players to put into the game, because everyone was in for at least a few minutes during the game, as the 'Cats rolled to their fifth easy victory of the year.

Bullis Trophy Game

The Freshman team will play their final game of the year this Saturday when they take on the Navy team, Bullis Academy, for the Bullis Trophy Cup, which Villanova won last year. The game will be played at Goodreau Stadium.

Lack of Height And Rebounding Cage Problems

Lack of height and ability to get the ball will be the problems which face Villanova's varsity basketball team when they begin 1955-56 competition two weeks hence against King's College in the Field House. The game is scheduled for Friday night, Dec. 2nd.

The loss of last year's two great ballplayers, Bob Schafer and Jack Devine, will evidently hurt the chances of this year's squad, but it is hoped that the team, which is probably one of the fastest to be assembled at Villanova in a long while, will be able to offset the loss of Schafer and Devine with five able and aggressive ballplayers.

Smith Named Captain

Jim Smith, this year's team captain, will be perhaps the big gun in Villanova scoring hopes. He, along with Jack Weissman, Al Griffith, Jack Kelly, and John Cirino, will comprise the tentative starting club.

All five are good scoring threats, with Weissman, Smith and Griffith particularly capable from the outside. Kelly and Cirino, the tall men of the team, 6'4" and 6'3" respectively, will be relied upon to do the heavy work under the boards.

Rebounding Biggest Problem

Rebounding is the biggest problem which coach Al Severance has to contend with in molding this year's squad.

Big Jim Fahey and Tom Brennan, should they come along, will be an invaluable aid to the team's chances off the boards. Botm boys, Fahey, at 6'5", and Brennan, who stands 6'6", have yet to prove themselves worthy of a starting position, however.

Backcourt complements will by Larry Tierney, Bobby Powers, Marty Mulligan, Buck Haley, Mike Denci, who will also play inside Fred Van Osten, Al Severance, Jr., and Al Dunlap.

CAGE LEAGUES

The Intramural Department, expecting more teams than last year, will accept entries for the intramural basketball leagues until Tuesday at 2 p. m. Season opens Dec. 5.

Entry blanks are available in the Intramural office (112 Alumni).

Due to scheduling problems, the department warned that no late entries will be accepted. Six leagues have been planned, but more will be added if needed, the department said.

Wanted! Any enterprising freshman desiring a managerial job with a future. The job is that of basketball manager.

The only requirements are a scholastic schedule that contains only morning classes, and the desire to work. The reward is a varsity V in the manger's senior year. Any freshman interested should report to equipment manager Charley Farnum in the Field House any afternoon.

"Bad Breaks" Give Varsity Sixth and Seventh Losses

SPORTS CHATTER

Responsibility Is Yours

By BOB STRAYTON

Last Thursday night, the various deities of the Philadelphia basketball world assembled at the University of Pennsylvania's Physical Science building to discuss the problems connected with the application of the newly formed Intra-City League. The League, which is the first of its kind in any city in the United States, will consist of games played among the five major colleges of the Philadelphia area. The prize to be won by coming out on the top of the League will be a city championship title, and a silver cup to be awarded by the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Needless to say, competition will be more than strenuous among the competing factors — Villanova, Penn, LaSalle, St. Joseph's, and Temple. The concern of the basketball oracles who attended the aforementioned meeting, then, was with the effects of the competition upon all involved in the new tournament. Philadelphia Police Commissioner Thomas Gibbons, spoke very appropriately on the subject of gambling, and its evidently far-reaching effects on the League itself. Villanova's basketball mind, Al Severance, disserted upon the conduct of the players and the coaches. Both these men, and the numerous other speakers on the panel, asserted different viewpoints about the potentiality of the league, and the conduct of those concerned with it.

Penn Student Has Right Idea

Probably the youngest speaker on the panel ,however, came closer to the most important problem concerned with the League than any of the other speakers. Hugh Vaughn, the President of Penn's Undergraduate Government, commented on the conduct and attitudes of the undergraduate.

Vaughn's topic was regarded lightly by many of those present at the meeting. It seemed, to some of the assembled, worth but little consideration in view of the great many other solutions which had to be reached. But those gentlemen were wrong, because the conduct and the attitude of the undergraduate, that is, the spectator, is the primary pitfall in the sustinence of the League.

It is up to the spectator — the Villanova, Penn, LaSalle, Temple, and St. Joseph's rooter—to determine the longevity of Intra-city competition. He is the one who can make or break the League. As it stands now, the potential of such an innovation is phenomenal. Aside from making Philadelphia the basketball capital of the world, the League would also create the type of rivalries which are so desirable to students. But the possibility of both these things depend upon the cooperation of you, the reader; you, the sports fan; you, the sustainer or destroyer of this idealistic enterprise. The entire responsibility for the project is on your shoulders.

Penn-Villanova Rivalry Has Bitter Past

Naturally, the question would arise: Why is that so? The answer is obvious. The league will live or die according to your temperament at the ball games. The imaginary hatred which exists between the University of Pennsylvania and this Main Line institution would be a fine illustration of the problem. As always happens, the Palestra games which Villanova play are always preceded by a Penn debacle. Villanova students, probably for lack of something better to do, jeer the Bart Leaches and Joe Sturgiscs wearing the Red and Blue. Reciprocity naturally must be had, so the Penn fans in turn boo Villanova's aggregation when they take the court. Obviously this is not a healthy attitude, nor is it a desirable one. Nor is there one student who boos a local team that can honestly say why he does so. In the year's past,

(Continued on Page 10)

By Bob Mulcahy

Suffering an unending series of bad breaks and ill luck, Villanova's gridiron forces lost two more heartbreaking games in the past two weeks. The opposition's ability to cash in on Wildcat mistakes cost the 'Cats both games.

Last Friday's 6-0 loss to the Titans of Detroit was preceded by a 16-13 setback at the hands of Florida State's Seminoles. Both games were hard fought and the Mainliners deserved better fate.

In the Detroit game Villanova's Dave Parr actually crossed the goal line on a 23 yard run, but one of the officials ruled that his knee had touched the ground on the 19. This drive started when Rick Sapienza intercepted a Titan pass on the home teams 27.

51Yd. Drive Halted

In the waning moments of the first half Villanova organized a sustained march of 51 yards featuring the passing of Sophomore quarterback Bill Magee. Two 20 yard passes gave the Mainliners a first down on the seven, but the drive was halted by a stiff Detroit forward wall which tackled Parr on the two on last down.

DAVEY PARR

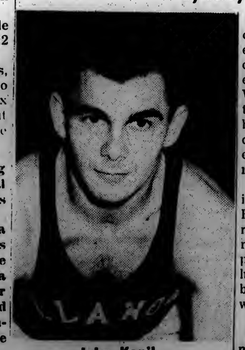
The big break of the game came right after the opening of the second half. Sapienza's punt was partially blocked and Detroit had the ball deep in Wildcat territory. This break was quickly converted into a touchdown which ultimately provided the margin of difference.

Bauer Leads Way



Led by the running of John Bauer, Villanova drove to Detroit's 34 in one last attempt, but there they stalled and the Titans ran out the clock. Bright spots in the darkness of defeat were the punting of Sapienza, the running of Parr and Bauer, the quarterbacking of Magee, and the determined play of the line which made two goal line stands.

In the Florida State game Villanova deserved a better fate. Leading 13-9 early in the last stanza the 'Cats made another great line holding the Seminoles for four downs inside the five yard line. On the first play guard Paul Bagget broke through the line and stole the ball from quarterback Magee.

This followed a 64 yard touchdown jaunt by Magee with a intercepted pass which had put Villanova in the lead. The 'Cats other touchdown was the result of a 61 yard drive engineered by John Ferruolo and the running of Bauer and John Devereax. Parr then scored from the one on a off tackle slant.

Harriers Beat Quantico; End Season Undefeated

By Jerry Hogan

John Kopil

On Saturday, Nov. 5, before one of the largest home crowds ever to witness a Villanova cross-country meet, Alex Breckenridge and Ron Delany, the Wildcats victory twins", lead the harriers to their first unbeaten season in 25 years of dual and triangular meets, by edging out the Quantico Marine runners, 22-23.

As far as the race itself went, it was the same old story for Ron and Alex. At the first half mile mark, the entire pack was running together. By the mile-post, Breckenridge and Delany had pulled away to a slight lead, but were still challenged by the whole pack.

Draw Away

At the two and half mile marker, however, it was a dif-

(Continued on Page 10)

Houston and Dayton Games End Season

Villanova has just two chances remaining for another victory in the 1955 football campaign. The first of these chances will come on Saturday afternoon, when the 'Cats venture to Texas for a contest against Houston. Dayton will provide the finale for the season when it meets Villanova's team on Sunday, November 27th.

The hapless Wildcats, who have had more bad breaks than they have ballplayers, are still smarting from their two most recent losses, to Florida State and Detroit. The controversial outcomes of both those encounters could have equally controversial repercussions on the "hard luck" club in its forthcoming contests.

Beat 'Cats Last Year

Houston, which just last week end suffered expected defeat at the hands of powerful Ole Miss, 27-11, will be hoping for a repeat performance of last year's Villanova engagement, when it shellacked the 'Cats, 28-7, before 55,000 Acme customers at Municipal Stadium.

This year, the Texans are not so potent as they were last season, nor are the Wildcats nearly so defenseless. For the optimistic, there is hope for victory number two for the luckless Main Liners, should they be able to overcome the ill effects of their past encounters.

Flyers Not Potent

Dayton, a minor mid-western power, from Ohio, should pose no problem to Villanova. The Flyers are well known to the sports world, but only on the strength of their basketball achievements. To date, the Flyers have won only two of their grid contests. They have five set-backs. The game will be the conclusion of football activity for bth teams this year.

Palestra Dates, Ticket Data

STUDENT SEASON TICKETS:

A student season ticket book containing coupons for the number of games in which each school will participate in the Palestra program will be offered at a discount as follows:

LaSalle
14 at 50c — to sell for $5.00
Pennsylvania
14 at 50c — to sell for $5.00
St. Joseph's
16 at 50c — to sell for $6.00
Temple
13 at 50c — to sell for $4.50
VILLANOVA
16 at 50c — to sell for $6.00
(Savings of $2.00)

Each coupon in the book must be exchanged for a reserved seat $2.50 ticket) at the Student's regular ticket outlet prior to the game.

Villanova Doubleheaders at Palestra

DEC. 7
Villanova vs St. Francis
Loretto
Temple vs Gettysburg
DEC. 9
Villanova vs Niagara
St. Joe's vs George Wash.
DEC. 14
Villanova vs St. Joe's
LaSalle vs Lafayette
DEC. 17
Villanova vs Duke
Temple vs Princeton

SPORTS CHATTER

Responsibility Is Yours

By BOB STRAYTON

(Continued from Page 9)

it certainly couldn't be because we didn't want to see Penn games. For them, the past few years have been disastrous, while we have been enjoying the best of cage health.

Then why do the students persist in booing? Probably, as has already been mentioned, because they lack better things to do while waiting for the Villanova game to get underway. Yet wouldn't it be just as easy for Villanova fans to cheer the Penn teams? Certainly it would make for a more amicable relationship than exists at present.

Closer Relations This Year

But the question of booing another local team is just one facet of the problem of student attitude. This year, with the formation of the League, our relations with Penn, LaSalle, St. Joseph's and Temple will be much closer than in the past, for the simple reason that we play all of these teams at one time or another during the course of the season. The tension during these games will be heightened to a great degree because of the more personal contact which we will have with these schools. And human nature being what it is, if we don't win one of these ball games one way, then we'll attempt to win it, or at least assert our superiority, in another way. Insults or fisticuffs will result, and the Palestra will become Bedlam. Nothing, absolutely nothing, will hasten the demise of the Intra-City League more rapidly than those two things.

Therefore it is up to us, the spectators, to assume full responsibility for the proceeding of the game. Riots, fights, and general cain-raising aren't going to give a team a debit to the victory side of the ledger. As college students, we are supposed to have some degree of maturity and logic about us. Resorting to the crudeness of fights and vitriolic comments about our opponents will only flaunt the opposing characteristics.

Can Be Traditional As Army-Navy Fame

This league can be a wonderful thing, and can develop into rivalries which can be as traditional as an Army-Navy game. But it takes time, and it will not have time if we, the spectators, hasten it to an unnatural end with our childish displays.

Naturally, it is going to hurt us to lose a ball game. But how many games have you been to when your team lost? Probably a great many. The transiency of the bitterness of defeat is a fleeting thing, and chances are you will have forgotten the sting of losing a ball game by the time you reach the post-game party, or the 32nd street "El." Therefore, we should strive sincerely to gain the right attitude about our forthcoming intra-city games. We should realize when we lose that we have lost before, and that we will lose again. We should realize also that our actions are being watched throughout the area, on television, and throughout the country, in the newspaper.

Success or failure of this enterprise depends upon you, the spectator. You are wholly responsible for the outcome of the League—as an enjoyable source of rivalry, or as a disgrace to Philadelphia. Remember that, and everyone will gain.

Forget it, and we'll all have a hard time living it down!

Harriers

(Continued from Page 9)

ferent story, as the two British Isles representatives just kept plodding along and outdistancing everyone. John Kopil, another teammate, was the only one within the distance to make a bid by the three-quarter pole.

As they floated down to the wire, Ron and Alex were matching each other stride for stride. Within a few yards of the finish line, each reached a hand across to the other and came across the tape hand-in-hand, for a dead heat. Their race was the best one run over Villanova's course this season. The clocking for the difficult 5¼ mile distance was a fine 27:15.5.

Kopil Third

John Kopil was third in 28:09.4, and ran a fine race. Bill Taylor, the first Quantico harrier to cross the line, came in fourth with a 28:20.4 time. He was followed by two of his teammates, Jack Gits (5), and Don Ziehl (6). George Brown placed seventh for Villanova, and Bill Rock, an ex-Villanovan now running for Quantico, was right behind him.

STUDENT GRID LOOPS CONCLUDE:

Final Week of Intramurals Begins; Leagues Get Tough

With only one more week remaining in intramural football competition, 'Ole man Upset" has been having a field day. League leaders are being knocked from first place positions, and the lesser teams have been coming to life. In some of the more important games throughout the league last week:

Delta Pi Mu fraternity, of the late Mendel loop, was finally defeated last Wednesday by the Delta Pi Epsilon club. DPM is now 4-1, while DPE sports a similar slate, for a tie in league standings.

Dropsy Attack

The DPM team, which had previously beaten their adversaries, were hampered by a seige of fumbilitis, while the C&F boys hawked every play. The game was scoreless at the end of the first half, with neither team showing any potency.

In the second half, however, the DPE team took command of the game. They drove deep into DPM territory a number of times, only to have their attack bog down just short of the goal line. Finally, with about 3 minutes gone in the final stanza, DPM had possession on their own five. Quarterback Mike Klesius threw a flat pass intended for Don Couig, but it was intercepted by "Reds" Reynolds, who sauntered across the goal line for the only scoring of the day. The final score was 6-0 when the point attempt was missed.

DPE	0	0	0	6—6
DPM	0	0	0	0—0

Saints Spray Roaches

In the morning Mendel league, the Saints retained their first place position by edging out the Roaches, 13-0, in a tough contest. The Saints are now 4-1 in league play.

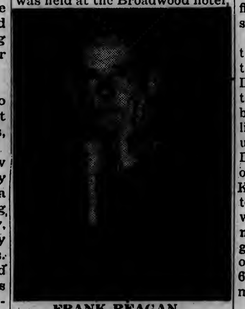
In the opening minutes of the first half, the Saints had had a sustained drive down deep into the Roaches territory. With the ball on the thirty, Dick Montgomery, Saint halfback, took the ball from center and picked up some fine blocking from guards John O'Connell and Joe Colitz to make the trek for a touchdown. The conversion attempt was no good, and the score stood 6 and 0 when the halftime ended.

Late in the second half, the Saints added an insurance touchdown when quarterback Ralph DiCicco pitched an eight yard aerial for the score. Montgomery caught the pass. The point was also made. The only Roach threat came when Captain Marty Roach led his team to the Saint goal line, where the stout forward wall of the winners held for four downs.

Saints	6	0	0	7—13
Roaches	0	0	0	0— 0

The Roaches dropped from undisputed possession of first place out of league contention last week with a loss to the opposers, 2-0, in a game played in the 10:30 Mendel league.

The only score in the ball game came when a bad pass from center dropped dead in the end zone for a safety for the Crusaders, early in the third period.



In another game played last week, the Roaches also lost to the Saints (see recap in the section).

Roaches	0	0	0	0—0
Opposers	0	0	2	0—2

Alumni Club To Honor Reagan, Team At Banquet

The Villanova Club of Philadelphia, this area's Alumni organization, has scheduled its 34th annual football banquet, to be held on Monday, Dec. 5, at the Penn-Sherwood Hotel in Philadelphia, Joseph Sanborn, the Club's president, announced last week.

The banquet, which is held annually is for the purpose of honoring Villanova's coaches and football team, is exclusively an Alumni affair. Last year, the dinner and program of events was held at the Broadwood hotel.

FRANK REAGAN
To Be Feted by Alumni

also in Philadelphia.

Walter T. Huber, who graduated from the Villanova School of Engineering in 1945, has been named chairman of the affair. He has been a member of the football banquet committee for several years, and is active in affairs of the Philadelphia Club. Huber is a native of Philadelphia, and is employed by the Johns-Manville Sales Corporation as a sales representative.

Other members of the committee include: Charles Rodden, arrangements; William Dwyer, tickets; Thomas Conboy, patron chairman; Thomas Stevens, Jr., program chairman; Joseph Costello, invited guests chairman; G. L. Lee, awards; and James F. Haughton, publicity chairman.

"Didn't Begin Running Until Last Year Of High School;" Villanova Star Now

Since World War II Jumbo Jim Elliott's days have been made easier by the importation of various Irish athletes. Jim Reardon was the first to arrive, back in 1948. John Joe Barry and Cummin Clancy followed in 1950 and the popular Ronald Michael Delany, a fine broth of a lad, appeared last year.

Ron's running must be said to come naturally; his springy stride and carefree manner are typical of the Delany way. His father was a champion cross-country runner, his sister plays tennis and hockey and brother Joe is a terrific track man in his own right.

Ron didn't begin to run until he was 17, but at 18 he won the schools and college half-mile championship in the impressive time of 1:58.7.

Impressed by Dwyer

Two factors were instrumental in bringing Delany to Villanova. He wanted to continue his studies under the Augustinian fathers, who had taught him at home, and he was impressed by Freddie Dwyer, Villanova's prominent miler who was touring Europe the summer previous to Delany's matriculation here.

In his first year of cross-country Ron competed against 199 other frosh at Van Cortland Park in New York and won the 3-mile test in 14:53.5 His closest rival was 75 yards away.

Ran 4:05.9 Mile

Last winter Harry Bright, Tom Courtney and others of repute chased Delany's flying spikes but didn't catch him in his first 1,000 yard venture on the boards in Boston. The next week in Philadelphia, on his 20th birthday, he won the John Borican 1,000 yard run, again beating Courtney.

After his great times as a frosh in cross country and middle distances, it was thought that Ron might run a respectable mile. At home last summer he ran his first competitive mile in 4:05.9. Many coaches think that if Ron would concentrate on the mile, he would break four minutes.

Ron's many backers in Ireland, have been booming him as a one-man representative for the Irish people in the 1956 Olympics.

Tom Curran

Membership Of Dramatic Frat Grows

Seven new members were admitted to Lambda Pi, the Villanova Cast of the National Honorary Dramatic Fraternity, Alpha Psi Omega. They were Charles Brockman, Andrew Iaccarino, Paul Gormely, John Lavery, Joe Chinnici, Stan McGeehan and Jim Judge.

At a recent meeting Tom Curran was elected president to succeed Walt Doyle, and Larry Kirwin succeeded Joe Blimm as secretary.

Strict Ritual

A strict pledging ritual was followed at this meeting as Walt Doyle and Jake Krupa introduced the candidates to the constitution and by-laws of the organization.

Initiation of the pledges included the memorizing of a selection from Shakespeare and the wearing of "regs" consisting of a blue and amber string tie. The choosing of the pledges is based on a point system involving achievement in dramatics and associated fields.

Future plans of the organization, moderated by Father William H. Krupa, O.S.A., include expanding the scope of selection of members to include those active in Turf and Tinsel and WVIL as well as Belle Masque.

Law Student O'Hara LaSalle Coaching Aide

Frank O'Hara, co-captain of LaSalle College's 1954 NCAA champions and a member of the Explorers 1952 NIT title holders, has been named coaching aide to LaSalle basketball mentor Jim Pollard, it was announced today by James J. Henry, director of athletics.

A 1954 honor graduate O'Hara will be in charge of scouting of all 1955-56 Explorer opponents and also handle the coaching duties of the freshmen team when varsity and frosh schedules conflict.

The 5:09 durable guard and playmaker saw action in 88 of 90 games during his days at LaSalle, missing only two as a sophomore. The speed wizard had his best year as a senior, scoring 289 points for a 9.6 average and collaring 111 rebounds.

O'Hara, 23, recently married the former Jean Mattis, and is now in his second year of law school at VILLANOVA UNIVERSITY.

Law School Bar Association Gets ASLA Recognition

Official recognition was accorded the Villanova Student Bar Association last week by the American Law School Association, which congratulated the newly elected officers and promised to give the Villanova Student Bar an active role in future activities of the ALSA.

The Executive Board of the SBA unanimously passed a resolution commending Miss Geraci, former Registrar of the School of Law, for her fine work and thanking her for her many efforts on behalf of the Student Bar Association.

A copy of this resolution was forwarded to Miss Geraci.

Mr. Maurice P. Shea, III, a third year student serving his second term on the Board, was selected by the Honor Board as Chief Justice of its court.

Orphan's Project

(Continued from Page 1)

Mendel Hall will be available for students who need it. Buses will take off around 9 a.m. Dec. 10 for the Home, where Villanovans will meet the 300 kids they will "take on the town".

On to Toyland

After lunch at Horn and Hardart restaurants in center city Philadelphia, the boys will be allowed to roam through toylands of the big department stores under the supervision of their "escorts for the day".

Then it's on to the Commodore Theatre for a special show and back to the home afterwards.

Boruch urged all Villanovans to sign up to take out an orphan. He said that for last year's outing some students had to escort two kids and the juniors are anxious for the same situation not to crop up again.

Everyone Welcome

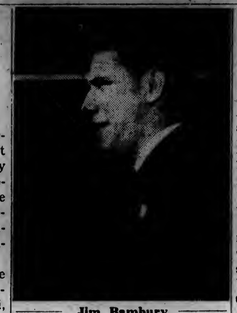
Students who plan to travel by car may go directly to the home. All students, including men in the law school, fifth year NROTC engineers and co-eds, may sign up as escorts, Boruch made clear.

Funds to cover the party Dec. 13 will be collected in religion sections after Thanksgiving, according to party chairman Tim Kennedy.

Entertainment planned for the party includes a skit by a group of football players, showing of movies of Wildcat grid games and an appearance by a footballer in Santa Claus regalia.

Any students who want to work on the party should contact Kennedy or Odabash. The party is open to the orphans' committee and entainers.

Arts Students



(Continued from Page 1)

sidy, marketing; Charlie Conde, finance; Phil Keane, marketing; Dick Peer, economics; Paul Porreca, economics; Bernie Steinfelt, economics, and Henry Whalen, economics.

From the Engineering School: John Downing, EE; Ed Ernst, ME; Jack Gilfillan, Ch. E; Walt Gould, CE; Paul Menz, ME; Tom Mullen, EE, and Dick Schleicher, ME.

Bob Connor is the pre-med representative.

A jazz concert will be held in the Rosemont tea house this Sunday afternoon from two to five.

Jim Bambury

Senior Prom Patron Drive Is Planned

Between Thanksgiving and Christmas Jim Bambury, program chairman for the upcoming Belle Air Ball on Jan. 13, will be contacting the student body to solicit the names of patrons for inclusion in the prom program. One dollar will make you and your date a patron.

Bambury joins the prom co-chairmen Dave Burns and Paul Menz and the chairmen of the other committees in preparation for the last prom to be sponsored by the class of '56.

Decorations Ambitious

Favors will be the responsibility of John Henry, and Phil Butler will direct the decoration of the Field House. Butler has said that the decorations will be colorful and elaborate.

Bernie Steinfelt is refreshments chairman.

Further assisting Burns and Menz are Joe Schultz, Bill Mannix, and Fred Onorato.

Both Bambury and Butler have been active in class projects before and Paul Menz was class-vice president last year.

A reminder is given to the underclassmen that the prom is open to the members of all classes.

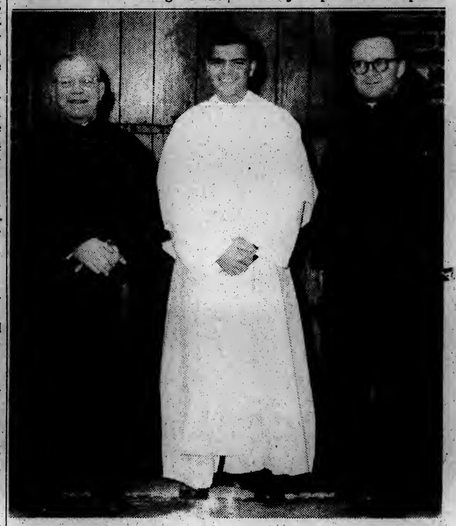
Price of tickets will be announced later.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Frank Hartmann Received By Augustinian Novitiate

Frank Hartmann, former president of the senior class, was received into the Augustinian Novitiate in New Hamburg, New York, in ceremonies held late last month in the Staten Island Augustinian Academy.

Hartmann was one of eight novices involved in the reception, which was attended by Rev. Joseph E. Greenlee, O.S.A., Prior Provincial, and Rev. John J. Curran, O.S.A., University procurator.



Father Greenlee presided over the reception ceremony, following the reception Mass said by Rev. Edward Stanford, former president of Villanova and now principal of Archbishop Carroll High School in Washington, D. C.

Vested in White

The actual reception ceremony consisted in the vesting of the ex-Postulant in the white habit worn by all Augustinian novices. Father Greenlee gave a short talk on the meaning of the novitate year, followed by Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Prior to the actual investiture, the novices undergo an interrogation period which is designed to bring out their capabilities. Then they remove their coats and lie prostrate before the altar during the singing of the "Veni Creator", before the investiture begins.

Hartmann, from nearby Glenside, Pa., entered the Staten Island Academy late in August to await and prepare for reception into the novitiate, where he will remain for a year and a day exactly. He made an eight-day retreat just prior to reception.

FRANK HARTMANN, former President of this year's senior class, poses with Rev. Fathers Joseph Greenlee, O. S. A., Prior Provincial, and John J. Curran after reception into the Augustinian novitiate in New Hamburg, N. Y.

English Department Sets Up Sections In Composition For 'Advanced' Frosh

Recognizing the existing need, the Department of English has inaugurated a division of university freshmen into "advanced" and "average" sections of English composition. Instead of placing all freshmen students in English Composition 101 and 102, regardless of ability and high school background, as in previous years, the department has set up a course known as Advanced English Composition 103 and 104. This is intended for those students who would profit by an accelerated course in English Composition.

Mr. Jerome J. Fischer, the coordinator of freshman English, emphasized that the new freshman English program is now merely in the experimental stage and is being conducted on a limited scale. The beginning of a broader plan, the program will be expanded if successful.

Five Advanced—39 Regular

This year there are five sections of Advanced English Composition 103 and 104 as compared with thirty-nine sections of English 101 and 102. "The purpose of this experiment," said Mr. Fischer, "is to divide the incoming freshmen class into two groups in order to separate the students who have the acceptably adequate background in basic grammar and mechanics of the language from those who do not have this background." The selection of those taking the advanced course was made this summer on the basis of College Entrance Board Examinations as well as general achievement and background in high school.

Mr. Fischer

The difference between the advanced course and the regular freshmen English course lies in the accelerated pace and the greater proportion of time devoted to composition in the advanced course.

(Continued on Page 12)

Campus News

ASTRONOMY CLUB

A regular schedule for evening observations in Mendel Observatory is a new project of the Astronomy Club, according to Rev. Edward Jenkins, O.S.A., club moderator. Plans for the new schedule will be formulated at the meeting at 7:15 tomorrow night in the Ch. E. building.

Those interested in the project are urged to attend this very important meeting.

WVIL

The name of that lonely voice emanating from WVIL every weekday night at 10:45 is that of Miss Jill Corey, the star of the Old Gold Filter King Show.

Jill, a Columbia recording star, was discovered by Dave Garroway and went on from success on his former show to become a hit in the record business.

Jill's WVIL show is on a strictly informal basis, with music on the sentimental side.

WVIL is one of only 20 college radio stations throughout the nation which have obtained the show as a regular program.

The staff of the VILLANOVAN expresses its sympathy to Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, on the death Friday of his 97-year-old father. Cardinal Spellman became an honorary alumnus of Villanova Sept. 22.

LIBRARY-FACULTY COMMITTEE

The President, Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A. has appointed three new members to the Library Faculty committee. They are Sister M. Margarella, O.S.F., M.S.N.E. of the Nursing School; Charles P. Bruderle, M.A. of the History Department and Edward J. Monahan, Ph.D of the Philosophy Department.

New Ticket Plan

The new director of publicity, Jim Gallo, announced last week that a new ticket plan would be employed for the coming basketball season at the Palestra.

A student season ticket book containing coupons for the games in which Villanova will participate in the Palestra program will be offered at a discount of $2. Sixteen games will be played by the Cats under the new City Series set-up. Single game tickets will sell for fifty cents.

Each group in the book must be exchanged for a reserved seat ticket at the Field House prior to the game. As in previous years, ticket sales at the Field House will close at 12 noon the day of the game.

Season books will be on sale until Dec. 1.

English Dept.

(Continued from Page 11)

Entire Semester

In 101 the entire first semester is devoted to grammar and mechanics, and the second semester to the various types of composition, whereas in the new course a rapid review of grammar and mechanics is completed in about five weeks, allowing the rest of the time to be devoted to the techniques of composition. The first semester is devoted to description and narration and the second to exposition and argumentation.

The aim of this advanced course, according to Mr. Fischer, is "not to teach the students (in the advanced course) materials beyond those the students on the lower level are getting but to intensify what they are getting and help him to do more with it. Accordingly it concerns itself with more ambitious projects in the organization of thought in 'quantitative' writing and with developing whatever latent stylistic capabilities the student has. The purpose of the course may be said to be: "to teach the art of written and spoken expression."

Law School

On Friday afternoon Villanova Law School will meet Rutgers Law School in the first round of the annual Regional Moot Court Competition. They will be seeking a berth in the national contest to be held next month in New York.

Who's Who Histories

(Continued from Page 7)

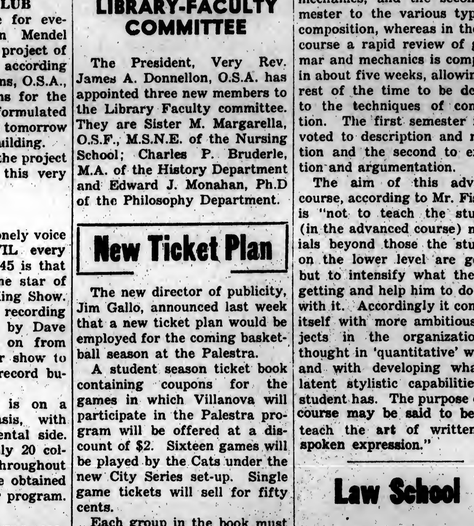
Team 1, 2, 3, 4; Villanova Rifle and Pistol Club 2, 3, 4; secretary-treasurer 3; ASME 2, 3, 4; SAE 3, 4: SAME 4; PKP 2, 3, 4; Sanctuary Society I, 2, 3, 4; Belle Air 1, 2, 3, Associate Editor 4; Villanovan I, 2, 3, 4, Photography Editor 3; Villanova Engineer I, 2, Photography Editor 3, 4: Physics Club 2, 3.

CHARLES F. SCHWERDTFEGER . . West Catholic High School, Berwyn, Pa., B.S. in Physics. Activities: Physics Club 2, 3, President 4; Villanova Chemical Society 3, 4; Math Club 1, 3; MendelBulletin 4; VillaNovan 4; Astronomy Club 2.

JAMES A. SMITH . . West Catholic High School, Philadelphia, Pa., B.A. in Philosophy. Activities: Varsity Basketball 2, 3, 4; Intramurals 1, 2, 3, 4; Varsity Club 3, 4; Astrronomy Club 3.

BERNARD F. STEINFELT . . . York Catholic High School, York, Pa., B.S. in Economics. Activities:: Marching Band 1; DPE 2, 3, 4; Co-Chairman of Orientation Committee 2; Co-Chairman of Orphans Committee; President of Class 2; Steering Committee 3, 4; Junior Prom Committee; Spanish Club 1, 2; Student Council 2; Turf & Tinsel 2; Spirit Committee 2; NFCCS 1; Sanctuary Society 4.

PHILIP A. TADDEO . . Radnor High School, St. Davids, Pa., B.A., Activities: Marching Band 1, 2, 3, 4; Concert Band 1, 2, 3, 4; Student Council; 1, 2; Orientation Committee 2, 3; DPM 2, 3, V. President 4; IRS 2, 3, President 4; ICG 3, 4; Belle-Air Typing Editor 4; Mother's Day Co-Chairman Spirit Committee 2, 3, 4.

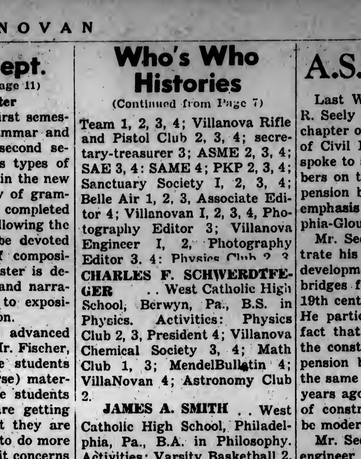


HENRY J. WHALEN . . West Catholic High School, Drexel Hill, Pa., B.S. in Economics. Activities: Spanish Club 2; Marketing Club 2, 3, 4; Student Council 3, 4; Steering Committee 3, 4; Registration Committee 3, 4; BusinessWhirl 3; Asst. Editor 4; Orphans Committee, President - Student Committee 4; Junior Prom Committee.

A.S.C.E. Meet

Last Wednesday, Mr. Homer R. Seely spoke to the Villanova chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers. Mr. Seely spoke to approximately 85 members on the construction of suspension bridges, with particular emphasis on the new Philadelphia-Gloucester Bridge.

Mr. Seely uses slides to illustrate his talk, which traced the development of suspension bridges from the middle of the 19th century to the present day. He particularly emphasized the fact that the principles used in the construction of modern suspension bridges are essentially the same today as they were 100 years ago and only the methods of construction have needed to be modernized.



Mr. Seely is presently project engineer on the Philadelphia-Gloucester Bride for the consulting firm of Modjeski and Masters.

All the pleasure comes thru in Filter Tip Tareyton. You get the full, rich taste of Tareyton's quality tobaccos in a filter cigarette that smokes milder, smokes smoother, draws easier . . . the only filter cigarette with a genuine cork tip.

Tareyton's filter is pearl-gray because it contains Activated Charcoal for real filtration. Activated Charcoal is used to purify air, water, foods and beverages, so you can appreciate its importance in a filter cigarette. Yes, Filter Tip Tareyton is the filter cigarette that really filters, that you can really taste...and the taste is great!

All the pleasure comes thru
...THE TASTE IS GREAT!

© A. T. CO.

THE BEST IN FILTERED SMOKING

FILTER TIP TAREYTON

Villanovan

Vol. 30—No. 7 Villanova Univ., Villanova, Pa. December 6, 1955

Annual Orphans' Outing, Charity Ball Saturday

Dance Set In Field House, 9-1

The Charity Ball, the bargain dance of the year on the Villanova campus, takes over the Field House Saturday night from 9 till 1 as the University's Junior Class sponsors the second phase of the orphans' project.

Two bands and the possiblity of a big name singer appearing during the affair are in store for dance-goers.

Harry Yaekel and his band will provide music for dancing and Bob Schiller and his group will take over the bandstand during intermission.

Host for the Ball is Jack Erdlen, a comedian who made quite a hit during last year's Variety Show sponsored by the local chapter of the National Federation of Catholic College Students.

Dance officials hinted last week that a popular singer appearing in the Philadelphia area may perform in a guest spot.

A $30 gift certificate will be given away as a door prize. Attendance at the drawing is not necessary to be eligible for winning. The winner's name will be posted Monday on the Mendel and Pie Shoppe bulletin boards.

Tickets, priced at $1 a couple, will be on sale in the Pie Shoppe and will be peddled around residence halls by junior salesmen.

Mike Boruch & "Johnnie"

Villanovans Fete S-J's Youngsters

Villanovans get a chance Saturday to try their skill at maneuvering through toylands as the University's Junior Class puts on the annual pre-Christmas Outing for the boys at St. John's Home.

All students, including co-eds and law school students, may sign up to take out the 300-ormore Johnnies who'll be waiting with shy smiles down at 47th and Wyalusing Streets.

Here's the lineup of the day's events:

8:30 a.m.--Buses leave from behind Mendel Hall for students who need transportation.

9:15--Johnnies and their escorts proceed to Center City Philadelphia via PTC or the escorts' transportation.

11:30-1--Lunch at Horn and Hardart (15th and Market Streets).

1 p.m.--Shopping tour through downtown toylands, with frequent stops at Santa's chair.

2:15--Movie at Commodore Theater (43rd and Walnut Streets).

5:00--Johnnies, carrying momentos of the outing and Villanovans, dragging weary feet, return to St. John's.

Sign up sheets for day hops are set up in the Pie Shoppe and Chaplain's office. Residents will be contacted by juniors who will canvass halls.

(Continued on Page 11)

No More Lines?

Dougherty Hall's Facilities to Open After Holidays

All the facilities of Dougherty Hall, including the resident dining hall and day hop cafeteria, will be available for student use immediately following the Christmas recess.

The announcement was made by Rev. Edward M. Dwyer, O.S.A., Dean of the University, during the first student assembly of the year last week in the Field House.

Father Dwyer, speaking for University procurator Rev. John J. Curran, O.S.A., emphasized the desirability of proper student behavior in the new building, which is ultra-modern in every respect and serves almost every facet of campus life.

The resident dining hall will be available to resident students only. The cafeteria, primarily for the use of the day student, will be opened until 11 in the evening.

The facilities of Dougherty were originally to have been available for use in September, but a strike of a kitchen workers union delayed the official and complete opening.

Father Dwyer added that card playing and lounging in the day hop cafeteria will not be tolerated. He said the Pie Shoppe will remain in operation.

Dougherty also houses the

(Continued on Page 11)

Seniors' Ban On Weekends Is Removed

The lone proposal accepted by the University's Board of Discipline--the lifting of curfew restrictions on seniors over weekends—has been returned to the President's Committee of Students.

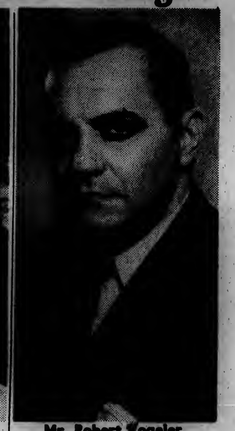
The Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A. University President, reported acceptance of the proposal at the group's second meeting with the Father President last Thursday.

Lifting of curfew restrictions was one of four proposals passed on to the Board of Discipline after the President's Committee met Oct. 27 for the first time.

Turned down by the Board were these suggestions:

Formal opening dinner for members of the senior class and Student Council in the new Dougherty Hall dining facilities.

A small center lounge being



(Continued on Page 11)

Ex-Commie Prisoner:

VU Forum Reactivated; Robert Vogeler First Speaker, 8:30 Tonight

Mr. Charles Bruderle
Forum Chairman

Mr. Robert Vogeler
Forum Speaker

A former prisoner of the Communists, Robert A. Vogeler, will usher in the return of the Villanova Forum tonight at 8:30 o'clock in C & F Auditorium

Title of his talk will be "Behind the Iron Curtain". Admission is free and the lecture is open to students and the public.

He will detail an account of his arrest, detention, interrogation, including the methods used by the Communists in "brain washing". The treatment of witnesses and the techniques of a Communist trial will be described and incidents and examples of life in a Communist prison will be given.

Reds Throw Book

On his arrest in November 1949, Vogeler was charged with espionage, sabotage, conspiracy to overthrow the Hungarian Communist goverment and smuggling Hungarian citizens out of the country.

He was tried by a Communist court and sentenced to 15 years of solitary confinement. In April 1951 he was released and returned immediately to the United States, and he has lectured in over 500 cities since then.

Engineer & Business Man

Volgeler, 44, was born in New York City and received degrees in business administration and mechanical engineering from MIT after resigning his appointment to the United States Naval Academy because of ill health.

His religious affiliation is Episcopalian and he is a Republican.

The Villanova Forum is being reactivated after being dissolved during the fall semester of 1953.

Its reactivation was ordered by Father President and is receiving adminstration support in its return to campus life.

By University Spirit Committee:

Student Spirit Lethargy Hit

Poor Houston Rally Turnout Is Pinpointed

By Tom Smith

Incrensed by a poor turnout at the season's last football pep rally, the University's spirit committee has blasted students and football players.

In a letter to students, the committee criticized the attitude at the rally before the Houston defeat and opened a spirit committee meeting tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. in Barry Hall Library to any complaints, criticisms and rebuttals which students may have to the charges.

". . .Was the true spirit of Villanova shown when less than 1/6 (less than 200) showed up? This proved to be a 'morale buster' rather than a rally . . .

(Continued on Page 6)

Villanova Athletic Director Bud Dudley signs the contract to telecast basketball from the Palestra. Thirty games involving the "Big Five" teams will be telecast over WPFH-TV (Channel 12). Paul F. Harron, president of WPFH, looks on.

Outlooks of the Editor

A NEW CHALLENGE

The announcement that the facilities of Dougherty Hall will be fully available for student use immediately following Christmas recess brings with it more than mere good tidings.

The announcement also conveys to each and every member of the student body a distinct challenge.

That challenge concerns itself simply enough with two factors: first, a building that in all its aspects is an outstanding credit to the University; and, secondly, the standard of behavior that should and must be maintained by the student body in its use.

Dougherty Hall in function, design and beauty offers every advantage: comfort, dining convenience, organizational efficiency in the best surroundings, places of relaxation, availability of various services and various products. We all realize that what we have in Dougherty Hall is what we have needed for a long time and is something of which we should be extremely proud.

We must show our pride and prove our manliness by respecting the building in every way possible. There should have to be no stringent policing and no constant reminding of proper behavior therein.

With new privileges and finer facilities comes an added responsibility. It is a responsibility that we cannot overlook in justice to ourselves and the University.

A "NEW LIFE"

It is certainly gratifying to see the Villanova Forum reactivated with such vigor, and making its reappearance with such a front line speaker. Father President's decision to resurrect a project that has been defunct for two years adds no little to the scholarly atmosphere that must make itself felt here at Villanova.

Mr. Charles Bruderle, chairman of the forum, is also to be congratulated. The success of the undertaking depends mainly on student and faculty reaction, which could hardly be lethargic in the face of such a prominent speaker as Robert Vogeler.

Villanovan

Villanova University Villanova, Pa.
Henry C. Nash III
Editor-in-Chief

Tom Smith ..... Managing Editor
Bill Jones ..... Feature Editor
Frank Delony ..... News Editor
Jack Sternberg, ... Copy Editors
Bill Bowen ..... Copy Editors
Steve Bernacco ..... Business Manager
Bob Ford ..... Business Manager
Bob Stranton ..... Sports Editors
Sig Meltz ..... Sports Editors
Joe Enerski ..... Photography Editors
Nick Podano ..... Circulation Mgr.

Faculty Advisor
Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Scholar, Gentleman, Athlete.
LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1920, under the act of March 3, 1879.

MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE PRESS ASSOCIATION

CAMPUS LIFE BY CARTOON

Basketball game????? ... I thought this was the chow hall!!!

A Student's Observations:

The Near East: A Political Hotbed

By JOHN EDDINGER

Most recently our attention in world affairs has been focused upon the Far East, Western Europe, and Group Captain Peter Townsend. These items are not trivial by any means, but while Eastern and Western diplomats are slapping each other on the back and attending parties in the "spirit of Geneva", a serious crisis is being somewhat underestimated in the Holy Land. Intermittent outbursts have been occuring in this area since the creation of the Israeli state in 1947.

This area is fertile ground for exploitation by Soviet Russia, and the Russians have been taking full advantage of the situation by openly encouraging warfare between Israeli and the Arab States. Just recently a shipment of modern arms manufactured in Communist Czecholsovokia has been sent to Egypt. This arms shipment tends to alter the entire military balance in this area.

With the promised tanks, jet aircraft and other heavy equipment, the Egyptians might be able to overrun Israel with sheer mass—weight of numbers and armament. Although she is heavily outnumbered by the Arab countries along her borders, Israel is far from outclassed. She has, by far, the finest fighting machine in that area. If war breaks out, the Israeli army can mobilize a force of 250,000 skilled and well-armed troops within 48 hours. Israel has approximately 50,000 men and women in active service with 200,000 in immediate reserve. The army has an undisclosed number of French MX tanks, with 75 m.m. guns, and of U. S. Sherman tanks. The troops themselves are equipped with modern standard arms—semiautomatic rifles which have increased the fire power of the infantry.

Experts estimate Israel's air strength at more than 100 planes — British Meteor jets, U. S. F-51 Mustangs, and Mystere jets recently purchased in France. It is believed that with this excellently trained army and up-to-date equipment, Israel will be able to meet any opposition.

Egypt, the strongest of the Arab states, maintains an active force of about 90,000 men. But this army is not first class in morale and training. Under Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser (Egypt's Prime Minister), however, the armies have been improved. Egypt claims a National Guard of 300,000, but experts say it actually has about 50,000 and is not too effective.

The Czech shipment has helped to swell the stockpile of arms. Prior to this, Egypt had more than 200 tanks (100 U. S. Shermans, several British light tanks, and 30 post-war Centurions from Britain). The air arm has 75 to 80 planes, mostly British.

The other Arab States boast armies of upwards of 85,000 men. This includes Syria, Iraq, and Saudi Arabia. With the exception of those of Jordan and Lebanon the armies are poorly trained and not equipped for modern warfare.

The Arab population outnumbers Israeli's by nearly 27 to 1, but the armed forces are equal in size, and Israeli training and morale are generally superior.

When one views these facts in the light of the Russian arms shipment, one sees how important this move can be. An Arab army equipped with Russian weapons and trained by Soviet military experts can overrun the entire country of Israel in less than no time. Russian MIG-15 fighter planes, which normally run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, have been sold to Egypt for 15,000 dollars each. With this type of aircraft Egypt will be able to maintain a strong superiority in the air, strong enough to pave the way for a full scale invasion.

At present, Israel decidedly has the upper hand; however, if Egypt continues to amass weapons and planes, and institutes a modern military training program, the powder keg which is the Near East may be blown apart by full scale warfare. If this happens the U. S. and Russia could, conceivably, take sides and be dragged into a Third World War. This is, indeed, a horrible thought, and the people of this country should be made aware of it. The alternative to the disarming of both nations (Egypt or Arab World and Israel) might be a surveillance program sponsored by the U. N. Something must be done in this area, and it must be done soon. We leave that decision up to the policy makers.

The magazine U. S. News and World Report has been utilized for the factual material found in this article.

Letters to the Editor

THE NURSES SPEAK

To the Editor:

During this semester, in almost every issue of the VILLANOVAN, some one has made snide, rude and derogatory remarks about the nurses or the other females on campus. In all fairness, do the women on the campus deserve this sort of treatment?

Since the Nursing Division evidently is a permanent unit, the students in it deserve at least as much honor and respect as that given to the students of any other school in the University. Since their arrival on campus, students in the Nursing School have joined whole-heartedly in the activities of the various school organizations, and furthermore, they have succeeded in making a creditable scholastic record.

If, therefore, anyone has any needling to do, let him channel it into some constructive program.

Sincerely yours,
Arlene E. Dahlbeck

EDITOR—We regret that the impression of snideness or rudeness or derogation has been received by the University's young women. Such, we are sure, has not been the intent of the paper's columnists or contributors who may have indulged in a bit of "needling".

DAYHOP PROBLEM

To the Editor:

I usually keep my thoughts to myself on this matter, but my observations at the recent student assembly compelled me to write this letter.

The majority of day hops here at Villanova have consistently irked me with a blatant display of indifference when it comes to a pride in their University and the interest of their more spirited classmates. They seem never to grow out the "Southeast Catholic grad" stage and become "Villanovas".

The reaction of most of them to the singing of the University's Alma Mater at the assembly helps to bear out that contention. Most of them probably haven't even bothered to learn one verse in three or four years here, and the rest won't sing because their "come and go" compatriots might think them overly "gung-ho" or something on that order.

If they won't become part of the University in the true meaning of its community living and spirit, why won't this type of day hop (there are certainly many who are truly outstanding) get out and stop impeding the progress of a potentially great institution.

A Day Hop

The VILLANOVAN urges its readers to submit letters to the editor on pertinent campus topics. The entries must be reasonably short and to the point and must be signed, although the author's name will be withheld upon request.

Peering . . . .

With DICK PEER

. . . . .Into a Psychology class experiment the other day, I watched as thirty seniors "proved" to themselves that they were, without a doubt, run-of-the-mill geniuses.

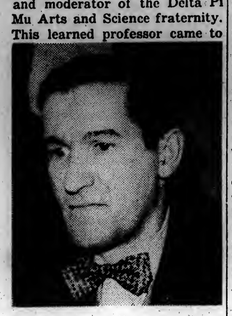
. . . . .At the local female collegians, we suddenly perceive a change of attitude which is known as the "Be Nice to Villanova Seniors" routine. This commences yearly about one month before the Senior Prom weekend and ends in most cases a week before.

. . . . .At the last days of the old chow hall, I find an impartial survey shows that more food is being served behind the counter than in front and at a much faster rate.

. . . . .At the newest organization on campus--the Midnight Auto Sales Club. The "Security Officers" tell me it's composed of recently expelled students who now use the Pie Shop as a front and hold their meetings every evening at midnight in the parking lots. If you'd like to sell your illegal car or talk over any shady deal whatsoever, why don't you stop over.

. . . . .At some of the letters to the Editor which never get published for obvious reasons. Like this one that I came across the other day: "I pray every semester that I'll do good and get straight A's. But I don't. Does this mean there's no God?"

. . . . .At the law building construction now underway up on the hill across the tracks. I thought I heard the old C & F Building creak a little more as the bulldozers dug in. Yes, the old campus billpayer has been forgotten once again. As one prof. put it, "Even the desks look life they were taken from bankrupt tap rooms."



. . . . .At the small fry down at St. John's Orphanage, looking forward to their big day with the "Villanova Men". Let's not disappoint them. Though it is a fact that you take out the orphans and end up getting taken yourself, don't forget it's the Christmas season.

Professorial Round-up:

Dr. McEnerney Emphasizes Need and Value of Arts

By JOHN McGEE

Another of Villanova's fine teaching staff which the VILLANOVAN presents to the student body is Dr. John McEnerney, Assistant Professor of Classics and moderator of the Delta Pi Mu Arts and Science fraternity. This learned professor came to Villanova in 1947 with an excellent teaching and educational background. Having taught previously at Loyola High School in Baltimore, St. Joseph's Prep, Girard College and Germantown Academy in Philadelphia, and having obtained his M.A. and Ph.D. at the University of Pennsylvania, he is principally occupied with teaching Latin to the Arts students here at Villanova. In addition to his teaching activities, Dr. McEnerney is even more occupied as the father of seven children and with his "do it yourself" hobby.

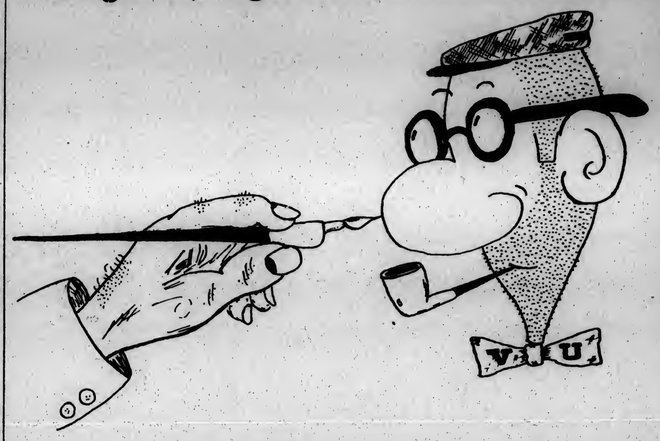
Classical Studies Important

When asked to comment on something he thought the students would be interested in Dr. McEnerney stressed the personal importance of classical studies to every college student, those in business and engineering as well as those in liberal arts. The purpose of liberal arts, in Dr. McEnerney's opinion, is to train a man to think and reason correctly so that he may be able to express himself with clarity and force and in his own personal style. Therefore they are naturally suited to every student.

Dr. McEnerney observed: "Man does not live to work; he works in order to live. Too often students believe all courses in college should be aimed at some future vocation and remuneration, thus they place the value on working not on living. While this is important, man also works for another reason—leisure, that is, time given to thought, reading and enjoyment. In this sphere it is the arts which are predominant since they concern the gracious side of living, not the harsh side of working: Therefore," Dr. McEnerney concludes, "the educated man has better things to occupy his mind than the corner taproom or the television screen exclusively."

Of Knowledge and Love



As he enlarged upon his subject, Dr. McEnerney became philosophical, saying, "Since it is the soul that gives life to the body, man lives most truly in his mind and will. And these are content only with knowledge and love, not solely of God, but also of a man's fellows, his wife and children. When a man possesses this knowledge and love, gained mostly through liberal studies, he desires to transmit them to future generations, and there, fore he writes. The sad reflection today is that most men die without expressing themselves well and criticising those who do write."

A Better Man

In conclusion Dr. McEnerney restated his premise, saying, "Liberal arts courses are not meant to bring you a better job, but to make you a better man, which in itself will help you to secure that better job." Dr. McEnerney also pointed out that, although Latin and foreign languages may be omitted, English poetry and prose, history and philosophy do belong in schools of business and engineering.

Phil Seefried and His Pen:

Paper's Cartoonist Deals In Unshaven Collegians, Big Noses, Patched Khakis

Seefried's Unshaven Collegian, Complete with Pipe, Cap and Bifocals, Takes on Cartoon-Life

Talented Junior Builds Up Following With Interpretations of Campus Life and Humor

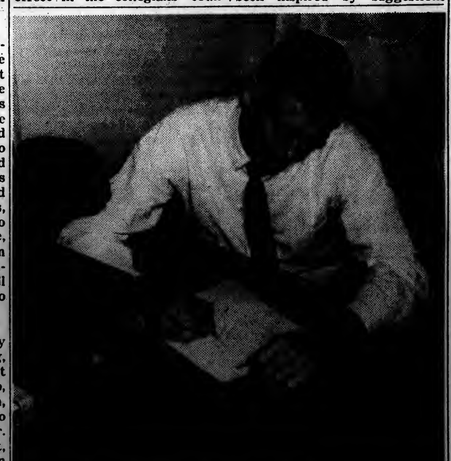
By TOM SMITH

For a guy who doesn't clutter up his drawings with his name, the VILLANOVAN'S cartoonist has corralled himself quite a following with his array of unshaven collegians in patched khakis and smudged bucks.

And Phil Seefried, a 20-year-old junior in the C&F School, has a reason for giving the characters in his cartoons oversized noses. He says the comic effect in the collegians' countenances makes up for what he calls his weakness in facial detail.

Where does he dig up ideas for the cartoons?

"Mostly from things I see around campus," says Phil, who has hopes of heading for law school somewhere after he completes his pre-law course here at Villanova.



A few of the cartoons have been inspired by suggestions from his friends, adds the slender junior, who says that ideas for future cartoons are always welcome at his room (217 Fedigan). After he outlines the cartoon idea in his mind, it takes him about a half hour to polish off the sketch, explains Seefried.

Penciling drawings which depict the amusing side of Villanova life isn't his only extra curricular activity. He was a pledgemaster for the administration — abbreviated pledging period of Delta Pi Epsilon. With his roommate, Bernie Conway, Seefried organized a "toys for the boys at St. John's Home" campaign after the fraternity had its reg-wearing activity cancelled by administration order the day after pledges had donned their regs.

Some 15 DPE pledges collected more than a 1,000 toys in less than 24 hours. Until the trip to St. John's—the home which is invaded each Christmas by Santa Claus-playing Villanovans who take the more than 300 kids "on the town"—the wagons, toy soldiers, miniature cars and book bags were piled around Fedigan's second floor. "Looked like Macy's toyland three weeks before Christmas," commented one second floor occupant. Seefried says he wouldn't be surprised if such a project as DPE tried might become a tradition if reg wearing and pledging are outlawed by the administration.

Phil said he could not recall when he first picked up a pencil and scrawled some figures on a sheet of paper, but it may

(Continued on Page 11)

Cartoonist Seefried, a junior, says that many of his ideas for cartoons have come from friends, and urges any student with suggestions for cartooning themes to see him in his room at 217 Fedigan.

The Nomad Newsman at Work:

Rosemont Lassies Separate Villanova's "Men from Boys"

By MIKE RUSSO

This week your Nomad Newsman made the long trip to Rosemont College, where he came across some of the neighboring talent. It has always been my secret desire to see if the "femmes" had any hidden thoughts about this Villanova University. As soon as the nature of my mission was known I was surrounded by babbling females wanting to tell their world, namely Villanova, their most precious feelings. Some of the statements that this week's question brought about

"Where's Villanova?" and "Do they really have men?" As soon as they found out that they had to sign their statements the girls became quite scarce. But following you will find the statements of the more courageous females.

The question is: What do you think of Villanova men?

JO LEECH, SOPHOMORE

Villanova men are hard to describe with one all-encompassing opinion. Half of the school seem to be nothings who think hey are something, right down to the tips of their suede shoes, and the other half are great guys. Yet they all seem to share a common viewpoint—that they are the Lord's gift to us Rosemont gals, which is in some cases true, but on the whole . . .! In general, though, and from CLOSE scrusity on my own, I think they are here to stay.

MIMI McCARTHY, SOPHOMORE

Villanova has, I feel, the capabilities of becoming a truly great university. Unfortunately it is hampered by the minority (I trust) of Villanova BOYS who have to cultivate a more mature attitude towards authority and curb their animalistic tendencies.

Villanova will be what its students make it, and fortunately there are those who are making it a well known and respected school, but they are having a difficult time doing it.

Personally, the majority I have known are really a great deal of fun, and you can have a good time with them.

ANN DINGER, FRESHMAN

The majority of Villanova men seen at Rosemont seem to be well accepted, yet there are a few who are undesirable. Rosemont girls, however, are not wandering thirstily through the desert wearing camel-hair coats, an opinion which seems to be held by most of the Villanova student body.

CLAIRE MALISON, JUNIOR

Judging from the Villanovans whom I have met, the majority of the men are very nice, but others need quite a bit of improvement. Their tastes on dates are not cultural. However, I feel that their lack of cars limits their choice of places to go, and therefore parties which ARE fun are their last resort.

In my opinion the spirit of the school is nil. It is not essential to always have that go-go spirit, but once in a while it is needed to give some life to the activities and games.

However we must remember that the "T" ain't the "T" without you commandos—so, see you at the "T".

LIBBY HEFFERNAN, SOPHOMORE

I find the boys at Villanova very regular and extremely nice dates. Of course, Villanova, as all colleges, has its share of hoods. In comparison to the Ivy League, Villanova holds the upper hand. To me the Ivy Leaguers are too conscious of other people's opinions and of society to indulge in normal, good fun. The only thing missing at V. U. that is present at Georgetown, Princeton, etc. is personal respect for authority, campus or their school in general.

FAITH POWER, JUNIOR

Basically, the majority of the boys are very nice. Their taste for places to go on dates is not the best, but this is probably due to their lack of cars. I realize the hours for Rosemont girls are early, but the important thing is the company. Many of my friends would like to see more TWEEDY jackets instead of SEEDY ones. However, the relationship between Rosemont and Villanova has been lots of fun and I hope it continues for many more good times.

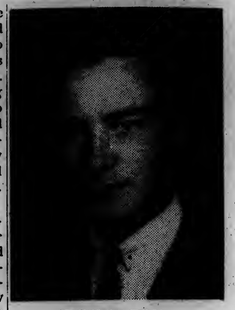
FLORA DI PALMA, SOPHOMORE

Villanova "men" have high ideals and much savoir-faire, but unfortunately, these are in the minority. Villanova "boys" have yet to catch up with them, but both groups are lacking in respect for authority and the opinions of others.

NATALIE HAMILTON, SENIOR

Through dating and contact with a minority of Villanova "men", my opinion is that they are obsessed with competition with the Ivy League. Their spirit and loyalty are tops, however.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN



Strictly Opinion

By DON ALTON

This column is devoted to one of the most rewarding and thought provoking incidents to spring from the annual orphan's outing which was held last year. The characters are two young ladies from Rosemont, two Villanova men, and the essential figures, four orphans. . ."Johnnies". The setting is the City of Brotherly Love, with special reference to Gimbel's toyland. Now for the tale.

The four "johnnies" in question were among the older group in the home, i.e., five and six years old. One could be immediately recognize that "Johnnie" A. was the leader in the crew of four. Two of the boys were brothers, and the fourth little man didn't have much to say, but he took more of his share of the affection coming from the Rosies and Villanovans. It was later learned that the love and care given to the smallest of the number was well placed. The sisters at the home related a good bit of his background in a later discussion, and they also confirmed suspicions of four victims of circumstance above and beyond their control always stuck together. This is where our story comes into the picture.

In the midst of a harrowing insight into fatherhood which is the best description of a Christmas toyland, our confused and exhausted group came across the paths of the hot dog concession and a man with big, bright ballons that caught the eye of every child. Those enormous eyes told the silent story of young desire, but they also reflected the cunning of an orphan, one who is accoustomed to shifting alone. The money for ballons and enough doggies and pop to float the lads into a gastric nightmare came from the willing santas, but there was a hurried discussion among our "Johnnies", and the result was quite surprising. The leader of the clan announced that they found it unnecessary to take a ballon for each, and asked that please just buy one of the resplendent ovals for all four to share. After much reasoning and offering by the collegians, the decision still stood. . . one ballon and all the hot dogs and pop their stomachs could hold. The entourage moved to the stands, and the purchases were made.

DON ALTON

Between bites of her hot dog one of Santa's helpers, a la Rosemont, kept her maternal eye on the wandering charges from St. John's and, as will happen in the crush of a Christmas fairyland, she noticed that one of our young men was lost. This initiated a thorough search in, around and above every counter in the vicinity. In the midst of the confusion we failed to observe that the "johnnies" who remained now had a balloon of their own dangling at the end of a string. This was the

(Continued on Page 12)

Do Your Part Next Saturday:

Orphans' Day "Most Rewarding"

By Bill Jones

Exactly fourteen years ago tomorrow the Japanese Air Force staged its historical attack on Pearl Harbor. Thus began the most terrible conflict in the history of man. For 45 months this merciless war raged on, lives being lost en masse. Men went off to war never to return. Many of these men, killed while fighting courageously for their country, were fathers, men with families, large and small. Thousands of already motherless children were turned out into the world as orphans.

Innocent cities were unmercifully bombarded from the air. Homes were wrecked, families were quickly and ruthlessly dissolved. Mothers and fathers were massacred by fire and steel while trying to save the lives of their offspring. Children were suddenly without the parents they loved, the parents they depended on. They were alone, left to face reality with no one to care for them.

A Mother, A Father

These parentless children, as we all know, are orphans. Think, all you Villanovans, even now, while approaching maturity, how you would feel without a mother and father. Now try to imagine how a child of 6, or 8, or 10 feels without his kind and understanding parents to guide him down the path of life.

Smiles are few to these orphans who have been robbed by fate of their rightful parents. Many of them must face life from within the cold walls of an orphanage. These are truly fine institutions, but they offer no competition to a real, cheerful "home". Orphans exist without the joys that a home and loving parents can provide. There are no parties on New Year's Eve, no Easter Bunnies, no fire crackers on the Fourth of July, no trick or treat on Hallowe'en, no feast at Thanksgiving, and no Santa Claus with a full pack at Christmas. These visions are realized only in the dreams of these unfortunate kids.

Dad for a Day

But thank God for charity. We, of Villanova, once a year, can make a day brighter for some little fella who really needs a taste of cheer. We can take him out, show him a good time, cater to his wishes, be his Dad for the day. We can show him that there is a Santa Claus.

On Saturday, December 10th, there will be 300 shining, expectant faces at St. John's Orphanage in Philadelphia waiting anxiously for the men of V.U. to show them what it is like to be happy.

For Just A Few Dollars

There are over 3000 men here at Villanova and only 300 orphans at St. John's. Let us hope that none of these 300 will have to return through the doors of the orphanage with tears of unhappiness in his eyes. A few dollars can supply a wonderful afternoon for these hapless lads, a few dollars that can be easily saved with but a little inconvenience. If you alone haven't got the money get a buddy to go along with you, get two buddies. But most of all, make sure that every one of these 300 orphans has a great time on December 10th.

Remember, any one of these orphans, but for the grace of God, could be your own little brother.

IRC Plans Speech By Labor Guest

In general, Catholic university students have a more degrading opinion of unions than other university undergraduates, according to a union representative of the United Steelworkers of America.

Mr. James Conroy told members of the Industrial Relations Club that he could not understand this in view of the two encyclicals written by papal authority concerning treatment of labor by management and labor's dealings with management.

President Leo Calabrese said the next IRC meeting will be held Dec. 14 at 7:30 p. m. in 207 C&F. Speaker will be Dr. Louis Raffele, who is connected with labor problems in the Philadelphia area. He will speak on "Automation and its effects on Labor, Management and Modern Day Society".

All students are invited.

Rosemont-VU ICG Party Set Tomorrow Night

The Intercollegiate Conference on Government party sponsored by the Villanova and Rosemont chapters starts tomorrow evening at the Bala-Cynwyd Legion house.

Lou Donatelli is chairman of the committee which made preparations for the affair.

Frank Psyk, ICG president, said that the topics to be presented for the platform at the State Convention in Harrisburg next April have been chosen by the membership.

Next meeting of the ICG will be held Dec. 15 and all those interested in current affairs and governmental procedure are invited by the officers to attend and join the ICG.

IRS Addressed By Isreali Social Worker

Dr. Miriam Hoffert, a social worker for the the welfare department of the state of Israel, was the guest speaker for the Nov. 17 meeting of the International Relations Society. She spoke on "Integration of New Immigrants".

She explained that, starting in 1933, thousands of Jewish people from Europe rushed to Israel to find a haven from persecution.

This brought about the problem of making these people feel at home in Israel. In 1948, when Israel became a state, another large number of refugees poured into the land.

Dr. Hoffert is here in the United States on behalf of her co-workers in Israel to study and listen to lectures on community organization. She believes some suggestions given her here may help the situation with which her country is faced.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Replies From Students and Faculty:

Villanova's Engineering School: What Improvements Could Be Made?

SENIOR ENGINEERS Kirk Brennan, Jack Gerrard and Jim Hippler, left to right, take readings in the chemistry building, with various knobs, levers, dials ad infinatum in the background.

• • •

Villanovans in all phases of Engineering offer candid opinions on possible improvement of a truly outstanding school

By Bill Jones

Continuing this week a series of student polls on the improvements desired in the various schools of Villanova University, the VILLANOVAN presents the answers of engineers and engineering instructors to the question of: "What improvements would you suggest for the engineering school?"

JACK GILFILLAN, SENIOR M. E.

Do not hold classes in the Electronics Lab.

Probably the hottest and noisiest place on campus, aside from the C. and F. Auditorium during band rehearsal, is Mendel basement, directly under the chow hall. Visualize a low, dark, pillar infested room with a pipe encrusted ceiling and a large exhaust fan just outside its single window. This the Electronics Lab.

Sore is the throat of the professor who thinks he can outshout the gutteral roar of the fans or the staccatto screams of the steam pipes, and sparse is knowledge of the student who has class in this room of a thousand sounds.

DR. G. N. QUAM, PROFESSOR OF CHEMISTRY

The greatest contribution the engineering student can make to the University is to help to maintain and strengthen our pride in what Villanova as a whole represents. One of the highest purposes of every student should be to strive to serve society to the best of his ability. He must not only like his university but he must be enthusiastic about his field of specialization. He must be reasonably sure he is adapted to it and remain happy in it.

The rich background of experience within the faculty is always available for consultation. Every faculty member is eager to help. The initiative and the final decison, however, rests with the student.

Our press and radio are daily calling attention to the grave shortage of scientists and engineers. The Villanova student can help by advising his younger relatives and friends to consider their qualifications for university training in engineering or science. Those high school students having the aptitudes and genuine interests in these fields should be urged to improve their usefulness by formal study and training in these critical areas of learning.

JOHN L. DOWNING, SENIOR E. E.

My only suggestion is that oft-heard one of extending the engineering curriculum to a five-year course. The major dilemma of the engineering school, as I see it, is that there is not enough time to get the necessary technical courses and the "cultural" subjects too.

I would have welcomed a three-year course devoted to arts and science and basic engineering, followed by two years of intensive technological training. I feel the hardship of the added year would be more than overcome by the long-run benefits derived.

BILL FECKO, JUNIOR C. E.

I think that a school's scholastic quality can be determined by its faculty, the facilities offered to the students, and its placement of students in industry. Our teaching staff is quite competent. Its job and placement of graduates in the past reached its peak. Therefore, the only improvement that should be made would be to increase and improve teaching facilities, primarily laboratory space and equipment.

BILL McNEILL, SOPHOMORE E. E.

There is one understandable shortcoming which has become evident to me in the year and a quarter that I have been here.

So far I have had one semester of English composition and will have one semester of public speaking before I graduate. Since it is vitally important that one be able to express himself and his ideas, this does not seem like enough English to me.

In order to fit more English and other subjects which make up a more liberal education into our already overcrowded schedule it would be necessary to extend the engineering curriculum to five years, a move which is suggested by many.

NEIL McALLISTER, SOPHOMORE E. E.

The school should try to place engineering students in summer jobs which will add experience to the book learning received in school. In such jobs we could see the practical application of what we are taught and "learn by doing".

Engineers Visit Phila. Naval Base

Through the efforts of Mr. A. H. Timmons, civilian personnel director, the senior mechanical engineering students from Villanova and four other colleges visited the Philadelphia Naval Base on November 16.

The four engineering schools were from Lafayette, P.M.C., Drexel, and Delaware.

Old Grad Conducts

The first part of the trip was a conducted tour of the U.S.S. Boston," a light cruiser which has been converted to a guided missile ship. Ensign Lynn Forrestal, a Villanova graduate of last June, escorted one group of the students around the ship, and had coffee served in the officer's wardroom. The ship's executive officer explained the technical difficulties encountered in changing the ship from a light cruiser to its present state. The students were particularly impressed with the ship's facilities and the officer's wardroom.

Equipment Surveyed

Six Navy busses then conveyed the group to the boiler test

(Continued on Page 6)

Battle of Bulge Veteran Is New History Prof.

Mr. Mark M. Sholofsky, newest addition to the history department, is a veteran of the famous "Battle of the Bulge" of World War Two during which he served as a scout and interpreter with the 69th Infantry Division.

Well-Schooled

A native of Monticello, N. Y., Mr. Sholofsky has attended Indiana and Georgetown Universities and the University of St. Louis, which which he obtained his Master of Arts degree.

After spending six years in the Jesuit Seminary at Wernersville, Mo., Mr. Sholofsky came to Villanova.

Well versed in the field of history, especially European, Mr. Sholofsky teaches English Constitutional History, Survey of Modern Europe and United States and World History.

DPE Committee Studys Question Of Scholarships

"The History and Development of Selective Service" was presented to Delta Pi Epsilon members at their monthly meeting last week by Charles A. Dougherty, chairman of Philadelphia draft board. Following his talk there was a question-answer period on the draft.

Later a committee was appointed to seek information on scholarships for post-graduate work in line with the aims of the Student Council committee headed by Bob Ford.

President Lou Donatelli said that the fraternity's annual Communion Breakfast will be held after the Christmas holidays, the exact date and place to be decided later.

Set for January Release:

"Most Ambitious" LYNX Readied For Publication

Co-Editors Anticipate 90 Pages

New target date for the 'new' LYNX is Jan. 3. Co-editor Jack Eddinger said that the delay in publication is caused by the fact that the staff needs more time to process the heavy flow of material which will make this the largest LYNX ever published.

This, the last issue to be printed off campus, will be square backbound and be 90 to 100 pages long. The modern idea is stressed in the new LYNX not only in cover and layout but in the material itself.

Critics Flourish

Two new sections will highlight Villanova's literary publication. One is a section with criticisms in music, literature and other art fields. The other is a section containing reviews by English majors on three of the current best-selling books.

Past contributors co-editor Joe Barrett, Carlos Conde, and Harry Nash, along with others, have supplied fiction for the forthcoming issue.

Biography Included

The works of Farley Roberts will constitute the poetry of this LYNX issue. There will also be a short biography on Roberts.

Another innovations will be several short humorous works in the vein of subtle satire.

Backing up the written material will be improved art work to the credit of art editor Barry Ballister and his staff.

ME FIELD TRIP—Senior engineers on a recent field trip to the Philadelphia Naval Base board the world's first guided missile vessel, the USS Boston.

Nurses Association Services Outlined

The services offered by the American Nurses Association Counseling and Placement Service to the graduate of a college nursing program were explained to members of the Alpha Delta Chi, graduate nursing student sorority, at a meeting last night. Miss Catherine Lenny was the speaker.

Miss Lenny also recounted opportunities in the varied fields of nursing to the sorority sisters and their invited guests the nursing faculty.

Dr. Lowrey Addresses LKD Frat Tonight

Dr. Thomas Lowrey of the biology department will address Lambda Kappa Delta fraternity tonight on the "Benefit of Education".

The pre-meds will be given an outlook on the practical applications of their learning and will be served refreshments afterwards.

Belle Masque Auditions Coed Stage Talent

Before the Christmas holidays start, Belle Masque will do two one-act plays in the Field House for the view of Belle Masquers alone, in order to give the coeds a chance to display their dramatic talents heretofore not needed for such all-male shows as the "Caine Mutiny Court Martial".

Wilder Effort Staged

The two plays in question are Thornton Wilder's unorthodox "Our Town" and the successful film effort "Sorry, Wrong Number".

Faith Heller, Carol Whelan, and Freda Jorska will play opposite Belle Masque president Mike Clark, Joe Barrett and Jack Murray in the Wilder play.

In what is virtually a one-woman show, Pat O'Connor will have the lead in "Sorry, Wrong Number".

The highly emotional role is that of an invalid woman who hears her own murder plotted over the telephone.

Houston Rally Cited:

Student Spirit Indifference Blasted By Spirit Group

(Continued from Page 1)

"We blame the residents more than the dayhops for this showing, due to the time and distance to the place of the rally. . ."

It Happened Before

Such blasts at Villanovans' spirit are not without precedent. Back in November 1938 — right in the middle of a streak of 22 games without a defeat — students were charged with an indifferent attitude toward the football team.

To spruce up spirit, Horace Heidt, who's still leading a talent troupe around the country, brought his band into the old Earle Theater in Philadelphia and threw a big rally for Villanova's winning team, students, coaches, alumni and friends.

Heidt had originally set up the rally so he could match his baton twirling talents with the Wildcats' drum major, Jack Eldracher, but the rally turned out to be a means to rebuild sagging spirit.

1937 Streak

That 22 game skein without tasting defeat started with the last two games of the 1937 season and continued until the third game of the 1939 campaign when Texas A & M (the opening game opponent for the Wildcats next season) measured Villanova 33-7.

During the streak, which included three ties, the Wildcats pushed over 500 points and held their victims to 64. The 1938 club, ranked fourth in the country after the season, gave up only seven points all year.. to Marquette.

And with all that incentive, the Nov. 1, 1938 VILLANOVAN still noted that some observers charged that "Villanova itself isn't behind its team as strong as it should be".

Now, with a football team holding a three-year record of six wins and 24 losses, Villanova students are still being accused of not backing their team.

Fifty of Each Class

Here are more excerpts from the latest blast at student attitude: "From the turnout we can say that at most there were 50 members of each class at the rally. . .

"The seniors have been crying for senior privileges and will resent it if they are not fully complied with. . .Is a car on campus more important than

(Continued on Page 8)

PUBlicly Speaking . . .

By JIM & MIKE

The topic for investigation this week is girls. Girls come in all sizes, shapes and scarfs. They are built different than boys as they don't play the same sports. We will limit this discussion, however, to girls attending college, either for an education, or for weekends, or both. Examples of this type are plentiful in this area, and it is upon these examples that we base our conclusions.

Girls usually come equipped with sneakers, knee socks, sweaters that don't fit, war paint, large earings, twelve o'clock permissions, a calculating eye, and CAMEL HAIR COATS. They desire anything that is unattainable, impractical, or a great distance away. Their actions can be classed in two catagories: getting to a boy, and getting away from him. Their aim in life is security. Their entails either a good looking boy or a mink coat.

They like parties, drinks, a good time, and an understanding date. They don't like stag parties, their dates drinking, their dates having a good time (especially with another girl), or to understand their dates. They love to attend sporting events, but don't like to watch the players. Like boys, they ultimately plan to get married, but not right now. They like to give proms and dances, but don't particularly like to enjoy them. Their greatest secret is how they spend their money. This saves many laughs at their expense. They get plenty, never have any, and don't know where it went.

Nothing has been invented yet to take their place on dates, so we assume that they are here to stay, ----at least for a while.

Should any Villanova men wish to see the writers of this column, they will find them hibernating in the Pub for the winter. Please do not bring your dates.

Pet Peeve of the Week-----Girls.

Jack Downing Chairman:

Electrical Engineers Plan Lecture By Instrument Expert, Field Trip

"Instrumentation" is the topic of the next meeting of the A.I.E.E. I.R.E. James Hartle of the Brown Instrument Company in Philadelphia will speak next Monday in 101 C & F at 7:30 p.m.

Field Trip Planned

A field trip to Brown Instrument Company, Wayne and Windrim Aves., Philadelphia, is also scheduled for the following Wednesday, Dec. 14. The student branch chairman, Jack Downing, urged all those wishing to make the trip to sign the list posted in the dynamo lab in Mendel Basement. He said the group would leave for the plant at noon from the dynamo lab.

Slide—Tape Program

Under the direction of Vice-chairman George Ahearn, the A.I.E.E. held its first tapescript program of the year during yesterday's activity period. A tapescript is a series of lantern slides accompanied by a tape-recorded narration.

Yesterday's program was "Ferro-Electric Storage Devices", a tapescript produced by the famous Bell Laboratories. Ahearn said the presentations would become a regular feature of the branch's activities and he invited all those interested in electronic developments to watch for announcements of future programs.

Brass at Blast

Rev. John A. Klekotka, O.S.A., I.R.E. counselor for the branch, and Downing attended a student activities dinner of the Philadelphia section of the Institute of Radio Engineers last Friday evening at the Alden Park Dining Room. Discussed were the fostering of student interest in the I.R.E. and the annual Student's Night dinner.

"Noche Espanola" Literary-Musical Tomorrow Night

Tomorrow night is "NOCHE ESPANOLA VELADA!"

At 7:30 p. m. the Villanova Spanish Club presents a combined literary-musical affair, open to club members only, in the C and F Auditorium.

The program for the evening is:

1. Introduction by Thomas Quingley on the piano.
2. "Spanish California" — a speech to be delivered by William Mahedy.
3. Accordion Concert by Joseph Marinelli.
4. Recitation of a Spanish poem by Miguel Paez.
5. Popular Songs by the members of the Club.
6. Dr. Escuti, the consul from Chile.
7. Refreshments.

A short play, "El Regalito De La Suegra," enacted by students from Villanova and Rosemont, comprises the second portion of the evening's entertainment. In the cast are Miguel Paez, Diane Dagit, Julie Amersbach, Carla Sagmeister, Hector Valdes, Michael Pep, and Emil de Jesus.

Due to the conflict with the Orphan's outing, the Beta Society will not participate in the Philadelphia Regional N.F.C.C.S. Tournament Saturday.

The Society, which recently placed second to St. Joseph's at the Immaculate College Tournament, had more than twenty-five interscholastic debates since the beginning of the semester. The topic under discussion this year is—Resolved: that the non-agricultural activities of the United States should guarantee their employees an annual wage.

Engineers Visit Naval Base

(Continued from Page 2)

laboratory, where all the equipment presently under test was explained.

This lab was of particular interest to those considering Power Engineering as a professional field.

Navy Stresses Need

Dinner was served in one of the Base's eating rooms followed by several speeches stressing the Navy's need for young engineers.

After lunch the design sections of the base were toured to conclude the trip.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Leave Monday:

Twenty Members Of Opera-Classica To Hear Tebaldi

Twenty Opera-Classica Club members depart next Monday for Carnegie Hall in New York to see and hear the famous Italian soprano, Renata Tebaldi.

Those who do not pay their transportation by tomorrow evening's meeting will lose their reservation to someone on the alternate list.

The program for club meetings through January is: Tomorrow evening 6:30 p.m. in room 208 Commerce Hall:

Giacomo Puccini's Madame Butterfly

Butterfly.....Renata Tebaldi
Suzuki.....Nell Rankin
B. F. Pinkerton
Giuseppe Campora

December 14:

Tchaikovsky Ballet Suite, Opus 71 (Complete) Symphony Orchestra of Radio Berlin, Otto Bobrindt, Conductor

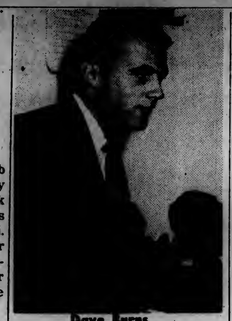
Orchestral—Morton Gould Rochester Pops

Vocal—Dennis Day

January 11: Giacomo Puccini's Tosca with Renata Tebaldi and Giussepe Campora

January 18: Final Program for the Fall-Winter Series.

Bizet, Preludes to 4 Acts from Carmen, The Orchestra of the Stadtische, Opera, Berlin.



Next VILLANOVAN

The next Villanovan will be distributed Wednesday, Dec. 14. Deadline for feature copy for this issue is tomorrow night and deadline for news copy is Thursday night.

WVIL SCHEDULE

7:30-8:30 A.M.—Yawn Patrol
8:30-am-6:00 pm—Continuous Music
6:00-6:30—Record Rendevous & Rock and Roll
6:30-7:00—Jazz Before Seven
7:00-7:30—Visiting Girl D. J's
7:30-8:00—Show Tunes; Night Train, Dance With Me Henry
8:00-8:15—Lucky Strike News Show
8:15-8:30—Menory Lane
8:30-9:00—I Doubt Help Wildcat Safari
9:00-10:00—Wet Wax Works
10:00-10-15—Lucky Strike Sport Show
10:15-10:45—Concert Work Shop
10:45-11:00—Old Gold Show—Jill Corey
11:00—Sign-Off

The VILLANOVAN wishes to correct a mistake made in the November 16 issue, which said that Ensign Steve Lyons, USN, and his wife, the former Anne Ruof, were the first couple involved in a student-coed marriage. Actually, two other marriages involving a Villanova man and a co-ed from the nursing school had previously taken place. One involved senior Phil Butler and the former Mary Lou Manis, and the other John O'Leary and the former Anne Pitcavage, who is now a member of the University's Nursing Faculty.

Dave Burns
Prom Co-Chairman

Presents Awards To Markswomen

Captain Neale R. Curtin, USN, Professor of Naval Science at Villanova, will have the unique pleasure of presenting National Rifle Association certificates to eight Villanova coeds tomorrow morning.

The certificates were earned for the completion of a rifle course for beginners by the first group of nurses to have taken the course at Villanova.

Conducted by M-Sgt John H. Waryha, assistant to the Marine instructor, and members of the rifle team, the course has been taken by many NROTC and non-NROTC male students who were interested in obtaining a berth on the rifle team, securing merits or merely learning how to handle a rifle properly.

Eight Nurses Pass

When the number of males interested in the course was about exhausted, the nursing students were invited to take the course. Marie L. Kunz, Rose T. Tursi, Arlene A. Edler, Helen M. Katona, Joan J. Bogdon, Patricia A. Yonkin, Susan M. Simmons, and Joanne W. Stucky were the first to take advantage of the offer and passed the qualifying test last week.

January 13-14 Weekend:

Morrow Signs as Senior Prom Band; SC Discusses Various Preparations

Dinner Dance Tickets Now Available

Tickets for the senior dinner dance, January 14 at Palumbo's night club are now on sale.

Palumbo's Site

Ticket co-chairmen Nick Mazzoni and Tom Meaney opened sale of the ducats yesterday for the University's 470 seniors. The dance, costing $10, will be held at the scene of last May's Junior Week success, attended by almost 400 men of the Class of '56.

All other preparations for the affair, according to Mazzone, are being handled by Palumbo's management.

Sales Proceed

Mazzoni, in reporting to class steering committee meeting last Thursday, said that only ticket sales and publicity remain in preparation for the affair.

* * *

Publicity head Henry Guerrisi reported that advanced billing for the dance and the prom will be widespread and effective.

Dad's Day Problem

Discussed also was the question of Father's Day in April. Chairman Harry Nash reported that there is no baseball game scheduled for Saturday, April 21, and that he was still awaiting word on the possibility of a track meet on that day. Class president Jerry Guerrisi directed Nash to see what can be done about some sports attraction on the 21st and to look into the advisability of switching the affair to the 14th if nothing could be worked out on the original date. Nash said he hopes to announce the day's speaker before the prom.

Paul Menz
Prom Co-Chairman

On Insurance:

Seniors Attend First in Series Of Career Talks

Members of the University's Senior Class got tips on "How to Buy Insurance" from a vice-president of the national Villanova alumni association during a meeting Thursday.

Mr. Jacques E. Mauch, '43, told the approximately 60 students that they would not be able to shop for insurance.

Buyers Can't Bargain

He said laws which prohibit "kickbacks" and otner inducements make policies of most companies almost the same, "word for word."

An associate of the Connecticut General Life Insurance Company, the speaker described the types of insurance sold and explained how companies set policy premiums and invest their policyholders' money.

Jim Bambury Initiates Patron Drive

Buddy Morrow and his band have been signed for the Senior Prom aJnuary 13 in the Field House.

Co-chairmen Dave Burns and Paul Menz made the announcement last Friday after several weeks of negotiations with Philadelphia area agent William Honney.

The signing of Morrow, long a favorite name in college social circles, leaves the way open for complete attention to smaller prom preparation details.

Among these are decorations and programs.

Phil Butler, chairman of decorations, has reported that on plans and material preparations alike.

Concerning the prom"s general theme, Burns and Menz reportedly have an added feature to add psychological as well as materially to the effectiveness of the evening's atmosphere. That plan, however, won't be known until the night of the prom, also referred to as the Belle Air Ball.

In charge of programs is Jim Bambury, who began his drive for patrons last night and is aiming for a goal of at least 270 names. He is in hopes that seniors especially will respond readily to the drive, and reminds that either the name of the Villanovan and his date may be entered, or the names of roommates. Either way, it cost a dollar.

John Henry will be in charge of favors; Bernie Stienfelt will handle refreshments, and Henry Guerrisi publicity. Tom Meaney and Nick Mazzoni are ticket co-chairmen.

American Chemical Society News:

Dr. Quam's Topic "Student Research"; Plan Breakfast

DuPont Film Attracts 125

Villanova's Chemical Society will hold a communion breakfast Sunday at the Viking Inn after Mass at 9 a.m. in the University chapel.

Last Wednesday night 125 students watched "The Du Pont Story", a 40-minute, full color movie. The film traced the growth and development of the "giant of the chemical industry" from its beginnings in revolutionary times.

WEST TO STAY

Rollie West, 205-pound freshman halfback, said yesterday he will stay at Villanova. He was spicing a rumor that had him transferring to a West Coast college. "I'm sticking it out here", said West, who starred for Abington (Pa.) High School.

Dr. Quam

The VILLANOVAN makes its appearance a day early to take advantage of publicity for tonight's Villanova Forum.

Department Head Speaks Tomorrow

Dr. George N. Quam, chairman of the chemistry department, will speak on "Student Research on the Undergraduate Level" at tomorrow night's meeting of the Villanova Chemical Society.

All Invited

President Bob Fredericks said all interested students are invited to the meeting, scheduled for 7:30 o'clock in Physics lab.

Dr. Quam obtained his doctorate from Iowa State College in 1924 from Iowa State College where he did research on the properties of liquid hydrogen sulphide. He also worked on food poisoning caused by selenium in cereal grains.

He has contributed articles to scientific publications and coauthored the book, "Basic chemistry in Outline Form,"

Physics Club Meets Dec. 15

The Physics Club elected a secretary from its freshman membership last Thursday. The office went to John Carmosky and completed the officer roster of the organization, under president Charles Schwertfeger. Every class is now represented among the group's officers.

The second half of the meeting was devoted to picture-taking for the 1956 Belle Air.

Schwerdtfeger also announced that the regular Thursday meeting will not be held tomorrow, because of the holiday, but the demonstration to be featured at that meeting will be described in next week's VILLANOVAN.

FLOWERS
That Bring Back Memories,
BOUQUET SHOP
For Exquisite Corsages

NEW POSTS—Jim Gallo, left, recently named athletic publicity director of the University, is pictured with the Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O. S. A., and Gene Ruane, right, former sports publicist who has been appointed by Father President to the position of director of the University's public information department. Father Rongione was named faculty liason officer for both posts.

Ruane Assumes Directorship of Publicity Dept.

The organization of a department of Public Information at Villanova University and the appointment of Eugene J. Ruane of Havertown, Pa., as director has been announced by the Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O. S. A., Villanova President.

Ruane, a 1948 graduate of Villanova, has been operating the University's athletic news service for the past seven years. He will now handle academic and institutional news and serve as news director for the Villanova Foundation Program, the school's fund raising organ.

James Gallo of Allentown, Pa., has been named athletic news director succeeding Ruane. A former sports editor of the Villanovan, student newspaper Gallo, will be responsible for news emanating from the University's athletic department.

To serve as faculty liason officer supervising both departments Father Donnellon has appointed the Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O. S. A.

Villanova's rapid expansion and a corresponding increase in interest by the public and the business world dictated the move the school's resident said. Villanova's current enrollment is at an all time high with the number of applications increas- each year.

The Main Line University is also in the midst of a tremendous fund raising campaign. Twenty-one million dollars is being sought over a twenty year period.

Tickets for IRS Party Available

Members of the International Relations Society may buy tickets at the door of the Main Golf Club tomorrow night for their informal party.

President Phil Taddeo said he party will begin at 9 and last until 1.

Details of the party were discussed at an I.R.S. meeting Thursday morning.

Nurses Told Of Early ACS Registration

Early registration for the annual convention of the American College of Surgeons was urged upon nursing students. The morning sessions of the convention to be held in Philadelphia Feb. 14-16 will be open to nurses, but registration will be limited to 1000.

The address given for making early registration is: Dr. Prather Saunders, Associate Director, American College of Surgeons, 40 East Erie Street, Chicago, Ill.

This urging comes from a meeting of the Steering Committees for the Division of Nursing Service and Division of Nursing Education of the Pennsylvania League for Nursing, held on Oct. 31 in Harrisburg with Miss Ruth Jessee, president of the Pennsylvania League for Nursing presiding. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss and plan a program for the P.L.N. Convention which will be held in Harrisburg June 11-13, 1956.

Student Spirit?

(Continued from Page 6)

school spirit? Here are future alumni in action. . .

"The juniors are in their 'big year', and everything should be done to make it so. . .The sophomores want to see a lot of changes and improvements in the administration's policies. . . should anything be done for those who demonstrate no interest in the present team. . .

"The freshmen. . .are supposed to have such great interest in the school. . .Where was the new Villanova spirit?"

"And the football team. When our few loyal students stood on their feet giving our coaches a three-minute ovation, how many football players even clapped? One football player clapped. And do they ever sing the 'Alma Mater'?"

Members of the Spirit Committee are: Pete Quinn, chairman; John T. Decker, Hank Knoblock, Dick McEntee, Pat Nicholson, Jack O'Rourke, Vince Sullivan and Don Weir.

Faculty Members Occupied With Research Work

Important work in various fields of scientific research is being carried on quietly around the campus by several faculty members.

Dr. Stinson Engaged

Dr. Edgar Stinson of the Chemistry department started research this past summer in the field of biochemistry, more specifically the nucleic acid metabolism of Neurospora crassa. Neurospora crassa is a species bread mold.

Metabolism is the breaking down of living matter from food into simpler substances and wastes while giving off energy. Nucleic acid is one of the causes of this metabolism.

Studies Biosynthesis

Dr. Stinson is studing the biosynthesis of pyrimidines, a constituent of nucleic acids and the nucleic acids of the Neurospora crassa.

May Aid Man

Any knowledge that can be obtained about this humble little bread mold may be used to study the cells of higher orders. An interesting sidelight is that the study of the pyrimidine biosynthesis in the Neurospora may throw light on the problem of uncontrolled cell division in man.

Along With Area Schools:

School of Law Qualifies Again for National Moot Court Competition

For the second consecutive year the Villanova University School of Law has qualified to enter the National Moot Court Competition.

Villanova students, arguing a novel question of anti-trust law, have this year defeated teams from Rutgers University Law School and the University of Pittsburgh Law School in the regional competition held in Philadelphia.

Three State Region

All the law schools in the New Jersey - Delaware - Pennsylvania area entered the competition. Six schools were eliminated in the preliminary rounds, and in the final round the University of Pennsylvania Law School edged Villanova by a 2-1 vote of the judges.

Penn, Villanova Represent

Both Penn and Villanova will represent the three-state region in the national contest commencing December 14th.

Representing Villanova Law School were James Garland of Baltimore, Maryland; Arthur Flores of Albany, New York; and Thomas Brady of Jersey City, New Jersey. Flores had been a member of the team which defeated both Penn and Pittsburgh a year ago, and Garland has assisted on the brief.

Students Pit Abilities

The National Competition is conducted each year by the Young Lawyers Committee of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York as a means of enabling law students throughout the country to match their courtroom abilities against one another.

This year the students are arguing a fictitious case involving a suit by a gasoline company against another gasoline company based on the anti-merger provisions of the Clayton Anti-Trust Act and seeking damages and equitable relief.

Finals in N. Y. C.

Eighty-seven law schools from coast to coast have entered teams in this year's National Competition and twenty-two winning teams will go to New York City for the final rounds of arguments.

$500 Prize

A $500 prize, named for Ambassador William J. Donovan, wartime head of the O. S. S., will be awarded to the law school entering the best team in the National Competition.

Jake Clancy
ENGINEER Editor

ENGINEER On Lookout For Talent

Engineering students graduating from college are expected to be familiar with technical writing, like written reports and technical articles. The VILLANOVA ENGINEER is providing an opportunity for all engineering students to determine whether they have particular ability in this field. If so, here is a chance to use the ability.

Articles submitted to Editor Jake Clancy (319 Sullivan) or Jack Essig (325 Sullivan) will be gladly accepted. Clancy and Essig may be consulted for additional information concerning the magazine.

Began Collection 30 Years Ago:

"Life of Mary in Art" On Display In Library; Compiled by VU Mother

The Life of Mary in Art will be on exhibition at the Villanova University Library from December 3-17. This Exhibition has been collected, mounted and arranged by Mrs. Joseph Domas of Paterson, N. J. She is the mother of Joseph Domas, a Junior Engineering student at Villanova.

Mrs. Domas began collecting the pictures about 30 years ago. "I never had a course in art training or "appreciation", says Mrs. Domas, "but somehow I have always been attracted instinctively to art."

(Continued from Page 8)

Mrs. Domas and Art Work

Practice Meet Unofficial Opener For Swimming Team

by Bruce Martin

On December 9th, the 1955-56 edition of the Villanova swimming team makes its first public appearance with a practice meet against Union College of New York, starting at 4:00 P. M.

Topping the list of fifteen opponents scheduled for this season is LaSalle, with one of the best teams in the east, Long Island University, unbeaten in over three seasons of competition, Seton Hall, Georgetown, and the University of Pennsylvania. The outlook shows the best potential since the team was reorganized two years ago. "Villanova should pull off some mighty upsets this year," said head coach Ed Giesz last week.

Don Couig

Couig, Kean Captains

Leading the mermen will be co-captains Don Couig and Pat Kean. Couig specializes in the 150 yard individual medley and Kean in the sprints. Mike Klesius, Bob McMillan, Denny Rinkacs, ex-Navy frogman, and Bob Duffy will give great help to Kean in this department.

In the breast stroke will be Lou Pinto, John Flynn, and Paul Donahue. Donahue is doubtful because of a back injury suffered earlier this year. The back stroke will be strong with Couig and Lee Carson.

Rafferty, Nalty to Dive

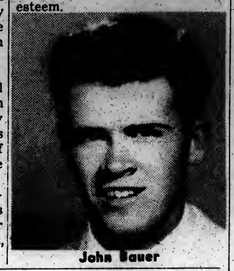
Representing the divers will be Mike Rafferty and Don Nalty, both of whom saw heavy action last season. One big loss will be felt by the absence of Wally Ulrich, who is now in the army.

Everyone that has any connection with the team agrees that this team will easily better last year's record of six wins, five losses, and one tie.

St. Francis, Niagara Face 'Cats This Week

by Bob Mulcahy

A measure of the strength of this year's Villanova basketball team will be provided by this week's encounters with St. Francis and Niagara at the Palestra.



Tomorrow night the Wildcats inaugurate their home season in the Palestra, engaging the Frankies from Loretto, Pa. Coached by Bill (Skippy) Hughes St. Francis gained national prominence last year aided by the play of All-American Maurice Stokes.

McClellan Big Man

The hopes of this years team is built around 6'5" Jim McClellan, a sophomore who played on the varsity last year. Five returning veterans Frank Puschauver, Walt Milinski, Bill Saller, Bob Watro, and Ed Langton, will team with McClellan in the Frankies "give and go" offense.

On Friday night the Mainliners engage Niagara's Purple Eagles.

Personable "Taps" Gallagher will be hard put replacing last year's Little Three champions, but he still has 6'5" Tom Hemans remaining to build around. Hemans is a top flight rebounder and excellent shot. Much of the Purple Eagles success depends of the play of untried Sophomores among whom Alex Ellis is held in highest esteem.

John Bauer

Thank You Ron and Alex:

Cross-Country Team Ends First Undefeated Season

by Jerry Hogan

This past season, Villanova's cross country team accomplished a feat not one of their predecessors had been able to do. It went through a season undefeated. In the five meets, dual and triangular in which the harriers participated they didn't record a single defeat.

Ron Delany, Alex Breckenridge, John Kopil, George Browne, Al Peterson, and Sam Roake did the yeoman's job of representing Villanova so admirably on the hills and dales.

Delany and Breckenridge were especially outstanding for the Wildcats this year. In every meet they ran, these two British Isle boys placed either first or second alternately. Both boys turned in several impressive clockings, and in one instance, in the Quantico meet, Ron and Alex came across the tape hand in hand to set a new course record.

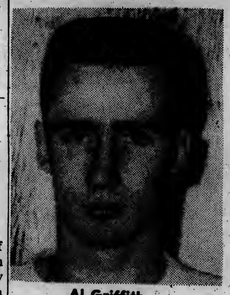
Eight Place in IC4A's

Unfortunately, the only mar on their otherwise perfect record was their showing in the season-ending IC4A meet in New York. More than 40 teams competed, and the Wildcats garnered eighth place in the meet, with Ronny Delany coming in second only to Jim Kennedy of Michigan State.

Ordinarily, for a run-of-the-mill track team, eighth place in the IC4A's would be as good as being in the winners circle, but for a team as capable and potent as the Villanova squad had been all season, the results were somewhat disappointing.

Basketball Arrives As Villanova Club King's

by Dick Brady



Villanova scoring ace Jack Weisman goes high in the air for a two-pointer in action during the King's College opener in the Fiel dHouse last Friday night.. Villanova won, 81-58.

The Wildcats opened their basketball season Friday night by beating King's College on the Field House court. The 81-56 victory ran the Cats' string to 71 straight on their home floor, and also got coach Al Severance's 20th season as mentor off to a flying start.

Although Villanova grabbed an early lead, which they never lost, they were continually plagued by speedy forward Tom Hoban. The little man from King's College harassed the Wildcats both from outside and with his driving shots. He picked up eight field goals and five free throws to give him twenty one points and make him high man for both squads.

Weisman Leads Attack

In spite of Hoban's outstanding play, the Cats' balance and team play proved to be too much for the visitors from Wilkes-Barre. It was Jack Weisman, who garnered 15 points, who led the Villanova attack in the first half. Although the Wildcats led by only the slight margin of 20-19 midway through the first half, they managed to pull ahead steadily until they left the court at half-time holding a 36-28 lead.

Al Griffith
Gets 10 Points

Smith High Scorer

With the start of the second half, the Cats lost no time in putting the game out of reach. Bobby Powers got them off to a fast start by dumping in six of his eleven points in the opening minutes. From then on Jim Smith ran wild and sparkled in his all around play while gathering 20 points to lead the Wildcats in scoring. Able Al Griffith contributed 10 points to ice the game for Villanova.

Particularly outstanding in his varsity debut was sophomore Jack Kelly, who, with a fine all around performance, tallied 12 points. Also impressive in a reserve role was senior Larry Tierney, who entered the game midway thru the second half, and with a fine display of defensive work, held high-scoring Hoban to one point from there on.

Jim Fahey, 6,5" Junior, and Tom Brennan, 6,6" Sophomore, also making his varsity debut, aided starter John Cirino in the rebounding for the Cats. Marty Milligan, a starter of two seasons ago, who was sidelined by injuries last season, scored two field goals although he was in for only a brief stay.

Footballers Close Season With 19-7 Loss To Dayton

The 62nd season of football at Villanova is over and possibly the best that can be said about it is just that——it is over. The Wildcats ended the season on Sunday Nov. 27, with a 19-7 loss to the Dayton Flyers at Dayton, and thus completed the schedule with a 1-9 record. Thus the book read 2 victories, 18 defeats for two seasons.

Against Dayton, the 'Cats started fast behind the fine play of quarterback Bill Magee, and fullback John Bauer, who scored on a seven yard pass from Magee and also booted the extra point. Dayton scored first on a 51 yard run by halfback Bill Smith, but Villanova fought back to lead 7-6 at halftime.

Esgro's Kick Blocked

The early minutes of the third quarter saw Tony Esgro's punt blocked on his own 37, from there Dayton's Mr. Smith slash for another touchdown; Ward then converted and the Flyers took a 13-7 lead.

The Wildcats tried in vain to score in the fourth period, but a Magee pass was intercepted on the Villanova 9. From here the fine Dayton quarterback, Ken Bockenstette, after several trics through the line, finally scored. The extra point attempt was wide and the score stayed 19-7.

The blocked punt and numerous penalties (87 yards worth) aided greatly in the Wildcats ninth setback.

Better Than Record

Although the record strongly indicates to the opposite, this year's team was not absurdly outclassed by all its opponents.

In at least 4 of those 9 loses the winning team was held on equal terms throughout the game, only to have some hitherto unknown halfback break loose for a "Meriwell" touchdown run, or have a kick blocked or an unnecessary penalty called against Villanova.

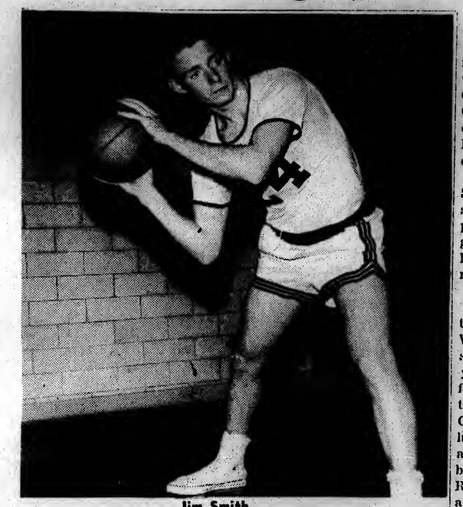
Scoring and Height to Aid Freshman Team

by Joe Slavin

Villanova can boast of one of the best well rounded freshman teams to appear here in many years. For height which is a necessary factor on any team it has three men 6'5" or better. For a scoring punch it has the top three scorers from last year's Philadelphia Catholic High School League. Coach "Maje" McDonnell is very pleased with the outlook for the year.

Perhaps one of the most promising prospects from the Philadelphia area is Joe Ryan, 6'2", from St. Josephs Prep. In overall scoring Ryan finished second to Wilt Chamberland. He was voted the Most Valuable Player in the Catholic League and received a berth on the All City team.

St. Anne's Academy, N.Y., contributes Ken Harrison, 6'1", an excellent ball handler with a fantastic ability for "getting up" under the boards.



Ray Kowalkski (6'5") also adds strength to the rebound department.

Average 27 per Game

George Emma of Freeport L. I., where he averaged 27 points a game in his senior year, and Pat Carey from West Catholic, who finished third in the Catholic scoring, are expected to add to the scoring column.

Rounding out the squad are Jim Muldoon, who played a semester of frosh ball last year; Ed Keating, St. Francis Prep; Ron Rossi, Merchantville, N. J.; Jim Tobin, South Catholic; and Jim Koczak, Newcastle, Delaware.

Frosh Win First 2 Games; Defeat King's, W. Catholic

Jim Smith
Villanova's Basketball Captain

Off to a good start, Villanova's freshman basketball team quickly racked up victories number one and two last week, by defeating the King's College Frosh, 81-53, and West Catholic High School, 79-72, in cage contests held at the Field House Friday night and Saturday afternoon repectively.

Paced by Joe Ryan, a former St. Joseph's High School high scorer, who netted 16 and 25 points respectively in the two games, the Frosh took early leads in both games and were never headed.

Showed Surprising Ability

On Friday night, playing for the first time in the Blue and White uniforms before a partisan Field House crowd, the yearlings showed surprising flashes of ability, along with their evident lack of experience. On numerous occasions, the red hot ball handling of Pat Carey and Jim Muldoon completely baffled the King's team while Ryan and Kenny Harrison did a splendid job of clearing the boards for the Wildcats.

Harrison, a product of New York's basketball factory, was largely responsible for the exceptional rebounding which the youngsters turned in. Only 6'1", Harrison climbed well into the air to consistly bring down the ball. He was assisted in both contests by 6'5" Gene Opella and Ralph Kowalkowski.

The point production chore was handled chiefly by Ryan, whose unerring one-handed set and jump made him high scorer in both games. Carey, Muldoon, Harrison, and George Emma also hit double figures in at least one of the contests.

Led By 15 At The Half

In the West Catholic game, the Frosh played nip and tuck with the Philadelphia school for most of the early part of the game, but Ryan got hot in the last few minutes before the half, and the fledlings left during intermission with a 15 point lead.

Villanova then cooled off, and West Catholic pulled to within seven points of the Frosh, but their bid came too late in the game, and the Frosh won, 79-72.

Quarterback for the Saints, Ralph DiCicco, fades to throw a pass during a semi-final intramural football game played last week. The championship game will be played today.

Court Captain Smith Regards Team As "Better Than Popular Opinion"

by Norm Shachoy

The concensus of opinion concerning Villanova's chances in the forthcoming basketball season seems to point toward a very poor record. However, if we are to judge by the opinion of Jim Smith, red haired, soft spoken captain of Villanova's team we should fare "much better than popular expectations". If Jim's past performances are any indication of our chances we should, indeed, fare better than expected.

Jim is a native of Philadelphia, and a graduate of West Catholic High School, where he began his basketball career. In his senior year at West Catholic his team won the city championship.

It is interesting to note that three members of that championship team are now captains at Philadelphia area colleges; Jim, here at Villanova, Joe Sturgis, of Penn and Charlie Singley, of La Salle. The City Series should, therefore, prove interesting in an added respect, to see if a member of that high school championship team will captain his college team to another and greater city championship.

Jim expressed great interest in the forthcoming city series for this reason and he believes the Villanova team which he leads has a very good chance of becoming the Series Champions.

Upon graduation from High School Jim entered Loyola college in California. He transferred to Villanova from Loyola in February of his freshman year, and has played Varsity Baskeball here since he became eligible in his Sophomore year.

He is now a senior in the Arts School and is majoring in Philosophy. The only athlete from Villanova to be named to the National Collegiate Who's

(Continued on Page 11)

Don McComb
Elected Varsity Club President

Don McComb Elected By Varsity Club

Last Thursday at a meeting held in the Blue Room in the Field House, the Varsity Club of Villanova gathered to elect new o..cers for this year. The monogram winners elected this year's captain of the football squad, Don McComb, to the presidency. Don succeeded Jack Devine, the captain of the basketball squad last year. Bobby Powers, a junior on this year's basketball team, was chosen to work with McComb in the capacity of vice-president.

The offices of secretary and treasurer were awarded to John Cirino and Bill Reilly. Cirino is also a senior and on Al Severance's basketball squad. Reilly is a senior on this year's track team.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

WVIL to Air Eight Palestra Cage Contests

Beginning with tomorrow night's game against St. Francis of Loretto, Villanova's campus radio station, WVIL, will broadcast eight Wednesday night basketball games from the Palestra, Station Manager Don Alton announced last week.

The same students who originated live broadcast of basketball games last season will air the games again this year. They include broadcaster Ed Shea; Jim Judge, spotter; Tom Smith, statistician; Len Bellanca, engineer and Mike Russo, interviewer.

All broadcasts will begin at 8 p.m.

SPORTS CHATTER

A Season In Retrospect

By BOB STRAYTON

Last night, in the spacious banquet hall of the Penn Sherwood Hotel in Philadelphia, the Philadelphia Alumni Club held its 34th annual football banquet, to fete the coaches and team members of the 1955 Villanova squad. In years past, these same Alumni have had a great deal more to honor, it would seem, than this year's team. Not very often in the history of Villanova football has a team had a record as disastrous as this year's one victory, nine loss effort.

The results of competition this season have had an interesting, if not varier, effect upon legion of the Villanova supporters. Better players should be temped to the Wildcat fold. The school should get new coaches. Phooey on big-time football, we should play in our own class. These are just a few of the spicy bits of vitriol which have been waiting along with the campus breezes since the season ended two weeks ago. And the attitude of many of the authors of these "quotable quotes" is understandable, and, in many cases, almost justifiable.

Season And Schedule Not Normal

But we have to take into consideration the fact that the 1955 Villanova football team was not playing a normal schedule in a normal season. The team was involced in something more than football season. It was undergoing a metamorphosis from small time to big time football. When, on September 24, the team engaged Baylor at Municipal Stadium in the opening game of the season, the transition to big-time was entering the final phase previous to its completion. At this time, the labor of realizing such a task is concluded. We have now attained the big-time ranks, and the burden of responsibility for the position of Villanova, and the prestige of its gridiron aggregations, lies heavily on the shoulders of future teams, not with the Villanova team of 1955.

Appreciable Change For The Better

True, the season certainly was a fruitless one as far as the won-lost records go, and very few people realize that better than the coaches and team. But to the spectator who has watched Villanova football fr any length of time, there was a noticeable and appreciable change for the better pertaining to the tangibles of the game. The team made mistakes, possibly more than most teams, but that can be credited to the fundamental lack of experience of the individual ball players. On the whole, the capabilities of the apprentice athlete, although present, were hidden by the rawness of his inexperience.

Villanova's offensive team, plagued as it was by the bad breaks brought about by inexperience, certainly lacked lustre throughout the season. Defensively, however, the veneer of good grooming by Messrs. Reagan, Mackrides, Rogers, Michaels, and Barnes cracked but slightly during the ambitious campaign. In fundamentals, the team was well-drilled and capable. Nor was the attitude of the players open to unfavorable scrutiny. Spirit and enthusiasm was a constant goal to all concerned with the team. And yet Villanova lost football game upon football game. Only two, however, were shocking disappointments. Most of the losses were expected in the minds of Villanova supporters, team members, and coaches.

Was It Offensive Inertia?

But did the fact that Villanova actually did lose ball games stem primarily from the team's offensive inertia? It doesn't seem possible, nor is it very probable. Once again, the loss of ball games must be accounted for by the team's basic inexperience. Had Villanova's lack of offense been replaced by scoring ability, the team's record would have been much more compatible than it actually was. The narrow point spread which resulted in a Villanova loss so many times during the season might easily have been supplanted by a Wildcat victory had the quarterback or some other team member been a more seasoned veteran. Basically, therefore, the problem of Villanova's football impotency during the past season stems from its lack of experience. And sufficient experience cannot be gained in a season's activity.

Next year, the true ability of Villanova's football team will be seen more concretely, because then there should be no excuses.

Capt. Smith

(Continued from Page 10)

Who this year, Jim has an excellent record both scholastically and in athletics. He spends his summers at a Big Brother's camp here in Pennsylvania with other Villanovans—Bob Schafer, Tom Foley, and Jack Devine.

Upon graduation from Villanova Jim is not exactly sure what he will do, but he is considering Law School, or if he receives a favorable offer, he will play professional basketball.

Paper's Cartoonist

(Continued from Page 3)

have been pretty early, since he contributed some art work to publications at his Baldwin (Long Island) High School.

Even though he has no plans to try commercial art, for the next two years Phil will probably be continually scratching that evenly-combed black hair for smile-inducing situations which can be fitted with five o'clock-shadowed Villanovans in their baggy, patched khakis.

Have You Seen It Yet?
THE VILLANOVA PHARMACY

But New Proposal In Offing:

Nurses' Seating Request Nixed by Student Council

The student council last night defeated the Nursing Division's fourth attempt to gain a seat on that organization.

The vote was 13½ to 13.

Another opportunity for acceptance of such a proposal was granted, however. It will allow nurses to bring forth, through the elections committee, ways and means committe, and fraternities and societies committees, a revised constitutional amendment proposal at the first SC meeting after the Christmas recess.

The plan submitted last night, had it been accepted, would resolve the question of the nurses gaining a seat as a school of the University, just as in regards to the Arts, Engineering and Commerce and Finance schools.

The plan would have allowed the nurses to elect one non-resident junior and one non-resident senior representative, the later serving for two years. Such a plan, since the procedure would be repeated next year, would give the nurses three seats next fall.

Sophomore nurses are eligible to run for day-hop representative in the class elections so the possibility of four representatives next year exists.

Presidential Succession Act

An important piece of business taken care of at the previous Student Council meeting was the decision that, in case of vacancy of the position of president, the vice-president would succeed. In the case of both posts being vacated, new elections will be held.

NFCCS News

On Saturday afternoon, December 10 the Forensics Commission of the Philadelphia Region, N.F.C.C.S. will sponsor its first annual Debate Tournament at LaSalle College.

* * *

DATES TO REMEMBER:

DEBATE TOURNAMENT AT LASALLE Dec 10
NEXT REIONAL COUNCIL MEETING Dec. 11

Is your Commission planning activity of Regional interest?

Notify the N.F.C.C.S. Publicity Commitee
Box 388, LaSalle College
Philadelphia 41, Pa.

Fete S-J's Kiddies

(Continued from Page 1)

Students planning to escort Johnnies have been reminded by members of the outing committee that they:

May use their own cars.

May double up and split expenses with buddies.

Should take out the kids if they sign up.

Winding up the three-tiered orphans' projects is the Christmas Party next Wednesday at the Home. Juniors and varsity football players--including tackle Ron Cherubini as the tourist from the North Pole--will put on several skits and provide refreshments and gifts for the Johnnies.

Dougherty Hall

(Continued from Page 1)

new University Shop, stocked by Rogers-Peet; the campus cleaners, the campus barber, offices for all publications and several organizations, offices of the Student Council and the Dean of Student Activities, three lounges, and the modernistic Radio Station Studios.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Five Villanovans In Immaculata Christmas Play

Jack Padova, Bill Vincent, Bill Brown, Nick Rinaldi and Mal Didie of Belle Masque are joining the Cue and Curtain players of Immaculata in enacting "Fiestas Navidad", a Christmas moral play.

The play opens Dec. 15 in Coatesville and then shifts to the Immaculata Field House for performances on Dec. 16 and 18.

Sister Mary Donatus, I.H.M., moderator of dramatics at Immaculata, wrote the play.

Bans Dropped

(Continued from Page 1)

set aside for the exclusive use of seniors and their guests.

Permitting seniors to own and operate cars on condition that they be registered with the Dean of Men and have written permission of parents.

All items were turned down by unanimous decisions and the lone proposal was passed by a "clear cut" vote, Father Donnellon indicated. Presiding over the Board is the Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., Dean of Men. Making up the discipline board are priest-prefects in residence halls.

Relaxing the senior restriction means that fourth-year men will have no time limit on Friday and Saturday nights as long as they sign in and out. But the Board insisted that this does not imply any looseness in enforcement of curfews on holiday eves.

The Board reportedly turned down the "cars" privilege for these reasons:

University needs land for building expansion;

Parking cars on campus on Sundays would apparently conflict with parking of cars by parishoners attending Mass in the Chapel; and

Seniors might be able to park the cars this year, but next year there will be a greater proportion of day hops and a greater number of seniors in future years.

The Board decided that no formal dinner could be held because all kitchen equipment from Mendel will be transferred to Dougherty over the Christmas layoff and students will have to begin using the new dining hall as soon as they return.

The President's Committee was told, however, that an informal ceremony might be held at supper Jan. 3--first day of classes after Christmas. Involved in the ceremony would be members of the President's Committee, the three class presidents, Father Donnellon, the Rev. George McLaughlin, O.S.A., and the Rev. John J. Curran.

The request for a senior lounge was voted down because:

One administration official said he did not think seniors would make sufficient use of a lounge to warrant exclusive use;

A space problem would arise since one lounge will be reserved for faculty members.

One administration official reportedly said he didn't think seniors would have much trouble making the lounge exclusively for fourth-year men.

All the pleasure comes thru
...THE TASTE IS GREAT!

All the pleasure comes thru in Filter Tip Tareyton. You get the full, rich taste of Tareyton's quality tobaccos in a filter cigarette that smokes milder, smokes smoother, draws easier ...the only filter cigarette with a genuine cork tip.

Tareyton's filter is pearl-gray because it contains Activated Charcoal for real filtration. Activated Charcoal is used to purify air, water, foods and beverages, so you can appreciate its importance in a filter cigarette. Yes, Filter Tip Tareyton is the filter cigarette that really filters, that you can really taste... and the taste is great!

©A.T.CO.

THE BEST IN FILTERED SMOKING

FILTER TIP TAREYTON

PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

Frosh Win First 2 Games; Defeat King's, W. Catholic

Jim Smith
Villanova's Basketball Captain

Off to a good start, Villanova's freshman basketball team quickly racked up victories number one and two last week, by defeating the King's College Frosh, 81-53, and West Catholic High School, 79-72, in cage contests held at the Field House Friday night and Saturday afternoon repectively.

Paced by Joe Ryan, a former St. Joseph's High School high scorer, who netted 16 and 25 points respectively in the two games, the Frosh took early leads in both games and were never headed.

Showed Surprising Ability

On Friday night, playing for the first time in the Blue and White uniforms before a partisan Field House crowd, the yearlings showed surprising flashes of ability, along with their evident lack of experience. On numerous occasions, the red hot ball handling of Pat Carey and Jim Muldoon completely baffled the King's team while Ryan and Kenny Harrison did a splendid job of clearing the boards for the Wildcats.

Harrison, a product of New York's basketball factory, was largely responsible for the exceptional rebounding which the youngsters turned in. Only 6'1", Harrison climbed well into the air to consistly bring down the ball. He was assisted in both contests by 6'5" Gene Opella and Ralph Kowalkowski.

The point production chore was handled chiefly by Ryan, whose unerring one-handed set and jump made him high scorer in both games. Carey, Muldoon, Harrison, and George Emma also hit double figures in at least one of the contests.

Led By 15 At The Half

In the West Catholic game, the Frosh played nip and tuck with the Philadelphia school for most of the early part of the game, but Ryan got hot in the last few minutes before the half, and the fledlings left during intermission with a 15 point lead.

Villanova then cooled off, and West Catholic pulled to within seven points of the Frosh, but their bid came too late in the game, and the Frosh won, 79-72.

Quarterback for the Saints, Ralph DiCicco, fades to throw a pass during a semi-final intramural football game played last week. The championship game will be played today.

SPORTS CHATTER

A Season In Retrospect

By BOB STRAYTON

Last night, in the spacious banquet hall of the Penn Sherwood Hotel in Philadelphia, the Philadelphia Alumni Club held its 34th annual football banquet, to fete the coaches and team members of the 1955 Villanova squad. In years past, these same Alumni have had a great deal more to honor, it would seem, than this year's team. Not very often in the history of Villanova football has a team had a record as disastrous as this year's one victory, nine loss effort.

The results of competition this season have had an interesting, if not varied, effect upon legion of the Villanova supporters. Better players should be temped to the Wildcat fold. The school should get new coaches. Phooey on big-time football, we should play in our own class. These are just a few of the spicy bits of vitriol which have been waiting along with the campus breezes since the season ended two weeks ago. And the attitude of many of the authors of these "quotable quotes" is understandable, and, in many cases, almost justifiable.

Season And Schedule Not Normal

But we have to take into consideration the fact that the 1955 Villanova football team was not playing a normal schedule in a normal season. The team was involved in something more than football season. It was undergoing a metamorphosis from small time to big time football. When, on September 24, the team engaged Baylor at Municipal Stadium in the opening game of the season, the transition to big-time was entering the final phase previous to its completion. At this time, the labor of realizing such a task is concluded. We have now attained the big-time ranks, and the burden of responsibility for the position of Villanova, and the prestige of its gridiron aggregations, lies heavily on the shoulders of future teams, not with the Villanova team of 1955.

Appreciable Change For The Better

True, the season certainly was a fruitless one as far as the won-lost records go, and very few people realize that better than the coaches and team. But to the spectator who has watched Villanova football fr any length of time, there was a noticeable and appreciable change for the better pertaining to the tangibles of the game. The team made mistakes, possibly more than most teams, but that can be credited to the fundamental lack of experience of the individual ball players. On the whole, the capabilities of the apprentice athlete, although present, were hidden by the rawness of his inexperience.

Villanova's offensive team, plagued as it was by the bad breaks brought about by inexperience, certainly lacked lustre throughout the season. Defensively, however, the veneer of good grooming by Messrs. Reagan, Mackrides, Rogers, Michaels, and Barnes cracked but slightly during the ambitions campaign. In fundamentals, the team was well-drilled and capable. Nor was the attitude of the players open to unfavorable scrutiny. Spirit and enthusiasm was a constant goal to all concerned with the team. And yet Villanova lost football game upon football game. Only two, however, were shocking disappointments. Most of the losses were expected in the minds of Villanova supporters, team members, and coaches.

Was It Offensive Inertia?

But did the fact that Villanova actually did lose ball games stem primarily from the team's offensive inertia? It doesn't seem possible, nor is it very probable. Once again, the loss of ball games must be accounted for by the team's basic inexperience. Had Villanova's lack of offense been replaced by scoring ability, the team's record would have been much more compatible than it actually was. The narrow point spread which resulted in a Villanova loss so many times during the season might easily have been supplanted by a Wildcat victory had the quarterback or some other team member been a more seasoned veteran. Basically, therefore, the problem of Villanova's football impotency during the past season stems from its lack of experience. And sufficient experience cannot be gained in a season's activity.

Next year, the true ability of Villanova's football team will be seen more concretely, because then there should be no excuses.

Court Captain Smith Regards Team As "Better Than Popular Opinion"

by Norm Shachoy

The concensus of opinion concerning Villanova's chances in the forthcoming basketball season seems to point toward a very poor record. However, if we are to judge by the opinion of Jim Smith, red haired, soft spoken captain of Villanova's team we should fare "much better than popular expectations". If Jim's past performances are any indication of our chances we should, indeed, fare better than expected.

Jim is a native of Philadelphia, and a graduate of West Catholic High School, where he began his basketball career. In his senior year at West Catholic his team won the city championship.

It is interesting to note that three members of that championship team are now captains at Philadelphia area colleges; Jim, here at Villanova, Joe Sturgis, of Penn and Charlie Singley, of La Salle. The City Series should, therefore, prove interesting in an added respect, to see if a member of that high school championship team will captain his college team to another and greater city championship.

Jim expressed great interest in the forthcoming city series for this reason and he believes the Villanova team which he leads has a very good chance of becoming the Series Champions.

Upon graduation from High School Jim entered Loyola college in California. He transferred to Villanova from Loyola in February of his freshman year, and has played Varsity Baskeball here since he became eligible in his Sophomore year.

He is now a senior in the Arts School and is majoring in Philosophy. The only athlete from Villanova to be named to the National Collegiate Who's

(Continued on Page 11)

Don McComb
Elected Varsity Club President

Don McComb Elected By Varsity Club

Last Thursday at a meeting held in the Blue Room in the Field House, the Varsity Club of Villanova gathered to elect new o...cers for this year. The monogram winners elected this year's captain of the football squad, Don McComb, to the presidency. Don succeeded Jack Devine, the captain of the basketball squad last year. Bobby Powers, a junior on this year's basketball team, was chosen to work with McComb in the capacity of vice-president.

The offices of secretary and treasurer were awarded to John Cirino and Bill Reilly. Cirino is also a senior and on Al Severance's basketball squad. Reilly is a senior on this year's track team.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

WVIL to Air Eight Palestra Cage Contests

Beginning with tomorrow night's game against St. Francis of Loretto, Villanova's campus radio station, WVIL, will broadcast eight Wednesday night basketball games from the Palestra, Station Manager Don Alton announced last week.

The same students who originated live broadcast of basketball games last season will air the games again this year. They include broadcaster Ed Shea; Jim Judge, spotter; Tom Smith, statistician; Len Bellanca, engineer and Mike Russo, interviewer.

All broadcasts will begin at 8 p.m.

Capt. Smith

(Continued from Page 10)

Who this year, Jim has an excellent record both scholastically and in athletics. He spends his summers at a Big Brother's camp here in Pennsylvania with other Villanovans—Bob Schafer, Tom Foley, and Jack Devine.

Upon graduation from Villanova Jim is not exactly sure what he will do, but he is considering Law School, or if he receives a favorable offer, he will play professional basketball.

Paper's Cartoonist

(Continued from Page 3)

have been pretty early, since he contributed some art work to publications at his Baldwin (Long Island) High School.

Even though he has no plans to try commercial art, for the next two years Phil will probably be continually scratching that evenly-combed black hair for smile-inducing situations which can be fitted with five o'clock-shadowed Villanovans in their baggy, patched khakis.

Have You Seen It Yet?
THE VILLANOVA PHARMACY

But New Proposal In Offing:

Nurses' Seating Request Nixed by Student Council

The student council last night defeated the Nursing Division's fourth attempt to gain a seat on that organization.

The vote was 13½ to 13.

Another opportunity for acceptance of such a proposal was granted, however. It will allow nurses to bring forth, through the elections committee, ways and means committe, and fraternities and societies committees, a revised constitutional amendment proposal at the first SC meeting after the Christmas recess.

The plan submitted last night, had it been accepted, would resolve the question of the nurses gaining a seat as a school of the University, just as in regards to the Arts, Engineering and Commerce and Finance schools.

The plan would have allowed the nurses to elect one non-resident junior and one non-resident senior representative, the later serving for two years. Such a plan, since the procedure would be repeated next year, would give the nurses three seats next fall.

Sophomore nurses are eligible to run for day-hop representative in the class elections so the possibility of four representatives next year exists.

Presidential Succession Act

An important piece of business taken care of at the previous Student Council meeting was the decision that, in case of vacancy of the position of president, the vice-president would succeed. In the case of both posts being vacated, new elections will be held.

NFCCS News

On Saturday afternoon, December 10 the Forensics Commission of the Philadelphia Region, N.F.C.C.S. will sponsor its first annual Debate Tournament at LaSalle College.

* * *

DATES TO REMEMBER:

DEBATE TOURNAMENT AT LASALLE Dec 10
NEXT REIONAL COUNCIL MEETING Dec. 11

Is your Commission planning activity of Regional interest?

Notify the N.F.C.C.S. Publicity Commitee
Box 388, LaSalle College
Philadelphia 41, Pa.

Fete S-J's Kiddies

(Continued from Page 1)

Students planning to escort Johnnies have been reminded by members of the outing committee that they:

May use their own cars.

May double up and split expenses with buddies.

Should take out the kids if they sign up.

Winding up the three-tiered orphans' projects is the Christmas Party next Wednesday at the Home. Juniors and varsity football players--including tackle Ron Cherubini as the tourist from the North Pole--will put on several skits and provide refreshments and gifts for the Johnnies.

Dougherty Hall

(Continued from Page 1)

new University Shop, stocked by Rogers-Peet; the campus cleaners, the campus barber, offices for all publications and several organizations, offices of the Student Council and the Dean of Student Activities, three lounges, and the modernistic Radio Station Studios.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

All the pleasure comes thru

...THE TASTE IS GREAT!

All the pleasure comes thru in Filter Tip Tareyton. You get the full, rich taste of Tareyton's quality tobaccos in a filter cigarette that smokes milder, smokes smoother, draws easier ...the only filter cigarette with a genuine cork tip.

Tareyton's filter is pearl-gray because it contains Activated Charcoal for real filtration. Activated Charcoal is used to purify air, water, foods and beverages, so you can appreciate its importance in a filter cigarette. Yes, Filter Tip Tareyton is the filter cigarette that really filters, that you can really taste... and the taste is great!

©A.T.CO.

THE BEST IN FILTERED SMOKING

FILTER TIP TAREYTON

PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

Five Villanovans In Immaculata Christmas Play

Jack Padova, Bill Vincent, Bill Brown, Nick Rinaldi and Mal Didie of Belle Masque are joining the Cue and Curtain players of Immaculata in enacting "Fiestas Navidad", a Christmas moral play.

The play opens Dec. 15 in Coatesville and then shifts to the Immaculata Field House for performances on Dec. 16 and 18.

Sister Mary Donatus, I.H.M., moderator of dramatics at Immaculata, wrote the play.

Bans Dropped

(Continued from Page 1)

set aside for the exclusive use of seniors and their guests.

Permitting seniors to own and operate cars on condition that they be registered with the Dean of Men and have written permission of parents.

All items were turned down by unanimous decisions and the lone proposal was passed by a "clear cut" vote, Father Donnellon indicated. Presiding over the Board is the Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., Dean of Men. Making up the discipline board are priest-prefects in residence halls.

Relaxing the senior restriction means that fourth-year men will have no time limit on Friday and Saturday nights as long as they sign in and out. But the Board insisted that this does not imply any looseness in enforcement of curfews on holiday eves.

The Board reportedly turned down the "cars" privilege for these reasons:

University needs land for building expansion;

Parking cars on campus on Sundays would apparently conflict with parking of cars by parishoners attending Mass in the Chapel; and

Seniors might be able to park the cars this year, but next year there will be a greater proportion of day hops and a greater number of seniors in future years.

The Board decided that no formal dinner could be held because all kitchen equipment from Mendel will be transferred to Dougherty over the Christmas layoff and students will have to begin using the new dining hall as soon as they return.

The President's Committee was told, however, that an informal ceremony might be held at supper Jan. 3--first day of classes after Christmas. Involved in the ceremony would be members of the President's Committee, the three class presidents, Father Donnellon, the Rev. George McLaughlin, O.S.A., and the Rev. John J. Curran.

The request for a senior lounge was voted down because:

One administration official said he did not think seniors would make sufficient use of a lounge to warrant exclusive use;

A space problem would arise since one lounge will be reserved for faculty members.

One administration official reportedly said he didn't think seniors would have much trouble making the lounge exclusively for fourth-year men.

Strictly Opinion

By DON ALTON

(Continued From Page 4)

cause of some concern, and the reply to the method that the "Johnnies" acquired them was interrupted by a noticable movement in the toyland in the direction of Santa's air conditioned North Pole. Our search for our missing charge led us to the North Pole habitat of Santa. Here we found "Johnnie" A, our lost leader.

He was standing in the middle of this immense room devoted to the polar home of Santa at Gimbel's. Along with a s'gh of relief at finding our missing lad, we were amazed to discover that he was the cause of all the excitement. Santa held a poor second to the attraction of the occupation of our ingenious orphan. It seems that he had noticed that the air-conditioning blowers had drawn a large number of the light ballons out of the hand of the children, and these were stuck to the high ceiling of the Pole. This lad had accepted his gift of one ballon, rushed from counter to counter imploring the sales help for string, and set himself to the task of salvaging the lost ballons. He would allow his anchored ballon to float up until he maneuvered it along side of the stuck one, and then he began to tangle the strings of each ballon. After this trying feat was accomplished he would carefully bring his prize down to the floor of the store. When one the ballons slipped out of its trap, and ascended to the roof again, one would think that one of the Phillies had missed the fence of Connie Mack Stadium from the reaction of the absorbed crowd.

To cap this tale of a surprising youngster, one final twist of the story must be told. After accomplishing his orig.nal mission of supplying his fellow "Johnnies", the lad in question had returned to grapple for more of the floating treasures, but not from greed. Gathered around this enterprising youth were several grateful benefactors of his genius. Every extra balloon salvaged from the roof found a home in the hand of the closest youngster in the store, without an discretion whatsoever.

You see, "Johnnie" A. was considerate enough to remember the wallets of his new found benefactors, yet he relied on the resoures at his disposal to satisfy the hidden desires of his friends and the strange children in Santa's North Pole. Many of the adults looking on this salvage operation flushed with shame when they observed the unselfish action of one little orphan who gave so much although he had so little of his own. . .a balloon and borrowed string.

We'll see you and your "Johnnie" in Santa's toyland this weekend, and bring a date . . .share your chance to reward all of the little "Johnnies".

"Life of Mary In Art" On Library Display

(Continued from Page 8)

"I found myself cutting pictures from Christmas art, calendars and magazines. Originally I had no intention of doing anything with them other than creating a collection.

"As my children grew up and had need of pictures to illustrate educational projects, my pictures were hauled out and used frequently. They saved the day for more than one of their essays and themes."

The pictures are filed carefully according to the artist or school or theme. She doesn't mount them except for a specific exhibit.

"The Life of Mary" is a colorful collection depicting in 16 pictures by famous artists the life of Mary from the time of the "Presentation in the Temple" by Tinoretto, to the "Coronation of the Virgin" by Velasquez. They have general appeal, and were especially appropriate for the observance of the Marian Year.

Mrs. Domas' children are also ardent admirers of the pictures and have grown up among them.

Mrs. Domas was asked last year by the East Orange Public Library to prepare an exhibit of "The Christmas Story in Art." She delivered it with 30 poster-size displays on that subject. Twelve gave the story of Christmas, beginning with the birth of the Virgin and going through the incidents to the return from Egypt, when the Holy Family was no longer in danger.

She a'so readied displays for children, showing 10 different forms of expression of art, including illuminations, woodcuts, sculpture, tapestries, marion ettes, paintings, woodcarvings, stained glass windows, Russian icons and Chinese prints. The subject was of the Nativity.

Her ultimate aim, she says, is to establish a free lending library of religious pictures to be shown in high schools, seminaries and libraries throughout the country.

Each exhibit is accompanied by a loose leaf textbook in which is described the background and history of the pictures. Much of the research was compiled through the co-operation of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York; the art department of the Newark Library; and the Frick Museum in New York.

The display department of the Metropolitan Museum also gave her valuable information on how to mount her pictures.

Mrs. Domas has helped establish a parochial school library in Bogota, N. J. and has promoted library work wherever her contacts have taken her.

VILLANOVA NIGHT

Those fabulous Dorseys, Tommy and Jimmy, current Stars of their own television show, headline "Villanova Night" at Bill Dailey's Meadowbrook Inn on Route 23 in Cedar Grove, N. J.

The date of the affair is December 29.

The band of this renowned musical duo features Louis Bellson on the drums.

Students or alumni may make reservations by writing to Eddie Zipf, 907 Lancaster Ave., Bryn Mawr, or calling LA-58536.

"Fine Arts" Topic of Discussion at Villanova AAUP Meeting

"The Fine Arts in a Liberal Curriculm" was the topic of discussion at the second monthly meeting of the American Association of University Professors, Villanova Chapter, held Nov. 30.

The discussion followed the report of a sub-committee on fine arts, which is a part of the Committee on Curriculm Study. The sub committee was headed by Dr. Harold Gill Reuschlien, and he was assisted by Mr. Jerome J. Fischer, Rev. William J. Krupa, O.S.A. and Rev. John J.. Vrana, O.S.A.

Under the system proposed, the liberal arts student would take three courses in the fine arts, each one semester long. In sophomore year the student would study aesthetics, in junior year, an introduction to the visual arts of painting, sculpture and architecture, and in senior year, an introduction to music. These recommendations were endorsed by the Chapter.

The committee on Curriculm study was set up last year to form an ideal liberal arts curriculm for any Catholic university. The committee is divided into six sub-committee: philosophy, social sciences, fine arts, English, religion, and math and sciences.

Villanovan

Vol. 30—No. 8 Villanova University, Villanova, Pa. December 14, 1955

New Fraternity Project:

PKP Orphans' Party Tonight in Wayne; Early Pledging Set

Pictured at left is George Gorham, president of PKP, and above is Ed Ernst, who is chairman of the Orphans' Party scheduled for tnight in Wayne, sponsored by their fraternity.

Tonight Phi Kappa Pi fraternity inaugurates a project it hopes will become a permanent Christmas - time event — the brothers will sponsor a party for the orphans at St. Michael's Home for Girls in Wayne.

Gifts Given

Fifteen PKP's will distribute gifts to the girls after an entertainment program and a visit from Santa Claus. The fraternity will present the home with a phonograph console.

Party chairman is Ed Ernst. He will be assisted by Frank Okenka, Jack and Tom O'Rouke, Larry Moy and Joe Corcoran.

Cartoons will be shown to the girls and refreshments will be served.

Initations Planned

Phi Kappa Pi initiations will be held early in the second semester, president Gorham announced at a regular meeting Monday.

He said plans are being formulated for the initiations, and a dinner dance will be held soon after the pledges are received.

Gorham also revealed that final plans for the fraternity's scholarship committee will be announced later. Purpose of the committee is to publicize all scholarships and fellowships which are available to fraternity brothers.

Communion Breakfast

At the fraternity's communion breakfast Sunday the Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O. S. A., Dean of the Arts and Sciences School, was the speaker. Members breakfasted at Stouffer's Restaurant in Ardmore.

At a smoker Monday night fraternity brothers saw "The Ten Tall Men", with refreshments passed out between reels.

Participants in the Phi Kappa Bowling League were reminded that individual and team prizes will be awarded at the end of the season. Games are rolled on the Field House lanes.

The VILLANOVAN staff extends best wishes to all its readers for a happy and holy holiday.

Prom, Dinner Dance Ticket Sales Pushed

Reservations Urged For Senior Fete

Seniors have been urged to make their reservations early for the dinner dance Jan. 14 at Palumbo's night club so they can sit at tables with their friends.

Tickets, at $10 a couple, may be purchased by the University's 470 seniors ticket co-chairmen Nick Mazzoni (203 Sullivan) and Tom Meaney (second floor Good Counsel).

Other preparations for the affair, to be held at the site of last year's Junior Week success, are being handled by Palumbo's, according to Mazzoni.

Like Last Year

A format similar to the one used in May is expected. Five or six floor show acts will be staged and several bands will provide music for dancing.

The "split level" arrangement used for the Junior dinner dance will be employed. An elevated stage will be employed, providing entertainment for couples on one level while couples on the other level eat.

Preparations being made by the night club include the printing of tickets.

Carol Collier
Prom Vocalist

Patron List Drive On; Morrow Band

Tickets sales, patrons drive and decorations planning were being pushed this week by chairmen Paul Menz and Dave Burns and the sub-chairmen for the Senior Prom Jan. 13 in the Field House.

Bids, priced at $6 per couple, may be purchased from ticket co-chairmen Tom Meaney (second floor Good Counsel) and Nick Mazzoni (203 Sullivan) and Burns McLindon (206 Sullivan) and their committeemen.

Program chairman Jim Bambury launched a drive for at least 270 patrons. Names will be included in the prom program for $1.

Menz and Burns are working on the prom theme but they said the plans will not be revealed until prom goers enter the Field House for the dance.

* * *

Buddy Morrow, a bandleader who worked his way up through the Paul Whiteman and Dorsey brothers' bands, will bring his four-year-old orchestra into the Field House to show patrons of the prom why he's being backed up by collegians all over the country.

Chosen the most promising band in the country in 1951 by the BILLBOARD magazine disk jockey poll, Morrow has been well-received at such schools as Michigan, Illinois, Ohio State,

(Continued on Page 15)

Vogeler Success:

Forum, Heartened By Results, Looks To New Speakers

The Villanova Forum, returned to campus with the applause of an overflow crowd, will sponsor "two or three" lectures during the second semester, the chairman said last week.

More than 700 students and guests from the area jammed into Commerce and Finance Auditorium last Tuesday night to hear Robert A. Vogeler dramatically describe his arrest and punishment at the hands of the Hungarian Communists.

Besides the 500 persons seated in the auditorium and some 200 standees, about 200 more persons were turned away, according to Mr. Charles Bruderle, forum chairman.

Not Picked Yet

Mr. Bruderle said that a speaker had not been selected for the next lecture in the series, tentatively scheduled for February. However, the Forum committee has "several" speakers under consideration, he added.

In his talk, Mr. Vogeler warned his listeners that the "greatest Communist threat facing the country today is a disease called disinterest".

He said he had reason to believe that some 5,000 American citizens were being detained behind the Iron Curtain; that the Communists, maintaining that the czars had no right to sell Alaska to the United States, still believe they own the territory.

Seemed Natural

As he stood behind the speaker's rostrum, the lights seemed to bring out the pain he suffered under his captors during his 17-month imprisonment.

Some members of the audience

(Continued on Page 15)

Kelly's Project:

"Year in Review" To Be Aired by WVIL Tomorrow

Tomorrow night from 8:30 to 9:30, WVIL will present its own style "spectacular", a chronological presentation of the highlights of the school year at Villanova so far, entitled 'Villanova University in Review".

The show is comprised of on-the-spot recordings of the events.

Highlights of the show, according to Bill Kelly, director of the production department, are recordings from the Blazer Ball,, the orphan's outing and Charity Ball, Belle Masque's "Caine Mutiny", speeches by Coach Frank Reagan and team captain Don McComb at foot-

(Continued on Page 15)

Groups Announce Presentations:

"Detective Story" BM's Spring Play; T 'n T To Give "Barbara of Seville"

Noake, Whalen, Padova Have Jump On Preparations

"Barbara of Seville," a Spanish - themed musical - comedy about a down and out bull-fighter, will be the Turf and Tinsel's spring show.

At a meeting of the club last night, George Noake, choreographer, announced that the scripts for the musical have already been composed. Music and lyrics, the duty of Bob Whalen, are underway.

Auditions Soon

Auditions will be held after the Christmas holidays, under the directions of Jack Kelly. Prospective new members of the club are invited to attend the auditions, and will be accepted at this time.

The office of the Turf and Tinsel club has now officially been moved to Dougherty Hall.

Mike Clark
BM President

Fr. Krupa's Troupe Plans Tryouts For March Production

Th spring production of the Belle Masque Dramatic Society will be Sidney Kingsley's "Detective Story".

Announcement of the group's choice was made jointly yesterday by BM moderator, the Rev. William Krupa, O.S.A., and president Mike Clark.

Scheduled for campus presentation March 8, 9, 10 and 11, the three-act play will begin to take form immediately after Christmas recess, according to Clark.

Moderator Pleased

"Father Krupa is delighted with the characterization that the play offers and is extremely anxious to get preparations underway," said Clark, whose group recently staged a very

(Continued on Page 15)

Outlooks of the Editor

TIME TO RELAX

The glorious Christmas layoff that's getting ready to jump from the calendar can mean more to Villanovans than lugging mail sacks, wading through snow drifts and partying. It can be the instrument for blowing off that excess steam — and freshening the freshman, sophomore, junior and senior for the three-week grind ahead.

When he drags his weary feet and aching head back to the Villanova green he can then be all set to sit up with an alert expression in those first classes January 3.

And by snuggling up with the books right from the start, he can save himself the biannual moaning about "If I'd had one more week . . .".

Take those January exams like another week-long break in the class routine . . . and maybe a short appeal during midnight Mass would help, too.

FOR NEXT TIME

The crowd which crammed into the Commerce and Finance Auditorium for Robert A. Vogeler's moving account of his imprisonment by the Hungarian Communists pointed out a couple of things:

1. A well - known speaker, combined with a topic of general interest, will lure students from all the University's dvisions from their textbooks.

2. The next lecture in this year's series might provide more comfort for students and friends of Villavnova if it is staged in the Field House.

Mr. Charles Bruderle and his committee and University officials who pushed the reactivation of the Villanova Forum are in line for a hearty "well done" for their efforts.

The VILLANOVAN stdff extends best wishes to all its readers for a happy and holy holiday.

President's Yule Message

TO ALL STUDENTS OF VILLANOVA UNIVERSITY:

The administration and I offer the sincere wish that Christmas this year will be glorious and rich beyond comparison in spiritual benefits. I hope very deeply that the Babe of Bethlehem will send you every kindly blessing with unlimited generosity on His birthday. For my part, I intend to remember all of you in my three Masses on that happy day.

I desire further that you will profit by the rewards promised to "men of good will", that you welcome the Child-God in much the same manner as did the shepherds.

May every moment of your Christmas be holy and memorable.

Yours in Christ,

REV. JAMES A. DONNELLON, O.S.A., President.

A Co-Ed Advocate Explains Why: by Jim Greenlee

Blind Tradition vs. Co-Education Hindrance To Scholastic Progress

"The modern woman wants to stand with her foot on the brass rail but won't say, 'The next one's on me.'".

This sarcasm summarizes the reaction of some critics to the female crusade for equality. It is particularly interesting, in that a now prominent issue in Catholic educational circles is the value of Catholic co-education.

The Weaker Sex?

Modern conventions condone many actions which only several decades ago would have been deemed startling. Foremost among these actions is the relations between the sexes. There was even a time when it was imprudent for a couple to be unchaperoned. Chaperones are now recognized as a rather bizarre idea which happily vanished with the silent movies. The "weaker sex" has progressed to where they are now infiltrating one of the last masculine monopolies, the tradition-nourished men's college.

Inevitable as the outcome is, there are still a few boisterous sentimentalists futilely resisting the influx. These could be catalogued as the traditionalist, the non-partisan and the cynic.

The Traditionalist

The traditionalist exclaims, "Our school has always been a male institution. Why depart from this custom now?"

The reason should be obvious. At the time the institution was founded, it may not have been customary for men and women to attend joint classes. What would have been considered radical thinking then, might be considered typical now.

There was a time when women were not even permited the fundamental right of franchise. The conventionalists of that era shrieked traditionalism for their alibi also.

Today's VILLANOVAN contains 16 pages, the largest non-Junior Week issue ever published here at Villanova. It is extra large for several reasons: first of all, we are in the midst of a special season that should bring forth a bit more effort; secondly, because of a great abundance of good feature material; and thirdly, because of some fine photo work that we felt would make for interesting spreads.

Tradition has been, and always should be, an integral part of every university. But it should never reach the degree where new traditions may not be established when necessary. There is a point where traditionalism may become antiquarianism.

The non-partisan says, "I don't have anything against co-education but there are other co-ed schools already established. Why not go there?"

This is a widespread fallacy. There are many coed schools, but most of them are not Catholic.

A Catholic Institution

There are a few Catholic coed schools but these are not adequate enough to handle the large number desirous of attending that type of institution, and this in turn means that, should a student wish to enroll in a coed school, he or she must be willing to forfeit the benefits which accrue only to those in a Catholic institution.

The cynic, (of whom there are fortunately few), is the last obstacle to mutual acceptance in dual education. He is the incredulist, who, even if female acceptance in a school has been realized, believes that by direct insult and general rudeness, he can cause a revision to the former policy of admission.

He obviously underestimates the modern woman.

Our social system, today, apparently no longer objects to co-education. Since this is so, there is an urgent need for more Catholic co-ed colleges.

Ambitious Semester In Review

In the past three months, Villanova University has witnessed many outstanding events in its most extensive expansion program.

Trooping back to the hallowed halls in September, the upperclassmen were greeted by a record number of some eleven hundred freshmen who had swelled Villanova's rapidly increasing enrollment to over three thousand students, a far cry from the scant two thousand of three years ago.

* * *

Newly completed Dougherty Hall stood out large and sleek, adding still another prominent ediface to the ever growing campus. Villanovans were honored by the visit of His Excellency, Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, who journeyed here to take part in the celebration marking the four hundredth anniversary of the death of St. Thomas of Villanova. On this memorable day the Cardinal was awarded an honorary Doctor of Literature tordegree by the Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O. S. A., University President. Other festivities included the dedication of Dougherty Hall by the Most Rev. John F. O'Hara, Archbishop of Philadelphia, and the breaking of the ground for the University's new law school by Cardinal Spellman.

* * *

Students looked forward to a successful football season, but were somewhat disappointed at the showing of the team. Nevertheless, almost every student realized full well that with a timely break or two the season would have told a different story. All were heartened by the fine showing of the freshman team, and expect great things next year from these skillful athletes.

Midterm exams appeared suddenly on the scene, panicking many students into wiping the long dust from their uncracked texts and descending on the heretofor unpopulated library like a startled flight of many birds. With Thanksgiving came theever-telling marks, and the disgruntled "F" men vowed "to study a little harder next time".

Now, new experiences await all Villanovans, for soon it will be Christmas.

Villanovan

Villanova University Villanova, Pa.
Harry C. Nash III
Editor-in-Chief

Tom Smith ..... Managing Editor
Bill Jones ..... Feature Editor
Frank Delany ..... News Editor
Jack Downing,
Bill Brown ..... Copy Editors
Steve Bernocco ..... Business Manager
Bob Ford
Bob Strayton ..... Sports Editors
Sig Holtz
Joe Ezerski ..... Photography Editors
Nick Pedano ..... Circulation Mgr.

Faculty Advisor
Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Scholar, Gentleman, Athlete,
LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1928, under the act of March 3, 1879.
MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE PRESS ASSOCIATION

Peering . . . .

With DICK PEER

. . . . . At the last days of the old chow hall. Praise God. Remember your first feast in there? Praise God. Thank heavens for that beautiful new building. Praise God. Let's hope it's open when we return in January. Praise God. Maybe the food will be better? ALLELUIA!

. . . . . At the Villanova Forum, recently revived and resurrected, we saw a turnaway crowd appear. The C & F auditorium almost burst its seams as students listened attentively from all vantage points. Perhaps cultural interest on the campus is not dead, but then the price was right.

. . . . . At the derelict building standing beside the Pie Shop, I can't help but think what use could be made of it. It seems to me that, since we have a new campus store, a new campus barber shop and a new campus radio station, this building would make a fine new campus saloon.

. . . . . Into the chapel Monday night, as one hundred blushing Rosemont glee clubbers trotted down the aisle singing something or other about Christmas. The attendance record was again shattered. The Sanctuary Society reports that it didn't even know there were that many Catholics in school.

. . . . . From a distance at the nurses who recently passed their National Rifle Association test. I can't help but comment, although it will probably provoke a cry of slander, that the nurses really look like they're getting down to business on the dating problem.

. . . . . At a report from Immaculata College which incredulously states that one of the lovelies there refused a date this weekend because she already had one. How about THAT?

The Challenge to Know Truth:

RIPPLED REFLECTIONS

By Bernard Bonniwell, Ph.D.

The quiet pond, deep and varied, lies discernibly clear in every detail when first perceived through a surface of undisturbed and unmarred perfection. It is in this moment of discovery that man's eternal longing for knowledge and truth is diminished and the powerful gift of fulfillment apparently possessed. Yet the ever present drive for ultimate learning, characteristic of thinging men throughout all ages, brings into focus the disturbing reality that the present understanding is abruptly limited to the depth at which light merges into darkness. Thus the unexplorgd, the unknown, is the eternal lure which draws insatiably upon man's curiosity and imagination, forcing him to probe into into the unclear depths.

The challenge to know ultimate truth is accepted and man begins the slow, tedious probing of the untested darkness. Certain new facets of the problem are recognized. But the new knowledge gained is tentative and uncertain for now the surface isbroken and marred, creating obscurity in the once clear areas of the pond. Testing man's patience, withdrawal from the broken surface is necessary so that the original unity may again be attained. The task endures. Man's curiosity, unrelenting and persistive, holds him faithfully to the unfinished task.

Perhaps the only truth is eternity—a quiet pond of great light and profound depth, with light and depth forever comingling. In the relentless search for temporal knowledge man must, ironically enough, always disturb the surface of the pond and so be rewarded with only the rippled reflections of truth.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

As a parent of a boy at Villanova, I received and read the VILLANOVAN with great interest and pleasure.

In your issue of November 2, I was somewhat intrigued by a poem (?) written by one Bill Jones.

It appears that Mr. Jones laments the fact that parents of college students find it necessary to keep a little dough at home for use in emergencies such as a touch of hunger and the need of a pair of pants now and then.

I though you might be interested in a parent's reaction as expressed by this little ditty:

Look, Mom, what the mailman brought-
It must be a leteer from Bill!
Well, it's postmarked Villanova-
Have we anything in the till?

Why, Mom, he wrote three months ago.
Remember? He sent that bill.
There's just a single sheet this time,
But you'd better check the till.

His pen is firm and very clear,
So I Don't suppose he's ill.
He writes "Hi Mom, and Hiya Dad,
Is there anything in the till?"..

Sincerely,
W. H Jones,
P. S. No. 123 '19

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

The Reader Speaks:

Letters to the Editor

ON ROSEMONT

DEAR SIR:

It was brought to my attention, in the December 6 issue of the VILLANOVAN, that we here at Villanova are "convenient" dates. This is the first time that I realized that I went to school with "boys who are lacking in respect for others," with "boys whose taste on dates is not cultural," with "boys who lack a mature attitude toward authority," and "possess animalistic tendencies".

Could these literary "gems" be caused by the recent failure of Villanova men to frequent the other side of the tracks as much as they had previously done? I know that these "little lovelies" do not believe in winning friends and influencing people, but they could be more tactful in their approach to criticism.

Granted, we here at Villanova are not perfect, there is much room for improvement. However, the "lassies" should attempt to mend their own ways. If a smile could be given for something less than a "dig" at one of their rival colleges for women, or at our own co-eds, maybe our attitude toward them would change to a favorable one.

I am also sorry to hear that our campus activities are not good enough for them. If their interest lays in a night at the opera, I'll assure them that the Ivy League or Georgetown is not the answer to their problem.

It is a shame that one has to judge the entire institution because of a few snide remarks, but it seems that this was their basis for judgment.

Sincerely,
MICHAEL D. CLARK.

ON NURSES

To the Editor:

Men of Villanova! The time of great decision is at hand. In last weeks's VILLANOVAN a member of "that" branch of our institution complained of the attitude of students concerning females here at Villanova. The same issue contained the startling news that several members of the Nursing School had passed a qualification test for RIFLE MARKSMANSHIP.

Villanovans, we must either take sides or take cover. There is a feeling of general apathy among our underclassmen concerning this invasion of our domain, but those men arrived and found "them" here. Seniors, it is time for us to organize if only as a safety measure. Let us not forget Senior, however, came to Villanova prior to this intrusion, and now we must take safety measures against these young women, who obviously plan retaliation by FIREARMS.

A Disgrunted Senior

To the Editor:

After reading last week's VILLANOVAN, I would like to make a few personal comments:

1. This is mainly a school for men, and should be run by men alone, and until such time as the enrollment of the Nursing Division can numerically compete with that of the male divisions, the nurses should not be availed of any opportunities in a student government primarily set up for the male student.

2. To put it bluntly, there are hardly any activities for a girl to engage in at a school for men.

Michael Stott

ON LEAMING

DEAR SIR:

For several seasons now Villanova football games have been heard over WIP and Villanova fans are grateful. Mr. Jim Leaming and Mr. "Bosh" Pritchard, however, are the men who attempt to transmit the action on the field back to the listeners. I hesitate to use the word 'broadcast' in referring to the accounts of Villanova games in recent years, particularly this season's finale at Dayton. It has occurred to this listener that Messrs. Leaming and Pritchard, consciously or unconsciously, take an exotic delight in describing the roughness and personal foul penaltics in all their vividness, especially when the Wildcats have been the ruffians.

It was during this same game, late in the third quarter, that Bill Smith, a fine Dayton halfback, broke out into the clear (so we were told) and was speeding at the Villanova 20 when we heard a loud horn and were abruptly told that the half was over. We heard nothing more about the rampaging runner until later on, when during the halftime festivities, we were told rather casually that he was knocked out of bounds on the 15.

Also, with giving of the pregame lineups, not one player statistic was read. However, several times Mr. Leaming did tell us: "Those Dayton linesmen are big!"

The above described incidents have been the rule rather than the exception. Let's hope the situation will be remedied for future seasons.

Sincerely,
PAUL R. CLARKSON.

Griffin Seen "Seceding in Spirit" With "Georgian Way of Life" Claim In Football Bowl - Racial Question

By BILL JONES

It is a sad case indeed when a very few people, displaying somewhat bigoted minds, tend to upset our American way of life.

Governor Marvin Griffin, of Georgia, striving to preserve the "Georgian way of life", has, as we have most probably read, succeeded in banning the participation of Negroes in university sports in the state of Georgia.

This is 1955

If this be the Georgian way of life, then Georgia has, theoretically, again seceded from the United States. Mr. Griffin, and others like him, apparently have never given up fighting the Civil War. It is indeed a shame that a few diehards still do not respect the rights of ALL Americans. Mr. Griffin has described the using of Negro ball-players in Georgia as "relentless efforts of our enemies to destroy us". This is surely a most fanatical statement. A man such as this is reliving the darkest past. The equilibrium that Mr. Griffin is attempting to shatter belongs to the America of 1955, not that of 1855.

Some other states may go along with Mr. Griffin, but when and if they do they can be sure that they will never be able to reverse the inalienable rights of all Americans.

It is a credit to our nation that cooler heads, free of this antiquated notion of complete racial superiority, will prevail.

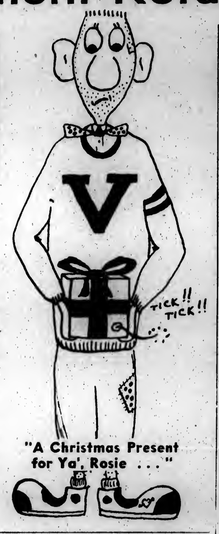
Dudley A Credit

Also a credit, to Villanova University, is the attitude taken by Mr. Bud Dudley, our athletic director, on this steaming issue. Mr. Dudley has flatly declared, "No matter where we play, all our players will certainly be with us." This policy, we here at Villanova feel sure, will be the one adopted by a vast majority of the nation's universities.

Any man, regardless of race, color, or creed, who has the ability to earn a college degree, certainly has as many rights as his fellow students.

A False Patriotism

Many Negroes are fine athletes and deserve the privilege of of furthering their alma mater in the field of sport, as well as in any other field of collegiate endeavor. As we all know, we have, at Villanova, many stellar Negro athletes, and we are glad to be assured by Mr. Dudley that they will be with us wherever we may travel.



This decision by Governor Griffin, becked by his State Board of Regents, will very probably backfire quite loudly in due time. Georgians, excited now by a false patriotism to outlived and almost forgotten, so-called traditions, will soon realize, students and businessmen alike, that within a few short years the state of Georgia will be completely barren of top flight coilegiate athletic contests.

Once again we salute Mr. Dudley and all the other opponents of Mr. Griffin's ludicrous "Georgian way of life".

The "Nomad Newsman" on the Job: By MIKE RUSSO

Seniors Contribute Opinions In "Rosemont Retaliation"

Last week your Nomad Newsman queried the Rosemont girls on their opinions of Villanova men, receiving many interesting answers. This week your wandering poll - taker, believing that turnabout is fair play, has questioned a few Villanova seniors on their likes and dislikes of the nearby Rosemonters. Many had plenty to say but wished to remain incognito. Enough courageous seniors were coralled, however, and this is what they had to say:

"A Christmas Present for Ya', Rosie . . ."

DON ALTON, SENIOR

It would seem that it is Strictly Opinion with me that all girls should be done away with at birth, but the Nomad Newsman has me in a corner. I have to admit truthfully a favorable impression of the lassies from across the track. During my years at Villanova I've managed to meet a fair cross section of the "Rosies", and I must say that they are fine girls in the main. Allowances must always be made for the few who never manage to fit into the picture of the real Rosemont product. The majority are a great deal of fun on party occasions in spite of their permissions and newly acquired thirst for ginger ale.

DICK PEER, SENIOR

Although you couldn't prove it from the tongue-in-cheek approach of my column, I think Rosemont girls are nice. The overly sophisticated attitude of the underclassmen gradually diminishes and the Rosemont senior, I think, is a well rounded, intelligent Catholic young lady. Of course, there are the exceptions, but to call the exception typical—as some Rosemont girls have the habit of doing to Villanova men—is ridiculous.

MIKE HORAN, SENIOR

Rosemont girls are the same as any other girls, except they are holier. In the Tea House on weekday afternoons they dress as sloppily as the girls of any other institution, but on a Saturday night date they will hold their own anywhere. They have picked up the Villanova habit of needling, but as yet have not found a suitable channel for their efforts. Their proximity to Villanova and the ease with which they can obtain dates here is reflected in their attitude, however. This does not compliment their personalities. They are the greatest bird-dogs and the easiest to bird-dog of any college girls I have encountered. A warning to Villanovans, however: Rosemont girls are not the same at home as they are at college. At college they are temporary prisoners of rules and "honors"

FRANK POWER, SENIOR

In general, Rosemont is as good as any other girls' college in the vicinity. However, as a group they tend to be a bit too sarcastic. I think their "late" permissions and their narrow, so-called honor code is chiefly to blame for most of the criticism atributed to them.

CHARLIE CONDE, SENIOR

As a whole, Rosemont girls are as acceptable as any other main Line girls who surround our over - expanding campus. They are too sophisticated and pseudo-like to suit my taste. We men of Villanova accept them, for they provide a source of entertainment during the weary weekdays of classes, but when the big weekends get here . . . who wants to take out a Rosemonter?

JIM LOMBARDI, SENIOR

On many business trips to Rosemont, I have observed, in the majority, this type of girl: average to nice looking, neat and clean, well mannered while off their own campus, and in general the marrying type of girl. But as far as my dating one, the permissions are much too radically conservative, and their restrictions for off-campus activities are much too much for me to take.

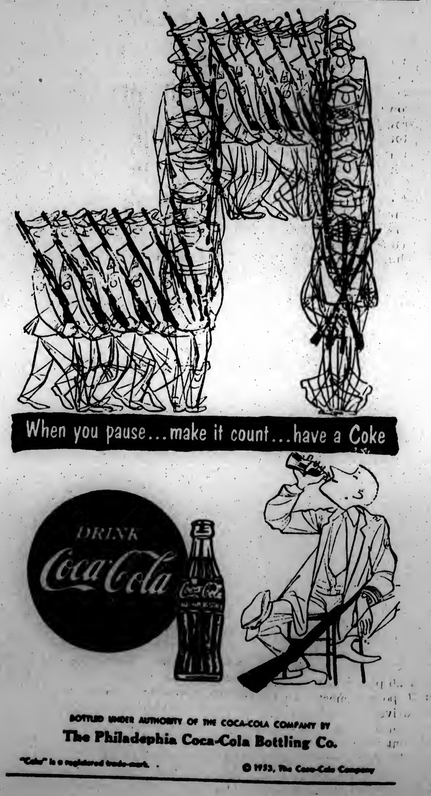
DAVE BURNS, SENIOR

A Rosemont girl: trustworthy, yes; loyal, ???; helpful, aren't they all?; friendly, half and half; courteous, yes; obedient, never; cheerful, ever; thrifty, ask Dad; reverent, yes.

PUBlicly Speaking . . .

By JIM & MIKE

We think it only fitting that since last week we used our column to give some ideas on such a general catagory as girls, it is only right that this week we dedicate all our talent to portray in this column "our girls" . . . the "co-eds."



They arrived on campus with full force and glowing array in September, 1953. They seem to have been accompanied by some sort of "mystic enchantment". They have changed, in this short period, an all male campus, proud of its carefree dress and manners, into a very radical group of two distinct classes; those who are indifferent to the invaders (because there is nothing they can do anyway) and those who heartily dislike "our girls" because of the changes that were necessitated upon their arrival. But whether placed in one catagory or the other, we have heard them all reminisce and wish once more for the "good old college days" instead of the factory-like hustle-bustle that has replaced them.

The girls came with sweeping force and speed. Before the dust had settled, they had confiscated Austin Lounge, the only resident hall lounge on campus. They have risen from a mere 15 to a strong 70. They have been reserved and quiet up to now, but all of a sudden they want equal representation in the student council. Now, after all, girls, you are only here two years and in your second year, you only spend four days a week on campus. You are highly dissatisfied, when actually you have no ligitimate claim at all for full representation.

The rumors about our nursing school are so numerous, that it is hard to even get them straight. Some, however, are not too hard to believe. We are told that our nursing school is granting scholarships for basketball and football, and also to girls who are proficient in pinning the tail on the donkey. (This will be of great help in later duties.) Girls, it seems that you are intruders and you will have to grin and bear it.

Here is an idea for all V. U. men. Help the nurses find their true place on campus (a major task). Inaugurate round table discussions with the persecuted co-eds and try to find a solution for this problem. Come on, all you shy and bashful males, don't be afraid of "our girls", after all, they only came here for an education, (or so they claim???) Talk with them, seek their counsel, let them take the place of mother who is so far away. In fact, let us cease this use of the term "co-eds" and change their title to "our mothers while away from home."

Putting all needling aside, Jim and Mike want to wish all their readers, friends and enemies alike (that'll include the nurses), a Very Merry Christmas and a most Happy New Year.

Professorial Roundup:

How to Succeed in College? Try Studying, Says Amelotti

By Bill Jones

Continuing with the policy of presenting to the student body the opinions and suggestions of Villanova's faculty, the VILLANOVAN this week presents the views of Mr. Emil Amelotti, Professor of Mathematics.

Mr. Amelotti has been teaching math at Villanova since 1938, and is known to all his students as a learned man who is not averse to livening up the class with a joke or two. He was asked for his opinion on what his students could do to improve themselves and the school. This is what he had to say:

Study It

"When asked to write a few lines on the question 'what can engineering students do to better themselves in mathematics?' I was tempted to answer it with one very short sentence: "Study it."

"Being that I am limited in space, I would like to refer the students to an article which appeared in the magazine section of the Sunday Inquirer of December 4th, 1955. I will then start from there."

"In the first place the student should be absolutely certain that he wants to be an engineer. If his answer is yes, then he should be honest with himself and others concerned, and put every possible effort towards that goal. What he should do in mathematics in particular, can be enumerated in the following manner:

A Few Musts

1. "He should attend classes DAILY, not only in body, but in spirit.

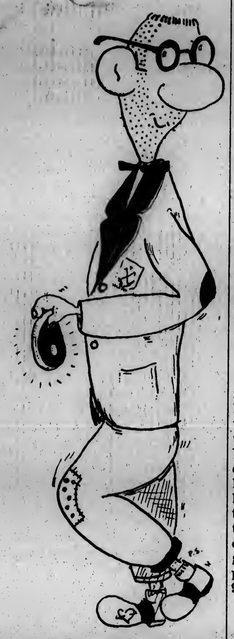
2. "He should study daily assignments DAILY, and not wait until "tomorrow" (generally the weekend) because "tomorrow" never comes.

3. "He should study for the sake of knowledge, and not just for the periodic examination.

4. "He should possess not only curiosity, but intellectual curiosity.

5. "His studying should be done in an environment conducive to concentration—THE LIBRARY — instead of a place where SO CALLED music is blasting away, or while watching the various surrounding card games that are in session.

6. "He should attend classes voluntarily and not be forced by the cut system. Most students seem to worry that they won't get all the cuts allotted to them.



7. "Last but not least, he must not be disturbed in the least if his studies seem to interfere with his college education."

Mendel's Gourmet-Haunt Passes Away:

A Farewell To "The Green Room"

Footsore and hungry Villanovans bid a nostalgic and not-too-reluctant adieu to a "chow hall" that had more memories than seats

By Harry Nash

A dining hall that has brought disillusionment to the campus gourmet and inspiration to the collegiate humorist for some 27 years closes out a storied career of student service this week.

Known popularly by such handles as "The Green Room", the "Chow Hall" and "The Caf" the Mendel Hall eatery unbolts its vats and ovens early next week and moves silently away toward the unaccustomed luxury of Dougherty Hall. With it, alas, go the innumerable memories of many student-years spent standing in line, or planning some dining hall prank, or hurling invectives at some behind-the-counter worker.

Art of Cutting

Standing in line for meals has for many years been one of the loudest student complaints, but that situation has at the same time supplied limitless fodder for VILLANOVAN columnists and cartoonists. There have been laughs for those who stood in line, too, especially in days prior to the advent of law-student-turned-proctor. In those times, cutting in line was a thoroughgoing and noble art, practiced, polished and prized by at least 92% of the student body.

Fourteen Abreast

It was all done very subtly, of course. Students would cut through the line (in those days there was only one course past the food) to deposit books on the shelves and then never reappear. It got so bad that the line just inside the Mendel Hall door became swollen by students about 14 abreast, all of which caused extreme wonderment and chagrin among those Simonpures who had moved three feet in the past hour out in the corridor.

Ice Cream Trade

There were also outlets of scholastic tension once the food line had been finally attained. Purloining an extra ice cream has always been one of the favorite strategems, and its means of execution are many. Only after great decrepancies among the vanilla-chocolate-strawberry stockiles were noted did the "Ice cream lady" determine never to take her eyes from the young innocent before her.

Mucho Color

At various times in past years, collegians, their ice cream appetites apparently sated, set after bigger game—the main courses. The meat and vegetables dishes, as any self-respecting resident knows, are watched over with grim and unrelenting vigilance by that prime philanthropist with white hair and fork-in-hand. These particular collegians got barely back to their tables with extra plates before this Knight-of-the-Pork-Pan, having cleared counter and rail alike with one robust leap, made his heated and indignant appearance, demanding retribution or else.

And so on and on it goes.

There were also the mass pranks while eating. Like the stunt popular five or six years ago, when everybody dunked straw covers in something—indeed, anything—sticky, and then proceeded to shoot same toward the ceiling, which soon became possessed with hundreds of these papery stalactites.

Exceptionally poor meals occasionally stirred up waves of mass protest. Trays were overturned on the tables, with, presumably, only the milk and ice cream salvaged beforehand. Certain foods became hopelessly branded with such monikers as "The Green Death", and "mystery balls" and "nothing sauce", but in spite of this derision, students went about finding new ways to get extra food, and counter workers grew more and more wary, placing less and less trust in objective truth.

"I haven't eaten in three days, Russ. I've been really sick. I NEED that extra milk". All of this with a very haggard look.

Many Strategies

And then there was the fellow who got double milks for four years because he was on a basketball scholarship.

He WAS tall.

The coat and tie rule has been the subject of humor in the past. Several years ago somebody came into the dining hall wearing a tux, and he wasn't on his way to a prom, either. For some reason, the lad's actions were interpreted as having a facetious intent, and he met with some undistinguished end.

Athletes Too

Then there was the athlete who, becoming infuriated at some refusal from behind the counter, proceeded to punch his tormentor full in the nose.

This sort of thing is not at all recommended.

The chow hall has been the scene of many intrusions by outsiders, who always evoke tray-banging and general mayhem. Girls strolling through (this happens very infrequently) turn the old place on its ear. Then there was the Great Dane, vested properly in rep tie, prompted into the hall by students several years ago.

Football players have occasionally gotten in on the fun. There was one who, finding the menu not at all acceptable, brushed all the vegetables from his plate and then hung the piece of steak very neatly upon one of the corner clothes hooks.

The dining hall in recent years has taken on new roles. It has served as a sobering influence on young men returning from S.A.P.A. conventions; it has catered to press conferences and Mother's and Father's Day crowds; and it has become, during election times, a behind-the-scenes headquarters for campaigning intrigues and party-line advertising.

More important, it has continued to supply part of the color and atmosphere that contribute to the enjoyment of college life.

In New York they say: Who goes out to lunch just to eat?

Four years in the Mendel Hall dining hall prompted one student to ask: Who goes to lunch in the Villanova chow hall and really CAN eat?

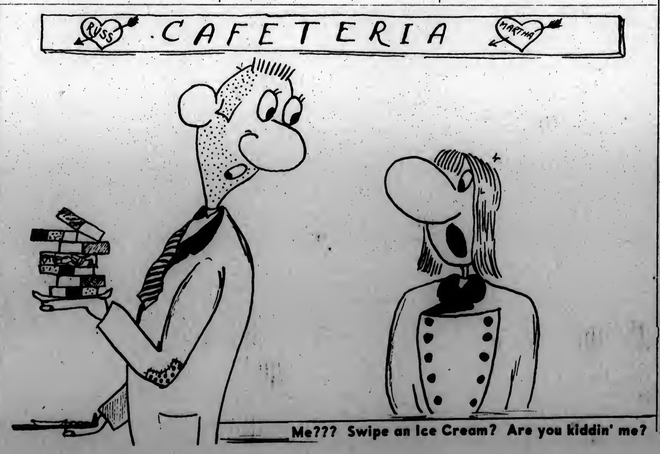
In spite of this, we bid a warm farewell to "The Green Room". Better times are upon us.

The Cafeteria's Knight-of-the-Pork Pan

I Haven't Eaten in Three Days

Editorial:

New Hall Points Up New Spirit



The formal opening of the new student union building, Dougherty Hall, is but another step in Villanova's transition from "small college" to "major university".

In four years the seniors have been here, the physical appearance of Villanova has indeed changed. The class of '56 has seen the erection of Sullivan, the passing of the Barracks, the completion of Dougherty, and, most recently, the ground breaking for the Law School plant.

All these are impressive enough, but beneath the new appearance there lies something which is stronger, more enduring than any building, and something which gives us more cause for pride. This is the Villanova . . irit.

Truly, the faith exhibited in the University today will bring forth a finer Villanova tomorrow.

Let us hope that this spirit will continue to grow.

Hurrah!

Shift To Dougherty Is Imminent

While Villanova's resident students sit home with mom's cooking, the Mendel Hall cafeteria facilities will be moved into Dougherty Hall.

No details about time schedules in the Dougherty cafeteria had been revealed by the administration last week.

The long - awaited opening, delayed by a strike of kitchen installation workers last summer, has been looked forward to by students who have become resigned to snaking lines in the undersized Mendel facilities.

Many students had assumed the Dougherty dining hall would be open when classes convened in September.

The resident dining hall will be open to oncampus students only. The day hop cafeteria, primarily for use of day students will be opened after the vacation.

Seudents have been reminded by administration officials that the new tables and equipment n the dining facilities must be respected.

Replies From Within:

The Villanova Nursing Division: What Improvements Could Be Made?

The University's young women take time out to reflect on the deficiencies and possibilities of their infant division

By JANET CUNNINGHAM

Winding up a series of polls on the various undergraduate divisions of Villanova, the VILLANOVAN presents, this week, the responses of the nurses to the question, "What could be done to improve the nursing division."

MRS. MAX FEIGENBERG, NUTRITIONIST.

Although I am not a nurse, I feel that as a member of the faculty of Villanova's School of Nursing, I have learned to appreciate how much is necessary to the proper education of a nurse, and how well-rounded a person she must be.

I am happy to note that positive steps have been taken to remedy the lack of contact between students in the clinical part of the basic degree program and the University proper.

The fact that all basic degree students, including hospital residents have been cooperating with the graduate nurses in various projects at Villanova has helped to bring the junior students to the campus more often and also, has tended to bring graduates and basic students into closer contact with one another and with the University.

MARY ANN RUBAL, JUNIOR, GRADUATE DIVISION.

In my estimation, there is only one fault in the Nursing Division of Villanova University.

One of the most wonderful things about college is living with and sharing the fun of college life with others who have the same interest. The Nursing School, in its pioneering days, cannot provide the students with a domitory or other provision for group living. The girls are living separately from Philadelphia to Paoli and losing a great deal of relationship with one another.

ANNE DOLENTE, GRADUATE DIVISION.

I think more cultural subjects, such as music appreciation, history, and literature,

Sister Alma
Nursing Director

should be included, if possible Bio-chemistry, for this reason, would be an excellent exchange for both chemistry courses.

As many hospital lectures as possible should be given on campus.

All courses should be given solely to nursing students, with the possible inclusion of medical students.

JOANNE STUCKY, SOPHOMORE.
CHRISTINA KEANE, FRESHMAN.

One of the best things about Villanova's Nursing School is the fact that all the standard practices of other nursing schools are not simply adopted without question. There is constant experimentation within the Division. resulting in constant improvement, and we think this will continue for at least the first five years.

If we could possibly complete some necessary courses in less time, perhaps we could be capped sooner. Since this is what we are striving for, we hope it can be realized.

Most of us feel that we would like all-girl classes, science inclusive.

The Nursery School experience seems to be drawn out, also, and we feel that it could be modified somewhat.

BARBARA WARNER, KATHLEEN, GOWAN, FRESHMEN.

Although we realize that it is impractical at this point in the program, we personally feel that if there were more girls on campus, a much more natural atmosphere, both scholastically and socially, would be effected.

MARGARET BONNER, FRESHMAN.

Since our School of Nursing had its beginning only a short time ago, there are bound to be changes that must be made.

The one big improvement that I, and many other students, would like to see the elimination of summer school, whenever it would be possible.

in the cirriculum, so that the graduate nurse would be a more well-rounded person.

BETTY ANN CURRAN, RITA SHIGO, HELEN DALY, JUNIORS.

We would like to see improvement in the School of Nursing in three respects. First of all, we feel that there should be a closer bond between the Nursing Division and the University administration, which often doesn't seem to understand what the School of Nursing is doing and what it represents.

Secondly, we continue to hope for better understanding of the necessity of the Division of Nursing to Villanova in the other schools of the University- a realization that only Villanova can offer the facilities needed by the collegiate nursing program.

Finally, We would like to see a gradual increase in nursing facilities on campus, so that time spent in the hospital will be able to be devoted entirely to clinical practice.

LUCILLE BELL, SOPHOMORE.

I feel that a few improvements can be made in the Basic Degree Program that would benefit the Division as a whole.

All courses should be given as integrated parts of the Nursing School, so that they will be of more help in Nursing duties.

Strictly Opinion

By DON ALTON

The mounting casulty list resulting from cases of vacation fever will soon disappear for Friday is the big day for public modes of transportation around Villanova. The local book-crackers association is taking a short rest to regroup and grab a few breaths in the ever present battle for survival. During this past phase of college life, the Villanova students has been scrutinized more than ever, and the results seem to be pretty disappointing. Rosemont girls have observed signs of an inferiority complex, and the powers that be seem to hesitate along the lines of recognizing maturity and responsibility. Even the special added attractions around the campus have been nailed by "ruthless" individuals.

The Seniors have been recognized as capable enough to find their way back to campus after Cinderella hour on weekends, but the P&W and Pennsy railroads will continue to limit their wanderings. It is becoming increasingly more difficult to find a place to gather in groups over four to enjoy an evening of fraternity, and state lines may have to be crossed in the future. There is always the opportunity of home for the weekend, but the Midwest is pretty snarled up on Winter weekends . . . so I've heard.

The University's expansion program has given us great rooms to live in, and upon our return Dougherty Hall will be in full swing. The days of Brown Prep and the dinners in the Green Room will be buried forever. In many lines we have managed to expand; however, there is the ever-persistent tendency to remain narrow in some respects. Learning from experience is the hard way, but everyone is sure of Villanova's future position of a great, established, and understanding father to its many sons. As parents have to adjust to the growth and development of their children, so too, a University and its student body.

Now that the Christmas season is upon us, we are able to reveal a few secrets as to the contents of stockings . . . and knee socks . . . hung with care at Villanova.

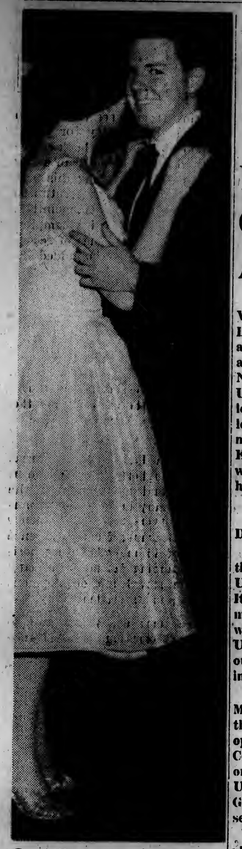
The seniors will find a deck of 162 cards in their stockings. These may supply a source of entertainment during the remaining days before graduation. They may be matched, burnt, or eaten according to your pleasure. The big item in the grab bag will be a list of Rosemont seniors . . . they will all have cars during their last semester in college.

Juniors will be most concerned with the pleasures to be found in Junior Week, and sophs will be satisfied with the quality point average necessary to get out of their present position. The frosh will find a promise of many free seats to winning home sports events and some 1250 cards to be carried until June of '59.

Rosemont, Chestnut Hill, and Immaculata will find copies of the minutes from the national committee on education promising a larger number of college men in the ensuing years. This will also warm the hearts of Villanova's own claim to fame in the nursing world. Santa may also stuff a few of the Nurses stockings with those intagibles which put degrees both before and after one's name.

The faculty and administration will find the patience and strength to continue in their calling . . . the education of youth. A few gallons of oil for the lamp of knowledge, and a representative share of receptive students will also be found in the faculty stockings. In addition to the publication of their own journalistic efforts, local scholars will also find the latest copy of the Student's Index of Alibis, revised.

As a closing note to 1955 this column wishes all a joyful Christmas season, and a successful year to come.



P. S. The freshmen nurses are offering rides to all seniors going in their direction. They have their own cars . . . just like all other responsible people . . . MERRY CHRISTMAS.

WIN A CARTON OF CHESTERFIELDS IN CHESTERFIELD SCORE GUESSING CONTEST

All you have to do is guess the score and high scorers of the Villanova ball game

RULES:

1. Entries must be submitted on the back of a CHESTERFIELD wrapper.
2. Entries must be placed in the appropriate containers in the Pie Shop and Dining Hall.
3. They must be placed in these containers by noon of the day of the game.
4. Entries must include the following:
   Your name and address
   Name of team Villanova vs. Visitors
   No. of Pts. No. of Pts.
   High Scorer (name) High Schorer (name)
5. A carton of Chesterfields will be given to the first two students who come closest to the actual tallies.
6. The cartons of Chesterfields may be picked up in room No. 51 Mendel Hall on the day following the ball game in question.

Guy Milne's Charity Ball Date Pleases Him, It Would Seem

Dr. Quam addresses meeting of ACS last week, speaking on the subject of "Student Research on the Undergraduate Level".

Political Battlefront

United Nations Debate is Rekindled: Three Student Observers Offer Views

Frosh Hits Organization As "Fiasco"

(Ed. Note: In the Nov. 16 VILLANOVAN, freshman J. P. Lynch took exception to an article by Jim Greenlee which appeared in the Nov. 2 VILLANOVAN, on the subject of the United Nations' success.) Following is a reprint of Lynch's letter and an excerpt of source material from HUMAN EVENTS, a periodical upon which Lynch has partially based his convictions).

Lynch's Letter

Dear Sir,

I came across, and read entirely, the naive article on the U. N. by a certain Mr. Greenlee. It was especially disturbing to me when I realized that here was a staff member on the University weekly who spouts out the nauseating, liberal, internationalist "line".

While preparing his article, Mr. Greenlee obviously ignored the legions of Americans who oppose this clearing-house for Communist propaganda. Anyone who dares voice an anti-U. N. view is branded by Mr. Greenlee as an agnostic. I resent this!

The UN is a debacle, a complete fiasco. Worse still, it poses a threat to the United States.

Rather than let Mr. Greenlee's propaganda go unchallenged, lest come unsuspecting students be ensnared by it, I have requested, from the publishers of "HUMAN EVENTS", permission to reprint several of their articles on the U. N. When this permission is received, I will submit these articles, now in my possession, to the VILLANOVAN for publication.

(Signed)
J. P. Lynch

Lynch's Sources

Book Front: The United Nations, writes Chesly Manly in his book The UN Record, published by the Henry Regnery Company of Chicago, is a self-evident failure, and more significantly a menace to the United States. Its promise was a millenium of universal peace, prosperity and happiness. All mankind was to be relieved from fear and want and the crushing burden of armament. Instead, mankind is tormented by an overshadowing menace of war; the United States alone is paying 45 billion dollars a year for armaments and foreign aid. Founded on the principle of collaboration of the great powers, the UN has witnessed the division of the world into hostile camps, bristling with arms and threatening each other with H-bombs. Instead of ending the system of blocs and alliances, it has seen the United States alone undertake responsibility for the

(Continued on Page 12)

Junior Sees Hope In UN's Future

By Gene Donahue

"Gloria in excelsis Deo, et in terra pax hominibus bonae voluntatis."

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace to men of good will." This is the opening line of the Gloria in the Holy Sacrific of the Mass and the message the angels gave to the shepherds on that first glorious Christmas. Yes, peace to men of good will; but where is that peace today? In the very country in which the Christ-child was born there is now going on a seemingly endless struggle for existence. Even the now dead "Spirit of Geneva" is nothing but an idea in the minds of our statemen, while Russian diplomats gained more ground than they had in the previous eight years.

The True Spirit

As we look over the world situation today we notice nothing of the peace and tranquillity advocated by Christian traditions. Even France, the country termed the "Jewel in the Crown of the Church", is being rocked by an electoral battle that is crippling not only its own efforts toward peace and stability, but also the entire effort of the Western powers to terminate Russian aggression This very situation, the balance of super-powers, the division of the world into two armed camps, is exactly the situation which goes against the true meaning of the Christmas spirit.

A Big Question

The question now arises as to what can be done about these conditions. . .and the answer, for the immediate future, is nothing! But, the reply for coming generations is in world organizations. Nothing has ever been settled definitely by fighting a war except that one nation proves to have more strength at a given time than another. An idea, which is what the Western powers are fighting against, can only be defeated by logic and reasoning, preceeded by an atmosphere of calmness, and no one has ever seen a calm discussion arrived at between belligerents on a battle field.

Steps Toward Tomorrow

Some people continually condemn the United Nations as a waste of time, while others praise is as the ultimate in world organization. Neither of these views is correct, but the latter is much closer to the truth. With as many shortcomings as it has, the United Nations of today is a step toward the family of nations of tomorrow and that family of nations will bring peace . . . "Gloria in excelsis Deo, et in terra pax hominibus bonae voluntatis."

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Senior Firm; Blast Foe's Sources

(ED. Note: .The following is a letter from senior Jim Greenlee in answer to a letter written by freshman J. P. Lynch, who recently criticized a Greenlee article on the United Nations in the VILLANOVA.)

Dear Sir:

I am accused by a J. P. Lynch of "spouting out the nauseating, liberal, internationalistic line" in an article I wrote on the occasion of the tenth occasion of the U. N.

I am not criticizing a VILLANOVAN reader for disagreeing with what I readily admitted in print to be a most controversial organization.

However, in fairness to all concerned, I believe I should point out that Lynch is guilty of gross misinterpretation.

I have never stated that the U.N. is an ideal organization; in fact, I have agreed that many of its decisions have been compromises which were not satisfactory to all concerned.

Despite this, the U. N. is essential and has accomplished a great deal. Were it not for the U.N., we might now be involved in World War III.

Lynch is wrong when he stated that I "ignored legions of Americans" in preparing my article. There are those who do not believe in the U.N. but their numbers do not nearly approximate the "legions" of Lynch's fantasies.

Lynch speaks of the U.N. as a "real threat" to America.

An organization conceived for the purpose of ridding man of his eternal plague—war—is no threat to a peace-loving nation.

The real threat to America comes from those publications which hypocritically condemn everything of potential worth and dub these institutions "dangers to America".

The wolf that preys on the sheep is certainly a serious threat, but is not the shepherd who falsely cries 'wolf' and so frightens the sheep also a threat?

The threat presented by these publications is contained in their regretable seduction of the well-intentioned, impressionable individuals who are unknowingly

(Continued on Page 16)

Buddy Morrow

* * *

Skill, Spirit Noted:

Student Cites Pride In Marching Band's Ascension

By JOE DOMAS

Villanova University has been known in the past for many fine organizations, but one thing it had always lacked was a top notch marching band. The University did have a marching band, but it was far from a first class organization. The music was mediocre and the marching generally left much to be desired. But in the space of a few short years the Villanova marching band has come to stand out as a credit to the University.

That the band of yesteryear did not receive the support it should have was no reflection on itself, the talent was there, but the extra something was missing. The uniforms were dull and colorless, and the formations standard.

A Well Knit Unit

Today through the combined efforts of Father Joseph Burns, band moderator; Bob Schiller, conductor; Walt Gould, marching instructor; and Jack Gilfillan, president, the Villanova marching band is a well knit, high stepping aggregation attired in collegiate style with their blue Villanova blazers, contrasting grey slacks, white hats, and bucks. The members of the band have paid for these uniforms out of their own pockets, another credit to them in their swift rise to prominence.

Original Formations

The band's greatest improvement consists in their original and colorful formations. The ideas of Walt Gould have become a reality through extensive and grueling practice. This practice, in order to insure perfection, consists in long hours of stepping through its formations around the campus and in the stadium. It has become commonplace, that several weeks before a home football game the alarm clock rings loudly and clearly in the early morning for all band members. Practice is held at seven o'clock in the morning, getting the day off to a most early start, and again at a twilight drill which usually terminates after dark in the stadium under the glare of automobile headlights. The boys work hard in order to bring more praise to Villanova

(Continued on Page 16)

"No One Watches the Game," the Kid Said: "They Watch Moran!"

Amiable Jim Moran — Colorful and Dutiful —Makes Like a Referee

Touchdown | Interference | Clipping | Holding

Downey, Cardella ACS Dance Heads

Herb Rammrath, secretary-treasurer of the Villanova Chemical Society, announced that the society's third annual dinner dance will be held April 14 at the Conestoga Mill. Chairmen of the affair are senior chemistry major Cornelius L. Downey, and junior pre-med Vince Cardella.

Music will be provided by a combo to be signed by the Society. Programs and favors will be provided. The ticket donation will be announced at a later date.

Rammrath also announced that the Society's next meeting will be held in January, when Dr. Edward Burke, noted police chemist, will address the society. Earlier this year Dr. Burke, a Villanova graduate, spoke befor a meeting of the Villanova law School Forum.

* * *

The Society heard an address on "Student Research on the Undergraduate Level", by Dr. G. N. Quam, chairman of the Department of Chemistry, last Wednesday night.

Dr. Quam discussed the different types of research and the different attributes that are found in a good research scientist. He mentioned the courses taught by the chemistry department, which develop the students' research ability.

Dr. Quam also brought out the fact that Villanova's research program is on the increase and that the chemistry department faculty, although hampered by a lack of time, have presented 13 research papers since 1946.

A movie from duPont entitled "A Story of Research" was shown following the talk.

WASHING & DRYING
8 lbs. 6.75
Bryn Mawr Launderette
Opposite Forrest
T-Shirts, Slacks, Shorts, Towels, etc. Leave your bundle or do it yourself.

Villanovans and Johnnies at Wanamakers

Accounting Society Plans Dance for Library's Benefit

A dance for the benefit of purchasing up-to-date accounting books for the Villanova library is being contemplated by the Villanova Accounting Society.

Society president Joseph Mooney is taking the matter up with the Society's moderator Mr. Frank Chorba and Rev. George McLaughlin, Dean of Student Activities.

Tomorrow night's meeting is to be of special interest to the sophomore accounting majors who have been criticized at past meetings for lack of interest in the Society.

Serena, Kovach Named DPE Committee Heads

Co-chairmen of the new committee set up by DPE to aid its members in the selection of courses offered by the C&F department are John Serena and Joe Kovach.

Serena and Kovach will collect data on the value and availability of various courses and pass it on to the membership of the C&F fraternity.

Next VILLANOVAN

The next issue of the VILLANOVAN will appear on January 11. The deadline for feature copy is January 4th. News copy must be submitted by January 5th.

Brady, Garland, Flores:

Law School Moot Court Team Faces Emory Today

LAW SCHOOL

The Bar Association of the City of New York has announced that Villanova Law School will meet Emory University of Georgia in the first round of the National Moot Court Competition. The argument will take place today in New York.

Twenty-two law schools which were successful in regional competition have been entered in the national contest. Among these are Cornell, Yale, Columbia and Chicago.

Arguing from the same brief which they successfully defended in Philadelphia last month will be James Garland, Arthur Flores and Thomas Brady.

During the three days of "sudden death" elimination in New York they will be guest at Bar Association functions and will spend several hours with a Wall Street Law firm.

Band Opens Season At Orphanage

Gershwin, Porter, Anderson and Rodgers and Hammerstein music will be featured when the Villanova Band opens its concert tour with a performance at St. John's Orphanage in February.

Gershwin and Porter will be represented by medlies of their works. The Leroy Anderson selection is "Serenata". An overture from the hit show "Oklahoma" or "South Pacific" will be Rogers and Hammerstein's contribution.

Solos Planned

There will be one or two solos by band members during each concert.

Weekly rehearsals for the tour have begun and band members are reminded to attend regularly by band president Jack Gilfillan.

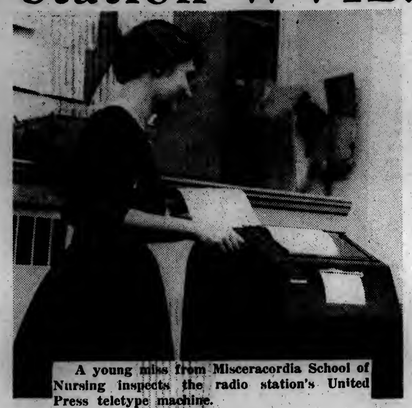
The "Villanovans" will play jazz selections during intermission. They were very well received last year in this capacity.

Prom Money Ready For Belle Air Ad Hustlers

Easy money for Christmas is being offered Villanovans by Tom McInerney, business manager of the Belle Air.

On a commission basis (20% for new and 10% for renewals), ads may be sold by students.

Ad blanks are available at the yearbook office in Mendel basement.



Deadline for completion of the first half of the Belle Air is tomorrow.

Any seniors who have not had their pictures taken by now will not have their pictures in the yearbook. No exceptions will be made to this rule, the editors said.

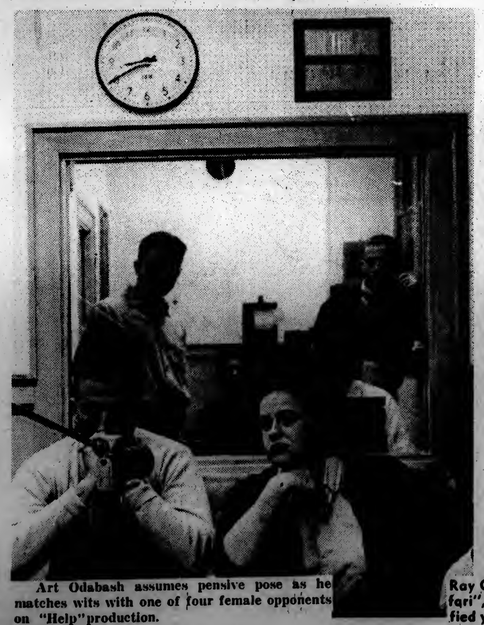
EASTER,
Nassau style...
Balmoral Club
NASSAU IN THE BAHAMAS
is traditional for collegians on a holiday. A lot of ocean swimming, tennis, golf, sun tan and dinner dancing fits into a few days at Balmoral, in a private, congenial Club atmosphere that's different, fun, and just right for a mid-semester vacation.
Special student rates reduced 25% during Easter week.
N. Y. Office: 16 W. 55 St.
JUdson 6-3070

A Photog's Look at a Growing Activity:

Station WVIL: Moving Up On The Dial

A young miss from Misceracordia School of Nursing inspects the radio station's United Press teletype machine.

Pete Quinn and Elaine Heiser ready "Wildcat Safari" while Engineer Bill Kelly smiles in background.



Engineer-librarian Jim McDonald stacks away some records in the station's ever-growing music shelves. Assisting him is a visitor from Miseracordia School of Nursing.

Don Alton
WVIL Station Manager

Jack Morgan in a disc jockey role, utilizing one of the series of studio-rooms in Dougherty Hall.

Art Odabash assumes pensive pose as he matches wits with one of four female opponents on "Help" production.

Ray Clarke, standing left, and Art Odabash, standing, tell about Orphans' Day on "Wildcat Safari", popular weekly production featuring Pete Quinn and Elaine Heiser, at right, unidentified young lady at far left.

Jim Garland, Art Flores and Thomas Brady, representing Villanova's Law School moot court team in national moot court competition beginning today.

At 7:00 in C & F Building:

Tchaikovski O-C Feature Tonight; Twenty Members Enjoy NY Excursion

In Future, Group Meets Tuesdays

The final performance of 1955 for the Opera-Classica Club will take place today at 7 p.m. in room 208, Commerce and Finance building. The featured work will be Tchaikovski's Ballet Suite, Opus 71; Otto Bobrindt will conduct the Symphony Orchestra of Radio Berlin.

JANUARY PROGRAM

The January meetings will take place on Tuesday evenings, instead of Wednesday, as was the past custom.

The program for January is as follows:

January 3. English and Irish folk music. Orchestral... Morton Gould and the Rochester Pops. The vocal will be done by Dennis Day.

January 10. Giacomo Puccini's "Tosca" with Renata Tebaldi and Giuseppe Campora.

Another Bizet

January 17. Bizet: L'Arlesienne Suites No. 1 and No. 2, with Andre Kostelanetz and his orchestra. And another Bizet; Prelude to four acts from "Carmen," with the orchestra of Stadtische Oper, Berlin.

The club is considering a new meeting day and hour for the second semester in order to provide day-hops with an opportunity to attend the concerts. They would appreciate suggestion for a mutually convenient meeting time.

Renata Tebaldi
Heard by O-C

Renata Tebaldi Heard in Carnegie

Twenty members of the Opera-Classica Club traveled to New York City Monday to attend a recital by Renata Tebaldi in Carnegie Hall.

Miss Tebaldi sang four arie: "Ebben n'andro lontano," from Catalani's LA WALLY, "I Poveri Fiori," from Cilea's ANDRIANA LECOUVREUR, and "Ah!, fors e lui e sempre libera"—from Verdi's LA TRAVIATA.

A Full House

Said Mr. Angeline: "Carnegie Hall was packed, as is usual at Tebaldi perfomances. Most members had not seen Miss Tebaldi in the flesh. We knew her through her justly esteemed operatic recording. She met up with our expectations. Her voice and artistic finesse proved so electrifying that we appeared to be galvanized to our seats.

"Her voice displayed such a wide gamut of tonal quality, dynamics, and emotion that it almost stopped the broadcast. She gave unstintingly of her voice from start to finish. The aria from LA TRAVIATA were done so well, that the audience was energized to applaud louder, longer, and more spontan-

(Continued on Page 15)

BUSINESS WHIRL To Appear After Holiday Recess

The BUSINESS WHIRL will make its first appearance of the school year after the Christmas vacation. The magazine is being printed by the Villanova Press in Galberry research center.

Editor Phil Keane said this issue will contain more pages than the C&F School publication's first edition last spring. He said the Rev. John J. Vrana, O. S. A., director of the research center, has been of "great assistance" to the staff.

For Expert Convenient Attention . . .
THE CAMPUS BARBER SHOP
First Class Work
Popular Prices

More Practices Planned:

J. Padova Named Student Director of VU "Singers"

Jack Padova, senior English major and president of Turf and Tinsel, has been named student conductor of the Villanova Singers.

He will assist Dr. Harold Gill Reuschlein, who has been director of the club since its formation in September off last year.

Padova, who is also co-director of publicity for the Singers, will coordinate rehearsals scheduled for the four voice sections. He will be aided by Joe Valenti, Nick Rinaldi, Bill Smith and Charlie Brockman.

Jack Padova

More Practices

"More practices are being planned for the different voice sections, and Jack will coordinate these practices in addition to helping Dr. Reuschlein conduct the all-member rehearsals," said president Bob Ford in announcing the appointment.

He will be aided in section practices by Joe Valenti, Nick Rinaldi, Bill Smith and Charlie Brockman, who were designated section leaders.

Ford also announced that membership cards will be issued to all members. This was done in response to a request for the cards made by senior Dick Brothers.

Ties For All

Bob Cassidy reported that all members will receive a uniform blue and white repp tie sometime before their first engagement in January, scheduled for the Philadelphia Alumni Club meeting Jan. 19. The meeting will be held in the Penn-Sherwood Hotel.

Plans for the Choral Festival were revealed. The Festival, set for April 14, will include the singing of seven college glee clubs. Included are the University of Pennsylvania, Temple, St. Joseph's, St. Peter's, Rosemont, Immaculata and Villanova.

It was explained that a concert of this size is attempted in only one other place in the country. All Big Ten colleges meet in Chicago yearly for a joint concert. The program will be highlighted by joint selections from some 550 voices.

Ford stressed that the Festival is being met with considerable interest by the colleges participating. He called on all members to assist publicity co-directors Jim Heffernan and Padova in making the program known on campus.

Business manager Jack Jannucci announced that the Singers' next performance will be over FM stations WFLN Dec. 31 at 10:30 a.m. on the Young Pennsylvanian's Series. The program has already been tape-recorded.

Nurses Aid In Spiritual Celebration

The Nursing Division inaugurated yesterday what it hopes will become a Villanova Nursing School tradition. Described as a spiritual celebration of Christmas, it consisted of carol singing, reading of the Christmas Gospel, and the placing of the Infant in a Creche made by the graduate nurses.

The program was directed by Sister M. Alma R. S. M., the Dean of the Division of Nursing.

The carol singing, led by a choir of undergraduate nurses was directed by sophomore Eileen Sinnot.

Tomorrow afternoon in the Austin Lounge, the graduate nurses will play host to the faculty of the Nursing Division and the undergraduate nurses at an informal party.

Impromptu entertainment will highlight the gathering and refreshments will be served.

Alumni Board

George M. Harris, secretary of the Alumni Association, announced that the second quarterly meeting of the Alumni Association Board of Governors is scheduled for Sunday in the Faculty Conference Room in Mendel Hall.

A report will be made on the amount of contributions given by alumni to the university, Mr. Harris added.

Villanovan and "Johnnie" . . .

Then Wanamaker's . . .

Rep-tied "Johnnie" Eyes Something Interesting . . .

"Johnnies" Get Free Rides at St. John's . . .

And Finally the Charity Ball and Santa . . .

Juniors' Orphanage Projects Successful:

In Four Years, Nothing Quite Like This

Collegians and Kids Enjoy Annual Outing and Party In What Is Perhaps The Most Rewarding Activity Of All

By Bill Jones

Nothing can ever equal Villanova's annual "orphans' week". Last week, midst much confusion and holiday gaiety, groups of Villanovans converged upon St. John's Orphan's Home, and proceeded to be completely overwhelmed by the bright, shiny faces of the jubilant "Johnnies".

Downtown Philadelphia became an orphans' playground. The joyous youngsters happily cavorted 'mongst crowds of Christmas shoppers chasing wistfully after toys, balloons, hot dogs, games, and of course the inevitable, glorious chat with Santa Claus.

Weary But Happy

At the close of the day weary Villanovans with empty wallets, their hearts full of pleasant memories, led the overjoyed orphans back home to await still another "party".

* * *

The boys at St. John's Home certainly had some moments to remember after the Junior Class-sponsored Christmas party last night and the Saturday outing into Philadelphia.

Some 300 Villanovans escorted the "Johnnies" to lunch and a tour through the Christmas-bedecked department stores and toylands before taking in a movie Saturday.

Party and Gifts

And last night Art Odabash, chairman and coordinator of the three-tiered orphans' project and Tim Kennedy and Mike Boruch, co-chairmen in charge of the outing and party distributed gifts to the kids after a couple of skits and a visit from Santa Claus (a 225-pound varsity football tackle named Ron Cherubini).

Thank Workers

Odabash, Boruch and Kennedy have thanked these juniors for their contributions to the porject: Joe Keffer and Dick Mason, ticket chairmen of Saturday night's Charity Ball; Jerry Lee and Bob Strayton, publicity; Ray Clarke, entertainment; Charlie Ross and Jerry Lynch, decoration chairmen for the Charity Ball;

Party committee: Cherubini, Ron Wood, John Lammers, Mike Flynn, Van Injaian, Fran Kane, Don Luzzi, Bob Reynolds, Bill Haley, and Al Griffith;

Ticket committee: John Allen, Tom Scanlon, Jack Kero, Kero, Jack Dunn, Tom Curran, Bill Barton, Leo Kane, Lee Carson, Jack Esposito, John Fusaro, Joe DeGrazia, Bob Donohue, Jack O'Leary, George Browne: Joe Martin, Mike Conway, Don Bancroft, Bernie Saccaro, Hank Adamcyzk, Don Meliado, Bernie Quinn, John Magee, Phil Seetred, Mike Guida and Dick Hamburger.

A Happy Orphan

A six-year-old, freckled-faced lad from St. John's Home will spend Christmas with one of Vilanova's varsity football ends—all because the ballplayer missed the Juniors' Orphan's Outing last year.

Tom Rogers wasn't able to take out an orphan, so he asked the Sisters at the Home to give him a kid to take home for Christmas Day and the day after.

They picked out Tommy O'Brien, who could only flash a bashful smile when he met his six foot, 185-pound friend.

Many Presents

But all traces of shyness had disappeared by Christmas morning, when he dashed into the living room at the Rogers' home in Lansdowne and found under the tree: a complete Hopalong Cassidy outfit, play clothes and a Villanova sweat shirt, among other items.

"It took a crate to carry all the stuff away," said Rogers, a quiet fellow who plans a carreer in the sales field after graduation in June. Rogers plans to take Tommy home again this Christmas.

How did the sandy-haired "Johnnie" react to the big day?

"Like a kid who had never had anything like it before", commented Rogers.

LATEST CAMPUS NEWS IN PICTURES

Finishing touches are applied to the new dining hall.

Mr. Robert Vogeler
Forum Speaker

Villanovans, Dates and Johnnies at Wanamakers

Visit to the Library

Library Paintings

The Villanova University library has announced that it has loaned seven religious paintings to Lit Brothers department store of Philadelphia.

These original painting will be on display in the Lit Brothers windows until Jan. 2. . . . . .

This display is part of the movement to put Christ back in Christmas.

All the paintings were donated to the library by Prince and Princess Droutzkoy, and are scenes of the Nativity.

McVey Gifts

Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A. has announced the gift of the John Joseph McVey books to Villanova University.

More Than 60 Years

Mr. McVey died last March 15, at the age of ninety-one, after being a prominent Philadelphia Catholic publisher and bookseller for more than sixty years. He started in the book business in 1877, with the old Philadelpha firm of Smith and English. Ten years later, when that firm was liquidated, Mr. McVey went into business for himself, dealing in old and rare and new books. Later Mr. McVey branched out into publishing, issuing some 35 to 40 titles. He had great success with catechisms, question-and-answer books for pharmaceuticals, and medical board examinations in Pennsylvania and other states, and a series of books describing various physical education apparatus. Mr. McVey retired in 1942.

Many Gifts

The collection receiver by Villanova includes all the books published by Mr. McVey, his catalogues, personal library and items of special interest to Catholics of Philadephia. Included in the items in the collection are the original plates for the monumental history of the Catholic church in the United States, by John Gilmary Shea, material pertaining to the Hibernia volunteer fire company, an etching of the Death of the Virgin by Rembrandt and old coins and paper money from the beginning of the last century.

Also included are three Audubon prints, the gift of Mr. McVey's sister, Elizabeth.

Book Suggestions

The Villanova library contains many of the top books published in 1955. The library has announced that it has, for the use of the students, the following books:

JOHN CARROLL of BALTIMORE, by Annabelle M. Melville. A portrayal of America's first bishop.

THE LIFE of JOHN J. KEANE, by Patrick Henry Ahern. A scholarly study of the first rector of Catholic University, WATERFRONT PRIEST, by Allen Raymond. The fight made by Father John Corridan, S.J, to clean up New York's corrupt waterfront.

RED SHOES FOR NANCY, by Marguerite Hamilton. The story of disease as a blessing, touchingly told.

MATT TALBOT and HIS TIMES, by Mary Purcell. A stirring story of a man who turned from alcoholism to a successful persuit of sanctity.

TWO PORTRAITS of ST. THERESE of LISIEUX, by Etienne Robo. The clearing away of many myths so that reality may shine forth.

THE SCHOLAR and the CROSS, by Hilda Greaf. The story of Edith Stein, a Jewish girl turned Catholic who became a Carmelite Nun and was killed in a German concentration camp.

HILAIRE BELLOC, by J. B. Morton. A stimulating sketch of Belloc's life.

THE DAY LINCOLN WAS SHOT, by Jim Bishop. The events of good Friday 1865, from Lincoln's arising to his death.

STRANGER IN SPAIN, by H. V. Morton. A travel book. the story of an unknown Spain.

A RETREAT FOR LAY PEOPLE, by Ronald Knox. A look at spiritual problem and opportunities, by an informed, kind, and witty expert.

NO MAN IS AN ISLAND, by Thomas Merton. Never easy going, this repays the work the reader must put in it.

MARRIAGE: A MEDICAL AND SACRAMENTAL STUDY, by John Ryan M.D. and Alan Kennan O.F.M. Practical discussions of marriage.

NFCCS Short Story Contest Is Announced

His name in print and $300 could be the reward for an amateur writer at Villanova in the short story contest being sponsored by the National Federation of Catholic College Students in conjunction with the national Catholic magazine, the SIGN.

The National Literary Commission of the NFCCS offers publication of the best short story submitted to the SIGN in addition to a $300 prize.

All entries must be postmarked by midnight Feb. 15, 1956. Entries should be sent to NFCCS, National Literary Commission, Marygrove College, Detroit 21, Mich.

Contest Rules

Each story must be at least 2,500 words and not more than 4,500 words in length. The contestants' name, address and college must appear in the upper right hand corner of the first page of the manuscript.

No more than three entries may be sumitted by any one person. Each contestant must be an undergraduate.

Manuscripts must be typewritten, double spaced and on one side of 8½x11 inch paper. No manuscript will be returned unless accompaned by a self-addressed, stamped envelope large enough to hold the unfolded manuscript.

No manuscript that has been published is eligible.

FLOWERS
That Bring Back Memories
BOUQUET SHOP
For Exquisite Corsages

THE MIND OF PIUS XII edited by Robert C. Pollock. Brief excerpts from the Holy Father's utterances on a vast variety of topics.

44 IRISH SHORT STORIES edited by Devin A. Garrity. A feast of drama, pathos and comedy.

Editor Harris Announces:

VILLANOVA ALUMNUS Mailed Before Christmas

The VILLANOVAN ALUMNUS will be in the mail before Christmas, George Harris, ALUMNUS editor, announced last week. The magazine will continue the format which was first employed in the November issue, Mr. Harris continued.

The new format stresses light, easy-to-read pages and more complete coverage of both alumni and campus activities. The cover, also revised, now has a full-cover picture.

Varied Contents

Mr. Harris, who is also secretary of the Board of Governors of the General Alumni Association, said that this issue includes: 1.) the traditional Christmas message by Villanova's president, Rev. James A. Donnellon, O. S. A., 2.) a feature by Rev. Charles McFadden, O. S. A. of the Philosophy Department, "Coexistence with Communism", 3.) a report by Rev. Thomas A. Burke, O. S. A., university registrar, 4.) a resume of intramural activity, and 5.) a feature on the Villanova Singers. The Singers also provide the subject for the cover.

What You'll Find Inside

Page 2: Editorials, Feature and Campus Life by Cartoon
Page 3: Peering, Letters to the Editor and a Feature
Page 4: Nomad Newsman, PUBlicity Speaking and the Porfessorial Roundup
Page 5: A Farewell to the Greenroom
Page 6: Nursing Poll Feature, Strictly Opinion and News
Page 7: United Nations Feature and News
Pages 8, 10, 12: News
Pages 9, 11: Full Pages of Pictures
Pages 13, 14: Sports
Page 15: Continuations and Miscellaneous
Page 16: Club Notes and Miscellaneous

The cover shows the Singers standing in front of the snow-covered entrance of Mendel Hall, wearing cassocks and surplices and singing Christmas hymns.

Lynch's Sources

(Continued from Page 7)

defense of 50 nations through alliances and military aid agreements outside the UN, all aimed at theats of aggression by a senior UN partner. The United States alone has army, navy and air force units at 950 bases and stations overseas. Since the UN was founded, the Communists have expanded their slave empire from 200,000,000 to 850,000,000, one-third of the human race.

The United States was involved in the Korean war and prevented from winning it by the United Nations. Mr. Manly reveals that Communist China was advised before it entered the war that its own territory would be immune from attack; that pressure by America's appeasement-minded UN allies resulted in the dismissal of General MacArthur, the rejection of opportunities to defeat the Communists, and the acceptance of an armistice substantially on the enemy's terms.

The vaunted moral authority of the UN is a myth, the author continues, attested by its failure to condemn Communist Russia, admittedly the master aggressor in Korea. The United States is unable to mobilize the moral authority of the UN because it supports British and French imperialism in the cold war, driving the uncommitted half of the world's population into neutralism. In all East-West disputes in the UN, a dozen nations with the combined population of 600,000,000 either vote with the Communists or abstain, thus refusing to support the United States.

Finally, Mr. Manly points out, the UN, of which Alger Hiss was the chief architest, is an instrument of subversion. Revolutionists, construing its charter as a self-executing treaty, are using it in a campaign to subvert our national independence and individual liberties and to force the United States to spend itself into socialism for the promotion of socialism in the whole non-Communist world. Therefore, Mr. Manly concludes, the United States

(Continued on Page)

Don McComb, Villanova's outstanding team captain during the past football season, is congratulated by Joe Sanborn, Philadelphia Alumni Club President, as he receives the Most Valuable Player Award at a recent football banquet in the Penn Sherwood Hotel. Coach Frank Reagan looks on.

St. Francis and Niagara Lose to Rugged Villanova

McComb, Barry Recipients of Alumni Awards

Don McComb, Villanova's star end and team captain, was awarded the National Alumni Association Award for being the most valuable player on Villanova's football team during the past season. The award was presented by line coach Eddie Michaels, at the annual football banquet, held in the Penn Sherwood Hotel Dec. 5.

Besides being rated as the most valuable player on the team, McComb also received another award, the Martin J. McLaughlin Award, for his team captain position on the squad. Mike Barry, a senior tackle, was recipient of the Cyril J. Burke award for most consistent player on the Villanova Club at Philadelphia's 34th annual affair.

Principal speaker was M. C. A. (Rip) Engle, head coach at Penn State. Engle spoke on the benefits of athletics to the youth today and stressed participation in athletics.

Villanova in Dixie Classic

Villanova's varsity basketball team will play on two different occasions during the Christmas Holidays.

On December 17th, the Wildcats take on Duke in the night cap of a Palestra doubleheader. Then, after Christmas, the team travels down to North Carolina to compete in the Dixie Classic. The dates for that Holiday tournament are December 29, 30, and 31.

Also competing in the Dixie Classic will be: North Carolina, North Carolina State, Duke, Wake Forest, Minnesota, Wyoming, and Oregon State.

Powers, Weissman, Cirino Outstanding For Wildcats

Jack Weissman

By BOB MULCAHY

The 1955 edition of the Villanova basketball team rolled to its second and third straight victories, defeating St. Francis, 100-77, and Niagara, 82-70, last week in the Palestra.

Displaying aggressiveness, hustle, and tremendous team play, the Wildcats didn't look at all like the team pre-season forecasters picked to win only one out of fourteen big games.

Niagara, which came into the Palestra boasting victories over Fordham and Toledo, could only hold the Wildcats even for a half. A ten point spurt by the Mainliners midway through the first half erased a nine point lead by the Purple Eagles and the 'Cats led 40-38 at halftime.

Cirino, Weissman Set Pace

Led by the play of senior John Cirino and Jack Weissman the home team broke the game wide open in the second half, leading by 22 points at one time. Cirino made a phenomenal eight for nine from the floor and held Niagara's All-American candidate Tom Hemans to two field goals.

Weissman contributed 24 points to lead the scoring parade followed by Cirino and Bob Powers with 16 and Captain Jim Smith with 14.

In romping over St. Francis of Loretto last Wednesday Villanova led from the opening tap and was never pressed. Spearheaded by the play of Powers, who scored 27 points, and Al Griffith the Wildcats reached the century mark and came within five points of tying the Palestra record.

St. Francis, playing for the first time in five years without Maurice Stokes, could only put on one sustained rally near the end of the first half which closed the Villanova lead to only ten points, 55-45.

In both victories the Wildcats exhibited a well-rounded, smooth team which makes up for a lack of height by hustle. An outstanding example is Allen Griffith. Although he is the smallest man on the starting five at 5' 11", "Grif" leads the team in rebounding with a total of 36 in three games.

Impressive in reserve roles were sophomore Jack Kelly and veteran senior Milligan. Kelly, playing only about half of the St. Francis game, was second in the number of rebounds captured.

Mermen Set 3 Marks In Practice Meet

Last Friday the Union College swimming squad invaded the Villanova pool to meet the Wildcat mermen in a practice meet. Fine performances dominated the meet as three pool records were eclipsed.

Don Couig led the way by splashing to victory in the two hundred yard individual medley in record time. The three hundred yard medley relay mark also fell with Couig, Larry Palacio, and Mike Klesius nosing out the Union trio. The third record was set in the four hundred yard freestyle relay with Bob Duffy, Den Rinkacs and Couig swimming.

Villanova continued with victories: in the diving event by Mke Rafferty, the two hundred yard breaststroke by Lou Pinto, and the two hundred yard backstroke by Jerry Schivey.

Union, which came with a nine won and one lost record, left with victories in the fifty yard, one hundred yard, 220 yard, and the 440 yard individual medleys. Bill O'Neil, Bill Belius, and Bob Bartner lead the central New York team to their victories.

Freshman Beat Brown Prep, West Catholic to Remain Undefeated

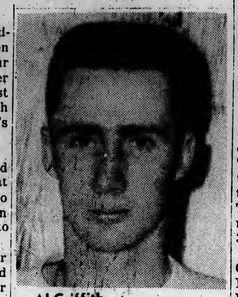
By HANK NICHOLS

The Villanova "baby" Wildcats extended their unbeaten string of basketball wins to four last week with victories over Brown Prep, 68-66, and the West Chester Freshmen, 86-79. Both games were played in Villanova's fieldhouse.

Brown Game Close

The Brown Prep game proved to be a toughie for the Wildcat yearlings as they needed two clutch baskets by Gene Opella in the last minutes of play to come out on top.

Joe Ryan led the scorers for both teams with 25 points and also played an outstanding floor game, while Opella and Harrison did yeoman work off the boards for the Wildkittens.



Rally Beats West Chester

After losing a three point halftime lead, 36-33, the Frosh had to come from behind to beat West Chester.

Once again it was the red headed flash from St. Joseph's Prep in Philadelphia, Joe Ryan, who led the Wildkittens to victory. With West Chester leading 55-44, Ryan took charge. He led the 'Kittens in an amazing fast break attack that blew the ball game wide open.

With Opella and Harrison doing the rebounding, and Ryan either scoring or feeding off for a bucket, the 'Kittens spurted and tied the game at 67-67. Ryan hit a jump shop and Opella and Harrison started to hit from underneath as the 'Kittens pulled away from the deadlock and finally won, 86-79.

Ryan hit on an assortment of shots for 26 points and Harrison scored 20 points, mostly on tipins and drives, to lead the 'Kittens pointmakers. Individual honors went to Mack Kingsmore of West Chester, however, as he used a deadly jump shot to account for most of his 28 points.

Al Griffith
. . . best rebounder

Third Year on Varsity:

Scoring, Rebounding Cirino Assets

By BOB FORD

When Al Severance first saw big John Cirino perform on the basketball court three years ago, he knew that in the 6' 5" freshman he had a scorer and a rebounder of high potential. The Judge wan't wrong.

Today Cirino is one of the steadiest performers on the Villanova squad. In game after game he can be counted on for double-figure performances in the scoring column and in rebounds.

It was his efforts which were responsible for stunning victories last year over Fordham and North Carolina State. Against Fordham he tallied some 20 points to be high scorer for the evening, but he pulled rebound after rebound away from Ed Conlin. And it was this rebounding which resulted in a Wildcat victory. He continually pulled the ball away from taller opponents in the State game, then added vital taps and one-handed pushes from the foul line for another victory.

John Cirino

John is a New York product. Born in the City, he later moved to Malverne, Long Island. At Malverne he participated in football and basketball and was captain of the basketball team and Long Island All-Scholastic in his senior year.

About this year, John feels that people are due for "a lot of surprises" from the Cats. He expects that the team will "win a lot of big ones". He is particularly hopeful of chances in the City league.

Cino is a marketing major with a C-plus average. He was recently elected secretary of the Varsity Club, which he joined after his sophomore season. In addition, he has participated in the activities of Delta Pi Epsilon, the Spanish Club and Sigma Alpha Pi Alpha.

After graduation John foresees service in the Army, "inevitable", and a possibility of AAU basketball, but is undecided beyond that point.

Bobby Powers

Fallon Main Threat:

Villanova Meets St. Joe's Tonight In Opening Game of City Series

By JOHN CURTIN

Al Griffith, surrounded by the entire St. Francis team, goes high in the air to pull down a rebound. "Grif", only 5-11, is Villanova's best rebounder so far this season. Villanova won the game, 100-77, which was played at the Palestra last Wednesday

The Philadelphia City Series, a five-way battle for supremacy in the Philadelphia area, will be inaguarated tonight when the Villanova Wildcats tangle with the St. Joseph Hawks in the Palestra. This will be the first meeting between the teams since 1939 when Villanova won, 36-18. The Blue and White cagers are ahead in the 13 meeting of the two squads, 11 wins to 2.

Ever since its opening game when it knocked off highly-rated Fordham, St. Joe's has been gaining recognition as the team to beat in this year's round robin tournament. The Hawks have the height and scoring punch to pose a threat to any team.

Have Height

Mike Fallon, team captain and last year's scoring leader with 374 points, will probably be the toughest man for the Villanova hoopsters to check. Bill Lynch (6'6"), the biggest man on the Hawk team, Kurt Engelbert (6'5"), rated especially deadly under the basket, Dan Dougherty, one of the better defensive players in the city, Ray Radziszewski, who has turned into a consistent scorer this season, and Joe Ceremsak, a top offensive player on last year's team, will all be a threat to the White and Blue.

Strong Reserve Power

Beside these men, St. Joe's also has strong reserve power on the bench, which has figured prominently in at least one victory this season.

Coach Al Severance will most likely go into the contest with a starting five consisting of Captain Jimmy Smith, Johnny Cirino, Al Griffith, Bob Powers, and Jack Weissman. Jack Kelly and Marty Milligan are two reserves who are certain to see some action. The 'Cats will use fast, possession ball to offset the height of the Hawks and rely on Smith, Cirino, and Kelly to bring down their share of rebounds.

The game, which will be televised by WPFH (channel 12) of Wilmington, Del., will get under way at 9:30, following the preliminary battle between LaSalle and Lafayette.

Ex-LaSalle Star Named Assistant Track Coach

This week the Villanova University Track Team is working under the guidance of a new assistant coach, Mr. James Tuppeny.

"Mr. T", as he is called by his prodigies began his brilliant track career at West Catholic High School in Philadelphia where he specialized in the pole-vault.

Went To LaSalle

Upon reelase from the navy after the war, the tall, lean athlete entered La Salle College and continued his track career. While there, he brought home many championship ribbons and trophies. During his last year at La Salle, Tuppeny set several pole-vaulting records.

Tuppeny began his coaching career at Malvern Prep School. While coaching at Malvern he turned out several great track teams as well as many present college stars. His greatest coaching accomplishment was when his Malvern teams won the Inter-Academic League section of the Inquirer Track Meet two years in succession.

The new coach is well known in this area for his excellent officiating of local high school basketball games.

At the present time Tuppeny is a Social Studies teacher at Haverford High School. He lives in Sharon Hill with his wife and family.

James Tuppeny

Jim Smith
Villanova's Basketball Captain

Flyweights Win Intramural Grid Championship

Intramural football competition came to an end last Tuesday afternoon when the Flyweights defeated the Burrs, 2-0, at Austin Field on a safety with less than one minute left to play in the game.

Led by a strong defensive line, including Don Bragg Walt Punke, John Esposito, Jim Holzinger, and Chet Zeigler, the Flyweights held the smaller Burrs to one first down during the game. The Flyweights picked up four first downs during the contest.

Inzitari Paces Offense

Offensively, the Flyweights also dominated the game. The aerial attack spurred by quarterback Joe Inzitari was almost completely responsible for the winners' total yardage. Also adding to offensive push was halfback and team captain, Jack Kero and halfback Don Kelly. The most outstanding game was played by Fred Onorato and Joe Inzitari, however.

Other stalwarts in the Flyweights offensive and defensive machine were John Allen, Tony DeAngelus, Ray Clarke, Bill Farrell, and Art Odabash.

SPORTS CHATTER

Ulcers, Swamis, and Villanova

By BOB STRAYTON

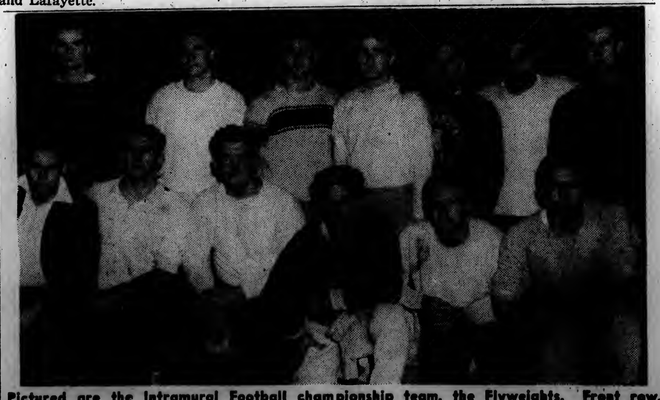
Alex G. Severance has been having recurring attacks of anxiety for the past nineteen years. During those years, the affable Tredyffrin Township magistrate has acted as the master tactician for nineteen Villanova varsity basketbal teams. The recurring attacks of anxiety, naturally, have been caused by the shortcomings of nineteen of those basketball teams. And perhaps, previous to this season, his anxiety was approaching the ulcer stage.

The prevalent consensus of the crystal-ball strategists before the 1955-56 basketball season indicated the season to be one of dire consequences for the Villanova team's prodigies. That the loss of Schafer and Devine would prove disastrous to Jimmy Smith's charges during the current year was the patent belief of all the pre-season swamis. Lack of height, no control over the boards, and numerous other excuses were offered as reparation for what certainly would be a none-too-productive season. Reading those demoralizing epithets, the ulcerated condtion of the Chester barrister's interior understanding became aggravated. Here he was, tending a flock of basketball players already predestined for obscurity.

And Did They Fool The Swamis

And yet, he and his 1955-56 edition of the basketball Wildcats have fooled everyone. To date, the team has played three games. To date, the team has won three games. Perhaps three games isn't much on which to base the outcome of a season, but they certainly are a more concrete basis for judgment than is a crystal ball.

The evident lack of height on the Villanova team is a physical problem which no one can deny. However, a starting team consisting of Jimmy Smith, standing a full six feet-two inches, Allen Griffith, possessing a five-eleven stature, John Cirino, the team's tallest, at six-four, Jack Weissman, who is almost six-three, and Bobby Powers, with a formidable six-two frame, have completely out-rebounded the likes of Tom Hemans (6-7), Alex "Boo" Ellis (6-6), Jim McClellant (6-6), Bob Watro (6-5), and numerous other court giants. As a matter of fact, Villanova has had better, or comparable, luck off the boards, as a team, than any of its opponents.



Five Schafers And You Can't Miss

But rebounding is just one of the important factors. To win, a team must score. Assuming that Schafer was the only scorer on the team, his loss meant the loss of a point-producing machine in the analysis accorded the team before the season began. But the current team has five Bobby Schafers. The squad is averaging slightly better than 87 points per contest, and has hit 100 points once in the infant season. Every man on the starting five, and a few of the reserves, have found themselves in double figures at least once. Also, in each game, there has been a different high scorer, and, in each case, the high scorer has had twenty points or better. Against King's, Smitty hit for 20 even; Bobby Powers holds the season's high with 27 against the Frankies; last Saturday, "Wonder" Weissman recorded 24 versus Niagara. The team can score.

With An Assist From Mercury

And now, with a great deal of delight, we come to the "stronger" points of this year's squad. Mercurial aptitude must have rubbed off onto the sneaks of the Wildcat journeymen, because when they wander up and down the court, it is with a high degree of speed. Another relishing thought is the alacrity which the team possesses in moving the ball. Passes, which must be difficult for the intended receiver to see, appear as somewhat of an accurately placed blur to the average Field House or Palestra spectator. Again, there isn't anyone in Blue and White satin shorts who can't dribble, drive and fake to a creditable degree. Defensively, the team's showing in the King's College game was enough to make a Wildcat fan burst into tears from sheer despair. But, my, how the team did change in the last two games! It is suggested to all future opponents of Villanova '55-56, therefore, to keep their passes on the court short, fast, accurate, and to a minimum, else some quickhanded Mainliner abscond with them,

(Continued on Page 15)

Pictured are the Intramural Football championship team, the Flyweights. Front row, left to right: Art Odabash, Ray Clarke, John Esposito, Chet Zegler, Bill Farrell, and Walt Punke; back row: John Allen, Don Kelly, Joe Inzitari, Jack Kero, Duke Conte, Fred Onorato, and Jim Holzinger.

Fr. Krupa's Troupe

(Continued from Page 1)

successful "Caine Mutiny Court Martial".

Tryouts for parts will be held by Father Krupa during the first week of school in Jan. from the 3rd through the 6th. There are 30 roles to be filled, involving one of the largest casts Belle Masque has ever presented. Anyone interested in trying out should attend the first meeting Jan. 3 in 101 C & F building, 7:30 p.m.

Co-eds Needed

Co-eds are urged to turn out for auditions also. Publicity and business workers should also be present at the meeting.

Holiday all the Way

More fun on the train...and the gang's all here

Got plans for a grand holiday? Then don't let 'em be ruined by traffic jams or foul-weather delays. Get your homeward bound friends together and make it a holiday all the way . . . by train! It's tops in transportation . . . comfortable, roomy and so dependable, with refreshments and delicious meals en route!

Save 25% or More

Stretch your allowance by traveling back home with two or more friends on group coach tickets.* On most trips of 100 miles or more, you each save 25% of the usual round-trip rate. Better still, round up 25 or more to travel long-distance together on the same homeward train. Then return singly or together, and you each save 28% of the regular round-trip fare.

*Except on local travel between New York, Washington and points east of Lancaster, Pa.

See your travel or ticket agent NOW! Ask about these big money saving plans!

EASTERN RAILROADS

Forum Heartened

(Continued from Page 1)

remarked that Mr. Vogeler spoke in such a natural manner that it appeared that he was reciting his story for the first time.

The graduate of MIT has lectured in more than 500 cities since his release in April 1951.

Meanwhile, Mr. Bruderle explained that next year a full schedule of lectures will be set up before the fall academic semester opens. This year the speakers are being chosen before each lecture, he said.

"Year in Review"

(Continued from Page 1)

ball rallies, selections by the Villanova Singers and excedpts from the lecture of Robert Vaogeler at the Villanova Forum.

On the humorous side, Charles Brockman and Joe Redmond will present their impression of the replacement of that old Villanova institution — the Fie Shoppe — by the new facilities for day-hops in Dougherty Hall.

This show, the first of its kind undertaken by WVIL, is the result of almost two months work by Kelly and his department members.

The show itself will be an example of another highlight of this school-year as it will adequately reflect the more efficient and modern equipment acquired by WVIL this fall and will emanate from the station's new studios in Dougherty Hall.

READ THE VILLANOVAN

Patron List Drive On

(Continued from Page 1)

Notre Dame, Princeton and Cornell.

Record Hits

Morrow and his group have found time in between to record such hits as "Night Train", "Greyhound," "Stairway to the Stars," "Mr. Sandman" and "On the Alamo".

Before his gradual rise to the top and his big break which came in April 1953, Morrow has taken his "big beat" on a nation-wide tour. Playing dates were scarce until the records began catching the ears of the disc buying public and a string of ten dates at the Hollywood Palladium in April 1953.

But Morrow kept lugging his trombone and leading his bandsmen along the trail of one-night stands while expenses—even Morrow's own food allowance—were slashed to the bare essentials.

Renata Tebaldi

(Continued from Page 10)

eously than they do for other guest artists. We look forward to seeing and hearing her again Jan. 2 in Philadelphia where she will appear in the title role of Puccini's Tosca."

The Bell Telephone Orchestra under the baton of Donald Vorlices also performed "Dance of the Comedians" from Smetana's "BARTERED BRIDE" and Pagaini's "Perpetual Motion".

Merry Christmas

WVIL SCHEDULE

7:30- 8:30 a.m.—Yawn Patrol
8:30- 6:00 p.m.—Continuous Music
6:00- 6:30 p.m.—Record Rendezvous
6:30- 7:00 p.m.—Jazz Before Seven
7:00- 7:30 p.m.—Visiting Girls' Schools
7:30- 8:00 p.m.—Special Music Shows
8:00- 8:15 p.m.—LUCKY STRIKE NEWS PROGRAM
8:15-8:30 p.m.—Memory Lane
8:30- 9:00 p.m.—Production Shows
9:00-10:00 p.m.—Wet Wax Works
10:00-10:15 p.m.—LUCKY STRIKE SPORTS SHOW
10:15-10:45 p.m.—Concert Work Shop
10:45-11:00 p.m.—OLD GOLD "FILTER KING" SHOW

SPORTS CHATTER

Ulcers, Swamis, and Villanova

By BOB STRAYTON

(Continued from Page 14)

as happened on so many occasions during the Wildcats last two performances.

Were there space in this discourse, a great deal more could be said for this season's Villanova club. But, to sum it all up in the words of a recently overheard comment:

"Villanova lost a star, but found a ball team."

Mr. Severance, forget your ulcers for another year.

THE ACTIVATED CHARCOAL FILTER

All the pleasure comes thru

...THE TASTE IS GREAT!

All the pleasure comes thru in Filter Tip Tareyton. You get the full, rich taste of Tareyton's quality tobaccos in a filter cigarette that smokes milder, smokes smoother, draws easier ...the only filter cigarette with a genuine cork tip.

Tareyton's filter is pearl-gray because it contains Activated Charcoal for real filtration. Activated Charcoal is used to purify air, water, foods and beverages, so you can appreciate its importance in a filter cigarette. Yes, Filter Tip Tareyton is the filter cigarette that really filters, that you can really taste . . . and the taste is great!

©A.T.CO.

THE BEST IN FILTERED SMOKING

FILTER TIP TAREYTON

PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

Campus News

IRS

Last night the I.R.S. entertained its second speaker of the year. Mr. Howard Johnson, editor of CURRENT GERMANY and formerly with the U.S. State Dept. in Washington, spoke on "U.S. Foreign Policy with Relation to Germany." The meeting was an immense success, and marked a precedent for future joint meetings with I.C.G.

Mr. Johnson, who is also in charge of the Residential Seminars on World Affairs, pointed out many interesting highlights of our present policy concerning Germany.

Plans were discussed concerning a regional meeting to be held at Mount Hollyoke College in Mass., as well as the national conference of the Association of International Relations Clubs which is to be held in Philadelphia during April. The Villanova I.R.S. will play an important part in the success of this Spring convention.

ACCOUNTING SOCIAL

Professor Leo A. Schaefer, a teacher at Villanova for over thirty years, and present head of the accounting department, and his wife recently held a social for the members of the Accounting Society and their wives, at Mr. and Mrs. Shaefers' home at 615 Hazelwood Road, in Ardmore.

FACULTY FETE

The Rev. James A. Donnellon, O. S. A., University president, introduced the new members of the faculty at the Annual Faculty Banquet, held last night in the Field House.

The Banquet, whose purpose is to bring together faculty and and administration during the Christmas season, was followed by a concert given by the Villanova Singers.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

WVIL Unit Will Air Ball Game

WVIL's mobile unit will broadcast tonight's Villanova-Niagara basketball game back to campus from the Palestra. Broadcast time is 9:25 p. m.

Ed Shea will do the play-by-play with Jim Judge handling the color.

Lynch's Sources

Continued from Page12)

should adopt the Bricker amendment to protect American liberties from UN treaty proposals, but he stresses that the perils inherent in the UN Charter can be averted only by with-conditions.

Chesly Manly has been in newspaper work since his graduation from the University of Missouri, and has been with the Chicago Tribune since 1929. For some years he was assigned to the Washington Bureau of the Tribune, where he covered the great debates on Roosevelts's court-packing scheme and war policies. After three years in the Army Air Forces in World War II, he was assigned to the United Nations as special Tribune correspondent, a post he held for eight years.

Student Cites Pride

(Continued from Page 7)

University, a feat they accomplished last October eighth in Fenway Park, Boston before a national television audience with their snappy marching and smart dress.

In Just A Few Years

Thus in a few short years, a somewhat ragged and disunited outfit has been trasformed into an organized, compact unit that all Villanova can be proud of. These results have been extremely gratifying, and the band certainly deserves to be dubbed, "The Greatest Little Marching Band in the East."

Political Battlefront:

(Continued from Page 7)

being lured to the miserable cause of the "shepherd"

The publications HUMAN EVENTS which Lynch apparently not only relies on to be an authority an the U.N. but evidently the voice of these "Legions of Americans" is an insignificant script which has never exceeded eight pages and has changed offices four times in the past nine years. There is no library in Pennsylvania which is currently subscribing to it.

From its conception HUMAN EVENTS has consistantly critized American policy but always because of the dangers to the welfare of America itself.

In 1944 in a one page supplement entitled "Not Merely Gossip", it censored the Marines and Air Force, at a time when it was necessary for American morale to be high, for committing atrocities in the Pacific.

In 1946, it chastised the State Department for regarding Juan Peron as a dictator.

In 1948, it critized the American press for not sympathizing with Whitaker Chambers, a confessed communist who had plotted revolution against the U.S. and had admittedly perjured himself many times.

Since Dumbarton Oaks, HUMAN EVENTS has constantly critized every movement of the U.N.

This is not the voice of "legions of Americans", it is an insufficient magazine for undiscerning readers.

Sincerely,
Jim Greenlee

Collegiate Whirl

AUSTIN, TEXAS - (ACP) - A freshman at the University of Texas became a little more homesick when he opened his first letter from home and found that his folks had mailed two sheets of blank paper by mistake.

* * * * * * *

AUSTIN, TEXAS - (ACP) - The Orange Jackets, a University of Texas service organization, has come up with an idea that others might do well to follow. It has set up two booths on the university campus staffed with members who aid freshman and transfer students in locating buildings and classrooms. The Orange Jackets is an organization made up of outstanding sophomore and junior girls.

* * * * * * *

TALLAHASSEE, FLA. - (ACP) - This comes via the pages of the Oklahoma Daily:

The Tallahassee board of realtors has asked brokers to stop putting for sale signs on houses they're handling. The signs, the board said, lessen confidence in property values and give visitors the impression the city isn't a very desirable place in which to live.

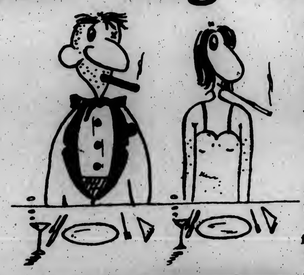
Smoke Tomorrow's better cigarette* Today-

Enjoy a Cool Mildness never possible before!

Chesterfield
BEST FOR YOU!

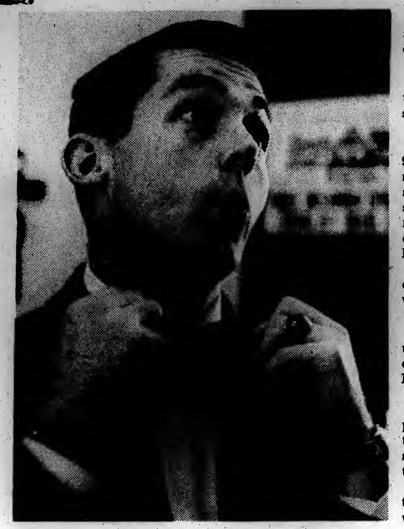
LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

Editorials, Columns, Cartoons, Features, Picture Spreads, Pages 2-3-4-5-8-9-10



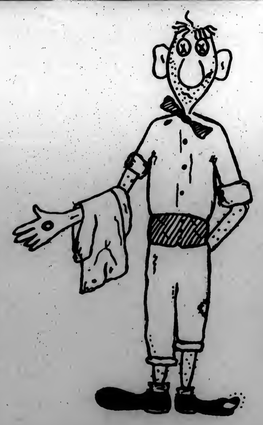
Villanovan

News of Clubs, Sports, Faculty, Fraternities, Class, Administration, Pgs. 6-7-11-12-13-14-15-16



Vol. 31—No. 9 VILLANOVA UNIVERSITY, VILLANOVA, PA. January 11, 1956

Class of 1956 Braced For Final 'Big Weekend' Fling



To better appreciate Phil Seefried's cartooning it is suggested that you view the drawings in a clockwise sequence beginning with the young fellow at lower left, and proceeding through the prom, a picnic (?), the dinner dance, ending with the destitute, bewildered fellow at lower right. The real life revelers anticipating the weekend is one Richard Benton Fitzpatrick, of the Class of 1956.

Prom, Dinner Dance Set For Friday and Saturday Nights; Large Turnouts Anticipated

By TOM SMITH

From the first strains of Morrow music Friday night till the wee hours of Sunday morning, members of the Class of 1956 will be out to make their last big social weekend the most memorable.

Chairmen of the prom and dinner dance expect good turnouts for both events. Tickets ($6) for the prom will be on sale through Friday. Sale of dinner dance tickets ($10) will close tomorrow at noon. Ticket booth is in the Pie Shoppe.

The Belle Air ball, or prom, is open to all Villanovans, emphasized Co-Chairmen Paul Menz and Dave Burns. But the dinner-dance is open to only fourth-year men and their dates.

* * * * * * *

Although this is the last scheduled social event for the class, there has been some talk about another event late in the second semester. No definite plans have been made, however.

Formal Attired Pack Horse

The weekend gets underway officially with the dancing from 9 till 1. But long before that seniors will be spending feverish moments tieing and retieing stubborn bow ties and rubbing those shoes for that elusive glossy finish ... and standing on railroad station platforms and behind airport gates ... waiting patiently for the privilege of being burdened with handbags and hatcases of dates who traveled all the way from Evanston and Erie and Elkton.

Then, it's on to the Field House, decked out around the theme of "Moments to Remember," where Buddy Morrow and his boys will be giving out mellow, danceable notes and the "big beat."

* * * * * * *

Less than 24 hours later, the seniors and their dates will pick up their swelling feet and head for Palumbo's night club in Philadelphia for a dinner-dance that figures to equal or surpass last May's affair.

Place of Pleasant Memories

In the same cozy setting where the Class of 1956 took the progressive step of holding a dinner-dance in a night club, the toast to the three and a half years since they stood shyly before seniors can nurse their nostalgic moods and reminisce about and the Field House one September morning back in 1952.

Waiters will begin serving dinner about 6:30 p. m., according to Tom McInerney, chairman of the affair. Afterward, the diners will turn to a floor show and dancing.

* * * * * * *

"The show will be well-rounded and better than the one in May," commented McInerney. Arrangements for the dinner-dance and floor show were handled through Mr. John Ferro, Palumbo's manager.

Something for the Boys

Three bands will provide continuous music during the dinner-dance. Master of ceremonies for the entertainment program will be Napolean Reed, who appeared in the Broadway version of "Carmen Jones." "Seniors will remember him from the May dinner-dance," observed McInerney.

The chairman said any senior who was engaged recently may have the engagement announced during the dinner-dance if he likes.

* * * * * * *

Some of the most back breaking work on the prom—dressing up the Field House — is being handled by decorations chairman Phil Butler, and his assistants: Joe Jackson, John Kilker, Joe Schultz, Fred Onorato, Pete Scott, Bill Mannix, Bob Henschel, Ed Novasatka and Gene Bilan.

Other senior prom workers have been letting their imaginations devise new things. For the first time the young man will also take home a favor, just as his date has always done. John Henry heads the favors committee.

* * * * * * *

(Continued on Page 4)

Outlooks of the Editor

THIS "HOTEL COMPLEX"

The move to the new dining hall in Dougherty Hall has brought to lgiht a number of new problems, one of which is much more appaling than the sight of the long snaking lines of hungry young men.

That problem—actually, it is a disgrace rather than a problem—has been created by the inevitable group of youngsters who go through life with an exaggerated "hotel souvenir complex." This malady, and indeed it is a malady, compells a member of this sect to lay his hands on anything that isn't riveted down, and eventually to shove this evidently highly prized thing—like sugar containers, one supposes—into the nearest pocket.

According to the recent report of a reliable source, there are some of these furtive young men operating in the new dining hall. This source reports that some 100 of the new sugar containers have been spirited out of the new cafeteria in less than ten days of operation. Naturally, the sugar containers in Dougherty are much, much nicer than those of the Mendel Hall plant, and these new ones must offer a new temptation that leaves the young "collectors utterly unable to resist taking one or two, like a couple of old Statler towels.

There must be a lot of these individuals who have breakfast in bed every morning. That's the only conclusion.

Breakfast in bed or not, picking up loose articles with gay abandon isn't a very honorable thing.

Not even sugar containers.

THE HAPPY TIME

The time is drawing rapidly nearer when "the men will be separated from the boys."

In a few short days the final examinations will be upon us. There will be much scurrying about during the daylight hours and while the blackness of night clokes Villanova a solemn silence will prevail. New ulcers will be formed and old ones will be uncovered. Indeed it will be a frantic week.

It is a time tested fact that the ranks of Villanova men will be a bit smaller at the start of the new term. This condition need not ever prevail.

Many students have this to say about the forthcoming exams, "Me worry? Never, I'll get by. I'll just fill up a couple of blue books with a little bull. I've gotten past before, I can do it again. He'll never flunk me. I've got it made."

Won't he? Do you?

Many optimists have echoed these exact words before, and they have never returned to the halls of Villanova. The answer is simple. Hit the books. Now! Immediately! It is not too late —YET.

SENIOR PROM TIME

I'm not crazy . . . I'm just finishing my English 400 paper.

What Will 1956 Bring

A New Year . : . To "Ring In The True"

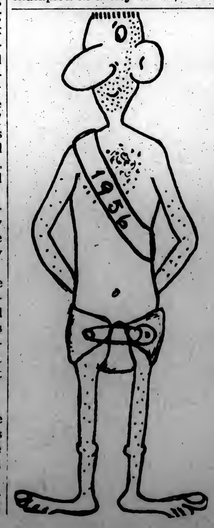
By JIM GREENLEE

Ring out the old, ring in the new,
Ring happy bells across the snow.
The year is going, let him go;
Ring out the false, ring in the true.
—Alfred Tennyson

From Westminister Abbey to St. Patrick's Cathedral in Rome and across the great ocean to Times Square, the bells did resound, traditionally ringing out the old and ringing in the new. A perennial stillness settled over the Times Square crowd moments before the magic hour, only to be broken in ear splitting custom as the clock struck twelve; in night clubs everywhere, a riotous din spread well before the hour and was maintained at a high pitch until long after; congo lines reechoing the sentiments of "Auld Lang Syne" paraded through private homes as factory whistles blew and bells tolled. "Ring out the false, ring inthe true," was beseeched in the most clarion-like tones.

Now would seem an appropriate time for speculation on why we so happily observe the close of the old year and so lustily greet the new one.

The evident answer is that we would like the success and happiness of the past year reiterated and the failures and sadness obiliviated. The questions posed by this statement are: "What is expected of '56?" and "What is expected of us in '56?"



World Peace

Most of us would probably like '56 to witness concrete steps taken toward world peace, the end of suppression and the end of all despots and potential dictators; the rise of global freedom; "Liberty, Fraternity and Equality" to be more than a forlorn dream and instead to be truly representative of all people; and more advances in the sciences designed to rid man of his perennial adversary — disease.

In our own country, specifically, we should like our constitution and preamble to be invoked to the letter for the abolition of such un-American practices as "segregation" and "guilt by kinship."

A Successful Year

On the Villanova front, a champion in a city series, a winning football team, an abundance of well-received social functions, and a successful academic year could be happily envisioned.

What is expected of us in '56? Since this is traditionally the time for resolution making, we should seriously explore this question. We are all innately gifted with various abilities which are not only of a widely diversified nature, but are not even awarded in similiar quantities.

Parable of the Talents

Perhaps the analogy outlined by Bishop Sheen in his column "Life is Worth Living," provides the answer. In it, he urges us to be satisfied in accordance with the parable of the talents which appears in the Bible. Each of five workers was given a different amount of talents which he was to invest as he desired, and after a time, each was asked for an accounting. Since they had been given varying amounts, the worker who had been given the most made the largest return on his investment; the others showed less returns in ratios according to what they had received. The Lord was pleased with all except the last one, who had kept his talents and had not invested them. The Lord chastised him for he had not made the most of what he had.

Each of us possesses ambitions and abilities which are peculiar to ourselves alone. Since these diverse gifts are bestowed upon us by our Maker, He obviously does not expect the same returns from each.

It would seem that the best resolution possible for '56 is merely to remember the advice of the parable of the talents and to govern ourselves accordingly.

Rippled Reflections: 'The Triad'

By Bernard L. Bonniwell, Ph.B.

The subtle grace of the oncoming Dawn, the arrogance and power of High Noon, the evanescent lull of Eventide: of these is fashioned the triad of life. To live in fullness the hours so granted, man must sense and somehow know the myriad moments of glory hidden deep in the silent flight-of-time. The visions of both heart and mind must dispell the nearness of confusion, seeking the promised yet undisclosed treasures of the unblind. These are the things of living and are to be possessed in their fullness.

Thus it is given in youth to be so inclined that reality has existence primarily in the imagination, and an awareness of the close patterned web of life is lost in the infinite interlocking of the values and intervals of intellect and emotion.

In the power and glory of mid-life, where the concrete and massive events of living tend to bruise the weak and burnish the strong, the courageous man asks only that God keep the Sun high. This is the hour of rich purpose, of action and fulfillment.

With the closing hours of Eventide fretfully upon him, and acutely aware that the indrawing web of life is now beginning to press out the once all-pervading sense of resistance to Death, the reflective and unafraid man awaits the final hour in stubborn silence, strong in the faith of an everlasting God.

The structure of the triad is obvious: constructed in temporal time it must logically end and be the end for all, save those who knowingly perceive Time beyond Time.

SYMPATHY

The staff of the VILLANOVAN extends its deepest sympathy to seniors Lou Donatelli and Jack Gilfillan on the death of their fathers, and to senior Tom O'Rourke and his brother Jack, a junior, upon the death of their father.

Mr. O'Rourke's wake will be held tonight at the O'Rourke home at 1935 71st avenue. The funeral will take place Thursday at 10 a.m. at St. Athanasius Church.

Villanovan

Villanova University Villanova, Pa.
Harry C. Nash III
Editor-in-Chief

Tom Smith ..... Managing Editor
Bill Jones ..... Feature Editor
Frank Delany ..... News Editor
Jack Downing,
Bill Brown ..... Copy Editors
Steve Barnacco ..... Business Manager
Bob Ford
Bob Strayton ..... Sports Editors
Sig Holtz
Joe Esenski ..... Photography Editors
Nick Pedano ..... Circulation Mgr.

Faculty Advisor
Rev. Louis A. Ronglano, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Scholar, Gentleman, Athlete,
LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1928, under the act of March 3, 1879.

MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE PRESS ASSOCIATION

Peering . . . .

With DICK PEER

. . . At the change of changes, the new dniing hall. The food is better but the lines are worse and nothing can be done about it. In designing the super-duper kitchen, someone forgot about the human element. Word has it that two people were dragged into the potato masher just the other day while trying to figure out how it worked. Held things up no end! About those lines, men . . . the Red Cross understands and is going to establish a shelter at the second turn.

. . . At the Great White Way of cigarette and candy machines on the first floor of the new student union building. I think a few one-armed bandits and a couple of slot machines might complete the picture very nicely.

. . . Into the campus University Shop, I can't help but notice the new selection of beanies. Be dashing! Be the campus rake! Buy one, you fool! FOR BEANIES SEE BAUMAN!

. . . At the upcoming Belle Air Ball which promises a thrilling contest for the selection of the "most typical" couple. Now, to qualify as typical, your date doesn't have to be voluptuous—but it might help. The prize, by the way, is a honeymoon trip to Africa. Just something simple, you now.

. . . At the senior dinner-dance this Saturday evening, it has come to my attention that there is an outside chance of a celebrity making an appearance during the stage show. A note of culture might be added if Rose LaRue makes a dancing appearance.

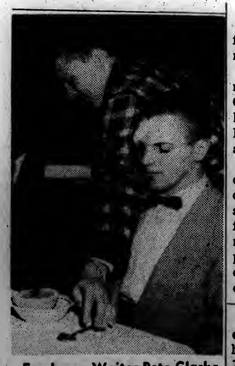
The Reader Speaks:

Letters to the Editor

The Subject of Spirit

Dear Editor:

I find it extremely difficult to reconcile the inconsistency of Villanova student body conduct at the University's basketball games. The players, who in a way represent those in the stands from Villanova, are alternately cheered and berated as the onlookers see fit. In my opinion, this entirely uncalled for and indicates a disastrous lack of unity and true loyalty to the team, since the reaction varies with the complexion of a given game.



The difference between the spirit of the West Chester game and that of the West Virginia game, both won by Villanova, was nothing short of phenomenal. I might add, also, that Villanova was shown up by St. Joe's in the stands as well as on the court during the recent encounter between the two schools. If the students of Villanova want to see their team win, their consistent support, loyal despite the variance in player performances, is absolutely necessary, and any jeering of the Wildcats on the floor is disgraceful.

The attitude and conduct of Villanovans at the Paltestra up to now has been hardly impressive. Perhaps the very dramatic and gratiffying victory over West Virginia will bring about a change for the better — a change for consistency.

Sincerely,
Pat Lowery

March 19th Off:

St. Pattie's Day Weekend To Be Three-Day Affair

Freshman Waiter Pete Clarke, hair parted in the middle and resplendent in his lounge jacket, serves Senior Mike Merz during formal closing dinner in the "Green Room."

The Student Council's annual free day was set last Monday night for Monday, March 19.

President Dick Peer, in announcing this decision of the Council, points out that the holiday will turn the St. Patrick's Day weekend into a three-day-affair.

Each year the Student Council is permited to set aside one day of the school calendar as a free day. The purpose of this free day is to break up the monotony of long, vacationless periods, like the one which occurs in the seven week period of February and March.

A dance, sponsored by the Misericordia Student Nurses, will be held on Friday night, January 13, 1956. It will be held in the Transfiguration School Hall, 54th street and Cedar avenue in West Philadelphia. The dance will begin at 8 P. M., admission will be 50c.

The Exodus to Dougherty:

The Demise of Battle-Scarred Plates; A Look at the New Dining Hall

Tom Meaney, Bob McDonnell, and Owen Hickey, left to right, enjoy 'informal' formal dinner staged by several members of the senior class during one of the final student dinners served in the old cafeteria in Mendel Hall.

By BILL JONES

Somewhere there must be an antiquated proverb gathering dust in a long forgotten corner which states that if you are patient—that is, very patient for a long time—you will obtain the prize you are so strongly hoping for.

For after much anxiety and many gripes, from short and inaudible mutterings to long and quite loud screams of dismay, we of Villanova have finally acquired our prize, the new dining hall, and a fine prize it is.

A New Look

The food, according to most observers, has improved. There is now a new look altogether. There is a certain sign of confidence in the air. Students are eating off bright, gay, clean plates, and with shiny and unbelievably spotless silverware. The old, worn and battle scarred clay pottery and the discolored, egg encrusted eating utensils appear to have permenantly departed. Somehow the task of devouring our famous cuisine seems a bit easier in our new dining hall.

Then there is the piped in music. As yes, such atmosphere, as the pleasant strains of the organ, the piano and the violin sift softly through our newly acquired "potted palms," broken only by the somewhat subdued commercials, which appear but few and far between.

The Missing Pillars

But alas and alack, we have complaints. They come wafting over the handsome tables from our campus orderlies, the law students. They are in dire straits. Their feet are sore and their backs are cased in pain, they gaze curiously at the chrome enclustered ceiling and wonder whatever could be holding it up. For someone has deprived them of their most reliable stand-bys; there are no pillars in sight. No longer can our campus barristers be seen hands thrust snugly into their slightly worn pockets, busily engaged in holding up the ceiling. But all is not lost, however; a new office has been conferred on the lawmen; they may all get a chance at that most coveted post of all, the "chief butter watcher."

On Lines

It seems that we have a few complaints from the students, but what can they be? A familiar cry can be heard ringing through Dougherty's glistening halls, "Lines, lines and more lines." But these new look lines (we hope they will soon be shortened), have certain qualities that appear to be overlooked by the irate students. For the people in the front of the line—that is, those who will eat within the half hour—there is a cut-in-proof ramp (cattle chute style) downhill all the way. For those poor lads in the rear — those who face starvation—there are the ever handy candy and cigarette machines. They can easily light up a Lucky, munch on a candy bar, think of the food ahead and smile.

The lines will be closely supervised by our taunch, sturdy and fearless security officers.

Ah, yes, the handsome, debonaire, well dressed, dishwashing crew has taken on a commendable new look and they are completely hidden.

A Great Day

It is indeed a glorious day, for amidst soothing music greatly improved overall conditions and smiling faces, Villanova students now enjoy the luxury of their fabulous new student union building, Dougherty Hall.

Villanovans Relax in Dougherty Hall . . . . .

Strictly Opinion

By DON ALTON

"vacation, va-ka'shon, n. (Fr. vacation, L. ing without an occupation; a stated interval in vacario.) The act of vacating; the act of leava round of duties; holidays."

The gem reproduced above is a direct quotation from a personal copy of Webster's Dictionary. This will probably suffice to explain the immediate reason for the complete lack of activity around this campus during the past weeks. According to the University's guide book, a certain number of days are set aside at not too frequent intervals for vacations, but our experiences during the past four years would lead us to dispute the use of the expression . . . "on vacation."

How can one justify the use of this term after observing the limp and shallow forms of his once robust and active associates returning from a vacation? The day that college men return to their respective rented nooks the bags are placed on the floor, and a hot shower preceeds the placing of the emaciated and dissipated form under the covers. The sleep that comes to the returning student carries him on a lengthy journey along the tributaries of the Styx, and some can be heard imploring that their forms be carried across this famous river that they may not again wake to another vacation.

"Neither Rain Nor Snow . . . "

Educators believe that the "rest" of the days away from the classroom should serve to replenish the energies expended in the literary and scholarly pursuits of the normal collegian's work week. The strain of the highly competitive atmosphere of the modern university requires allotted periods of recreation and vacation to ensure that those intellects chosen by fate, family, and fortune can derive the full measure of educational benefits from the years of undergraduate labor.

However valid this idea may be, the loyal American college man is placed in a position of decided conflict. His strong desires to gain the rest necessary to the full satisfaction of his intellectual urge comes under the direct fire of his deep moral obligation to serve his country, and cement the friendships which he has cultivated for years. We must acknowledge publicly the strength and character of those among us who sacrificed the days of their "rest" and rehabilitation from the strain of college life to the service of the nation in the delivery of the Christmas mail. Never have so many done so little . . . and gained so much.

Knights of the Toll Roads

We have noted above the devotion displayed to the United States Postal Service but we cannot tell the true story of a college Christmas vacation without a few lines dedicated to those who either combine country and friendships or devote themselves solely to their many friends. The social pressures demand that a large majority of this "rest" be sacrificed to enable one to pay visits to a myriad of friends either at their homes, or in other chosen places of sacrifice. Realizing tha tdevotion to duty must come before personal pleasure, any true college man on vacation will not hesitate to drive from New York to Maine or New Jersey or Maryland in response to an urgent request of a friend. Never have so many traveled so far and enjoyed so much.

The Morning After

This past vacation also included a special type of obligation to the college man. The celebration of the New Year falls within the orbit of the Christmas vacation, and protocol calls for nothing short of the ultimate in sacrifice in a true reception for the diapered youth who makes his appearance felt the morning after the arrival. With the thought of only two or three final days in which to gain his "rest" before resuming the fevered pace of scholarly life, the real student will throw himself into a final unselfish gesture of charity, and join in making this reception the biggest and best that the New Year has ever seen, and this ends the vacation of sacrifice and unselfish devotion to country and friends for the average college student.

WIN A CARTON OF CHESTERFIELDS IN CHESTERFIELD SCORE GUESSING CONTEST

All you have to do is guess the score and high scorers of the Villanova ball game

RULES:

1. Entries must be submitted on the back of a CHESTERFIELD wrapper.
2. Entries must be placed in the appropriate containers in the Pio Shop and Dining Hall.
3. They must be placed in these containers by noon of the day of the game.
4. Entries must include the following:
   Your name and address
   Name of team Villanova vs. Visitors
   No. of Pts. No. of Pts.
   High Scorer High Schorer
   (name (name)
5. A carton of Chesterfields will be given to the first two students who come closest to the actual tallies.
6. The cartons of Chesterfields may be picked up in room No. 51 Mendel Hall on the day following the ball game in question.

The "Nomad Newsman" on Dougherty Hall:

Students Lament Long Lines, But Reaction Generally Good

By MIKE RUSSO

The recent opening of Dougherty Hall has brought varied reactions from the members of the Villanova student body. This week your Nomad Newsman has sought out a few students and recorded their assorted answers to the question, "What do you think of Dougherty Hall?"

JACK KERO, JUNIOR, C and F.

There can be one great improvement made in the new cafeteria, mainly the line situation. The building, however, is beautiful, and a credit to the University.

LEONARD BELLANCA, JUNIOR, C. E.

The building, as a whole, seems pretty good, but some more help is needed to speed up the meals. At times the "line hustling" situation is unfair to the majority of the students who are willing to wait their turn.

JULES WETTLAUFER, SENIOR, C. AND F.

The building is a beautiful piece of architecture, but it still lacks so many things that it does not accommodate the students the way it should, for a one million dollar structure.

JOHN SERENA, SENIOR, C. AND F.

In my estimation this new Dougherty Hall is one of the most beautiful edifaces of its kind on any campus in the country. True, some of its services have some minor faults, but i believe they will straighten tnemselves out in due time.

JOE KOVATCH, SENIOR, C. AND F.

Aside from the minor complaints, such as standing on lines and an occasional grumpy face across the serving table, Villanova must consider that the new dining hall is a far cry from the old "green room." Now, just in case you happen to have visitors, you do not have to look slyly around to see if the coast is clear, you now can relax in one of the lounges.

DON KELLY, JUNIOR, C.E.

After only a couple of days of observing this new spectacle in operation, I would like to commend the administration on its choice of position. The view is wonderful and you get all the fresh air you can handle.

ED SHEA, JUNIOR, ARTS

Things are more modern, but who wants to stand to music for hours on end. I have moved faster through the Holland Tunnel on New Year's Eve. Anyway, the walls are pretty.

BILL FARRELL, JUNIOR, ARTS

The atmosphere is great, and believe me when I tell you, you spend lots of time enjoying it. Everything is new, except the food, that is.

Rent a tux, my eye! We're in the chow line.

Misericordia Dance

A dance, sponsored by the Misericordia Student Nurses, will be held on Friday night, January 13, 1956. It will be held in the Transfiguration School Hall, 54th street and Cedar avenue in West Philadelphia. The dance will begin at 8 P. M., admission will be 50c.

Mendel Bulletin Appearance Set Back to April

Though originally scheduled for February release, the Mendel Bulletin, edited by Bob Connor, will be delayed until early April due to difficulties with the printer. When published there will be a notable increase in circulation due to the demand of this year's increased enrollment. Because of the interest shown in the Bulletin there is a possibility of two issues this term.

The purpose of this paper is to stimulate student interest in the School of Science in both scientific research and investigation of scientific phenomena. The articles this year will be accompanied by illustrations for a greater understanding of the studies.

PUBlicly Speaking . . .

By JIM & MIKE

Some people live from year to year, while we at Villanova live from vacation to vacation, and Christmas is the most hectic time of all. Our student arrived home with a beaming face and a bag of laundry. His vacation was an endless series of parties, banquets and dances, broken up only by many monotonous hours at the Post Office. At this time his well-rounded mind and body met the supreme test of this hard, cruel world. To pass this test he had to be able to stay up all night and work all day for 72 consecutive hours.

Our friend's daylight hours were made more enjoyable by his participation in the age-old sport of outwitting the postmaster and the time clock. Ingenious devices, the invention of which his professors would not have thought his little mind capable of, were employed to provide less work and more time on the clock. One substitute carrier in N. Y. C. crawled up into a parcel post sack for a nap and woke up in Babylon, L. I., three hours later. When he returned, he innocently told his superiors that he had stumbled into a coal pile and had quite a bit of trouble reading the addresses after that little mishap.

The thought that he would be able to sleep on the mornings after Christmas spurred on our little knight of the sore feet. Alas, no rest for the weary. His evenings became longer as he branched out to socialize with more distant friends. Three New Jerseyites were lost for two days in the deep, dark woods of Wilton, Conn., while searching for a party. When found, alcohol was administered, as they were suffering from exposure. They instantly leaped for joy believing that they had finally found their party.

With the coming of the second of January both the student and his earnings were spent. He found his weary way back to school, where he could rest among his books and plan for the next vacation.

Pet peeve of the week: Parties.

Dinner Dance (Continued from Page 1)

For late ticket buyers . . . dinner-dance reservations may be made with Nick Mazzoni (203 Sullivan) between 6 and 8 p. m. today and tomorrow.

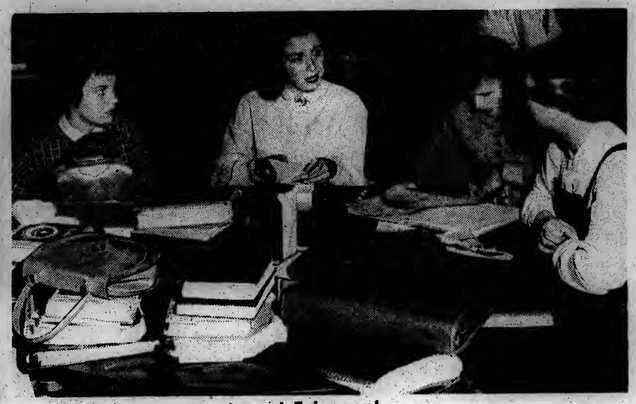
And Jim Bambury reports that his committee has designed a unique program. Bambury's assistants are Ed O'Connell, Frank Power, Matt Heim, Larry Tierney, Tony Brown, Barry Ballister, Pete Alberse, Owen Hickey and Harry Nash. The men collected over 300 patrons, a record numbe rfor a prom.

Villanova's Lassies From Morn' Till Night:

A Day In A Nurse's Life

The University's pioneering young ladies perform an endless variety of tasks in the pursuit of a noble profession

Interest in Activities . . .



Knowledge and Understanding . . .

Prayer and Dedication . . .

Guidance and Assistance . . .

Gossip and Enjoyment . . .

Relaxation and Companionship . . .

Observation and Analysis . . .

Strictly Opinion

By DON ALTON

"vacation, va-ka'shon, n. (Fr. vacation, L. ing without an occupation; a stated interval in vacario.) The act of vacating; the act of leav- a round of duties; holidays."

The gem reproduced above is a direct quotation from a personal copy of Webster's Dictionary. This will probably suffice to explain the immediate reason for the complete lack of activity around this campus during the past weeks. According to the University's guide book, a certain number of days are set aside at not too frequent intervals for vacations, but our experiences during the past four years would lead us to dispute the use of the expression . . . "on vacation."

How can one justify the use of this term after observing the limp and shallow forms of his once robust and active associates returning from a vacation? The day that college men return to their respective rented nooks the bags are placed on the floor, and a hot shower preceeds the placing of the emaciated and dissipated form under the covers. The sleep that comes to the returning student carries him on a lengthy journey along the tributaries of the Styx, and some can be heard imploring that their forms be carried across this famous river that they may not again wake to another vacation.

"Neither Rain Nor Snow . . . "

Educators believe that the "rest" of the days away from the classroom should serve to replenish the energies expended in the literary and scholarly pursuits of the normal collegian's work week. The strain of the highly competitive atmosphere of the modern university requires allotted periods of recreation and vacation to ensure that those intellects chosen by fate, family, and fortune can derive the full measure of educational benefits from the years of undergraduate labor.

However valid this idea may be, the loyal American college man is placed in a position of decided conflict. His strong desires to gain the rest necessary to the full satisfaction of his intellectual urge comes under the direct fire of his deep moral obligation to serve his country, and cement the friendships which he has cultivated for years. We must acknowledge publicly the strength and character of those among us who sacrificed the days of their "rest" and rehabilitation from the strain of college life to the service of the nation in the delivery of the Christmas mail. Never have so many done so little . . . and gained so much.

Knights of the Toll Roads

We have noted above the devotion displayed to the United States Postal Service but we cannot tell the true story of a college Christmas vacation without a few lines dedicated to those who either combine country and friendships or devote themselves solely to their many friends. The social pressures demand that a large majority of this "rest" be sacrificed to enable one to pay visits to a myriad of friends either at their homes, or in other chosen places of sacrifice. Realizing tha tdevotion to duty must come before personal pleasure, any true college man on vacation will not hesitate to drive from New York to Maine or New Jersey or Maryland in response to an urgent request of a friend. Never have so many traveled so far and enjoyed so much.

The Morning After

This past vacation also included a special type of obligation to the college man. The celebration of the New Year falls within the orbit of the Christmas vacation, and protocol calls for nothing short of the ultimate in sacrifice in a true reception for the diapered youth who makes his appearance felt the morning after the arrival. With the thought of only two or three final days in which to gain his "rest" before resuming the fevered pace of scholarly life, the real student will throw himself into a final unselfish gesture of charity, and join in making this reception the biggest and best that the New Year has ever seen, and this ends the vacation of sacrifice and unselfish devotion to country and friends for the average college student.

WIN A CARTON OF CHESTERFIELDS IN CHESTERFIELD SCORE GUESSING CONTEST

All you have to do is guess the score and high scorers of the Villanova ball game

RULES:

1. Entries must be submitted on the back of a CHESTERFIELD wrapper.
2. Entries must be placed in the appropriate containers in the Pic Shop and Dining Hall.
3. They must be placed in these containers by noon of the day of the game.
4. Entries must include the following:
   Your name and address
   Name of team Villanova vs. Visitors
   No. of Pts. No. of Pts.
   High Scorer High Schorer
   (name (name)
5. A carton of Chesterfields will be given to the first two students who come closest to the actual tallies.
6. The cartons of Chesterfields may be picked up in room No. 51 Mendel Hall on the day following the ball game in question.

The "Nomad Newsman" on Dougherty Hall:

Students Lament Long Lines, But Reaction Generally Good

By MIKE RUSSO

The recent opening of Dougherty Hall has brought varied reactions from the members of the Villanova student body. This week your Nomad Newsman has sought out a few students and recorded their assorted answers to the question, "What do you think of Dougherty Hall?"

JACK KERO, JUNIOR, C and F.

There can be one great improvement made in the new cafeteria, mainly the line situation. The building, however, is beautiful, and a credit to the University.

LEONARD BELLANCA, JUNIOR, C. E.

The building, as a whole, seems pretty good, but some more help is needed to speed up the meals. At times the "line hustling" situation is unfair to the majority of the students who are willing to wait their turn.

JULES WETTLAUFER, SENIOR, C. AND F.

The building is a beautiful piece of architecture, but it still lacks so many things that it does not accommodate the students the way it should, for a one million dollar structure.

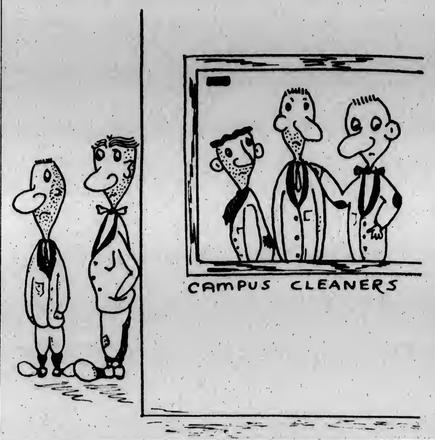
JOHN SERENA, SENIOR, C. AND F.

In my estimation this new Dougherty Hall is one of the most beautiful edifaces of its kind on any campus in the country. True, some of its services have some minor faults, but i believe they will straighten tnemselves out in due time.

JOE KOVATCH, SENIOR, C. AND F.

Aside from the minor complaints, such as standing on lines and an occasional grumpy face across the serving table, Villanova must consider that the new dining hall is a far cry from the old "green room." Now, just in case you happen to have visitors, you do not have to look slyly around to see if the coast is clear, you now can relax in one of the lounges.

DON KELLY, JUNIOR, C.E.



After only a couple of days of observing this new spectacle in operation, I would like to commend the administration on its choice of position. The view is wonderful and you get all the fresh air you can handle.

ED SHEA, JUNIOR, ARTS

Things are more modern, but who wants to stand to music for hours on end. I have moved faster through the Holland Tunnel on New Year's Eve. Anyway, the walls are pretty.

BILL FARRELL, JUNIOR, ARTS

The atmosphere is great, and believe me when I tell you, you spend lots of time enjoying it. Everything is new, except the food, that is.

Rent a tux, my eye! We're in the chow line.

Mendel Bulletin Appearance Set Back to April

Though originally scheduled for February release, the Mendel Bulletin, edited by Bob Connor, will be delayed until early April due to difficulties with the printer. When published there will be a notable increase in circulation due to the demand of this year's increased enrollment. Because of the interest shown in the Bulletin there is a possibility of two issues this term.

The purpose of this paper is to stimulate student interest in the School of Science in both scientific research and investigation of scientific phenomena. The articles this year will be accompanied by illustrations for a greater understanding of the studies.

Misericordia Dance

A dance, sponsored by the Misericordia Student Nurses, will be held on Friday night, January 13, 1956. It will be held in the Transfiguration School Hall, 54th street and Cedar avenue in West Philadelphia. The dance will begin at 8 P. M., admission will be 50c.

PUBlicly Speaking . . .

By JIM & MIKE

Some people live from year to year, while we at Villanova live from vacation to vacation, and Christmas is the most hectic time of all. Our student arrived home with a beaming face and a bag of laundry. His vacation was an endless series of parties, banquets and dances, broken up only by many monotonous hours at the Post Office. At this time his well-rounded mind and body met the supreme test of this hard, cruel world. To pass this test he had to be able to stay up all night and work all day for 72 consecutive hours.

Our friend's daylight hours were made more enjoyable by his participation in the age-old sport of outwitting the postmaster and the time clock. Ingenious devices, the invention of which his professors would not have thought his little mind capable of, were employed to provide less work and more time on the clock. One substitute carrier in N. Y. C. crawled up into a parcel post sack for a nap and woke up in Babylon, L. I., three hours later. When he returned, he innocently told his superiors that he had stumbled into a coal pile and had quite a bit of trouble reading the addresses after that little mishap.

The thought that he would be able to sleep on the mornings after Christmas spurred on our little knight of the sore feet. Alas, no rest for the weary. His evenings became longer as he branched out to socialize with more distant friends. Three New Jerseyites were lost for two days in the deep, dark woods of Wilton, Conn., while searching for a party. When found, alcohol was administered, as they were suffering from exposure. They instantly leaped for joy believing that they had finally found their party.

With the coming of the second of January both the student and his earnings were spent. He found his weary way back to school, where he could rest among his books and plan for the next vacation.

Pet peeve of the week: Parties.

Dinner Dance (Continued from Page 1)

For late ticket buyers . . . dinner-dance reservations may be made with Nick Mazzoni (203 Sullivan) between 6 and 8 p. m. today and tomorrow.

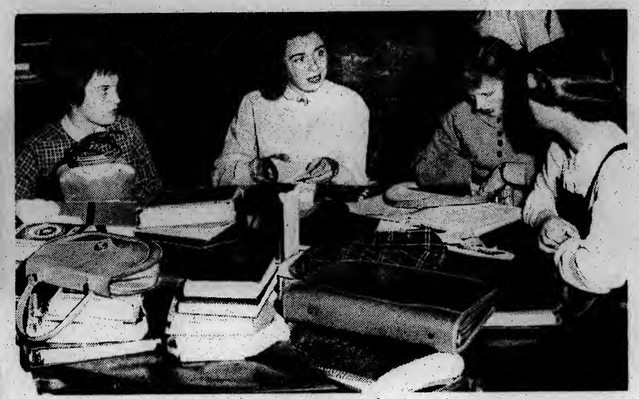
And Jim Bambury reports that his committee has designed a unique program. Bambury's assistants are Ed O'Connell, Frank Power, Matt Heim, Larry Tierney, Tony Brown, Barry Ballister, Pete Alberse, Owen Hickey and Harry Nash. The men collected over 300 patrons, a record numbe rfor a prom.

Villanova's Lassies From Morn' Till Night:

A Day In A Nurse's Life

The University's pioneering young ladies perform an endless variety of tasks in the pursuit of a noble profession

Interest in Activities . . .



Knowledge and Understanding . . .

Prayer and Dedication . . .

Guidance and Assistance . . .

Gossip and Enjoyment . . .

Relaxation and Companionship . . .

Observation and Analysis . . .

"Tosca" Tickets on Sale:

Opera-Classica Club Meets Tomorrow; Attends Ballet

Maria Tallchief

London Recordings at 7 o'Clock in C & F Building

Opera-Classica club music lovers and others interested in music will hear the opera "Tosca" performed on London recordings tomorrow evening at 7:00 p.m. in 208 Commerce Hall.

Will Witness "Tosca"

For those club members who will see "Tosca" with the club at the Academy of Music on Jan. 24, tomorrow evening's entertainment will aid in the understanding of the opera.

Starring in the Metropolitan Opera Company production of Puccini's opera at the Academy will be Giuseppe Di Stefano, Tito Gobbi and Renata Tebaldi.

There are twenty tickets for the "Tosca" trip that are available from the club moderator.

Club Attends Ballet

Thirty Opera-Classica members made their second cultural trip of this semester this past Thursday when they attended "Ballet Night" at Convention Hall.

Maria Tallchief and George Eglevsky were guest artists. Together they did the "Pas de Deux" from Delibes' "Sylvia." Mr. Angeline described the performance as "stunning and executed refinement and dramatic grace."

Ormandy Conducts Premiere

At the same performance the Philadelphia Orchestra under the baton of Eugene Ormandy gave the world premeiere of Albeniz' "Iberia," a suit of Spanish dances.

Reckenwald's Work Praised by Field Bulletin

In a review of a number of books in the field of counseling psychology in a recent issue of the Psychological Bulletin, Dr. Edward Shoven of Columbia University characterizes the book Guidance and Counseling (1953) by Professor Recktenwald of the Psychology Department, as "workmanlike and comprehensize."

The Villanova library has a copy of this book in its stacks. Professor Recktenwald has authored a number of books and is a frequent contributor to psychological and professional journals.

Cribbing Article In ENGINEER

The VILLANOVA ENGINEER, under editor-in-chief Jack Clancy, will make its first 1956 appearance Monday. That issue's chief attraction, according to an ENGINEER spokesman, will be a "very controversial article on cribbing."

Alumni Board of Governors Hears Progress Report

A progress report on the Alumni Foundation Fund highlighted the second quarterly meeting of the Alumni Board of Governors, held Dec. 18.

Alumni secretary George A. Harris reported that, as of Dec. 18, $22,841.84 had been donated through the alumni. A full report on the fund for the fiscal year ending Dec. 31 is expected next week, Mr. Harris added.

Other Business

In other business, the Board heard reports from club representatives on activities within the clubs.

Learned that the Board of Athletic Control has met three times since Nov. 1. The Athletic Control Board is attempting to have at least one football game scheduled on campus next season. There are three home games listed now, Florida State, Iowa State and Houston, and one of these will likely be chosen for the Homecoming Game.

Received with interest a suggestion by Bob Ford, senior class representative, that the alumni clubs consider inviting campus organizations to alumni meetings to provide entertainment. Ford mentioned specifically Belle Masque, T n' T and the Villanova Singers. He pointed out that the Philadelphia and South Jersey Clubs have already invited the Singers to meetings.

Board Now Representative

Heard a report by a sub-committee of the Executive Board which stated that the present membership of the Board of Governors was as representative as possible now, but in the future some additional consideration might be given to alumni graduated three to eight years. The Executive Board is currently studying the relationship of law, nursing and evening school graduates to the General Alumni Association.

Today's second consecutive 16-page issue of the VILLANOVAN is devoted to the final official big weekend of the Class of 1956. Deadline for next week's issue is tonight for feature copy, and tomorrow night for news.

CAROL COLLIER — Prom Vocalist

Buried on Campus Saturday:

Augustinian, VU Grad., Found Dead on Paoli Local

A priest who was found dead on the Paoli Local was buried Saturday on the campus where he earned his degree almost 40 years ago.

The Rev. Albert C. O'Loughlin, O.S.A. was a teacher at Augustinian Academy at Staten Island, N.Y. He was 61.

Father O'Loughlin was found dead last Wednesday morning when the Pennsylvania Railroad train he was riding pulled into the Paoli station. He had been on his way to visit his cousin, the Rev. Thomas Rowan, O.S.A., pastor of Our Mother of Good Counsel Church, Bryn Mawr.

He came to Villanova in 1909 as a student in the preparatory school and received his bacheor of arts degree in 1917.

Senior Prom Decorations Committeemen

For Dinner . . . or a Weekend Vacation
Cherry Hill Inn
HADDONFIELD, N. J.

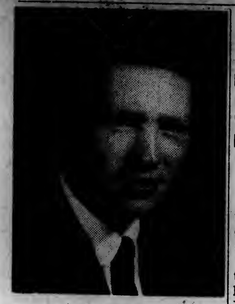
Recent Visitor to University:

Outstanding Italian Psychologist Expresses Hope in Catholic Field

Professor Giorgio Zunini, an outstanding Cathoic psychologist in Italy for the past forty years, visited the University campus on December 16th. He is co-author with Gemelli of a textbook introductory psychology published in 1949. He has also published a breif history of psychology, 1950, and an earlier text in comparative psychology, Animals and Man: Views of a Psychologist, 1947. Father Zunis chiefly interested in the work of the experimentalist and expressed the hope that Catholic institutions would not fail to continue work in this valuable field. He also expressed the belief that statistics are an "absolute need" for the proper study of psychology. He expressed amazement at the growth of psychology in America and, especially, the growing need for trained men in the field.

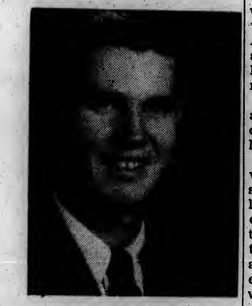
Editor Addresses IRS

Germans have the spirit to rebuild the cities devastated by war, but the development of the military will handicap development of German unification.



These observations were passed on to members of the International Relations Society by Mr. Harold Johnston, editor of CURRENT GERMANY, at a meeting Dec. 14.

After his talk on "Relationship with Germany of the United States in World Affairs," the speaker answered questions from the audience.



Mr. Johnston formerly served with the State Department.

A former teacher at Milan University, Father Zunni is now teaching at the University of Bari in southern Italy. His position is stated in a recent Catholic publication as follows: "A prominent figure at the University of the Sacred Heart has been a priest, George Zunni (born 1903), a professor of psychology and the closest collaborator of Gemelli. He began his scientific career at the University of Pavia. From geology and paleontology he turned to biology and then to comparative psychology and systematic psychology."

Father Zunni returned to Italy on December 23rd, having recently completed studies at Harvard University under a Fulbright Grant.

Joe Barrett

John Eddinger

The New-Look LYNX Makes Appearance

Villanovans are finally reading today the long-awaited, several - times - delayed and much-changed Lynx. The new Lynx presents a radical change from the well-known Lynx of the past format, cover and size.

Serious and thoughtful elements have been balanced with a leaven of satiric light humor.

A new feature is a book review section dealing with three of the year's notable books.

The basis of the Lynx remains comprehensive and critical essays for which the magazine has formerly been noted.

Barry Ballister, art editor, has created a vital, colorful cover—impressionistic in design.

Together with the new cover, the larger size and increased content, the Lynx is a re-vitalized voice of expression for Villanova.

Editors Joe Barrett and John Eddinger explained that the delay in publication was occasioned by the desire to turn out only the very best Lynx.

This is the cover of the new LYNX. It was artistically created in red, black and white by Barry Ballister, art editor, in keeping in step with the magazine's progress.

President Spikes Mooney Rumor:

Signing of Jr. Prom Band Imminent, Says Decker; JW Plans Advanced

By TOM SMITH

Signing of a band to play for the Junior Prom May 4 is expected soon, according to class president Jack Decker.

He said the class' moderator, the Rev. Dante Girolami, O.S.A., had not signed up the band as of Monday.

Decker said he could not say who the leading band prospect was, but he denied a rumor that Art Mooney (of "Honey Babe" and "Four Leaf Clover" fame) had been signed, as a campus rumor stated.

Other bands being considered, according to a class source, include Richard Maltby and Charlie Spivak.

Decker insisted that the band would be put under contract as soon as a choice is made. On at least one previous occasion a class has picked a band, paid the agent and not signed a contract. At the last minute the agent sent a substitute group, explaining that the class' choice was playing that night in another part of the country.

Other developments along the Junior Week front:

Dinner dance chairman Tom Hooker reports that all arrangements have been completed with the Ben Franklin Hotel, where the event will be held May 15.

However, no band has been signed for the dinner dance. Tony Desmond reportedly has some backing for the orchestra job among class officials.

JACK DECKER
Juniors' President

Planning for Mother's Day, the opening event of the biggest social week at Villanova, entered its peak stage this week under chairman Jack O'Rourke.

Work on the theme that will be used to dress up the Field House for the prom is moving along under prom chairman Jack Fraser and decorations chairman Denny Rinkacs.

Steering committee of the University's Junior Class will meet tomorrow at 5 p. m. in 215 Mendel. Members who fail to attend will be dropped from the committee, warned class president Jack Decker.

He said several decisions concerning activities to be held during the middle of Junior Week in May will be made during the session.

Students, Note!

SECOND SEMESTER REGISTRATION, 1956

Monday, Feb. 6—9 A. M. to 2 P. M.—Commerce & Finance.

Tuesday, Feb. 7—9 A. M. to 2 P. M.—Arts and Science, Nursing.

Wednesday, Feb. 8—9 A. M. to 2 P. M.—Engineering.

John Repko President:

Astronomy Club Will Draft Constitution Tomorrow

The Astronomy Club will consider the drafting of a constitution tmorrow night at 7:15 in 18 Mendel.

John Repko, senior biology major, will preside over the session, the first since his appointment as president by the Rev. Edward Jenkins, O.S.A. club moderator.

During the meeting a progress report will be made and plans for the second semester will be discussed. Weather permitting, members will go to the observatory after the meeting to observe objects in the sky.

Others Named

Other officers appointed by Father Jenkins: Don Orendac, senior electrical engineer, vice president; John Hunt, sophomore arts student, secretary; David Dalva, sophomore physics major, treasurer.

These men are members of the group of students who helped build the observatory in their spare time during the past two years, Father Jenkins noted in naming them to office.

In April or May officers for next year will be elected.

Finishing Touches

Final improvements are being made to the observatory and telescope atop Mendel Hall. Two projects have nearly been completed.

They are the erection of new bannisters on the entrance steps and improvement of the telescope's focusing apparatus.

Father Jenkins has obtained a coffee urn and new seats for use by club members when observing.

Observation of various stars is expected to start at the beginning of the second semester.

Next Wednesday Night:

Station WVIL Will Present News "Calvacade of 1955"

Main news events of 1955 and the men who made the news will be dramatized in a special presentation over station WVIL next Wednesday evening from 8:30 to 9:00.

Entitled "Cavalcade of 1955," the program will recreate the ten biggest news stories of the past year.

Some of the headline events include: President Eisenhower's illness, Dr. Jonas Salk's discovery of an effective vaccine, the New England floods and Princess Margaret's romance with Captain Peter Townsend.

Many of the events will include actual on-the-spot recordings.

A special feature of the program will be a tribute to United Press foreign correspondent Gene Symonds, who was murdered by a communist-led mob in Singapore while covering a labor strike.

The program was compiled by the United Press for the use of its more than two thousand radio and television stations. It will be presented to WVIL listeners through the facilities of the prodution department under the direction of Bill Kelly.

Twenty Students Sworn Into PLC, OCC Programs

Twenty Villanovans were sworn into the PLC and OCC officer training programs this past week by Lt. Col. Elliott Wilson, USMC, executive officer of the Villanova NROTC unit. These twenty men with others whose applications are now being processed will help Villanova keep its lead over other schools in providing officers for the United States Marine Corps.

Score Sworn

The 20 sworn in were Manuel A. Peterson, PLC; John T. Reilly, OCC; Joseph P. Schultz, OCC; Albert J. Shuhler Jr., PLC; Edwin L. Zipf, OCC; Paul K. Medeiros, PLC; Bernard T. Qinn, OCC; Jerry B. Bodine, OCC, John J. McHale, OCC, Lawrence. Donnelly, PLC; Frank C. Stagnitto, OCC; William H. Ganz, PLC; Martin Slyboom, OCC; Jay A. Freeman, PLC; John G. Hall, PLC.

Applications will still be accepted by Master Sargeant John A. Waryha in the Navy building.

The attention of the seniors is particularly caled to the OCC program, the Officer Candidate Course.

Offers Ten Week Course

The OCC program offers the senior upon graduation a ten week course in leadership and military knowledge following which he will received a commission as a second lieutenant in the Corps.

For the senior who is air minded as well as marine minded there is the AOCC, Aviation Officer Candidate Course which includes 15 to 18 months of preflight and flight training to the ten week OCC program course Upon completion of his flight training the candidate receives the gold wings of a Marine aviator.

Larry Valantino
Prom Vocalist

Buddy Morrow
Senior Prom Band

Villanova's Most Outstanding School Celebrates:

A Half-Century of Engineering Excellence

Since 1905 the determination and skill and faith of many men have prevailed to bring the University its renowned Engineering School of 1956

by Bill Jones

Students here at Villanova know that the University possesses a fine, highly ranked engineering school, capable of attaining great achievements in the ever expanding technical field, but few know the complete story of the many ambitious men, their ideals, and the tribulations that went into the formation of our engineering division.

Here is a report on the Villanova University School of Engineering from its humble beginning in 1905, to its splendid existence in 1956.

DEAN MOREHOUSE

Fifty One Years Ago

Almost fifty-one years ago Villanova University founded a school of technology. God's blessing was invoked, high standards were set, and with a handful of students, classes inaugurated. The school has grown and prospered until today it is one of the finest in the country.

Last year's golden anniversary was rightly considered a milestone. However, an institution should not be lauded merely because it has attained a venerable age. Rather, it should be commended for the many services it has performed during its existence. The purpose of Villanova's engineering school is not merely to produce technically trained personnel; it functions in order to give to the world men prepared for the profession of engineering who are trained to think and act as Christian gentlemen. The wide acceptance of Villanova engineers is proof that the aim of the school is being carried out. Today's students have a challenge to maintain these high standards and make them available to future generations.

Many Changes

Let us turn the years back for a moment and witness the growth of Villanova's School of Technology. Its founding came during a period of great social and economic changes in Western civililization. Science was on the march. Every day brought greater social and technological problems to the newly industrialized world. Its leaders had to cope with unforeseen abuses from many directions. The need was evident for men with a highly specialized training coupled with a keen sense of Christian moral principles. As the years passed this increasingly pressing need was gradually recognized by the faculty and administration of Villanova.

Father L. A. Delurey, Ph.D., O. S. A., conceived the idea and was responsible for the founding of the school of engineering. Through his influence, the administration was able to announce in the 1904-1905 issue of the Villanova catalogue, "We are prepared to give a complete course in civil engineering and the first two years in electrical engineering. In due time equipment for the full four year course will be installed." Thus was modestly announced the begining of the Villanova School of Technology, the first Catholic engineering school in the East.

Fedigan's Folly

The early home of the school of technology, College Hall, was built in the 1890's by order of Fr. J. J. Fedigan, O. S. A., President of Villanova College and Prior-Provincial of the Augustinian Order at the turn of the century. Because, at its completion in 1901, College Hall was far out of proportion in size and expense to the needs of the student body, it was affectionately named "Fedigan's Folly." Father Fedigan could justifiably chuckle up his sleeve today at those who made frolic of his endeavor, for it takes mature understanding and foresight to provide for the needs of the future. His "folly" proved indeed fortunate for Villanova, for College Hall was the building which was not only to house the equipment and classrooms by the engineering students, but also the students themselves.

Curiosity

The task of planning courses, laboratory equipment, and other details was the duty of Professor A. B. Carpenter, during the fall of 1905, when the first twelve students began their careers in the engineering school. The years 1908-1912 found Mr. Carpenter serving as the Dean of the school.

A course in mechanical engineering was first offered in 1908, under the direction of Mr. Fred B. Seeley. Eleven years later, chemical engineering was also introduced. Its purpose was, "to fit men to fill the constant demand for engineers competent enough to create and operate industries based upon chemical principles." This purpose has seen much fulfillment by the graduates of the school.

Standards Raised

In 1920 Villanova was fortunate in having Mr. Carl T. Humphrey, Professor of Civil Engineering, appointed Dean of the school of technology. Under his expert guidance the requirements fo radmission to the school were made more rigid, and the scholastic standards were intensified. Much of the credit for the widespread recognition accorded to engineering at Villanova belong to him. Dean Humphrey's 18 years of leadership helped Villanova to blaze new trails in the field of education. To the individual student, however, he was known for his retiring, religious nature, his genuine interest in everyone around him, and his keen sense of humor. An engineering student in trouble could always console himself with the thought, "'Humph' will fix it."

During his first year as Dean, Mr. Humphrey was influential in establishing a chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers, the first of Villanova's nationally affiliated engineering organizations. Societies for the other branches of engineering were soon to follow. By 1925 a student chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers was established. Eight years later the electrical engineers received the honor when a student chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers was recognized. In 1933 an aeronautical society was also organized.

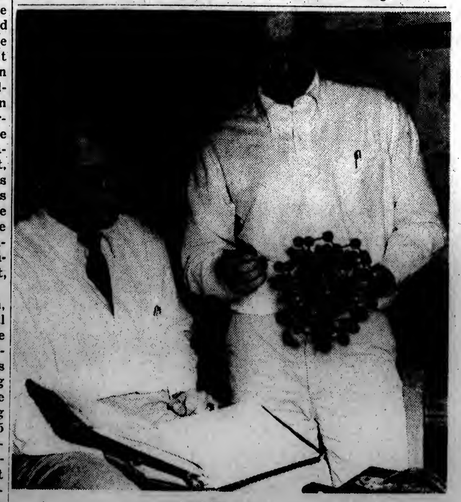
Although Villanova offered no course in aeronautical engineering, this society gave the students a better opportunity to grasp a more complex understanding of the relatively new field of aviation. In 1936, the Villanova Chemical Society was founded. Six years later the American Institute of Chemical Engineers gave its stamp of approval to the establishment of a chapter at Villanova. Backed by Dean Humphrey's avid support, these and other activities of the engineering students grew and prospered.

Phi Kappa Pi

Phi Kappa Pi, the engineering fraternity which is today one of the largest student organizations on the campus, was founded in 1907. Its purpose is to foster closer academic and social relationships among the members of the school of engineering and to further the aims of engineering at Villanova. In 1925 the fraternity procured a mimeo machine and published the first issue of a periodical called "The Owl." Through the years "The Owl" has developed into today's VILLANOVA ENGINEER.

Disaster

It is unfortunate, however, that all events in Villanova's struggle to attain excellence did not result in progress. The growth of Villanova and its school of technology received a tragic setback on a cold Sunday evening, January 28, 1928. Engulfed by flame, College Hall was demolished. By the time the fire was brought under control, the entire building was reduced to a hollow shell cluttered with debris, the only exception being the water drenched lower floors of the East wing, containing the dining, drafting, and student facilities as well as the mechanical laboratory.



The harm done to the faculties of the school of engineering was at the time almost incalculable. This cold fact was most vividly portrayed in the February 1928 issue of "The Owl." Therin was contained a list of some 150 major pieces of laboratory equipment needed badly to replace the machines destroyed by the flames. A plea immediately went out to the alumni and friends of Villanova to pitch in and help their Alma Mater get back on her feet.

Despite the great loss, the excellent spirit of the students and alumni permitted Villanova to carry on. Fedigan Hall, a student residence, and the East wing of Mendel Hall, with dining and dormatory accommodations were ready for occupation when school reopened in the Fall

(Continued on Page 9)

Calculation

And Then . . .

. . . Dean Moorehouse's division, founded by Father Delurey at the dawn of the 1900's, has survived fires and wars in reaching its present acclaim . . .

(Continued from Page 8)

of 1928. Mendel Hall, on the site of the former College Hall, was completely finished in January 1929. Equipped with the most modern apparatus, it filled the need of the engineering school for suitable drafting rooms, shops and other laboratories vital to the general curricula. It is interesting to note that not one student left Villanova because of the fire. In fact, enrollment in the engineering school increased by 6% during the following term.

A New Dean

After the untimely death of Dean Humphrey in 1938, Mr. J. Stanley Morehouse was appointed as Engineering Dean, a capacity in which he still serves today. Dean Morehouse, who had come to Villanova as a graduate of Stephen's Tech in 1921, was at the time keeping the mechanical engineering department in step with the ever increasing development in industry. In his efficient, unassuming manner. Dean Morehouse has maintained the high standards of the engineering school, despite rapid increases in the enrollment.

During its brief history, the engineering school's enrollment had steadily increased from 12 in 1905 to 271 in the pre-war year of 1940.

With the second World War came an accelerated college program, which was begun in the Spring of 1942. By this system, the students could finish their education in two years and 8 months, so enabling them to complete their college work and be quickly ready to enter the armed forces.

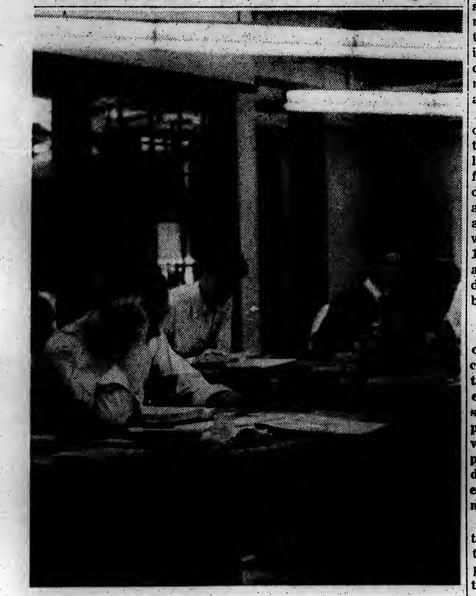
Expansion

Because of large scheduling difficulties, the four year plan was reinstated shortly after the conclusion of the war in 1946. This year also ushered in a period of continuing expansion. With the influx of veterans seeking an education, the engineering enrollment skyrocketed to 760, reaching a peak of 809 in 1948. Since then it steadily decreased to 428 in 1951, when new facilities began permitting a stable increase to 709 in 1954.

Since the war, large amounts of new machinery have been obtained, and installed in the enlarged laboratories to provide for the increased number of students. In 1949 a new library, a chemical engineering building, and a Navy training building were completed. In September 1954, Sullivan Hall was opened and now the magnificent Student Union building has finally been completed.

For Forty Years

This account of Villanova's engineering school would not be complete without mentioning that in September of 1916 Father John S. O'Leary, A.B., M.S., stepped into the chemistry department. Two years later, he was transferred to the math department, where to this very day he has been teaching future engineers the fundamentals of mathematics.

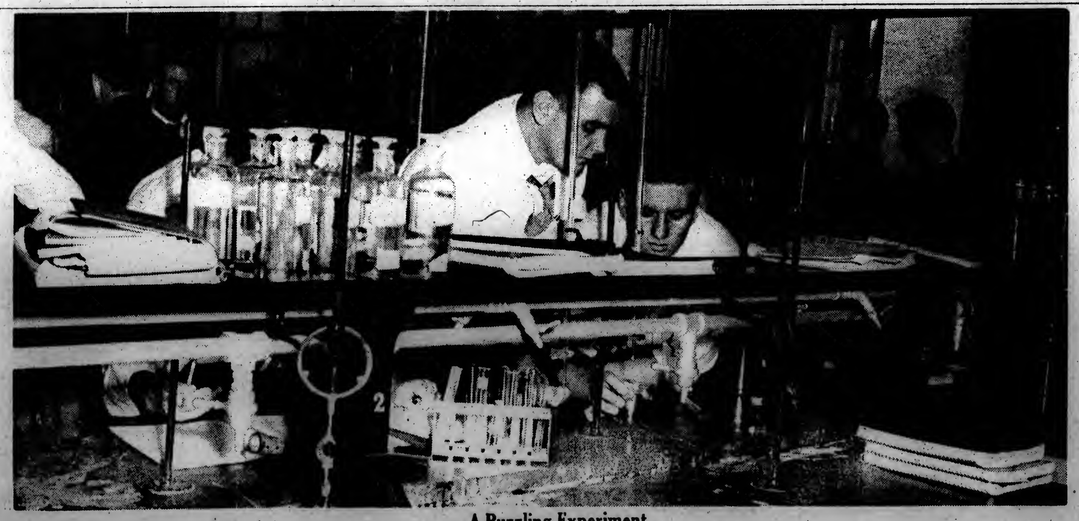


The growth of Villanova in the more recent past sets a pattern for the planned expansion program covering the next twenty years. Included are another engineering building, and graduate courses in engineering.

This new engineering ediface, now just a gleam in an architect's eye, when completed, we can be sure, will be one of the finest technical buildings in the Country. It will house large ultra-modern laboratories for all the branches of engineering, fine new lecture rooms and numerous classrooms. This addition will help the Villanova Engineering School surpass the heights it has already attained.

Prosperity

The school of engineering has prospered even as Villanova has prospered. At the present time its graduates number in the thousands. They can be found in all parts of the United States generally holding positions of highest responsibility. They are successfully competing with the graduates of much older and more renowned technical schools. May we of Villanova take this opportunity to salute them and the fine, foresighted men who made their educations possible.



READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Determination

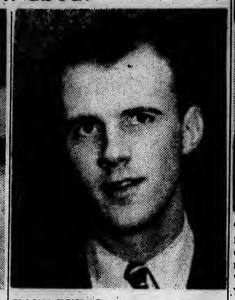
Choice of Chemicals

A Puzzling Experiment

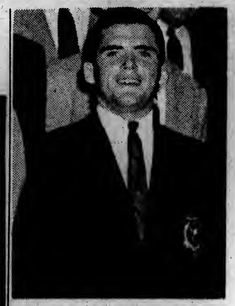
Leaders in the Outstanding Class of '56:

The Men Behind the Senior Weekend

Preparations for such a project are varied and often difficult; these seniors and their very loyal moderator have brought it about

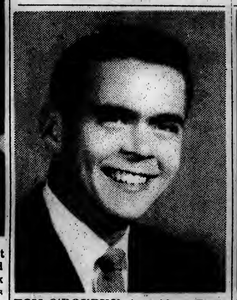


PHIL BUTLER, one of the class' most consistent and hardworking contributors throughout his college career, is decorations chairman of the prom. Butler, a Commerce and Finance student who is married to a former Villanova nursing candidate, has become, along with his staff, amazingly proficient in the decorative field.

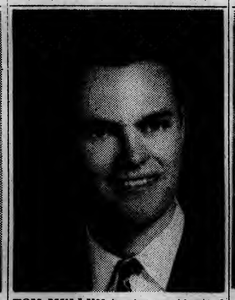


PAUL MENZ, an Engineering student, has been active with the class during the past two years, and is now prom co-chairman with Dave Burns. Menz has divided his work between band arrangements, favor and program preparations, and the planning of prom ceremonies and decorations. A leading member of Phi Kappa Phi fraternity, Menz is a mechanical engineer.

JERRY GUERRISI is the president of the Class of '56. He has been extremely loyal to the class in the past; he served as treasurer during the junior year, and now provides the central control and coordination of the final year's projects. Guerrisi is from Lebanon, Pa., and is a Commerce and Finance student.



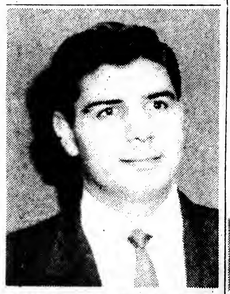
DAVE BURNS, like Jerry Guerrisi, was an officer in the administration of the class' junior year, when he served as vice-president. Burns, a Commerce and Finance student, is co-chairman of the prom along with Paul Menz. He has been extremely active with the class in various capacities throughout the past three years.



TOM McINERNEY, a day-hop from Merion, is chairman of the class' dinner dance set Saturday night at Palumbo's. McInerney served last year as blazer co-chairman with Bob Ford, and this year has worked very closely with Palumbo's management in arranging for the affair, which will probably draw close to 400 couples. McInerney's a Commerce and Finance student.

TOM MEANEY, a resident student and mechanical engineer, worked last year in conjunction with Nick Mazzoni on tickets, and this year is ticket co-chairman along with Mazzoni for all class projects. Meany has served on the class steering committee for the past two years, and has contributed to a variety of projects.

TOM O'ROURKE, A resident Engineering student, is treasurer of the Class of '56. He served last year as a steering committee member, and now carries the responsibility of handling all class funds.



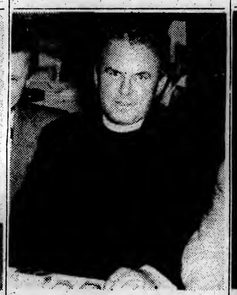
TOM MULLEN is vice-president of the Senior Class. He's a resident student in electrial engineering, and has been active in a number of class projects during the past two years.

ROY ZIMMERMAN, a Commerce and Finance student, is secretary of the class. He served last year on the steering committee and as head of the planning committee, which drew up initial project arrangements.

NICK MAZZONI, a Commerce and Finance student from New England, is ticket co-chairman with Tom Meany. Mazzoni headed that department last year, at one point prior to Junior Week had almost 10,000 tickets for some project or other in his room. Nick has been a steering committee member of the class for the past three years and has been very enthusiastic.

HENRY GUERRISI has been just about invaluable to the class during the past two years. He handled publicity last year with Mario DiVincenzo and assumed that responsibility alone this year, covering every class event.

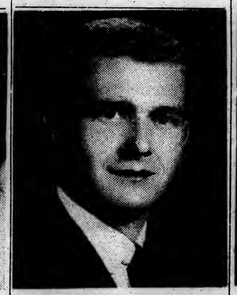
* * * * * * *



Most of the Seniors have various private parties lined up throughout the weekend. There has even been talk of an S.A.P.A. mid-woods convention, but the latter seems a remote possibility. The dinner dance itself will probably turn out to be the biggest party just as it was last Spring.

JOHN HENRY, one of the most active members of the class throughout his career, worked on Mother's Day last May and is handling favors for the prom. He has arranged for the young men, as well as their dates, to get a favor. Henry's an off-campus Arts student.

* * * * * * *



Joe Schultz, one of the right-hand men of decorations head Phil Butler, took personnel charge of the centerpiece design, just as he did last year with the huge lighthouse for the "Harbor Lights" theme. Schultz and Joe Jackson, both dayhop Arts students, have been standbys in the decorative department for quite some time.

REV. THOMAS A. CALPIN, O.S.A., class moderator, has been the driving force behind the class ever since the sophomore year. He has shown "untiring interest and loyalty to the class' interest" in the words of president Jerry Guerrisi.

* * * * * * *

This is the first time in a long time that the senior weekend has been held in January, but the officers of the class felt that this date would be a good one for material and psychological reasons: materially, there should be a good amount of money about after Christmas, and psychologically, there's a pretty long haul ahead, tough scholastically and dry socially, because of an early Lent.

BERNIE STEINFELT, president of the class during the sophomore year, was co-chairman of the orphans' project with Mike Horan in junior year, and is in charge of refreshments for the prom. Steinfelt's a resident Commerce and Finance student.

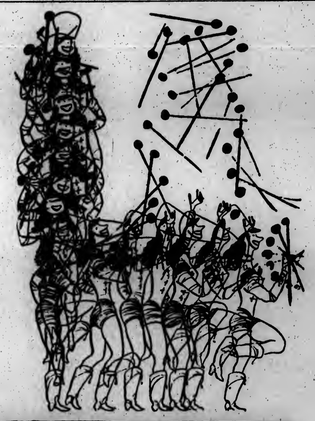
* * * * * * *

Jim Bambury and his program committee were gratified at the response of the underclassment—he freshmen in particular—to the drive for program patrons. The boys collected over 300 patron names for the program, which is reported to be very unique.

JIM BAMBURY, a resident Arts student from New York, headed Junior Week's talent show-dance last May along with Dick Peer, and is program chairman for the prom. He an his committee collected a record number of patrons for the program, which Bambury promises to be most unique.

* * * * * * *

President Jerry Guerrisi has this year used the same "year-long" chairman system that was successful throughout the junior year. The system—which provides for the same decorations, publicity and tickets chairmen for every project, eliminates the necessity of new men having to start from scratch on each new project.



LATEST CAMPUS NEWS IN PICTURES

Law School Construction Well Under Way

Captain J. J. Grace, UMC, looks on as Col. Wilson, USMC, swears in twenty new members of the PLC and OCC programs, all Villanova undergraduates.

When you pause...make it count...have a Coke

DRINK Coca-Cola

PROM TIME...

Renting your formal is easy on the allowance

No need to make a big outlay for a big date! Renting formal wear is easy, it's convenient! Tux, dinner jacket—whatever you need is "cleaner-fresh", pressed to perfection, and fitted as though it were made just for you!

Campus Cleaners

Dougherty Hall

BELLE AIR Meets First Deadline; 29 Seniors Missing

The BELLE AIR's first deadline has been met, reports editors-in-chief Dick Fitzpatrick, who must now prepare to meet the two remaining deadlines, one in February and one in March.

Fitzpatrick also reports that 29 seniors have been deliquent in having their graduate portraits made. He says that each of these men will be contacted personally or by mail and will be asked once more to conform. If they do not, their pictures will not appear in the 1956 yearbook.

The last copy deadline for Fitzpatrick and his staff in Feb. 14; the final patron, sponsor and advertisement deadline is March 14.

Belle Masque Presents One-Act Plays; Parts For Spring Play Settled

Last night in the field house the Belle Masque Society presented two one-act plays for the entertainment of the members and their guests. Sophomore co-ed Pat O'Connor took the role of Mrs. Elbert Stevenson in "Sorry Wrong Number." Act two of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" was also presented with Joe Barrett, Faith Heller and Michael Clark in the starring roles. They were supported in this endeavor by Carol Whelan, Paul Gormley, Barbara Maye and Bob Lima.

Readings for the parts in the forthcoming "Detective Story" have now been completed and the names of the cast members will be announced shortly. The spring play will be presented on March 8, 9, 10, and 11. The price of admission will be $1.25 per ticket with a special student price of $1.00.

WASHING & DRYING
8 lbs. $.75
Bryn Mawr Launderette
Opposite Forrest
T-Shirts, Socks, Shorts, Towels, etc. Leave your bundle or do it yourself.

Reuschlein Announces:

Institute of Church, State Set up By Law School

Establishment of an Institute of Church and State at Villanova's School of Law has been announced by Dean Harold Gill Reuschein. Intended as a major part of the school's contribution to the legal development of the community and nation, the Institute will be centered in the law building now under construction.

The Institute will be independent of the instructional program of the school.

Rise of Issues

A rapid rise in the number and variety of legal issues, affecting church and state relations has occasioned the founding of the Institute. Among these issues are not only the familiar problems concerning church-sponsored schools and tax-support services, but also such questions as the role of religion in adoption and custody cases, zoning to exclude church buildings and schools, independence of church administration and discipine, and many other matters.

The formal statement relating to the Institute follows:

"It is noted that rancor rather than reason has characterized many discussions of church-state relationships in the past. This has been in part due to the lack of genuine forum where sincere and knowledgable men exchange their honest views in an atmosphere of objectivity. The Institute believes that it can render a distinct service to our country by providing a center to which information and opinion may be brought and weighed by persons who—regardless of religious affiliation—sincerely desire to hear other men's ideas in this area and to achieve reasonable solutions of the problems considered. Thus, itself as a pressure group to any person or cause."

Sponsor Research Projects

It is expected that the new foundation will sponsor research projects, conduct discussions and serve as a clearing house for information concerning the legal aspects of these issues. The first function of the Institute will be announced in the near future.

Serving as director of the Institute will be Thomas J. O'Toole, assistant dean of the School of Law. Associate Professor William B. Ball will work with him formulating the plans of the Institute and putting them into operation.

National Employers Offer Opportunities For Qualified Men

Ninety-seven leading national employers have highlighted their job openings for qualified young men in this year's "Career," an annual guide to business opportunities. Each company introduces itself with pictures and sets up a contact for those interested in obtaining more information.

This new edition contains editorials by James P. Mitchel Secretary of Labor, Norman Cousins, editor of the "Saturday Review," and Peter Drucker of "Fortune."

It features the "Leading Employers Directory," and contains information on job opportunities for men with different college majors, and the localities in which these positions are situated.

"Career" is distributed free of charge to college seniors. Villanovans may obtain their copies at the Placement Office.

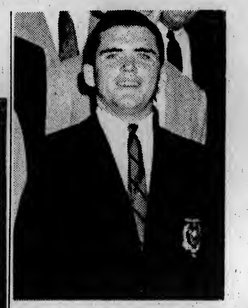
THE CAMPUS BARBER SHOP
First Class Work
Popular Prices

Leaders in the Outstanding Class of '56:

The Men Behind the Senior Weekend

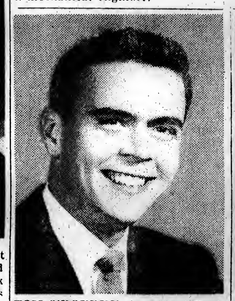
Preparations for such a project are varied and often difficult; these seniors and their very loyal moderator have brought it about

PHIL BUTLER, one of the class' most consistent and hardworking contributors throughout his college career, is decorations chairman of the prom. Butler, a Commerce and Finance student who is married to a former Villanova nursing candidate, has become, along with his staff, amazingly proficient in the decorative field.



PAUL MENZ, an Engineering student, has been active with the class during the past two years, and is now prom co-chairman with Dave Burns. Menz has divided his work between band arrangements, favor and program preparations, and the planning of prom ceremonies and decorations. A leading member of Phi Kappa Phi fraternity, Menz is a mechanical engineer.

JERRY GUERRISI is the president of the Class of '56. He has been extremely loyal to the class in the past: he served as treasurer during the junior year, and now provides the central control and coordination of the final year's projects. Guerrisi is from Lebanon, Pa., and is a Commerce and Finance student.



DAVE BURNS, like Jerry Guerrisi, was an officer in the administration of the class' junior year, when he served as vice-president. Burns, a Commerce and Finance student, is co-chairman of the prom along with Paul Menz. He has been extremely active with the class in various capacities throughout the past three years.

TOM McINERNEY, a day-hop from Merion, is chairman of the class' dinner dance set Saturday night at Palumbo's. McInerney served last year as blazer co-chairman with Bob Ford, and this year has worked very closely with Palumbo's management in arranging for the affair, which will probably draw close to 400 couples. McInerney's a Commerce and Finance student.

TOM MEANEY, a resident student and mechanical engineer, worked last year in conjunction with Nick Mazzoni on tickets, and this year is ticket co-chairman along with Mazzoni for all class projects. Meany has served on the class steering committee for the past two years, and has contributed to a variety of projects.

TOM O'ROURKE, A resident Engineering student, is treasurer of the Class of '56. He served last year as a steering committee member, and now carries the responsibility of handling all class funds.

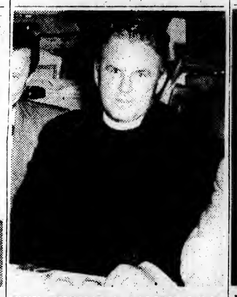
TOM MULLEN is vice-president of the Senior Class. He's a resident student in electrial engineering, and has been active in a number of class projects during the past two years.

ROY ZIMMERMAN, a Commerce and Finance student, is secretary of the class. He served last year on the steering committee and as head of the planning committee, which drew up initial project arrangements.

NICK MAZZONI, a Commerce and Finance student from New England, is ticket co-chairman with Tom Meany. Mazzoni headed that department last year, at one point prior to Junior Week had almost 10,000 tickets for some project or other in his room. Nick has been a steering committee member of the class for the past three years and has been very enthusiastic.

HENRY GUERRISI has been just about invaluable to the class during the past two years. He handled publicity last year with Mario DiVincenzo and assumed that responsibility alone this year, covering every class event.

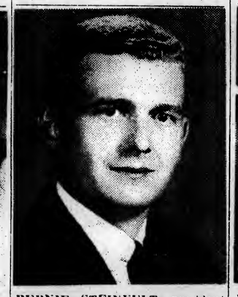
* * * * * * * *



Most of the Seniors have various private parties lined up throughout the weekend. There has even been talk of an S.A.P.A. mid-woods convention, but the latter seems a remote possibility. The dinner dance itself will probably turn out to be the biggest party just as it was last Spring.

JOHN HENRY, one of the most active members of the class throughout his career, worked on Mother's Day last May and is handling favors for the prom. He has arranged for the young men, as well as their dates, to get a favor. Henry's an off-campus Arts student.

* * * * * * * *



Joe Schultz, one of the right-hand men of decorations head Phil Butler, took personnel charge of the centerpiece design, just as he did last year with the huge lighthouse for the "Harbor Lights" theme. Schultz and Joe Jackson, both dayhop Arts students, have been standbys in the decorative department for quite some time.

REV. THOMAS A. CALPIN O.S.A., class moderator, has been the driving force behind the class ever since the sophomore year. He has shown "untiring interest and loyalty to the class' interest" in the words of president Jerry Guerrisi.

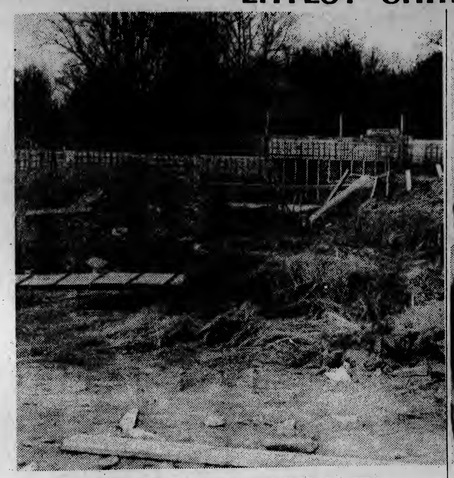
* * * * * * * *

This is the first time in a long time that the senior weekend has been held in January, but the officers of the class felt that this date would be a good one for material and psychological reasons: materially, there should be a good amount of money about after Christmas, and psychologically, there's a pretty long haul ahead, tough scholastically and dry socially, because of an early Lent.

BERNIE STEINFELT, president of the class during the sophomore year, was co-chairman of the orphans' project with Mike Horan in junior year, and is in charge of refreshments for the prom. Steinfelt's a resident Commerce and Finance student.

* * * * * * * *

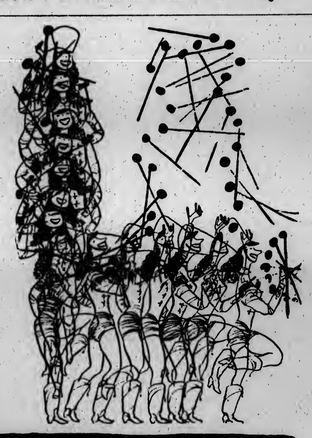
Jim Bambury and his program committee were gratified at the response of the underclassment—he freshmen in particular—to the drive for program patrons. The boys collected over 300 patron names for the program, which is reported to be very unique.



JIM BAMBURY, a resident Arts student from New York, headed Junior Week's talent show-dance last May along with Dick Poer, and is program chairman for the prom. He an his committee collected a record number of patrons for the program, which Bambury promises to be most unique.

* * * * * * * *

President Jerry Guerrisi has this year used the same "year-long" chairman system that was successful throughout the junior year. The system—which provides for the same decorations, publicity and tickets chairmen for every project, eliminates the necessity of new men having to start from scratch on each new project.



LATEST CAMPUS NEWS IN PICTURES

Law School Construction Well Under Way

Captain J. J. Grace, UMC, looks on as Col. Wilson, USMC, swears in twenty new members of the PLC and OCC programs, all Villanova undergraduates.

When you pause...make it count...have a Coke

DRINK Coca-Cola

PROM TIME...

Renting your formal is easy on the allowance

No need to make a big outlay for a big date! Renting formal wear is easy, it's convenient! Tux, dinner jacket—whatever you need is "cleaner-fresh", pressed to perfection, and fitted as though it were made just for you!

Campus Cleaners

Dougherty Hall

BELLE AIR Meets First Deadline; 29 Seniors Missing

The BELLE AIR's first deadline has been met, reports editors-in-chief Dick Fitzpatrick, who must now prepare to meet the two remaining deadlines, one in February and one in March.

Fitzpatrick also reports that 29 seniors have been deliquent in having their graduate portraits made. He says that each of these men will be contacted personally or by mail and will be asked once more to conform. If they do not, their pictures will not appear in the 1956 yearbook.

The last copy deadline for Fitzpatrick and his staff in Feb. 14; the final patron, sponsor and advertisement deadline is March 14.

Belle Masque Presents One-Act Plays; Parts For Spring Play Settled

Last night in the field house the Belle Masque Society presented two one-act plays for the entertainment of the members and their guests. Sophomore co-ed Pat O'Connor took the role of Mrs. Elbert Stevenson in "Sorry Wrong Number." Act two of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" was also presented with Joe Barrett, Faith Heller and Michael Clark in the starring roles. They were supported in this endeavor by Carol Whelan, Paul Gormley, Barbara Maye and Bob Lima.

Readings for the parts in the forthcoming "Detective Story" have now been completed and the names of the cast members will be announced shortly. The spring play will be presented on March 8, 9, 10, and 11. The price of admission will be $1.25 per ticket with a special student price of $1.00.

WASHING & DRYING 8 lbs. $.75

Bryn Mawr Launderette

Opposite Ferrell

T-Shirts, Socks, Shorts, Towels, etc. Leave your bundle or do it yourself.

Reuschlein Announces:

Institute of Church, State Set up By Law School

Establishment of an Institute of Church and State at Villanova's School of Law has been announced by Dean Harold Gill Reuschlein. Intended as a major part of the school's contribution to the legal development of the community and nation, the Institute will be centered in the law building now under construction.

The Institute will be independent of the instructional program of the school.

Rise of Issues

A rapid rise in the number and variety of legal issues, affecting church and state relations has occasioned the founding of the Institute. Among these issues are not only the familiar problems concerning church-sponsored schools and tax-support services, but also such questions as the role of religion in adoption and custody cases, zoning to exclude church buildings and schools, independence of church administration and discipine, and many other matters.

The formal statement relating to the Institute follows:

"It is noted that rancor rather than reason has characterized many discussions of church-state relationships in the past. This has been in part due to the lack of genuine forum where sincere and knowledgable men exchange their honest views in an atmosphere of objectivity. The Institute believes that it can render a distinct service to our country by providing a center to which information and opinion may be brought and weighed by persons who—regardless of religious affiliation—sincerely desire to hear other men's ideas in this area and to achieve reasonable solutions of the problems considered. Thus, itself as a pressure group to any person or cause."

Sponsor Research Projects

It is expected that the new foundation will sponsor research projects, conduct discussions and serve as a clearing house for information concerning the legal aspects of these issues. The first function of the Institute will be announced in the near future.

Serving as director of the Institute will be Thomas J. O'Toole, assistant dean of the School of Law. Associate Professor William B. Ball will work with him formulating the plans of the Institute and putting them into operation.

National Employers Offer Opportunities For Qualified Men

Ninety-seven leading national employers have highlighted their job openings for qualified young men in this year's "Career," an annual guide to business opportunities. Each company introduces itself with pictures and sets up a contact for those interested in obtaining more information.

This new edition contains editorials by James P. Mitchel Secretary of Labor, Norman Cousins, editor of the "Saturday Review," and Peter Drucker of "Fortune."

It features the "Leading Employers Directory," and contains information on job opportunities for men with different college majors, and the localities in which these positions are situated.

"Career" is distributed free of charge to college seniors. Villanovans may obtain their copies at the Placement Office.

THE CAMPUS BARBER SHOP

First Class Work Popular Prices

Here and There on the Activities Circuit:

Campus Organization News

I. C. G.

An important meeting of Villanova's Chapter of the International Conference on Government will be held tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. in 104 C&F.

On Tuesday at 8 p.m. the ICG will present a guest speaker surveying the problem of, "How a Person Can Take a More Active Part in Politics." The meeting will take place in 206 C&F.

WVIL

WVIL will broadcast tonight's Villanova-Temple game direct from the Palestra. Broadcast time is 9:25 p.m. Ed Shea will handle the play-by-play and Jim Judge will do the color.

Marketing Club

The next meeting of the Marketing Club will be at 10:30 tomorrow in the C&F building. A social is planned for an unannounced date before exams. The appearance of a guest speaker at a meeting in the near future is also planned.

New members are invited to attend. Marketing majors are not automatically members in the Marketing Club.

Barber Shop

Daugherty Hall Barber Shop s now open from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. on Monday. Tuesday through Friday the shop is open from 9 a.m. until 5:15 p.m. The shop opens from 9 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Villanovans Relax in Dougherty Hall

Group Meets Tomorrow, 10:30:

Physics Club Hears Nuclear Expert; EE's Plan Tourney

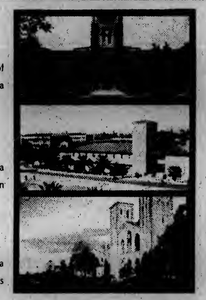
Dr. M. Beiduk, of the Villanova physics department, will address the Physics Club with a lecture entitled "Elementary Particles." Dr. Beiduk, who received his doctrate recently, is probably, the most qualified man on campus to speak on the basis of modern nuclear physics.

Charles Schwerdtfeger, club president, announced that everyone interested is cordially invited to attend this meeting which will be held in the Physics Lab at 19:30, Thursday.

The club resumed its weekly meetings after the holidays last Thursday with a lecture by Schwertfeger. The talk was entitled "Amateur Astronomy" and included a resume of the types of instruments and capabilities of each as far as actual observing was concerned.

* * *

Senior Dave Vaughn, executive coordinator of the A.I.E.E.-I.R.E. Second Annual Pinochle Tournament, has announced that the competition is now under way. The mid-winter gala of the active electrical engineering society is open to all A.I.E.E.-I.R.E. members.



Cash prizes will be awarded to the winning partnership at the group's spring picnic in May. Last year Al Altopiedi and Vince Mina gained the laurels, and they are again joined in the combat this edition.

Official rules for the tourney are posted on the main bulletin board of the Dynamo Lab, home of the organization's local office located in the basement of Mendel.

READ

THE VILLANOVAN

To those interested in advanced academic study while associated with important research and development in industry, Hughes offers two separate, practical programs:

HUGHES

COOPERATIVE FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM

FOR MASTER OF SCIENCE DEGREES

This program is designed to enable outstanding graduates in Electrical Engineering, Mechanical Engineering or Physics to obtain the Master of Science degree while acquiring experience in an industrial research and development environment. The program is comprised of full-time summer employment at Hughes under the guidance of experienced scientists and engineers, and part-time work at Hughes during the regular school year arranged to permit the student to maintain a half-time university schedule of graduate study.

Tuition, books and fees will be provided by Hughes. The income provided will enable the participant to enjoy a reasonable standard of living while pursuing his advanced studies. Travel allowances will be made to those living outside the area.

Applicants must be able to meet the entrance requirements for graduate study at the University of California at Los Angeles, the University of Southern California, or the University of Arizona. Because of the classified nature of the work at Hughes, applicants must be U. S. citizens for whom appropriate security clearance can be obtained. As many as 150 awards will be made.

Application forms and instructions may be obtained by writing to Committee for Graduate Study.

THE HOWARD HUGHES FELLOWSHIPS

IN SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING

Eligible for these awards are U.S. citizens who have completed one year of graduate work in Engineering or Physics and who can qualify for graduate standing at the California Institute of Technology for study toward the degree of Doctor of Philosophy or post-doctoral work. Each fellowship covers a twelve-month period which includes a ten-week advanced development project carried out during the summer at Hughes Research & Development Laboratories, followed by a full-time program of study and research at California Institute of Technology.

Each appointment provides a cash award of not less than $2,000, a salary of not less than $2,500, plus $1,500 for tuition and research expenses. In case of financial responsibilities that might preclude participation in the program, suitable adjustment may be made. Moving and transportation expenses are provided for those living outside of Southern California.

For application forms and complete information, address correspondence to the Howard Hughes Fellowship Committee.

OFFICE OF SCIENTIFIC STAFF RELATIONS

HUGHES RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT LABORATORIES

Culver City, Los Angeles County, California

(Above) Dr. Lee DuBridge (center), President, Calif. Inst. Tech., greets Hughes Fellows with Dr. A. V. Haeff (standing), Hughes Vice-President.

'Cats Rebound, Powers, Fahey Star

By BOB FORD

Villanova fans were treated to one of the most thrill performances of the year last week as the Blue and White, never ahead by more than two points, conquered the University of West Virginia, 54-53.

Some 5000 fans were attracted to the Palestra to see "Hot Rod" Hundley clown his way through a basketball game, but when they left it was the playing of a dogged Villanova team, particularly talented junior Bob Powers, that was No. 1 on everyone's lips.

Bobby electrified the crowd and inspired his mates with a sparkling heads-up performance as he dipped into the Hundley trick bag, added a few of his own, and spear-headed Villanova's second half drive which put them ahead, at 48-47, for only the second time in the game.

Probably Powers' most exciting play took place when the Wildcats were still struggling desperately to offset an early game deficit. On an out-of-bounds play under his own basket the New Yorker passed the ball into play, not to one of his own mates, but to a Mountaineer whose back was turned. It was a simple matter for him to recover the ball from the confused Virginian and drop it through the hoop.

On the other hand, Hundley seemed unconcerned with the seriousness of the game. With five second remaining and his team one point behind, Rod stepped to the line for two foul shots. To make both would be to win the game, to hit on one would guarantee a tie. Villanova's most ardent fans had all but given up the cause, but hopes flickered brighter again as "Hot Rod" missed the first. Then, and he must be given credit for the show of confidence, he turned and winked to Powers, standing at his right. The shot was off and so were several taps, and the 'Cats won.

Two days earlier the Villanovans enjoyed one of their infrequent height advantages, but still experienced difficulty in defeating a young West Chester team, 70-62. Among other things, the 'Cats were unable to capatalize on free throws. This has been chronic all season.

High man was Jim Fahey who added 17 rebounds to his 18 points. Powers scored 15 points ,and Jack Kelly, the ever-improving sophomore prospect, had 13 rebounds and 13 points.

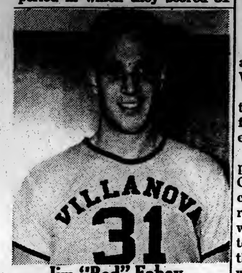
During the Christmas holiday the Cats' had to settle for a seventh place finish in the Dixie Classic as they subdued only Oregon State, after losing to North Carolina and Wyoming.

In each of these games, Villanova faced opponents who had an average height advantage of two inches. And they made the trip without star center John Cirino, home with a bad ankle and the virus.

Brightest of all Wildcat performers was a virtually forgotten redhead from Erie, Pa., 6' 6" Jim Fahey. Big Jim, who had scored only four points in two previous appearances, tallied 49 points and pulled down 26 rebounds in the three games at Raleigh.

First opponent for Villanova in the Classic was North Carolina's high-flying Tarheels, who overcame a first-half 20-5 deficit to roll over the Cats, 86-63. It was a case of too many, too much and too big as All-American Len Rosenbluth scored 35 of his team's total. Jim Smith was outstanding in a losing cause, scoring 17 points although hampered by four foul throughout the second half.

A fine performance by Jim Fahey, he scored 18 points and



(Continued on Page 14)

Ryan Paces Frosh to Two More Victories

By JOHN CURTIN

The Villanova freshman basketball team kept pace with its varsity counterpart last week as the junior Wildcats downed West Catholic High and the Temple Frosh to extend their undefeated skein to seven games. Once again, it was St. Joe's Prep's Joe Ryan leading the Blue and White attack. The lanky redhead accounted for 49 points in the two games.

Ryan dropped in 21 counters last Friday afternoon as the Frosh defeated West Catholic for the second time this season. Although the Kittens were only leading by four points at the halfway mark, an explosive third period in which they scored 31 points sent them breezing to their latest victory, 87-61. Ron Rossi and Kenny Harrison also hit double figures for Villanova, with 16 and 12 points respectively.

Jim "Red" Fahey

Ryan Gets 28

With Ryan hitting from all over for 28 points and Gene Opella clearing the boards and bucketing 17 tallies, the Frosh conquered a tall Temple squad, 83-70, last Saturday afternoon. The Blue and White hoopsters held a nine point lead at the end of the first half but a Temple drive cut it to five points midway inthe second half. Fine outside shooting and the rebounding of Opella and Ken Harrison cut the rally short at this point, and the Kittens were on their way to victory number seven. This game marked the sixth straight time Ryan has scored over 20 points.

The Frosh will meet Brown Prep in the field house next Saturday afternoon at 3:00.

Bobby Powers

Cats vs Owls Tonight In City Series

By BILL SMITH

There is no rest for the weary and so it is with the Villanova Wildcats.

Tonight, the 'Cats entertain the Temple Owls on the Palestra floor, as they face foe number eleven of the current season.

Temple, picked by many experts as the team to beat in the City Series, comes into tonight's contest with an undefeated 8-0 record. Owls Coach Harry Litwack calls this year's Temple team the best he has ever had at the Philadelphia institution, and well they might be.

Beat Penn in City Series

After their stunning upset of Kentucky down at Lexington earlier in the season, the Owls have continued their winning ways; and have already "put a leg" on the City Series title by defeating Pennsylvania.

Leading this year's squal is the team's smallest member, All-American candidate Hal Lear. Lear, who was the team's high scorer last season, with a better than 22-per-game average, is again inthe elite better-than-20-per-contest this year.

Rodgers Backcourt Ace

Teaming with Lear in the backcourt is sophomore Guy Rodgers, who has proved himself indispensable to the Owl victory pattern. Rodgers himself, who starred at Northeast High School in Philadelphia, is averaging close to twenty per game also.

At the center spot the Owls will have huge, 6-7 "Tink" Van Patton, who Litwack says has the highest potential of any members of this year's Temple squad. At the forward posts will be Leon Smith and Hal Reinfield, two veterans from last year's Owl squad.

Face Xavier Saturday

On Saturday night, the 'Cats again face a traditional rival on the Palestra hardwoods when they take on one of the top team's in the nation, Xavier University, of Cincinnati, Ohio. Xavier, which will be out to avenge last year's loss at the hands of Villanova, will bring into the Saturday night contest two outstanding players in Cave Piontek, 6-5, and Jim Boothe, a 5-7 point-producer.

Pointek,a senior from Bethel, Pa., has already scored more points in his first two years than any other Xavier player, and last season he was unanimous choice for the All-Midwest Conference team.

Boothe, who last year scored 307 points for the Musketeers, was selected on the Little All-American team. Xavier coach Niel Wulk says of his charges that they have more height, depth, and speed thany any other team representing the school in the post-war period.

Cirino Sidelined By Bad Ankle

John Cirino, senior basketball star and one of the key Villanova ballplayers, has been sidelined indefinitely because of an ankle injury sustained in a practice session prior to the St. Joseph's game.

The injury, which was at first thought to be minor, kept Cirino from playing his usual full-time time against St. Joe's. But, in the following contest against Duke, Dec. 17, Cirino played for a few minutes, and aggravated the ankle tendons, keeping him out of the Dixie Classic and the West Chester and West Virginia games.

It is hoped he will be able to return in early February.

Jenkins, Delany Prepare for Repeat Performances in Boston K of C Meet

On Saturday in the "Bean Town," the Villanova track team will compete in the 30th annual Knights of Columbus indoor track meet in the Boston Gardens. It will be inaugural meet of the year for coach Jim "Jumbo" Elliot's mercurial men.

Leading the spirited, and certainly talented, Wildcat aggregation into the Boston contest will be such names as Charlie Jenkins, who distinguished himself so well last year in the same meet by copping first place honors, and wowing the spectators, as he recorded a 1:10 time for the 600 yd. run, and at the same time just missing the world's record for the event by a hair's breadth, and Alex Breckinridge, and his cohort in the distance events, Ronny Delany. The "Scooting Scot," who has been a standout both indoors and outdoors, will be running the mile, along with the "fine broth of a boy" from Ireland, who, though only a sophomore, has already attained a most enviable reputation for his ability in the mile event.

DON COUIG

Jenkins Hopes to Repeat

To be sure, it is hoped by all Villanova track fans that Jenkins, who lives in the Boston area, will be able to pull a repeat performance of the event which brought such wide acclaim to Villanova as well as to Jenkins. Charley, who is the National AAU and IC4A champion in both the 440 and the 600, believes himself that he can run better before his hometown fans. Last year he proved it, and this year he might well prove it again.

Breckenridge, who will be most recently remembered for his outstanding cross-country achievements last fall, is a threat to win the 2 mile run, an event in which he specializes. Alex has also won IC4A acclaim for his mile performances.

Ran 4:05.8 Mile

Another leading contender for the mile title at the K of C meet is Ron Delany. In last year's Boston meet, it will be remembered the amiable Irishman, only a freshman, edged out a field of veteran runners to cop first honors in the 1000 yd. distance. Just last summer, Ron also won the mile title of Ireland when he ran a 4:05.8 race to edge out some of Europe's finest. If he is not hampered by a sore foot which he contracted recently, Delany should be in top form for the Boston meet.

Bragg, Reavis in Field

In the field events, Villanova's great pole-vaulter, Don Bragg, who is one of the three active 15

(Continued on Page ;

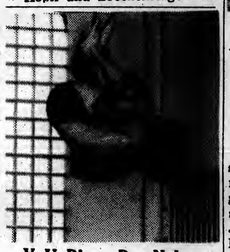
Couig, Rinkus Excel As Swimmers Beat Seton Hall

Villanova's swimming team opened its season last Saturday, meeting Seton Hall in the field house pool. The Wildcats got things underway for the year by trouncing the Pirates to the tune of 55-28. The issue was never in doubt as the 'Cats took charge from the opening gun.

The team showed that coach Geisz's hopes for a better-than-average season were justified by taking eight first places in ten events. The only firsts the visitors managed were in the diving and the 200-yard breaststroke.

Standing out for Villanova were Don Couig, Den Rinkus, and Lou Schoner, all thre of whom contributed to the victory by turning in double wins. Rinkus picked up his in the 50 and 100 yard freestyles and Schoner in the 220 and 440 yard free-styles. Couig, who has been a standout since he arrived here, chipped in with the 200 yard medley and the 200 yard backstroke.

(Continued on Page



John, Alex Place in AAU Distance Event

Two Villanova cross country men, John Kopil and Alex Breckenridge, added new laurels to our already much heralded track team by copping third and fourth places in the metropolitan A.A.U. track championship last Saturday.

Ahead of Kopil and Breckenridge were Joe Deady, a graduate student of Georgetown University, and Joe LaPierre an ex-teammate of Deady's. Deady set a new world record by beating John Borican's time of 3:02.6 set in 1950. Deady ran in place of Wes Santee who, after warming up for an hour, decided not to risk aggravating a leg injury he received a week ago.

Two-Thirds of Punch

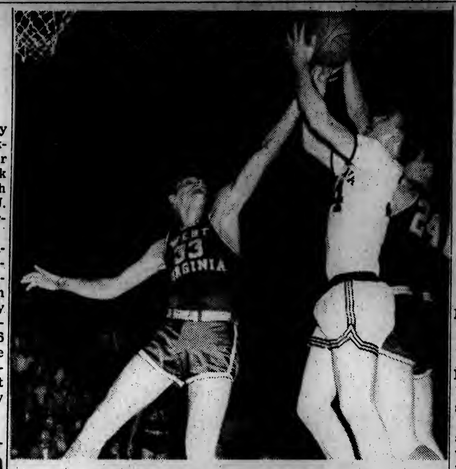
Kopil and Breckenridge comprise two-thirds of Villanova's one-two-three punch in cross-country, the third member being Ron Delany who was unable to compete due to a foot injury contracted during the holidays. Delany will, however, be ready for action in the Knights of Columbus meet in Boston next Saturday.

V. U. Diver, Don Nalty

Last Saturday night's events were a preparation by the Wildcats for the Boston meet, and the Inquirer games to be held here in Philadelphia the following week.

Dwyer Revisits

Fred Dwyer, former Villanova track star, visited the campus last Wednesday. Dwyer, who graduated in 1953, was the national indoor mile champion in 1952 and 1953. He is now in the Army and running under its sponsorship. The ex-Wildcat was to tour Australia with the Army team this month, but, because of a pulled muscle, could not go. However, he is getting back into shape, and expects to participate in some indoor meets this season.



K of C Meet

(Continued from Page

foot vaulters in the world, will be seeking another record to add to his already numerous collection of the same. Phil Reavis, a sophomore high jumper who has made a name for himself as well as a 6-8 jump, will abet Bragg's efforts in the field.

The mile relay team, aided by the addition of sophomore Roland Simpson, indicates that it is in for another top-flight season. Possible entrants in this event, for the Wildcats, are: Al Ligorelli, Warner Heitman, Al Peterson, Simpson and Jenkins.

George Sydnor, another fabled sophomore, will be in search of a new record in the 45 yd. dash, his specialty, while Bob Holup will compete in the high hurdles for the banked-boarders.

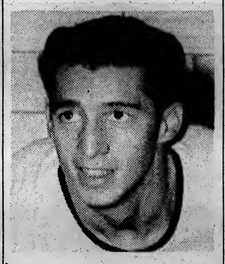
Powers vs. Hundley At Palestra

Weissman An 'Iron Man' In Villanova Basketball Plans

When coach Al Severance shuffles his lineup to find the right combination during a game, the one ball player who stays in there through it all is Jack Weissman. In the recent Dixie Classic played at Raleigh, North Carolina, Weissman played 110 minutes out of a possible 120, more than any other Wildcat.

Looking at Weissman, he does not impress one as being an "iron man", he as has only 165 pounds spread over his lean 6 foot 2 inch frame. The answer to his durability can be found by going down to the Field House any afternoon and watching practice. The Wildcats scrimmages last sometimes as long as two hours and Jack goes at top speed for their entirety. Thus he is in top physical condition and can give his best throughout an entire 40 minute game.

Led High School Team



Jack was playing the game of basketball as it should be played long before he arrived on the Villanova campus. He culminated an outstanding scholastic career by leading his home town high schol, Yeadon, Pa., to the state championship in 1953. He was also an all-Pennsylvania selection.

Coming to Villanova toting a tremendous reputation, he disappointed no one with his great play on a Villanova freshman team that lost only one game.

Last season as a Sophomore, he won a starting berth and continued his fine play. Relying mostly on his long, one-handed jump shot, he scored 185 points and also grabbed off 165 rebounds despite the fact he was sidelined for seven games with influenza. Although not overwhelming, these figures are more than creditable for someone playing on the same team with Jack Devine and Bob Schafer.

Lay-up Won NCAA Playoffs

Jack made numerous clutch plays during his initial Varsity season but the top one took place in Madison Square Garden during the N. C. A. A. playoffs against Duke. Just getting over his illness, he came off the bench when Devine fouled out in the last minute of play, and with the 'Cats one point behind, made a sensational driving shot that gave Villanova a 74-73 win.

Jack Weissman

So far this season Jack has scored 135 points, a 13.5 average, and has snared 81 rebounds for an 8.1 average. He is the team leader in rebounds.

Rebounding An Asset

The recent upset of West Virginia showed one of his typical "chips - down" performances. With the 'Cats winning by a single point, several times the Mountaineers had shots at the basket and each time he came up with the rebound.

Next time you watch the Wildcats play, watch for number 15; it is a cinch you will not find him on the bench . . . not for at least 40 minutes anyway.

Swimmers

(Continued from Page

The team of Lee Carson, Lou Pinto and Lou Raichle came through in the 300 yard medley with the good time of 3:33, even though Seton Hall was disqualified. In the 400 yard relay Rinkus, Schoner, Pat Kean, and Jim Donnelly swept home to close out the meet, with a time of 4:04.5.

In getting their first taste of victory this year, the Wildcats showed that they will be a power to be reckoned with as the season progresses. With their initial win under their belts, coach Geisz's charges take to the road to meet Swarthmore today at the Swarthmore pool. They return to their home pool to meet Loyola in the field house on Saturday.

SPORTS CHATTER

Philly: A New Empire

By BOB STRAYTON

Last Friday night, Villanova eked out a one point victory over the Mountaineers from West Virginia. The following night, Saturday, La Salle also beat "Hot Rod and Accomplices." The action of both these games took place in the University of Pennsylvania's dome-topped Palestra—which has become a byword, of late, for the best basketball in Philadelphia. Before coming into the Palestra to face a duo of local teams, West Virginia had been riding high in the collegiate rankings as one of the top teams in the nation. The Mountaineers had come to town sporting an 8-2 record. When they left, with their tails between their legs, they were 8-4, and their illusions of being great were no more.

Preceding the Villanova game on Friday night, Penn played an Ivy League game with Dartmouth. The Big Green of Hanover, New Hampshire, was the unanimous choice to top the Ivy League this season. But the Greenmen were defeated by the Red and Blue, and their bubble of greatness was also burst. Penn again played an Ivy League game the following night, this time with Brown. Penn again took command, and won the game, the result being that the Quakers took over first place in the Ivy League standings.

The other Philadelphia schools—St. Joseph's and Temple—also played basketball games this weekend, but both these teams were on the road. The Hawks went to Allentown, upstate, where they met strong Muhlenburg in a cage contest. The outcome was 76-71, and St. Joe's was on top. They then had a record of eight victories, and only a pair of defeats. Similarly, Muhlenburg came out of the game sporting an 8-2 slate; the Mules' bubble had also been burst. On Friday night, simultaneous with the Villanova-West Virginia game, Temple was engaged in a hardwood controversy with Scranton at the latter school's gymnasium. The Owls easy victory left them with an undefeated record: eight wins, no losses.

The University of Delaware fell prey to Drexel also, in a Middle Atlantic Conference game played Saturday night. Tech, the defending champion of the Conference, is undefeated in two games played this year.

Even the Philadelphia High Schools get into the act. Teams of the calibre of Overbrook, or West Catholic, are almost a common occurence within the environs of Philadelphia. Although teams of exceptional ability, such as last year's Overbrook team (paced, as it was, by the outstanding Wilt Chamberlain), occasionally surpass all others in the vicinity, the general ability of Philadelphia high school teams is better than average, in comparision to scholastic basketball throughout the rest of the nation.

A look into the professional ranks will complete this analysis. To even the most passive basketball follower, it is a known fact that the Philadelphia Warriors are, and have been, dominating play in the National Basketball Association. The Warriors and and their victorious forays might be made analogous to the World Champion Brooklyn Dodgers and their unchallenged bid for the world title of baseball. To say, even, that the Warriors are running away with the League is an understatement. But, in the case of professional basketball, the factors involved in winning are too variant to include a team such as the Warriors in the discussion which would evidently follow from the citation of the above facts concerning Philadephia basketball.

What does all this mean, in other words?

It should be fairly obvious. All five of the major college basketball teams in Philadelphia area are good teams. Some have records which might seem, at best, mediocre, but nevertheless, any one of these teams is capable of superior performance. Even the smaller colleges around Philadelphia—Drexel, and Haverford, too, for example—are superior to the teams in their "class." And then, of course, we have the strong point of the whole discussion, the Philadelphia high school teams. The importance of these latter teams can best be illustrated merely by reciting names from an almost endless list of great performers which these high schools have turned out, particularly in the past few years.

The whole point is this: that Philadelphia is becoming, if it has not already become, the focal point for superior basketball in the country. For the past few years, there has been at least one school from this area involved in post-season tournaments. Last year it was Villanova and LaSalle, and the latter reached the finals of the NCAA; this year it looks like it will be Temple; but the main thing is that there will always be, as there has been, at least one team from Philly in contention.

New York used to be the basketball empire of the United States. But, as Rome fell from being corrupt, so also did metropolitan New York basketball. Since the days of the scandals, the seat of the basketball empire has been shifting, but the magnetic trend has been drawing it toward Philly. It looks like it has finally arrived here. Now if it will only stay!

(Continued from Page 13)

pulled 14 rebounds away from taller adversaries, was offset by several untimely breaks as Wyoming's Cowboys eked out a 69-68 decision in the second-round competition.

The game was lost at the foul line where the Villanovans failed to capitalize on 15 of the 41 free throws they were offered.

The team appeared to have benefited from its defeats in the Oregon State affair. Villanova hit for 38.1 percent from the floor and missed only four of twenty-four from the line. Fahey and Weissman were high with 20 apiece as the 'Cats rolled up a 68-63 victory.

In what Coach Severance described as a "very bad game" the 'Cats were defeated by a stronb Duke Quintet earlier in the holidays, 86-76.

J. Paul Sheedy* Kept Getting The Bird Till Wildroot Cream-Oil Gave Him Confidence

"Sheedy, you worm," chirped J. Paul's little chickadee, "your lack of confidence is driving me cuckoo. If you don't do something about that messy hair I'll never beak to you again!" So J. Paul hopped on down to his favorite toiletries counter and pecked up a bottle of Wildroot Cream-Oil. Now he has confidence in any situation because Wildroot keeps his hair handsome and healthy looking the way Nature intended . . . neat but not greasy. Contains beart of Lanolin, nature's finest hair and scalp conditioner. If you catch your roommate robin yours, tweet him to his own bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. Great for making your hair look good to other peeple!

*of 131 So. Harris Hill Rd., Williamsville, N.Y.

Wildroot Company, Inc., Buffalo 11, N. Y.

Wildroot Cream-Oil gives you confidence!

Library Receives Painting Gifts

One of the Royal gifts to the Villanova library is this wax production of Veronica's veil showing the face of Christ.

This other gift is this reproduction of Rembrandt's Holy Family.

Prince and Princess Alexis Droutzkoy of New York, have again presented works of art to Villanova University. These works have been placed in the Villanova Library.

The Royalty's recent donation consists of two works. One is a reproduction of Rembrandt's painting of the Holy Family. The other is a wax reproduction of Veronica's veil, encased in glass, with an impression of Christ's face and real thorns.

Relics of Saints Leopold, Rosalie, Ursula and Francis Xavier are in each corner of the frame. Both works are centuries old.

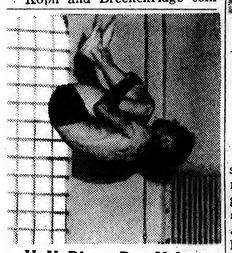
Many of the paintings that were at Lit Brothers during the holidays were previously donated to Villanova by Prince and Princess Droutzkoy.

Police Chemist To Address ACS Gathering Tues.

Doctor Edward J. Burke, Philadelphia police chemist, will offer a non-technical address on the solution of crime through chemistry at a meeting of the Villanova chapter of the American Chemical Society next Tuesday night. Dr. Burke will cite specific cases.

A graduate of Villanova, Dr. Burke spoke earlier in the year before the Villanova Law School Forum.

Refreshments will be served after the talk.



John, Alex Place in AAU Distance Event

Two Villanova cross country men, John Kopil and Alex Breckenridge, added new laurels to our already much heralded track team by copping third and fourth places in the metropolitan A.A.U. track championship last Saturday.

Ahead of Kopil and Breckenridge were Joe Deady, a graduate student of Georgetown University, and Joe LaPierre an ex-teammate of Deady's. Deady set a new world record by beating John Borican's time of 3:02.6 set in 1950. Deady ran in place of Wes Santee who, after warming up for an hour, decided not to risk aggravating a leg injury he received a week ago.

Two-Thirds of Punch

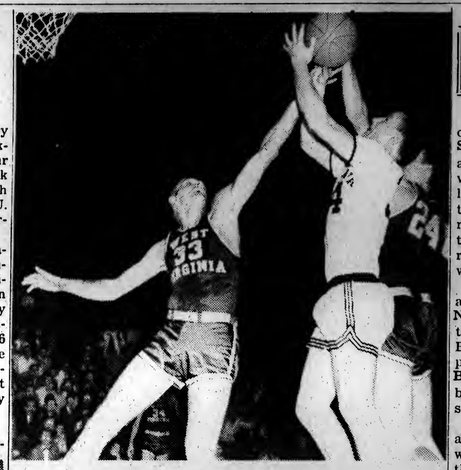
Kopil and Breckenridge comprise two-thirds of Villanova's one-two-three punch in cross-country, the third member being Ron Delany who was unable to compete due to a foot injury contracted during the holidays. Delany will, however, be ready for action in the Knights of Columbus meet in Boston next Saturday.

V. U. Diver, Don Nalty

Last Saturday night's events were a preparation by the Wildcats for the Boston meet, and the Inquirer games to be held here in Philadelphia the following week.

Dwyer Revisits

Fred Dwyer, former Villanova track star, visited the campus last Wednesday. Dwyer, who graduated in 1953, was the national indoor mile champion in 1952 and 1953. He is now in the Army and running under its sponsorship. The ex-Wildcat was to tour Australia with the Army team this month, but, because of a pulled muscle, could not go. However, he is getting back into shape, and expects to participate in some indoor meets this season.



K of C Meet

(Continued from Page

foot vaulters in the world, will be seeking another record to add to his already numerous collection of the same. Phil Reavis, a sophomore high jumper who has made a name for himself as well as a 6-8 jump, will abet Bragg's efforts in the field.

The mile relay team, aided by the addition of sophomore Roland Simpson, indicates that it is in for another top-flight season. Possible entrants in this event, for the Wildcats, are: Al Ligorelli, Warner Heitman, Al Peterson, Simpson and Jenkins.

George Sydnor, another fabled sophomore, will be in search of a new record in the 45 yd. dash, his specialty, while Bob Holup will compete in the high hurdles for the banked-boarders.

Powers vs. Hundley At Palestra

Weissman An 'Iron Man' In Villanova Basketball Plans

When coach Al Severance shuffles his lineup to find the right combination during a game, the one ball player who stays in there through it all is Jack Weissman. In the recent Dixie Classic played at Raleigh, North Carolina, Weissman played 110 minutes out of a possible 120, more than any other Wildcat.

Looking at Weissman, he does not impress one as being an "iron man", he as has only 165 pounds spread over his lean 6 foot 2 inch frame. The answer to his durability can be found by going down to the Field House any afternoon and watching practice. The Wildcats scrimmages last sometimes as long as two hours and Jack goes at top speed for their entirety. Thus he is in top physical condition and can give his best throughout an entire 40 minute game.

Led High School Team

Jack was playing the game of basketball as it should be played long before he arrived on the Villanova campus. He culminated an outstanding scholastic career by leading his home town high schol, Yeadon, Pa., to the state championship in 1953. He was also an all-Pennsylvania selection.

Coming to Villanova toting a tremendous reputation, he disappointed no one with his great play on a Villanova freshman team that lost only one game.

Last season as a Sophomore, he won a starting berth and continued his fine play. Relying mostly on his long, one-handed jump shot, he scored 185 points and also grabbed off 165 rebounds despite the fact he was sidelined for seven games with influenza. Although not overwhelming, these figures are more than creditable for someone playing on the same team with Jack Devine and Bob Schafer.

Lay-up Won NCAA Playoffs

Jack made numerous clutch plays during his initial Varsity season but the top one took place in Madison Square Garden during the N. C. A. A. playoffs against Duke. Just getting over his illness, he came off the bench when Devine fouled out in the last minute of play, and with the 'Cats one point behind, made a sensational driving shot that gave Villanova a 74-73 win.

Jack Weissman

So far this season Jack has scored 135 points, a 13.5 average, and has snared 81 rebounds for an 8.1 average. He is the team leader in rebounds.

Rebounding An Asset

The recent upset of West Virginia showed one of his typical "chips - down" performances. With the 'Cats winning by a single point, several times the Mountaineers had shots at the basket and each time he came up with the rebound.

Next time you watch the Wildcats play, watch for number 15; it is a cinch you will not find him on the bench . . . not for at least 40 minutes anyway.

Swimmers

(Continued from Page

The team of Lee Carson, Lou Pinto and Lou Raichle came through in the 300 yard medley with the good time of 3:33, even though Seton Hall was disqualified. In the 400 yard relay Rinkus, Schoner, Pat Kean, and Jim Donnelly swept home to close out the meet, with a time of 4:04.5.

In getting their first taste of victory this year, the Wildcats showed that they will be a power to be reckoned with as the season progresses. With their initial win under their belts, coach Geisz's charges take to the road to meet Swarthmore today at the Swarthmore pool. They return to their home pool to meet Loyola in the field house on Saturday.

SPORTS CHATTER

Philly: A New Empire

By BOB STRAYTON

Last Friday night, Villanova eked out a one point victory over the Mountaineers from West Virginia. The following night, Saturday, La Salle also beat "Hot Rod and Accomplices." The action of both these games took place in the University of Pennsylvania's dome-topped Palestra—which has become a byword, of late, for the best basketball in Philadelphia. Before coming into the Palestra to face a duo of local teams, West Virginia had been riding high in the collegiate rankings as one of the top teams in the nation. The Mountaineers had come to town sporting an 8-2 record. When they left, with their tails between their legs, they were 8-4, and their illusions of being great were no more.

Preceding the Villanova game on Friday night, Penn played an Ivy League game with Dartmouth. The Big Green of Hanover, New Hampshire, was the unanimous choice to top the Ivy League this season. But the Greenmen were defeated by the Red and Blue, and their bubble of greatness was also burst. Penn again played an Ivy League game the following night, this time with Brown. Penn again took command, and won the game, the result being that the Quakers took over first place in the Ivy League standings.

The other Philadelphia schools—St. Joseph's and Temple—also played basketball games this weekend, but both these teams were on the road. The Hawks went to Allentown, upstate, where they met strong Muhlenburg in a cage contest. The outcome was 76-71, and St. Joe's was on top. They then had a record of eight victories, and only a pair of defeats. Similarly, Muhlenburg came out of the game sporting an 8-2 slate; the Mules' bubble had also been burst. On Friday night, simultaneous with the Villanova-West Virginia game, Temple was engaged in a hardwood controversy with Scranton at the latter school's gymnasium. The Owls easy victory left them with an undefeated record: eight wins, no losses.

The University of Delaware fell prey to Drexel also, in a Middle Atlantic Conference game played Saturday night. Tech, the defending champion of the Conference, is undefeated in two games played this year.

Even the Philadelphia High Schools get into the act. Teams of the calibre of Overbrook, or West Catholic, are almost a common occurence within the environs of Philadelphia. Although teams of exceptional ability, such as last year's Overbrook team (paced, as it was, by the outstanding Wilt Chamberlain), occasionally surpass all others in the vicinity, the general ability of Philadelphia high school teams is better than average, in comparision to scholastic basketball throughout the rest of the nation.

A look into the professional ranks will complete this analysis. To even the most passive basketball follower, it is a known fact that the Philadelphia Warriors are, and have been, dominating play in the National Basketball Association. The Warriors and and their victorious forays might be made analogous to the World Champion Brooklyn Dodgers and their unchallenged bid for the world title of baseball. To say, even, that the Warriors are running away with the League is an understatement. But, in the case of professional basketball, the factors involved in winning are too variant to include a team such as the Warriors in the discussion which would evidently follow from the citation of the above facts concerning Philadelphia basketball.

What does all this mean, in other words?

It should be fairly obvious. All five of the major college basketball teams in Philadelphia area are good teams. Some have records which might seem, at best, mediocre, but nevertheless, any one of these teams is capable of superior performance. Even the smaller colleges around Philadelphia—Drexel, and Haverford, too, for example—are superior to the teams in their "class." And then, of course, we have the strong point of the whole discussion, the Philadelphia high school teams. The importance of these latter teams can best be illustrated merely by reciting names from an almost endless list of great performers which these high schools have turned out, particularly in the past few years.

The whole point is this: that Philadelphia is becoming, if it has not already become, the focal point for superior basketball in the country. For the past few years, there has been at least one school from this area involved in post-season tournaments. Last year it was Villanova and LaSalle, and the latter reached the finals of the NCAA; this year it looks like it will be Temple; but the main thing is that there will always be, as there has been, at least one team from Philly in contention.

New York used to be the basketball empire of the United States. But, as Rome fell from being corrupt, so also did metropolitan New York basketball. Since the days of the scandals, the seat of the basketball empire has been shifting, but the magnetic trend has been drawing it toward Philly. It looks like it has finally arrived here. Now if it will only stay!

(Continued from Page 13)

pulled 14 rebounds away from taller adversaries, was offset by several untimely breaks as Wyoming's Cowboys eked out a 69-68 decision in the second-round competition.

The game was lost at the foul line where the Villanovans failed to capitalize on 15 of the 41 free throws they were offered.

The team appeared to have benefited from its defeats in the Oregon State affair. Villanova hit for 38.1 percent from the floor and missed only four of twenty-four from the line. Fahey and Weissman were high with 20 apiece as the 'Cats rolled up a 68-63 victory.

In what Coach Severance described as a "very bad game" the 'Cats were defeated by a stronb Duke Quintet earlier in the holidays, 86-76.

J. Paul Sheedy* Kept Getting The Bird Till Wildroot Cream-Oil Gave Him Confidence

"Sheedy, you worm," chirped J. Paul's little chickadee, "your lack of confidence is driving me cuckoo. If you don't do something about that messy hair I'll never beak to you again!" So J. Paul hopped on down to his favorite toiletries counter and pecked up a bottle of Wildroot Cream-Oil. Now he has confidence in any situation because Wildroot keeps his hair handsome and healthy looking the way Nature intended . . . neat but not greasy. Contains heart of Lanolin, nature's finest hair and scalp conditioner. If you catch your roommate robin yours, tweet him to his own bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. Great for making your hair look good to other peeple!

*of 131 So. Harris Hill Rd., Williamsville, N.Y.

Wildroot Company, Inc., Buffalo 11, N. Y.

Wildroot Cream-Oil gives you confidence!

Library Receives Painting Gifts

One of the Royal gifts to the Villanova library is this wax production of Veronica's veil showing the face of Christ.

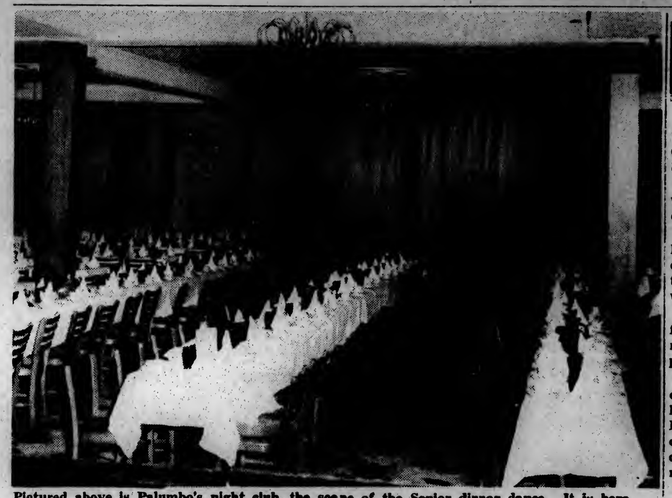
This other gift is this reproduction of Rembrandt's Holy Family.

Prince and Princess Alexis Droutzkoy of New York, have again presented works of art to Villanova University. These works have been placed in the Villanova Library.

The Royalty's recent donation consists of two works. One is a reproduction of Rembrandt's painting of the Holy Family. The other is a wax reproduction of Veronica's veil, encased in glass, with an impression of Christ's face and real thorns.

Relics of Saints Leopold, Rosalie, Ursula and Francis Xavier are in each corner of the frame. Both works are centuries old.

Many of the paintings that were at Lit Brothers during the holidays were previously donated to Villanova by Prince and Princess Droutzkoy.



Police Chemist To Address ACS Gathering Tues.

Doctor Edward J. Burke, Philadelphia police chemist, will offer a non-technical address on the solution of crime through chemistry at a meeting of the Villanova chapter of the American Chemical Society next Tuesday night. Dr. Burke will cite specific cases.

A graduate of Villanova, Dr. Burke spoke earlier in the year before the Villanova Law School Forum.

Refreshments will be served after the talk.

Pictured above is Palumbo's night club, the scene of the Senior dinner dance. It is here the celebrating Seniors will dine, dance and view a floor show.

Following is a list of campus telephone numbers. Clip out and save for reference.

Alumni 1st Fl.	LA 5-0247
Alumni 2nd Fl.	LA 5-9160
Alumni 3rd Fl.	LA 5-9189
Austin 2nd Fl.	LA 5-9172
Austin 2nd Fl.	LA 5-9173
Austin 3rd Fl.	LA 5-9174
Delurey 3rd Fl.	LA 5-9191
Fedigan 1st Fl.	LA 5-9149
Fedigan 2nd Fl.	LA25-9208
Fedigan 3rd Fl.	LA 5-9116
Good Counsel
2nd Fl.	LA 5-9278
Mendel 2nd Fl.	LA 5-9224
Mendel 3rd Fl.	LA 5-9170
Mendel 4th Fl.	LA 5-9083
O'Dwyer	LA 5-9086
Simpson	LA 5-9257
Sullivan ground	LA 5-9081
1st Fl.	LA 5-9161
1st Fl.	LA 5-9256
2nd Fl.	LA 5-9241
3rd Fl.	LA 5-9050

Collegiate Whirl

COLUMBUS, OHIO—(ACP)—A group of nurses at the University of Pennsylvania Nursing school recently wrote an essay entitled "What Is a College Boy?" and it was reprinted in the Ohio State Lantern. Here are a few selections:

A college boy is laziness with peach-fuzz on its face, idiocy with lanolin on its hair, and the "Hope of the Future" with an overdrawn bank book in its pocket.

A college boy is a composite . . . he has the energy of a Rip Van Wrinkle, the shyness of a Mr. Micawber, the practicality of a Don Quixote, the kindess of a Marquis de Sade, the imagination of Bill Sykes, the aspirations of a Casanova and when he wants something it is usually money.

He likes good liquor, bad liquor, cancelled classes, double features, Playtex ads and girls on football weekends. He is not much for hopeful mothers, irate fathers, sharp-eyed ushers, campus guards, alarm clocks or letters from the dean.

A college boy is a magical creature . . . you can lock him out of your heart, but not out of your bank account. You can get him off your mind, but you can't get him off your expense account. He is a no-account, girl-chasing bundle of worry. But when you come home at night with only the shattered pieces of hope and dreams, he can make them seem mightily insignificant with four magic words: "I flunked out, Dad!"

* * *

MORAL: DON'T FIGHT CITY HALL

WILMORE, KY.—(ACP)—A student at Asbury College was recently arrested by a traffic officer for speeding. He decided to uphold his democratic rights and carry his case to a trial by jury.

As the Ashbury Collegian rmarks, perhaps we need more people with such resoluteness. But they aren't sure just what he gained. The usual fine for speeding: $13.50. The student's fine after the trial: $65.50.

ON THE SLIMY SIDE

SPRINGFIELD, MO.—(ACP)—The members of Sigma Nu at Drury College may be feeling a little low these days. They're going to get rid of their house pet and mascot. The "pet," a seven-foot boa constrictor, is being donated to a local zoo.

ALL THE PLEASURE COMES THRU...

THE ACTIVATED CHARCOAL FILTER

the taste is great!

Here you have the best in filtered smoking —Filter Tip Tareyton, the filter cigarette that smokes milder, smokes smoother, draws easier... the only one that gives you Activated Charcoal filtration. All the pleasure comes thru... the taste is great!

THE BEST IN FILTERED SMOKING

FILTER TIP TAREYTON

PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

Genuine PAPER-MATE PEN Silvered-Tip REFILLS in Red • Green • Blue • Black

Only 49¢ each

Exclusive new Paper-Mate Silvered-Tip Refill means smoother, faster writing! Just 10 seconds to insert...never blots...dries instantly. Get Paper-Mate Refills wherever pens are sold.

Villanovan

Vol. 31—No. 10 Villanova University, Villanova, Pa. January 18, 1956

Bob Ford (center) and Joe D'Aquila (upper left) confer with representatives of nine other area colleges whose choral groups will participate in the Villanova Choral Festival April 14. Ford is president and D'Aquila, secretary of the Villanova Singers, sponsor of the new event.

To Feature May 4 Prom:

"The Commanders" Signed For Class of 1957 Prom

Big Week's Plans Are Coordinated

Rejection of a planned "package deal" for Junior Week tickets took place Thursday during a meeting of the steering committee of the University's Junior Class.

The class had backed the plan in a questionaire.

Committeemen also discussed a prom theme and an event to fill the lone remaining open night in the biggest social week at Villanova.

Besides voting down the "package deal" and approving the signing of "The Commanders" as a prom band, the committee:

1. Decided that the prom will have a southern theme, to be selected later after some preliminary planning by decorations co-chairmen Den Rinkacs and Dick Cooke.

Maybe Blackface Show

2. Favored scheduling a minstrel for the Tuesday night of Junior Week, the only open date. Jack Shea, who suggested the show, was appointed to look into the matter.

3. Approved a jazz concert for Wednesday night. The concert might be held in the Dougherty Hall dining room, according to class president Jack Decker, who asked juniors to submit names of jazz combos in the Philadelphia area that they would prefer to hear that night. Suggestions may be made to Jack Decker (49 Sullivan) or

(Continued on Page 5)

Jake Clancy

Appears Today:

Clancy Resigns ENGINEER Post; Essig Successor

Jake Clancy last week tendered his resignation as editor-in-chief of the VILLANOVA ENGINEER due to the press of studies and was quickly replaced by John R. Essig, a fourth year NROTC chemical engineer and contributor to the magazine.

Essig served as managing editor of the ENGINEER this year, and has been in previous years copy editor and author of the magazine's featured campus activities column.

Earlier this year Essig headed the Red Cross blood drive on the campus.

Assuming the post of managing editor is Leonard C. Bellanca, junior civil engineer and former copy editor.

Prom Head Fraser Signs Contract

"The Commanders" have been signed to play at the Junior Prom May 4 but the deal will not be official until the contract has been signed and returned by the band's New York agent.

Junior Class president Jack Decker said confirmation of the contract is expected early next week.

The contract was signed Monday by Jack Fraser, general chairman of the prom, and returned to the William Honney

(Continued on Page 5)

Junior Week Schedule

Here is a schedule of Junior Week with ticket prices in parenthesis:

Sunday night (April 29) Performance of Turf 'n Tinsel's "Barbara of Seville" for juniors and early arriving mons ($1)

Monday (April 30)—Mothers' Day, official opening of the big week ($10)

Tuesday (May 1)—Open (possibility of a minstrel show.)

Wednesday (May 2)—Jazz concert (price undecided)

Friday (May 4)—Prom, Field House ($6 per couple). Open to all students.

Saturday (May 5)—Dinner Dance ($10 per couple). Open only to juniors.

Day Hop, Resident:

Frosh To Nominate 2 Student Council Candidates Thurs.

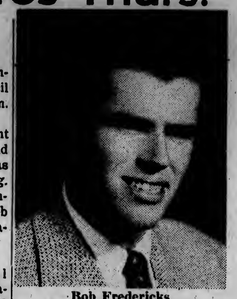
Fredericks in Charge, 10:30, C & F Auditorium

Freshmen will nominate candidates for two Student Council seats tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. in C & F Auditorium.

One dayhop and one resident will be elected after the second semester begins. A date has not been set for the balloting.

Student Council elections committee, under chairman Bob Fredericks, will accept nomination from the floor.

Urged to Attend



Fredericks encouraged all freshmen to attend the nominations session. And he reminded them that they should consider whether a candidate is qualified before his name is submitted.

Candidates will be screened by the registrar's office, dean's office and vice-president's office. Names of freshmen who successfully pass the screening will be posted after semester vacation.

Fredericks also warned candidates that no campaigning is allowed until official notice that the campaign is open appears on bulletin boards.

A seven to ten day campaigning period will be allowed, the chairman noted.

Freshmen elected to Council will serve until the end of their sophomore year.

Bob Fredericks

Under McCaffery:

Quarterdeck Social Dance February 10

Villanova's NROTC Quarterdeck Society makes its first venture into the social sphere on Feb. 10, the Friday of registration week, as sponsor of the Shipwreck Ball which promises to be one of the most unusual dances held at Villanova.

Dress for Shipwreck!

Gino Gallina, dance chairman, said that the shipwreck theme will be stressed throughout with props donated by the Phila. Navy Yard and that patrons should wear "formal dress, casual sportswear or costumes which would be assumed under the circumstances of a shipwreck."

The dance will be held in the Field House and publicity chairman Ed McMerty stressed that everyone is invited.

Music will be furnished by Gino Gallina and his Commodores. The elaborate plans for decorating will be executed by co-chairmen Dick Yenni and John Stangl.

Aids Drill Team

President of the Quarterdeck Society, Bob McCaffery says that the proceeds from the dance will help fill the treasury of the drill team whose efforts have brought much recognition to Villanova.

SENIORS AND DATES AT SENIOR PROM

Outlooks of the Editor

THIS SAFETY PROBLEM

Ask any civil engineer—he'll tell you a straight line is the shortest distance between two points. That holds for the route from Dougherty Hall to the P & W station—the shortest and deadliest line between two points.

When a Villanova junior lay in the middle of Lancaster Pike one day last week, knocked down by a passing car, a couple of oft-quoted "don'ts" took on a cold vividness.

"Don't cross the Pike between traffic lights . . . don't lumber across those Pennsylvania Railroad tracks . . ."

For once a fellow could see what Father McKee was driving at when he exposed himself to laryngitis, repeating those warnings.

It's reached the point now where the carefree pedestrians are walking over the drivers. Or at least dodging them. Motorists who zoom up and down the Pike have been griping to area police about the Villanovans who wander like sheep across the well-traveled, east-west road.

And one of these foggy mornings a sleepy-eyed resident of Sullivan Hall will find himself smeared across the front of a purring diesel engine. That might make the track crossers think twice.

But jaywalkers on the Pike—they'll keep on dodging the low-flying machines until Andy Panik's experience or some safety-minded civil engineer shows that the straight line from from Dougherty to the P & W stop might not be the safest.

CORRECTION

The editor wishes to assume responsibility for the misunderstanding connected with the Engineering School feature spread in the Jan. 11 issue of the VILLANOVAN. The story, carrying the by-line of Bill Jones, was written (except for the first and last paragraph) by four engineering students and appeared in the January 1955 issue of the VILLANOVA ENGINEER. Mr. Jones, in compiling the story, used the typewritten copy manuscript that ultimately was set in type and published in that issue of the ENGINEER; he did not lift the story from the issue or the ENGINEER, in fact, he did not realize that the story had appeared therein, since he worked only with the typewritten manuscript of the story, which was unsigned.

That manuscript also included the material used by last year's ENGINEER editor, Richard Spangenberg, in an editorial, which also appeared under Mr. Jones' by-line.

The editor expresses apologies for the inadvertant injustice done the authors of the article—Messrs. Mark Connor, John Ferri, Jack Essig and John Chabay—and also to Mr. Spangenberg.

Next VILLANOVAN will appear Feb. 15. Deadline for news and feature copy is Feb. 9

Chief Robert O. Walker, recently raised to the rank of chief yeoman, is shown here receiving his commission from Captain Neal Curtin, U.S.N. Chief Walker arrived at Villanova this past September from a naval attache post in Lisbon, Portugal, to replace Chief O'Neill, who is now in the Atomic Sub School at New London, Conn.

The Newly Enkindled Racial Issue:

Bigoted Philosophy of Talmadge Now Taking Hold in Virginia, Says Greenlee

By JIM GREENLEE

The year is 1776. A great war is on and atop flagpoles around the country unfurls a proud flag with 13 stars embroidered on it. The years flit by, colonial America yields to the improvements of the industrial age but the same flag hovers in the breeze; only, America is prouder yet for there are more stars now.

Stars Increase

The age of automation arrives, the 48 stars on that field of blue have long been a common sight, only now the ideologies which they represent have stood the test of two World Wars and are admired and hungered for globally. Now fully 180 years after those 13 small colonies banded together for mutual freedom of speech and worship for all, regardless of creed or color, the flag is besmirched.

Georgian Way Advanced

After the many horrors of a civil war and the undeniable agonies of two global wars, one of those stars is becoming a blur because it represents a state which has not yet recognized the value and greatness of the "American Way." Instead of the "American Way," this state openly flouts the United States Constitution by declaring the "Georgian Way" to be superior.

It would seem that time would by now have taught the lesson of tolerance to a people so closely situated physically to an environment so saturated with the ideals yearned for in that original flag.

America has become the worldwide symbol of liberty! What has impeded Georgia?

Freedom Suppressed

The answer to this is a repetitious one. Since the era of the bloody arenas of Rome, there have been men seeking power. Synonymous with that power has been the suppression of freedom - seeking people. Georgia has had her share of these incorrigible power seekers.

The current malady in Georgia is a very deadly disease—Talmadgeism.

The namesake of this philosophy was Eugene Talmadge, who served four terms as governor before death ruined his "reign." "Old Gene's" son, Herman Eugene Talmadge Jr. then came into his own in Georgia politics. Following his father's policies, he proclaimed a platform of "white supremacy."

Talmadge: Negro-Baiter

During his campaign he circulated with his signature a pamphlet showing Negroes and whites dancing together with the banner: "This happened in Atlanta." Along with this was a picture of a white girl and a Negro together with the heading: "Don't let this happen in Georgia."

Talmadge himself stated: "The white people of Georgia must repel by their votes these threats to our homes, our children, our institutions, our daily lives and our fortunes. Get to the polls to strike a blow for continuation of constitutional and conservative government in Georgia."

Jim Greenlee

Talmadge was elected governor and after serving his term and handpicking his successor, Marvin Griffin, he now waits for the 79-year-old Walter George to retire in hope of taking his seat in the United States Senate.

During his comparatively brief poltical career, Talmadge Jr. has exhibited the same dictator-like qualities of his father. He even attempted to organize the Democratic Party in Georgia into a private club, thus closing membership to Negroes and almost depriving them of their vote.

Supporters Note Good

Those who side with Herman Talmadge, still the political boss of Georgia, point to the good he has done. As governor, he contracted to build more roads than any other governor in Georgia's history, he greatly improved the transit system throughout the state and he brought new industries to Georgia.

These persons should be reminded that Lenin also built highways, Stalin improved Russia's transit system and even Peron managed to bring new industries into Argentina.

Virginia Contracts Talmadgeism

Talmadge's type of disease is a contagious one; already it has spread to Virginia. Perhaps the United States Supreme Court will eventually provide a solution for "Talmadgeism." Meanwhile, Talmadge might consider the histories of other bigots of his caliber. Hitler burned in the flames of a broken mansion; Mussolini was left swinging by his heels; and Peron left town in quite a hurry.

Rippled Reflections:

Absolute Patterns

By Bernard L. Bonniwell, Ph.B

The Absolute Pattern

The difficulty of harmonizing the concepts of absolute norms of behavior and relative norms of behavior tends to be highlighted in the increasingly complex developments of modern society. If the problem is one of behavioral reality, and not primarily one of definition, then the problem can be expected to rise in intensity as secularism continues to foster interest in the varied roles assignable to relative behavior. It may well be that the Catholic scholar, sincerely and earnestly interested in clarifying the importance of human behavior in its more minute aspects, tends to employ a fractional method of analysis which subtly hinders perceptive insight into the significance of the extended behavioral pattern.

There is also an unexpressed difficulty to be faced in defining behavior as either absolute or relative. Human behavior, at all levels, is a synthesis of reaction rather than an additive construct of isolated events. Thus to hold that for the individual absolute norms are more important than relative norms, is to begin the destruction of behavioral unity; further, to say that relative norms are indifferent, except as they are occasioned by the social environment, is equally destructive of psychological order. All individual behavior, insofar as it is reaction, is absolute. All behavior has multiple causation. All behavior is purposive whether voluntary or involuntary in kind. Behavior is essentially harmonic in design with both Man and Society sharing the total process.

Perhaps the distinction between absolute and relative norms has outlived its usefulness for such arbitrary distinctions only serve to widen the gulf between Christian and secular thinking. In an attempted re-orientation of the problem it may be noted that all behavior is an unbroken sequential process, reflecting a total pattern of activity at a given moment. In the psychological sense there is no such thing as partial behavior. One acts or withholds reaction; in either case the sequence of behavior is complete.

(Continued on Page 3)

Villanovan

Villanova University Villanova, Pa.

Harry C. Nash III
Editor-in-Chief

Tom Smith ..... Managing Editor
Bill Jones ..... Feature Editor
Frank Delany ..... News Editor
Jack Downing,
Bill Brown ..... Copy Editors
Steve Barnacco ..... Business Manager
Bob Ford
Bob Strayton ..... Sports Editors
Sig Holtz
Joe Ezerski ..... Photography Editors
Nick Pedano ..... Circulation Mgr.

Faculty Advisor
Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Scholar, Gentleman, Athlete.
LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1928, under the act of March 3, 1879.

MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE PRESS ASSOCIATION

One of Villanova's Finest Men:

A Scholar, Athlete, Gentleman: What is Tradition of Leo Goodreau?

By BILL JONES

Editor's Note: The facts for this story were taken from the story on Leo Goodreau which appeared in the Dec. 5, 1950, issue of the VILLANOVAN, written by Robert J. Quinn.

Villanova University has produced many outstanding men throughout its years of Catholic education. Among these men, some have been brilliant students, some excellent athletes and others superior gentlemen. But perhaps one of the finest man ever to enter Villanova, a humble composition of each of these qualities, never graduated. The man today is a shining memory to those of the faculty who have been at Villanova since 1930, and to the present undergraduates, merely a simple name on a tarnished plaque. This man, to whom the VILLANOVAN is respectfully dedicated, is Leo Goodreau, a scholar, an athlete and most of all, a gentleman.

Merely A Name

To most of the students at Villanova, Leo Goodreau is merely a name that decorates the stadium and appears in the VILLANOVAN every week, but he is far more than that.

In 1927 the Villanova Stadium was erected and dedicated. The entire Villanova student body attended this ceremony. One of these students was a Freshman who was destined to die on that field within one short year. The story of Leo Goodreau is in reality inspiration, an inspiration to all Villanovans.

The Villanovan who inspired his college's most cherished tradition—Leo Goodreau.

Football

Leo was an All-New England interscholastic quarterback in high school and became a prominent name on the Villanova campus. He joined the ranks of freshmen football players and due to his hard, fast, clean and aggressive play was immediately tagged as a future star and a sure bet to take over the first string quarterback slot on the varsity the next fall.

In his first game for the Villanova frosh, he scored the first touchdown to be recorded in the new stadium, a touchdown which opened the season and the stadium with a triumph. Little did Leo realize that in the space of a few short years this field would be renamed Goodreau Stadium.

Baseball Too

Although he was the finest football player that Villanova had seen in quite some time, this was not his best sport. Despite his skill as a quarterback, Leo showed as much if not more proficiency as a catcher on the baseball team. His coach, Charles A. McGeehan, predicated that he easily had a major league career before him if he wanted it. He was truly a great athlete.

Leo, deeply engaged in athletics, nevertheless had an abundance of time for social activity. He was instrumental in conducting the freshman dance in the Spring of 1928. Under his leadership and determination the dance became the most successful in the history of the class. In appreciation for his fine effort, the class elected him to the position of Secretary shortly before the scholastic year terminated.

Revived Spirit

He was also instrumental in reviving Villanova's fraternities, which were practically non-existent. Meetings were seldom held and little was accomplished when they were. He revived the Epsilon Phi Theta Fraternity into one of the most active social clubs on the campus. In order to remain in the campus picture the other frats were forced to rejuvenate and the school spirit flourished as it never had before. Leo had solid-

(Continued on Page 7)

Particularly Freshmen:

History Prof. Reilly Cites Need For Outside Reading

Among the graduates of Villanova who returned later to the University as teachers is Mr. Bernard F. Reilly, a recent addition to the Hisotry Department.

Mr. Reilly graduated from Villanova in 1950, after having served in the Phillipines and in Japan during World War II. After his graduation from Villanova, he received his masters degree in Medieval History from the University of Pennsylvania in 1955. He is a graduate of West Catholic High School, where he taught for several years before coming to Villanova. He is the father of five children.

Outside Reading

On the subject of studies, Mr. Reilly recommends, particularly to freshman, to undertake an abundance of outside reading. He adds that six to eight hours a week be put in on each course, that is, about two hours for each hour of class. Additional reading should be from three to four hours on subjects that require it. Totalling these items, class hours, study hours and additional hours, Mr. Reilly believes that the student should spend about 70 hours a week on his entire course.

Extra Curricular Activities

On the subject of extra-curricular activities, he says, "Extra-Curricular activities should have something to do with the course. For instance, a pre-law student should be on the VILLANOVAN, the LYNX and in the Betta Gamma debating society. "The ideal type of curriculum should not be separate from the course," says Mr. Reilly.

Speaking about the study of history, he points out that history is a definite relationship of facts. A student should remember, in studying it that unless these facts are in a definite pattern, they are of no use at all.

On Reading

To the question, "How can a student get a good education?" Mr. Reilly says, "Education is derived from reading. The teacher's job is to direct the student's reading, criticizing the results of it." On studying in general, he points out that the student should have a regular study schedule, or the work will never be done.

"Education should be an enjoyable process," says Mr. Reilly "If a student does not have at least two subjects a semester that he thoroughly enjoys, he should find another course to which he is better suited."

In closing, Mr. Reilly reminds us, "Work ideally should be pleasurable, however, all of it is not."

T'nT Fills All Show Parts

With the completion of tryouts yesterday for the dancing chorous all parts for the upcoming Turf and Tinsel production "Barbara of Seville" have been filled.

George Noake will serve as dance director, a position he has filled in the past.

T&T president Jack Padova said that rehearsals for both cast and chorus will begin soon.

The Reader Speaks:

Letters to the Editor

Game Attendance

Dear Editor:

I found the recent Temple-Villanova game a thrilling contest, and, believe me, the Villanova boys played their hearts out, in what I consider a TERRIFIC GAME.

What surprised me, was the puny representation of Villanova students. The situation is apparently chronic, for Pat Lowery saw fit to say in the Jan. 11 issue of the VILLANOVAN, "If the students of Villanova want to see their team win, their constant support is absolutely necessary at the games." We agree with this whole-heartedly, indeed.

This writer, not a Villanovan, suggests that the chartering of a bus, at a nominal charge, might go a long way in bringing about the big change we need — A LARGE VILLANOVAN ATTENDANCE TO SPARK THE TEAM ON TO VICTORY.

Dom Iacobucci

Some Questions

Dear Editor:

I have noticed letters lying on the desks of resident students concerning books taken illegally from the Library. In these letters a reference is made to the Seventh Commandment. I would like to know if this reasoning applies to the articles taken from rooms during the recent Christmas vacation. What has happened to these articles and what was the justification for their removal? It seems that a lithograph of definite value taken from an old newspaper was confiscated. An easy chair that added comfort to the living conditions was removed on the excuse that its cover was ripped. Signs that were not vulgar and not in poor taste such as "Quiet, Genius at Work" and "No Smoking or Swearing in This Room" were removed for no apparent reason.

Also the unknown subtraction of funds from the breakage fee warrants a little attention. At least a notification of the reason for these fines is only just.

I would appreciate an answer to these questions.

Sincerely,
William H. Smith

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Lovelorn Corner

Havertown, Pennsylvania
January 6, 1956

Dear Sir:

One of the Philadelphia newspapers, The Evening Bulletin, has a column called Ethical Problems. It is mainly problems and answers to problems written in by the younger generation. On December 27, 1955 the girls in my sorority read the answer to a problem written in by a "Villanova Junior." I would certainly like to meet that young man. I am a senior at Haverford Twp. Senior High School, and I (and the other girls in my sorority) date Villanova boys (or men, not necessarily gentlemen) quite frequently. I am secretary of my sorority, and writing this on behalf of all of us.

The girls problem in the column was that her boy friend was constantly asking her if she still loved him. The young man's answer was nice to hear, but we don't agree with him at all. We see no signs of the attitude he spoke of.

We'll analyze the things he said. (1) He said "many fellows suffer from a mild inferiority complex" (because of looks, personality, athletic prowess, etc.) HA! It seems to us college boys (men?) seem to think they are IT simply because they go to college! (2) "It does not seem possible to him that a girl, especially a pretty girl, could ever love him." HA! All (95% anyway) Villanovans think you fall in love with them the minute they

(Continued on Page 10)

Rippled Reflections

(Continued from Page 2)

The individual does not subdivide his behavior into units based on absolute norms and units based on relative norms; rather, he acts and reacts in a highly integrated and consistent manner. The obtained reaction, voluntary and involuntary, is the outcome of an equally consistent pattern of causality.

It may therefore be erroneous to continue to contrast the dichotomy of absolute norms and relative norms for, in the psychological order, that which is mistakenly identified as relative behavior is only a bit, a chip, an infinitely small fragment of the Absolute Pattern.

Jack Weissman, Villanova forward, drives in for a layup against Temple in a City Series game played in the Palestra last Wednesday. Weissman had 16 points in that game, but the Wildcats lost, 80-73.

Strictly Opinion

By DON ALTON

Student apathy has been the topic of national and campus mediums of publicity, and we can not except our own VILLANOVAN OR Radio WVIL, 645 on your dial. The college men have been described as creatures living off the generosity of their parent or the government, in the case of those on the G.I. Bill or government scholarships, and they are supposedly indentified by privation of passion, emotion, or excitement. We wish to take exception to these statements, and defend the average Villanovan.

In the first instance, we shall place before the critics of collegians the rabid fans of the Wildcat basketball team, and their reactions at the Temple and West Virginia games. Only a devoted cynic could refuse to admit that the 'Cats were encouraged by a host of fanatic and hoarse fans in these two encounters. During these extremely exciting games, the excitement and passions of the accused bordered on the brink of heart failure. Some of the fans even had to make hand signals for the wet ones after the games. Indeed, the television fans around the area were reassured . . . Villanovans do have spirit.

In another area of consideration, we have the past Senior Prom weekend to demonstrate the lack of apathy on our campus. The amount of activity and emphasis placed upon this last fling at the formal aspect of undergraduate life was not unusual for the well known class of '56. It would seem that the drive and spirit introduced by this class four years ago has carried on to the rest of the school. The proms are bigger than ever, and excitement and emotions could be said to be at an extremely high peak. This past weekend was far away from any interpretation of the word . . . apathy.

The only field in which we could admit to a state of undergraduate apathy is in the realm of the studies. Every so often the flicks or a friend can pry the usually assiduous Villanova scholar away from "MAN AS MAN" or "MARRIAGE GUIDANCE." This can be excused due to the extreme pressures the average student realize he has to face in late January and May. One must assure oneself of the greatest amount of rest and relaxation in preperation for the ordeal of final examination. As the military service readily admits to the importance of pleasure and rest before combat, so to our Villanova men. We feel that one must be ready for the final hour . . . Emerson once passed the comment that our thinking should be a pious reception.

So you fans of the critical attitude toward the college men, from the information stated above you must admit that the Wildcat does not have his tail between his legs. Men of Villanova are known for being able to rise to any occasion, and they usually come off on the long side of the score. We would suggest that those who doubt the ability of our students to demonstrate their powers avail themselves of the opportunity of observing the accused at work during these next two weeks . . . never have so many crammed, typed, and thought so much in such a short space of time.

By the way . . . who owns Neil?

The Young Ladies State Their Case:

Nurses Present Formal Argument For Representation on Student Council

By Women of the Nursing Division

The nurses are students at Villanova University.

Yet, we are a little bewildered when we arrive to find ourselves students and members of the university in name only. We wish to be more than that. We wish to become an integral part of the university student body and its activities. We feel that the most important step in integration of the nurses is their acceptance by the student body through the student council. To cooperate with the student body and to give our support to their programs in the council is our sincere desire.

Perhaps a brief explanation of the nursing division and our proposed amendment will clarify any questions you may have.

There are two groups of nurses in the one division of nursing.

Basic Group

1. The basic student nurses spend their freshman and sophomore years on the campus, but during their junior and senior years, acquire practical experience in various local hospitals. (just as student teachers gain their experience off campus.) During this time, they have frequent contact with the university and remain under its guidance and jurisdiction. Plans are being made whereby these students will have their classes on campus during their junior and senior years. Since our junior representative will be from this group, she will became a very important link between the on-campus and off-campus students of the junior class. She can do much to stimulate interest in class activiites among her classmates, and to give you a stronger junior class.

2. Graduate nurses have completed a three-year educational program in a hospital, and are registered to practice nursing. They, therefore, come to Villanova as junior students in the baccalaureate program. However, these nurses spend their entire two years on the campus, having already had their practical experience. Since our senior representative will be from this group, she likewise can do much to stimulate class interest and give to you a stronger senior class.

The Nursing Division numbers at present 83 students: 48 basic student nurses and 35 graduates.

Want Two Seats

From this group, we wish to secure two seats in the student council, each representative to hold office for one year. Two votes of the 20 to be given the junior and senior classes).

Surely this is not an unreasonable proposal. We feel that we are dealing with reasonable men.

VILLANOVA UNIVERSITY
THE STUDENT COUNCIL

Proposed Constitutional Amendment to give Representation to the Nursing Division. Submitted by the Elections Committee, Fraternities and Societies Committee, and Ways and Means Committee, in cooperaiton with the Nursing Division.

Article III—Section 1

a. Class representatives to be elected by their respective classes according to Section 3 of this article—two members from the Freshman Class, one a day student and one a resident, at the termination of their first semester and to remain in office until the end of their Sophomore year; two members from the Sophomore Class, one day student and one resident; seven members from the Junior Class, six of whom will serve until the end of their Senior year; and seven members from the Senior Class. The seven Junior and seven Senior representatives will be elected in the following way: three day student representatives and three resident representatives are to be selected — one day student and one resident from each of the following divisions: Divisions of Commerce and Finance, Engineering, and Arts and Science (including Education Department) and one representative from the Divilson of Nursing to hold office for one year.

Holiday all the Way

More fun on the train...and the gang's all here

Peering . . . .

With DICK PEER

. . . At the Senior Weekend which, in this year of the balanced budget, completely unbalanced a number of campus budgets. Totally unexpected was the fact that local talent equaled the imported lovelies and possibly surpassed them. Perhaps the Villanova man is becoming nearsighted, but maybe he's just focusing.

. . . Into the campus Post Office, I see that the Christmas mail rush is almost under control. It's promised that regular service will definitely be established during the second semester.

. . . At the man who has four exams Monday morning and three Friday afternoon. Keep a stiff upper lip there old boy!

. . . Into the dining hall which even at high noon looks like the Yankee Stadium during an Oriole game. By the way, did you ever get the feeling someone's watching you in there?

. . . At the definitely different design on the dining hall wall. After two weeks of steady work, one of the math majors claims to have come up with a formula for it. It's very simple—

$H_2 + Z_2 \times B_{3X2} + Y = S \times^5 A_6 - 4X_4 + Peoples$

For Dinner . . . or a Weekend Vacation
Cherry Hill Inn
HADDONFIELD, N. J.

From 8:30 to 9:

Station WVIL Will Review Big Events of '55 Tonight

Bill Kelly Adds Comments To UP Show

Biggest news events of 1955 will echo from the past tonight at 8:30 when station WVIL presents "Cavalcade of 1955."

Edited by the United Press from on-the-spot recordings, the program will recreate the ten biggest news stories of the year.

The program is being used by the more than 2,000 radio and TV stations which subscribe to the UP news service.

Production manager Bill Kelly will add "live" comments on each event during the recording.

Some of the events to be relived: President Eisenhower's illness, Dr. Jonas Salk's discovery of the effective polio vaccine and the New England floods.

Lou Donatelli
DPE Head

DPE Communion Breakfast Sunday At Stouffer's

Its annual communion breakfast Sunday will end Delta Pi Epsilon activities for this semester.

The Commerce and Finance school fraternity affair will be held at Stouffers Restaurant following nine o'clock Mass in the University Chapel.

President Lou Donnatelli will review the past activities of the fraternity and give a preview of things to come during the next semester.

Tickets for the breakfast are available for $1.50.

Mugs and newly designed pins have been ordered by the fraternity.

Roses Set Square Dance

Villanovans will receive their last chance before the final exams to attend one of the local girls' college dances this Friday night when Rosemont presents a combined square dance and movie in its gymnasium.

Immaculata's next dramatic production, "Russian Interlude," by Sister Mary Donato, I.H.M., moderator of the "Cue and Curtain Club" of the college, will be Feb. 15 and 17. Several Belle Masquers are seeking roles in the presentation.

Nurses - Pre-Meds In Informal Party

Villanova's two nursing sororities and the pre-medical fraternity will jointly sponsor an informal party closed to members and their dates on Feb. 11 at 8:30 p. m.

Undergraduate nurses' sorority, Pi Theta Chi; Alpha Delta Chi, the sorority for graduate nurses; and Lambda Kappa Delta have considered the Germantown Women's Club as a possible site for the affair.

The three societies have signed Leroy Sykes and his orchestra to provide the music to which an anticipated 100 couples will dance.

Concert Band Entertains

Villanova's Concert Band, directed by Bobby Schiller, entertains St. John's Orphanage on February 9 and is scheduled to visit five hospitals during the ensuing weeks.

Fascinating Medley

Misericordia, St. Joseph's, Fitzgerald-Mercy, St. Joseph's of Reading, St. Agnes, hospital in addition to St. John's, will listen to the same general program: a medley of Jerome Kern's outstanding hits, Leroy Anderson's "Serenade", Sigmund Romberg's "Desert Song" and "Wanting You", the overture from "Guys and Dolls", the overture from "The King and I", concluded by the "Star Spangled Banner" and the "Alma Mater".

Peer Joins In Big Five Council Plan

An inter-campus organization linking the Student Councils of Villanova, LaSalle, St. Josephs, Temple and Penn is the outcome of a meeting of Student Council Chairman Dick Peer with the student leaders of the other colleges to discuss inter-city doubleheaders as regards student reaction.

The first of contemplated twice a semester meetings of the group is to take place at Temple March 7. Each school will have three representatives besides the Student Council President.

Council's Role

As regards the inter-league doubleheaders, no complaint was raised at the meeting. The only negative point is attendance and this is expected to improve at tournament time.

The council president also discussed the role of the Student Council in campus matters in social and disciplinary matters and the parliamentary procedure used by the different Councils.

Engineers, Note:

January issue of the ENGINEER is out today. It will be distributed to all freshmen and sophomore engineers in their classes. All junior, senior, 3rd, 4th and 5th year NROTC engineers are requested to pick up their copies at Dean Morehouse's office in Mendel Hall.

Frosh Blazers

Blazers will be delivered to members of the Class of 1959 after the start of the second semester, announced the Rev. George McLaughlin, O. S. A., Dean of Student Activities.

"Get that math exam yet!"

Out for New Members:

IRS to Cover 3 States On Second Semester Trips

"February will be a month of field trips for the International Relations Society," said society president Phil Taddeo in outlining an ambitious program including trips to Washington, D. C., Massachusetts, and New Jersey.

On Feb. 18, society members will inaugurate next semester's activities with a trip to the nation's capital where they will attend a series of meetings with Sate Department officials and foreign diplomats.

Representatives of the organization will attend the More Political Science Forum at St. Peter's College, Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 18.

Connecticut Valley Conference on the United States convenes the following week in South Hadley, Mass. The I.R.S. will participate.

Plans are being completed for the national meeting of the Association of International Relations Clubs which will be held in Philadelphia this year from April 4 through 7. Taddeo expect Villanova to play an important part in the meeting.

In a bid for new members, Taddeo promised noted speakers in the field of international affairs at the monthly meetings next semester.

NFCCS Show Opens March 11

Immaculata College will be the first Philadelphia Area college to witness the second annual NFCCS Variety Show March 11.

The show will be presented at the remaining colleges in the area on the Sunday evenings of Lent.

An added attraction will be headlined for the first show, Bob Laurence, a star of his own WIP radio program presented nightly at 11:50 p. m. On this show Laurence interviews various personalities that appear at the various night clubs in the Philadelphia area and also reviews the Broadway stage.

John Roslea, NFCCS chairman, and Bob Lawler, newly appointed publicity chairman, commented that the show will feature Immaculata's Murpny Sisters, as well as Bobby Schiller and his Villanovans.

Big Week's Plans

(Continued from Page 1)

Tom Decker, a C & F day hop. A single combo will play.

Kelly Handles Tickets

4. Heard that Don Kelly, general chairman of Junior Week and coordinator of ticket sales, is conferring with Nick Mazzoni, ticket chairman for the Class of 1956. Kelly will use plans similar to these employed by Mazzoni in circulating tickets, Decker reported.

The ticket "package plan" was abolished because committeemen indicated that the bookkeeping for Junior Week ticket sales would be made more complicated. The saving to juniors, which would have amounted to $1 or $1.50, would not have been worth the trouble, the committeemen announced.

Class Favored

As proposed earlier this year, the package would have included tickets to all Junior Week events. A junior would have paid a flat rate for all the tickets, at one time. In a questionnaire distributed in November among class members, the "package deal" had been supported by juniors.

Tom Hooker, chairman of the dinner dance, reported that he still had not taken any concrete steps toward signing a band for the affair at the Ben Franklin Hotel in Philadelphia. Other arrangements are complete, he said.

Don Kelly
Junior Week Chairman

The meeting lasted 50 minutes.

This is the prom committee appointed by class president Jack Decker: general chairman, Jack Fraser; band, Tom Curran, Decker, Fraser; tickets, Jim McCormick; decorations, Den Rinkacs and Dick Cooke; programs, Joe Keffer; publicity, Tom Smith and Bob Strayton; queen contest, Joe Redmond; miscellaneous, Lee Carson; refreshments, Bill Smith; favors Ty Rauber.

Prom Head Fraser

(Continued from Page 1)

Agency in Philadelphia, along with a $600 deposit. Honney will pass the contract on to the New York agent.

First Choices Out

"The Commanders" were chosen to play at the prom by the class steering committee at a meeting Thursday. The band had been the committee's third choice. First and second choices were Russ Morgan and Richard Maltby, respectively.

Both those bands will be playing in other parts of the country on the weekend of the Prom, Fraser quoted the Honney agency as saying.

"The Commanders," who have 13 pieces and a vocalist, will receive a $1,150 fee for their appearance.

Students, Note!

SECOND SEMESTER REGISTRATION, 1956

Monday, Feb. 6—9 A. M. to 2 P. M.—Commerce & Finance.

Tuesday, Feb. 7—9 A. M. to 2 P. M.—Arts and Science, Nursing.

Wednesday, Feb. 8—9 A. M. to 2 P. M.—Engineering.

To Eliminate Lines:

Administration Seeks New Room Reservation System

Suggestions about ways to distribute rooms without the traditional lines will be accepted by the vice president's office.

The Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., University vice-president, announced that room reservations will be made March 19, 20, and 21.

Members of the Class of 1957 will reserve rooms the first day, juniors-to-be the second day and sophomores-to-be the third day.

Suggestions Welcomed

Father McKee said that he had not set any plan to be followed. But he said he would consider any suggestions students may have for relieving the confusion that often results from the traditional lines and lists.

Suggestions may be included in letters to Father McKee or they may be submitted to the Student Council, which will pass along the suggestions.

Fee Not Additional

At the same time, Father McKee emphasized, that the $45 deposit to be required before a room may be reserved is not an additional fee. It will be credited to the students account by the business office, the vice-president explained.

If the student fails to return to school after reserving a room, the deposit will not be refunded, he said.

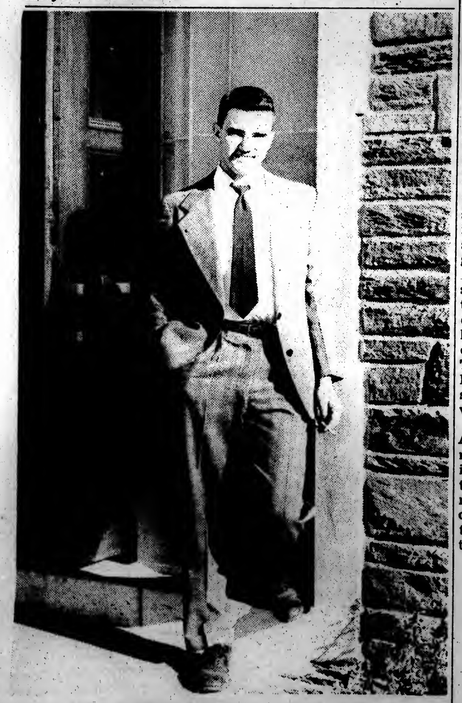
Deadline for returning the deposit and the IBM card which is being sent to parents is March 10.

LYNX Sales Soar To All-Time High

Sales of the new LYNX, the campus literary magazine, are soaring to a record peak in the best reception accorded an issue of the LYNX in years.

Jack Eddinger, co-editor of the magazine, attributes its success in part to the modernistic cover designed by art editor Barry Ballister.

With the winter issue on the stands work has begun on the forthcoming spring issue. The staff repeats the ever-present cry for more material from more Villanova students. Essays, short stories, criticisms and other works should be turned over to Copy Editors Bill Smith and Frank Delany, or left in the Lynx office on third floor of Dougherty Hall.



Addresses LKD

Dr. Raymond Truex, professor of anatomy at the Hahnemann Medical School will address the Lambda Kappa Delta Fraternity the first week of the second semester.

Charles Gibley, LKD head, also revealed that, for the first time, the frat will donate $5 to the year book for an ad.

Chris Kloff fired the highest score in Villanova history Saturday as Villanova's undefeated rifle team won its fifth straight meet, downing Lafayette 1408 to 1356.

Kloff scored 286 out of 300 in the match at Villanova.

New ENGINEER Editor — Jack Essig

Asks Early Opening of Chow Hall:

SC to Request Campus Mailboxes; Nurses Forward Modified Proposal

McEnerney Addresses Arts Frat

Judge Leonard Propter of the Juvenile Court of Philadelphia was scheduled to address the January meeting of Delta Pi Mu fraternity but could not deliver his talk on "Juvenile Delinquency and the Juvenile Court" because of illness.

Dr. John E. McEnerney, moderator of DPM, substituted for Judge Propter with a talk on "Laughter and Wit."

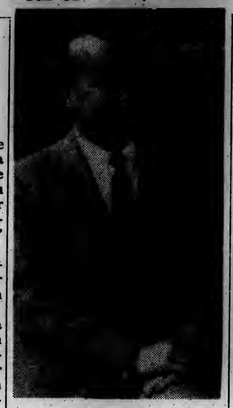
Speaking of laughter as a "universal language" to which everyone responds, Dr. McEnerney said the cause of laughter was either humor or wit. Both pre-suppose intelligence and consist in the unexpected joining together of two factors.

Wit Above Humor

"Wit, however, is on a more intellectual level than humor, whereas humor is more obvious," Dr. McEnerney declared.

To exemplify his thesis that "anything can be the subject of laughter," even such things sacred as the Greek and Roman divinities, marriage, sorrow, pain and ignorance, the moderator entertained the 50 members present with stories and anecdotes.

Especially subtle were his examples of wit and his observation that "to be able to laugh at oneself is a sign of maturity."



Computer Talk Next in Sight For E. E. Group

"New Components for Computers" will be the subject of the next meeting of Villanova's A.I.E.E.-I.R.E. branch Feb. 15. Mr. Howard E. Thompkins of the Burroughs Research Laboratories in Paoli will be the guest speaker. The talk will be held in Room 215 Mendel at 7:30 p. m. and all are invited, said the group's chairman Jack Downing.

A tapescript program, i.e., slides and a tape-recorded narration, on "Color TV" was presented last Monday morning to a large number of the electrical engineers in the Navy building. The tapescript, produced by RCA, was presented under the supervision of George Ahearn, vice-chairman of the society.

Dave Vaughn, director of the A.I.E.E.-I.R.E. pinochle tournament, said the contest was well into its second round, and that the results of the current games must be posted by Friday on the dynamo lab bulletin board. Sixteen teams are engaged in the tourney.

THE VILLANOVA PHARMACY
ON LANCASTER AVE, JUST WEST OF THE CAMPUS
A Complete Drug Store for All Your Needs
821 LANCASTER AVE.
Villanova, Pa.
LAwrence 5-7667

Dick Peer

Scholarship

CALIFORNIA—The Stanford University Department of Communication and Journalism is now receiving applications for graduate scholarships in journalism for the 1956-57 academic year. The scholarships carry stipends from $1,200 to $2,400 and total $11,800.

Request for additional information should be addressed to the Executive Head, Department of Communication and Journalism, Stanford University, Stanford, Calif.

Four of the awards are grants for which no services are required. In addition, the department is offering for Asian nationals preparing to work in the Orient two fellowships of $2,400 each, for which part time editorial assistance is expected.

New Measure Would Limit Seat Total

A proposal for mailboxes on campus and the nurses' request for a seat on the Student Council occupied Council members at last Monday night's meeting.

A new proposal was brought forth by the nurses in still another bid for representation on the Council. By the terms of the new proposal representatives would not carry over from junior to senior year, thereby limiting the nurse's total representation to two. This latest bid will be voted on at the next meeting of the Council.

Up to PCS

Several questions were referred to the President's Committee for Students. Among those were proposals by Hank Whalen to the effect that the instructor's name should be listed with the course at registration and a suggestion, that there be a guidance director for each school of the university.

Council President Dick Peer said that he would speak to the Rev. Joseph Curran, Procurator, about the matter of mailboxes on campus. He will also refer to Father Curran a request to move back the start of lunch period in the cafeteria from 11:45 to 11:30.

Reports were heard on a planned inter-frat ball and a new system of allotting dates for social events to groups by number.

Absent from the last Council meeting were Greg Gehring, John Salvo, Leo Calabrese, Joe Barrett, Tom Curran, Joe Valenti, Walt Murphy and John Fraser.

Junior Andrew Panik:

Wrestling-Built Body May Have Saved Pike Victim

A Villanova junior injured in a freak accident on Lancaster Pike last Wednesday may have escaped death because he had built up his body by wrestling.

The victim, Andrew Panik, 20, an Arts student from Bethlehem, Pa., was reported in satisfactory condition Monday by attendants at Bryn Mawr Hospital.

Panik suffered cuts extending from the neck to the waist. He was taken to the hospital in the Radnor Fire Company ambulance.

Police said he was crossing the pike from the Field House to the other side around 5 p. m. He stopped in the middle of the highway because of heavy traffic.

Struck by Door Handle

He was struck by the door handle of a car being driven west by John H. Hanrahan, 25, of Philadelphia. The shock of the impact dropped Panik in his tracks. Patrolman Leonard McCoy of the Radnor Township police, who investigated, picked up Panik.

The Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A. university vice-president, quoted doctors who performed an emergency operation on Panik as saying that the victim's training in wrestling had strengthed his body. This may have saved his life, according to the doctors.

Father McKee said Panik's parents were notified and hurcapping ceremony in the chapel.

(Continued on Page 11)

Three Appearances

Dean Reuschlein's Villanova Singers will make three public appearances within the next month.

Tomorrow the group entertains the Philadelphia Alumni Club, and on Feb. 8, performs before a television audience in the second annual joint concert with the Pennsylvania Glee Club at the Palestra during the halftime intermission of the Penn-Villanova basketball game.

On Feb. 12, the group will sing at Benediction at the nurses'

Seniors and Father Curran Enjoy Dinner Dance at Palumbo's

Sgt. Waryha's Proteges:

Rifle Team Unbeaten at Halfway Mark

With half the season completed, the undefeated varsity rifle team, now in its second year of competition, has posted five consecutive victories.

In November, Lehigh, Villanova's only conqueror last year, could not repeat and was defeated 1392 to 1387. High man in the match was Walt Gould, with 283 out of 300.

The Navy Yard Marines visited the Main Line campus Dec. 3 but were the victims of the Wildcats' second successive triumph, 1383 and 1334, as Fred Passarella's 282 was the day's individual high.

Two more matches at home also found M-Sgt. John E. Waryha's boys on top. The Villanovans turned back the Tigers by an 111-point margin and overcame Penn 1376 to 1373.

In both matches, Hank Miller was high man with a 284.

In the team's only away encounter to date, the Wildcats surprised nationally-recognized Georgetown, 1385 to 1374 as Frank Moser paced the winners with a 280 score.

Villanova still must face Lafayette, Western Maryland, Delaware, Rutgers, and Johns Hopkins before the season's end.

DPM Tomorrow

Plans for pledging of new members will be discussed during a meeting of Delta Pi Mu fraternity tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. in 201 C & F.

President Owen Hickey said a pledgemaster will be appointed and mugs and fraternity pins will be discussed. Dues must be paid at the session, he stressed.

Details covering True Story magazine's annual cash contest are published in the magazine's current issue, now at newsstands everywhere. In addition to $25,000 in cash being offered by True Story, this year's contest includes a $5,000 bonus from Universal-International studios for the story which is most suitable for movie treatment. The $5,000 bonus won't necessarily go to the contest's top prize winner, explains contest editor Jean M. Press in her announcement to True Story readers. In all, there will be 83 prizes with first prize of $5,000 cash leading the way.

Rules and entry coupons appear in the current issue of True Story.

Leo Goodreau

(Continued from Page 3)

ly proven that a lack of spirit had no place on the Villanova campus.

Despite this unusually heavy schedule, Leo maintained a scholastic average which placed him high in the upper half of his class. His coach, Harry Stuhldreher, figured on him as a potential All-American on the gridiron and a shining light in the Villanova football picture. It was a sure thing. But he was never given the chance to show his All-American calibre to the rest of the sports world, for the Lord had other, and far greater plans for Leo J. Goodreau.

On the field Leo never gave up digging, and ironically this hustle cost him his life.

His Last Play

One early September afternoon he was calling offensive signals for the varsity against the frosh in a grueling scrimmage held in preparation for Villanova's game. The frosh lined up determined to prove their mettle against a larger and more experienced varsity. As the ball was snapped to a halfback, Leo, who besides being a triple threat on offense was a demon on defense, bolted forward leading the interference. The frosh line charged. There was a quick pile-up. It was Leo Goodreau's last play.

When the players unpiled, Leo was lying quite still, face down on the turf. As he slowly came-to, his face was contorted with pain. A teammate tried to help the stricken player to his feet and he shrieked with pain. His back had been brutally broken.

He was given no chance of survival by the specialists called in on the case. He was almost completely paralyzed. His back was broken all right, but his spirit was hardly dented. No longer was he fighting for his school, he was fighting for his life. He refused to give up. He insisted on hearing all the football scores that grim Saturday; His wish was not denied. He assured everyone that someday he would be back in the Villanova line-up. But Leo underestimated himself, for he was soon to participate in a far more rewarding "line-up."

Undefeated Season

When it was recognized that he was not going to pull through,

(Continued in Column 5)

A First at Villanova:

VU Coeds to Handle All 'Detective' Female Roles

For the first time in the history of dramatics at Villanova, all feminine parts in a Belle Masque play will be taken by Villanovans.

Villanova females in the cast of "Detective Story," Belle Masque's Spring Production, are Pat O'Connor, Marcia Marlowe, Lucy Bell, Sue Simmons, Faith Heller, Barbara May, Mary Buckly and Mary Ester Screem.

Returning to Belle Masque for another lead, that of Detective McLeod, the hard and determined lieutenant in "Story" is Charles Brockman, remembered for his portrayal of Barney Greenwald in "The Caine Mutiny Court-Martial" this fall.

Old Timer, New Face

Playing McLeod's friend Brody is another old timer in Belle Masque, Tom Curran.

Completing the squad of detectives are: Joe Ezerski as Dakis, Bill Brown as Gallagher, Ray Clarke as Callahan, and a new arrival to the Belle Masque stage, Lee Carson, who will be Detective O'Brien.

In the part of Charlie, the three-time loser, is Joe Barrett, who has just starred in the leading role of the stagemanager in "Our Town," which the Belle Masquers have just performed for the society.

33 In Cast

Completing the cast are: Jack Padova, Don Seaton, D. Franklin, Mike Clark, Walter Cunningham, Andy Iaccarino, Paul Gormley, Jim Grady, Tom Foley, Mike Potenza, George Browne; Pete Selesky, Ed McCarthy, Dick Brothers, Nick Rinaldi, Mike Curtiss, Bob Reynolds.

Cast Of Detective Story

J. Padova	Feinson
J. Ezerski	Dakis
B. Brown	Gallagher
R. Clarke	Callahan
L. Carson	O'Brien
T. Curran	Brody
D. Seaton	Sims
C. Brockman	McLeod
D. Franklin	Arthur
J. Overton	Barnes
J. Barrett	Charlie
A. Iaccarino	Lewis
F. Gormley	Schneider
J. Grady	Monaghan
T. Foley	Keogh
M. Clark	Willy
W. Cunningham	Mr. Feeney
M. Potenza	Crumb Bum
G. Browne	Gallantz
P. Selesky	Pritchett
E. McCarthy	Giacoppetti
D. Brothers	Photographer
N. Rinaldi	Gentleman
M. Curtiss	Mr. Bagatelle
B. Reynolds	Citizen
Marcia Marlowe	Shoplifter
S. Simmons	Mrs. Farragutt
L. Bell	Susan
F. Heller	Mrs. Bagatelle
B. May	Mrs. Feeney
M. Buckley	Miss Hatch
P. O'Conner	Mary McCleod
M. E. Screem	Lady

Leo Goodreau

(Continued from Column 3)

there was talk of postponing the entire football schedule, but Leo would have nothing to do with this idea. He movingly complained that it was not only unfair to the team which had worked so hard for so long, but even unfair to himself.

It is merely an anticlimax to state that the Villanova football team, inspired by this tough, plucky youth, swept on to an undefeated season, crushing all opposition.

The Last Spark

But soon the fight became too much, even for Leo Goodreau. He confided to his coach, Harry Stuhldreher, "I've given the best that is in me, I'm tired out, I can't hold out much longer." Death was near. He was given the Last Rites and soon lapsed into a coma. While in this coma, he began to call football signals and continued until early Tuesday afternoon, just four short days after his gridiron play, the spark of life in Leo Goodreau flickered out.

A Sad Scene

Father O'Leary, who was present at the time of the death, had this description; "It was a beautiful but sad scene. Outside were teammates and classmates, and inside priests and doctors. To the last Leo maintained that same staunchness of heart which marked him on the football field."

At the funeral in Villanova's College Chapel, the casket was carried by his former teammates. The entire student body was present at the Solemn High funeral Mass. They lined the steps of the Church and the roadway off the campus as Leo was borne away.

The situation was not radically changed, however, for now, he was merely playing for a new Coach and a new team in a much higher league.

An Inspiration

Surely the spirit of Leo J. Goodreau lingers in the halls and on the playing fields of Villanova, a spirit which is, to those who know his story, an ever present inspiration to higher standards of sportsmanship and duty.

It would be useless to try to develop a brilliant sentence or two for a finis to this story, fast becoming a legend, for five little words supply everything that can be said: Leo Goodreau, scholar, athlete, gentleman.

Tonight, 7 O'clock:

Opera-Classica Club To Hear All-Bizet Program

Tonight at 7:00 p. m in room 208 C & F, Opera-Classica will present an all-Bizet Program. The selections include "L'Arlesienne Suites" No. 1 and No. 2 played by Andre Kostelanetz and his Orchestra, and preludes to four acts of "Carmen" with the Stadtesche Opera Orchestra of Berlin.

"Turandot Scheduled"

On Feb. 22, Renata Tebaldi will star in Giacomo Puccini's "Turandot." Alverto Erede will conduct the orchestra.

At 7:00 p. m., Feb. 29, Dvorak's "New World" will be presented with Arthur Rodzinski conducting the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra of London. Paganini's "Caprices", Opus 1, with Michael Rabin, Violinist, will complete the evening's program.

Mr. Angeline
O-C Club Moderator

The 20 tickets available for the Met's Production of "Tosca" on Tuesday in Philadelphia have been sold out.

Four field trips are planned for the second semester. Three are free.

Free Concerts

On February 16 and March 26, the Philadelphia Orchestra will give two free concerts. Tickets are available by contacting the faculty moderator. On March 13, the group plans to see Mozart "Die Zauberfloete" (Magic Flute). The opera will be sung in English. Prices of tickets are $2.50, $3.00, and $4.50.

In April they plan a trip to the "Voice of Firestone" television program in New York.

Villanova Dominates Boston Track Meet

Al Griffith grimaces as he goes into the air for a layup. Temple's Fred Cohen is right behind him, as Guy Rogers (5) and Bill Smith of the Owls look on along with Jack Weissman for Villanova. The Wildcats lost, 80-73.

Jenkins, Delany, Reavis, Sydnor, and Relayers Win

By BOB MULCAHY

Exhibiting all the form pre-season prognostigators had envisioned, Villanova's track team completely dominated the Knights of Columbus track meet in Boston last Saturday night.

Featuring three first places victories by sophomores, the Wildcats won a total of five firsts outright and tied for another in the pole vault, in the season's first major indoor meet.

The most surprising, perhaps, was the victory of Ronnie Delany in the mile run. Clocked in 4:11.2, Ron started out dead last. He started to move at the quarter pole, was ahead at the three-quarter mark, and from then on he held off a threat by Len Truex to win by five yards.

Jenkins 3rd Prout"600"

The incomparable Charley Jenkins won the Prout 600 in 1:12.2 for the third straight year. Defeating the likes of Grant Scruggs of Michigan, Lou Jones, and Joe Gaffney, former Villanova runner, Jenkins was pulling away at the end and won by six yards. His time this year was a bit slower than his record of 1:10 set last year.

Competing before his home-town folks, Sophomore Phil Reavis won the high jump with ease. Clearing 6 feet 9¾ inches, he left his nearest competitor 5¾ inches behind. In fact Phil thrice attempted to set a world indoor record by jumping 6 feet 10¾ inches but failed, although he just barely missed his first try. There after he tired.

CHARLEY JENKINS
Wins Prout "600" for 3rd Time

Sydnor Wins 50 yd. dash

Another sophomore, little George Sydnor, literally flew over the 50-yard dash course and won all three heats he was in, including the semifinals and final. His time of 5.4 was a tenth of a second off the record as he won over Lindy Remigino, 1952 Olympic 100-meter champion, and Willie Williams, former Big Ten sprint champion.

Tying such pole vaulters as Rev. Bob Richards and Don Laz, Don Bragg vaulted 14 feet 6 inches. All, however, missed their three tries at 15 feet.

Mile Relayers Win Easily

Not to be overshadowed by the performances of individuals the mile relay team romped over Manhatten as Charley Jenkins ran away with the anchor leg over Richard Simmons. Running with Jenkins were Gene Maliff, Rollie Simpson, and Al Peterson.

Villanova students and local fans will get a chance to view the sensational Wildcats this Saturday night as they compete in the Inquirer invitation meet at Convention Hall.

Weary Wildcats Face Dayton, W & L This Week

By JOE SLAVIN

Villanova's weary 'Cats take to the road this week to face the University of Dayton and Washington and Lee University.

On Wednesday night the 'Cats meet the Dayton Flyers, rated by the experts as the number two team in the nation. Led by Bill Uhl, the Flyers have been described by many observers as the best all around team in the country. After reviewing their season's record of 11 consecutive victories this statement appears credible.

Missing from last year's squad (25-4) are Jack Sallee and All-American Johnny Horan. Uhl, who averaged 18 points and 20 rebounds a game last year, will probably prove irritating to the "Cats" under the boards. Jim Paxson (6'6") has filled in for Horan with his good ball handling and excellent outside shooting.

For the past five years Dayton has been ranked among the country's top teams. Over this span they have amassed an enviable record of 129 wins and 29 losses. In these past five seasons the Flyers have appeared in four NIT'S and one NCAA tournament.

In the ECAC holiday festival last year in Madison Square Garden the 'Cats suffered a 59-52 loss to Dayton.

On Saturday Villanova travels to Lexington, Va. to meet the Washington and Lee Generals. Back from last year's team (16-13) is the entire starting line-up, plus five other letterman. Lee Marshall (6'5") led the team in scoring with a 21 point average, connecting on 51 percent of his shots.

Embattled Wildcats Decisioned By Temple, 80-73, and Xavier, 71-70

By DARYLL DITENFEST

Villanova's embattled basketball squad dropped two Palestra decisions last week when, on Wednesday, Jan. 11, Temple University's undefeated Owls tripped the Wildcats by an 80-73 score, and on the following Saturday, Xavier of Ohio edged Villanova, 71-70.

For the Wildcats, these two contests were losses number five and six of the current season.

In the Temple game, Villanova's second game in the City Series, the unbelievably fast and unerring Owls caught the Wildcats off guard in the initial minutes of play, and ran to a quick 12 point lead.

JACK WEISSMAN
Gets 32 in Two Games

Ran Through Zone Defense

Paced by backcourt men Hal Lear and Guy Rodgers, the Temple team poured through Villanova's 2-1-2 zone defense almost at will to dump in layup after layup for their opening lead. But, in the hectic minutes of the first half that followed the Owls initial outburst, the Wildcats were able to fight back to a 42-42 tie when the intermission sounded.

The second half proved equally hectic, as the lead changed eight times in the 20 minutes of play. Bobby Powers, Jack Weissman, and Jimmy Smith began to score in this period, as Jim Fahey and Al Griffith had done in the first stanza, to keep the Wildcats on an even level with the red-hot Temple five.

Lear Gets 37

But the accuracy of Lear and

(Continued on Page 9)

Swimming Team Defeats Swarthmore and Loyola

By JOHN CURTIN

The Villanova swimmers came up with two more victories last week—at the expense of Swathmore and Loyola colleges—to remain undefeated after three meets. Winning away and at home, the Blue and White lads were paced by Lou Schoener and Don Couig.

Last Wednesday night, the Wildcats sank Swathmore, 48-35, in the Swathmore pool. The Villanova 300 yard medley relay team of Couig, Schoener, and Den Rinkacs established a new pool record with its time of 3:12.2. In winning, the Wildcats took four other first places: as Bob Duffey won the 50 yard freestyle; Pat Kern, the 100 yard feestyle; Lee Carson, the 200 yard backstroke; and Mike Rafferty took top honors in the diving competition.

Swamped Loyola, 56-28

Last Saturday afternoon in the school pool the team gained its third triumph by swamping Loyola, 56-28. The Wildcats took first place honors in eight out of the ten events, just as they had done in the first meet of the season against Seton Hall. Don Couig set a new record in the 200 yard individual medley with a time of 2:25.2, breaking the mark he had set in the Seton Hall contest. This event is new to intercollegiate competition this season.

Schoener Double Winner

Lou Schoener was the only double winner in the meet. He paced the 220 yard and 440 yard freestyle races. Lee Carson, Lou Pinto, Pat Kean, Denny Rinkacs, Paul Donohoe, and Bob Duffy also won first places for the Blue and White, either individually or as the members of a relay team.

The Wilcats will attempt to make it four in a row next Saturday afternoon against La Salle. The meet will be held in the Field House pool at 2.

"Colorful As Cousy" Bobby Powers High-Scorer For Basketball Wildcats

By HANK NICHOLS

Color is the one big thing the 1955-56 Wildcats don't lack. The main reason for this is a gentleman named Bobby Powers. His playing so far this season has caused more comment then any other hoopster in the area.

Relegated to a reserve role last year, Bob has come along to be the "take-charge guy" of this season's Wildcat edition. His style of play is not unlike that of Bob Cousy, whom Powers himself thinks is the greatest player in the game today. Possessing a highly sensitive pair of hands, Bobby can control a basketball so well that he is able to drive underneath the basket with a fantastic dribble and get a shot off even with opponents five to six inches taller trying to block it; more often than not, he makes it.

Grew Up With Tierney

It is not hard to understand why Powers plays the game so well. He shot his first two-pointer at the age of five and has been continuing the process ever since. He grew up in New York City with Larry Tierney, and the two used to play basketball every chance they had in the schoolyard. They parted their ways and went to different high schools; Larry going to St. Anne's, and Bobby to Cardinal Hayes where he was an All-New York City selection after his senior year. His talents weren't limited to the court as he played American Legion baseball and batted .325. He gave up the diamond to concentrate on his first love when he arrived at the Main Line.

Villanova can thank Larry Tierney and a Wildcat alumnus, Sam Canning, for Bob's choice to continue his hardwood exploits here. He had over 50 offers that included bids from North Carolina, Holy Cross, St. John's, and Seton Hall.

As a reserve last year he managed 126 points with a high of twenty against Duquesne in the Holiday Festival.

Has 168 Points This Year

Thus far this season his point production and all around play have improved remarkably. His 168 points, a 14 point average, leads the team, and at times his play has been nothing short of sensational. Examples of this are his 27 point effort against St. Francis of Loretto when he frustrated the Frankies' two guards all night with his ball

(Continued on Page 9)

SPORTS CHATTER

How To Be Very, Very Unpopular

By BOB STRAYTON

If the Villanova track team maintains throughout the season the form which it displayed last Saturday, there is a strong possibility that invitations to future track and field events will be few and far between. When "Jumbo" Elliot's charges competed in the inaugural track meet of the indoor season at Boston last weekend, there were a great many disappointed people.

Take, for example, the feelings of the Knights of Columbus, "Hub" chapter, after the meet was over. Can you imagine their grief when one team completely dominated the entire meet? After a full year of striving to get the very best athletes to compete in the program they had outlined, the least these ambitious men sought for recompense was a highly competitive showing by their chosen athletes. But no. There always had to be one spoiler in the crowd, some wise guy who had to make a display of himself by hogging everything.

Villanova Was A "Wise Guy"

Since Villanova was the wise "guy" in question during the Boston meet, it would be understandable that the goodly Knights would hestitate in asking them for a return engagement again next year. And if that wasn't bad enough, these self same spoilers also were responsible for disgracing the best men in almost every feature on the evening's menu.

How do you think Lindy Remigino, who was a 1952 Olympic champion for the United States, felt after little George Sydnor beat the pants off him in the 50 yd. dash? Of course, since George is only a Sophomore, there is some excuse for his beating Remigino. Not having been around the big time very long, the inexperienced little Wildcat didn't know that you can't make friends of opponents you humiliate, especially those with a long string of superlatives in front of their names. Phil Reavis' actions up in Boston also can be excused, for he too was green when he walloped the best high jumpers in the nation last weekend. But jumping 6-9¾ as he did, little Phil sort of rubbed it in against his worthy opposition. Someone should warn him that his associates don't appreciate that sort of prank, especially from a young kid who isn't supposed to be doing things like that.

Experienced Members Need More Sense

But, for the older and more experienced members of the Villanova track team—Charley Jenkins, who walked away with the Prout "600", or Don Bragg, who tied at 14-6 for the pole vault, or Ron Delany, who won the mile in 4:11, or the varsity mile relayers, with a 3:20 showing—these proteges of Mercury should have more common sense than to make enemies the way they did last Saturday. Athletes from all over the country came to Boston to participate in events with these Villanovans. Probably most of them thought they would win. Then the brash young assemblage from Pennsylvania's Main Line had to strut their stuff and shatter the dreams of even the greatest of these track men.

Somehow you can't seem to blame promoters, men like the Boston Knights, and the track and field competitors for their attitude toward Villanova. If you were a great runner, how would you like it if some young, wet-behind-the-ears kid beat the stuffings out of you before 12,000 people? Or even worse would be the demeanor of the promoters who spend their long days planning track extravaganzas, and then have everything wrecked by one group of spoil sports who run off with every top prize in the house.

Set Up A League For Themselves

Somebody should do something about that crew from the little hamlet in Pennsylvania. One suggestion already overheard was to form a league apart from the rest of the track world, and let these lords of the banked-boards compete among themselves. The position they would hold would be something similar to the stature of the pro leagues in comparison to the amatuer rankings. That way, the gifted young men would be able to race around all day, or jump around all day, and set new records all day, and still not bother the normal track men of the era. (Anyhow, eventually they'd have to die, and that would be the end of them.)

That seems stupid of course; but, still, these Villanova track men will probably never learn. As a matter of fact, they'll probably be making as many enemies as ever this Friday night.

Cumulative Basketball Statistics

Name	G	Field Goals			Free Throws			Rebounds		Points
		A	M	%	A	M	%	No.	Ave.	No.	Ave.
Jim Smith	12	159	59	37.1	57	40	70.1	110	9.1	158	13.1
Bob Powers	12	181	64	35.9	64	39	60.9	46	3.8	167	13.9
Jack Weissman	12	175	59	34.3	60	48	80.0	101	8.4	162	13.7
Jim Fahey	9	87	36	41.3	66	42	63.6	93	10.3	114	12.7
Jack Kelly	11	87	35	40.2	47	30	63.8	102	9.2	100	9.1
Al Griffith	12	125	39	31.2	30	16	53.3	83	6.9	94	7.8
John Cirino	5	33	17	51.5	12	8	75.0	31	6.2	42	8.4
Marty Milligan	8	24	7	29.0	2	2	100.0	9	1.1	16	2.0
Tom Brennan	6	11	5	45.4	13	10	76.1	7	1.1	19	3.2
Larry Tierney	7	6	1	17.0	3	1	33.3	9	1.2	3	0.4
Dave Van Osten	2	0	0		0	0		0		0
Jim Arnott	1	0	0		0	0		0		0
Bill Haley	1	0	0		0	0		0		0
TOTALS	12	830	308	37.1	354	235	66.3	601	50.1	875	72.9

"Practice Makes Perfect" Adage Upheld By Frosh Captain Joe Ryan

There is an old adage which says "practice makes perfect." That same old adage is substantiated by one of Villanova's freshman basketball players, Joe Ryan.

Joe, at 18, has been playing basketball since the time in the second grade when his father set up a seven-foot basket in the backyard of their Philadelphia home. It was then, while throwing an undersized ball at an undersized basket, that Joe began proving the validity of the above adage.

Since that time, a period of 11 years, Joe has come very close to attaining that same "perfection." The eldest of the nine Ryan children, Joe attended St. Joseph's Prep in Philly when he graduated from grammar school.

JOE RYAN
Leading Frosh Scorer

Captained St. Joe's

While at St. Joe's, he proved to be one of the best ball players to play for that institution. In his junior and senior years, the captain of the Wild Kittens was a valuable piece of merchandise to his high school and captained the team in both of those years.

His senior year was undoubtedly his finest. During that season, Joe averaged 21.9 points a game to give him second highest scoring honors in the Catholic League. The only one ahead of him was Jim Grazione, who is now a freshman football star.

All-American In High School

But points were just a part of the Ryan ability, and Joe's additional assets of rebounding, assisting, and defensive excellence aided him in being named to the All - American High School squad.

On the strength of his high school accomplishments, Joe not only went to Murray, Ky., for the All-American North-South game, but he also received 21 scholarship offers, some of them from basketball powers like North Carolina State, Marquette, and Holy Cross. From all of these offers, Joe selected Villanova because he felt "it was the best Catholic school close to home."

Led Summer League

Last summer, before he matriculated at Villanova, the red-headed athlete played basketball in a summer league in nearby Narberth. Although playing against the likes of Hal Lear, Temple's All - American high scorer, Alonzo Lewis of LaSalle, and Villanova's Bobby Powers, Joe managed to come out of the league with the coveted high-scoring title.

When he came to Villanova in September, Joe hadn't lost any of his scoring punch. In the first seven games which the freshman team played, Joe was high man with a total of 168 points. His

(Continued on Page 10)

Intramural Basketball Summary

The intra-mural basketball season is now well under way with twenty-two games in the eight participating leagues having been played last week.

Two of the more important games were:

Gazelles Romp

Last Monday the Gazelles proved themselves to be one of the powers of intramural basketball league.

Led by Frank Power, who poured 18 points through the hoop and controlled both offensive and defensive backboards, the Gazelles romped to their second one-sided victory of the early campaign by the score of 86-33.

Hank Nichols, Pat Nicholson, and Paul Laughlin each chipped in with 14 points to help Power seal the victory.

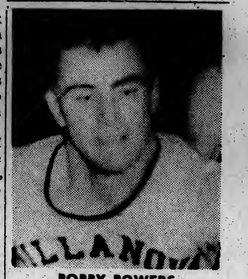
Saints Win Their First

Paced by the red-hot shooting of Dick Montgomery, who netted 18 points, the Saints romped to an easy victory over the Rheingold AC last week, by a 55-37 count. Other high men for the Saints were Jim Sherry, 14 points, Bill Smith, 11 markers, and Paul McGrath with 10 points for the game.

During the first half, it was a closely fought game, and by halftime, the Saints were ahead by only two points, 22-20. The second half, however, proved the difference, as Sherry and Montgomery connected from outside with unerring jump shots, and the entire Saint team dominated the boards.

Results of the other games played in the intramural loop last week were:

Hooples 51.....Tag's Boy's 42
Furriers 28 ..Fedigan Ramblers 19
Little Hares (forfeit)
Bauman's Bombers
Gazells 56 ..... Bolsheviks 34
Turse's Trotters 35 ...Make Ups 34
New Yorkers 56....Social Boys 33
Augie Allstars 50
Mendel Maulers 27
Buma 71 .....Ichneumon Fliers 49
Gumdrops 59.....Barons 33
Bombers ....(forfeit).....Butchers
Sullivan Sharpshooters 44
Hot Shots 31
Nav Cats 36.....Opposers 20
Ballantine AC 45
Ballantine Jr. AC 36
Cannons 54..... .....Able Co. 43
TV Boys (double forfeit)
Teatrotters



Five of the scheduled games have been postponed until a future date.

Trackmen To Compete In Friday's Inquirer Meet

Villanova's ace indoor track team, which was so effective in the Boston Knights of Columbus Meet last Saturday, will compete in the Philadelphia Inquirer's 12th annual Inquirer games, to be held at convention Hall on Friday night.

It will be the second meet of the current indoor season for the Villanova banked-board aces, and they will be attempting to better their record of previous performances in the Invitational meet.

Competing for the Wildcats against the best track and field men in the nation will be Charley Jenkins, Don Bragg, Ron Delany, Alex Breckenridge, George Sydnor, Phil Reavis, and the mile relay team which won that event so easily in Boston last week.

BOBBY POWERS
High Scorer for Wildcats

Temple-Xavier

(Continued from Page 8)

Rodgers, who had 37 and 16 respectively, was too much for the Wildcats to overcome, and Temple broke the game open with two minutes remaining.

Schneider Provides Margin

A soft-touch push shot by Dick Schneider gave Xavier's Musketeers sufficient margin to eke out a 71-70 triumph over the Wildcats last Saturday night in another Palestra contest.

From the opening whistle, the game was a nip-and-tuck battle, and although Villanova held the lead only once in the ball game, the point difference was rarely more than one or two baskets.

Piontek Gets 20

The deciding factor in the game, however, was the Musketeers ability off the boards. Dave Piontek, 6-5 center for the Ohians, pulled down 17 rebounds and contributed 20 points to lead the Xavier club to its ninth victory in eleven starts.

For Villanova, Bobby Powers again established himself as high scorer as he picked up 20 points. He was followed by Jack Weissman with 16, and Jim Fahey with 10.

Powers

(Continued from Page 8)

stealing tactics, and his spectacular performance against West Virginia when he did everything but devour the ball.

After graduation, Bobby, a marketing major, would like to be a Marine platoon leader, play professional basketball, and then settle down and raise a few little basketeers.

Quite ambitious plans, you ask? Well, Bobby Powers had ambitious plans the night he played against Hot Rod Hundley, too. . .

Basketball

Printer's deadlines made it impossible for the Villanovan to report upon the results of the Brandeis-Villanova basketball game, played Monday night in the Field House, in this issue of the paper. A recap of the game will appear in a later edition.

Ryan

(Continued from Page 9)

phenomenal foul shooting — Joe hit 52 fouls for the 57 he tried— as well as his 58 field goals gave him a game average of 24 points.

His feelings about the outcome of the twelve remaining games on the frosh schedule Joe sums up by saying "If we play each game as it comes, and play according to our ability, then I think we should go undefeated".

And with Joe's "close-to-perfection" ability, there might be a good chance that the Kittens will go undefeated.

Accident Victim

(Continued from Page 6)

ried to the hospital immediately. Doctors worked on the victim for about an hour and a half, Father McKee estimated.

The vice president said that he visited Panik in the hospital after he left the operating room. The victim recognized him immediately, Father McKee added with a smile.

Panik, a quiet and bespectacled student who lives off campus in Bryn Mawr, and works out often on the Field House mat, began his wrestling training while in high school in his hometown.

THE CAMPUS BARBER SHOP

Letters to the Editor

(Continued from Page 3)

ask you for a date. Of course they are too wonderful to fall in love with anyone but themselves. Another thing — they seem to think pretty girls run around all the time, and don't want to or won't be loyal.

At any rate the girls of local colleges (Rosemont, Bryn Mawr, Chestnut Hill, Harcum) and local high schools (Haverford, Lower Merion, and parochial) as a general rule, are ladies and would like to be treated that way at all times. Why not try treating all girls like ladies until they prove they aren't or are as the case may be? Instead of the other way around. They are not looking for Tyrone Powers or Supermen, but just a nice young man to date. Not to be made a fool of by, or be handed "a line" by, just to have a pleasant time with.

I might add, for any girls who read this paper, it is not wise to "fall for" a Villanovan. (1) They usually (maybe I can safely say always) have a girl back home whom they love. (2) They haven't been parentally influenced and although the school has a fair discipline program, they are wild. (3) They don't seem to think the local college and high school girls are human beings and have hearts.

One request from some local high school girls! Please either be gentlemen, or leave us alone!

Thank you very much for your time.

Sincerely yours,
A Disgruntled High School Senior Girl

Collegiate Whirl

COED AIR FORCE

GREENVILLE, SO. C.—(ACP)—The Furman Hornet also makes note of a new setup at George Washington University. It seems the fairer sex are now being admitted to Air Force ROTC courses. Two reasons are given for the radical departure: First, the college feels that the basic Air Science courses are useful not only for male but also for female students. And second, by organizing a women's AF-ROTC detachment, a girls' unit will be available, not only to march, but to serve as hostesses and ushers as occasion demands.

* * * * * *

A FINAL VERSE

MANHATTAN, KAN.—(ACP)—With finals looming ominously ahead, Ann Weathers sat down and penned a short verse in her "Over the Ivy Line" column in the Kansas State Collegian. It reads:

Tests, tests, everywhere,
With drops and drops of ink;
And never a prof who'll leave the room
And allow a guy to think.

* * * * * *

THE POOR PROF

EMORY UNIVERSITY, GA.—(ACP)—Professors are the butt of a couple of funnies that appeared in the "HUMOR PANEL" column of the Emory Wheel.

Prof: "If I saw a man beating a donkey and stopped him from doing it, what virtue would I be showing?"

Voice in the back: "Brotherly love."

* * * * * *

And then there's the educator who came up with this one: I shall now illustrate what I have on my mind," said the professor as he erased the blackboard.

* * * * * *

ON THE LIGHTER SIDE

ST. PETER, MIN.—(ACP)—Gustavus Adolphus columnist Charles Hendrickson listed these in his Old Mane column in the Gustavian Weekly:

A prosperous looking man driving a baby-blue Cadillac eased his car to a halt at a stop sign. An old Ford rattled up alongside and the driver rolled down his window and yelled to the man in the Cadillac, "Hi stupid, what quiz question did you miss?"

College boy's definite of a male parent is "The Kin you love to touch."

Physics Club To Hear Beiduk

Dr. Felix Beiduk of the physics department will lecture the Physics Club tomorrow on "Elementary Particles." The meeting will be in the Physics Lab at 10:30 a. m., and all are invited to attend, said Charlie Schwerdtfeger, the president. Dr. Beiduk was unable to give his scheduled talk last week due to a severe cold.

At last week's meeting the club viewed a film entitled "Dawn's Early Light" produced by the Westinghouse Company, giving a resume of that organization's work in the development of nuclear physics.

Keane Explains

Phil Keane, editor of the BUSINESS WHIRL, explained that the publication's initial appearance on the campus would be delayed until after the semester vacation. The magazine, which has been at the printer since before Christmas, promises to to be bigger in size and better in material than last year's copy, he added.

FLOWERS
That Bring Back Memories
BOUQUET SHOP
For Exquisite Corsages

College men and women
at all degree levels

Can you qualify for careers in your nation's intelligence service?

Majors in languages, mathematics, engineering are needed; also majors in economics, political science and history, geography, area studies, money and banking, world trade, journalism — with strong minors in language or mathematics.

the intelligence service demands agile, analytical minds; ingenuity and flexibility in starting and pursuing research projects; purposeful, creative curiosity, and a broad interest in and comprehension of world affairs.

Beyond degree requirements

Highest-level starting salaries. All benefits, protections and privileges associated with Federal service.

Applicants must be native-born U.S. citizens of unimpeached loyalty and of character and reputation to match.

Professional advancement is assured by
- Work with experts in their fields,
- Tuition subsidies for study in local universities,
- NSA fellowship plan for full-time study with full salary and tuition paid.

Appointments to permanent National Security Agency positions in the Washington, D. C., area

National Security Agency
Washington 25, D. C.

To qualify, applicants will take the Professional Qualification Test to be given on this campus, Saturday, February 11, 1956.

For further information, see F.R. DWYER or write to Educational Testing Service

20 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey

Entry Deadline: Feb. 4

Villanovan

Vol. 31—No. 11 Villanova University, Villanova, Pa. February 21, 1956

CO-CHAIRMEN OF PROPOSED FINAL SENIOR AFFAIR

Owen Hickey, left, and Bruce Martin have been named co-chairmen for the Class of '56 graduation social, the nature and time of which will be decided after further study.

Class of 1957 Junior Queen Contest Underway; Seniors Plan Second Dinner-Dance

Martin And Hickey Are Co-Chairmen

The University's Senior Class is investigating the possibility of an informal dinner dance as the last class social function.

Hickey, Martin Chairman

Bruce Martin and Owen Hickey have been appointed co-chairmen of the arrangements committee. They are in the process of choosing committees to select an appropriate place and date.

They were appointed by class president Jerry Guerrisi.

The dinner dance probably would differ somewhat from the traditional formal dinner dance, held last month at Palumbo's.

Suggestions Wanted

Martin and Hickey said they would appreciate suggestions about a site where the affair could be held.

The co-chairman are expected to have definite information on the proposed event at a steering committe meeting Thursday at 10:30 a.m.

Class of '56 SC Meets Thursday, 10:30

Steering committee of the Class of 1956 will meet Thursday at 10:30 a.m. in C&F auditorium, class president Jerry Guerrisi announces.

MORTIMER ADLER

Forum to Present Mortimer Adler Thursday Night

Mortimer J. Adler, well known philosopher, author, and educator, will be the guest speaker at the second session of this year's Villanova University Forum Thursday at 8 p.m.

Robert Vogeler, American businessman imprisoned in Communist Hungary in the late forties attracted a record crowd in the opening of the 1956 series December 5. Forums are held in the University's Commerce and Finance Auditorium and are open to the public.

Chairman Charles Bruderle expressed satisfaction at obtaining Adler, a former philosophy and law professor at the University of Chicago. "The Forum has been trying for a

(Continued on Page 11)

Deadline Set April 6; No Judges Yet

It's time for juniors to dust off those portraits of the best girl...the annual Junior Week Queen contest opens today.

The winner will flash her best smile as she reigns over Junior Week—and saves her escort a little money in the process.

Judges of the contest will be announced later, but juniors are urged to submit their entries now.

The contest will close at midnight Friday, April 6 to allow time for judging of the protraits or snapshots— portraits are preferable.

Queen And Court

Besides the queen, a "lady-in-waiting" and four members of the winner's court will be chosen. All judging will be done strictly on a picture basis.

Entries, which will be published in the VILLANOVAN as they are submitted may be deposited in the Dougherty Hall university shop or class president Jack Decker's room (49 Sullivan).

The winner and runner-up will be crowned at the Junior

(Continued on Page 6)

Two to be Chosen:

Eighteen Frosh Council Candidates Vie Thursday

Villanova's largest freshman class goes to the polls for the first time Thursday to elect two Student Council representatives from a field of 18 candidates.

Voting in Alumni Gym will be open from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Matric cards must be presented.

Day Hops

Day hop candidates are: Richard Anthony, Wilfrid Boucher, Frank Fleming, James Gillespie, Thomas Goldschmidt, Matthew Mazza, Charles Roellig, Albert Sheppard and Edward Zeaser.

Residents

Resident candidates are: John Charde, Charles Fritz, Leo Gonsalves, Terence Johnson, Donald Kempf, Raymon Lopez, Victor Ludmerer, Thomas McPherson and Robert Murphy.

All voters will select both a resident and a day hop. No write-in ballots will be allowed, according to Bob Fredericks, chairman of the Student Council

(Continued on Page 7)

April 21:

Dads' Day Group Meets Thursday To Settle Plans

Seven seniors comprising the Fathers' Day committee will meet for the second time Thursday at 5:30 p. m. with chairman Harry Nash to further preparations for the annual event, to be held on Saturday, April 21.

The volunteer commitee, made up of John Eddinger, Jack Gilfillan, Bob Patricoski, Ed Fletcher, Phil Keane, Joe Schultz and Frank DiSantis, met last Wednesday for the first time officially, and drew up a tentative plan for the day's activities.

Thursday the committee will hear a report from coordinator Phil Keane regarding the location and arrangements for the luncheon and banquet to be given for the men of the Class of '56 and their fathers. Keane will present suggestions and plans made by the Rev. John J. Curran, O.S.A., university procurator.

The first meeting last week brought forth these announcements:

1. The speaker for the banquet ending the day's festivities is as yet undecided. Final action in this regard is pending, said Nash.

2. The price that seniors will have to pay for the Fathers' Day ticket will be based on the caliber of speaker procured and the arrangements for the two meals to be served during the day. Last year's price was $8

(Continued on Page 6)

March 8 Through 11:

BM Hones 'Detective Story'

Belle Masque veteran Tom Curran restrains fellow actor Dave Johnson during rehearsal of "Detective Story," to be presented March, 8, 9, 10 and 11, in the Field House.

Barrett, Brockman, Curran, Padova Star In Spring Production

Belle Masque takes over the Field House March 8 through 11 with "Detective Story," a fast moving drama played with intermittent comic relief and involving a bitter detective and his strange surroundings.

With a month of rehearsals behind them, the "Masquers" are beginning to apply the finishing touches with only three weeks remaining before the show.

Grad Asists

Rev. William J. Krupa, O.S.A., the director, is being assisted this year by Tom Hayden, a Villanova graduate of 1953 who held the Belle Masque presidency for two years. Remembered for his success on the Villanova stage he has further shown his ability with the Main Line Players and

(Continued on Page 11)

T 'n T Production

Jr. Gene Donohue To Sing Lead in Barbara of Seville

Junior Gene Donohue, a political science major from the Bronx, New York, will sing the lead role in Turf and Tinsel's 1956 musical comedy presentation, "Barbara of Seville," to be held in the Field House from April 25 through 29.

The show this year is unique in that it contains an entirely secret plot, a plot not to be made known to the public until opening night. The only information released states that it will be a highly unusual Spanish presentation, staged with many gala Spanish-American dances. The rehearsals will all take place behind locked doors, and even the dancing chorus will not know the plot of the show until one week before the actual production.

Gypsy Girl Lead

The female lead will be played by Don Mattingly, junior Arts student who also sang the female lead last year as "Jessica" in "Jessica James." He plays the Gypsy Girl, "Jocinta" who is romantically attached to the "Gypsy Boy," played by Donohue.

Bob Schiller, in his third year with T. and T., will play the "Mother," while Mal Didio, in his

(Continued on Page 12)

Collegiate Whirl

* * *

THE MALE STRIKES BACK

PHILADELPHIA, PA., — (ACP)—Coeds made headlines at Paducah Junior College when ten of them appeared on the campus in blue jeans and shirts. The men objected, so twenty girls paraded in this fashion the next day, the Pennsylvania News reports.

But the males had their revenge. Next day, the entire male student body attended class in skirts and blouses.

* * *

SNAPPY COMEBACK

ABILENE, TEXAS—(ACP)—By way of a chuckle, how about this one from Bill D. Moore's column in the Hardin-Simmons University Brand.

Bill's father was lecturing his son for being lazy. "Why, when Abraham Lincoln was your age, son, he was splitting rails and plowing fields in the daytime and studying by candlelight at night."

"Yes," came the quick reply. "And when he was your age, Dad, he was president of the United States."

* * *

JAPAN — Unmarried, young Japanese men still prefer to marry "gentle and obedient girls," The Asian Student notes.

This was found out in a poll conducted by one of the nation's popular women's magazines. It showed that Japanese youths criticize working women as "unwomanly, brazen-faced, sophisticated and calculating."

The poll also showed that though these young men understand the theory of "equality of the sexes" they still think women should serve men in everyday life.

* * *

STUDENTS ABROAD

(ACP)—A survey by the Institute of International Education in New York reveals that over 9,000 U. S. students studied abroad during 1954-55.

Initial reports set the exact figure at 9,262. The American citizens studied in 47 foreign countries and political areas. The survey was limited to students having both U. S. citizenship and permanent residence in the United States.

Almost 59 per cent of the group was enrolled in European schools. Fifteen per cent were in Mexico and 14.8 per cent in Canada. Four countries reported over 1,000 U. S. citizens in their institutions of higher learning.

Villanovan

Villanova University Villanova, Pa.
Harry C. Nash III
Editor-in-Chief

Tom Smith ..... Managing Editor
Bill Jones ..... Feature Editor
Frank Delany ..... News Editor
Jack Downing,
Bill Brown ..... Copy Editors
Steve Barnacco ..... Business Manager
Bob Ford
Bob Strayton ..... Sports Editors
Sig Holtz
Jos Ezerski ..... Photography Editors
Nick Padano ..... Circulation Mgr.

Faculty Advisor
Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Scholar, Gentleman, Athlete,
LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1920, under the act of March 3, 1879.

MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE PRESS ASSOCIATION

SPRING'S FIRST SIGN

CAMPUS COMMENT

Outlooks of the Editor

New Dayhop Habitat

The new dayhop facilities in Dougherty Hall are, as one non-resident student phrased it, "like Horn and Hardart, only nicer," a feeling that seems to be embraced by all the off-campus students, and rightly so.

Certainly the dayhops, who comprise more than half of the entire University enrollment, have been tolerating some pretty poor facilities for quite some time, the best example being the old Pie Shoppe.

Now they have a new Pie Shoppe, a snack bar, and a full-fledged cafeteria where hot meals are available throughout the day. But the biggest gain would seem to be the hike in dayhop morale, for these men are able to feel much more a part of University life, and are meeting with their colleagues and residents alike under conditions very conducive to good spirits.

Perhaps the new facilities, which seems to hold quite an attraction for the residents also, will be a means toward the end of narrowing the long-lamented social breach existing between two groups of students, both of which have too much in common for such a breach to exist under any circumstances.

It would seem that the dayhops are very appreciative of their new habitat. It goes without saying that they take care of it.

The VILLANOVAN welcomes suggestions on editorial topics from its readers. Ideas and suggestions may be left on the bulletin board in the paper's office on the third floor of Dougherty Hall.

And the editors, heartened by the response to the Letters to the Editors department, welcome any letters. They should be short, concise, signed and must not deal in personalities. Letters may be left in the newspaper's office or given to the editors.

Sunday Parking Problem

The promise of warmer weather on its way brings up the question of St. Thomas of Villanova parishioners parking their automobiles on campus while attending Sunday morning Masses.

Especially during the late Masses on Sunday there have been a great number of parishioners' cars on campus, so many, in fact, that some Mass-goers have parked their autos up on the lawns around some of the buildings near the chapel.

Possibly during the cold and icy weather of the past four months such a situation is justified, in order to avoid the danger of falls for older parishioners who might otherwise have had to walk from off campus. With spring approaching, however, it seems reasonable to ask that these parishioners park their automobiles in the spacious lots across Lancaster Pike and walk the short distance up to the chapel.

Then, not only would the grass around the edges of lawns be allowed to recover, but the elimination of the Sunday morning congestion would make for a much more pleasant campus atmosphere. This is especially true in view of the fact that there are always many visitors driving through Villanova in the Springtime who could better enjoy the beauty of the campus under less crowded conditions.

The fact that the new lounges in Doughery Hall offer students a place of hospitality for parents and guests. These improved facilities of reception will attract more guests than in the past, guests who will leave with a finer impression if they have a place to park and the chance to drive leisurely about the campus without facing the present congestion.

A Word in Favor of All-Male Retreats

Old timers around Villanova—members of the Class of 1956—have watched their alma mater grow from knee breeches to long trousers in their short time here.

They've seen building after building rise, the freshman class enrollment sweep past the 1,000-mark . . . and females, with their knee socks and Austin hideaway, slowly but surely move into Villanova life.

It was uncomfortable enough at first, getting accustomed to dress shirts and ties and jackets. But these inconveniences soon faded away. But there is one thing that most seniors, and most underclassmen, cannot accept—that's coeds taking part in the same spring retreat.

The Student Council's current move to have separate retreats, one for girls and the other for males, is to be commended. About the only regret is that the Council waited this long to request the breakdown.

It may be too late to have the segregated retreats arranged for this year. If so, the matter might still be pushed, because it would benefit the three lower classes and four Villanova generations.

But it would be appropriate, in a way, for the seniors to have an all-male retreat. They could wind up their retreat life at Villanova the same way they started—without girls.

Strictly Opinion

By DON ALTON

Now that the sun-tanned and financially embarrassed Villanovan has returned to the scene of his scholastic conquests of last semester, he can resume the ever-present task of griping. The latest object to come under the critical eye of the discerning scholar is his own student government. The elections are coming up for Student Council representatives for the class of '59, and the usual signs of election spirit are discovered. Those smiling faces and strong hand shakes soon will be in vogue, however, the tired but true veterans of campus strife seem reluctant to become enthused.

"So what if he gets elected? It only looks good in the yearbook." This seems to be the general trend of thought when the discussions turn from the Mickey Mouse Club to more pressing topics. What would cause a lack of interest in one's own Student Council? The situation seems to be something like this: those who come and go feel that they are not in contact with the actions and achievements of Council, and those who stay fail to acknowledge any actions or achievements.

Monday Night Treadmill

Every other Monday night the elected representatives of Villanova's student government meet. They discuss the campus problems in a rational and logical manner which results, as a rule, in intelligent and mature solutions and recommendations. The president of this body then turns to his sources of higher conference, and a cheery and hopeful report is returned to the next Council meeting. And so goes the same question, in Round-Robin Fashion but this does not happen in all cases. Every so often, as in the case of senior weekend privileges, a positive result is forthcoming, but many matters remain at the level of council discussion.

(Continued on Page 3)

Peering . . .

. . . At the SAPA which celebrates George's birthday with its first official function. Bigger and better picnics are promised for one and all. Don't let the weather bother you . . . bring a HARCUM girl.

. . . Into the T House I see crowds of picnic-goers milling about looking for fellow picnic-goers. The History Club claims its members can't study down there anymore, and has moved its discussion of prohibition elsewhere.

. . . At this semester's registration process, which was highlighgted by the appearance of the Amateur X-Ray Association.

. . . At the gaunt seniors laboring through their first Lenten fast. Rice and dried squid once again tops the menu, but if you're 21 you can't even eat as much of it as you want. Ugh! A Papal dispensaions is quietly hoped for.

. . . About the campus early in the second semester, I see many faces still a bit gray from a tough struggle with examinations. Nevertheless, the most popular mark as usual was the gentlemanly "C".

India's Nationalist:

Nehru "Pillar of Strength" In Asia's Power Emergence

by Gene Donohue

With the Middle Eastern situation in the turmoil it is today, one name stands out above all others as a pillar of strength; and that name is Nehru . . . Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru.

Mr. Nehru was born at Allahabad, India, on November 14, 1889. He became the first prime minister of an independent India and Minister for External Affairs in 1947. Son of Pandit Motibal Nehru, former president of the nationalist Swaraj Party, he renounced a career at the bar for politics, joined the non-cooperation movement in 1920 and became an associate of Mohandas K. Gandhi, the organizer of the Indian nationalist movement, where he subsequently played a prominent role in the nationalist, peasant, and labor movements.

International Developments

After 1927 however, Mr. Nehru's interests turned more toward international developments. Influenced by Marxist sympathies, he headed the left wing of the Indian National Congress, advising socialism at home and an anti-imperialist stand in world affairs. While President of the Indian National Congress in 1929, 1936, 1937, and 1946, he was a strong advocate of complete independence for India and it was for this stand that he was imprisoned from 1942 to 1945 by the English. Mr. Nehru stood firmly that unless Indian independence was granted, India would not participate in World War II. He served as the vice-president of the viceroy's executive council of the Indian interim government in 1946 and it was from this position that he became the first prime minister of India.

Statesman and Author

Nehru has not been just a statesman, but is also the author of many books among which are: the autobiographical, "Toward Freedom", "Eighteen Months in India", "Glimpses of World History", "The Discovery of India", and "Independence and After". In all of these works Nehru is the champion not only of Indian, but also of Asian nationalism. It is his belief that the world needs Asia for more than merely a dumping ground for exports, . . . as he stated in an article for the New York Times Magazine, "The emergence of Asia in world affairs will be a powerful influence for world peace."

Strictly Opinion

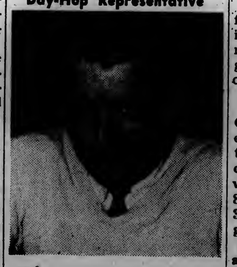
(Continued from Page 2)

In some ways the Council has itself in a corner. We were present the night that the Nurses amendment was put to a vote, after many weeks of deliberation, and the outdated voting regulations concerning half and full votes killed a measure that was generally favored by the majority. Passing an amendment to the constitution is one of the few concrete powers the Council possesses, yet a handful of votes can offset the majority will.

Other Schools—Other Ways

There have been meetings recently of the "Big Five" in Philadelphia college government. The Presidents of Penn, La Salle, Temple, St. Josephs, and Villanova have passed a few general sessions discussing the fates of their various student governments. We must admit that our group is just a bit behind the times in its area of jurisdiction. At Penn, the students on the governing body regulate the $50,000 budget allotted to this group for class functions and other University activities. Other schools have their honor boards, student courts, and various other administrative functions which aid the civic education of the campus leaders.

It would appear to the average student, who ever passes a moment's reflection, that the effect upon policy in our Council is almost nil. However, the group does do a fine job of running elections for the various student offices, it does carry on intelligent debates which air the undergraduate gripes in a mature manner, and they do offer sound remedies for their correction. It would seem that the Council should suspend some of the less important local issues and 1. adjust the voting procedure so that a vote of the majority will carry; 2. discuss and encourage means for effecting some of the excellent ideas originating within the hall of C & F on Monday nights.



The current situation stems essentially from the lack of interest, in the main, in all forms of campus activity. The same faces pop up in Council, spirit meetings, journals, radio and T & T. When this next set of elections arrives in the Spring, show your matric card to more than the checker on the chow line and at the ticket office. This pink or white card entitles you to one important vote in the good or bad government of your class and University. Remember, however, that your responsibility does not stop in the basement of Alumni. It is also up to the individual student to take an active part in the everyday affairs of the many campus activities. The life you improve is your own.

Paid Political Announcement

ELECT

CHUCK ROELLIG

Day-Hop Representative

and . . .

1. Restore Tradition
2. Strengthen Intramurals
3. Boost Spirit

The Reader Speaks:

Letters to the Editor

Prom Enthusiasts

To the Editor:

It behooves us to take pen in hand and congratulate you on the choice selections in your recent journal (January 11, 1956). The coverage of the momentous events of the Senior Weekend was completely appropos of the spectacular occasion.

We were quite taken with the mirth provoking cartoons adorning page one and continuing throughout. The Pictures . . . Excellent! The Prose . . . Superb!

The Prom was wonderful—everything it was inspired to be!

We felt it our duty to inform you of the excellence of "The Villanovan" and to include our letter of congratulations among the many which we are sure you have received.

Wishing you future success with the paper and ever increasing prestige for Villanova, we remain

Sincerely,
Paula A. Cucinotta,
Antonia M. Weisgrau,
Rosemont College

Fan Club Speaks

To the Editor:

In answer to the letter that appeared in the January eighteenth issue of the VILLANOVAN, we would like to present our answer to the letter of the Haverford girls.

As far as conceit goes, everyone has their own share of it. We think that Villanova men are not as conceited as other college men, particularly those of the Ivy League schools. We have always found them to be very friendly and amiable.

We firmly believe Villanova men to be gentlemen. They have always acted as such whenever we have associated with them. We consider ourselves to be ladies and have always been treated that way by V. U. men. Maybe your conduct did not rate such treatment?

From our group, one girl has been going steady for five months and is quite satisfied with the treatment she has received. Quite a few boys from the University have been down to our homes for meals and our parents always found them to be perfect gentlemen, even to the extent of helping clean up after supper.

As far as a girl back home goes, a girl must expect that of a boy away from home. If he is serious about the girl at home, he will not date seriously while at college.

We agree that the boys are wild, but it is mainly because they have very little school-sponsored activities, and as a result, a lot of spare time. Maybe we're lucky, but we haven't had our hearts broken yet. We don't think you will have to worry about the V. U. boys bothering you anymore, not after your derogatory letter.

We hope we haven't hurt your feelings, but we just wanted to voice our opinions in defense of the Villanovans.

Perhaps the reason you are so bitter is because you were jilted?

Sincerely yours,
V. U. FAN CLUB,
UPPER DARBY CHAPTER

Boy Enthusiasts

Dear Sir:

I am another high school girl who has come into contact several times with boys from Villanova, at my home, at parties, and at other places. I find that they are always well-mannered, and they can meet both my parents and my friends in a way that reflects the good training that they have had, both at home, and at school. This is also, in general, the opinion of most of the girls who date Villanova students.

I am writing this letter especially in answer to the letter of the girls from Haverford High School, who find so many unflattering things to say about the boys from Villanova.

It is an accepted fact, that a boy's behavior in front of a girl depends almost entirely upon herself, (her deportment, manners, and speech, etc.) Therefore, if the boys from Villanova act wild and ungentlemanly in a girl's presence, it is quite obviously because they do not respect her.

The letter mentioned Villanova boys being conceited. If they would open their eyes and look around they would find a proportionate number of conceited boys right at "dear old H. H. S.", who have not even a college education to be conceited about.

Here is some advice for the girls who find Villanovans so unsatisfactory. These are five sure fire ways to keep them out of your curls:

1. Keep on acting in a way that no educated boy would respect.
2. Stop letting them "waste" their money on dates, etc.
3. Refuse all invitations to all V. U. proms, dances, etc.
4. Stop attending their games and other school functions.
5. Stop asking them to all the dances and other activities at your school.

If you girls will just follow these simple directions, you are guaranteed not to be "bothered" anymore by Villanova students.

I am confident that my opinion is shared also by 90% of all the girls in Rosemont, Immaculata, Chestnut Hill, and the surrounding parochial and public high schools.

Sincerely yours,
An observer

DPM Pledges Meet Tonight In 201 C & F

"All underclassmen pledging to the Delta Pi Mu Fraternity must attend the indoctrination meeting tonight in 201 C & F", stressed pledgemasters, Dick Brady and Don Couig.

Pledge week will begin Thursday and extend to the next Wednesday.

Besides discussing the details for the upcoming initiation period at the monthly meeting last night, the Reverend Louis Rongione, O.S.A., delivered a talk on "Labor Unionism."

MINNEAPOLIS — (ACP) — Cleveland, Ohio, has been selected as the site for the 1956 national conference of the Associated Collegiate Press on November 8, 9 and 10. Last fall 800 delegates and advisers from 35 states met in Detroit, Michigan.

ACP is an organization of about a thousand college newspapers, yearbooks and of college publications, ACP publishes a news and feature service, a monthly business review, a national poll of student opinion.

Rippled Reflections:

By Bernard L. Bonniwell, Ph.B.

The alerted train pulls evenly from the long thin platform, moving easily into the tissue thin sheen of dawn. The ever sounding rails wind ahead and ahead, from the little town of Paoli to the storied banks of a majestic river; to the boundary of the big state, Missouri; then across the wide unhorizoned land to a farmland where a boy, not so long ago, played and worked, and grew into manhood amid his dreams. Of all his dreams, none did he possess so securely as his faith and love of his fellowman.

The river-brown earth of Missouri now claims it's son. To him it has given birth, sustenance and growth; and now, after twenty-one years of toil in an outland state, the boy-grown-man, is returning home. The journey is long and yet not long, Leo, for it was ever inevitable—the land, as it sires man, so also does it ultimately possess him.

Good friend, Leo, look gently homeward.

Leo F. Brown, Ph.D.
Died, January 21, 1956

Dr. Leo F. Brown, Education Head, Dies Suddenly

Dr. Leo F. Brown, the chairman of Villanova's Department of Education, and a member of that department for the past 21 years, died suddeny January 21.

Dr. Brown began teaching at Villanova in 1935 and during his years here he was honored with membership in both the Kappa Phi Kappa and Phi Delta Kappa national honorary education societies.

Dr. Brown graduated with his B.S. in education from Southeast Missouri State College in 1925 and in 1929 he obtained his M.A. from the University of Missouri. He reached the title of Ph.D. in 1935. He taught in elementary and secondary schools for six years in Missouri, spending four years in this state as a secondary school superintendent. Prior to coming to Villanova, Dr. Brown was an instructor at St. Mary's College in Minnesota.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Nomad Newsman on the Job:

Like Horn and Hardart, 'Only Nicer' Says Day Student of New Cafeteria

by Mike Russo

When everyone returned from the past recess, they found a new and very useful addition to the University. The Administration had opened a new cafeteria for the day-hops, and a snack bar for everyone. Many students immediately took advantage of this modern and picturesque dining hall. Climbing over many feet and disturbing the Mickey Mouse fan club, your Nomad Newsman has managed to get a few opinions of the new atmosphere. Here is what the day-hops had to say about their cafeteria when asked the question, "What do you think of the new cafeteria?"

Gerry Givinish, '59, Arts.

It is really great. It is big enough to seat enough guys and it reminds me of the Horn and Hardart, only it's much nicer. The T. V. is really great. Now you can eat and watch movies at the same time.

Larry Valacio, '59, Arts.

It is very modern, a real good idea, and the prices are very cheap.

Pete Quinn, '56, Arts.

It is a fine reflection on the administration to think enough of the day-hops to install a place nice enough to enjoy your meals. I am sure everyone is very grateful and will really keep the place in fine condition.

Len Myers, 2nd year Law School

It is a beautiful place and it's very good for the morale of the students. It's quite an improvement over the Pie Shoppe.

Joe Jackson, '56, Arts.

It is a great idea and just the thought of eating lunch without someone bidding 23 in spades is enough to satisfy me.

Bob Farley, '56, Arts.

Meals are really great, and the way the lines move, it is a real fine system. The table and chairs are better than most restaurants.

Arlene Dahlbeck, '56, Nursing.

It is very clean and has a quiet atmosphere, and a very enjoyable one. The food selection is really amazing and the prices are very cheap.

(Continued on Page 12)

Dayhops Enjoy New Cafeteria Facilities

Rev. Henry E. Greenlee, O.S.A., Provincial of the Augustinian Eastern Province, caps one of the Nursing Division graduates during capping held two weeks ago.

Professional Roundup:

Law School Dean Outlines Post-Grad Requirements

By Bob O'Connor

Delving into Villanova's graduate division, the School of Law, the VILLANOVAN has interviewed its Dean, Harold Gill Reuschlein, and acquired his views on the qualifications necessary for a student wishing to enter into the study of law. Although proposed mainly for the law student, these qualifications also apply strongly to all men who see graduate work of any kind in their future.

Hard Work

According to Dr. Reuschlein, a student should be able to work hard. One of the most important requirements for success in Law School is that the student's pre-law curriculum be a stiff course. "Such a course," said Dr. Reuschlein, "makes a student study and work hard and at the same time enables him to develop careful study habits. The pre-law student should want a good foundation in history and English. The student should want something exacting. A basic knowledge of accounting would also be very helpful."

In regards to these courses separately, Dr. Reuschlein said, "English literature would enable the students to express themselves both orally and in writing. History is another course that every lawyer needs. It enables him to understand social phenomenon.

Practice Writing

Regarding preparation for law school the dean said, "A student should practice twice a week writing an expository theme. This would enable him to write clear exposition."

The dean recommends, as helpful campus societies, the VILLANOVAN and Beta Gamma Debating Society. In these societies a student can develop his talents for marshalling facts and reasoning logically.

Another campus society which has the most specific interest for the pre-law student is the Pre-Law Club. Although this club is still in the stage of development, it will be very helpful for the interested pre-law student. It is the wish of the Law School to keep in close contact with this club and to offer suggestions such as: seeing the law library, visiting courts in the area and supplying the club with a reading list which contains books which cover subjects to be dealt with in law school. Among this list are such books as: "The Life of John Marshall", "The Just and the Injust" and "Law and the Modern Mind".

Working Together

It is the wish of the Law School to have all the undergraduate pre-law students in this club working together.

Concluding, Dr. Reuschlein said, "Law is a technical curriculum. Students interested in law must have a high motivation. They must want to be a lawyer and realize that they will have to work hard."

Spring Fever in Sight

'A Young Man's Fancy' Set For Turning as Spring Approaches

by Bill Jones

Yes, it is true, the groundhog's immortal shadow was nowhere to be seen on February 2. It is a sure sign, as the old-timers insist, that spring "is just around the corner."

Although the warm rays of the spring sun will not officially adorn Villanova's campus for another month, and old man winter still watches over us, he has already begun his long, northward journey to the hinterlands and warmer weather is upon us.

A Transformation

Soon the campus will undergo its annual transformation. No longer will shivering figures bundled thoroughly in various overcoats, parkas and assorted horse blankets, scurry quickly to and fro, hands pushed deeply into warm pockets. For soon a scene of almost complete conformity will appear among the student body. Students of all sizes, shapes and ages will be attired in the once proud, now conventional, Villanova blazers, and a pair of khakis. Those frost-bitten, winterized students will slow down their hurried pace most noticeably. Spring, once again will work its mystical effect.

Spring Fever

A strange, haphazard air will permeate the atmosphere, arriving simultaneously with the brighter, warmer days. Heretofore punctual students will begin to stroll nonchalantly between classes while the minutes tick very conventionally away. Various instructors will grow more grey hair, while others will be losing it as fast, as day-dreaming students gaze wistfully out classroom windows at the other half of the class who, finding not the energy to attend another lecture, are either engaged in a restful game of softball, or merely caked out on the soft, cool grass. Still others will be busily occupied in renovating Villanova's famous lawns, gouging out huge divots while helfting golf clubs, swinging vigorously at the somewhat elusive little white pellet.

Homework will become a cruel weapon of torture, generously wielded by worried teachers. Many students will refuse to bother with this trivia, and it is hardly a coincidence that these men will never witness another spring from the Villanova campus. As the nights get warmer and more humid and multitudes of throats become drier and more parched, many a student will be seen retiring into the solitude of the Forrest for a cool frothing brew.

On Romance

And, as it is inevitable, the minds and feet of a man will turn quickly to our neighboring female institutions. Once more the commandoes will swarm back to the "T", which will take on the overcrowded appearance of a bar on St. Pattie's Day. The Rosies' "lake" will take on a romantic glitter to couples strolling unconsciously about. Yes, it is spring and spring alone which brings about these flitting romances enhanced by a single word, that explosive four letter boomerang: "love." Emotions, dormant throughout winter's deep freeze, will flow forth with startling, gathering momentum. It appears that even the famous V. U. nurses, considered by many as an impediment to Villanova life, will be more closely

(Continued on Page 12)

A member of Alpha Delta Chi, graduate nurses' sorority, performs for youngsters of St. Edmond Home for Crippled Children during sorority visit there last week.

Pre-Convention Reflections:

Populace Seen Negligent In Observing Political Candidates In Primaries

By JIM GREENLEE

The White House, Washington, D. C., is the perennial center of vital political activities. Here resides the man who is alternately the most criticized, admired and publicized person of his era. This has been the case since the occupation of the first White House by John Adams in 1800, to its present tenant.

Evidently, the Presidency will always be greatly hungered for, as it has been the springboard to fame for more than a few. But of more significance, it is the world's most difficult position, demanding skill, honesty, courage and analytical abilities beyond reproach. It is one which obviously should be filled in only the most selective manner.

Antiquated Conventions

The mode of nomination currently prevalent is still the antiquated convention system. Approximately one third of the states, however, have spring primaries. It is true, that because of varying types of primaries and loose regulations adjoining them, it is not always possible for the voters to obligate their electoral delegates to abide by their choice; yet, a heavy ballot for an candidate in a primary does undoubtedly influence his possibilities in that state.

Unfortunately, the average voter, although inevitably ensnared in the usual speculations in November, exhibits little interest in the pre-convention party nominations. Spring primaries are over and summer conventions climaxed before he even discusses the identities of the candidates. It is then too late.

One Mere Vote

Although the individual may believe that his view on the candidates makes little difference, he will surprisingly find that individual reaction, appraised collectively, registers its toll on the party officials. Many wait until November to voice their dissent with the respective candidates. The deadline for constructive criticism is, by then, in the past.

It might appear that a Presidential primary could provide the necessary stimulant to awaken public interest. However, this has been repudiated by many as being impractical because of the great expense to the candidates. Harry S. Truman has said, "There has been a great deal of talk regarding the need for a Presidential primary, but there is not a man in the country who could afford the expenses of both a primary and a campaign."

Observe More Closely

This leaves us with one alternative . . . observe your candidate more closely before party nominations are awarded.

The recipients of the '56 nominations still remain undecided. Despite a strong bid by Estes Kefauver, and opposition from Averill Harriman, Adlai Stevenson has all but wrapped up the Democratic nomination. However, the office of the Vice-Presidency is still wide open.

Republican politics have been much rougher due to the Eisenhower riddle: should Ike run again? Nixon might prove too great a campaign burden. Governor Goodwin Knight of California, a most heated Nixon rival, appears to be a very likely substitute. If Ike withdraws because of his heart, a spirited battle will ensue for the Republican nomination for the Presidency. In this case, Chief Justice Earl Warren is rated over Nixon, Knight and Knowland in popular appeal, and at present appears to be the leading candidate for the job. In order to retain some of the magic of the Eisenhower name, his brother Milton is reportedly being groomed for the Vice-Presidency, if Ike himself is not on the ticket.

Our Democracy

America is regarded, around the globe, as the most eminent proof of how government by a free people is possible. Our democracy is workable only because of the right of franchise possessed by all of us. If our democracy is to endure, we must use our vote discreetly, which obviously is impossible if we do not even know who is running for office.

University President Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., and Dr. Walter Klein of the School of Commerce and Finance (second from left) confer with Career Conference speakers.

electrical engineers mechanical engineers
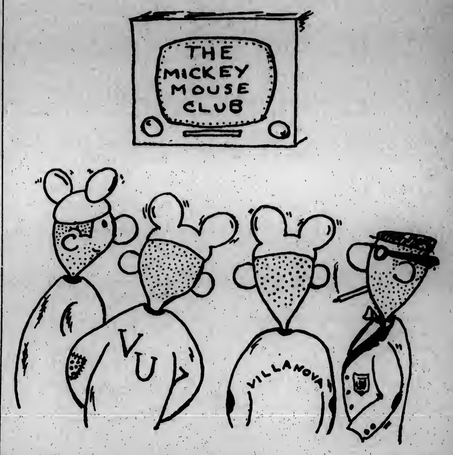
physicists

Let ARMA talk with you about YOUR future in the Dynamic and Challenging Field of Electro-Mechanical Instrumentation



See ARMA when our representative visits your campus shortly. Ask your Placement Officer for details.

Or you may send inquiries to:
Mr. Charles S. Fernow
Administrator of Technical Education

ARMA
Division American Bosch Arma Corp.
Garden City, Long Island, N.Y.

In Pie Shoppe, 5-6 P. M.:

"Mickey Mouse Club" VU's New Campus Organization

By TOM SMITH

A nervous little fellow who first skipped across the nation's movie screens before most Villanovans were born is threatening to overrun Villanova's campus.

He's Mickey Mouse—and he's picking up converts by the dozens each afternoon between five and six o'clock.

Mouse In Dougherty

The commercial-saturated show has been keeping the nation's kiddies occupied for a year or more while Mommy fixes supper, but it wasn't until the TV set was installed in Dougherty Hall's sparkling new Pie Shoppe that Mickey invaded Villanova.

And what an invasion! There's talk that some of the boys are even getting Mouseketeer hats.

"The Enchanted Forest"

It's getting so crowded in the Pie Shoppe that there's no room for standing—and naturally the fountain crew shuts off Coke and ice cream sales while the screen flashes with the mouse's antics..

Mouse or Moussorgsky?

And don't ever try to just sit there and sip a milk shake or nibble a cheeseburger without watching the screen. It's almost impossible, too, to catch the soothing melodies of that classical music being piped around the building. Your head will turn toward the set because you'll want to see what's drawing all the laughs and wisecracks.

Another warning: don't stand up and try to walk through the mass of outstretched legs. The boos and catcalls will plop you down fast enough. Mickey and his Mouseketeers demand attention and respect.

Irreverent Munch

As the hands of the Clock sweep past six the Pie Shoppe is deserted except for a couple of intellectuals who had straggled in, stared with puzzled expressions at the rapt facial expressions of the assembled mob, and then try to munch a grilled cheese sandwich.

They can't understand why the whole assemblage rises to attention as the anthem—like tones ring out: "M-I-C-K-E-Y . . . Mouse . . ."

Accounting Group Hears Speakers

The Accounting Society will have two guest speakers, Mr. R. Scott Tyree, regional audit manager of the United States General Accounting Office, and his associate, Mr. William J. Johnston, for its meeting of March 1 at 10:30 a.m. in room 207 C & F.

Telephone Directory

Alumni Hall:
1st Floor	LA 5-9247
2nd Floor	LA 5-9161
3rd Floor	LA 5-9189
Austin Hall:
2nd Floor	LA 5-9172
2nd Floor	LA 5-9173
3rd Floor	LA 5-9174
Delurey Hall	LA 5-9191
Fedigan Hall:
1st Floor	LA 5-9149
2nd Floor	LA 5-9208
3rd Floor	LA 5-9116
Good Council:
2nd Floor	LA 5-9278
Mendel Hall:
2nd Floor	LA 5-9224
3rd Floor	LA 5-9170
4th Floor	LA 5-9083
O'Dwyer Hall	LA 5-9086
Simpson Hall	LA 5-9257
Sullivan Hall:
Ground	LA 5-9081	LA 5-9331
1st Fl.	LA 5-9288	LA 5-9256
	LA 5-9161
2nd Fl.	LA 5-9304	LA 5-9366
	LA 5-9241	LA 5-9195
3rd Fl.	LA 5-9047	LA 5-9050
	LA 5-9303	LA 5-9348

Junior Andy Panik, Recovered From Accident, Returns to School

Andrew Panik, junior Arts student who was injured in a freak accident on Lancaster Pike last month, has returned to school.

He was taking his first semester final examinations last week after resting over the semester vacation. He was confined to Bryn Mawr Hospital for 17 days after the accident Jan. 11.

Panik said he still felt some pain when he walks. This was caused by the injury to his back muscles, he explained.

The 20-year-old student from Bethlehem, Pa., said he thought he may have started exercising too soon after being released, but that his nurses seemed anxious to have him moving around.

At the time of the accident doctors credited Panik's wrestling activities with preventing a more serious injury, because his body had been built up. But Panik doesn't think he'll be able to return to the Field House mat, where he works out, for at least another nine months.

Nurses' Seating Request Again Rejected:

Council May Consider New Room Plan; Students Lauded for Palestra Conduct

Expulsion Penalty For Misbehavior

Villanova students have been complimented on their behavior at the Palestra and have been warned that any student causing trouble during doubleheaders will be expelled from the university.

The warning came during the February 13 Student Council meeting as chairman Dick Peer reported on a meeting with the Reverend Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., Dean of Men, and Athletic Director Bud Dudley.

Peer reported that he was told that Villanova students have behaved like gentlemen so far this season.

Nurses Again Rejected

At the same meeting the Council voted down the nurse's request for representation for the fourth time. The vote was 19½—12½.

The nurses had modified their former proposal. This time they asked for two representatives—one for graduate nurses and the other for basic students. Previously, they had requested three Council seats.

In other matters, the Council:

1. Heard that a guidance department will be established for university students, and that the resident dining hall hours will be extended next year.

2. Learned that no signs may be carried into future Palestra doubleheaders. This rule was put into effect by athletic authorities of the "Big Five" schools after several noisy demonstrations by other schools in city competition. Villanova was not involved. The rule was announced to Peer at his meeting with Father McKee and Dudley.

3. Was told that mailboxes would have to be set up by the Post Office Department. The Council had suggested that boxes be established on the campus.

READ

THE VILLANOVAN

WVIL Schedule

7:30-8:30—Yawn Patrol
8:30 a.m.-6:00 p.m.—Continuous Music
6:00-6:30—Record Rendezvous & Rock and Roll
6:30-7:00—Jazz Before Seven
7:00-7:30—Visiting Girl D. J.'s
7:30-8:00—Show Tunes; Night Train
8:00-8:15—Lucky Strike News Show
8:15-8:30—Memory Lane
8:30-9:00—I Doubt It
Special Production (to be announced)
10:00-10:15—Lucky Strike Sport Show
10:15-10:45—Concert Work Shop
10:45-11:00—Old Gold Show — Jill Corey
11:00—Sign-Off

Deadline Set

(Continued from Page 1)

Prom May 4. The queen, if from out of town, will receive free hotel accomodations.

The winning group will be announced in the Junior Week edition of the VILLANOVAN.

Rules Listed

Contest rules:

1. All members of the Junior Class are eligible to submit one picture.

2. Pictures preferably at least 5"x7" must be submitted by April 6. Early entries will be eligible for publication in the VILLANOVAN prior to Junior Week.

3. Judging will be done by pictures alone and all pictures will be returned, according to contest chairman Joe Redmond.

4. All pictures must be accompanied by the following information—on a separate piece of paper attached firmly to the picture or written on the back of the picture: girl's name, address, age, height, weight, color of eyes, color of hair, present occupation, schools attended; and junior's name, campus or home address (if a day hop), telephone number and school in the university (Arts, C & F, Engineering).

Father McKee To Submit Student Idea

A new plan for reserving campus rooms may be considered by the Student Council at its regular meeting Monday night.

The Rev. Edward B. McKee, university vice-president, said that he had received the suggestion from a student and would pass the plan on to the Council.

Several difficulties still have to be worked out in the plan, according to Father McKee. He said he considered the plan workable.

This was the only suggestion that had been made to Father McKee as of Thursday.

Room reservations will be made March 19 through 21, with members of the Class of 1957 signing up the first day, juniors-to-be the second and sophomores-to-be the third.

Draws for Rooms

The plans to be considered by Council would involve a draw in each class, to be conducted by class officers and supervised by the Student Council. Students would stand in line in the order in which their number came up.

Father McKee said that action would have to be taken on the plan immediately so that it could be set up, since some work would be completed before the drawing could be made.

Council will meet in 206 C & F at 7:15 p.m.

Computers Theme Of EE Meeting And Field Trip

Electronic computers occupied the interests of V.U.'s electrical engineers last week as the theme of the monthly meeting and field trip of the A.I.E.E.-I.R.E.

Mr. Howard E. Thompkins of Burroughs Research Center, Paoli, Pa., addressed the group last Wednesday evening on "New Components for Digital Computers." Enthusiastically received by his audience, Mr. Thompkins provided numerous demonstrations of actual circuits.

The following day 30 members of the branch toured the UNIVAC installation of Remington Rand in Philadelphia. UNIVAC is one of the largest of the "giant brain" computers. A luncheon was provided for the officers of the branch before the tour.

At the Wednesday night meeting Chairman Jack Downing announced that nominations for the next year's student branch officers would be held next Monday, Feb. 27, at 11:30 a.m. in Room 18 Mendel.

Don McComb, Villanova's 1955 football team captain and one of the East's outstanding ends, signed a contract to play professional football with the New York Giants. McComb, a Senior in the C & F School, is from Camden, N. J. He signed two weeks ago.

Bob Ford's Group:

VU Singers' Schedule Announced

Jack Janucci, business manager of the Villanova Singers, has announced a complete schedule of concerts for the next three months.

In February the group will sing at the meeting of the South Jersey Alumni Club. During the month of March, they will sing at the following girl's schools: Immaculata, March 1; Chestnut Hill, March 11; Rosemont on March 21, and Notre Dame Academy on March 25.

The Choral Festival, a concert given by seven college glee clubs from the Philadelphia area at the Villanova Field House, is the main attraction on the schedule and will be held April 14. This type of festival is held only in one other section in the country, and that is at the Big Ten schools.

Sing Mothers' Mass

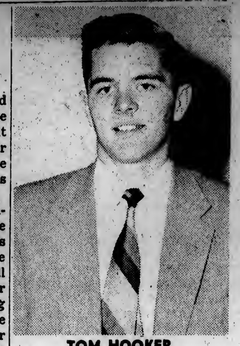
On Mother's Day, April 30, the Singers will sing the Mass for the Mothers as they did last year.

At the regular weekly meeting last Thursday, nominations were held for the offices to be held next year. Bob Ford, president of the Singers, announced that the nominees names would not be announced until they had been declared eligible by the administration.

Concerning the festival, co-publicity chairmen Jim Heffernan and Jack Padova announced that a meeting of the publicity chairmen of the participating colleges will be held the first week in March.

Dads' Day

(Continued from Page 1)



per senior.

3. Both the luncheon and banquet will in all likelihood be served in Dougherty Hall, but the question remains whether the resident dining hall or the full-length dayhop facilities would be most feasible.

4. Several means of entertainment will be arranged in the afternoon for the visiting Dads and the seniors. There will be a full-dress varsity football scrimmage in preparation for Blue-White Day the succeeding week, and this event will serve as sports entertainment. Neither the baseball team nor the track team will be at home tht Saturday, and Athletic Director Ambrose Dudley has stated that contract commitments away on April 21 eliminate the possibility of any schedule shift to Villanova on that day.

5. Entertainment sub-chairmen Eddinger and Gilfillan are investigating the possibility of other entertainment involving the Concert Band, Turf and Tinsel, the Villanova Singers, the later group probably performing at the banquet in the evening. An outdoor Mass in the morning is also being looked into, perhaps with the Singers participating if possible.

These questions will be settled Thursday when the committee meets for the second time. Fletcher will handle Mass and program arrangements; Schultz and DiSantis banquet preparations and Patricoski luncheon plans.

TOM HOOKER
Junior Week Dinner-Dance Chairman

(See Story Page 8)

Entertainment For Shamokinaki

Geoge Sinnott, chairman of this year's Shamokinaki Dance, has signed a local musician, Norrie Elwell and his orchestra, to play at the fourth annual charity affair on March 2.

Aid Missions

From 9 to 1, the dance-goers will socialize and aid a worthy cause by contributing to the Augustianian Missions at Nagasaki, under the direction of Reverend Thomas Purcel, O.S.A., a former Villanovan professor.

The Field House will be decked in the traditional Oriental setting. Admission is $1.25.

"Coke does something for you, doesn't it."

You feel so new and fresh and good—all over—when you pause for Coca-Cola. It's sparkling with quick refreshment . . . and it's so pure and wholesome—naturally friendly to your figure. Let it do things—good things—for you.

DRINK Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY THE (BLANKFIELD) COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1956, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Stimulation of Interest:

ENGINEER to Compete In "Arc Welding Contest"

The VILLANOVA ENGINEER plans to enter the "A. F. Davis Arc Welding Contest" this Spring, according to newly-appointed editor-in-chief Jack Essig.

The purpose of the contest is the stimulation of interest in the welding process among college students through the preparation and publication of various articles on that subject. All Villanova undergraduates are eligible for competition; the first prize is $200 for the winning author and $200 for the ENGINEER. The second prize is $150 for the second place author and the ENGINEER. The magazine will submit one article which will be chosen by three members of the faculty. All entries must be submitted to the ENGINEER by April 5.

Essig has expressed his hopes that "any Villanova undergraduate capable of doing technical writing" can benefit from entering the contest.

The Villanova library, according to Essig, has a wea'th of material on the subject donated by welding foundations.

Any students interested in entering the contest should contact Essig in Room 325, Sullivan Hall.

Elections

(Continued from Page 1)

elections committee, which supervises the balloting.

Winning candidates will take their seats on the Student Council at next Monday night's meeting in 206 C & F at 7:15 p.m. They will serve until the end of their sophomore year.

Fredericks reminded candidates that Public Address Equipment may be used only on election day and then only during ten-minute breaks between classes.

See Sgt. Waryha for Details:

P.L.C.'s Starts Flying Program

SERGEANT WARYHA

A new flying program for college undergraduates was announced today by the Marine Corps.

To be known as the Platoon Leaders Class (Aviation), its major features will be that members will belong to it at the same time they attend college and are guaranteed flight training as officers immediately upon graduation from college. No Marine Corps training takes place during the college year, however.

Basic at Quantico

College-time training will consist of six-week indoctrination sessions during two summer vacations from school. These will be held at the site of most Marine officer training, the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va.

Graduates Receive Commissions

Upon completion of the training and coincident with graduation from college, members will be commissioned as second lieutenants in the Marine Corps Reserve. At this time they will be designated student aviators and immediately begin the 15 to 18 month Flight School at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Florida.

This will be the first major change in the Platoon Leaders Class since its inception in 1934. The Platoon Leaders Class has been the largest source of Marine Officers since that time. About 80% of the officers commisioned from colleges each year are graduates of the program.

Train With Infantry

The new course will incorporate the methods of the Infantry Platoon Leaders Class. Members of both programs will attend the same preliminary training at Quantico; aviation candidates will undergo indoctrination flights and receive the special mental and physical examination.

Although graduates of the Infantry PLC are required to attend the Officer's Basic course upon graduation from college, this requirement will be waived for aviation graduates. They will go directly to flight training.

No Chairborne Allowed

Upon completion of flight training, assignment will be as a pilot in one of the three Marine aircraft wings or other aviation units, flying jets, helicopters, or other type planes. All training and assignments will be for flying. No non-flying applications will be accepted for this program.

Unlimited Quotas

Unlimited quotas have been set. Applicants must be college undergraduates majoring in fields other than art, music, theology and medical and dental subjects. They must be of good moral character, of commissioned officer caliber, and physically and mentally qualified for aviation duty. Candidates must be at least 17 years of age. They must be less than 26 on July 1 of the year in which they will graduate from college. There are no restricitions concerning marriage.

Information may be obtained from the Marine Corps office in Commodore John Barry Hall.

The Activities Circuit:

Campus News

DPE Publication Sets Precedent

Delta Pi Epsilon will set a precedent for student fraternities this week with an exclusive initial literary publication. The first edition will be distributed by Thursday to all resident students while dayhops will receive theirs through the mail.

Further publications are tentatively scheduled to be monthly.

Student Engineers Observe Exhibit

This week is National Engineers' Week, and the Villanova chapter of student engineers will observe the occasion by exhibiting in the library displays from each of the departments.

The exhibit, one of thousands throughout the country, is designed to illustrate the contributions and public service and technology made by the professional engineer.

ASChE Students Hear Expert

Mr. Crossett of the Portland Cement Association lectured and exhibited slides on "Pre-Tensioning and Post-Tensioning of Pre-Stressed Concrete Members" at a meeting of the American Society of Chemical Engineering last night.

Schiller Lauds Concert Band

"The Concert Band is really shaping up well and there is a definite improvement over last year," remarked Bobby Schiller, conductor, after recent performances at St. Joseph's Orphanage and Misericordia Hospital.

Eight more concerts remain, as well as a return engagement in Reading, prior to the Band's Dinner Dance this spring.

New GOP Club Meets Thursday

The newly-formed Villanova Republican Club will hold its initial meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in room 201 Commerce and Finance. All undergraduates are invited to attend. Organizer Ted Macri said that "It is especially evident in this election year that political affiliation on the collegiate level would be an invaluable aid to the Villanova man."

Sympathy

The staff of the VILLANOVAN expresses its sympathy to Thomas McGillicudy, a sophomore in the Commerce and Finance School, on the death of his grandfather, Cornelius McGillicuddy—better known as Connie Mack.

JUNIOR WEEK NEWS

Mother's Day Reservations Deadline Friday; Dinner Dance Plans Settled

Ben Franklin Hotel Site Of Affair

With most of the major arrangements completed for the the Junior dinner dance, chairman Tom Hooker has explained why the affair is being held at a hotel and not in a night club.

Hooker said that the signing of the Benjamin Franklin Hotel for the May 5 affair was "one of choice as well as necessity."

In former years, the dinner dance had been held in nearby hotels, since it is a formal affair. Palumbo's was originally signed by the Class of 1956 when a suitable hotel could not be located.

Moderator's Support

Class moderator, the Rev. Dante Girolami, O.S.A., has indicated his support and approval of the Junior Class steering committee's decision to return the dinner dance to its former status.

Palumbo's reportedly can handle a maximum of 450 couples, but the class has about 630 members, according to Hooker. He said the Ben Franklin can accomodate the class without overcrowding.

The chairman emphasized that he would not be responsible for refusing dinner dance tickets and barring any class members because of limited space.

Distribution of tickets and signing of a band are the only major details to be completed. Some 500 tickets, at $10 per couple, will be distributed during the next few weeks. The policy of table reservations in effect in past years will be continued, said Hooker.

Band Idea Sought

Several bands are under consideration, but Hooker said sug-

(Continued on Page 11)

See These Men For Tickets

These are the men behind ticket sales and planning for Mother's Day, the event officially kicking off Junior Week. Seated (left to right) are Fred Costello, Jack O'Rourke, chairman; Pat Gallagher; standing, Tom Scanlon. Jerry Lee, Jack Dunne, Mike Ford and Ed Schele.

Library Notes

Recent additions to the Villanova Library include an anonymous donation of a collection of holographs, autographs, the first and limited editions, and fifteen new books.

The donation consists of two editions of "Verses on Various Occasions" with holographs and an unpublished poem by Cardinal Newman, leader of the Oxford movement, works of William Samual Lilly and Wilfred Meynell, biographers of the Cardinal, and an autographed limited edition of G. K. Chesterson brief "Ubi Ecclesia."

The fifteen new books cover a variety of subjects.

They are, listed by authors:

Aspley, John C. Handbook of employee relations.

Balanchine, George. Complete stories of the great ballets.

Broso, Irwin D. Design for decision.

Coles, S. F. A. Franco of Spain.

Doneghy, Dagmar. The border.

Dunn, Joan. Retreat from learning.

Ireson, W. G. and Grant, E. eds. Handbook of industrial engineering and management.

Johnson, Thomas H. Emily Krutch, Joseph W. "Modernism" in modern drama.

Meynell, Viola. Francis Thompson and Wilfrid Meynell.

Wallich, Henry C. Mainsprings of the Geran revival.

Wright, Quincy. Study of international relations.

The library staff particularly recommends the books listed below which were reviewed in the New York Times Book Review, January 1, 1956.

Maranon Grerorio. Antonio Perez.

Murry, John M. Jonathan Swift.

Woodress, James. Booth Tarkington.

An anonymous donor has presented to the Villanova University Library a collection of holographs, autographs, first edition s and limited editions. Most of these concern Cardinal Newman the saintly and revered leader of the Oxford movement. Included is a first edition of the ("Verses on Various Occasions"). This has on the endpaper short holographs of Cardinal Newman, and of Father Faber dated 1839. Another edition of "Verses on Various Occasions" has an unpublished poem written and signed by the Cardinal, and dated September 27, 1880.

NFCCS Variety Show Scheduled At Immaculata

Second annual N.F.C.C.S. variety show will be held at Immaculata College Field House on Sunday evening, March 11. Curtain time will be at 8 p.m.

The show will feature 15 acts which have been selected from the schools affiliated with the N.F.C.C.S. in the Philadelphia area. Heading the show this year will be Bob Schiller and his "Villanovans". They will play for all the acts and will also present a little Dixie Land jam session. Sharing the spotlight with the "Villanovans" will be Immaculata's Murphy sisters, Phillis and Willa.

A special feature of this year's show will be a guest appearance by Bob Lawrence of the W.I.P. radio station in Philadelphia. Lawrence is known for his nightly show, "On the Town." On this show Lawrence interviews the various celebrites who are performing at Philadelphia nightspots, and also reviews the stage.

Joining Schiller and his "Villanovans," from Villanova will be Tom Foley, Don Mattingly, Ed Shea, Jack Padova, Charlie Brockman, Nick Rinaldi and Adam Santomeri.

Villanova's Freshman Swimming team defeated the University of Pennsylvania freshmen team last Saturday.

Larry Palacio, Lou Pinto, Paul Rumberger, Ken MacGillivray, and Tom Lynch paced the frosh swimmers to the victory, the first ever recorded by a Villanova fros hteam against Penn's yearlings.

Opera-Classica To Present "Turandot," 7:30

"Turandot," an opera by Puccini, based on the legend of three riddles which the protagonist must solve in order to save his life, will be featured by the Opera-Classica Club tonight at 7:30 in 208 C & F.

Written in the early twenties, the opera premiered at La Scala, Milan, in 1926 under the direction of Toscanini and has come to be recognized as Puccini's masterpiece.

Distinguished Cast

Tonight's recording features a distinguished cast: Inge Borkh, Renata Tebaldi, and Mario Del Monaco, and students attending this evening's opera will be required to follow a libretto in order to understand the opera in its entirety.

Mr. Angeline, Opera-Classica moderator, is now taking orders, to prevent last-minute disappointments, for the Metropolitan's production of Donizetti's comic opera, "Don Pasquale," to be given in Philadelphia on March 27 at 8 p.m.

Prices of tickets are $2.50, $3.00, and $4.50.

Price Set At $10; See Committees

Reservations for tickets to Mothers' Day—the event which officially opens Junior Week April 30—must be made by Friday.

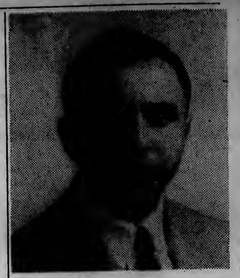
Tickets, priced at $10, must be purchased by March 23, according to chairman Jack O'Rourke.

Purpose of the reservations is to facilitate arrangements that must be made to accommodate those planning to attend.

Juniors were reminded that it is important that they give the name and address of their guest when registering, because admission is by ticket only.

If a junior's mother is not able to attend, he may escort a female relative or friend. However, the guest may not be a girl friend.

Schedule



Here is the Mother's Day schedule:

11 a.m.—Mass
noon—Luncheon
2:30 p.m.—Band concert, varsity baseball game
4 p.m.—Diaper Dan contest
5 p.m.—Benediction
6 p.m.—Banquet

Reservations may be made with these juniors in their sections: Ralph George, pre-med; Ed Tomesko and Joe Clark, chemistry and physics; John Kiely Lou Padula, Mike Hickey, Jerry Longworth and Jack Patrick, C & F.

Jerry Lee, Mike Ford, Ray Englar, Fred Busse and Bob Lima, arts; John Brown and John Hooper, education and math; Harry Fatkin, Dave Collins and Fred Costello, engineering.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

MR. LYON
Joins IA Department

Economist Joins IA Department

With the opening of the spring semester, Dr. Robert Lyon—formerly of the University of Baltimore—became a member of Villanova's Industrial Administration Department.

Dr. Lyon received his B.A. in economics and education from the City College of New York, where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa membership. Along with an M.A. in economics from New York University, he holds an M.A. in psychology from George Washington University. His Ph.D. with full majors in both economics and psychology was earned at the American University. The latter two degrees were awarded to Dr. Lyon while he was attached to the Federal Civil Service.

Dr. Lyon has over ten years of governmental service as an economist or social scientist in both research and operational areas. The various governmental agencies with which he has been associated include: the Federal Power Commission, the Office of Business Economics of the Department of Commerce, the Division of Research and Statistics of the Treasury Department, the Foreign Funds Control Division of the Treasury Department, and domestic and international divisions of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

In addition to helping in the teaching of the elementary course in economics, Dr. Lyon is the instructor of Personnel Relations.

For Dinner . . . or a Weekend Vacation
Cherry Hill Inn
HADDONFIELD, N. J.

get acquainted with . . .
The Villanova Pharmacy
(ON LANCASTER AVENUE, AT THE WEST END OF THE CAMPUS)
For ALL your Drug Store needs,
P L U S
STATIONERY
PHOTO SUPPLIES
SMOKER'S ARTICLES
CLOCKS, GIFTS
GREETING CARDS
SCHOOL SUPPLIES
SODA FOUNTAIN
Finest PRESCRIPTION Service

Post-Season Tournament Hopes Crushed As Seton Hall Rips Wildcats, 80-63

National Invitation bound Seton Hall played the part of a spoiler last Saturday night and cut short any hopes Villanova's Wildcats might have been entertaining regarding a post-season tournament bid.

Chalking up their 18th victory as against only three defeats, the South Orange, New Jersey quintet rolled to an 80-63 victory over the Wildcats. This loss, the second in a row for the embattled Wildcats since their City Series win over Penn two weeks ago, gave them a mediocre 11-9 record.

Much of the credit for the Seton Hall victory must go to All-American candidate Dick Gaines. Gaines, a six-foot Junior, dumped in 32 points and pulled down 17 rebounds. Twenty of his points came in the closely-contested first half, during which the score was tied six times, and the lead changed hands 14 times.

Setonia Led At Half

Gaines six points in a row, two field goals and two free tosses, in the closing minutes of the first half, gave Setonia a 42-41 edge at intermission.

Villanova's cause was hurt early in the first half when starter Jack Kelly picked up three quick personal fouls, and had to be removed from action. Kelly was replaced by senior John Cirino, who, after a month of a half of inactivity because of a foot injury, was unable to play his usual style of ball. Cirino tried the foot for six minutes, but it was evident that the injury still bothered him, so he was replaced by sophomore Tom Brennan.

Both teams started the same team in the second half as they had in the first, but after three minutes, Kelly got foul number four, and had to be replaced.

Smith Hits Two

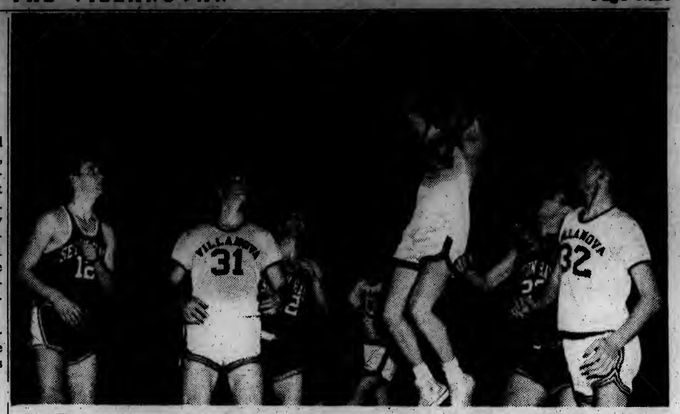
At the time, the score was a close 45-44, with Villanova ahead. Immediately after Kelly went out, Jim Smith hit for two of his 16 points of the night, and the Wildcats went ahead by 3.

With 15 minutes left to play, Seton Hall renewed its attack, and paced by Ed Petries's back-to-back field goals, Setonia grabbed a quick one point lead. From there, the Jerseyites rolled up a 10 point margin, 57-47, which spelled the end for Villanova. Only once from that point on did Villanova make a bid. With 8.40 remaining, a Bobby Powers-inspired five ran to within two of tying the Pirates at 61 and 61, but the baffling defense of the vistors was too everwhelming, and the Wildcats were finished for the evening.

In other contests played during the holiday interim, the Wildcats turned in five victories with only one setback.

Lost To Spiders

On February 11, Villanova went down to Dixie to play Richmond, and came out of the game on the wrong side of a 103-73 count. The well-rounded Spider offense ran away with the contest, while the Southerners defense proved impenetrable to the Villanova team. Again it was the problem of lack of height on Villanova's squad, as the Richmond quintet completely dominated the boards. When, early in the second half, Kelly, Powers and Jim Smith fouled out, the Richmond team won handily.



Villanova's first City Series victory came in a Palestra contest against Penn on February 8. Marty Milligan's 21 point effort proved inspirational for Villanova and disastrous for the Quakers, as the Wildcats won by an 89-74 mark. The game was close fought until the final five minutes, when the surging Wildcat offense blew the contest wide open.

Double Overtime Against Rams

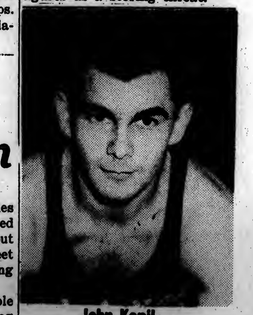
It was Milligan again who proved the key to victory when Villanova faced Fordham in a double-overtime on February 4. Marty's 17 markers gave the Wildcats a 61-57 edge over the Rams, but not before Bobby Powers two-pointer in the second overtime put Villanova in front to stay.

Other victories came against Delaware and Washington and Lee during the semester holidays. Jack Weissman tallied 21 points in the former game to provide an 88-62 margin of victory for Villanova over the Blue

(Continued on Page 10)

Team captain Jimmy Smith goes high in the air to pop a two-pointer through the hoop during the Seton Hall-Villanova game played at the Palestra last Saturday night. Despite Smith's 16 point effort, Villanova lost to the Pirates, 80-63.

Wildcats Seek Revenge Against Canisius Tonight



Tonight the Villanova Wildcats travel to Buffalo, New York to take up a rivalry, which in the short space of one season, has become one of the hottest in recent years. The 'Cats meet Canisius in Buffalo's War Memorial Auditorium.

The Griffins were one of the few teams to knock off Villanova twice last year. Still more important than is the fact that one of their wins was the game which ended the Wildcats chances in last season's N.C.A.A. tournament. Villanova, fresh from a hotly contested win over Duke, came back to the Palestra only to finish on the short end of a 73-71 score, and it was Canisius who went to the next round in place of Villanova.

The Golden Griffin five who will take the court tonight will be the same ones who faced Villanova last year. They will be lead again by their little man, Johnny McCarthy. Small as he may be McCarthy was the "straw that broke the Wildcats back" last season.

Nowak To Cover Boards

Along with McCarthy, another of last years starters, Hank Nowak, will be back to give Villanova more trouble than they'd care for. To Nowak will fall the brunt of the rebounding chores and along with this he figures as a scoring threat.

John Kepil
Places 3rd in AAU Mile

Two Local To Play

Joe Leone, another big man, will help Nowak considerably off the boards. Along with the above three, the Griffins sport on their roster two local boys, Fran Cochrane and Bob Kelly, both of whom got their high school basketball in at West Catholic, are likely to see action against Villanova tonight.

Nat'l Catholic Scholastic Meet Here Tomorrow

Competing for National Catholic Interscholastic titles, swimming stars representing eight states will gather at Villanova University tomorrow.

The Championships, a day long affair, will open with diving event in the morning and conclude with swimming events after lunch.

Leading entries in the competition include Loyola Academy of Chicago, Illinois; Brookyln Prep and St. Francis Prep, Brooklyn; St. Johns High School, Worcester, Mass; Mt. St. Joseph of Baltimore; and Central Catholic High School of Pittsburgh, Penna., which has entered a full team for the first time.

St. Joe's Prep To Defend

Last year's National Champion ST. Joseph's Prep of Philadelphia is prepared to defend its title. Also competing are all the members of the Philadelphia Catholic league.

A top contender for a berth on the U. S. Olympic team this year, Tom McKinney of Cathedral High School, Indianapolis, Indiana, is the outstanding individual to enter the 1956 meet. He is the National backstroke champion.

This will be the third consecutive year that Villanova is the host for these championships. Previous to World War II, Villanova was the host annually.

MARTY MILLIGAN
Wildcat Sparkplug

Jenkins Sets World Mark As Track Team Dominates Indoor Competition

Villanova University's track team continued to dominate the indoor season during the past four week. Following their tremendous showing in the early season meets, the fortunes of the thinly-clad Villanovans have demonstrated the strength and ability which they possess.

Competing in the Boston A. A., Millrose, New York A. C., and National A. A. U. meets in that order, the Wildcats provided some record breaking performances.

Ronnie Delany, unbeaten sophomore miler, turned in a 4: 06.3 clocking in his specialty, beating the celebrated Wes Santee in Boston, Jan. 28. Running a 57 second last quarter, Delany made up a 30 yard deficit in the last 440 yards to win over Len Truex.

Delany Wins Four Easily

The barring of Santee from competition until his amatuer status is determined left Ronnie no serious opposition and he won the Wanamaker, Baxter, and A. A. U. miles with ease. Running only fast enough to win, he has incurred the wrath of some sportswriters and fans who feel that he should be attempting to break the record.

Sharing the national limelight is the fabulous Charlie Jenkins, who won the 500 or 600 five successive times before suffering a setback last week. The outstanding achievement of his efforts in his 56.4 world record time for 500 turned in while winning the Boermeyer 500 in the New York A. C. meet two weeks ago. Previous to this he ran a 1: 09.9 600 in Boston, which is the third fastest indoor time in history for that distance. Bumped on the first turn in the Nationals last week by Mal Whitfield, Jenkins lost stride and almost fell. He failed to regain in time to place.

Sydnor Equals World Mark

Another surprise of the indoor season is the showing of little George Sydnor. In two of these aforementioned meets Sydnor won the 50 yard dash beating Duke's heralded Dave Sime. In the Millrose games George equalled the world record of 6.1 seconds in a qualifying heat but was nosed out by Sime in the finals.

A high jump of 6 feet 9 inches turned in by Phil Reavis tied Ernie Shelton in Boston, but since then he has jumped 6 feet 6 inches three times, only tying for third each time.

Last Saturday Don Bragg pole vaulted 15 feet 1 inch enabling him to tie Rev. Bob Richards and helping Villanova gain 22½ points to come in second in the team competition.

Not to be forgotten are the fine efforts of the Varsity mile relay team which turned in a splendid performance in the A. A. U's. Competing in the sprint medley, the Wildcat foursome of Jenkins, Sydnor, Gene Maliff, and Al Peterson won in a time of 1:52.9.

SPORTS CHATTER

Conduct and Anti-Villanova League

By BOB STRAYTON

Sections NA to NE, from seats in row one, number one to row 18, number 21, in the vast Palestra are usually reserved for the cheering section of Villanova. Sometimes there isn't too much for the Villanova fans to cheer about; other times there is. On many occasions, the Palestra isn't as filled as it might be; then again there are nights when the place just won't hold another soul.

The present season, particularly for the Villanova fans, hasn't afforded very much to cheer about. The Wildcats dropped two important intra-city games in the City Series race, lost several big games, and, just last Saturday night, seem to have sealed their fate concerning a chance for a post-season tournament bid by losing to a strong Seton Hall quintet.

Oh, That Poor Engineer

On the other hand, the individual performances of Jimmy Smith, or Bobby Powers, or Marty Milligan, or any member of the team, for that matter, have rightly caused Villanova fans to give out with raucous—if not frenzied—bellows. There have been times when the engineer who figured out the stress and strain of the Palestra girders must have shuddered in his grave from the noisy enthusiasm displayed by occupants of sections NA to NE, row one, number one to row 18, number 21.

When Penn—Fordham, St. Francis, Niagara, or West Virginia—fell before the Wildcats, the jubilation was as intense as it should have been. The fans yelled equally as hard when Hot Rod Hundley's cheeks burned red with embarassment as Bobby Powers enhanced the footlights in his place; Marty Milligan's Schafer-in-slow-motion set shot could also incite bedlam, as it has of late; Jimmy Smith to Jack Weissman on a cleverly executed give-and-go raised the temperature of the squat gymnasium about five degrees; even a three-on-one fast break, a common enough occurence in basketball, engendered the verbal approval of Villanova partisans.

But amidst the clamor and excitement of Palestra action, the fans of sections NA to NE, sitting in the previously mentioned rows and seats, earned an A in conduct, and a gold star to boot. Certainly they yelled, and screamed, and bellowed—even more than other cheering sections in most cases—but their was a controlled enthusiasm. Controlled because they themselves knew how to control it. They didn't need Palestra policemen or pleas from the loudspeaker to maintain their bearing as human beings. They were men, not little boys or anthropolgy's half-brained missing link. And, because they were men, they acted the part—superbly.

Not Only Prudes Discuss Conduct

The repercussions that conduct of this type might have upon anyone other than hypercritical prudes is not apparent to Villanova fans, who merely buy a ticket, and go to school, during the time from the 9:30 game on Wednesday to the 9:30 on Friday. But there are repercussions.

When the City Series was inaugurated, many stuffed-shirt bluenoses worried about the conduct of the five students bodies during Palestra game. They feared all sorts of riots and melees would result from Intra-City clashes. So great was the anxiety of these Great Men that most of them couldn't finish their breasts of pheasant (under glass, naturally) at dinner time. Some even had to see their stomach specialists.

Then the season came, and the games came, and the City Series competition was begun. Villanova, since it was Catholic and regarded by many of the Great Men as a black sheep and general trouble maker, was singled out as being the instigator of any mishap which might come about. When the Order of Pincurled Snoots, or the Anti-Villanova League, met at their conference tables, they calculated the number of times the Villanova student body would be involved in horrendous misdeeds.

The State Militia Was Ready

We first lost to St. Joseph's. A riot was expected; it didn't materialize. Then we lost to Temple. A call to the State Militia was put through; nothing happened. And all the while, the Pincurled Snoots couldn't understand it. Villanova wasn't throwing fish or anything. They behaved perfectly.

Instead they noticed that a group of jealous maniacs, who never had it so good, were wearing silly hats and hurling harmless invectives, and carrying bags with ACME printed on them. These, and another group that held mock battles between Penn and Immaculata during halftime, incurred the wrath of the Pincurled Snoots, at least for the time being.

Although Villanova was not involved in any of this malicious trivia, it is still being closely watched by the wretched Anti-Villanova League. One slip, and the League will be upon us. We've been commended so far, but we still must play LaSalle.

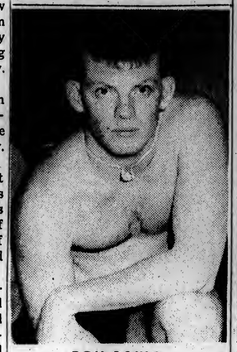
We may not have the best basketball team in the city this year, but we certainly have the last laugh on those kids from two other schools.

Swimmers Lose to Penn After Winning Eleven Straight

The Villanova Swimmers ran their undefeated streak to eleven consecutive victories before losing to a fine Penn team, 57-27, at the Villanova pool last Saturday.

The Wildcats could manage only two first place finishers.

Lou Pinto won the 200 yard breaststroke and co-captain Don Couig, lowered his own record to 2:21.3 in the 200 yard individual medley. It was the fourth time Couig had lowered his own mark this season. Lou Schoener and Denny Rinkacs were second in the 440 yard freestyle and 50 yd. freestyle respectively.



Won Eight Straight

Previous Ed Geisz's boys had triumphed over P.M.C. 51-33, Delaware by 55-28 in which meet Couig won the 200 and set a record and Schoener captured the 100 and 400 yard freestyles. Next to fall before the Villanova mermen was Temple, 55-29; Schoener and Couig again led the way with two victories apiecc.

Perhaps the most satisfying win of the season thus far was the victory oved L.I.U. which ran the win streak to 10 over a two season period. Villanova gained six first places against their highly-touted opponent. Wildcat winners were Rinkacs in the 50 yard freestyle, Couig in the 200 yard individual medley, Mike Rafferty in the diving, Schoener in the 440 freestyle, Lou Pinto in the 200 yard breaststroke and Don Couig again in the 200 yard backstroke. The final score was 46-38.

Tom Brennan Lays One Up

DON COUIG
Breaks Another Pool Record

It is interesting to note that the Wildcats began their winning streak last season just after a loss to Penn, and this season it was Penn that brought it to an end.

The Wildcats' next meet is with a strong La Salle team, followed by Drexel and Georgetown.

Frosh Cagers Win Three; Ryan, Opella Lead Attack

Up Record to 11-2 by Edging Stevens, Penn

By FRANK FLEMING

During the past few weeks the Villanova freshman basketball team added three more wins to its long list of victories but also, during this same period, lost its second game of the season.

On the Friday before exams the University of Pennsylvania's Freshman club visited the Field House and were readily downed by the Kittens, 95 - 81. Gene Opella, freshman football star, and Joe Ryan, former St. Joe's Prep star, proved to be V.U.'s big guns, scoring 43 points between them. Ryan had 27, and big Gene, playing a beautiful game under the boards, hit for 16.

The fo'lowing day the team traveled to Lancaster where the Stevens Trade School held off a late rally to defeat the Frosh, 87-83. Joe Ryan had 26 points for the losers, but Stevens' star, Art George, took top honors by scoring 32.

Harrison Leads Attack

After a two week vacation the members of the freshman team got their first taste of their future home, as they invaded the Palestra for a game with Penn's Frosh. Apparently they found the place to their likings, for they won, 76-69.

Kenny Harrison led the offensive charges by scoring 23 points. Joe Ryan had 18 points to continue his record of hitting double figures in every game. Three other Villanovans hit the double figures. They were: Gene Opella (10), Pat Carey (12), and Ron Rossi (11).

Jim Grazione, former Southeast Catholic High football and basketball star and stellar quarterback of Villanova's undefeated frosh eleven, made his collegiate court debut in this game.

'Cats Get Revenge

Last Wednesday the Kittens avenged an earlier defeat by trouncing a strong Stevens Trade School team, 105-77, on the Villanova floor. Jumping ahead to a 55-33 half-time lead, the prodigies of Maje McDonnell never gave the visitors from Lancaster a chance to catch up.

The incomparable Ryan topped his previous record of 28 points when he clicked for 35 in this contest. Gerry Semmel dropped 24 points through the nets for the losers.

JOE RYAN
Gets 35 Against Stevens

Trackmen To Face Collegiate Runners

Next Saturday, Villanova's indoor track team goes to New York's Madison Square Garden where it will compete in the 81st annual IC4A indoor track meet.

The Wildcats will be trying to avenge last year's IC4A defeat, when they lost a three point decision to George Eastment's fine Manhattan team. If the Wildcats are successful, it will be their first victory in the event since they were admitted to the IC-AAA Association in 1941.

Only Collegians Can Compete

Since the IC4A meet is strickly a collegiate event, the Villanova track men will not be running against the likes of Mal Whitfield, or Harrison Dillard, nor will pole-vaulter Don Bragg be jumping against the Rev. Bob Richards.

The chances of the Wildcat team this year are, perhaps, better than they have ever been before. With Charley Jenkins, Ron De'any, Phil Reavis, Geo. Sydnor, and Bragg setting the pace, Jim Elliot's charges loom as a "shoo-in" for meet honors.

Tournament

(Continued from Page 9)

Hens.

Weissman was high man for Villanova against W & L also; the 82-66 Wildcat victory saw him dump in 16 points.

Dayton was the only spoiler during the holiday ball games. The nation's number 2 team took advantage of its great height to run away with a 71-50 contest. 44 of Dayton's point came on tap-ins, showing the height disadvantage with which Al Severance's charges had to contend.

Bobby Powers scored 25 points in a game which Villanova played against Brandeis in the Field House on Jan. 16. The Cats won, 95-82.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Paid Political Announcement

In Thursday's election you, the voter, will select two classmates to represent you on the Student Council. Because these two men will lay the foundation for the fututre of our class, they MUST be well-qualified. Al Sheppard and Don Kempf ARE well-qualified. What about initiative and interest? Al and Don are the only candidates who attended Student Council meetings prior to the nominations. Opportunity for initiative knocked . . . they answered. WHERE WERE THE OTHER CANDIDATES? Cast your vote for the candidates who have demonstrated their initiative, leadership and ability. Elect Al Sheppard and Don Kempf.

Kempf, left, and Sheppard

Yes, ELECT AL SHEPPARD AND DON KEMPF to represent the FRESHMAN CLASS on the Student Council. Cast your your vote wisely! Choose the two men who have the ability, leadership, and initiative to fulfill their promise of a "brighter future" for Villanova. Elect the candidate who can and will represent you in the way which you should be represented. ELECT AL SHEPPARD AND DON KEMPF.

Juniors

(Continued from Page 8)

gestions by class members about local bands will be welcomed.

The dinner dance chairman's explanation came after a re-investigation of the possibility that the affair he moved to Palumbo's. The night club reportedly could still accomodate the junior event.

Some class members had asked Hooker about the change.

The dinner dance, which is open only to members of the Class of 1957 and their dates, will be held in the hotel's main ballroom. A turkey dinner will be served.

These chairmen have been working with Hooker on the affair: Eb McCall and Bill Barton, band; Dick Mason and Joe Martin, tickets; Harry Fatkin, pubicity; Ed Schehl, dinner; Bill Hamburger, decorations; Leo Kane, arrangements.

Nurses Entertain

Alpha Delta Chi, graduate nurse sorority, entertained the children at St. Edmond's Home for Crippled Children with a Valentine's party. Members said they hope the party will become a sorority tradition.

Sorority sisters distributed valentines, favors and gifts to the children and served refreshments.

Living at the home are 46 children, ranging in age from three to 16. All are afflicted with bone disorders.

Chairman for the party was Dolores Pitcavage, assisted by Maryanne Dietrick and Elizabeth Marino. The program was planned by Louise Cromice and Mary Connery.

Mortimer Adler

(Continued from Page 1)

long time to get Mr. Adler to participate, but his busy schedule made it impossible," Mr. Bruderle said. "Naturally we are delighted to present him at last."

In June 1952, Adler announced plan to found an Institute for Philosophical research at San Francisco for the analysis of basic ideas and issues in the thought of the Western World. To devote himself to this project, he resigned from the post of professor of Philosoohy of Law at the University of Chicago, where he was considered a stimulating and influential figure for more than two decades.

Together with Dr. Robert Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, Dr. Adler conceived and implemented the vast project of the "Great Books," a 54 volume set of 443 books containing the 102 great ideas. Adler set up an index of ideas for the books which he called Syntopicon.

He is considered one of the most brilliant men of our time, according to Mr. Bruderle.

Detective Story

(Continued from Page 1)

the Penne Wynne, two local dramatic organizations.

Tickets On Sale

Tickets for the show have already been distributed to the members of Belle Masque. Paul Gormley, in charge of tickets, has announced that the prices are the same as in the past, $1.25 for general admission and $1 for students.

John Henry, in charge of business and publicity, has a newly designed program under way. He has chosen Dick Brothers and Jack Dillon to assist him in publicizing the play.

Set Taking Shape

The stage crew is progressing rapidly in the set construction. Since the play calls for only one set, the work has been reduced. The crew is again being directed by Joe Clrinnici and Jack Lavery. The set was designed by Jake Krupa.

LYNX Editor Stars

Charlie Brockman is featured once more in a leading role as Jim McLeod, a domineering, hard-boiled detective who works in the tough 21st precinct of New York. Joe Barrett, co-editor of the LYNX, plays Charlie who, as a hardened criminal, provides both comic and dramatic incidents in the show.

Tom Curran is acting in his first major role as Lou Brody. Jack Padova, president of Turf and Tinsel, is making his first appearance in a Belle Masque production as a shrewd and inquisitive reporter.

Pat O'Connor and Marcia Marlowe, two of Villanova's nursing students, are holding down leading female roles. Pat, an experienced "Masquer," plays the part of Mrs. McLeod, and Marcia, a freshman, plays a shoplifter.

Condition 'Fine':

Senior Dave Burns In Hospital

Dave Burns, former vice president of the Class of 1956, was a patient in Bryn Mawr Hospital today after passing out in his campus room yesterday afternoon.

An attendant at Bryn Mawr Hospital said he was in "fine" condition at a late hour last night. No diagnosis could be obtained.

Prof. Burgess Participates in Civic Activity

Frederick Burgess, assistant professor of Business Administration at Villanova and director of Philadelphia's prize-winning Fire Prevention Week program last October, this week took part in FPW award ceremonies during a session of Phliadelphia's City Council.

Burgess, 211 First Ave., of Broomal, Pa., accepted the Grand Award plaque of the National Fire Protection Association along with Philadelphia's Fire Commissioner, Frank L. McNamee, and deputy commissioners, George E. Hink and Joseph M. Clarke.

Percy Bugbee, general manager of the NFPA, came down from association headquarters in Boston to make the presentation.

Philadelphia's 1955 Fire Prevention Week program was adjudged the best among 2000 cities in the U. S. and Canada by the NFPA, an international nonprofit educational and technical organization dedicated to improving the safety of life and property.

Under Burgess, Philadelphia won the Grand Award plaque both in 1953 and 1955. In addition to gaining the Grand Award in '53 and '55, Philadelphia has been the leader among major cities in the U. S. and Canada, 1953 through '55.

Highlights of Philadelphia's 1955 Fire Prevention Week program included five area parades of fire-fighting equipment in varied neighborhoods; "fire check" courtesy inspections of private homes; a full-scale parade of equipment through center-city; dedication of the Giant Deluge high-pressure gun; caravans of radio, TV and sports celebrities teaching fire prevention and a water display in color by Philadelphia's fireboats.

Burgess, graduate of Haverford College ('28), and his wife, Barbee, have two sons, Geoffrey 7, and Eric 10.

Young Man's Fancy

(Continued from Page 4)

and favorably scrutinized by the body politic.

With the increase of intramural athletics, it is safe to predict that the infirmary will have another banner year in the tape and crutches business. Ex-athletes will be commonly seen with crutches in hand, beads of perspiration adorning their flushed countenances, lurching once more unsteadily about the campus.

The Picnic

Spring of course, could never become a complete success without that outstanding social institution, the unconditional highlight of the season, the picnic. Many of the quasi evils of spring may be eliminated in the future, but the picnic, it appears, is immortal. Boulders may continue to mysteriously appear at convenient picnic locations, but the S.A.P.A., much like the Canadian mounties, always gets its picnic grounds. Many a weekend afternoon will be spent, it is assured, around the beer keg, at the ancient art of picnicking.

So, with the visions of picnics and of romance, of warm nights and of cold beer, of baseball and of golf, and of the langourous air of spring dancing vividly in our minds, we will all settle down and wait for a more than probable March blizzard.

Jr. Gene Donohue

(Continued from Page 1)

first experience with the organization, will play the most prominent comic role, a forlorn Arab peddler.

Walt Doyle, one of the show's two four year men, remembered for his comic portrayals in past T. and T. productions, plays the "Duena," while Nick Rinaldi, secretary of T. and T., and the other fourth year veteran, will portray the "English Woman."

Paul Porreca, who stood out as the "Angel" in last year's production, will play the "Uncle" in this year's show.

From Varied Backgrounds

Other parts in the cast were landed by Roy Zimmerman, senior class secretary, who will portray the "Cousin," Andy Iaccarino, Belle Masque's gift to T. & T., who will play the "Director," Joe Redmond, a former chorus member, who takes the part of the "English Man," and Ed Shea, WVIL's basketball announcer, as the "Father," one of the more prominent parts.

The cast will be under the direction of Jack Kelly, a Villanova alumnus and the director of many past T. and T. performances. The dancing chorus will be handled, as in the past, by George Heger Noake, and the music will be written in its entirety by Bob Whalen, Villanova's business manager of athletics. The script will again be written by George Pequinot, and the stage crew will be under the direction of Phil Butler.

Rehearsals for both the cast and dancing chorus are already under way in the Field House.

Laughlin Schedules Sophomore Meeting

Sophomore Class President Paul Laughlin has scheduled a meeting of the Sophomore Class on Thursday, March 1, in the C&F auditorium. At this time, plans for the sophomore-freshman spring dance will be discussed.

Laughlin also made public the amount of money now in the class treasury. As of Oct. 27, this figure was $871.00; from the Sophomore Cotillion was added $1097. The total at present is $1968.00.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

New Cafeteria

(Continued from Page 4)

Bill Mannix, '56, Arts.

Only Villanova could do something this big. It's really great, and it was something we really needed.

Ron Deblak, '56, Arts.

It is nicer than most restaurants in town, and is also very inexpensive. The place is being kept very clean by the students. We should be proud of it as a part of this beautiful building.

Jack Reardon, '56, C. and F.

I think I've been here as long as anyone, and this place was really needed. I think that the administration really outdid themselves with this dining hall. The Pie Shoppe was fun, but it became too much of a greasy spoon. The snack bar is run very well and the food is as good as in many restaurants.

THE CAMPUS BARBER SHOP

Physics Club Meets Thursday For Lecture

The Physics Club will hold its first meeting of the Spring semester Thursday afternoon with a lecture on geology and associated physics to be presented by junior physics major James Shea.

Anyone wishing to join the physics club or wishing merely to attend the lecture is invited to be present at 10:30 in the Physics Lab. Charles Schwerdtfeger is president of the organization.

Sophomore Killed In Vacation Accident

John L. Pipa, a 20-year-old sophomore, was killed over the semester vacation when the convertible he was driving crashed into a utility pole.

Pipa died a few minutes after the accident early on the morning of Feb. 4 in his hometown of Bloomsburg, Pa.

BOUQUET SHOP
For Exquisite Corsages

Satisfy Yourself with a Milder, Better-Tasting smoke—packed for more pleasure by exclusive Accu-Ray

The more perfectly packed your cigarette, the more pleasure it gives . . . and Accu-Ray packs Chesterfield far more perfectly.

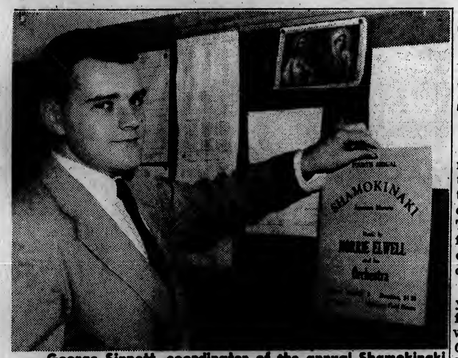
To the touch . . . to the taste, an Accu-Ray Chesterfield satisfies the most . . . burns more evenly, smokes much smoother.

Firm and pleasing to the lips . . . mild yet deeply satisfying to the taste—Chesterfield alone is pleasure-packed by Accu-Ray.



CHESTERFIELD
MILD, YET THEY Satisfy!

© LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

Villanovan

Vol. 31—No. 12 Villanova University, Villanova, Pa. February 29, 1956

Fourth Annual Shamokinaki Aids Mission Cause Friday

George Sinnott, coordinator of the annual Shamokinaki mission dance to be held in an oriental atmosphere Friday night in the Field House.

Oriental Atmosphere To Prevail

Japanese missionfields are the reason. Exotic duplications of traditional Japan are the setting, and Norris Elwell and his orchestra are the music-makers. The event, of course, is the fourth annual Shamokinaki, Friday evening in the Field House, dancing 9 to 1.

Shamokinaki originated four years ago as a means of raising funds to aid the foreign missions when the Rev. Thomas Purcel, O. S. A., then university chaplain departed for the mission field in Japan. Shamokin, Pa., is the home town of Father Purcel with the Japanese ending of 'aki' for foreign flavor. Father Purcel's companion in Japan is the Rev. George Krupa, brother of Rev. William Krupa.

Grown from Square Dance

Originally started by classmates and friends of Father Purcel, the Shamokinaki has grown from a square dance put on by a small group to a University sponsored, important social event.

Japanese pagodas, archways and lanterns will serve to remind the dancers of the area benefiting from their evening's enjoyment.

Official dance chairman is the Rev. Edward Grimes, O.S.A., previous moderator. Moderator is the Rev. James O'Donnell, O.S.A. Decorations were supervised by Jake Krupa. Ticket director is Ed Fletcher.

The program is the work of Vincent Cardella and Al Lutz. Pat Kean, Bob and Paul Donahue and Frank Flemming handled the publicity. The dec-

(Continued on Page 11)

Hank Miller Top Man:

Varsity Rifle Team Downs Hopkins, Still Undefeated

Villanova's undefeated rifle team, led by Captain Hank Miller, now have as their goal the National Rifle Championships to be held at New London, Conn., on Saurtday, March 17. The Wildcats will be facing the nation's best rifle teams at New London's Coast Guard Acedemy and are set on bringing home a district championship, as well as a placing in the top five rifle teams in America.

One more collegiate match, with powerful Rutgers at their New Jersey range on Thursday, March 15, is scheduled before the Nationals, and a rematch with Johns Hopkins, to be held at the Villanova range Thursday, March 22, will be the team's last encounter for the season.

Eighth Straight

On Saturday, February 25, the Villanovans outshot John Hopkins 1375-1327, for their eighth straight win. High man for the 'Cats was sophomore Jim Abernathy with a score of 279. Placing just behind him were Walt Gould with 278 and Captain Hank Miller with 275.

Captain Miller, a junior Mechanical Engineer, has consistently led the team throughout its brilliant season. His high scores, coupled with those of senior Walt Gould, the Navy Drill Team Commander, and freshman sensation Chris Kloss are the foremost reasons why the Villanova rifle team is still undefeated.

Kloss, highly regarded by his teammates, is being counted on to lead the team to many more successful years.

HANK MILLER
Leads Riflemen

Deadlines

Deadline for all VILLANOVAN feature copy for the March 7 issue is tonight; all news copy must be submitted by tomorrow night. Late copy deadline is 4 p.m., Sunday.

Set Nearing Completion:

BM's "Detective Story" Offers Realism, Impact

JOE BARRETT

CHUCK BROCKMAN

Two Stars Ready For Next Thursday's Opening

Little more than a week remains before the unveiling of Belle Masque's spring production, "Detective Story," in a sense a first for Belle Masque in that it deals with sociological problems in the realistic no-punches-pulled modern idiom. The play runs March 8 thru 11.

Tickets may be obtained from any Masquer or from the newly erected ticket booth in Dougherty Hall's snack bar at $1.00 per student.

As cast rehearsals receive their final touches from club moderator, Rev. William J. Krupa, O. S. A., and his assistant, Tom Hayden, reports from Joe Chinnici and Jack Lavery state that the one set required by the play is almost completed. The stage crew is making the set authentic in every detail.

Nurses Round Out Cast

As previously announced, the female parts have been completely filled by V. U. nursing students. In addition to Pat O'Connor and Marcia Marlowe, other girls in the cast include Lucille Bell, Faith Heller, Mary Buckley, Barbara May and Mary Esther Screem. All these girls are either first or second year students.

Belle Masque is also planning to present a one act production, the second act of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," in a Play Night sponsored by the Mask and Foil Club of Chestnut Hill College. Joe Barrett, Paul Gormeley, Bob Lima, Mike Clark, Dick Brothers, and Andy Iaccarino are some of the Belle Masquers who will participate in the play at Chestnut Hill on Mar. 23.

Schedule Decided:

Fathers' Day Plans Advanced; Invitations Out

The desirability of 100% Senior Class attendance at the April 21 Fathers' Day activities was the prime concern of the second meeting of that committee last week.

Chairman Harry Nash put it this way:

"The committee and the class officers and myself realize that the fathers of many of our classmates have passed away, and, realizing that fact, we want to extend a special invitation to those men, asking them to attend Fathers' Day with any older man of their choice—an uncle, a brother, a God-father.

"The same sincere wish goes out to any senior whose father cannot attend for any reason whatsoever. We want every member of the Class of '56 present on April 21, either with his dad or someone of his own choice."

Second Meeting

Nash, having outlined his primary preparations to the class steering committee last Thursday morning, met with his Dads' Day colleagues that same evening and came up with a number of plans:

1. A tentative schedule for the day—Mass, 10 a.m.; luncheon, 12 noon; entertainment, 2 p.m.; full-dress football scrimmage, 3 p.m.; and banquet, 6:30 p.m.

2. The hour-long entertainment in the afternoon will consist of a performance bu Turf and Tinsel, followed by the alternating appearances of Bob Schiller's "Villanovans," the "Mainliners" quartet and the Villanova Singers.

3. A letter extending a formal invitation to the fathers of all seniors has been prepared and is in the process of delivery.

Matt Heim, who handled similar letters announcing Mothers' Day last May, has made it clear that a special check has been made of those seniors whose fathers are deceased.

(Continued on Page 4)

Singers, Dancers, Comedians:

Auditions For Junior Week Variety Show Tomorrow

Singers, comedians, dancers . . .

The Junior Class is looking for all of them for a Junior Week show.

Auditions will be held tomorrow from 9:30 a. m. to 3 p. m. in the student organizations room, second floor of Dougherty Hall.

Male undergraduates and coeds alike have been invited to tryout for the Junior Week show.

Vadino Producer

Nick Vadino, who has had experience with variety shows, has been appointed show producer by Jack Shea, chairman of the event, which will fill the Tuesday night spot in Junior Week.

Class of 1957 Plans Meetings Thursday, Monday

Junior Week planning will occupy most of the Class of 1957 meetings tomorrow and Monday, according to class president Jack Decker.

Tomorrow's meeting at 10:30 a.m. will be held in 207 C & F. Monday's session has been scheduled for C & F Auditorium at 11:30 a.m.

This Collegiate Whirl

GIRLS, PLEASE NOTE

CHAMBLEE, GA.—(ACP)—The Technician, published by students at the Southern Technical Institute, recently took a scientific view of the female of the species. It printed this description of a woman as seen through the eyes of a chemist:

SYMBOL: WO
ACCEPTED ATOMIC WEIGHT: 120 lbs.
PHYSICAL PROPERTIES: Boils at nothing and freezes at any minute; melts when properly treated; very bitter if not well used.
OCCURRENCE: Found wherever man exists.
CHEMICAL PROPERTIES: Possesses great affinity for gold, silver, platinum and precious stones. Violent reaction if left alone. Able to absorb great amount of food matter. Turns green when placed beside a better-looking specimen.
USES: Highly ornamental; useful as a tonic in acceleration of low spirits, and an equalizer of the distribution of wealth. Is probably the most effective income-reducing agent known.
CAUTION: Highly explosive in inexperienced hands.

* * *

PHONE-A-DATE

KALAMAZOO, MICH.—(ACP) — Men at a Western Michigan College dormitory recently came up with a plan to increase dating on campus. Hearing that a large number of girls went home on weekends because they didn't have dates, they arranged dates for any girl who called during the weekend.

The dormitory men expected some replies, but nothing like the reaction they got. The offer appeared in the school paper and calls started coming in soon after it had been distributed. In all, 147 girls called and 95 dates were arranged.

As a matter of fact, Walwood Hall ran out of available men and had to send out an S.O.S. to other men's dormitories.

* * *

LAUGHS:

Emory University, Ga. — (ACP)—The Emory Wheel included this short-short in its "Humor Panel" column:

"Yes, I'll give you a job. Sweep out the store."

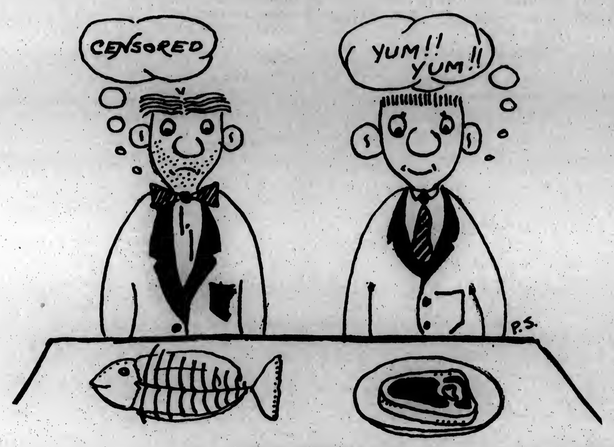
"But I'm a college graduate."

"Okay, I'll show you how."

Villanovan

Villanova University Villanova, Pa.
Harry C. Nash III
Editor-in-Chief

Tom Smith ..... Managing Editor
Bill Jones ..... Feature Editor
Frank Delany ..... News Editor
Jack Downing,
Bill Brown ..... Copy Editors
Joe DeGrazio ..... Business Manager
Bob Ford
Bob Strayton ..... Sports Editors
Sig Holtz
Joe Eszerski ..... Photography Editors
Nick Pedano ..... Circulation Mgr.



Faculty Advisor
Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Scholar, Gentleman, Athlete.
LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1928, under the act of March 3, 1879.

MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE PRESS ASSOCIATION

A DINING HALL STUDY

CAMPUS COMMENT

Outlooks of the Editor

Juniors' Cooperation

With Junior Week less than nine weeks in the future, members of the Class of '57 are in an excellent postion to help themselves and their officers and chairmen by vigorous cooperation in a number of ways.

The big social week has taken on such enormous proportions in the past three years that the amount and complexity of necessary preparations are perhaps understimated by the members of the class who merely buy tickets and attend one or two of the affairs involved.

Juniors can help to make the week better than ever by doing a number of things: buying their tickets early, talking up the events to their classmates, offering to work with various committees, and chipping in with a collective spirit of optimism and cooperation, transcending any pettiness or selfishness that could stand in the way of success.

The Junior Class, judging from early developments, has a very ambitious and entertaining seven days lined up during that first week in seven days lined up during that first week in May. Plans, however, are empty things unless they are brought to fruition by cooperation and individual effort.

This effort and cooperation should come from the men who will benefit most . . . and these are the juniors.

SC Action Lauded

The action of the Student Council Monday night in banning fifth-year ROTC students from appointment to three top campus positions is to be commended for a number of reasons.

In excluding such students from the editorship of the VILLANOVAN and the BELLE AIR and the managership of radio station WVIL, the Council showed extremely good judgement in resolving the problem before any appointments could be made, thereby avoiding the question of personalities and working strictly on the basis of principle.

Secondly, the conclusion reached is in itself just. It is not fair that a student in his fifth year here be arbitrarily appointed to a position of honor that is also available to a man who has worked just as diligently during his shorter, normal tenure of college life—four years.

This decision of the Council is in keeping with the rule, in effect for some time, that no fifth-year men be allowed candidacy in class elections.

Actually, to be completely consistent in this application of reason, the rule should be applied to all fraternities and societies and organizations, but in these precincts the Council has no jurisdiction; the organizations' own constitutions hold sway in these cases. If the membership of a privately-constituted organization or fraternity thinks enough of a fifth-year man to elect him as their leader, there is certainly no breach of justice here.

How About Action on Lunch Period Request?

* * *

A Student Council delegation recently requested an extension of the lunch period and was told by the administration that the proposed change would be made next year.

No reason, however, was publicly given for the denial of the immediate request, and Council members are still wondering just why the doors to the resident dining hall can't be opened at 11:15 a. m. rather than 11:45, in order to avoid the between-class accumulation on the ramp. Another factor considered in the request was the fact that many men have schedules that carry them through from 11:30 to 2:30; opening the dining hall fifteen minutes earlier would give these harried students a chance for at least a hurried bite to eat.

One wonder just what is going to happen between now and next September that will make an earlier opening so much more "feasible" at that time. As thins now stand, the lack of foresight in the preparation of enough food to keep the lines moving smoothly may be excused on the basis of adjustment. It remains difficult, however, to understand why the time change—which would obviously improve the line situation and at the same time provide certain students a chance to eat meals they have paid for—is impossible now and will work in September.

This shelving of Student Council suggestions by administration forces weakens the Council and eliminates the chance of many needed improvements throughout the campus; this isn't the only time such a situation has arisen, either. The administration would do well to act more often and promptly on Council proposals. Or at least present publicly its reasons for rejection of the proposals.

Upon Rippled Reflections

by Bernard L. Bonniwell, Ph.3

The Prince of Chance is a bogus but well esteemed individual. He is the Great Prentender in the field of science. He is recognized and discussed as a very interesting and variable sort of fellow although in fact he does not exist. The Prince of Chance, of course, has no reality except in the minds of men. Strange it is, too, that the Prince is in constant and responsible service even at the university level. He is even accorded a certain honorary status by being assigned notes of significance by his presence or lack of presence, the general outcome being that he sometimes assumes the status of a responsible agent. Insofar as he does not exist at all, this is indeed a strange state of affairs.

Although the Prince is well controlled in the exact sciences, and due regard is given to his ephemeral shaping of events, the influence he exerts in the social sciences is probably undue and unsound. In the intricate emergence of behavioral studies, the Prince has assumed in the last century a position of arrant disproportion, psychologically displacing the rightful heirs-apparent, the Natural Law and the Principles of Causation. The result is that Man and Society, giving undue reverence to this Straw Prince, have propounded and published volumes

(Continued on Page 7)

Peering . . .

With Dick Peer

. . . At the Olde Clip House, a New York Hotel offering special St. Patrick's Day rates to Villanova students.
$3.00 per person.. 16 in a room
3.50 per person.. 30 in a room
4.00 per person..100 in a room
Sorry, No Baths, No Beds.
Friendly Place (Very Few Fights).

PEER

. . . At Alumni Hall, which holds the title of the oldest building on campus. Why not cover it with ivy? Other colleges always seem to be able to hide their old buildings, so why can't we? Then we could be real Ivy Leaguers!

. . . At the original Pie Shoppe, once a noble place but now nothing better than a second rate penny arcade. Pin ball machines crowd its corners, producing a maze of flashing lights and noisy bells. The center of activity is a would-be pool table, automatic, of course, which is guaranteed to delight even the most feeble-minded. And the Pie Shoppe doesn't even serve pie!

. . . At Neal, the huge St. Bernard, who has been prowling about our campus for months. Like all true Villanovans, he has found a friend at Rosemont. Further dating plans have not yet been announced.

USSR's Horatio Alger:

Russian Boss Rises From Mill Worker to Pinnacle

By Gene Donohue

On February 8, 1955, the Soviet government removed Georgi M. Malenkov from the Premiership of the U. S. S. R. and advanced Marshall Nikolai Aleksandrovich Bulganin from Minister of Defense to Premier.

Born on June 11, 1895, the son of a factory clerk in what is now Gorky, on the Volga River, Bulganin first served as a textile worker until 1917, when he joined the Communist Party and served with the secret police for the duration of the revolutionary period. After 1922, he was an industrial executive and it was during this period of his life that he first received recognition from the Russian Government. This recognition came in the form of the Order of Lenin, which he received for his leadership in rapidly building a Moscow electric plant into one of the largest and most advanced in the country.

Helped Defend Moscow

As chairman of the Moscow soviet at the time of Germany's attack on Russia in 1941, he became prominent in the defense of that city, and before the end of the war, had risen to army general and deputy defense commissar. He also had received the military orders of the Suvurov, Kutuzov, and the Red Banner.

In 1944, he was Russian representative to the Polish Committee of National Liberation, and for this work in helping to establish a "People's Government" in Poland he was made a member of the Politburo in 1946. In 1947, he succeeded Stalin as Minister of the armed forces and he became Deputy Premier. In November of the same year, he was promoted to the Marshal of the Soviet Union, the nation's highest military rank, in recognition of his outstanding services to the country.

Rose Rapidly

Bulganin, a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the U. S. S. R. since 1939, and also a member of the Party's presidium which replaced the Politburo in 1952, was often mentioned as the most likely man to succeed Stalin. In the formation of Malenkov's government after Stalin's death, he became Minister of War. In April, 1954, he was awarded the Oracle of the Red Star for his years of service in the Soviet army.

(Continued on Page 11)

Strictly Opinion

By DON ALTON

We are certainly well aware that there are certain days on the calendar which deserve some special consideration. High upon this list can be found all Fridays that fall on the Thirteeth day of the month and the Ides of March. However, the latter date has lost its significance, for all but Caesar, since the Internal Revenue Department moved the deadline for form 1040. This fair day, February 29, holds a special significance for the majority of the readers of this paper.

With a few significant exceptions, noted in previous columns, Villanova boasts of several thousand male students. Today is the date set aside to commemorate the plight of the Old Maid School Teacher type, the working girl above twenty-five, and various other categories of our opposites upon earth who find that the male situation is a bit sparce. The Villanova student body is fair game for these unfortunates who have not yet found their mate. The mayor of Philadelphia has officially declared that this is the day for all eligible males to wear a bachelor button in their lapels displaying their availability . . . "I can be approached" . . . "Free" . . . etc.

ALTON

We could advise all eligible Villanovans to avoid the local female colleges if they are not receptive to feminine advances. There are some among us who recognize the value of the books or the masculine company of a smoke filled Pub, but a sizeable majority will soon be heading for the "Tea," "Hill," the heights of Immaculata, and the footpaths of Bryn Mawr. Here we must insert a word of caution.

Rosemont spinsters started the Leap Year off with their "meet your mate" session, and rest assured that more will come with the arrival of the balmy conditions associated with the main male weakness. When the fattened calfs hit the path to Rosemont . . . beware brothers—this is Leap Year. Even the straight-arrows have been known to wither under the power of our neighbors across the tracks. "Rosies" have a record for satisfying generations of Villanovans, and they will probably be present at all official S.A.P.A. functions and other occasions of fraternity ad infintum.

Chestnut Hill and Immaculata share the position of prominence among the lovers of nature on the campus. A refreshing safari to either campus results in rewards commensurate with the adventure. The Dew Drop Inn will soon resound to the savage beats of the local music box as the more robust members of our student body emerge from the woods, and trudge up Barren Hill Road to the ever patient, kilt clad klan of the Dew Drop. The trail to Immaculata is clearly marked by the offices of the Justices of Peace which, in fact, grace each end of the trail leading to the dwellers of the halls on the hill. Marion Hall is now equipped with a spacious lounge, and the smoke signals will soon rise from that camp.

(Continued on Page 6)

The Reader Speaks:

Letters to the Editor

UN Enthusiast

To the Editor:

Today I picked up a copy of "The Villanovan" of December 14, 1955. I was intensely interested in "Poltical Battle-front". I do not know whetner or not you will permit me to "speak my piece" in your paper. If not, perhaps you will be kind enough to relay my message to Mr. J. P. Lynch and to Jim Greenlee. The letters show a remarkable lack of maturity for men of college level. When I was in school we were trained to test the reliability of our sources, to sift the material, and to adhere to truth.

I presume both men are Catholics, therefore their evaluation of the U. S. should be:

1. "Does this treaty—the U. N. Charter—recognize God? the Moral Law? the Natural Law?
2. Can this organization legally take action with respect to any basic rights enjoyed by the people of the United States and guaranteed them by their Constitution without the approval of the U. S. Congress?
3. Does the U. S. Constitution have priority in the case of its own nationals when there is a conflict between its laws and U. N. legislation and judgements?
4. Is this a voluntary association of free nations, or is it a potential world government that will eventually engulf—or, to use the words of our Holy Father, "enmesh" whole nations—and
5. Shall all nations be eligible to join the organization and equal voice?"

These questions are in the minds of those of us who fear the U. N. will develop into a world government predicated only on power and force.

I suggest a course of reading that will include:

1. "Soviet Russia Has a Base on Our Soil" by William Griffin
2. "Oof"—Wall Street Journal, October 19, 1955
3. "United Nations—Enemy of the American Republic"
4. "U. S. or U. N." by Rev. James E. Noonan, OMI
5. "Appraisal of the United Nations" by Rev. Richard Ginder
6. "Ten Questions about the United Nations and American Sovereignty" — Address by Senator Bricker before the Twentieth Century Club in Pittsburgh. Radio and Press release, March 6, 1955
7. The address of Hon. Laurence R. Smith of Wisconsin in the House of Representatives, March 24, 1952—Congressional Record
9. The address of Hon. Wm. E. Jenner, U.S.S., at Dallas, Texas.
10. March, 1955 issue of THE FREEMAN, "One Worldism and the United Nations"
11. "Which Way"—Analysis of the Ray Murphy Report on UNESCO by Americanism Committee, American Legion, 5th District, Dept. of Texas. This reading will help clarify the thinking of both men, I hope.

No I should like to ask all three—

1. Have you ever attended any of the sessions of the U. N.? I suspect the answer is "No".
2. Have you ever read carefully any of the material put out by the U. N.? Again I suspect, "No".

I suggest they concentrate on the Genocide Convention and interpret it in the light of Russia's crime of genocide against the Catholic Church, its Cardinals, Bishops, laymen; against the deporting of one million Germans to Siberia; eleven million Germans deported from eastern sections; the horrible massacre of fifteen thousand Polish officers in Katyn Forest. The Genocide Convention contains wording which thwarts action for these crimes. "Political Groups" are eliminated from the groups protected, so that a religious group may be persecuted as "political", as "enemies of the State". The Genocide Convention fails to prohibit genocide by government.

I'm enclosing a pamphlet for Senior Greenlee to read and digest.

Thank you.

Karen

Record Advocate

To the Editor,

To have a record containing Villanova cheers and songs would be an advantageous money making, and spirit building program.

Perhaps it would be included in the "regs" given to freshmen on registration day, the sophomores in this way could create funds for their cotillion.

I feel that this idea should be given careful deliberation, as it would be profitable to Villanova in every way.

Jim Sloat,
Room No. 32, Sullivan,

MORTIMER ADLER
Forum Speaker
(Story on Page 8)

What Do We Give Up.

The Lenten Fast: A Small Sacrifice In The Light Of Ancestral Trials

by Jim Greenlee

The frenzied roar of the crowd reechoes ominously throughout the streets of a magnificent city. Inside the mammoth coliseum, the teeming throng becomes a blur as they leap up and down, frantically waving their arms and screaming impatiently.

In the arena, disheveled figures pace about, glancing unbelievingly at the jeering spectators. Suddenly, they stare frozen with terror at the rising gate as the crowd voices its unanimous approval—the lions are in the arena. The jungle kings chase hungrily after their helpless prey as piercing screams drift up to the delighted multitude.

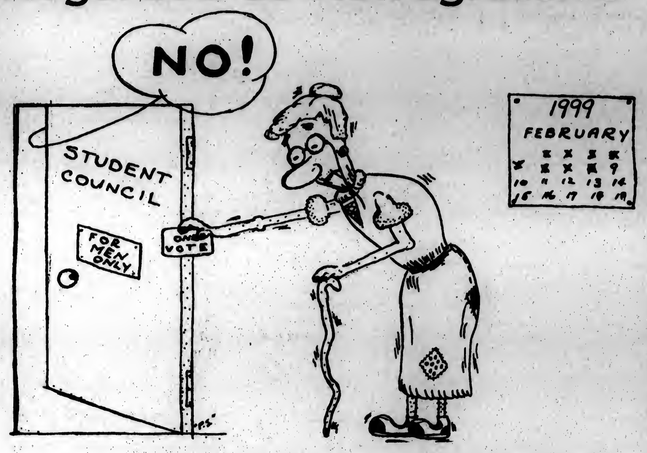
The Struggle Ends

The struggle is soon ended and the well satisfied throng exits, pouring over the city to celebrate. Nightfall settles over the blood-saturated arena and its victims who had committed a most serious crime — they had been Christians.

GREENLEE

On the outskirts of a small town a single figure is moving hastily along a winding dirt road. A rapidly increasing crowd is following; they are relentlessly persecuting him. "Was it not he who was speaking to the Christian in the town yesterday?"

The mob has reached huge proportions. Now it does not matter whether it was he or not, the mob hungers for its "pound of flesh." A stone is thrown, then another and another, until he lays there motionless. He is dead.



Discovery, Then Reprisals

The massive grandeur of today's cathedral is the antithesis of the early church. The winding tunnels leading into the musty catacombs of the early Christians, where the faithful would secretly gather, always fearing

(Continued on Page 12)

One Male Student's Viewpoint:

Council Rejection of Nurses Regarded as Retrogressive

Rebuff Deemed Incongruous in Light of Expansion

By Bill Jones

For more than two and one-half years one of the main topics of debates and of subtle humor about the campus has been the Villanova nurse.

Ever since that most eventful day in September 1953 when nine somewhat frightened but nevertheless happy young ladies mounted the steps of the Field House to become the first undergraduate co-eds in the history of Villanova, the question of their rights in the university has been by far the most prominent, the most continuous and the most argued issue on the Villanova campus.

Cries Of Dismay

Cries of dismay were immediately heard from many directions. The supreme rights of men on the Villanova campus were being soundly trodden upon. The university was being invaded. A cold war had begun.

Yet these same students have shouted most vehemently for the expansion of Villanova. Villanova College was fine, but Villanova University is great. We were expanding rapidly, the enrollment was skyrocketing and the students were proud to be part of a new university.

Few realize the reason this institution rose from the title of a college to that of a university. It was the addition to the college of a Division of Law and a Division of Nursing. Enough courses were now being offered by Villanova to warrant the title of "University."

Thus it was partially because of our co-eds that we became a full fledged university. And there are still those who say that they do not belong here.

It now appears that a very uncommendable air of false pride permeating much of our male student body is the only obstacle in the path of the Nursing Division being accepted as an integral part of Villanova University.

Equally As Important

Who will deny that the nurse is as equally important in her field as an engineer or a teacher or an accountant in his? Why then do these future men of industry and education frown upon the women who may one day be more of a credit to Villanova than many of its male graduates? It surely cannot be because they are females. We seem quite content with the opposite sex at our nearby colleges for women. It is because they are clinging to their false pride as men of the old Villanova College. As Villanova marches on in the field of Catholic education, so must its students.

This article is by no means intended to glorify the Nursing Division; its purpose is merely to show that this particular division should be given much more consideration by the students, and that some day it will be recognized as being on a par with the other divisions of our growing university.

There are some co-eds, it is quite true, who will never practice the nursing they are now learning, but in all fairness we must remember that there are an equal percentage of Engineering students who will never be engineers, C. and F. students who will never see a business office and Arts men who will stray far from an arts career.

Only Ambition

Perhaps the highest crime the nurses can be convicted of is ambition. Their demands at first were too broad for a minority group. Their plea for three student council seats was quickly turned down by the Council, and rightly so. But their request for two votes, although well within reason, has also been turned down by the Council. Still the fact remains that they must be represented.

Representation A Necessity

Another request by the nurses for representation in the Council must not, in the expanding interests of the university itself, be turned down. For the nurses do form, no matter how small, a division of Villanova University, and there can be no concrete reason why they should not have representation on the Student Council, as do the other schools.

Two votes now, and another in the near future, possibly in a year or two, when their enrollment warrants, it cannot, or at least should not be denied the Villanova Nurses.

A Remedy

This apparently stalemated situation could be easily remedied if certain members of the Student Council would place the future of the university ahead of whatever petty prejudice which may exist.

Student Council Bars Fifth-Year ROTC Appointees

Barring of fifth year NROTC students from three top campus offices in their fifth year was recommended Monday night by the university's Student Council.

The recommendation will be passed on to the Rev. George McLaughlin, O.S.A., Dean of Student Activities, who indicated that he will approve the proposal—barring the fifth-year men from the editorships of the BELE AIR yearbook and the VILLANOVAN, and the station manager's post at WVIL.

Father McLaughlin said he would inform faculty moderators of the two publications and radio station and indicated that he would put the recommendation into effect immediately.

One Dissenter

The vote on the motion was near-unanimous, with the lone dissenting vote coming from Eugene ogarty, sophomore day hop representative. Council members discussed the motion and its amendments for almost 45 minutes minutes before the voice vote was taken.

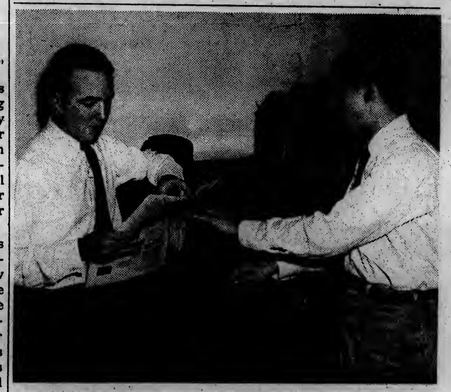
Fifth year NROTC students are already barred from class offices and from selection to Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges—in their fifth year. They are naval students who are following an engineering or science curriculum.

PUBlicly Speaking . . .

By JIM & MIKE

The topic for discussion this week is roommates. A roommate is a germ that descends upon a youth when he enters college, an unavoidable accident destined to shape his college career. No matter what size or shape a roommate has, he can always fit your clothes, while you never fit any of his. (He usually doesn't have any.)

No matter how much time you study, your roommate always seems to get better marks. On blind dates, his girl alway looks better. At parties, he seems to indulge more, but he always looks better the next day.



Nevertheless, roommates are necessary. Who else could grub your last cigarette, borrow your last dollar, or wear your last clean shirt. He can outshuffle you when it's time to bring the laundry down, outcut you for the morning coffee, or outtalk you at the "T?"

When dating a girl in the area, you never need to worry about whether or not she will be lonesome if you go home for the weekend. Roomie will always take care of her.

Most roomates cannot hear alarm clocks and for some reason they always have to be up at least an hour before you. This leaves you wandering around the halls too early for class and too late to go back to sleep. Meanwhile, your friend goes happily off to class leaving you with a squeezed-out tube of tooth paste, a wet towel and no soap.

When he fights with the guy across the hall, its always your can of shaving lather that he uses because it "sprays better." The other man then attacks; shaving cream flies in all directions, and when the foam has receded, you are left holding the lather.

All this works both ways, so we must have pity upon the roommates who have to put up with us.

Bill Jones, left, and Tom Smith, feature and managing editors, respectively, of the VILLANOVAN, make plans for the annual special Junior Week issue. These men, both juniors, will work with junior sports editor Bob Strayton in preparing the issue, which will feature extra pages, special stock newsprint, and material devoted entirely to Junior Week. It is traditional that junior members of the VILLANOVAN staff handle the Junior Week issue.

Dads' Day Group

(Continued from Page 1)

No letters will be sent to the homes of these seniors, who will be contacted personnally about attending with any uncle, brother, etc., of their choosing.

Plan Surprises

4. An "extraordinary" singing group, in the words of entertainment sub-chairman John Eddinger, will make a unique surprise appearance during the Fathres' Day banquet. The Villanova Singers, who will also perform during the banquet, have agreed to sing the opening Mass in the morning also. Joe Valenti and Jack Gilfillian are working with Eddinger in lining up entertainment.

5. Tom Meaney volunteered to line up waiters for the luncheon and banquet, which will most probably be held in the resident dining hall. Bob Patricoski, Jin Heffernam and Jim Grady are in charge of luncheon preparations; Frank DiSantis and Joe Schultz will handle banquet arrangements. Phil Keane will serve as coordinator of all the day's activities.

Morning Mass

6. Mass chairman Ed Fletcher met with the Rev. Joseph Kemme, O.S.A., university chaplain, concerning preparations for the morning services. Fletcher will report on arrangements in this regard at the next committee meeting.

The committee also agreed on a guest list and discussed minor details concerning various other activities of the day.

For Dinner . . . or a Weekend Vacation
Cherry Hill Inn
HADDONFIELD, N. J.

Thirteen 4.00 Men On Fall Dean's List of 441

FRESHMEN

320	Avery, Douglas Paul	EGR FR
300	Axt, Michael P.	CP FR
355	Bacher, Charles P.	EGR FR
318	Barrett, Raymond A.	CP FR
363	Baxter, Robert F.	MAT FR
355	Becht, George L.	EGR FR
371	Benz, Albert J.	CP FR
329	Best, John R.	CP FR
318	Best, Robert A.	CP FR
318	Bielecki, Val Joseph	CP FR
320	Bloemaker, James E.	CP FR
329	Brazel, James P.	ART FR
312	Brennan, Matthew F.	CP FR
374	Breslin, Thomas J.	EGR FR
305	Carmosky, John M.	PHY FR
318	Carr, John G. Jr.	CP FR
317	Cassidy, Paul E.	CP FR
312	Charde, John J.	CP FR
382	Christy, William IV	ART FR
345	Clark, James R.	EGR FR
382	Cohen, Thomas P.	EGR FR
312	Colgan, Francis X.	CP FR
300	Collova, Nicholas D.	BIO FR
355	Connor, Ray F. Jr.	EGR FR
300	Cornely, James F.	CP FR
338	Cronin, John J.	EDU FR
318	Dalton, John D.	EGR FR
335	Davis, George R.	BIO FR
382	Dilks, Robert C.	CP FR
312	Dougherty, Francis P.	CP FR
318	Duffy, Eugene P.	ART FR
300	Dugery, Edward A.	EGR FR
362	Dynan, Francis J.	ART FR
312	Evans, Stephen	CP FR
335	Fields, John S.	ART FR
282	Fitzpatrick, Myles E.	ART FR
312	Fritz, Charles J.	CP FR
355	Gaire, Roger J.	EGR FR
375	Gale, Louis Joseph	EGR FR
310	Galen, David A.	EGR FR
371	Gallagher, James F. X.	CP FR
365	Garczynski, John S.	EGR FR
400	Gaynard, Thomas	ART FR
365	Gibbons, Gerald W.	CP FR
335	Girnish, Gerald D.	ART FR
318	Gleeson, Robert P.	CP FR
300	Glennon, William T. Jr.	ART FR
379	Goldschmidt, Tom C.	ART FR
313	Gorman, Joseph S. Jr.	EDU FR
350	Grubb, Harold R.	EGR FR
347	Hoffmann, C. E. III	BIO FR
310	Holden, Robert W.	EGR FR
347	Hone, John M.	CP FR
300	Hull, James C.	CP FR
320	Johnson, Terence L.	EGR FR
312	Joyce, Richard J.	CP FR
311	Kachmarick, John A.	BIO FR
347	Kavanagh, James J.	CP FR
318	Kelley, John P.	ART FR
315	Kelly C. Edward J.	EGR FR
365	Kerber, Charles L.	CE FR
318	Kilroy, John M. Jr.	CP FR
400	King E. Merson	CP FR
315	Knepley, Joseph E.	EGR FR
320	Krackeler, Joseph J.	EGR FR
353	Leemhuis, Roger P.	ART FR
355	Lewelis Vincent E.	CE FR
355	Lunny, Robert M.	EGR FR
313	Lynch, Joseph W. Jr.	EGR FR
300	MacGillivray, Kenneth	ART FR
313	Magann, Francis W.	ACC FR
305	Margolf, Clement K.	EGR FR
335	Marley, James A. Jr.	EGR FR
320	Matosk, George P.	EGR FR
356	McArdle, Sean A.	CHM FR
353	McClain, Charles D.	CP FR
310	McCullough, James J.	EGR FR
312	McKlheny, James P.	ART FR
365	McGrath, Joseph G.	CP FR
335	McManus, Vincent J.	EGR FR
345	Mehalchin, John J.	EGR FR
325	Merkert, Robert J.	EGR FR
318	Miller, Frank J.	CP FR
312	Money, William H.	CP FR
335	Montgomery, Richard M.	CE FR
318	Moore, William J.	CP FR
312	Mullen, Anthony P.	CP FR
353	Mussio, John A.	BIO FR
310	Norpel, Joseph W.	EGR FR
365	O'Brien, Peter J.	CP FR
319	O'Donnell, John F.	EDU FR
306	Patton, James J.	BIO FR
330	Regan, John Thomas	EGR FR
300	Riccio, James P.	EGR FR
300	Rice, Joseph S. Jr.	EGR FR
325	Roop, David E.	EGR FR
345	Roibaugh, Frank J.	CP FR
300	Sapone, Joseph R.	EDU FR
335	Schneider, Joseph D.	EGR FR
324	Scogna, Oscar T.	CP FR
300	Serafin, John R.	ART FR
320	Sheppard, Albert W.	EGR FR
400	Slavin, Rev. D.	CP FR
365	Snow, William J.	CP FR
360	Stephan, George R.	CP FR
325	Szekla, Walter D.	EGR FR
319	Swank Thomas F. X.	CHM FR
308	Tacconelli, Joseph T.	CP FR
312	Tegler, Thomas D.	CP FR
329	Thomas, Clayton H.	CP FR
300	Thomas, Robert E.	CP FR
347	Utech, Edward J.	CP FR
332	Valitski, William F.	EGR FR
355	Wagner, Robert J.	EGR FR
325	Walsch, Edward J.	EGR FR
382	Waters, Harry F.	ART FR
365	Waters, William C.	CP FR
320	Whelan, James W.	EGR FR
300	Wilhelm, Franklin J.	CP FR
319	Wondelleh, Frank J.	CHM FR
356	Young, Leo J.	EDU FR
330	Zygmont, Anthony J.	EGR FR

SOPHOMORES

300	Altmiller, John C.	CHE SO
370	Barnecky, Guy S.	EE SO
321	Blasi, George D. Jr.	MKT SO
311	Bogan, John H.	BIO SO
316	Borrelli, Nicholas F.	CHE SO
332	Brauner, Joseph W.	CHE SO
367	Capelli, John P.	BIO SO
338	Cashman, Donald W.	MKT SO
321	Cefaratti, Michael D.	BIO SO
318	Celia, Joseph A.	MAT SO
300	Clarke, James F.	LA SO
306	Coffey, John J.	PL SO
300	Coppa, Paul L.	EE SO
320	Curti, Dino L.	EE SO
311	De Greft, Walter J.	FIN SO
358	Delaney, Thomas J.	CHE SO
315	Delany, Francis X.	ART SO
320	Di Martino, Attilio J.	LA SO
330	Dondero, Marilyn T.	NUR SO
300	Donohoe, Francis J.	BIO SO
316	D'Orazio, Albert J.	ME SO
306	Dougherty, Gerald A.	ACC SO
308	Dowling, Robert H. Jr.	PL SO
368	Dressler, Richard M.	EDU SO
335	Fleck, Charles N.	SOC SO
300	Franklin, David A.	LA SO
320	Freitag, Roger L.	MKT SO
356	Fullem, John C.	PL SO
306	Gannon, Thomas J.	ACC SO
350	Garretson, Allen J.	CHE SO
325	Gerg, Kenneth G.	MKT SO
344	Gilbert, Frank E.	MKT SO
319	Goodyear, John L.	ART SO
328	Greio, Albert J.	ACC SO
363	Grey, Francis J.	ACC SO
306	Guarnaccia, Francis J.	ACC SO
317	Haines, Joseph R.	LA SO

(Continued on Page 8.)

The Nomad Newsman:

An Oft-Debated Question is Posed: Should Fraternities Go National?

By Mike Russo

For many years, Villanova students have discussed the possibility of the campus fraternities joining with those of other colleges to form one national fraternity. The plan, of course, is merely speculative and no definite action either for or against it has as yet been taken.

In compliance with this oft-spoken idea, your Nomad Newsman has asked members of the various campus fraternities the question, "Would you like to see your fraternity go national?"

Hank Knoblock, '56 D.P.E.

Yes. As far as the social benefits that are obtained while in college, the matter seems insignificant. But it is the prestige that one carries after graduation that is important. It would be a definite aid while in the business world.

Jim Gaffney, '56, D.P.M.

Yes. Here we have only social fraternities, but if they were made national we would have more of a definite policy for the organization and the running of the frat. Also there would be more interest shown by the members.

Joe Kovatch, '56, D.P.E.

No. Because we do not have the facilities for houses and the dues would be too high. The initial expense would discourage the majority of students.

Joe Schultz, '56, D.P.M.

I think it would be good if we could get together with other Catholic schools to form a national Catholic fraternity under proper supervision.

Dick Hamburger, '58, L.K.D.

Yes. There are a great number of other pre-med frats and substantial benefits can be derived from association with these fraternities.

Frank Leonard, '56, P.K.P.

Yes. It would be nice to have other houses of our fraternities all over the country. The contacts and friends one would make would benefit him throughtout his life.

Jim Schuster, '57, P.K.P.

Yes. You could travel all around the country and stay at the different frat houses. It would be great to have a house to put your girl up in when she comes down to Villanova for a weekend. You could live with fellows taking the same course, this would make studying easier.

Bob Cassidy, '56, D.P.E.

The essential idea of a national fraternity is to promote a wide brotherhood of individuals with common interests. However, social restriction and clique formations which result from living in a frat house are obviously bad. I believe that potential association would be beneficial to Villanova frats if they stressed the benefits and eliminated the detrimentals.

Bob Durkin, '58, D.P.M.

I would like to see it happen for the simple reason that it would be a lot easier to follow the teams wherever they travel. A place to sleep and eat on the road would really be great.

First Junior Queen Contest Entries:

Potential Queens Arrive

A certain gal from Philly has her prince but there's a junior roaming around Villanova who's going to have a queen—along about Junior Week.

On this page are displayed the first three entries in the Junior Week Queen contest, which opened last Tuesday.

And juniors still have plenty of time to get the picture (perferably 5x7 portraits) of that best girl on the pages of the VILLANOVAN.

Pictures will be accepted until Friday night, April 6. After that they'll be sent on to a judge, or judges, who will be selected later.

Queen contest committeemen have some possible "big name" judges in mind, but they still have no committments.

The first entries, fittingly, were submitted by students in the university's three divisions.

Edward Meyer, a day hop math major, sent along the photo of Barbara Bonikowshl, a

By Tom Smith

19-year-old secretary from Philadelphia. Her vital statistics: she weights 135 pounds, stands 5' 6½", and tries to keep her light brown hair from shading a pair of brown eyes.

The second junior to nominate his "queen" was Larry Marhoefer, a resident electrical engineer from Haddon Heights, N.J.

Larry's candidate is Anne Flanagan, a 19-year-old sophomore at Trinity College in Washington, D.C. Anne, who makes her home in Mt. Airy, is a half-inch taller than Barbara, tips the bathroom scales at 130, has auburn hair, brown eyes.

The Commerce and Finance candidate for this week came from Art Odabash, former vice president of Class of 1957. He's mighty sure his girl, Lois Benjamin, of Demarest, N.J., will be crowned at the Junior Prom.

Lois, with the traditional combination of blonde hair and blue eyes, is a secretary in New York. She has 118 pounds distributed on a 5'4" frame. After taking her diploma from Tenafly (N.J.) High School, Lois attended Endicott Junior College, Beverly, Mass.

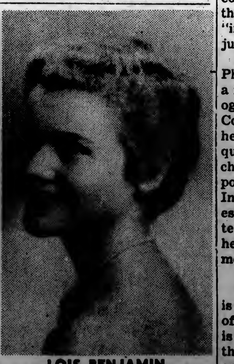
But the queen won't be the only royalite at the Prom. Her "lady-in-waiting" and four other members of the court will also be selected by the judges—strictly on the basis of pictures.

So, third year men with pictures enter—all pictures will be sent to the judges; those received early enough will be printed in the VILLANOVAN—may leave them in the Dougherty Hall university shop or in Jack Decker's room (49 Sullivan).

Now, for late arrivals, here are the contest rules:

1. All members of the Junior Class are eligible to submit one picture.
2. Judging will be done by

(Continued on Page 11)



ANNE FLANAGAN

BARBARA BONIKOWSKI

Queen Entries:

LOIS BENJAMIN

Deadline For Deferment Test Near

College students interested in taking Selective Service College Qualification Test have until midnight, Monday, March 5, 1956 ,to submit application, it was announced today by Father Dwyer, test supervisor. The test center in this area is Villanova University.

The purpose of the testing program is to provide evidence for local Selective Service boards so they may consider student deferments for military registrants.

Many Centers

To be eligible to apply for the test, scheduled to be given April 19 to college students in 875 test centers throughout the United States, Alaska, the Canal Zone, Hawaii ,and Puerto Rico, a student must intent to request deferment as a student, be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction, and must not have previously taken the test.

The test was developed by Science Research Associates of Chicago, one of the nation's leading publishers of educational testing, reading - improvement, and guidance materials.

Students interested in taking the test to qualify for possible draft deferment in order to continue their college education are urged to have their completed application postmarked no later than midnight, March 5. Applications dated after March 5 will not be accepted.

'You & Marriage' NFCCS Series Begins at LaSalle

Brother D. Vincent, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at LaSalle College, will be the first speaker for the new "You and Marriage" series of the Philadelphia Region of the N.F.C.C.S. at 7:30 Sunday evening, LaSalle College.

The purpose of courtship and a practical analysis of the natures of man and women will form the basis of Brother Vincent's talk. He will attempt to clarify the problems concerning the differences between the sexes and explain the manner of dealing with them.

Adjustment Important

"The thoroughness of this courtship adjustment between the sexes," says Brother Vincent, "invariably carries over into adjustment in later married life."

Brother Vincent, who earned Ph.D at Catholic University, is a former member of the psychology department of Manhattan College, and while in New York he worked with juvenile delinquents at the Lincoln Hall Psychological Clinic. He also held a position at the Pennsylvania Institute for Mental Disease and established the Counseling Center at LaSalle College and was head of the Psychology Department there for ten years.

Aimed At Undergraduates

The "You and Marriage" series is aimed at the undergraduates of regional Catholic colleges and is intended to inform and assist those contemplating courtship or engaged in it.

Junior Week Preparations Gain Impetus

Juniors Plan Pair of Class Meetings; Prom Arrangements Made; Mothers' Day Reservations Deadline Pushed Back to Friday

Meet Tom'w, 10:30; Again Mon., 11:30

Junior Class participation in its biggest social week begins to move ahead as chairmen of Junior Week's events issue call for workers.

At two class meetings — one tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. in 207 C&F; the other Monday at 11:30 a. m. in C&F Auditorium—juniors will be asked to sign up with the committee on which they want to work.

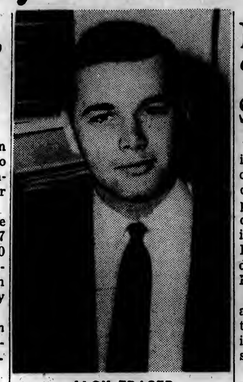
Favors to be given to prom dates have already been procured, according to favors chairman Ty Rauber.

Decorators Wanted

The committee which is asking for the most help from class members is the decorations crew, co-chairmened by Den Rinkacs and Dick Cooke. The two chairmen remind third-year men that transforming the Field House into a southern theme will take work.

Tickets for the prom, priced at $10 a couple, will be placed on sale April 3. Ticket sales will be handled by Jim McCormick's committee.

A drive for patrons in the prom program will be started soon, according to Joe Keffer, program chairman.



The above named chairmen will be looking for workers, along with Bill Smith, refreshments chairman and Lee Carson, miscellaneous chairman.

HUMOR, ANYONE?

ST. PETER, MINN.—(ACP)—The "Old Mane" column in the Gustavian weekly recently included these bits of wit:

Someone suggested that this sign be placed on all lecterns: CAUTION: Be sure brain is engaged before putting mouth in gear.

In this highly energetic and progressive age there are probably more home permanents than permanent homes.

JACK FRASER
Junior Prom Chairman

Much Improved:

'Business Whirl' Appears Second Week of March

Business Whirl will be on the campus the week of March 11. It will be distributed to all Commerce and Finance students in the Religion sections. The magazine will be of an 8x10 size and much improved in regards to the printing made possible by the new apparatus in the Research and Development Center, where the magazine is being printed.

Among the featured articles in the issue will be, "New Competition" by Bob Shallow, a multi-authored article on a "Model Tax System," a summation of the views of many personel managers on the College graduate and a sketch of the history of the G. A. W. by Pete Selesky. Also included will be pertinent campus news and other topics of current interest in the great scope of business.

The next issue is expected to be out in the middle of May.

Prom Band "Hot And Sweet" Group

The Class of '57 was recently informed that Tom Curran, band chairman, Jack Fraser, prom chairman, and Jack Decker, president of the class, had succeeded in signing one of America's "more prominent bands," Eddie Grady and the Commanders, for the forthcoming Junior Prom.

Few know the story of this aggregation which skyrocketed to fame so quickly with its ability to produce both most unusual sounds and fine smooth music.

The band received its start as a mere commercial recording band playing background for Decca recording artists. Their talent was first recognized by Camarata, a well known orchestra leader who was pleased with the band's rendition of both "hot" and "sweet" music. Quickly the Commanders became a popular dance band, as attested by the demand for their records.

Big Band Drummer

The band is led by Eddie Grady, a drummer who has performed with Tommy Dorsey, Glenn Miller and Benny Goodman, a most substantial background. His first with the Commanders was at a recording session and Camarata needed but one of these sessions to see that Mr. Grady was the man he needed to lead his new-found band.

Camarata himself has played the trumpet for Tommy Dorsey and played on, written and arranged Bing Crosby's Kraft Music Hall. He has also found time to organize a 70 piece symphony orchestra.

The Commanders are therefore in capable hands and their swift rise to the musical spotlight, coupled with their many varied arrangements and large juke box following assure a junior and his date attending the prom a most enjoyable musical evening.

EDDIE GRADY
Leads "Commanders"

At Broadwood:

Villanovans Take Part in ACS Regional Meeting

Villanova University was well-represented at the American Chemical Society's regional meeting of Delaware Valley, conducted at the Broadwood Hotel last week.

Dr. G. N. Guam, the Rev. G. F. Jenkins, OSA, and the Rev. J. W. Paquette jointly presented a paper entitled "Service Courses for Undergraduate Science Majors."

Also representing the faculty were Dr. R. White, and Dr. Yuen who presented a paper entitled "The Application of Xylene Equivalent Data to Residual Oil Compatability." Dr. R. J. Brumbaugh submitted a paper entitled "Flame Photometric Analysis of Lithium Minerals and Compounds."

No Money Needed To Sign Up

Deadline for Mothers' Day reservations has been moved to Friday.

Juniors need no money at this time, remind officials of the event.

All they have to do is sign up at the ticket booth in Dougherty Hall's day hop cafeteria from 11 a. m. until 1:30 p. m. each day.

Tickets must be purchased by March 23, chairman Jack O'Rourke emphasized.

In making reservations juniors should provide this information: the junior's name, his mother's name and her address.

If a junior's mother is not able to atend he may escort a female relative or friend, but the guest may not be a girl friend, the Mothers' Day committee reminded.

Tickets are priced at $10 for the event which traditionally marks the official opening of the biggest social week at Villanova.

Besides the opening Mass, juniors and their mothers or guests will take in a band concert, varsity baseball game (Villanova versus Temple), the annual Diaper Dan contest and the closing banquet.

Junior Class Meetings

Junior Week planning will occupy most of the Class of 1957 meetings tomorrow and Monday; according to class president Jack Decker.

Tomorrow's meeting at 10:30 a.m. will be held in 207 C & F. Monday's session has been scheduled for C & F Auditorium at 11:30 a.m.

Strictly Opinion

(Continued from Page 3)

The Harcum group, as well as the various females of the surrounding area still in high school, maintain a Villanova-aimed campaign year after year reaching a peak every Leap Year. These anxious young ladies, it is said, do not place as high a standard as to the size of the wallet's capacity, the strength of physical condition, or the depth of background that one may encounter at Bryn Mawr or Swathmore. Everyone has a chance to find an evening's entertainment in an encounter with these more proximate sources.

Those among us who feel that the threat to their freedom is not impaired by the areas mentioned above might consider the values of a road trip. Two locations of considerable stature among the ranks of female factories are Beaver College and good old W.C.S.T.C. which, we all realize, stands for West Chester State Teacher's College . . . a formidable site! It has been said that the benches of W.C.S.T.C. overflow with threats to a safe Leap Year. If you would enjoy being trapped, or snarred, as the case may be, by experts in the theory fide it amore, expose yourself to the Beavers of Jenkintown.

It is written that every Villanovan will have to spend one Spring during his carefree college life in the hazzardous predicament of a Leap Year. This is a noble challange to each and every man on the campus.

During the coming weekends, one has the choice of two courses of action. Those who feel that they are incapable of remaining true to the bachelor state may decide to avoid all contacts with the various female institutions, and consentrate on the books or softball. However, the true sport . . . the majority in this case . . . will expose himself readily to the supreme test of this critical situation, and make it a point to visit the site, as described above, most suitable to his estimate of his own strength and availability. May those who survive enjoy a comfortable and carefree three years, and our best to those who enter '57 in shackles.

Phil Taddeo's Group:

IRS, Hiking Membership to Sixty, Schedules Two Spring Semester Trips

The International Relations Society, recently revamped into a more tightly-knit organization with the purging of former nonactive members and the addition of new members as the result of appeals made by club president Phil Taddeo to the freshmen and sophomore history classes lately, is looking towards an active spring.

On the I.R.S. schedule is the Connetticut Valley Conference on the United Nations, to be held on Feb. 24 and 25 at Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass. The purpose of the conference is to arrive at a collegiate evaluation of the United Nations. Club members in attendance will be Walt Squire and Ted Mogavero.

Conference At Penn

Twenty-five members of the society will be at the University of Pennsylvania Museum for an Institute of Foreign Policy on Tuesday March 6. Further information concerning this conference will be given at a meeting on Thursday March 1 at 10:30 in 202 C & F. Anyone absent from that meeting may see Phil Taddeo for the information.

Sixty members, a record number attended a meeting last Thursday and were shown a travelogue from the color slide collection of Herm Eckrich, senior pre-Law student.

From the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace, the group was taken vicariously through northern Europe, Switzerland, Austria, Italy and France. The slides showed some of the complexity and beauty of contemporary Europe.

Trip To Washington

Lately, some few I.R.S. members have participated in various interesting conferences in the field of international relations.

Jack O'Leary represented Villanova at the More Political Forum held at St. Peter's College, Jersey City, on Feb. 18. An intercollegiate trip to Washington, D.C., on Feb. 12 was sponsored by the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia and featured foreign policy speeches and a conference on Uruguayan foreign policy and relations with the United States.

Phil Taddeo's invitation to undergarduates, especially those taking history, is still on.

Dads' Day Group Meets

Members of Harry Nash's Fathers' Day Committee gather around Senior Class President Jerry Guerrisi for an informal shot before meeting to further plans for the April 21 activities. Standing behind Guerrisi are, left to right, John Eddinger, Phil Keane and Ed Fletcher; to his left are Jim Heffernan and Jim Grady; to his hight are Tom Meaney (background), and, left to right, Joe Valenti, Joe Schultz and Jack Gilfillan. Seated in front of the desk are Frank DiSantis, left, and Matt Heim. Story on Page 1

Took Seats Monday:

Sheppard, Kempf Victors

Almost Half of Frosh Vote As Dayhop, Resident Win Handily

Two freshmen who ran on a platform promising a "brighter future" have taken their places on the Student Council.

Don Kempf and Al Sheppard were elected Thursday as about 46 per cent of the eligible voters in the Class of 1959—454—went to the polls.

They were seated on Council at Monday night's meeting.

Kempf, an Arts student from Deerfield, Ill., picked up the resident seat with 130 votes—45 more than runner up Victor Ludmerer.

54 Votes Ahead

Sheppard, a graduate of Northeast Catholic and an engineer, was named on 142 ballots to win the day hop seat over Richard Anthony, who had 88 votes.

Both representatives, who are regulars in the NROTC unit, will serve on Council until the end of their sophomore year.

Both Active

Kempf was a vice president of the student council at St. George's High School in Evanston, Ill. He was on the council all four years.

Sheppard was active in student government at North and was his class' representative on the alumni board.

(Continued on Page 11)

get acquainted with . . .

The Villanova Pharmacy

(ON LANCASTER AVENUE, AT THE WEST END OF THE CAMPUS)

For ALL your Drug Store needs,

P L U S

- STATIONERY
- PHOTO SUPPLIES
- SMOKER'S ARTICLES
- CLOCKS, GIFTS
- GREETING CARDS
- SCHOOL SUPPLIES
- SODA FOUNTAIN

Finest PRESCRIPTION Service

For Dinner . . . or a Weekend Vacation

Cherry Hill Inn

HADDONFIELD, N. J.

IF YOU CAN'T FIND NEWS, MAKE IT!

LOS ANGELES, CALIF. — (ACP)—The managing editor of the Daily Trojan recently got a traffic ticket because he wasn't paying attention to the important job of driving his car. And why was his mind wandering while he was behind the wheel? Because he was trying to think up angles for a campaign his paper was conducting . . . a traffic safety campaign.

* * *

Reflections

(Continued from Page 2)

of observations in which 'scientific principles of chance' have been confused with 'norms of social behavior', to the unpleasant confusion of all concerned.

Strictly speaking there is no such thing as chance. If it were otherwise, there would be no basis for science. The social sciences can ill afford to give further credence to this phantom of research, so well controlled in the physical sciences, so poorly controlled by the behavioral sciences.

NLN Consultant's Visit Heralds Nurses' Estimates

An important step towards the official evaluation of the Villanova Nursing Division by the National Nursing Accrediting Service, expected in March, 1957, was taken with the recent visit to the campus of Miss Eleanor Helm, M.S., a consultant for the National League for Nursing.

Program Reviewed

Miss Helm reviewed the Nursing program and led a roundtable discussion on the aims of a collegiate program and the future of nursing education with representatives of both the graduate and basic degree programs.

The Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, University president, the directors, active and associate faculty of the Division of Nursing met and conferred with Miss Helm.

The Activities Circuit:

Campus News

IRS Plans To Show Movies

President Leo Calabrese has announced that movies may highlight future meetings of the Industrial Relations Club. This idea will be discussed at the next meeting of the club which is scheduled for March 7.

Macri Names New Cheerleaders

Ted Macri, captain of the cheerleaders, has released the names of three recent additions to the cheerleader's squad.

Bob Switz: day-hop C&F freshman from Broomall.

Jim McCarthy: C&F sophomore, marketing major, from New York.

Ed McCarthy: C&F sophomore, marketing major, from Valley Stream, N. Y.

Alumni Hear Bragg, Singers

Don Bragg, newly crowned AAU pole vault champion, was the principal speaker at the last meeting of the South Jersey Alumni Club, Feb. 20. Bragg, a first tenor in the Villanova Singers, appeared jointly with the Singers on the evening's program.

In discussing the concert before the alumni club, Dr. Harold Gill Reuschlein, director of the Singers, said that "affairs like these are important in strengthening the bond between the student body and the alumni by showing the alumni just what is being accomplished on campus."

Physics Club To Meet Later

Due to the Sophomore Class meeting, the Physics Club postponed its scheduled meeting Feb. 23 until March 8, at which time James Shea will speak on "Geology and Associated Physics."

Tomorrow the club will hold nominations for the officers of the 1956-57 scholastic year and will also discuss plans for a field trip in the near future. President Charlie Schwerdtfeger urges that all members attend the nomination meeting. The meeting will be held in the Physics Lab at 10:30 a. m.

Sophomores Meet Tomorrow, 10:30

Sophomores are requested to be on hand for an important class meeting tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. in Commerce and Finance Auditorium.

Class president Paul Laughlin says that the purpose of the meeting is to discuss plans for the spring Soph-Frosh Hop.

Dance chairman and committee members will be announced at the meeting.

Chem Society Meets Today

Dr. Charles C. Price, professor of chemistry and chairman of that department at the University of Pennsylvania, is the first guest of this semester to address the Villanova Chemical Society, affiliate chapter of the American Chemical Society. The address will be at 4:00 p. m. in 215 Mendel Hall.

Topic for the talk is "The Nature and Importance of Graduate Study." President Bob Fredericks invited all students to attend.

Dr. Price has had a varied and interesting career. He obtained his bachelor's' degree from Swarthmore and his master's and doctorate from Harvard. He has taught at the University of Illinois and at Notre Dame, where he was formerly head of the Chemistry department.

Specializing in organic chemistry, Dr. Price has contributed numerous articles to various scientific journals.

A.S.C.E. Students Plan Outing

Bethlehem Steel's Sparrow Point, Md. Plant is the site of the ASCE field project. A visit to the fabricating division is planned since this parallels the work which the undergraduates will be doing upon graduation.

On April 23, representatives of the society will attend a national convention for the American Society of Chemical Engineers at Princeton University. Representatives from all the major universities will be present at this meeting.

VU Library Honors Pope With Display

In recognition of the forthcoming 17th anniversary of Pius XII's election to the papacy on March 12, the Library has set up a display in honor of the Holy Father.

Included in the exhibit, are two remarkable portraits of His Holiness. The first is a small needlepoint likeness, and the other is a large color photograph by the famous photographer of celebrities, Yousuf Karsh.

Achievements Listed

The papal blessing of the library and lists of important

(Continued on Page 11)

June Graduates: List of Grants Deadline, March 1

The following is a list of Graduate Fellowships opened to June graduates:

University of Detroit—Biology, Business Administration, Chemistry, Chemical Engineering, Dentistry, Education, English, Mathematics, Philosophy, Physics, Political Science, Psychology, and Sociology.

Niagara University—Education, Literature, History and Sociology. Lab assistants in Chemistry.

Fordham University—Assistantships: Biology, Chemistry,

(Continued on Page 11)

Fraternity News From Around the Campus:

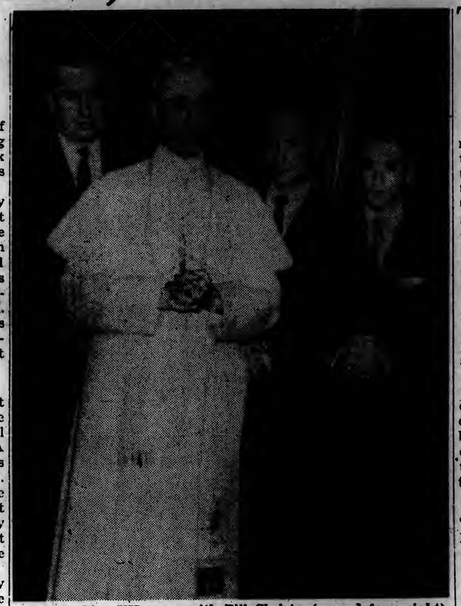
PKP Plans Initiations; DPE Meets To Nominate; DPM Breakfast Sun.

Gary Moran Chairman of April Dance

The annual dinner-dance of the Phi Kappa Pi Engineering fraternity will provide a climax to the initiation period of this year's pledges on April 14.

Dinner-dance chairman Gary Moran announced that the event will be held in Norristown at the Italian-American Club. Moran is still studying several band possibilities before a decision is to be reached. The price of tickets will be announced soon. Pledgemaster Hank Miller says that the pledges will be officially welcomed to the fraternity at the dinner-dance.

Seniors Receive Gifts



Gorham also announced that the new fraternity pins will be delivered by Easter. They will cost approximately $5.00. A new gift for departing seniors was approved by the members. It consists of a tie clasp with the new pin design on it. This gift will replace the fraternity key which has been given in past years. The seniors will receive this gift at the dinner-dance.

A new constitution, recently framed was presented to the members for discussion. It will be forwarded for adoption at a later meeting. An executive committee was appointed for the second semester.

Bowling league chairman Frank Okenka announced that a cash prize will be awarded to the winning team at the close of the season.

Hold Smoker

The fraternity held its third smoker of the year last Monday in the C. and F. auditorium. As in the past, a movie was shown and refreshments were served. The chairman was Tom O'-Rourke.

Pope Pius XII poses with Bill Christy (second from right), a sophomore Arts student, Bill's father and brother. The Christys were received in audience by the Pope last summer. Mr. Christy is a Villanova alumnus.

Tonight, 7; DPM Honors Its Pledges

Nominations for officers for next year is the main business to be taken care of at a meeting this evening at 7:00 p. m. in 201 C&F of the Delta Pi Epsilon, the Commerce and Finance school fraternity.

Before the nominations, each of this year's officers will enumerate his duties for the benefit of the nominees.

Mr. William Pierce, accounting instructor and fraternity moderator, will talk on the importance of fraternity officers and the job they do.

The first issue of the DPE paper, a fraternity innovation, came out this week. The purpose of this paper is to give the members of the fraternity a resume of frat activities and a chance to air any complaints or criticisms.

Having successfully survived "hell week," pledges of Delta Pi Mu, Arts and Science school fraternity, can look forward to "hell night" tomorrow evening, and the completion of their initiation.

As fully accredited members of DPM, the present pledges will joint their big brothers Sunday for the annual communion breakfast. Following Mass and communion the fraternity brothers will repair to the dining room in Dougherty Hall for a catered breakfast.

Principal speaker at the breakfast will be Harry Nash, senior English major. Nash's topic will be concerned with fraternity as a driving force in college life.

Collegiate Whirl

The Brighter Side

Duluth, Minn. — (ACP) — If the world sometimes seems a rather unpleasant place, you might reflect on this story which ran in John Hill's column in the Statesman, published at the University of Minnesota's Duluth branch. Hill writes:

"Have you seen those posters (a picture of a small child using crutches on them) with a container attached and the plea: "Help me too, join the March of Dimes"? I've a younger brother who works at the Granada theater taking tickets and he tells me that the first thing children do when they enter the lobby with their parents is ask for popcorn. Last week, however, one little boy entered the theatre and immediately stared intensely at the March of Dimes poster. He didn't ask for popcorn. Instead he said: "Daddy, please give me some money for this little boy."

Restores your faith in humanity, doesn't it?

* * *

From Round About

According to Red Sanders, UCLA football coach, theUCLA student body takes an adult view of hanging in effigy. When approached on the subject by a sports writer, Sanders said, "There's nothing childish about our student body. If they decide to hang me, it would be for keeps."

Temple University recently received an unusual letter. The envelope was addressed directly to the University and marked in bold letters "PERSONAL."

Confucius say: Many a man's tongue has broken his nose.

Says Adler at Forum:

Liberal Education Key To A Perfect Democracy

"A perfect democracy is impossible without liberal education."

This was one of the highlights of the address, "The Future of Democracy," given by Dr. Mortimer J. Adler last Thursday on campus. Dr. Adler was the second in a series of speakers brought to the University by the Villanova Forum.

Dr. Adler, in outlining our basic types of government, tryanny, despotism, constitutional oligarchy and constitutional democracy, pointed to democracy as the only government system providing the people with the only just form of self-government.

Three Democratic Attempts

He continued that democracy, as such, does not exist in the world today. "Only three times in history has there been any attempt at democratic government," he said. "We find these attempts in the city-states of ancient Greece, in the English revolution of the seventeenth century, and in the present structure of American government as seen in the last 50 years.

"Today, in the United States we find only the embryo of democracy. Not yet have we achieved true government of the people, by the people and for the people." Dr. Adler urged that only three things may prevent enfranchisement: infancy, idiocy and moral turpitude. He cited the poll tax as an abuse of democracy because it limits the vote to those who have property.

There are three hurdles which must be overcome before a true democracy can be established, the speaker said. These are the

(Continued on Page 12)

Opera-Classica Will Feature Beethoven, 7 P.M.

Beethoven's "Concerto in D major" for violin and orchestra and Dvorak's "Symphony No. 5 in E minor" will be the featured works for tonight's Opera-Classica concert. Beethoven's single violin concerto, written in 1806, a year of great creative activity for the composer, will feature Zino Francescatti, violinist, with the Philadelphia Orchestra, Eugene Ormandy, conducting. The Concerto is divided into three movements, Allegro ma non troppo, Larghetto, and Rondo (Allegro). It is one of exceptional mobility, warmth, and expressiveness.

Rodzinski To Conduct

Dvorak's "Symphony No. 5" will be performed by the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra of London, Arthur Rodzinski conducting. It was written in 1893 and reflects the influence of the composer's study of Negro and Indian melodies. The work has four movements, Allegro, Largo, Scherzo, and Allegro. Free program notes will be distributed.

Dean's List

(Continued from Page 5)

300	Hamburger, Richard J.	B10	SO
365	Hatton, George A.	LA	SO
321	Herbst, Joseph A.	CHE	SO
305	Hogan, Roger E.	EE	SO
311	Houlihan, Thomas F.	MKT	SO
307	Hunt, John J. Jr.	AHT	SO
318	Keegan, Joseph M.	AHT	SO
300	Kennedy, John D.	AHT	SO
319	Kinney, Joseph A.	AHT	SO
326	Koestler, Donald J.	CHE	SO
300	Kuman, Joseph J.	AHT	SO
359	Laughlin, Paul F.	AHT	SO
300	Lawrence, William J.	EE	SO
328	Le Male, Gerald M.	B10	SO
329	Llewellyn, Gregory J.	B10	SO
347	Mahedy, William P.	AHT	SO
331	Marley, Donald R.	LA	SO
300	Martinez, Arturo	CE	SO
319	Maurer, James D.	MKT	SO
321	McConnell, Howell A.	AHT	SO
319	McDonnell, Michael T.	LA	SO
326	McEntee, J. Richard	CHE	SO
358	McGuire, Joseph M.	MIE	SO
325	McGuire, Thomas J.	LA	SO
375	McHugh, Joseph J.	MKT	SO
325	McNeney, James Lloyd	CE	SO
318	McWilliams, Robert P.	AHT	SO
300	Michaud, Roger L.	MKT	SO
306	Miller, John L.	CHE	SO
300	Moynihan, John J.	AHT	SO
319	Muller, John B.	FIN	SO
306	Murphy, Joseph A.	LA	SO
315	Nicholson, John P.	LA	SO
313	Phillips, Joseph E.	MKT	SO
313	Norton, Joseph A.	ACC	SO
321	Plate, Louis J. Jr.	ME	SO
310	Pongio, Vincent John	CE	SO
325	Lagalla, Anthony J.	C E	SO
311	Halkowski, Robert P.	ACC	SO
300	Reilly, Donald Raymond	P L	SO
300	Reilly, William J. P.	EDU	SO
372	Sestoski, Lawrence J.	CHE	SO
363	Retacco, Daniel A.	LA	SO
300	Roland, John Harry Jr.	P L	SO
310	Ryan, James T.	CE	SO
318	Rosenblatt, Stanley A.	B10	SO
306	Scott, Paul Joseph	ACC	SO
329	Semond, Charles J.	EE	SO
395	Silvestri, Anthony J.	CHE	SO
353	Snader, John H.	EDU	SO
394	Solarski, John E. Jr.	PHY	SO
318	Solomon, Jack L.	B10	SO
319	Squier, John R.	FIN	SO
394	Szablewski, Alexander	ACC	SO
300	Thornton, Robert J.	ACC	SO
335	Udicious, Ralph J.	PHY	SO
381	Walheim, Joseph A.	ACC	SO
341	Walsh, William J.	A'C	SO
375	Whalen, Thomas J.	LA	SO
306	Whalen, John R.	ACC	SO
325	Yamiacone, J. Anthon	ACC	SO
355	Yantis, Gerald G.	EE	SO
320	Zimmerman, Alfred	ACC	SO
	JUNIORS
383	Abbott, Dorothy	NUR	JR
381	Acri, John Albert	P L	JR
353	Adam, Marianne	NUR	JR
300	Atkins, Robert J.	AHT	JR
325	Ast, Harry S.	ACC	JR
306	Barlow, William G.	ACC	JR
305	Barton, William E.	CE	JR
300	Blanowski, Casmir J.	AHT	JR
317	Bowers, Paul R.	EE	JR
353	Boyle, Edward M.	CE	JR
316	Boyle, J. Patrick	HIS	JR
329	Brown, Charles E.	B10	JR
300	Brown, James E. Jr.	CE	JR
313	Brown, John Shepard	MKT	JR
317	Burns, Margaret Mary	NUR	JR
337	Callahan, William P. Jr.	ME	JR
300	Cannon, William T.	B10	JR
339	Cardella, Vincent G.	SCI	JR
332	Carson, Leslie J., Jr.,	HIS	JR
300	Cassidy, Daniel J.	MKT	JR
305	Catanese, George A.	ME	JR
311	Chenes, Gerald J.	ACC	JR
319	Chmiec, Lawrence C.	ACC	JR
325	Cole, Stewart W.	ACC	JR
321	Collins, David	ME	JR
400	Costello, Frederick	NUR	JR
316	Dahlbeck, Arlene E.	NUR	JR
311	De nSatis, Daniel J.	CE	JR
300	Dooling, Stephen J.	ACC	JR
325	Di Joseph, Robert J.	ACC	JR
317	Donohue, Eugene J.	HIS	JR
300	Eberle, Lawrence C.	MKT	JR
381	Eckenrode, William J.	ACC	JR
306	Emig, Leo G.	ACC	JR
300	Engler, Raymond V.	AHT	JR
317	Erdlen, John D.	AHT	JR
389	Fabia, Dominic D.	EE	JR
317	Fadlin, Harry W. Jr.	EE	JR
300	Feeney, James E.	MKT	JR
341	Finerty, Thomas M.	MKT	JR
300	Fortuna, Francis A.	EE	JR
100	French, John L.	PL	JR
356	Fritsky, Stephen J.	HIS	JR
341	Gaughan, Jocelyn John	EDU	JR
367	Gallagher, Patrick R.	EE	JR
300	George, Ralph P.	B10	JR
329	Ghosh, Joseph T.	ENG	JR
337	Green, Richard F.	SOC	JR
325	Hall, John G.	ACC	JR
337	Hall, Gerald R.	ME	JR
383	Hargett, Isaac R.	B10	JR
300	Hershfeld, Donald J.	ME	JR
313	Higgins, Thomas M.	MKT	JR
305	Higgins, Thomas W.	CHE	JR
100	Hirsch, James	EE	JR
327	Hoffman, Stamford	SOC	JR
356	Hooker, Thomas R.	EE	JR
316	Hooper, John R., Jr.	MAT	JR
316	Hopkins, Louis C.	NUR	JR
383	Husted, John M.	EE	JR
333	Kane, Leo P.	P L	JR
363	Keeler, Charles C.	ACC	JR
344	Koffer, Joseph H.	B10	JR
306	Koplovits, Edward F.	ACC	JR
317	Kehne, Joan Marie	NUR	JR
311	Kelly, Austin T.	EE	JR
356	Kennedy, John M.	MKT	JR
306	Kiernan, John F.	EE	JR
356	La Croix, John R.	MKT	JR
300	Lawrence, Thomas E.	ACC	JR
311	Lesnizzaki, Irene D.	NUR	JR
381	Litchert, George F.	ACC	JR
383	Ludwig, Oliver G., III	CHM	JR
311	Macaluso, Lawrence J.	B10	JR
348	Madura, Richard J.	HIS	JR
320	Mahan, Arthur K.	ACC	JR
347	Maher, John J.	ACC	JR
306	Malhame, David	MKT	JR
344	Manlandro, James J.	B10	JR
328	Manhoefer, Laurence J.	EE	JR
300	Martin, Ernest J., Jr.	ACC	JR
316	Mautz, George F.	CE	JR
347	McBryan, Don J.	CHE	JR
344	McCall, Edward Leo	ACC	JR
318	McCarthy, Edward P.	ED	JR
320	McCullen, Joseph T.	SOC	JR
400	McGee, John F.	ART	JR
306	McDevitt, David T.	CE	JR
400	McHale, James J.	ACC	JR
347	McNicholas, John P.	HIS	JR
300	Meenahan, William J.	EE	JR
347	McNulty, Daniel J.	P L	JR
306	Miller, John W.	CE	JR
300	Milusaic, Anthony	B10	JR
367	Mingrone, Joseph B.	B10	JR
325	Morrin, Thomas E.	P L	JR
300	Moyer, Richard H.	EE	JR
300	Mullen, James A.	HIS	JR
372	Nasuti, Floyd T.	B10	JR
322	Noonan, Joseph L.	EE	JR
300	Nowak, Joseph C.	ACC	JR
306	Nyhart, Peter G.	ED	JR
353	O'Donnel, James B.	P L	JR
400	O'Neil, Harry	ACC	JR
300	O'Rourke, John F.	CE	JR
300	Pastore, Angelo L.	PHY	JR
305	Pyle, Ronald W.	ME	JR
305	Quinn, Bernard T.	P L	JR
309	Quinn, John T.	HIS	JR
281	Quinn, Vincent W. Jr.	ACC	JR
400	Ross, Charles	PHY	JR
325	Santoro, Louis D.	MKT	JR
333	Scanlon, Thomas J.	MKT	JR
333	Seidel, Mark R.	MAT	JR
337	Serena, Robert M.	HIS	JR
400	Shea, James R.	PHY	JR
305	Slavin, Frank J.	ME	JR
300	Slavin, Joseph E.	AHT	JR
300	Sneeringe, Leonard J.	EE	JR
356	Stauffer, Richard F.	EE	JR
368	Sullivan, John J.	HIS	JR
379	Sullivan, Vincent E.	CHE	JR
372	Threston, Joseph T.	ME	JR
358	Travis, Reece J.	MIE	JR
328	Vadino, Nicholas D.	HIS	JR
300	Varallo, Joseph A.	B10	JR
300	Waldron, James E.	EE	JR
356	Ward, Francis J.	EE	JR
516	Whalen, Henry F. Jr.	CHE	JR
373	Wiesenbaugh, Robert D.	B10	JR
381	Williams, Richard C.	ACC	JR
	SENIORS
400	Adams, Francis	PHI	SR
328	Allen, John E.	EE	SR
321	Allen, Edward P.	ACC	SR
321	Alton, James D., Jr.	ENG	SR
319	Ballister, Barry J.	ART	SR
356	Barth, Robert E.	EE	SR
306	Bilanz, Eugene M.	ENG	SR
382	Birchill, Mary Joan	NUR	SR
385	Brennan, Ambrose K.	CHE	SR
318	Brennan, Joseph X.	ME	SR
317	Brennan, Robert W.	FIN	SR

(Continued on Page 12)

Grid Schedule Released 9 Games Carded For '56

Iowa State And Citadel Added To Wildcat Foe

AMBROSE "BUD" 'DUDLEY
Announces 1956 Grid Schedule

Villanova's Athletic Director, Ambrose "Bud" Dudley, released yesterday the 1956 football schedule. The team will play a nine game schedule, traveling to six away games, while playing three home contests.

The Wildcats open the season on September 22 when they meet Texas A&M at College Station, Texas. The Aggies were regarded as a power in the Southwest conference last season, with a sophomore laden squad. In their last meeting in 1949 Villanova defeated the Texas A & M, 34-14.

Detriot, Dayton Again

The following week the University of Detroit plays host to Villanova. It will be remembered that, in a rainsoaked game last season, Detroit eked out a 6-0 victory over the Wildcats. On October 13, Villanova plays Dayton at Dayton. The Flyers beat the Wildcats last season.

Boston University, who was temporarily dropped from the schedule last year, renews their rivalry by playing host to Villanova on October 20 in Fenway Park, Boston. In their last meeting the Wildcats were defeated 28-6.

The first home game of the season will be played on October 27 against Florida State. In last year's game, played in Florida, Villanova lost a close 16-13 contest to the Seminoles.

To Play Citadel

Villanova again travels to New England to meet their traditional rival, Boston College, on November 3. In last year's televised meeting the Wildcats lost to the Eagles, 28-14. On November 10 Villanova entertains the Citadel at Goodreau Stadium on the Villanova campus. This is the Mainliners' first encounter with the South Carolina military school.

Houston, who beat Villanova last season, will host the Wildcats at their home stadium on November 17. The final game of the year will be played November 24 in Philadelphia against Iowa State. The last time the two squads met was in 1942, when Villanova defeated Iowa State 32-7.

'Whatcha Gotta Do?'

Trackmen Provide Thrills But 5 Firsts Not Enough

By DICK BRADY

Saturday night Villanova's track team fell just short in a bid for its first I.C.4A. track and field championship. The defending champions, Manhattan's Jaspers, edged the Wildcats in Madison Square Garden by the slightest of margins 36-34. Even though the Wildcats won five firsts to only two for Manhattan, the Jaspers managed to pick up enough points to retain their title.

There was no doubt that Villanova was the standout among the entries even though they finished second. The Wildcats firsts were Don Bragg in pole vault, Charley Jenkins in the 600, Phil Reavis in the high jump, Ron Delany in the mile and the mile relay team which breezed home in the impressive time of 3:19.6.

Bragg All The Way

Don Bragg never left the issue in doubt in the pole vault as he went 15 feet 2 inches for the best jump of his career. Bragg broke the I. C. 4 A. meet record three times as he vaulted 14-6, 14-10 and eventually 15-2.

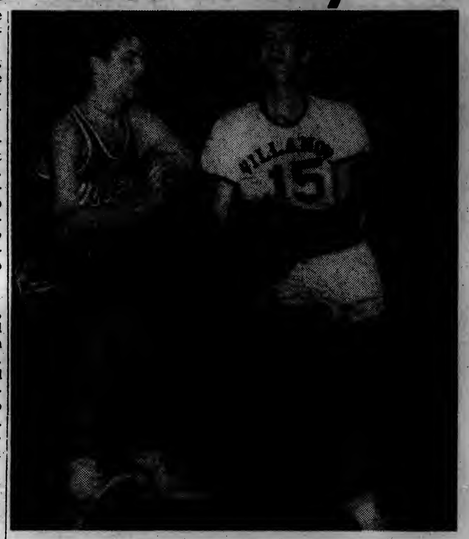
Charley Jenkins (who has lost only once this season) was once again in top form as he won easily in the 600. He was clocked in 1:11.9 and came in with six yards to spare over his closest opposition.

Ron Delany swept home in the mile with no trouble in 4:11.4. Delany ran in third place until two laps remained and then jumped into first place. After that he was never headed and in the last lap turned on a burst of speed that brought him home ten yards ahead of the field. Ike Matza of NYU was second.

Reavis Wins In 6-5

Another Villanova first came in the high jump, which went to Phil Reavis with a jump of 6 feet 5 inches . Although Reavis didn't get up to his best effort of the season—6-10—the 6-5 jump was an inch better than any of the other entries could manage.

Bobby Powers Dropped From Court Squad



Bobby Powers, a talented junior basketball star, was dropped from the team last week for disciplinary reasons.

The New York resident's ouster from the varsity squad came after Villanova's 80-61 loss to Scton Hall on Saturday, Feb. 18.

Powers, who played high school basketball at Cardinal Hayes High School in the Bronx, where he was an all-city performer, was playing his second year of varsity basketball, and was averaging better than 12 points per game.

Prior to his dismissal from the basketball team, Powers had made a name for himself as a colorful, and controversial, court star.

Explorers Meet Villanova For Third Place in City

Jack Weissman, closely guarded by a Duquesne opponent, drives in for a lay-up in action at the Palestra. Villanova lost the game, 80-61, for their 11th loss of the year. They have 11 victories.

Another close city series game is in prospect tonight when Villanova takes the floor against LaSalle's explorers. Both teams, currently tied for third place in the city league, will be battling to gain undisputed possession of that spot.

The Explorers present a veteran squad with average height and good ball handling ability. Paced by seniors Charley Singley, Charley Greenberg, and Bob Maples, and junior Alonzo Lewis, LaSalle has been able to maintain a better than .500 percentage in season's play to date.

Created Stir In N. Y.

After a slow start this season, the Explorers created a mild stir by their fine showing in New York's Holiday Festival. Al Lewis' brilliant one-handed jump shot was largely responsible for the team winning two holiday contests, and losing a losing a third to the San Francisco Dons, after a nip-and-tuck thirty minutes of action.

Another team which LaSalle defeated earlier in the season was the Richmond Spiders, the same squad that dumped Villanova by 30 points two weeks ago.

Fine Bench

LaSalle also boasts one of the finest benches in basketball this season. Reserves Frank Blatcher, Walt Fredericks and Charlie Eltringham have been invaluable in the Explorers scheme of things. Fredericks, a 6-6 junior, has been particularly important under the boards, and has handled the brunt of rebounding.

In the three previous meetings between the Wildcats and the Explorers, Villanova has twice emerged the victor. In both 1934 and 1935, the Mainliners defeated the Explorers. Slight revenge was obtained later in 1935, however, when LaSalle turned the tables, 29-23.

DON BRAGG
Vaults 15' 2"

Although George Sydnor ran second to Johnny Haines of Penn, Haines had to tie the world record in the 60 yard dash to beat him. Other Wildcat entries placed were Bob Holup who was third in the 60 yard high hurdles and Alex Breckenridge who ran fourth in the two mile event.

Notch Thirteenth Victory:

Kittens Humble LaSalle, Brown Prep; Ryan Stars

Frosh Break 100 For Third Time On Field House Court

During the seasons that Maje McDonnell has been tutoring Villanova's freshman basketball team, he has spun fine fabric out of the Wildcat youngsters. This year is no exception. Last week, the Frosh club earned two more victories—boosting its season's total to thirteen—against LaSalle and Brown Prep.

Led as usual by red-headed Joe Ryan, the Frosh ran to an impressive 86-75 win over the Explorer first—year men last Tuesday at the Field House. Ryan contributed 25 markers during the one-sided battle, and George Emma threw in 14 to sway the contest in favor of the Villanova quintet.

The Brown Prep contest, however, proved more difficult to win. Exhibiting the scoring touch of professional basketball players, the game ended in a 114-111 victory for Villanova.

Rossi and Carey Score

Neither team wasted any time in putting the ball through the hoop. Villanova drew first blood, via a pair of jump shots by both Ron Rossi and Pat Carey, and took a commanding 20-9 lead after five minutes of play.

The game slowed considerably for Villanova at this point, but the Brown Prepers found themselves, and Jack Leamon and Dick Groge drove and set respectively to put Brown six points within reach.

Ryan then warmed up for the Frosh, and threw in a 30 foot set shot, and came back a moment later to contribute two free throws. Ken Harrison connecton a jump from the left side, and Gene O'Pella tapped one through the hoop to put Villanova 12 in front. Harrison connected for two more jumps, and it looked as if Villanova was out of Brown's reach.

Substitutes Stall Attack

A rash of substitutions by McDonnell with 16:20 gone stalled the Villanova attack, and Brown took advantage of it once more to pull within reach. Al Cavalla hooked in two for the losers, and Jimmy Hurst and Groge connected with a battery of set shots which closed the margin to six once more.

At halftime, Villanova led by only seven points.

The second half went much as did the first, with neither team missing when a scoring opportunity presented itself. It started with Villanova picking up six points on two tap-ins by O'Pella, who dominated the boards during the entire game, and on a lazy, 30 footer by Ryan.

Hurst came back with a quick volley of three jump shots for Brown, however, and the game started to get close.

With 8 minutes remaining, Villanova commanded a 15 point lead, but its scoring attack fell miserably, and Brown dropped in 13 in a row to close the score to 90-88.

Frosh Held 2 Point Lead

Villanova maintained the two point lead for seven and half minutes before Ryan was fouled by Groge on a successful lay-up attempt. The free throw was good, and Villanova led 111-108.

(Continued on Page 10)

Marty Milligan drives down the middle for a lay-up while four Duquesne ballplayers converge upon him during a Palestra contest which the Iron Dukes won, 80-61, last Saturday night.

SPORTS CHATTER

A Team Must Be Molded

By BOB STRAYTON

Saturday's "comedy of errors" at the Palestra, a thing which lately has come to be called basketball around Villanova's campus, was perhaps the worst display of that game ever witnessed by a member of the present student body. When a squad of the calibre that Duquesne's is this year can make a complete mockery of a ball game—and do that without a 100 percent performance by Si Green—then the time has come to be concerned.

It is doubtful that Mickey Winograd, Dave Ricketts, Jack Sauer, George Henry, and one-half of Si Green (the other half rested at the half court line for a large part of the game) are capable to disgrace the 1955-56 Villanova team. Man for man, Villanova has the edge in experience, ability, speed, and height. Comparatively speaking, Jimmy Smith, Jack Weissman, Jack Kelly, Marty Milligan, Jim Fahey, and Al Griffith add up to a team, if not superior, at least equal to the coalition from Pittsburgh which they faced Saturday night.

The Dukes Made The Thing A Farce

Unquestionably, though, the visitors took full measure of the Wildcat team. They stole passes with reckless abandon and took shots from ten feet away from the basket when there wasn't Villanova defender within five feet of them—and all this without an all-out performance by Mr. Green. In general, the Iron Dukes turned the whole thing into a farce, and completely humiliated Villanova's basketball team besides.

Villanova's Defense Was An Ineffective Shambles

The Wildcats themselves, however, did not look any too potent. The shambles that was thrown up and intended to resemble a defense was completely ineffective, even against the mediocrity of a team like Duquesne. On many occasions during the course of the game—usually when the Dukes scored from inside—the entire Wildcat defense was pulled to one side of the court, and the man with the ball came in completely unmolested from the other side. Result: a gift of two points. Of course, when this happened, Villanova would take the ball from out of bounds, and work it up past half-court. A pass to the man under the boards usually followed this maneuver—even though there was a clot of six or seven men under the boards at the same time—and a foolish, desperate shot would follow, which, for the most part, went far astray of the target. And so it went, until finally it came to an end, and Villanova emerged as possibly the most disgraced hometown team to play at the Palestra this season.

Oddly, Villanova Could Probably Take Duquesne

The oddest thing about the game, though, is that the Wildcats—as a team— could most probably beat the pants off the Duquesne team. But, alas, there was no Villanova team to play them, merely a group of five individuals not quite sure to do, and through no fault of their own. When they started practice prior to the season, they were good raw material which had to be shaped, and molded, and instructed until they became a well-polished unit, capable of performing together with a certain amount of synchronization.

It's Up To Molding A Team

That is where the difference between Duquesne and Villanova lies. The Dukes had to start in the same way before the season—just as any team does. They were raw material, not quite as good, it would seem, as Villanova's, and also had to be molded into a well-coordinated unit—just as any team must. Under the able tutelage of coach Dudey Moore, the men from Pittsburgh were formed into a playing unit—not a great playing unit, for the constituents of it, barring one, were not great ball players to begin with—which was able to function with a certain degree of finesse and polish during the season.

Against Villanova the other night, Dudey Moore's products displayed the results of their pre-season instruction, and came out on the long end of an 80-61 count; the Wildcats, at the same time, displayed with great vigor the conditioning which they received before, and during, the season.

They came out nineteen points behind Mr. Moore's proteges.

Wildcats Nipped By Canisuis Five, Smothered by Dukes and Si Green

Senior Marty Milligan Basketball Ace-In-Hole

Several times this season, Coach Al Severance has pulled a surprise out of his bag of tricks and presented it to his opponents. His latest ace-in-the-hole has been one Martin H. Milligan, a blond, good-looking Senior who has moved off the bench to spark the team in recent contests.

Marty Milligan came to Villanova four years ago from West Catholic High in Philadelphia, and in his first year of varsity competition as a sophomore he was a regular starter. Last year, an ankle sprain early in the season kept him from seeing much action, and this year he seemed destined to be sixth or seventh man on a fairly evenly balanced varsity.

Scored 17 Against Fordham

However, getting his chance as a starter four weeks ago in the Fordham game, Marty scored 17 points as the Blue and White won 61-57, in double overtime. Four days later, he again led the way, scoring 21, as the Wildcats downed Penn, 89-74, for their first City series victory.

Marty Milligan has been a regular starter ever since.

Unusual Set Shot

The most distinguishing trait of the 6'2" sparkplug when he is on the basketball court is his unusual and uncannily accurate overhead set shot. He says that this was the same shot he used when he starred in his senior year at West. As his team won the Catholic League and City Championships, Marty earned a berth on the All-Catholic and All-Scholastic teams, and was picked as the most valuable player in the city title game.

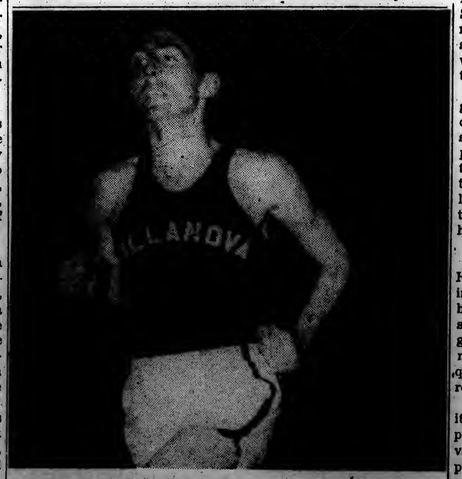
Marty has no definite plans for his future at this moment, although he says he may go into service. Whatever his ambition, he has shown enough fighting spirit to carry him to success.

CHARLEY JENKINS
Wins IC4A 600 Easily

Swimmers Defeat Drexel; Are Sunk By LaSalle Squad

Villanova's talented mermen took on LaSalle and Drexel this week, losing to the Explorers by a 54-30 count and defeating Drexel, 53-31.

In defeating the Wildcats, La Salle broke two pool records and won its 20th straight victory. Jim Sheehan, a double winner, broke the 19 year old record by 0:53.6 and his teammate Terry winning the 100-yard freestyle in McLaughlin set a 2:20.5 mark in the 200-yard individual medley. For Villanova, Lou Pinto, in the



(Continued on Page 11)

(Continued from Page 9)

A basket apiece by each team followed, but Ryan again was fouled, and made good the attempt, securing the ball game.

Although Brown was an unerring shot-making team, Villanova's synchronized offense and razor-sharp passing spelled the difference, and the Wildcats won, 114-111.

The game was played at the Field House on Saturday.

Wildcats Get Five Firsts: RON DELANY Runs 4:11.4 Mile

Jim Smith Stars In Both Losses

By HANK NICHOLS

Villanova's tamed Wildcats fell victims to two tournament bound quintets last week as they were beaten by Canisius College's Golden Griffins, 89-81, and soundly trounced by Duquesne, 80-61.

In the Canisius game, played in Buffalo's Memorial Auditorium the 'Cats were afforded some of the typical refreeing that visiting basketball teams receive when playing the Griffins at home, and although the 'Cats played one of their best games of the season, they were outlasted by the NCAA-bound five.

Villanova played well throughout the game, but it was in the early moments that the 'Cats did their finest work. Smith, Weismann, and Milligan led the early assault that saw the Main Liners lead range from four to eight points through most of the first half. With three minutes to go before the intermission, All-American candidate John McCarthy and a pint size set shooter, Dave Markey, got working and by half-time the score read 43-41 in favor of Canisus.

McCarthy, Nowak Stand Out

McCarthy received added help in the second half from Hank Nowak, and their play overshadowed the fine play of Kelly and Fahey. The 'Cats almost pulled the game out in the late stages. They cut a Canisius lead from 77-66 to 77-76 with two minutes

(Continued on Page 11)

Schafer Injury "Sore Back" Say Pro Teammates

In an exclusive interview with members of the St. Louis Hawks' professional basketball team, last Saturday night the VILLANOVAN learned that Bobby Schafer, ex-Wildcat great who is now playing with the Hawks suffered a back injury two weeks ago, and has been unable to play since then.

Schafer, who is a topic of great interest to Villanova underclassmen, joined the professional ranks with the Philadelphia Warriors, but was sold to the Hawks during the middle of this season. He left Villanova last June after becoming one of the ten best scorers in collegiate history.

Merely a Sore Back

Chuck Share, a seven-foot Hawk center, described Schafer's injury as being merely a "sore back," but added that it wasn't serious. His unprofessional diagnosis was affirmed by teammate Bob Pettit, who is causing quite a stir in the NBA as a rookie this season.

Queried about Schafer's ability as a professional basketball player, aged Alex Hannum, a veteran performer who used to play with the Celtics, summed it up by saying: "He's one helluva shooter, that boy."

Queens Arrive

(Continued from Page 5)

pictures alone and all pictures will be returned, announces contest chairman Joe Redmond.

3. All pictures must be accompanied by the following information—on a separate piece of paper firmly attached to the picture or written on the back of the photo:

Girl's name, address, age, height, weight, color of hair, color of eyes, present occupation, schools attended; and Junior's name, campus or home address (if day hop), telephone number and school in the university (Arts, C & F, Engineering).

Library Display

(Continued from Page 7)

dates and outstanding achievements in the Pope's career are shown along with copies of the 12 encyclicals issued by the Holy Father and a number of books on his life and works. A complete newspaper account of Pope Pius' recent vision is also displayed.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Frosh On Council

(Continued fro.. Page 7)

After his election, Kempf said that he and Sheppard would follow through on the "brighter future" platform they ran on.

Kempf listed these as the most important points in the program: improvement of the intramural atheltic program and a more effective orientation plan for next year's freshman class.

"We will do our best to make Council more effective," commented Kempf, who attended Council meetings before his nomination to observe the group at work.

Oriental Atmosphere

(Continued from Page 1)

orations have been prepared by Charlie Ross, John Kilker, Phil Butler, Ray Clarke, Dick Cooke, Joe Schultz, Peter Scott, Fred Onorato, John Alshefski, Ray Engler and George Sinnott.

Price of tickets is $1:50 per couple.

THE CAMPUS BARBER SHOP

Swim Meet

(Continued from Page 9)

200 yard breaststroke, and the relay team of Duffy, Kean, Klesius, and Couig in the 400 freestyle relay, managed to emerge in front. It was only the second loss in nine meets for the Villanova swimmers.

Drexel Trounced

The visitors from Drexel didn't fare too well, as they were trounced by the Wildcats by a 53-31 count. With Dennie Rinkacs and Lou Schoener each winning twice, the swimmers took eight first places out of ten events to chalk up win number ten against only two setbacks. Other winners for Villanova included Lee Carson, Bob Duffy, and Pat Kean in the 300 yard relay, Johnny Flynn in the 200 yard individual medley, Lou Pinto in the 200 breaststroke, and Mr. Big in Villanova swimming, the incomparable Don Couig in the 200 yard yd. backstroke. Drexel suffered its eighth set back of the season. next Saturday when they face the Red and Blue of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia to try for victory number 11 under the able leadership of Ciach Ed. Geisz.

June Graduates

(Continued from Page 7)

Classics, Economics, English, Government, History, Philosophy, Physics, Psychology, Romance Languages, Sociology.

University of Arizona — Chemistry, Education, Geology, Biochem, Botany, Entomology, Economics, English, French, German, History, Music, Philosophy, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology, Physics, Bacteriology, Business Administration, Civil Government, Mechanical Engineering.

Marquette University—Botany, Business Administration Chemistry, Economics, Education, English, French, German, History, Journalism, Latin, Mathematics, Philosophy, Physics, Zoology.

All applications for these fellowships must be submitted to the respective graduate schools prior to March 1, 1956.

Sullivan Hall:

Ground	LA 5-9061	LA 5-9331
1st Fl.	LA 5-9288	LA 5-9256
	LA 5-9161
2nd Fl.	LA 5-9304	LA 5-9366
	LA 5-9241	LA 5-9195
3rd Fl.	LA 5-9047	LA 5-9050
	LA 5-9303	LA 5-9348

Russian Boss Rises

(Continued from Page 3)

He has a reputation as a brilliant administrator who worked successfully in industry, finance, government, and the secret police. He has been one of the Soviet's most persistent advocates of military preparedness, constantly warning against any relaxation in the face of "threats" from the West.

However, in the typical Communist attitude toward the Western world, he has, in many of his speeches, vehemently accused the Western democracies of warmongering. "Imperialist forces, headed by the United States," he charged in March 1954, "openly carry on a policy of preparing a new war against us and the People's Democracies."

Called Able Administrator

Foreign Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith of the United States described him in his memoirs as, "an able administrator and executive, and a brilliant speaker." "At receptions," he said, "Bulganin is distantly courteous, but foreigners dealing with him have thought him reasonable, intelligent and able."

Wildcats

(Continued from Page 10)

remaining but McCarthy hit three straight shots and Canisius pulled away.

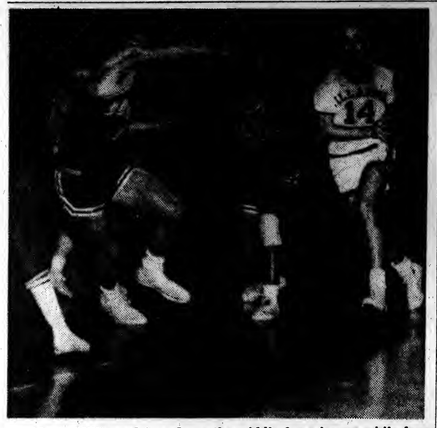
Smith, Fahey, and Kelly all turned in their best efforts of the year but it was not enough. Smith and Kelly split 40 points, and Fahey added 19 plus 14 rebounds. McCarthy had 22 and Nowak 21 to pace Canisius.

After this fine showing against Canisius, the Wildcats were expected to give Duquesne a run for their money, but the close contest anticipated never materialized.

Villanova Took Early Lead

As in so many of the games this year, the 'Cats raced to an early lead. After two minutes had elapsed they led by ten, 14-4. Then those two names that have haunted Villanova for the past several seasons, Green and Ricketts cropped up again. It was a different Ricketts (Dave), but he still hit the two pointers with amazing regularity, it was the 'old' Green, rebounding, scoring, and blocking shots.

Ricketts' set shots and Green's jump shots erased Villanova's early lead and it was nip-and-tuck for the remainder of the first half. The teams left at the intermission with the Dukes up, 33-31.



As far as Villanova was concerned, this is where it should have ended. All-American Green got his teammates started with a two pointer right after play resumed and they were off. Everything they did was right; everything Villanova did was wrong. Duquesne led by as much as 23 points at one time.

Jimmy Smith contributed 17 points to pace the 'Cats while Green had 22 to lead the Dukes.

These two losses even the Wildcats' log at 11-11. They must take two of the last four games to avoid their first losing season in ten years.

BOUQUET SHOP
For Exquisite Corsages

Marty Milligan drives down the middle for a lay-up while four Duquesne ballplayers converge upon him during a Palestra contest which the Iron Dukes won, 80-61, last Saturday night.

SPORTS CHATTER

A Team Must Be Molded

By BOB STRAYTON

Saturday's "comedy of errors" at the Palestra, a thing which lately has come to be called basketball around Villanova's campus, was perhaps the worst display of that game ever witnessed by a member of the present student body. When a squad of the calibre that Duquesne's is this year can make a complete mockery of a ball game—and do that without a 100 percent performance by Si Green—then the time has come to be concerned.

It is doubtful that Mickey Winograd, Dave Ricketts, Jack Sauer, George Henry, and one-half of Si Green (the other half rested at the half court line for a large part of the game) are capable to disgrace the 1955-56 Villanova team. Man for man, Villanova has the edge in experience, ability, speed, and height. Comparatively speaking, Jimmy Smith, Jack Weissman, Jack Kelly, Marty Milligan, Jim Fahey, and Al Griffith add up to a team, if not superior, at least equal to the coalition from Pittsburgh which they faced Saturday night.

The Dukes Made The Thing A Farce

Unquestionably, though, the visitors took full measure of the Wildcat team. They stole passes with reckless abandon and took shots from ten feet away from the basket when there wasn't Villanova defender within five feet of them—and all this without an all-out performance by Mr. Green. In general, the Iron Dukes turned the whole thing into a farce, and completely humiliated Villanova's basketball team besides.

Villanova's Defense Was An Ineffective Shambles

The Wildcats themselves, however, did not look any too potent. The shambles that was thrown up and intended to resemble a defense was completely ineffective, even against the mediocrity of a team like Duquesne. On many occasions during the course of the game—usually when the Dukes scored from inside—the entire Wildcat defense was pulled to one side of the court, and the man with the ball came in completely unmolested from the other side. Result: a gift of two points. Of course, when this happened, Villanova would take the ball from out of bounds, and work it up past half-court. A pass to the man under the boards usually followed this maneuver—even though there was a clot of six or seven men under the boards at the same time—and a foolish, desperate shot would follow, which, for the most part, went far astray of the target. And so it went, until finally it came to an end, and Villanova emerged as possibly the most disgraced hometown team to play at the Palestra this season.

Oddly, Villanova Could Probably Take Duquesne

The oddest thing about the game, though, is that the Wildcats—as a team—could most probably beat the pants off the Duquesne team. But, alas, there was no Villanova team to play them, merely a group of five individuals not quite sure to do, and through no fault of their own. When they started practice prior to the season, they were good raw material which had to be shaped, and molded, and instructed until they became a well-polished unit, capable of performing together with a certain amount of synchronization.

It's Up To Molding A Team

That is where the difference between Duquesne and Villanova lies. The Dukes had to start in the same way before the season—just as any team does. They were raw material, not quite as good, it would seem, as Villanova's, and also had to be molded into a well-coordinated unit—just as any team must. Under the able tutelage of coach Dudey Moore, the men from Pittsburgh were formed into a playing unit—not a great playing unit, for the constituents of it, barring one, were not great ball players to begin with—which was able to function with a certain degree of finesse and polish during the season.

Against Villanova the other night, Dudey Moore's products displayed the results of their pre-season instruction, and came out on the long end of an 80-61 count; the Wildcats, at the same time, displayed with great vigor the conditioning which they received before, and during, the season.

They came out nineteen points behind Mr. Moore's proteges.

Wildcats Nipped By Canisuis Five, Smothered by Dukes and Si Green

Senior Marty Milligan Basketball Ace-In-Hole

Several times this season, Coach Al Severance has pulled a surprise out of his bag of tricks and presented it to his opponents. His latest ace-in-the-hole has been one Martin H. Milligan, a blond, good-looking Senior who has moved off the bench to spark the team in recent contests.

Marty Milligan came to Villanova four years ago from West Catholic High in Philadelphia, and in his first year of varsity competition as a sophomore he was a regular starter. Last year, an ankle sprain early in the season kept him from seeing much action, and this year he seemed destined to be sixth or seventh man on a fairly evenly balanced varsity.

Scored 17 Against Fordham

However, getting his chance as a starter four weeks ago in the Fordham game, Marty scored 17 points as the Blue and White won 61-57, in double overtime. Four days later, he again led the way, scoring 21, as the Wildcats downed Penn, 89-74, for their first City series victory.

Marty Milligan has been a regular starter ever since.

Unusual Set Shot

The most distinguishing trait of the 6'2" sparkplug when he is on the basketball court is his unusual and uncannily accurate overhead set shot. He says that this was the same shot he used when he starred in his senior year at West. As his team won the Catholic League and City Championships, Marty earned a berth on the All-Catholic and All-Scholastic teams, and was picked as the most valuable player in the city title game.

Marty has no definite plans for his future at this moment, although he says he may go into service. Whatever his ambition, he has shown enough fighting spirit to carry him to success.

CHARLEY JENKINS
Wins IC4A 600 Easily

Swimmers Defeat Drexel; Are Sunk By LaSalle Squad

Villanova's talented mermen took on LaSalle and Drexel this week, losing to the Explorers by a 54-30 count and defeating Drexel, 53-31.

In defeating the Wildcats, La Salle broke two pool records and won its 20th straight victory. Jim Sheehan, a double winner, broke the 19 year old record by 0:53.6 and his teammate Terry winning the 100-yard freestyle in McLaughlin set a 2:20.5 mark in the 200-yard individual medley. For Villanova, Lou Pinto, in the

(Continued from Page 11)

(Continued from Page 9)

A basket apiece by each team followed, but Ryan again was fouled, and made good the attempt, securing the ball game.

Although Brown was an unerring shot-making team, Villanova's synchronized offense and razor-sharp passing spelled the difference, and the Wildcats won, 114-111.

The game was played at the Field House on Saturday.

Jim Smith Stars In Both Losses

By HANK NICHOLS

Villanova's tamed Wildcats fell victims to two tournament bound quintets last week as they were beaten by Canisius College's Golden Griffins, 89-81, and soundly trounced by Duquesne, 80-61.

In the Canisius game, played in Buffalo's Memorial Auditorium the 'Cats were afforded some of the typical refreeing that visiting basketball teams receive when playing the Griffins at home, and although the 'Cats played one of their best games of the season, they were outlasted by the NCAA-bound five.

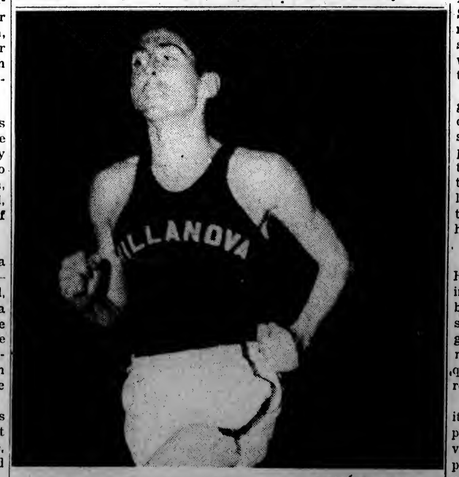
Villanova played well throughout the game, but it was in the early moments that the 'Cats did their finest work. Smith, Weismann, and Milligan led the early assault that saw the Main Liners lead range from four to eight points through most of the first half. With three minutes to go before the intermission, All-American candidate John McCarthy and a pint size set shooter, Dave Markey, got working and by half-time the score read 43-41 in favor of Canisus.

McCarthy, Nowak Stand Out

McCarthy received added help in the second half from Hank Nowak, and their play overshadowed the fine play of Kelly and Fahey. The 'Cats almost pulled the game out in the late stages. They cut a Canisius lead from 77-66 to 77-76 with two minutes

(Continued on Page 11)

Schafer Injury "Sore Back" Say Pro Teammates



In an exclusive interview with members of the St. Louis Hawks' professional basketball team, last Saturday night the VILLANOVAN learned that Bobby Schafer, ex-Wildcat great who is now playing with the Hawks, suffered a back injury two weeks ago, and has been unable to play since then.

Schafer, who is a topic of great interest to Villanova underclassmen, joined the professional ranks with the Philadelphia Warriors, but was sold to the Hawks during the middle of this season. He left Villanova last June after becoming one of the ten best scorers in collegiate history.

Merely a Sore Back

Chuck Share, a seven-foot Hawk center, described Schafer's injury as being merely a "sore back," but added that it wasn't serious. His unprofessional diagnosis was affirmed by teammate Bob Pettit, who is causing quite a stir in the NBA as a rookie this season.

Queried about Schafer's ability as a professional basketball player, aged Alex Hannum, a veteran performer who used to play with the Celtics, summed it up by saying: "He's one helluva shooter, that boy."

Wildcats Get Five Firsts: RON DELANY Runs 4:11.4 Mile

Queens Arrive

(Continued from Page 5)

pictures alone and all pictures will be returned, announces contest chairman Joe Redmond.

3. All pictures must be accompanied by the following information—on a separate piece of paper firmly attached to the picture or written on the back of the photo:

Girl's name, address, age, height, weight, color of hair, color of eyes, present occupation, schools attended; and Junior's name, campus or home address (if day hop), telephone number and school in the university (Arts, C & F, Engineering).

Library Display

(Continued from Page 7)

dates and outstanding achievements in the Pope's career are shown along with copies of the 12 encyclicals issued by the Holy Father and a number of books on his life and works. A complete newspaper account of Pope Pius' recent vision is also displayed.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Frosh On Council

(Continued from Page 7)

After his election, Kempf said that he and Sheppard would follow through on the "brighter future" platform they ran on.

Kempf listed these as the most important points in the program: improvement of the intramural atheltic program and a more effective orientation plan for next year's freshman class.

"We will do our best to make Council more effective," commented Kempf, who attended Council meetings before his nomination to observe the group at work.

Oriental Atmosphere

(Continued from Page 1)

orations have been prepared by Charlie Ross, John Kilker, Phil Butler, Ray Clarke, Dick Cooke, Joe Schultz, Peter Scott, Fred Onorato, John Alshefski, Ray Engler and George Sinnott.

Price of tickets is $1:50 per couple.

THE CAMPUS BARBER SHOP

Swim Meet

(Continued from Page 9)

200 yard breaststroke, and the relay team of Duffy, Kean, Klesius, and Couig in the 400 freestyle relay, managed to emerge in front. It was only the second loss in nine meets for the Villanova swimmers.

Drexel Trounced

The visitors from Drexel didn't fare too well, as they were trounced by the Wildcats by a 53-31 count. With Dennie Rinkacs and Lou Schoener each winning twice, the swimmers took eight first places out of ten events to chalk up win number ten against only two setbacks. Other winners for Villanova included Lee Carson, Bob Duffy, and Pat Kean in the 300 yard relay, Johnny Flynn in the 200 yard individual medley, Lou Pinto in the 200 breaststroke, and Mr. Big in Villanova swimming, the incomparable Don Couig in the 200 yard yd. backstroke. Drexel suffered its eighth set back of the season. next Saturday when they face the Red and Blue of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia to try for victory number 11 under the able leadership of Ciach Ed. Geisz.

June Graduates

(Continued from Page 7)

Classics, Economics, English, Government, History, Philosophy, Physics, Psychology, Romance Languages, Sociology.

University of Arizona — Chemistry, Education, Geology, Biochem, Botany, Entomology, Economics, English, French, German, History, Music, Philosophy, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology, Physics, Bacteriology, Business Administration, Civil Government, Mechanical Engineering.

Marquette University—Botany, Business Administration Chemistry, Economics, Education, English, French, German, History, Journalism, Latin, Mathematics, Philosophy, Physics, Zoology.

All applications for these fellowships must be submitted to the respective graduate schools prior to March 1, 1956.

Sullivan Hall:

Ground	LA 5-9081	LA 5-9331
1st Fl.	LA 5-9288	LA 5-9256
	LA 5-9161
2nd Fl.	LA 5-9304	LA 5-9366
	LA 5-9241	LA 5-9195
3rd Fl.	LA 5-9047	LA 5-9050
	LA 5-9303	LA 5-9348

Russian Boss Rises

(Continued from Page 3)

He has a reputation as a brilliant administrator who worked successfully in industry, finance, government, and the secret police. He has been one of the Soviet's most persistent advocates of military preparedness, constantly warning against any relaxation in the face of "threats" from the West.

However, in the typical Communist attitude toward the Western world, he has, in many of his speeches, vehemently accused the Western democracies of warmongering. "Imperialist forces, headed by the United States," he charged in March 1954, "openly carry on a policy of preparing a new war against us and the People's Democracies."

Called Able Administrator

Foreign Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith of the United States described him in his memoirs as, "an able administrator and executive, and a brilliant speaker." "At receptions," he said, "Bulganin is distantly courteous, but foreigners dealing with him have thought him reasonable, intelligent and able."

Wildcats

(Continued from Page 10)

remaining but McCarthy hit tnree straight shots and Canisius pulled away.

Smith, Fahey, and Kelly all turned in their best efforts of the year but it was not enough. Smith and Kelly split 40 points, and Fahey added 19 plus 14 rebounds. McCarthy had 22 and Nowak 21 to pace Canisius.

After this fine showing against Canisius, the Wildcats were expected to give Duquesne a run for their money, but the close contest anticipated never materialized.

Villanova Took Early Lead

As in so many of the games this year, the 'Cats raced to an early lead. After two minutes had elapsed they led by ten, 14-4. Then those two names that have haunted Villanova for the past several seasons, Green and Ricketts cropped up again. It was a different Ricketts (Dave), but he still hit the two pointers with amazing regularity, it was the 'old' Green, rebounding, scoring, and blocking shots.

Ricketts' set shots and Green's jump shots erased Villanova's early lead and it was nip-and-tuck for the remainder of the first half. The teams left at the intermission with the Dukes up, 33-31.

As far as Villanova was concerned, this is where it should have ended. All-American Green got his teammates started with a two pointer right after play resumed and they were off. Everything they did was right; everything Villanova did was wrong. Duquesne led by as much as 23 points at one time.

Jimmy Smith contributed 17 points to pace the 'Cats while Green had 22 to lead the Dukes.

These two losses even the Wildcats' log at 11-11. They must take two of the last four games to avoid their first losing season in ten years.

BOUQUET SHOP
For Exquisite Corsages

Adler On Liberal Education

(Continued from Page 8)

problems of education, economics and imperialism, which leads to war.

Leisure Time: Problem

"Because of the Industrial Revolution, and more recently automation, man finds himself with more and more leisure time. To spend this time well is to contribute to the development of the system and the general well-being, to waste it is to mark the destruction of the system . . . Without a strong liberal background man will not be spending his time as he should, and therefore the system will be destroyed."

In the question period which followed the address, Dr. Adler stated that a "learn to earn" education is dangerous unless it is consructed from a firm liberal education as its foundation.

He did not forsee this problem being easily solved.

The speaker felt that a nation, to be democratically free, must be a free classless society. He thinks that the United States is fairly near accomplishing this as society more and more becomes a classless, capitalistic one. "It is not enough," he said, "for the workers to rely solely on wages as their source of income. They must share in the profits through ownership."

This question, Dr. Adler feels, is the most easily solved.

War: Biggest Problem

The third and biggest obstacle is that of war. In the past, as countries grew stronger they sought to expand imperialistically and this, inevitably, has resulted in war. Whether this can be circumvented today or in the future depends on the willingness and ability of the nations of the world to band together and form a democratic world government.

"Although it is almost impossible to conceive of any country actually winning a war, a system of world government can be worked out either by legislation or by warfare. However, he asserts, only through peaceful means, treaties and so forth, can a world democratic federation come about. When it does come about, and only then, will true democracy be possible of establishment, he concluded.

Dr. Adler is a well known philosopher, author and educator. He has taught at Columbia University and the University of Chicago, where he worked closely with Dr. Robert Hutchins on the "Great Books" project, in which he set down the 102 basic ideas of Western civilization. Today Dr. Adler leads the Institute for Philosophical Research, which he founded in 1952, in San Francisco.

Food For Thought

Salt Lake City, Utah — (ACP) — The most important word in the world? Here they are according to the Utah Daily Chronicle:

FOUR MOST IMPORTANT WORDS: What is your opinion?
THREE MOST IMPORTANT CODS: If you please.
TWO MOST IMPORTANT WORDS: Thank you.
LAST IMPORTANT WORD: I.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

The Lenten Fast

(Continued from Page 3)

discovery and a subsequent reprisal, are replaced by the easily recognized entrances of more familiar structures. The disguised cleric flitting about the countryside secretly administering the Sacraments has as his counterpart the modern Religious whose black attire is a universal badge of respect.

Today's Catholic may worship openly without fear of persecution or public ridicule. He no longer must habitually be ready to sacrifice his life; the lion and the stone have been conquered. Even the era of sackcloth, ashes and public penance has vanished. In our modern society of afternoon Masses, more liberal dispensations and easy penance there is only one remaining major sacrifice required of us,—Lent.

Regulations Not Harsh

The Lenten regulations seem overly harsh to us only because we forget what our ancestors may have "given up" for their religion. The heritage of the true faith was passed on to us at too high a cost to be compared to what is exacted from us today. We are merely asked to give up comparatively trivial things such as eating between meals, abstaining from meat except at the principal meal, etc., and if we are not yet of age, not even that is required.

Is this too great a sacrifice?

Sophomores Meet Tomorrow, 10:30

Sophomores are requested to be on hand for an important class meeting tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. in Commerce and Finance Auditorium.

Dean's List

(Continued from Page 8)

328	Bruther, Richard P.	ENG SR	389	McEowen, James R.	EE SR
158	Butler, Philip R.	EDU SR	378	McFarland, Dorothy M.	NUR SR
317	Corbett, Anthony J.	ACC SR	363	McFarland, Francis J.	ME SR
347	Cassidy, John R.	MKT SR	328	McMerty, Edward A.	EE SR
368	Catania, Charles J.	CE SR	119	McSorley, Robert G.	ACC SR
311	Caufman, Mark H.	CE SR	300	Miller, Albert J., Jr.	MKT SR
383	Chabay, John L.	EE SR	319	Mooney, Joseph Thomas	ACC SR
381	Conde, Carlos A.	FIN SR	381	Moore, Elizabeth H.	NUR SR
312	Connor, Robert W.	BIO SR	376	Mowad, William E.	P L SR
331	Couch, Frank L., Jr.	ART SR	371	Nedzbala, James M.	ME SR
333	Di Bonaventura Justin	EDU SR	316	Nolan, James Joseph	ENG SR
390	Donohue, Paul G.	P L SR	328	O'Brien, Louis G.	CE SR
353	Downing, John L.	EE SR	311	O'Leary, Robert F.	EE SR
305	Doyle, Walter	ENG SR	305	Orloff, Edward J.	ACC SR
390	Eddington, Donald C.	ACC SR	360	Opowski, Helen M.	NUR SR
341	Farley, Robert J.	PHI SR	306	Padova, John R.	ENG SR
396	Ferri, John F.	EE SR	316	Paoletti, Lino M.	EE SR
315	Fitzpatrick, Richard B.	ENG SR	365	Paschall, Joseph A.	ME SR
365	Florence, Henry J.	P L SR	365	Penevaye, Dolores A.	NUR SR
311	Ford, Robert H.	ART SR	394	Pulgar, Michael S., Jr.	EE SR
311	Francis, William J.	ART SR	366	Power, Frank M.	P L SR
338	Fredericks, Robert J.	CHM SR	374	Quinn, Wilfred J.	EDU SR
313	Gallagher, William Aug.	SOC SR	300	Rachfalski, Vincent M.	EDU SR
368	Giordano, James F.	ACC SR	395	Salva, John P.	CHE SR
300	Gobillot, Frederick A.	HIS SR	300	Scarza, Frank S.	FIN SR
316	Grady, James R.	ART SR	339	Scheetz, Karl G.	ME SR
333	Greenblatch, Henry A.	CE SR	332	Schouren, James L.	FIN SR
356	Guica, Florigio A.	ACC SR	324	Schiller, John G.	ART SR
311	Haddock, Hector L.	ME SR	360	Schleicher, Richard	ME SR
311	Heller, Robert P.	EDU SR	350	Schlottmmier, Richard	ART SR
350	Hepburn, Richard	EDU SR	333	Schwartz, George J.	ACC SR
333	Horan, Michael R.	ART SR	395	Schwerdtfeger, Charles	PHY SR
333	Jendrzejwski, Bernard	CE SR	370	Short, John J.	EDU SR
355	Jordan, John J., Jr.	ENG SR	321	Sierzenski, Raymond J.	ME SR
338	Keane, Philip T.	MKT SR	300	Smith, Robert J.	ACC SR
314	Kordek, Walter A., Jr.	CE SR	319	Stefell, Bernard F.	FIN SR
335	Kuhn, David J., Jr.	BIO SR	318	Stepper, Raymond F.	ENG SR
316	Leoni, Ernest M.	MKT SR	384	Street, ohn A.	ME SR
353	Lluck, Francis R.	ACC SR	344	Sullivan, John L.	HIS SR
322	Lonick, Raymond C.	EE SR	360	Suplick, Edward M.	ME SR
317	Loth, Joseph T.	CE SR	332	Vonte, Arthur J.	ENG SR
300	Maggitti, Victor J.	ACC SR	310	Watt, Garry O.	ART SR
328	Maguire, Joan T.	NUR SR	368	Welsh, James J.	MAT SR
300	Mahoney, Carl F.	ACC SR	300	Wettlaufer, Jules, Jr.	FIN SR
333	Martin, Joan Beulah	NUR SR	353	Whalen, Henry J.	MKT SR
332	McCaffrey, James E.	FIN SR	318	Wise, Arthur R., Jr.	EE SR
378	McCormick, John M. Jr.	CE SR	337	Yavorski, Robert T.	EDU SR

CHARLES C. PRICE
Addresses ACS

Chem Society Meets Today

Dr. Charles C. Price, professor of chemistry and chairman of that department at the University of Pennsylvania, is the first guest of this semester to address the Villanova Chemical Society, affiliate chapter of the American Chemical Society. The address will be at 4:00 p. m. in 215 Mendel Hall.

Topic for the talk is "The Nature and Importance of Graduate Study". President Bob Fredericks invited all students to attend.

BOUQUET SHOP

YOU'LL BOTH GO FOR THIS CIGARETTE!

Flavor above all—that's WINSTON

■ When it comes to real tobacco flavor, college smokers are going for Winston! This good-tasting, easy-drawing filter cigarette not only brings you finer flavor — but also a finer filter. The exclusive Winston filter works so effectively that the flavor comes right through. Join the big switch to Winston!

Smoke WINSTON the easy-drawing filter cigarette!

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.

'Detective Story' Opens Tomorrow

By TOM SMITH

"Detective Story," one of the most realistic plays ever presented by Belle Masque, will unfold on the Field House stage tomorrow night through Sunday night.

Curtain time for the three-act production is 8:15 p. m.

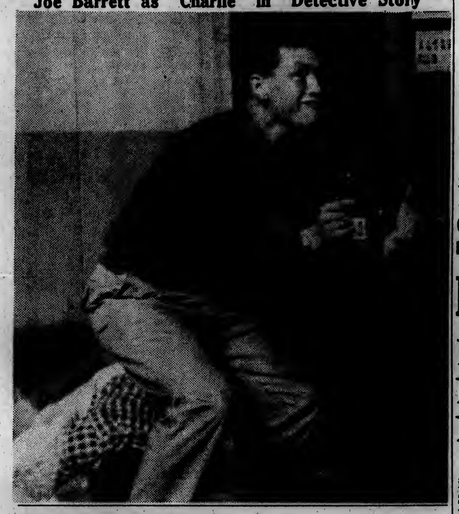
The play deals with a tough-nut detective and his transformation into a more human character as a result of certain sociological problems.

Brockman In Lead

Charlie Brockman will be handling his second successive Belle Masque lead in the role of Jim McLeod. This part will require more skill on Brockman's part, according to Belle Masque president Mike Clark, than his part of Greenwald in "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial."

In "Court Martial" Brockman was merely trying to get his client off the court martial charge, explained Clark. But as McLeod he has to finally face depressing facts.

The Masquer who may steal applause is Joe Barrett, co-editor of the LYNX, as crime-hardened Charlie. Clark said Barrett gives a most believable portrayal of the gangster who's a four-time loser and doesn't mind resorting to murder.



Broadway Success

Sidney Kingley's drama enjoyed a healthy box office on Broadway before it was picked up for the movie, which starred Kirk Douglas. And Clark thinks that one reason for the play's success is the setting which Kingsley provided to show the characters and actions of the conglomeration of petty thieves, shoplifters and drunks.

The law offenders wander in and out of the police station, the play's only set, and give the audience a picture of their backgrounds.

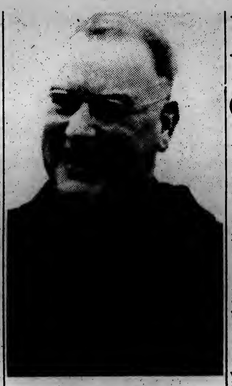
Other Masquers will bear watching according to Clark, who is proud that the first Belle Masque play produced entirely with Villanova's own coeds was staged during his tenure. Rosemont girls previously assumed roles.

(Continued on Page 8)

Joe Barrett as "Charlie" in "Detective Story"

Villanovan

Vol. 31—No. 13 Villanova University, Villanova, Pa. March 7, 1956



Six-Day Week Schedule Probability For Future; PCS Meets Fourth Time

Initiations, Lunch Hours Discussed

The question of fraternity initiations, the fate of the old Pie Shoppe and former barbershop buildings and the problem of lunch period hours were the main topics of conversation at the fourth regular meeting of the President's Committee for Students last Thursday in the office of the Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., university president.

1. Father President said that the risk of injuries to pledges and the damage to facilities in the process of "Hell Nights" and other initiation programs brings him to oppose any such fraternity pledging activities. He said that he felt that any boost in spirit in initiations is not commensurate with the risk involved. The matter of initation procedures and the wearing of regs rests with the Rev. Edward B.

(Continued on Page 3)

FATHER DONNELLON
University President

Fathers' Day Meeting

There will be an important meeting of the Class of 1956 Fathers' Day committee in 212 Mendel Hall tomorrow afternoon at 5:30. All seniors connected with the April 21 affair are asked to attend.

Enrollment Problem Is Cause Cited

Overcrowded conditions as a result mainly of the intake of students from Archdiocese of Philadelphia high schools will probably necessitate the set-up of a six-day week class schedule for most undergraduate students beginning next September.

The announcement of the prospect of Saturday morning class schedules and the revamping of the Monday-Friday arrangements was made by the Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., in a regular meeting last Thursday with members of the President's Committee for Students.

"We are facing an enrollment and facilities problem that we must overcome in the next two or three years by further expansion," said Father President, "but until a new classroom building is completed we will have to work from a revised class schedule because of limitations of space and the demands of greater enrollment. This new schedule will probably place most of the university's students on a six-day week basis beginning with the Fall term."

The new set-up, according to Father Donnellon, will consist of this: classes will be spread out to a greater extent from 8:30-5:30 Monday to Friday, with Saturday classes being held during the morning. This system will make available more classroom space, which is the big problem, by lessening the average number of classes per day per student. The increased enrollment will probable necessitate greater rigidity in the shifting of courses from morning to afternoon section and also tighten up the drop-add system.

Asked if the proposed new system would allow students a freeday during the regular Monday-Friday week if they had

(Continued on Page 4)

Turf and Tinsel Show:

Utmost Secrecy Reported As Work on "Seville" Progress

Turf and Tinsel is going out of its way to provide its audiences with a surprise when "Barbara of Seville" opens in seven weeks.

Rehearsals for cast members with speaking parts are being held in private, according to reports.

Even members of the dancing chorus won't see the show beforehand, according to T 'n T's directors.

Directing the cast again this year will be Jack Kelly, a Villanova alumnus and supervisor of past T 'n T productions.

Kelly Pleased

He reportedly was pleased with work in rehearsals so far by Gene Donohue, who will sing the male lead; Don Mattingly, who will handle the female lead —the same capacity he filled in last year's "Jessica James"; Bob Schiller, Roy Zimmerman, Mal Didio and Andy Iaccarino.

In charge of the dancing chorus, as in past years, will be George Noake. Music will be writen by Bob Whalen, Villanova's business manager of athletics and George Pequinot will put together the script.

Many Veterans Return

Other T 'n T men with prominent parts are Ed Shea, WVIL's basketball paly-by-play announcer; Joe Redmond, who moves up from the chorus to a speaking part; Walt Doyle, one of the society's four-year veterans; Nick Rinaldi, the other four-year man; and Paul Porreca, who grabbed off laughs as "Angel" in last year's production.

Theme Has Leaked Out

Some hints to the theme of the show have leaked out, however. From these reports it was learned that the production will be a Spanish presentation, staged with gala Spanish-American dances.

The musical show will be staged in the Field House from April 25 through 29. Prices wil be announced.

Leo Zollo Announced By Co-Chairmen:

Jr. Week Dance Band Signed

Ed McCall and Bill Barton, band chairmen for the Junior Dinner Dance, have anounced the signing of Leo Zollo and his Orchestra for the May 5 Junior Week event. With the signing of Zollo, all of the major arrangements for the Junior Dinner Dance have been completed.

Finishing touches are being added, and preparations are being made for the distribution of a record number of Dinner Dance tickets. Tickets priced at $10 a couple will be sold to juniors only beginning April 3.

Zollo, a long time local favorite, has been steadily gaining wide acclaim through appearances at a large number of outstanding social functions in the key cities of the East. Aside from providing music for wedding receptions, debutante parties and other social events at the more prominent hotels, and country clubs throughout the East, Zollo has more recently been accepted as a "dance" band of a high calibre. He has been signed by many of the leading ballrooms in this area, most recently at Philadelphia's "Boulevard Ballroom."

Shone At Sunnybrook

Earlier this year, Zollo and his orchestra played at the nationally famous "Sunnybrook" in Pottstown, Pa. The Sunnybrook is a virtual "home" for name bands, and Zollo held his own with the Sunnybrook's other recently featured artists, including Ralph Flanagan, Les Elgart, Ray Anthony and The Commanders—the Junior Prom band.

Prior to the formation of his

(Continued on Page 11)

Junior Week Schedule

April 30—Mothers' Day (starts with Mass at 11a. m.)
May 1—Talent Show (tentative)
May 2—Jazz Concert (combo not decided)
May 4—Prom Field House (9 till 1)
May 5—Dinner Dance Benjamin Franklin Hotel

This Collegiate Whirl

A LAUGH OR TWO

TROY, NEW YORK—(ACP)—In a recent issue, the Rensselaer Polytechnic carried these chuckles, which were originally printed in the Illinois Technology News.

"You can't beat the system," moaned a student, looking over his grades for the past semester. "I decided to take basket weaving for a snap course, but two Navajos enrolled, raised the curve, and I flunked."

All right, so its the funniest you've read. How about this one?

A college freshman was being severely criticized by his professor.

"Your last paper was very difficult to read," said the professor. "Your work should be written so that even the most ignorant will be able to understand it."

"Yes, sir," said the student. "What part didn't you get?"

* * *

ANY SALARY INVOLVED?

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—(ACP) — The Daily Trojan needed some girls to do secretarial work so the paper's city editor, Rich Reid, dreamed up a unique and enjoyable stunt to lure the ladies into the office. He agreed to bestow kisses on the first ten coeds who volunteered for the work.

"It's the least I could do," Reid said. "But ten is my absolute limit."

So far, there's been no report on the number of applicants.

* * *

NEW COURSE AT SMU

DALLAS, TEXAS—(ACP)—The United States' first privately supported graduate program exclusively devoted to teaching foreign attorneys about the American system of law and government has been initiated at the Southern Methodist University. It's called the Academy of American law and has a $50,000 budget underwritten by the Hoblitzelle Foundation of Dallas.

The first class is made up of 15 students from 12 nations. All have degrees in law and were judges, public prosecutors, legal advisors or practicing attorneys in their own countries. Upon completion of their studies at the Academy the foreign lawyers will receive master's degrees.

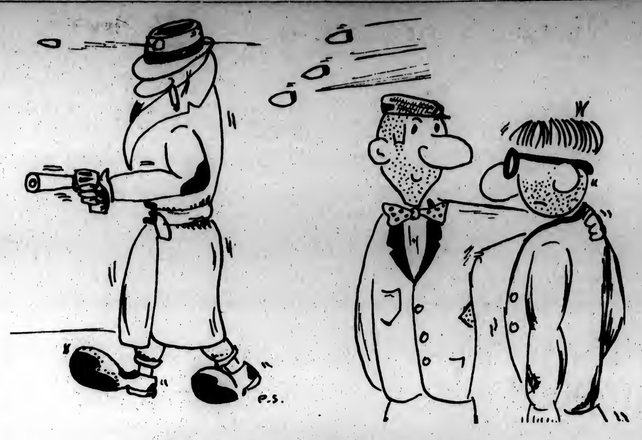
Villanovan

Villanova University Villanova, Pa.

Harry C. Nash III
Editor-in-Chief



Tom Smith ..... Managing Editor
Bill Jones ..... Feature Editor
Frank Delany ..... News Editor
Jack Downing,
Bill Brown ..... Copy Editors
Steve Bernacco ..... Business Manager
Bob Ford
Bob Strayton ..... Sports Editors
Sig Holtz
Joe Ezerski ..... Photography Editors
Nick Pedano ..... Circulation Mgr.

Faculty Advisor
Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Scholar, Gentleman, Athlete.
LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1928, under the act of March 3, 1879.

MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE PRESS ASSOCIATION

"They say he has the lead in "Detective Story . . ."

Upon Rippled Reflections

by Bernard L. Bonniwell, PH.B.

The Difference

In a continuing attempt to demonstrate that Man and Machines are similar, and not, as traditionally held, fundamentally dissimilar, the modern scientist continues to construct his robots, both mental and metal. The latest mental machine is Cybernetics; the latest metal machine is called the Mechanical Brain; and, now, to add the final touch, there are the electrical Thinking Machines. All this heady research is somehow based on the thought that this Age of Automation will escape being Fissionized into a state of temporal indifference.

It is not the problem of machines which interests some of us but, rather, the problem of men. The thought may be phrased this way: Why do men want to make themselves inferior to machines? That is to say, why do men think that the machines can exceed the capacity of its inventor? The problem cannot be dismissed lightly for these disturbing viewpoints are emanating from our highest centers of learning, and the effect upon the easily moulded mind of man can be devastating. The effectiveness of the arguments for the dominance of The Machine lies in the ease of experimentation and demonstration. It is relatively simple to demonstrate what a machine can do whereas it is extremely difficult to demonstrate the more profound powers of the Mind. The difference is there, of course, but it cannot be taken for granted that the majority of men will recognize the true difference.

A powerful re-awakening of man's interest in the freedom of the mind might be well worth our most intensive effort.

Campus Comment

Outlooks of the Editor

A Cultural Crusade

For about a year now a group of opera-inclined Villanova students have gathered each week to hear recordings of the world's foremost operas.

As the Opera-Classica club reaches its first anniversary, it's moderator can point with deserved pride to a mushrooming club membership, and more notice around campus.

Mr. Anthony L. Angeline, the man behind the club's formation and development, has nursed his group along with a diet of foreign-language operas. Tonight he will switch to English when club members and any other Villanovans interested in opera gather to hear Wagner's "Troilus and Cressida" at 7 o'clock in 208 C & F. The group meets there each Wednesday at the same time.

Besides his duties as moderator, he arranges trips for club members to New York concerts and handles publicity for this growing organization.

By day an instructor in the finance department of the Commerce and Finance School, Mr. Angeline has developed the night-time habit of spinning opera recordings and other classical music. This fondness for higher type music is what he wants to spread all around Villanova.

Introducing opera and signing up recruits for this cultural crusade has not been an easy task. At first it was hard to get the new organization accepted around campus. This year, however, more students have turned out for the weekly "listening" sessions.

But there is plenty of room for more. Undergraduates, coeds, law students—anybody wanting to round out his college education by learning about the world's greatest operas—will be welcomed by Mr. Angeline.

The recruiting booth will be open tonight at 7 o'clock in 208 C & F.

The VILLANOVAN welcomes suggestions on editorial topics from its readers.

Why Weekend Exodus?

The approach of spring and the accompanying increase in weekend activities on this campus and at other area institutions renews interest in a question that has been a tppic of curiosity among a great number of Villanovans for some time.

The question is this: Why do so many students consistently pack their bags on Friday afternoons and depart for home, in the process leaving behind them a part of college life that is just as important in the development of the whole person as the intellectual benefits that they have absorbed all during the week?

This part of college that these men are missing is easily discernible—it is social life and extra-curricular life. It consists—here and in the collegiate neighborhood—of dance, plays, parties, picnics, sports events, and a number of other attractions of companionship and enjoyment that are too numerous to mention and actually too good to miss.

Before proceeding, it is well to point out and admit to the fact that many men have parental responsibilities at home that they must and should fulfill; many others have romantic entanglements in the old home town that are equally demanding.

The people we are referring to, however, are those who have never given Villanova weekends a chance. They are the people, who, either because of lack of interest in or a lack of familiarity with the lighter side of this kaleidoscopic state of ours, become so completely detached from weekend goings-on that they miss out on a great deal of intangible and material benefits alike.

These resident students should reflect momentarily on the desirability of overall development, phone regrets to the old high school buddies at home, and get a date for Belle Masque's "Detective Story" this weekend.

They might not know what they're missing, to misuse an old saying.

Peering . . .

. . . At the announcement that Saturday classes will be held for everyone starting next September. The Registrar's Office is braced for mass withdrawals, and plans for a huge dormitory alarm bell are being drawn up. But rumor has it that the Saturday Afternoon Picnic Association—better known as SAPA, will make an 11th hour bid to forestall the drastic move. And the campus waits, quietly . . .

PEER

. . . At the large dome above Mendel Hall, better known as the Astronomy Lab. Rumor has it that the boys up there have discovered the sun.

. . . At the great mud flats which appear on campus during monsoon season each year. With crossing permitted at some places only during low tide, it still isn't as perilous as were winter's snow drifts. Just think of the solar snow system used this year and the days you ice-skated to class.

March: A Reminder to Stop and Reflect

The Church annually sets aside the month of March as a time for the consideration of vocations, and in so doing provides the Catholic college student with a reminder of a topic immensely more important than normal day-to-day campus activities.

Holy Mother Church, realizing the intensity of pressures and distractions surrounding the Catholic student today, asks him during this month especially to stop and reflect on the direction of his actions. It asks the Catholic young man to become spiritually introspective, in order that he consider honestly and unselfishly the matter of giving his life to God, if the calling is present.

The popular belief—possibly rationalized as a result of the lures of this life—holds that a vocation is something that may be embraced or cast aside as the young man sees fit. Such an arbitrary and subjective consideration of a calling to the priesthood is an erroneous one, for Christ Himself said "You have not chosen Me . . . I have chosen you," a statement attributing a staggering responsibility to the matter of accepting or rejecting a vocation.

Certainly, Villanova's young man, particularly during this month, should give deep and honest thought to the matter of saving his soul through the following of a vocation, a consideration that must not be neglected.

The Political Corner:

Richard Nixon: Background Of A Controversial Veep

By GENE DONOHUE

In October of 1952, a nation-wide television broadcast included three main attractions; Richard M. Nixon, his wife, and her "Republican cloth coat."

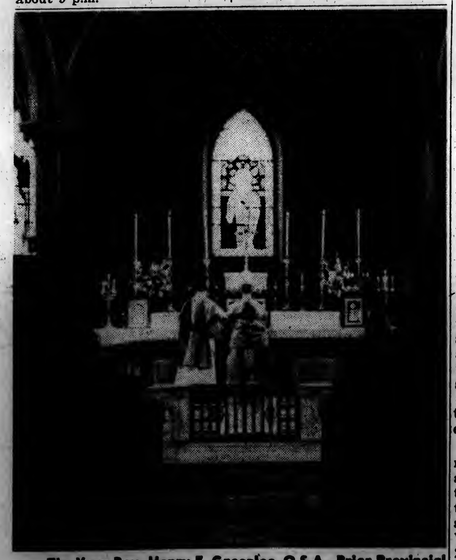
Born at Yorba Linda, California, on January 9, 1913, and primarily educated in state schools, Nixon received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Whittier College and went on to gain his Bachelor of Law degree from Duke University in 1937.

Practiced Law

After practicing law in the city of Whittier from 1937 to 1942, Nixon joined the Office of Emergency Management in Washington where he served as attorney until August of the latter year. For the following three and one-half years Nixon served in the armed forces on duty with the United States Navy. After receiving an honorable discharge in January of 1946, he conducted a postwar campaign for the United States House of Representatives and on November 6, 1946 was elected on the Republican ticket to serve in the Eightieth Congress.

As a Congressman, and later as a United States Senator, Nixon took a leading role in the attack on both policies and people in the government which he considered to be Communist in their sympathies or inspirations. This vehement outlook on such practices he voiced in 1948 when he declared before Congress, "We are willing to permit the theories of Communism and democracy to clash in the open market place of political ideas in America, but we insist that Communism not be allowed to have the unfair advantages in this conflict of the unrestricted use of illegal means."

Nixon, who was widely credited for the events leadings to the conviction of Alger Hiss for perjury, was elected vice-president on the Republican ticket with Dwight D. Eisenhower, after a dramatic campaign in which he was called upon to defend his honesty before the whole nation. During this mud-slinging campaign he was accused by the Democratic Party of dishonesty in regard to his campaign funds. Much to the delight of the Republicans, he succeeded in making a mockery of the whole affair in a coast-to-coast telecast in which he went to the extreme of offering to give back a little dog which someone had given his son, for fear he would be accused of accepting bribes . . . thus exercising his keen political wit.



In 1948 he was chosen one of the ten outstanding men of the country by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. Neither has this notoriety ceased since his taking office . . . as president Eisenhower has said, "never before has a vice-president been so versed in the affairs of state."

Guard Chem Lab

The old story about the teacher leaving students locked in the building got a new twist Saturday . . .

The teacher went home and left the Chemical Engineering Building open and two junior chemical engineers studying upstairs about 4 p. m.

The students, Val Brasher and Bob Repin, were ready to go eat supper when they found the door couldn't be locked without a key. They called a member of the chemical engineering faculty, then stood guard over the expensively-equipped building until about 9 p.m.

The Very Rev. Henry E. Greenlee, O.S.A., Prior Provincial of the Augustinian Province of St. Thomas of Villanova, celebrates solemn high Mass in honor of Pope Pius XII's 80th birthday last Friday. Members of the university's senior class attended the Mass as a group.

The Reader Speaks:

Letters to the Editor

On Adler's Speech

To the Editor,

Mortimer Adler's speech was most thought provoking and well worth attending. His presentation of philosophical, idealistic democracy was uniquely and skillfully constructed and expressed.

In one phase of his logical explanation of democracy—as he sees it—he mentioned three important episodes which contributed to the true ideal of democracy.

The three occurrences were:

1. When men turned from primitive life to civil life (civilization).

2. An incident in Greek history where the idea of democracy was approached.

3. The Industrial Revolution.

However, there is one question in my mind that will not cease to clamor for an answer.

I wonder why Jesus Christ, the Son of God Almighty, was not cited on any occasion as a being who contributed substantially to the development of democracy? Also is not the Church of Christ instituted democratic?

Sincerely,
Joan T. Moquire,
Senior, Nursing Div.

From a Headline Hopper

To the Editor:

Though I have the greatest respect for editors . . . you force me almost to the point of disrespect. I am referring mainly to your article about Dougherty Hall.

This country is founded on a principle of freedom of the press, and far be it from me to denounce this principle. But I think it should be up to the individual to express his own opinions (which I am now doing) instead of letting someone else say what he (that's you) thinks others (that's me) are thinking.

You don't mention who it was who said, ". . . like Horn and Hardarts' only nicer." But let me alter that statement a trifle: "like Horn and Hardart, only more expensive." And whoever heard of a "full-fledged cafeteria" that offers such a variety of meals?

As far as day hop morale is concerned: how can you expect a person's morale to be up-lifted when, contrary to what you say, we feel less "a part of university life?"

Many of us are working our way through Villanova and expect a little mercy, not mercenary. Ten cents for a "Coke-up" of tea; 25 cents for two slices of meat, a piece of lettuce and a hard roll; 20 cents for two slices of cheese and the same hard roll—this is conducive?—to what? The only thing this is conducive to is an empty wallet.

The comments I now offer are not so much "knocks" but comc as honest, constructive suggestions: 1) keep the cafeteria section open in the morning to allow for sufficient seating . . . V. U. isn't getting any smaller; 2) install some coat hangers and book racks — sure the tables are clean; everythng is spilled on your books; 3) keep up the good work as far as the bus-boys are concerned; I noticed yesterday (for the first time) someone picking up the trays.

Though I gladly admit Dougherty Hall is a beautiful building, remember . . . you can't judge a book by its cover, and try to use a little more discretion in the future about expressing someone else's views. After all we do "comprise more than half the entire university enrollment."

Stanford E. Hoffman
Junior day hop
Social Studies

Editor's note. The remark about Horn and Hardart to which Mr. Hoffman—a married Army veteran—refers was contained in the Nomad Newsman column of the Jan. 18 VILLANOVAN. The comment was credited to freshman Gerry Givinish.

Initiations Problem . . .

To The Editor:

In regards to the motion that was brought up by the Student Council that the administration reconsider its ban on fraternity initiations:

It is my understanding that when the ban was placed on the frats, it was directed at the dangerous "Hell Night" and the silly wearing of regs.

Each frat has a moderator and an ample number of profs who should be and are interested in the student both in and outside of class. With such capable men supervising an initiation, the "Hell" could be carried out safely and sanely.

A ban forbidding all activities on "Hell Night" will only result, eventually, in the holding of these initiations off campus, where, with no supervision, injuries will definitely result. Such injuries would reflect far worse on the school than a safe initiation on campus.

Due to the increasing number of students in the various schools, some means must be used to keep down the size of the frats. Although the wearing of regs may seem silly and insignificant, some men are still unwilling to be put to this slight inconvenience. This is the only means, save monetary, that the frats have to limit their numbers. Only those really interested will be willing to go through with such regulations.

The frats have many advantages to offer the students. Both the pledges and the members feel that the initiations are a necessary part of college life and that they are entitled to them.

I think that the administration should consider the students, and their ideas more seriously in this matter. Jack O'Rourke

Initiations, Lunch Hours

(Continued from Page 1)

McKee, O.S.A., dean of men, Father President reminded. He implied that no revocation on the regs and initiation ban would be forthcoming.

2. The committee, requesting that the old Pie Shoppe building be either turned into a regular recreation hall or torn down (it now houses a number of pin ball machines and a pool table), was told that the building would remain standing for a time—at least until the ground is needed for building space. That time is near, said Father President. The committee's request that the old barbershop-radio station building be torn down was accepted; Father Donnellon said the structure will be removed within "the next few weeks."

3. The committee asked that the lunch period opening be moved back from the present 11:45 to 11:15 or at least 11:30 a.m., in order to alleviate the long-line situation and also to give students who have straight 11:30-2:30 classes a chance to eat. Father Donnellon said he would talk immediately to the Rev. John J. Curran, O.S.A., university procurator, concerning the matter, adding that "I'm sure he'll handle the situation."

4. Father Donnellon said he had talked to the Rev. Edward M. Dwyer, O.S.A., dean of the university, on the matter of listing the courses and the professors teaching then at registration time for the benefit of the student body. Father Donnellon said it had been agreed that this system would be "definitely" installed for the fall term.

5. Father President went along with a proposal presented earlier by the committee that the wearing of blazers be restricted to sophomores in their second semester and upperclassmen. The present system has the freshmen already wearing blazers. The committee made the proposal in the hopes that some significance of seniority in the wearing of the university blazer be maintained.

6. The proposal presented earlier that the Field House be left open on weekends for student usage was found to involve too many problems, said Father President. He said the question of students wearing hard-soled shoes on the basketball court and the invasion of high school youngsters on weekends would require the presence of some authority in the Field House constantly during that time. He ruled out the use of law students in such a system, and doubted that the campus guards could be maintained on such a basis. Further consideration will be given the problem, said Father President.

Tom Curran, Belle Masque Performer Is Engaged

Tom Curran, junior social studies major, was engaged Sunday to Jean McDermott, of Norristown.

Miss McDermott was formerly the secretary of the Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O.S.A., Dean of the Arts and Sciences School.

Curran, who lives in Rutherford, N.J., is a veteran member of Belle Masque.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Strictly Opinion

By DON ALTON

March has returned to our fair campus, and the professors have already noted the usual drop in class attendance. Many Villanovans are found these days jockeying for the choice spots on windy corners, but the real evil in the eyes of the administration and the professors is the good old case of Spring fever. The overcoats will gradually disappear, only to be replaced by the raincoats for the annual rains. The mud has yet to dampen the spirits of the naturally lazy college students, and armed with this weak excuse, a feminine smile, and a frosty glass Villanovans will be marching up the road of liberal education . . . away from that two-thirty class on Friday.

ALTON

Another sign of the approaching hour shows itself in the window of the cobbler's shop next to a favorite source of inspiration for a collegian upon a balmy Spring night. The windows boasts of several pairs of Keds, a la Rosemont, which have been left for their Spring tops. These sneaks have survived the daily routine from class, to chow, to chapel, and thence to bed for all but a few who aren't "tweedy", and now these cherished possesions of Rosies are deposited at the cobbler's for a new convertible top . . . greens, red, and blue predominate. As a passing observation . . . our own coeds prefer the more masculine white bucks.

The library reflects another phase of the transformation from the Dark Ages to pleasant Spring. Pledges have been observed rushing around the hidden stacks of the library with source material for their "big brothers" who are earnestly trying to finish all term papers, themes, and other forms of professorial trials before they head into the exacting trials of a college life in April and May. Everyone is attempting to build up a fine average for the first quarter . . . the slump will follow. As the stock market fluctuates with the national events, so too does the quality point average of a Villanovan rise and dip with the thermometer and mud conditions in the area.

The resorts along the Jersey shore are busy with the paint brushes and building materials in expectation of a rush to the Shore for the weekends to come. This is just one of the areas affected by our Spring ever. As far North as Colby College in Maine, South to Miami, and West to Michigan, resort areas and college towns are cleaning the drawers of their National cash registers before their towns are overrun by college men with the roaming instinct.

In consideration of the situation that seems to be shaping up, we must not allow the unsung heroes of the campus to continue to be ignored. While their less assiduous classmates revel in the pleasures that are Spring's the loyal student keeps his steady hand on his sliderule or his finger on the dusty pages of the Summa. When we all grow old and gray, they will be able to reflect upon those happy and carefree days in the lab and library, while their less mature associates engaged in useless frivolity.

Others will, perhaps, wonder where the old college chums found so many angles on the ways of people that they come into contact with in the world of tension and ulcers that is business. It may be the sad state of affairs that some of us will discover too late in life that all truth is not found in the text. Neither can one completely ignore the formal education for the Pub or our famous grass banked creeks. The more fortunate members of this institution will find the key to an even balance between the two necessary worldly parts of a well rounded graduate of a University . . . Truth and personality developed by social life.

Cause Cited

(Continued from Page 1)

Saturday classes, Father Donnellon said no, except in rare cases of coincidence in scheduling.

"I realize that the change will bear heavily upon students and faculty alike, but we have no other alternative. We are committed to Archbishop O'Hara (Archbishop of Philadelphia) to accept any qualified Catholic high school graduates, for the Archbishop requires that the Catholic graduates attend Catholic colleges unless special permission is granted."

The question of the effect of the new system on Friday night activities was also brought up by members of the committee—seniors Dick Peer, Henry Whalen and Harry Nash. Junior Jack O'Rourke, the fourth member of the group, was unable to attend the meeting.

Father Donnellon agreed that attendance at Friday evening functions might suffer to a slight degree, but pointed to increased enrollment as the factor to take up any slack in such attendance.

There is a possibility that the new system will not affect some students, but Father Donnellon emphasized that all schools of the university will in all likelihood be affected by the change.

Father said schedule and classroom difficulties should be ironed out within the next two years, if the expansion plans materialize as planned .

Jack Devine Engaged

Jack Devine, Villanova basketball captain for two seasons, is engaged to Frances Margaret Fitzgibbons, of Philadelphia.

Devine, now an ensign in the Navy and stationed at Glenview, Ill., captained the 1953-54 and 1954-55 Wildcat teams. He received his BS in economices in June.

Junior Queen Entries:

More Lovelies on the Line: A Nurse, An Aspiring School Marm, A Colleen

By TODD PUCK

The girl who rules as the 16th Junior Week queen might be a registered nurse, an aspiring school marm or a college newspaper editor.

This week's batch of entries in the Junior Week Queen contest turned up those occupations.

The contest runs until April 6, so third-year men still have plenty of time to submit pictures of their own "queens."

Remuneration For Winner

Escorting the queen, her lady-in-waiting or the other four members of the court isn't just an honor. It'll help the old pocketbook, too, because the six gals will be guests of the class at all Junior Week events except Mothers' Day. The queen will get free hotel accommodations, if she's from out-of-town.

Now for a peek at this week's candidates:

Beverly Bowden, a blue-eyed brunette, will take in Junior Week with Ray Clarke, a pre-law C & F student. A first-year student at St. Mary's School of Nursing in Orange, N. J., Beverly stands 5' 5" and weighs 115 pounds.

The aspiring schoolteacher is Joan Asay, a 19-year-old University of Maryland coed from Washington, D. C. John Schoolmeester, an electrical engineer, passed along Joan's picture with these vital statistics: Joan's 5' 6" frame is fitted with 120 pounds, she has blue eyes and brown hair.

In fact there is only one entrant this week who is not brown-haired — Betty Anne Wright, auburn-haired editor of the newspaper at Lynchburg (Va.) College where she's a senior. Her photo was submitted by Tom Smith, an English major. Betty, a 22-year-old brown - eyed English major, stands 5' 7" out of her high heels and weighs 125 pounds.

Julie Moran, a blue-eyed student at Trinity College in Washington, D. C., was entered in the contest by John Hall, an accounting major. From Staten Island, N. Y., where she graduated from Notre Dame Academy, Julie carries 124 pounds on a 5' 5" frame.

John Lammers, a varsity football quarterback, sent along a picture of his fiancee, Eileen McCurdy, a registered nurse on the staff of St. Vincent's Hospital, New York City. The green-eyed Irish lass is 21, stands one inch over the five-foot mark and weighs 101 pounds. She attended the nursing school at the hospital where she now works, after graduation from St. Peter's High School in New Brunswick, N. J. Eileen and John became engaged over the Christmas holidays.

KATHLEEN CLISHAM

JOAN ASAY

BETTY ANNE WRIGHT

The sixth queen aspirant this week lives in East Falls, Pa.—where Grace Kelly's parents make their home. Kathleen Clisham, an 18-year-old senior at Ravenhill Academy, was entered by Gerald Tremblay, an education major. Kathleen has 130 pounds distributed on a 5' 6" frame.

Contest chairman Joe Redmond said he's pleased with the turnout so far, but he wants to be covered with portraits (or snapshots) before he sends the entries to the judges, who should be lined up within the next few weeks.

Portraits Requested

Juniors were reminded that the pictures will be returned after Junior Week and will not be damaged in any way. The committee would rather have portraits (at least 5x7) but they will accept any size photo.

The rules, for the benefit of any third-year men who've been sack-bound for the past three weeks:

1. All members of the Junior Class are eligible to enter one picture.

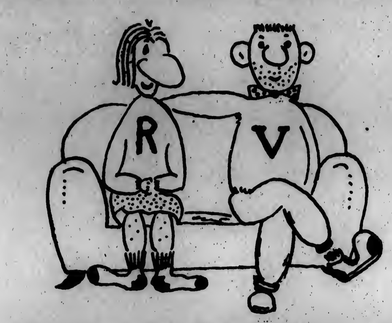
2. Entries will be published in the VILLANOVAN as they are received. They may be left in the Dougherty Hall university shop, Jack Decker's room (49 Sullivan) or Jack Fraser's room (246 Good Counsel).

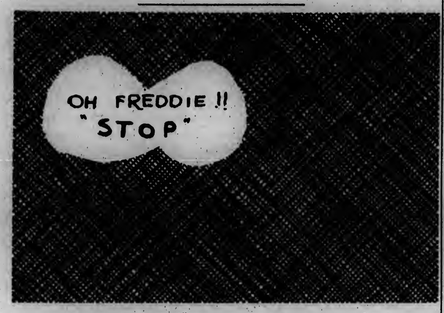
3. Judging will be on the basis of the pictures alone.

4. All pictures must be accompanied by the following information—written on the back of the photo or attached firmly to it: girl's name, address, age, height, weight, color of eyes, color of hair, present occupation, school attended; and junior's name, campus or home address, telephone number and school in the university (Arts, Engineering, C & F).

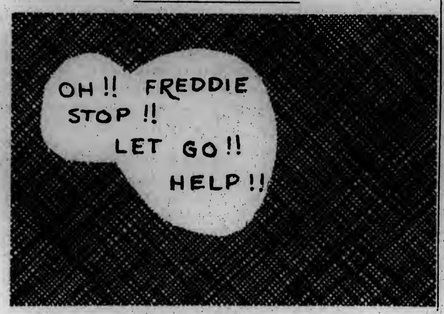
EILEEN Mc CURDY

JULIE MORAN

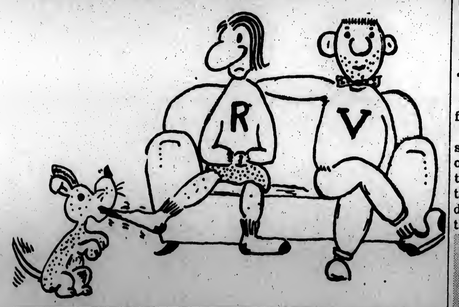




BEVERLY BOWDEN



Seefried's Corner



COLLEGIANS by CARTOON

By PHIL SEEFRIED

get acquainted with . . .

The Villanova Pharmacy

(ON LANCASTER AVENUE, AT THE WEST END OF THE CAMPUS)

Finest PRESCRIPTION Service

An Insight into the Big Week:

Junior Week: Anticipation Now, Memories Long After

Member of Class of 1957 Casts Enthused Glance At His Most Ambitious Social Whirlwind

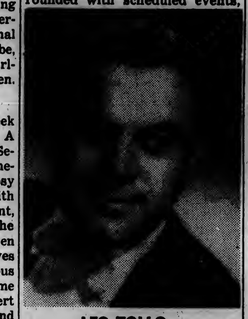
By Bill Jones

In just two months, junior week of the class of 1957 will be a thing of the past, merely a brick in our wall of memories. But what a memory it will be.

When the parade of merry-making has terminated, it will be remembered with many, as the old saying goes, "mixed emotions" by all its weary, but nevertheless happy participants.

The week itself, beginning on the lighter side with T. and T's musical comedy, "Barbara of Seville," presented for the early arriving Moms on Sunday night, swinging into full regalia with Mother's' Day on Monday, and closing with the last fleeting moments of either the dinner-dance Saturday night or a final picnic Sunday afternoon, will be, as it always has been, a whirlwind week never to be forgotten.

The Big Week



A glance into junior week looks something like this: A T. & T. show, "Barbara of Seville," a rollicking musical comedy about the love of a Gypsy boy and girl intermingled with the pathetic life of an ancient, down-trodden bull fighter; the traditional Mothers' Day when our Mothers or close relatives will tour Villanova's campus from a Mass to a baseball game to a banquet; a jazz concert featuring a foremost dixieland band which is still to be decided upon, possibly to be held in our new Dougherty Hall; a variety show held in the Field House and staged entirely by students of the university, featuring a little comedy, plenty of entertainment and even some talent.

The Big Weekend

Then, of course, there is the Junior Prom. Mere words would surely fail to describe the prom and the symbolism and tradition that surround it. The scene is the Field House; in it we see a junior and his girl, possibly the Prom Queen, and the Commanders. It is necessary to say no more.

The week, however, is entirely overshadowed by its most fitting climax, the junior's dinner-dance. What can top an evening of food and drink, of music and dancing and an evening where so many memories are manufactured.

Junior Week, although well rounded with scheduled events,

LEO ZOLLO
Dinner Dance Band
(see story p. 1)

is not, and could not be complete without the infamous but relaxing, informal and merry picnics which are sure to occupy a good deal of the warm afternoons of Junior Week.

On Economics

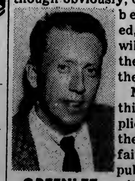
Money you say? Where can I get that kind of money? That surprising no one, is the one big obstacle in the path of a most successful Junior Week. The pressing economic problem is one that somehow has never been conquered. Between now and the big week, there will be many Villanovan juniors trying relentlessly to produce an ample money making scheme. These ingenious plans will range, no doubt, from long hours of toil to outright, usually futile, requests for parental gratuity.

Perhaps the more favorite Villanova quests for the fleeting dollar are caddying and gardening, in all its different phases, thus producing men who walk somewhat stiffly through campus with two big brown stripes on the shoulders of once-white shirts and other clad admirably in various mud-splattered khakis. Nevertheless, somehow, some way, legally of course, a large contingent of juniors are going to acquire quite a bit of that ever popular green paper.

Miss It? Never

To miss Junior Week would be, without doubt, one of the more unhappy occurances in the life of a Villanovan, for it is one of the two big social events of his entire four years at the university.

Ivy League schools have their supposedly traditional, but nevertheless conspicious "wild weekends," their "Soirees" and "Saturnalias," but nothing in the annals of a lot of good, clean, college merry-making can match Villanova University's Junior Week.



"Nothing to Fear But Fear"

Catholic Must Ignore Social Pressure, Assert Self In Prominent Positions

By Jim Greenlee

"We have nothing to fear but fear itself."

This oft-quoted statement is still of special significance in our time. Many of our generation literally quake at the mention of atomic energy, cobalt dust and nuclear warfare. Although obviously, caution should be keynoted, fear itself will not provide the solution to these problems.

GREENLEE

Moreover, this premise applies not only to the world affairs but also to public affairs within our own country. Look for instance at the society around us. How many ambassadors, cabinet officers, senators, congressmen, state legislators, city councilmen, etc. are Catholics? How many Catholics are in prominent positions in radio, TV, labor-management and newsreporting?

The answer is alarmingly few.

There are some who will ask "Why must we have Catholics in these fields?"

Policy Fields Important

It should be easily recognizable that our legislative and judicial branches are innately vital to the welfare and security of the entire nation since they are our lawmakers. The communicative fields (radio, TV, movies, and journalism) and labor-management are equally important since they are the ones who voice what is claimed to be public sentiment and they who greatly shape national opinion and policy.

In our confused civilization it is necessary that Catholic beliefs be presented in true fashion and that the fundamental principles of Catholicism be protected not only for the good of the Catholic but for society as well. The accomplishment of this necessitates Catholic activity in public life. An additional influx of men having the proper philosophies of life would be a most welcome asset to government, labor-management and the communicate fields.

Compromise Principles?

Why then do many Catholics shy away from the spotlighted life? There seems to be a widespread belief that it is impossible for a person to engage in politics and still remain a true Catholic, the inference being that politics and similiar public occupations are so saturated with diverse forms of corruption that only a person willing to compomise his principles to fit the situation may succeed.

This is not true. Throughout

(Continued on Page 8)

After Conference With Father Girolami:

Jack O'Rourke Effects Reduction In Mothers' Day Price; Hooker Quizzed

Chairman Drops Tab To $8.50

In a precedent-setting move, tickets for Mothers' Day in Junior Week have been cut to $8.50 from the original $10.

Chairman Jack O'Rouke said the price cut was taken after he conferred with the class moderator and decided to lower the price since the same event schedule could be followed with the reduced charge.

Juniors who have already bought their tickets for the April 30 event which officially opens the big social week may get their $1.50 back from ticket sellers in the Dougherty Hall booth, according to O'Rouke.

Why The Hotel

The price cut was announced to class meetings held Monday and last Thursday. O'Rouke said the event was started as an inexpensive affair.

About 100 third year men gathered for the Thursday session heard dinner dance chairman Tom Hooker answer questions from the floor concerning the scheduling of the affair at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel.

Some juniors, who indicated they would prefer the dinner dance at Palumbo's, had been circulating petitions to have the class vote on a possible move. But the petition-circulators did not take the floor during Thursday's meeting.

One junior said he thought "the class was getting milked" by having the dinner dance at the hotel and asked Hooker for a detailed explanation of what will take place.

Case Of Necessity

Hooker and the Rev. Dante Girolami, O.S.A., class moderator, explained that the choice was one of necessity because Palumbo's can accomdate a maxium of 150 couples. The Junior Class has approximately 630 members. Father Girolami said the hotel can handle 1,000 persons in the main ballroom where the dinner dance will be held.

These are the men who've been helping chairman Tom Hooker (seated, center) make plans for the Junior Dinner Dance May 5. Left to right: Harry Fatkin, Eb McCall, Bill Barton, Bill Hamburger and Leo Kane. McCall and Barton, band chairmen, have announced the signing of Leo Zollo for the affair, which winds up the big social week.

Hooker estimated that 430 couples would attend the function which closes out Junior Week and is open only to juniors and their dates.

Commented Father Girolami: "Palumbo's has advantages, but the idea of this is a dance and the class may eat together and dance together."

At Palumbo's the class would have to be divided on two floors, explained Father Girolami. But at the Ben Franklin the class would be together in one room.

Tables For Ten

Hooker told class members that tables would accomdate ten persons and that his committee was working on an entertainment program.

He gave this breakdown of the $10 ticket fee: $8.96 for food (turkey dinners for the junior and his date) and $1.04 for other expenses like the band, decorations and printing costs.

At the same meeting:

Juniors present voted to have a Dixieland jazz outfit featured on the Jazz Concert set for the Wednesday night of Junior Week. Several juniors said they would like to have Billy Krechmer, who made a hit at Rosemont recently. Chairman Tom Decker asked class members for suggestions on a possible area combo.

He said tickets to the concert would cost about $1.50 a couple.

Jack Shea, chairman of the talent show tentatively scheduled for Tuesday of Junior Week, asked juniors to sign up with him if they wanted to take part in the show.

George Harris is congratulated by the Rev. Edward M. Dwyer, O. S. A., dean of the university, upon his appointment as head of the Education Department. He succeeds the late Dr. Leo Brown, who passed away earlier this year. Harris, formerly director of the Placement Office, has most recently served as director of the Alumni department.

Two New Stars:

"Troilus and Cressida" Is O-C's Offering Tonight, 7

Villanova's Opera-Classica Club will present its first opera recordings in English with Walton's "Troilus and Cressida" tonight at 7 in 208 C & F.

The opera is in three acts, from which tonight's scenes between Troilus and Cressida are taken. The time is the twelfth century B. C. and the first act is set in the citadel of Troy.

Two new singers will be presented on tonight's recordings —Elizabeth Schwarzkopf, German soprano, as Cressida and Richard Lewis, English tenor, in the role of Troilus.

Mr. A. L. Angeline, club moderator, said he is anxious to find out how receptive the audience will be to this new opera, first presented in 1954, and written by an Englishman in a language lacking the beauty of vowel sounds.

Chief Justice Stern Speaker at Law Forum Tonite, 8:15

Chief Justice Horace Stern of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court will be the speaker at the Villanova Law School Forum on Wednesday, March 7th. Nationally famed for his juristic opinions, Judge Stern has served on the bench continuously since 1920. First on the Court of Common Pleas and then, since 1935, on the Supreme Court he has participated in the adaption of the common law to the dynamic conditions of modern society. A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Law School, summa cum laude, he has served as lecturer and as trustee of his alma mater. Among his many honors are membership in Phi Beta Kappa and the Order of the Coif, and doctorate degrees from the University of Pennsylvania, Dropsie College, Hahnemann Medical College, and Pennsylvania Military College.

The subject of the talk is "The Law and Its Practice, Present and Future." It will be given in Room 215, Mendel Hall, at 8:15 p.m. All interested persons are invited to attend.

With Fr. McGuire Over WVIL Tomorrow:

Newest Expansion Moves Probable Topic of Interview

Next steps to be taken in Villanova's $20 million expansion program are expected to be revealed in an interview over WVIL tomorrow night with the Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, development foundation director.

The program will run from 8:30 to 9 with Bill Kelly, station production manager, interviewing Father McGuire.

Kelly indicated the probable order and location of the next new buildings will be revealed by Father McGuire, former university president.

Discuss General Program

In addition, Father McGuire will discuss the results, purpose and methods of the building fund and the expansion program in general.

Kelly said he will question Father McGuire about the purpose and plans of the organization.

Purpose of the interview, according to Kelly, is to inform undergraduates about the behind-the-scenes matters of the university and the financial problems which must be considered by the administration.

Father McGuire was president of Villanova for ten years before moving up to the development program post in January 1954.

First Delta Pi Mu Smoker Tonight

Delta Pi Mu will hold its first smoker of the year tonight, featuring the colored slides taken by Herm Eckridge on his tour of Europe last summer. The smoker is scheduled to begin at 7:15 in C & F Auditorium.

A Communion breakfast was was held Sunday with the purpose of welcoming new members into the fraternity. This occasion established two precedents for a Villanova Communion breakfast. It was the first event of its kind to be held in Dougherty Hall, and it was the first time that a Villanova student was the guest speaker.

The speaker, Harry Nash, senior English major, outlined to members the proper outlook to be taken on fraternity life. He enumerated the many false ideas which students gather about fraternities and countered with his conceptions of the true fraternity spirit.

President Owen Hickey estimated that 70 members attended.

Shea To Address Physics Club

Jim Shea will address the Physics' Club tomorrow morning during the activities period at 10:30 a.m. on "Geology and Associated Physics".

At the meeting last Thursday, President Charles Schwerdtfeger discussed plans for a field trip and picnic to be held in the spring.

Laughlin Sets Soph-Frosh Dance

Sophomore class president Paul Laughlin has set April 13 as the date of the combined Sophomore-Freshman dance in the Field House.

Bob Mulcahy, sophomore arts, will be chairman, and will appoint all committee chairmen soon.

Faculty Wives Meet

The Villanova Faculty Wives' Club will present an evening of music by the well-known and accomplished pianist Mrs. John B. Clothier, Jr. at the home of the President, Mrs. Alex Severance, on Lincoln Highway in Berwyn tomorrow night at 8:15 p. m.

Dramatic Frat Is Revitalized

Lambda Pi, Villanova's chapter of the Alpha Psi Omega international honorary dramatic fraternity, has come to life again.

Recognized merely as a campus organization during the past nine years, the frat has enlarged its membership to thirteen and plans to enlarge its activities as well.

In addition to its officers, Tom Curran, Jake Krupa, Larry Kirwin, and Jack Lowery, the fraternity includes Belle Masquers Walt Doyle, Mike Clark, Jim Judge, Charlie Brockman, Andy Iaccarino, Joe Chinichi, Paul Gormley, and John Henry, as well as Tom Hayden, a Villanova alumnus.

Learn Stagecraft

Lambda Pi's purpose is to teach the various stages of dramatics at their meetings and put what they have learned into practice by the presentation of plays.

Since the frat is now in a period of reorganization, the staging of plays this year will be limited. However, plans are already being made for next semester, one of which is a competition of one-act plays between the casts of the local college chapters which will be held at Villanova.

Other Alpha Psi Omega fraternities in the vicinity are located at Drexel Institute, Ursinus, Immaculata, and Beaver College.

Residents To Draw Numbers For their Rooms:

SC's New Room Reservation System Approved; Mailbox Request Granted

Two Boxes Installed; Big 5 Meets

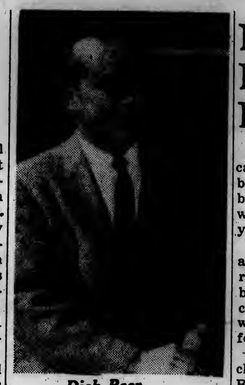
Villanova's Student Council notched a victory in a drawnout fight when two shiny red-white-blue mailboxes were placed on the campus last week.

The boxes were installed by the Villanova Post Office, according to Student Council chairman Dick Peer. One is located across from Austin Hall, the other behind Mendel Hall.

Pickups are scheduled for 1 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

Student Council had asked the administration for campus mailboxes in January. The administration said the Post Office Department would have to install the boxes.

Peer said he then asked the Villanova postmaster for the boxes. Boxes are being placed in other parts of the area served by the Villanova Post Office.



COUNCIL HEADS MEET

Freshman orientation—how it is conducted at Villanova and in four other area colleges—will be discussed tonight during the second meeting of "Big Five" campus leaders at Temple University.

Dick Peer, chairman of Villanova's Student Council, said orientation would be his contribution to the meeting's agenda. Student governments of La-Salle, St. Joseph's, Penn and Temple will also be represented.

Orientation was suggested, Peer said, because it has been discussed so frequently around

(Continued on Page 8)

Dick Peer

Peer Will Iron Out Details

A new system for reserving campus rooms has been approved by the administration and will be used March 14, 15 and 16 when room reservations for next year are conducted.

The plan will work this way: all resident students who want rooms next year will draw numbers, by classes; as numbers are called for in succession, students will choose their rooms as in former years.

Dick Peer, Student Council chairman, said the Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., university vice president and dean of men, had approved the system as it was recommended by the Council.

Peer said dates for drawing numbers will be announced after he meets with other senior members of the Student Council committee which will handle paper work required. The drawings

(Continued on Page 12)

BULLETIN To Appear End of March

"The first issue of the Mendel Bulletin will be out the end of March," stated Editor Bob Connor after the copy was sent to press last week.

Since its first publication 27 years ago, interrupted briefly during the war, the Bulletin has always been a product of Villanova's Science Department.

This year, however, the edition serves a twofold purpose: as a report of progress in the undergraduate studies of the sciences, second, as a stimulus to the student to appreciate the value of scientific research.

The first of this year's edition will feature an article entitled "Smog," by Joe Clark, a chemistry major, while Bob Fredericks, another chem major, will contribute "The Discovery of Elements 99, 100, 101." Tom Decker represents the physics department with his "Special Theory of Relativity."

Any Science major interested in submitting an article for the second issue, which will appear in May, should contact Connor, Al Miklos, biology editor, Fredericks, Walt Winowski or Dr. J. A. McClain, moderator, in the biology office, 3rd floor Mendel.

WPFH:

Singers Get Television Appearance

The Villanova Singers are scheduled to appear soon on "Panorama," a WPFH, Wilmington, production.

Jack Jannucci, business manager of the Singers, announced that the choral group will travel to Wilmington March 15 for the 7 to 7:30 p.m. television broadcast. He said that the appearance was made possible through the efforts of Ed Foti, a member of the Club.

Need Tenors

Student conductor Jack Padova has sent out a request to the student body for first tenors. "Although the membership is at an all-time high of 75 voices, we are still in need of two or three additional top tenors. There are no vacancies in the other voice sections, however," Padova added.

VU Law School Schol'ship Award Deadlines Near

Less than two weeks remain for those interested in competing for scholarship awards to the Villanova School of Law.

Dr. Harold Gill Reuschlein, dean of law, announced recently that the deadline for scholarship applicants to the Law School is Monday, March 19. Two basic types of grants are available, said Dean Reuschlein. These include several tuition scholarships and a limited number of Dougherty Fellowships.

Worth $1,250

The Dougherty Fellowships awarded annually to applicants showing professional promise, provide tuition and room and board and are worth $1,250 annually. The tuition scholarships provide full tuition and are worth $450 each year.

Applicant forms may be obtained from the Registar of the School of Law.

Discuss Adler Address:

Students, Faculty Initiate Round-Table Discussion

Thirteen students and six faculty members met in the faculty lounge of Dougherty Hall Thursday to discuss the Mortimer Adler address on "The Future of Democracy."

Mr. Jerome Fischer of the English Department was moderator of the round-table discussion. After the meeting, Mr. Fischer said he was "edified by the show of interest on the part of both the students and the faculty." He said it was his hope that gatherings of this type will be possible in the future.

Other Instructors

Other faculty members were: Mr. Charles P. Bruderle, Mr. Roland Houde, Dr. Eugene Powers, Dr. Edward Monahan, and Dr. John S. Phillipson.

Students members included: Phil Keane, Bob Cassidy, Dick Fitzpatrick, Jack Eddinger, Jack Kelly, Jack Padova, Jim Lombardi, Jim Grady, Joe Barrett, Bob Ford, Bill Kelly, Marcia Marlowe, and Janet Cunningham.

In the afternoon portion of the symposium students asked questions on Adler's theories of education and economics in a democracy. The questions were answered by faculty members and other students participating in the discussion.

Adler's speech was broken down to its bare essentials and the following points were considered:

1. Adler's idealism—this was considered a "very healthy thing" by the students and faculty members.
2. Practicability of the plan.
3. Situation of American education.
4. Equality and inequality of individuals.
5. Whether or nor all individuals are educible.
6. Moral implications of Adler's talk.
7. World federation.

Have Questioning Minds

After the informal discussion, faculty members seemed to agree that intellectual inquisitiveness is not lacking at Villanova, but it needs to be drawn of students through a closer student-faculty relationship.

Thursday night a tape recording of Adler's talk was broadcast over WVIL. A brief review of the lecture and the symposium was given with Mr. Fischer as moderator.

Offering the views of their particular groups were Dr. Phillipson, Mr. Houde, Eddinger and Barrett.

J. Paul Sheedy* Was An Udder Failure Till Wildroot Cream-Oil Gave Him Confidence

The boys were having a bull session in Sheedy's room. "It's no yoke," beefed Sheedy. "Heifer-y girl I ask for a date turns me down flat." Then Sheedy's roommate spoke up: "There's good moos tonight J. Paul. Try some of my Wildroot Cream-Oil on those cowlicks." Sheedy did and now he's the cream of the campus. Wildroot keeps his hair handsome and healthy looking the way Nature intended...neat but not greasy. Contains the heart of Lanolin, the very best part of Nature's finest hair and scalp conditioner. Get Wildroot Cream-Oil, America's largest selling hair tonic. In bottles or unbreakable tubes. Gives you confidence...you look your best. There's no udder hair tonic like it.

* of 131 So. Harris Hill Rd., Williamsville, N. Y.

Wildroot Cream-Oil gives you confidence

For Dinner ... or a Weekend Vacation

Cherry Hill Inn

MANSFIELD, MASS.

History Dept. Adds Course on Modern Germany

The History Department added another three-credit course to its curriculum this semester known as "Contemporary Germany from 1918 to the Present".

Ten students are presently in the class conducted by Dr. Alexander Rudhart, but the course is expected to draw many German history enthusiasts when it appears in next fall's university catalogue.

Emphasizes Post-War Era

Dr. Rudhart intends to place emphasis on the post World War I period, in Germany, considering the country's economic recovery, unification, and world peace.

Some 570 Couples Attend Sha'kinaki

The university's annual Japanese mission dance, the Shamokinaki, attracted 572 couples and was a "great success" in every way, according to statement released yesterday by the Rev. Michael J. O'Donnell, O.S.A., moderator of the affair.

"Especially notable," said Father O'Donnell, "was the generous response of the parents and guardians to the appeal for program patrons. This more than anything else insured the success of the Shamokinaki."

Father O'Donnell said he wishes to express his "heartfelt gratitude to everyone who helped produce a result that will gladden the hearts of our Augustinian missionaries in Japan and make them all the more proud of the great name of Villanova."

The moderator also was high in his praise of "the excellent work" of the members of the various student committees. Many men worked on several committee in preparing for the dance, and displayed the "best cooperation ever seen," said Father O'Donnell.

Catholic Must Ignore

(Continued from Page 5)

history we have had men who refused to sacrifice principles even though the cost of such a decision was great. One of the most notable was Abraham Lincoln who undertook great sacrifice rather than be wrong. There are many professions desperately needing honest men who would strive sincerely to dutifully hear and answer the public's needs.

Caution Minimizes Fear

It is not only foolish but also neglectful on the part of capable Catholics who shy away from the key public positions along with other qualified citizenry because of fear. Fear may be minimized by the proper amount of caution.

McEntee New Sanctuary Society Head

In elections held last week, the Sanctuary Society named Dick McEntee president for the forthcoming year. McEntee, a junior in chemical engineering, is a three-year member of the society.

Brendan Flynn, junior history major from Staten Island, N. Y., and Jim Dodge, sophomore math major, were elected vice president and secretary, respectively. The officers-elect must still be approved by the administration.

Refreshments were served at the close of the business meeting.

McEntee succeeds senior Bob McDonnell.

Graduate Psychology Study Offered Aid

There are 150 colleges and universities in the United States and Canada which offer educational facilities and financial assistance for graduate work in psychology.

Any students desiring additional information may contact Mr. L. N. Recktenwald.

Chemistry Expert Emphasizes Value Of Fundamentals

Dr. Charles Price, professor of chemistry and chairman of the department at the University of Pennsylvania, addressed the Chemical Society last Wednesday with the topic: "The Nature and Importance of Graduate Study."

He stressed that with the new developments in science and the complete technical world of today, it is imperative for the young scientist to continue his study in graduate school. He emphasized the importance of fundamentals, saying that graduate schools pay great attention to the student's grasp of the basic concepts of his field.

Dr. Price went on to discuss the courses which a chemist would take in graduate school. He said that a reading knowledge of German and French is required, although many schools are now stressing Russian because of the great developments of that country in science.

He concluded by commenting that the most important aspect of graduate study in chemistry was the opportunity offered the student to solve a problem never before solved by man and thus contribute to the world's storehouse of knowledge.

COUNCIL HEADS MEET

(Continued from Page 7)

Villanova. The chairman said he would take along two or three other members of Council—possibly those who would be here next year to introduce any feasible suggestions made at the meeting—to the parley. Each school may send three other representatives besides the Council head.

The "Big Five" council was formed in January. Meetings are planned for twice a semester.

READ THE VILLANOVAN

The Rev. Dante Girolami, O.S.A., moderator of the Class of '57, talks over Junior Week plans with class president Jack Decker.

Vice President of A.I.E.E. to Address Villanova's A.I.E.E.-I.R.E. Members

Mr. Cullen T. Pearce, vice president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, will speak to Villanova's A.I.E.E.-I.R.E. branch next Tuesday night, March 13. "An Electrical Engineering Career in a Manufacturing Organization" will be the topic of his address.

The monthly meeting of the group is scheduled for 7:30 in 207 C&F.

Visiting Society Branches

Mr. Pearce is currently visiting all the branches in the A.I.E.E. second district, which includes Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, Delaware and West Virginia. He is employed by the Westinghouse Electric Corporation in Philadelphia.

Plans have been completed for a field trip to the Lancaster, Pa., tube plant of the Radio Corporation of America on the following day, Thursday, March 14. Chairman Jack Downing said the group would leave at 11 a. m. from the Dynamo Laboratory and should arrive at the plant at 1 p. m.

Of course. Most everyone does—often. Because a few moments over ice-cold Coca-Cola refresh you so. It's sparkling with natural goodness, pure and wholesome—and naturally friendly to your figure. Feel like having a Coke?

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY THE Philadelphia COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1956, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Tomorrow Night, Field House:

"Detective Story"; At 8:15

(Continued from Page 1)

Curran Impresses

Tom Curran, a Belle Masque veteran who's worked his way up through the ticket selling, publicity and stage crews, handles his first major role as Lou Brody.

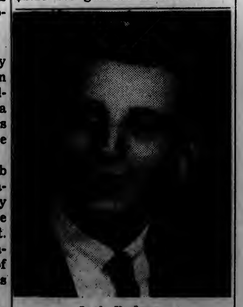
Pat O'Connor, who made her Belle Masque debut in last spring's "Harvey," will play McLeod's wife—the major cause of the rough detective's transformation.

Father Krupa

Marcia Marlowe, a first year nursing student, is expected to impress playgoers with her portrayal of the novice shoplifter, who is fascinated with the assortment of loudmouth lawbreakers and out-spoken cops when she is hauled into the police station.

Capt. Murphy Advisor

Technical advice for the play is being provided by Capt. John J. Murphy, commander of Villanova's security force, and a veteran of more than 20 years service as a detective in the Philadelphia area.



Capt. Murphy and Ens. Bob Ewing (Class of 1953), now stationed at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, have procured police props for the play. Capt. Murphy watched the play Saturday to check the actions of the desk sergeant and detectives in the drama.

Ewing was active in Belle Masque while an undergraduate.

Prop director for the play is Dick Brothers, a senior in the C & F School.

Tickets for the show will be on sale in the Dougherty Hall day hop cafeteria through Friday, according to Clark.

Prices are $1 for students and $1.25 for general admission.

Jack Padova

SPORTS CHATTER

A TRIBUTE WELL-DESERVED

By BOB STRAYTON

Tucked away in the darkest corner of the Field House, amid pungent odors of chlorine and perspiration, lies the seldom-visited home of Villanova's swimming team. In this clean, white tiled amphitheatre, with its high, dank walls and coral green water, the components of a loosely-knit, three-year-old swimming team gather at various times each day to sharpen their forms in preparation for the next meet.

The Villanova mermen come and go as they please; there are two practice sessions each day, but the swimmers need not attend either, if they so desire. They are bound by nothing other than an interest in swimming. There are no scholarships offered them, and no contract of any kind binding them to appear for daily workouts.

Swimmers Have Espirit d' Corps

Despite the absence of complusory adherence to training rules, the Esprit d' Corps of the Villanova swimmers is a thing to be marvelled at. In solving schedule problems—many of the mermen have afternoon classes—coach Ed Geisz devised double sessions each day, one in the afternoon, another at night. Rarely do the team members miss one of the daily practices; some boys even attend both.

By its very nature, a swimming team always operates in the shadow of a school's other varsity sports—especially football, basketball, track, and baseball. Little is ever written about a swimmer breaking a record, but when a major sport participant does something of similar note, the headlines announce it in brash, sensational overtones. The prestige gained from being a competent aquatic performer is, therefore, relatively little, except within the narrow confines which comprise the swimming world.

To be sure, the swimmers on Villanova's team are far from being glory-seeking individuals, for the chance to attain such a position is not afforded them anyway. Such being the case, some wonderment might arise as to what causes the members of the swimming team to work out as industriously as they have.

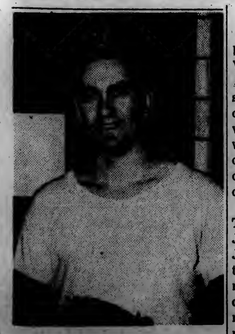
They are not forced to participate by being under scholarship control, as already mentioned; nor are they recipients of special privileges for their endeavor. The only bond of union existing among the Villanova swimmers is an affable coach and an interest in the sport.

And that, by the way, was the only bond which existed when the team was reorganized three years ago under Ed. Geisz.

Took Only Three Seasons

Against some of the finest schools in the East—schools which give scholarships and benefits to their swimmers—Villanova pitted its "affable coach and interest in the sport." The Wildcats went into the first season without any misgivings as to how they would fare. It was common knowledge that they weren't an especially talented squad, or one particularly well-drilled, for the time allowed them for practice was too short. The first season they lost more than they won. In 1955, the swimmers undertook their second season, and with a better background of coaching and practice, they emerged as a creditable squad.

The 1956 season concluded last Saturday when the mermen knocked off previously undefeated Georgetown University at the Field House pool. It was a befitting finale for a group of athletes and an energetic and talented coach who in just three short years, working on nothing but a shoestring, guts, and a great deal of perspiration, came up with a team of which any school would be proud.



During this, their third season of competitive swimming, Villanova's mermen made no headlines, gained no universal prestige, and were not honored in any way by their fellows. All they did defeat eight of the finest schools in the East, and lose only twice to their contemporaries.

And, although this season will appear in the statistics only as an 8-2 effort, it should serve in some measure to pay tribute to a fine bunch of "true" athletes, and their hardworking, deserving coach.

Diamond Practice Begins:

'Young and Inexperienced' Baseball Team Works Out

By FRANK FLEMING

DANNY SEVERINO

With mother nature helping by providing favorable weather, Villanova's baseball coach, Art Mahan, hopes to start practice sessions for the Wildcat squad on the stadium field late this week. Mahan, who has been working with his pitchers and catchers indoors for several days, will issue a call for candidates before the practice.

The only likely starters are Tom Casey, who will replace Jack Helm on first base, and John Quinn, who will be the third sacker. Charlie DiGiovanni will be trying to take the second base spot from last year's regular, John DiGiollorenzo come next week, and Ron LaMontagne

(Continued on Page 11)

Wildcats Rout Bonnies After Losing To LaSalle

Anxious Jack Weissman drives around a pair of LaSalle defenders during the Explorer-Wildcat City Series game played at the Palestra last Wednesday. LaSalle won, 71-64.

Play of Griffith, Brennan Key to Wildcat Victory

By BOB MULCAHY

Led by Captain Jimmy Smith and Al Griffith, Villanova University broke its five game losing streak at the expense of St. Bonaventure, 72-54, last Friday night at the Palestra. Earlier in the week, the Wildcats closed out their City Series league play losing to LaSalle, 71-64, also at the Palestra.

With their accurate shooting and zone defense completely bottling up the Bonnies from Olean, N.Y., Villanova made the first stop on the St. Bonaventure student excursion a miserable one. Another contributing factor in the Bonas' defeat was the inept shooting of the visitors, who hit on only 21 per cent of their shots.

Never A Doubt

The game was never in doubt, as the Mainliners led from the start, holding a 13 point advantage midway through the first half. With Griffith scoring 15 points and playing a fine all-around game, Smith scoring 15 points, and sophomore center Tom Brennan grabbing 13 rebounds, the 'Cats held a 38-17 halftime lead and, thereafter coasted as Coach Al Severance substituted freely.

ALLEN GRIFFITH

Against the Explorers of LaSalle, it was a different story. Within striking range until the very end, when four foul shots and a field goal put the game on ice, Villanova tried valiantly to grab the lead without success.

Paced by the performance of sub center Tommy Brennan, who turned in a fine game, scoring 19 points, the Wildcats fought back to a 65-63 deficit after trailing by nine points.

Singley Clinches It

However, Charley Singley then sank four foul shots to put the game out if reach. The victory gave LaSalle undisputed possession of third place in the final city standings and Villanova finished fourth.

Cousin's Dare Pays Off:

High School Bet Starts Jenkins' Track Career

By BILL SMITH

A bet! A loss! Discouragement! Encouragement! High School success! College sensation! Leading Olympic track candidate!

The above would make a good outline for melodramatic Hollywood rags to riches story. But it actually is the true story of Villanova's Charlie Jenkins' spectacular rise to track greatness.

Caught "Cinder Fever"

As a sophomore at Rindge Tech High School in Cambridge, Mass., Charlie was interested in just about every sport but track. It took a bet, and a dare from his cousin who was a senior, for him to try his luck in the mile run. Charlie came away from that race a very discouraged and disillusioned loser, but gained, at the same time, "cinder fever," a disease which must at one time or another get into the systems of all great runners.

CHARLIE JENKINS

When Charlie became so afflicted, he had the primary symptom of the "fever," an overwhelming desire to win, and so he went studiously to practice every afternoon. Thus began Charlie Jenkins rise to track stardom.

No one person alone can be singled out as the guiding spirit or the biggest help in bringing Charlie along the road of athletic success. It included a conglomeration including his high school track coach, Tom Duffy, and the entire track team of Rindge Tech.

Coach, Team Helped Out

All of them at one point or another during his early career came through at the crucial moments with the necessary advice or encouragement to keep Charlie from abandoning his track endeavors in despair.

It must have been this overabundance of help in the past that gave Charlie his present philosophy about banked-board victory. As the New Englander himself put it: "I would rather help a relay team win than win an individual event, because in a relay, four men have a chance to share in the victory."

Aided In Relay Wins

If that is Charlie's philosophy, he certainly has lived up to it grandly. In anchoring Villanova's mile relay team this season, Charlie has aided in bringing about six victories, with only one one defeat.

More than that, the Junior C & Fer has caused a mild sensation while running individual events. In all but the New York AAU meet, where he was forced out of contention by being pushed from the track, Jenkins has managed to go undefeated in his 600 yard specialty. His exceptional clocking for that distance include a 1:09.9 performance in Boston, which is just a hair's breadth from the world mark!

Holds World's 500 Mark

His most outstanding achievement on the indoor track, however, lies in setting a new world's record for the 500 yard distance in the New York Athletic Club meet. Jenkins' blazing 56.4 pace was good enough to

(Continued on Page 11)

N.B., ALL SPORTWRITERS

The deadline for all sports copy for the March 14 issue will be tomorrow night at 7:00 p. m. in the VILLANOVAN office in Dougherty Hall. All stories must be in at that time unless otherwise informed.

"Toast Of The Track World" Closes Indoor Season With Five Victories

By JOHN CURTIN

They did it again! Last Saturday night, in the New York Knights of Columbus meet in Madison Square Garden, Villanova's track team thoroughly outdid all other competitors to close out the 1956 indoor season. The Villanova squad, probably the finest ever assembled in the collegiate ranks, has completely dominated the boards in the past weeks, although they lost the one title they wanted most of all, the IC4A track and field championship, to Manhattan. Even then, however, the Jaspers won by the slim margin of two points, and only on the strength of the much greater number of entries they had in the contest.

As for the Wildcats, it has been a fruitful season. Men like Don Bragg, Ron Delany, Charlie Jenkins, Phil Reavis, and Georgie Sydnor have left their names in the annals of trackdom in these past months. In every meet, they have shown themselves to be top performers in their respective fields. That's the way it was last Saturday as four of these stars took top honors.

Bragg Goes 15-5¼

Don Bragg was definitely "the" man in the K. of C. meet. The Wildcat ace soared to 15 feet, 5¼ inches—the second highest clearance in track history. America's top pole vaulter, Rev. Bob Richards, who has been Bragg's main competition all year, could not enter the meet because of a pulled muscle, but Don's record smashing vault outdid the Reverend's best efforts by ¼ of an inch.

Georgie Sydnor tied the indoor record in the K. of C. 60 yard dash for the second time this season as he scored a photo-finish victory over Dave Sime, Duke University sensation, in 6.1 seconds.

Ron Wins "Special" Mile

In a special mile race, run for the five athletes who dropped out of the Columbian Mile, rather than risk their amateur standings by racing against the controversial Wes Santee, Ron Delany easily outdistanced his competitors to win in 4:11.8, two seconds better than Santee's time in the Columbian. This special race was booed by the crowd, who wanted a Delany-Santee match.

Charlie Jenkins took the 600 yard run in 1:10.5 and was anchor man on the mile relay team which matched the fastest relay clocking of the indoor season in 3:19.6. Other members of the quartet were Gene Maliff, Rollie Simpson, and Al Peterson.

Phil Reavis finished fourth in the high jump, behind a three way tie for first place, while Alex Breckenridge took fourth in the two mile run.

Have Been Headliners

It has been performances like this that have set the Villanova tracksters on a pinnacle, regarded as the greatest assemblage of track talent in history. In the eight meets in which they have participated since January 14, the Wildcats have always been the headline attraction.

Coach "Jumbo" Jim Elliot can boast of an undefeated miler in Ronnie Delany. He has Don Bragg, who is pushing Richards for the position of top pole vaulter in the country, and Charlie Jenkins, who set a world record in the 500 with a 56.4 timing and was defeated only once this season, and then only because of an accident on the track.

There is Phil Reavis, who, although cooling off towards the end of the season, was astounding the sports world by high jumping more than a foot over his head, and who reached his peak with an amazing 6 foot, 10 inch leap in the Philadelphia Inquirer games. And certainly, Georgie Sydnor is no slouch in the 60 yard dash, nor is the mile relay team, which lost but once all season, anything to be sneezed at.

Conveniently for the Wildcats, these men are all sophomore or juniors, and will be back next year to join the fine Freshman candidates. From here, it looks as if Villanova will be making track history for a few more seasons.

Wildcats Meet LaSalle, Owls Face St. Joe's In CS Playoff

BRAGG CLEARS BAR AT 15-5¼

By HANK NICHOLS

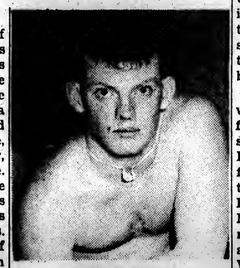
Villanova will get a chance to even matters with LaSalle's Explorers this Saturday night as Philadelphia's first City Series between the five area colleges draws to a close.

Jim Pollard's crew used some excellent foul shooting in downing the Wildcats last Wednesday, 71-64, in the Palestra. In contrast to LaSalle's fine showing from the 15 foot mark, the Wildcats misfired on 21 charity tosses.

It is inconceivable that the 'Cats, erratic as they are, can have another night as miserable as that from the foul line. Another factor that may reverse the outcome is the recent performances of sophomore Tom Brennan. He has scored 19 and 11 points, respectively, in his last two outings, and his rebounding in the previous encounter with the Explorers, although overshadowed by his point production, should earn him a starting berth Saturday night.

As a result of their previous win, the Explorers will be favored, but the Wildcats showed some fine work in routing St. Bonaventure, and if they can find their eye at the foul line, things will be all even with LaSalle for this season. Seniors Marty Milligan and Larry Tierney will be making their last appearance for the Blue and White.

The rematch between St. Joseph's, City champions, and Temple headline Saturday's triple header. The Hawks gained the nod, 77-68, in the championship game earlier this year. Temple should be able to look for their two tremendous guards, Guy Rodgers and Hal Lear, to have better night this time however, and if they do it looks like more than one score may be evened up before the night is over.



Pennsylvania will play an Ivy League tilt with Princeton in the middle contest.

Basketballs will start bouncing at six P.M., with Villanova

(Continued on Page 11)

Co-Captain Don Couig Holder Of Four Villanova Swim Marks

By DICK BRADY

DON COUIG

Don Couig, co-captain of Villanova's swimming team, has been setting new pool records ever since he first stepped in the water in his freshman year. He presently holds the Villanova pool records for the 100 yard free-style, the 50 yard freestyle, the 150 yard individual medley, and the 200 yard backstroke. An enviable record to say the least, and he has lowered his own time in most of these events since he first set the records. With another full year ahead of him Don seems destined for even beter things.

Couig attended Archbishop Stepinac High School in White Plains, N. Y. He started swimming when he was 14, but did no team swimming until a team was organized in his senior year of high school and he was made co-captain. He didn't concentrate on swimming, however, until, as a result of a concussion, doctors told him he could compete in no more team athletics.

Liked VU; Near Home

Couig decided on Villanova because it was small, near home, and a Catholic college. In addition to this he learned from a friend that Villanova would be organizing a swimming team that year.

Twenty-one year old Don is a General Arts student. Among his extra curricular activities he numbers DPM fraternity, in which he was appointed co-pledgemaster for this year, and is also a member of the Intramural Council. After graduation he hopes to go into the investment bond banking business.

Don modestly admits that swimming occupies most of his time between November 1 and April 1. And what, you might ask, does he do in his leisurely summer months away from the grind of training? You guessed it; he's a lifeguard.

Swimmers Edge Previously Unbeaten Georgetown In Thrilling Season Finale

By DICK KEILY

The Hoyas of Georgetown invaded the Villanova pool last Saturday to take on the Wildcat mermen in the last meet of the season for both teams.

Faced with an undefeated squad, the Cats closed in fine fashion by splashing to a 43-41 victory to make their record for the season stand at eight wins against two losses.

A good team effort brought the Wildcats their victory. In the three hundred yard medley, Don Couig, Lou Pinto, and Mike Klesius set a new pool mark of 3:09. This eclipsed the old record of 3:09.7 set by L.I.U. just a few weeks ago.

Couig Win Twice

Co-captain Don Couig added another ten points to the Cat's score by taking the two hundred yard individual and the backstroke. Jim Donnelly and Lou Pinto copped the other two firsts.

The four hundred yard relay team consisting of Pat Kean, the Blue and White, Mike Klesius, who swam for the last time for Villanova, Bob Duffy, and Denny Rinkacs, was nosed out by a fine Hoya trio. Ron Wordell and Hugh McGrath took the other two wins for Georgetown.

Freshmen Win Number Fourteen; Defeat St. Joseph's JV, 74-71

Literally tearing down the baskets, Villanova's frosh basketballers eked out a wild and wooly 74-71 victory over St. Joseph's junior varsity team last Friday afternoon at the losers Field House. It was the 14th victory for the Frosh, who have lost only two contests all year.

The "basket-busting" episode came about during the heated first half, when Villanova's center, Gene O'Pella, went above the rim for a lay-up, and caught his hand in the attempt. Both Gene and the basket came tumbling to the ground, and the game was resumed with the teams playing across court.

The O'Pella incident was but one of many heated events in the course of the Frosh's victory. From the outset, the game had all the earmarks of a down-to-the wire contest. The lead changed hands at least a dozen times during the first half of play, and when the intermission whistle actually did sound, St. Joe's held a 41-39 advantage.

It didn't hold for long, however, as Pat Carey warmed to his task, and began throwing in jumpshots from all over the floor. Carey, who recorded 26 markers in the contest, teamed with Ron Rossi to keep Villanova right in the thick of things. Joe Ryan, usually the frosh pacemaker, was ineffective from the floor, and scored only nine points.

Golf Candidates To Meet Thursday

There will be a meeting of candidates for Villanova's varsity golf team on Thursday, March 8, at the ticket booth in the Field House, newly elected team captain Ben Klemanowicz announced last week.

The meeting will be held in order to decide dates and times for tryouts for the team, and Klemanowicz emphasized that anyone interested in joining the team must be present on Thursday morning.

Klemanowicz, a Junior from Hempstead, Long Island, was the golf team's most outstanding player last season, and was largely responsible for the team's excellent 8-2 record. Besides Klemanowicz, three other lettermen will be returning to this year's team. They are: Joe Gallagher, Jack Kelly, and Bob McIlhenny.

The golf season opens on April 4 when Villanova meets Haverford in an away contest.

Juniors Sign Dinner-Dance Band

(Continued from Page 1)

own band, Zollo gained recognition as well as experience, as a music director for stage show performances of many of the world's foremost radio, stage, screen and television stars. Included among these were performances of Jimmy Durante, Gary Moore, Jack Carson, Ed Sullivan, Victor Borge and Ted Lewis.

His music has been featured on many outstanding coast-to-coast radio programs over the major networks. With this background, Zollo has been able to organize an aggressive orchestra with "sophisticated musical stylings" and "sweet" music designed specifically for dancing pleasure.

NBC and Bluebird

In addition to his work with the National Broadcasting Company and Bluebird Records, Zollo has been engaged at The Barclay, Bellevue-Stratford, and Benjamin Franklin Hotels in Philadelphia; the Ritz-Carlton in Atlantic City; the Miami Beach Casino at Miami Beach. He has also played at the University of Delaware, Duquesne University as well as at Immaculata, Chestnut Hill, Temple, Rosemont, and Beaver.

Music will be provided during the dinner from 6:30 to 8:30 by Zollo's combo. At 9 o'clock Zollo and orchestra will supply the music for dancing.

READ THE VILLANOVAN

CS Playoff

(Continued from Page 10)

and LaSalle starting things off, and if this night goes according to the form of previous basketball nights, there should be some weird happenings and goings-on before it is over.

A last minute spurt gave the Explorers a 33-25 halftime advantage after the game had been tied at 22 all. The play of Marty Milligan and Brenan, who together scored 26 of Villanova's 39 second half points, kept the 'Cats in the game until the very end.

Jenkins' Career

(Continued from Page 9)

lower Mal Whitfield's old mark by eight-tenths of a second.

As for the future, Charlie has just to run for Villanova during the outdoor season this spring before he begins an intensive training program in preparation for the summer Olympics to be held in Austria this year in which he is a cinch to represent the United States aggregation.

Ball Team

(Continued from Page 9)

and John Donnatuci will be fighting it out for the shortstop berth. In the outfield will be Frank Cafone, a sophomore who last year made a name for himself with his powerful hitting, Sam Ferretti, and Ron Debiak. Taking turns behind the plate will be catchers Jim Arnott, who is also a member of the varsity basketball squad, Hank Nichols, and Terry Hayes.

Severino Leads Hurlers

The pitching staff will be built around Dan Severino. Severino, who has been one of the teams regular hurlers for the past three years, is envied by most collegiate pitchers for his beautiful slider and good fast ball and is feared by all rival batsmen. Other pitchers who will most likely see frequent action on the mound are: Dick Black, John Nagy, Bob Scalzi, Jack Kelly, Villanova's basketball star, Dave Scott, and John Yeager.

Coach Mahan recently stated that he could not give a possible starting lineup or make any predictions about the coming season until he sees all the candidates, but he did state that this year's team would be "young and inexperienced."

electrical • mechanical
ENGINEERS
PHYSICISTS
MATHEMATICIANS
bachelor • master • doctor

research development field engineering
in computation communication
instrumentation

EMPLOYMENT INTERVIEWS WILL BE CONDUCTED...
March 22 and 23

PLEASE APPLY THROUGH YOUR PLACEMENT OFFICE

Remington Rand Univac
DIVISION OF SPERRY RAND CORPORATION
1902 WEST MINNEHAHA AVENUE, SAINT PAUL W4, MINNESOTA

When the songs are light
And the fire's bright
For real delight—have a CAMEL!

—Man, that's pure pleasure!

It's a psychological fact:
Pleasure helps your disposition.

If you're a smoker, remember — more people get more pure pleasure from Camels than from any other cigarette!

No other cigarette is so rich-tasting, yet so mild!

Camel

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Around the Campuses:

NFCCS Activities

Regional Council Plans Conference

Student Government Commission of the Philadelphia Region, N.F.C.C.S. will meet Sunday at Holy Family College at 2 P. M. The principle topic to be discussed will be preparation for the annual Student Government conference to be held this year on April 29 at Immaculata Collegc.

Chairman Florence Nowak has announced that one of the speakers for the conference will be Mr. Roger Goebel, the National Commission Chairman from Manhattan College in New York. Mr. Goebel's contributions to N.F.C.C.S. include a scholarly compilation of the Federation.

Busy April

The month of April is shaping up into what may be a banner month for N.F.C.C.S. in Philadelphia. The Regional Council is planning to hold a regional congress at LaSalle College on Sunday, April 15.

To be modeled after the national Congress of the Federation, the Philadelphia Congress, it is hoped, will stimulate interest in the work of the Federation among the students of the member schools.

On Sunday April 22 the newly formed Confraternity of Christian Doctrine Commission will sponsor "Confraternity Day" at Holy Family College. With the full support of Father Mynaugh, head of the Archdiocesan CCD office, Miss Mildred Copeland, Regional Chairman, is making elaborate plans for a big day with the hope of acquainting the Catholic College community with confraternity work in Philadelphia.

Rounding out the schedule of a busy month will be the Student Government Commission's conference at Immaculata College on the 29th.

DPE Publication Looks For Name

Delta Pi Epsilon became Villanova's first fraternity to publish a newspaper with its initial issue two weeks ago, but the officers have not found a suitable name for it as yet.

In an effort to remedy this situation, the DPE editors ask all frat members to submit possible titles by Monday.

Freshman Nurse Aids Thespians

A freshman nurse with a speedy stenographer's pencil has added a professional touch to Belle Masque rehearsals for "Detective Story."

While the Rev. William Krupa, O.S.A. observes the players, Mary Ester Screem follows along behind and takes down in shorthand the director's comments about flaws in lines or mispronunciations.

In this way the action need not be stopped for minor flaws. After a scene or act is completed, Mary Ester transcribes the notes for Father Krupa's use.

Variety Show Scheduled Sunday

On Sunday, March 11 the Variety Show Committee of the Philadelphia Region, N.F.C.C.S. will present the first performance of this year's show at Immaculata College starting at 8 p. m. Fifteen acts from the various member schools will be presented with music supplied by Bob Schiller's Villanovans.

Chairman John Rosica of Villanova has announced that Bob Laurence of radio station WIP will make a guest appearance on that evening. Laurence's show "On the Town," in which he interviews recording artists, night club acts, and many stars of the Broadway stage, is heard nightly over WIP at 11:50.

Tickets are one dollar and may be purchased through the N. F. C. C. delegation here on campus.

Residents To Draw Numbers For their Rooms:

(Continued from Page 7)

probably will be held next Monday and Tuesday.

Father McKee's office is in charge of room reservations.

The plan was outlined in part at last Monday night's Student Council meeting. Peer took Council's recommendation to Father McKee and worked out some of the flaws in the plan with the vice president.

Pinball Machine Curb

In other actions at the same meeting Council:

1. Suggested that the administration curb the installation of pin ball machines in the old Pie Shoppe and that table tennis, chess and checkers equipment be placed in the Shoppe instead. Jack O'Rourke, Council vice chairman, made the suggestion, explaining that students had complained to him that the Shoppe was beginning to look like "a casino."

2. Asked the administration to reconsider its ban on fraternity initiations and the wearing of "regs" during pledge weeks.

No Segregated Retreat

3. Heard that separate retreats for male undergraduates and coeds could not be scheduled this year. Bob McDonnell, who contacted the Rev. Joseph Kemme, O.S.A., university chaplain, about the Council's proposal, reported that Father Kemme gave these reasons: it is too late to schedule the separate retreat for coeds; the retreat could not be held on a weekend because priests would not be available to hear confessions — they go to crowded parishes in outlying sections to help out on weekends; the coed retreat could not be held at Rosemont because it is Villanova's problem and shoul dnot be passed off on Rosemont.

4. Banned fifth-year NROTC students, in their fifth year, from holding the editorships of the BELLE AIR and VILLANOVAN and the station manager's post at WVIL.

Concerning the new room reservation plan, Peer gave this explanation, which he said might be changed somewhat after he meets with other members of the Council committee:

Each student picks a number, according to his class, then signs a master list to prevent tampering with cards.

There will be specified times set aside for those who want to keep their present rooms.

If a student wants a certain roommate, he will be allowed to bring the prospective roommate's matric card with him when he comes to reserve a room.

Scholarship athletes will pick cards. Their rooms will be set aside by Father McKee, Peer said.

Two questions which have not been cleared up, according to Peer, are : Can a man who could not make his assigned time period have another student choose a room for him? Should a man who has missed his time period be allowed to crash the line?

These problems will be ironed out at his committee meeting, the chairman indicated.

Room reservations will be held on March 14 for the Class of 1957; March 15 for the Class of 1958; March 16 for the Class of 1959.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

1. SUPERIOR TASTE

So good to your taste because of L&M's superior tobaccos. Richer, tastier—especially selected for filter smoking. For the flavor you want, here's the filter you need.

2. SUPERIOR FILTER

So quick on the draw! Yes, the flavor comes clean—through L&M's all white Miracle Tip. Pure white inside, pure white outside for cleaner, better smoking.

RELAX WITH L&M MAKE TODAY YOUR BIG RED LETTER DAY!

© Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Villanovan

VOL. 31—No. 14 Villanova University, Villanova, Pa. March 14, 1956

Fathers' Day Ticket Price Is Announced; Seminary Guild To Feature Woody Herman

Annual Show To Include Four Aces

Stars will shine inside the Field House on the night of April 11, when the Augustian Seminary Guild presents its sixth annual Variety Show. The Four Aces and Woody Herman are already on the bill with more stars expected.

All Popular music fans know the Four Aces. Their hit recordings include "Perfidia," "Tell Me Why," "Three Coins in the Fountain," and "Love is a Many Splendored Thing." The Aces make their own arrangements to blend with their distinctive brand of harmony.

Woody Herman, tops in the name band field for over a decade, has been winning fresh accolades lately with his recently organized "Third Herd."

Supporting Acts

Seven or eight acts will make up the show. Top supporting variety acts are being contracted to support the stars. One of these acts already signed is Les Cardinals, who combine acrobatics with music making, and who appeared just last Saturday on the Tommy and

(Continued on Page 12)

Junior John Esposito makes use of one of the two mail boxes placed on campus by Villanova Post Office last week.

Retreat Heads Are Named

Conferences for seniors will be held separately for the first time during the annual retreat opening Palm Sunday night, March 25.

The Rev. Joseph W. Kemme, O.S.A., university chaplain, announced that all seniors—including fourth and fifth year NROTC students—will attend conferences and spiritual exercises in the university chapel.

Other undergraduates will at-

(Continued on Page 12)

Tickets $5; On Sale By March 20

The price for the April 21 Fathers' Day ticket was announced this morning by chairman Harry Nash, who arrived at the figure in agreement with his committee members last week. The price is $5, a reduction of $3 from last year's senior class Dads' Dad celebration.

The committee found that meals on that Saturday will cost each senior $3.50, with the additional $1.50 paying for banquet guests, fees and costumes for banquet entertainers, printing of tickets and programs, and several other miscellaneous items. The Fathers' Day speaker, to be announced in next week's VILLANOVAN, will cost the class very little if anything for his appearance, said Nash, who added that the class' wish to obtain a prominent figure close to Villanova's interests has been followed.

Mike Potenza, who served as master of ceremonies for last May's Mothers' Day entertainment, will handle the afternoon musical program in the same capacity. He will introduce a

(Continued on Page 12)

Rating Poll Indicates:

WVIL Attracts 95% Of Campus Students

The treatment of current topics of campus interest is one of the factors accounting for the popularity of WVIL as rated by a poll of one-third of resident students. Here the Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., director of the expansion and development foundation, describes building plans to production and special events director of the station, Bill Kelly. (See Story on This Page.)

20% of Residents Term Station "Favorite"; Alton Highly Pleased

The rating system has come to Villanova. Disdaining the Trendex, Nielson and A.R.B. systems which serve the major networks, WVIL has conducted its own poll to determine the radio listening habits of Villanovans.

One third of the resident students were interviewed in the poll conducted in Sullivan, Mendel, Fedigan and Austin Halls.

95% Said "Yes"

Results of the poll are as follows—The average Villanovan listens to his radio 3.29 hours daily—of these students having a favorite station in the area, 20.34 per cent preferred WVIL—however, when asked "Do you ever listen to WVIL?," 95.67 per cent said yes.

Listed as the favorite shows on WVIL were "Wet Wax Works," "Jazz Before Seven," and "Concert Workshop," in that order. "Wet Wax Works" is a DJ show of popular music from 9 to 10 each night. "Jazz Before Seven" is a daily half hour of jazz and modern music appropriately enough from 6:30 to 7. "Concert Workshop," 10:15 to 10:45 each night, is the long-hair audience puller with classical and semi-classical music.

On the commercial side, the "Lucky Strike News" at 8 p.m. and "Lucky Strike Sports" at 10 p.m. claim 87 per cent of the listening audience. The windup show each evening, Old Gold Filter King's Jill Corey Show at 10:45 has an audience of 44 per

(Continued on Page 11)

Ground to be Broken in "Near Future" for 400-Man Dormitory, Classroom Building; Law School Plant Named for Benefactor

Graduate School Building Dubbed "Garey Hall"

By FRANK DELANEY

Garey Hall will be the next new building to grace the Villanova campus.

The Board of Trustees has decided to name the new law building Garey Hall in memory of the late Mr. Eugene Garey, a prominent attorney of New York City. Mr. Garey received an honorary degree from Villanova in 1948. He was continuously interested in the university and was one of its substantial benefactors.

Despite inclement weather throughout most of this winter, the first phase of the construction of Garey Hall which will house the School of Law, has been completed. Foundation

(Continued on Page 11)

Artist's Conception of New Law School Building: "Garey Hall"

Three Structures To Be Completed Within Two Years

By BILL JONES

The Law School building, a large, modern classroom building and a new dormitory to be the twin of Sullivan Hall will all be completed on the Villanova campus within the next two years.

The Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., director of the development program of Villanova University, and Vilanova's former president has announced, in a half hour interview by radio station WVIL, the entire development program for the near future of Villanova University.

Father McGuire answered many pertinent questions put to him by students.

(Continued on Page 11)

This Collegiate Whirl

College Marriages . .

(ACP)—There's been a lot of talk about the advantages and disadvantages of getting married while still in college. So, we pass along these observations by Professor Ralph Dakin of the sociology department at Kansas State. They were reprinted in the Syracuse Daily Orange.

Marriage and college can mix, according to Professor Dakin. He says that married students usually make higher grades. Dakin believes this is due to the icreased security and responsibility. Students seem to feel that marriage actually helps their college work. And, in opposition to many studies, Dakin said that the divorce rate for college marriages is lower than for the comparable educated persons.

Commenting on the same subject, a Kansas minister has said that college marriages are much more dependent on the couple's level of maturity, the degree to which they want to make a go of marriage, and their common interests than upon the influence of college life. In other words, the success of a college marriage depends upon the same factors that influence any marriage.

* * * *

College Athletics . .

—All those stories about college athletes who can't spell their own names fail to pieces as a result of this story. It's about Kent State University and comes via the College Crossroads column in the Ohio State Lantern.

It seems Kent State has a varsity dormitory filled only with athletes, each of whom participates in a varsity sport and also holds down an outside job. That dorm ranked above both the all-fraternity and all-men's grade average for the past quarter.

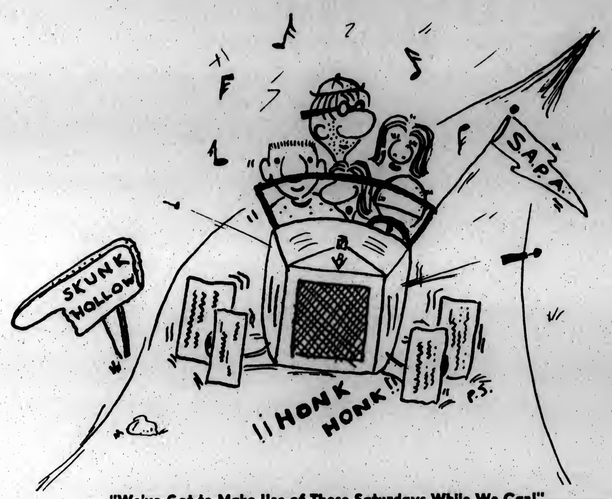
The same College Crossroads column also contained these bits of thought and wisdom.

Definition from the Omega, Georgia, News: The difference between a housemother and a game warden is that the game warden protects wildlife and the housemother prevents it.

And there's always the professor who announces: "This exam will be conducted on the honor system. Please take seats three spaces apart in alternate rows."

Villanovan

Villanova University Villanova, Pa.
Harry C. Nash III
Editor-in-Chief



Tom Smith ..... Managing Editor
Bill Jones ..... Feature Editor
Frank Delany ..... News Editor
Jack Downing,
Bill Brown ..... Copy Editors
Joe DeGrazia ..... Business Manager
Bob Ford
Bob Strayton ..... Sports Editors
Sig Meltz
Joe Ezerski ..... Photography Editors
Nick Podano ..... Circulation Mgr.

Faculty Advisor
Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Scholar, Gentleman, Athlete.
LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1928, under the act of March 3, 1879.
MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE PRESS ASSOCIATION

THIS IS COLLEGE LIFE

"We've Got to Make Use of These Saturdays While We Can!"

CAMPUS COMMENT

Outlooks of the Editor

Wanted: Dining Hall, Cafeteria Improvement

One wonders just how long a period of adjustment is necessary before the food-serving situation in the resident dining hall improves.

Reasonable excuses on the basis of insufficient personnel and the matter of adjustment of personnel to an entirely new kitchen set-up were justified and generally accepted during the first two months of operation. But the dining hall is now moving into its ninth week of operation and the same factors seem to be causing the same delays in the lines, as annoying as they are time-consuming.

It must be admitted that when the lines move, they move rather rapidly, but the movement is sporadic, leading to the belief that the preparation rather than the serving of food is the heart of the matter. Students, spending up to a hour and a quarter in line each day, have witnessed time and again the process: There is no more ham (or potatoes or greens) ready for serving. There are no reserve trays to be found in the 'warming' units connecting the kitchen and the steam tables. So somebody at this point frantically begins the cooking of perhaps 20 or 21 or 22 more strips of ham (or a few more calories of potatoes and greens) in the monstrous ovens that are available, and this minute re-enforcement is brought to the front lines, only to give out within the next five minutes, or the equivalent of approximately four famished young men.

Surely, in the light of the thousands of dollars invested in the super-kitchen and its facilities, the kitchen staff needn't worry too much about cooking a little extra food and staying ahead of the game out front, keeping the lines on the move. Occassional left-overs, after all, won't make for any great financial loss.

They can always put them in tomorrow's soup.

* * *

While on the subject of food-serving facilities, it might be well to comment on the unfortunate conditions that exist in the new Dougherty Hall Pie Shoppe and dayhop cafeteria.

It seems a bit incongruous to have a cafeteria of this caliber marred by a lack of order and cleanliness, as far as the tables themselves are concerned. Dayhops and residents alike have had much to say in criticism of the pile-up of dishes and trays on tables and chairs in the cafeteria, a situation that is hardly conducive to an enjoyable atmosphere or even sufficient seating accomodations, for that matter.

The other point concerns the snack bar. It is severely undermanned and runs out of this and that food with irksome consistency. The situation here could certainly be improved, and should be improved immediately. The matter of used dishes, cups and napkins left around the tables and against the walls is another situation that is as unnecessary as it is unappealing.

All the exterior beauty is all for naught is the efficiency and order and comfort is lacking. Right now it is.

Juniors Face First 'Big Class' Challenge

In deciding to return the Junior dinner dance to a hotel, the University's Class of 1957 made a move which was in keeping with tradition. Until last year's junior affair was transferred to a Philadelphia night club, the wind-up event of Junior Week had always been scheduled in a swanky hotel ballroom.

Now that they have made their decision, the class officers and steering committee should forget about "where the dinner dance might have been held" and enlist the cooperation of the entire class in making the formal affair—which is open only to third-year men—a success.

The more than 600 members of the class should stand by their elected officials, and the men those officers chose to do the time-consuming planning for Junior Week. This class is the first of the "king-sized" classes at Villanova and decisions are always difficult when the officers must plan for so large a group, which naturally will have a variety of likes and dislikes.

In place of the "coziness" which past Villanova junior classes have enjoyed, the Class of 1957 has the opportunity to prove that even a over-sized class can get the detailed planning behind Junior Week done.

The experiences of the present third-year class should be helpful to succeeding classes which will boast even larger enrollments.

* * *

Upon Rippled Reflections

By Bernard L. Bonniwell, M.A.

The Trap

The well controlled experiment is a trap. The more precise the controls, the more powerfully it imprisons the immediate participants. The successful experiment, above all others, ensnares both the experimentalist and the observer. Unfortunately the capture is made and maintained without the willingness or knowledge of the individuals concerned: they are the first to deny their imprisonment.

BONNIWELL

The experiment, devised to test the validity of a given hypothesis, immediately establishes frames-of-reference from which escape is difficult. In terms of research consciousness, the known overshadows the unknown. Attention now pivots about an experimentally secure point of orientation, inadvertently diverting the mind from the less clear but, frequently, more significant data. The individ-

(Continued on Page 11)

Peering . . .

With Dick Peer

. . . At all the lovelies vying for campus queen honors. Nurses galore, "school marms" and plain old Colleens, but up till last week, not one local campus beauty. Will hometown talent win this year after being shut out for so long? Rosemont, Chestnut Hill, even Harcum, WHERE ARE YOU? You aren't really that bad, you know.

PEER

. . . At Belle Masque's production of "Detective Story," done so realistically that many Villanovans brought their dates back to Rosemont sobbing softly. The good night handshake was firmer than ever and absolutely tingled with emotion. Seriously, though, the play was outstanding.

. . . Around the Junior camp, I found that the theme of their upcoming Junior Prom is a well-guarded secret. Just stay away from the past Senior Prom's "Moments to Remember" theme and you'll be safe. As one senior puts it, "Every moment I remember cost me ten buck!"

. . . At the room reservation lottery being on campus these days. The Student Council reports several rather tempting bribe offers, but claims that no more than two or three of the better ones were accepted.

The Political Corner:

John Foster Dulles: Ascent Of the Diplomatic Ladder

By Gene Donohue

The fifty-third Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles, has had a long and distinguished career as a participant in formulating his country's foreign policies, which dates back to the Hague Convention in 1907.

Born on February 25, 1888 in Washington D. C., he received his education in the public school system except for a period of six months during which he studied at Lausanne, Switzerland, where he acquired fluency in both French and German. After graduating from high school, he matriculated to Princeton University where his actual diplomatic experience began. In 1907, while Dulles was still in his junior year, he accompanied his grandfather, General Foster, to the Hague Peace Conference and observed the drawing up of the international code of warfare and of the rights and obligation of neutrals.

DONOHUE

Phi Betta Kappa

Graduating Phi Betta Kappa and valedictorian of the class of 1908, he spent a year at the Sorbonne in Paris studying philosophy and international law, for which he received his Doctor of Laws degree. Two years later he received his LL.B. from the Law School of George Washington University in Washington D. C., graduating at the head of his class.

After this educational period, he practiced law in 1911 and thereafter for the law firm of Sullivan and Cromwell in New York, specialists in international law. Rejected by the Army for active duty in World War I because of impaired vision, he was later commissioned a captain and directed the economic section of the military intelligence division of the general staff.

Following the war, he was American commission counsel at the peace negotiations and in 1919 served on the reparations commission and the supreme economic council. He was United States representative at the Berlin debt conferences in 1933, and a member of the United States delegation at the San Francisco conference on world organization in 1945.

His Troubles Started

"My troubles with the Russians started when I went to San Francisco . . . ," Dulles wrote in an article in Colliers (March 12, 1949). "Molotov and Gromyko were there and I soon learned that they had ideas very different from the sweetness and the light of the Atlantic Charter and the Four Freedoms."

In 1947, Mr. Dulles was a member of the Moscow meeting of the foreign ministers council and it was after this meeting that he made an important radio address warning against the Soviet policy of penetrating foreign political parties and trade unions, asserting that "it is up to us to show, in every way that free institutions can carry themselves from the sea of misery in which they find

(Continued on Page 11)

Professorial Roundup:

Discipline By-Product Of Study of Chemistry: Quam

By Bob O'Connor

This week, your Professorial Roundup varied slightly from the usual format of the column, and has, instead of interviewing a teacher and obtaining his views on college education in general, interviewed the head of the chemistry department, Dr. George N. Quam, and obtained his theories on the necessity of chemistry in Villanova's undergraduate divisions and also the need for the subject in graduate school.

In the interview with Dr. Quam on the value and characteristics of the chemistry taken by all students from the chemistry major to the arts students, he was most cooperative in answering the questions put to him.

Dr. Quam points out that Villanova's chemistry department runs an up-to-date course enabling its students (chemistry majors) to go directly into industry or on to graduate school. Among the graduate schools which Villanova men are attending are Notre Dame, University of Pennsylvania, Catholic University, Cornell, Princeton and Minnesota. "The chemistry department," points out Dr. Quam, "has been on the approved list of the American Chemical Society for over ten years.

The Chemistry Student

Listing the chemistry students separately, Dr. Quam said that the chemical engineer requires a considerable chemical background with his courses ranging through the same first three years of the chemistry major's work although on a less comprehensive scale.

The pre-med student requires the general, organic, and analytical courses. Dr. Quam notes also that physical chemistry is being encouraged by many medical schools.

For the physics major and nursing student, chemistry means a little less, the nursing students taking only the general course and the physic majors, general, organic and physical chemistry.

The Science Student

Pointed out as a great importance in the educational field today is the arts-education science student. Dr. Quam strongly re-

(Continued on Page 12)

The Reader Speaks:

Letters to the Editor

Figure Corrected

Regarding the article in the March 7 issue reporting the proceedings of the class meeting held the Thursday before, I would like to correct some of the figures given in the article.

First of all, I stated that the present senior class had a 74 per cent attendance at its junior dinner dance and that if we had a similar attendance, we would have too large a crowd for Palumbo's cafe-restaurant. Furthermore, it was incorrectly stated that Palumbo's would hold a maximum of 450 couples.

When I first contacted John Ferro, banquet manager of the club, he drew up a floor plan of the affair based on the largest possible crowd which the club could take. This plan contained seating arrangements for dinner for 570 people on the main floor and 220 people on the first floor.

I might add that this floor plan necessitated tables in every available space . . . From these figures, it was obvious that if more than 400 juniors decide to attend the dinner dance, and I sincerely think they will, we would not be able to squeeze into Palumbo's.

I am confident that the Benjamin Franklin Hotel will provide the service and the atmosphere so necessary for the success of an affair such as this.

Tom Hooker
Chairman, Dinner Dance
Class of 1957

Editor's note: The VILLANOVAN regrets the error which Mr. Hooker refers to in the above letter.

LETTERS WELCOME

The VILLANOVAN welcomes letters from its readers on any topic close to the college student, be it associated with campus life or otherwise. Letters should be short; they MUST BE SIGNED, although names are withheld upon request. Leave letters in newspaper office in Dougherty or contact any VILLANOVAN editors.

On Improvements

Dear Sir,

So far, in my stay at Villanova I have found very little to complain about. Problems have arisen, it is true, but in some manner or another they have been sufficiently solved by the administration, the Student Council, or a combination of both. But the university has, in my opinion, overlooked one major improvement to be made, or should I say one major defect to be repaired. This holdover from the stone age is that miserable, dark, damp excavation under the Pennsylvania railroad tracks which serves as an underpass for all post office bound Villanovans and also for local commuters. Surely something can be done about this dingy catacomb. It is apparently never cleaned and it certainly looks it. It is absolutely never dry, the air is always foul and the entire apearance of this antiquated tunnel gives the person using it the feeling that he or she is walking through a newly discovered, centuries old, musty, dungeon type underground vault. It looks like something out of the wierd tales of Edgar Allan Poe. The first time anyone walks through it and has the misfortune of having a lumbering freight train pass overhead, as was the case of a young lady visiting Villanova last year, he or she, as the case may be, is sure to get quite a fright as those ancient walls quiver and appear ready to give up the ghost. This young female refused ever to enter the "cave" again.

Seeing the fine law building shooting quickly up on the other side of the tracks brings this problem again to my mind. Apparently, this structure for the use of our aspiring barristers will not be the only edifice constructed on that side of the tracks, as there is plenty of space behind the power plant just begging to be built upon. With Villanova's most ambitious development program yet to swing into high gear, it is assumed by the majority of the students that this aforementioned land would be the ideal sight for some future construction of an addition to Villanova.

Will the students using the law building and in the future, some new building, be forced to continue using this outdated fugitive from medieval times? Surely they deserve a better fate.

With all the improvements being undertaken around Villanova, I cannot see how this decrepit condition has been overlooked. It is my contention that in keeping with our progressive plans, this tunnel should be filled in and some sort of a bridge or overpass be constructed in its place. I do not believe that a project of these proportions would involve an excessive amount of money and it would lend itself as another fine addition to the university.

It seems quite feasible that if permission from the Pennsylvania railroad is necessary for the execution of this project, it would not be hard to obtain, as it would also be of great convenience to its daily Villanova riders.

With all conditions favoring such a project it is very difficult to understand why it has not been urgently considered by the proper authorities.

Jerome Adams

The Nomad Newsman at Work:

Student Views of the 'Big Decision'

By MIKE RUSSO

It is common knowledge that the President of the United States has decided to run for his second term. Mr. Eisenhower, a man who recently suffered a heart attack, must have spent many hours weighing his sense of responsibility to his country. This is definitely a question which must be considered from all angles, since its repercussions will be many and profound.

The Nomad Newsman has asked various Villanovans, "Do you think President Eisenhower should run again?"

RUSSO

Bob Crook, '59, C. and F.

Yes. This is the only time in our history that we have had prosperity without the benefit of a war. There are no more mink coats or five percenters being handed out to corrupt our public officials.

Barry Ballister, '56, Arts.

Yes. I think that Ike should run if he makes it clear in his campaign the handicaps under which he must serve. He must also exercise great care in choosing his personal aides.

Don Weir, '56, C. and F.

I believe that President Eisenhower should continue to be the president so that the present trend of prosperity may continue.

Frank Wright, '57, C. and F.

No. President Eisenhower has already stated that he will not assume the duties of President to the fullest extent due to reasons of ill health.

John Esposito, '57, Arts.

Yes. Not Considering his physical health, I must definitely consider his past accomplishments in the office he now holds. I'm sure all will agree that of the modern presidents, he is the one who has caused least dissension and has been most pleasing to the public.

Charlie Bowling, '59, C. and F.

Yes, because he said that if his health would hinder him in any way, he would not run. Since he is up for re-election, it is proof enough that his health is all right.

Mike Martinelli, '57, Arts.

Yes, for the simple reason that not only the U.S., but other, countries respect the president for his military and political accomplishments.

Dick Rodenhouse, '56, C. E.

Only if he can get a good vice-president to run with him; in case of death, this man would become the president. This is a very serious point to consider.

Tom Moran, '56, C. and F.

No. I think that his decision to run again was very foolish for reasons of his health. The people would elect him president, but not his vice-president.

Strictly Opinion

By DON ALTON

With the development of our Villanova from the small, friendly, closely knit, college type institution in which the majority of members of a class know each other, we can see the approaching death of the small campus flavor that was once peculiar to Villanova. The vets who have returned to the campus and the last of the "college" classes, slated for graduation this June, can be overheard as they pass comments on the University future of Villanova.

The majority of these men look back with a nostolgic eye to the "good old days" when the coats and ties were reserved for the date with the Rosie, the Saturday night Frat party, or the trip to the "City" . . . that started Thursday night on a whim. The chow hall was the infamous den under those cubicles inhabitated by the big "Sophs" with their white hats, and the "T" shirted diners usually showed their displeasure with a meal by a mild riot . . . the silverware bouncing on the rusted metal trays . . . the chicken hung on the coat racks with care, as they hoped that the new chowhall would soon be there.

ALTON

The Freshman's first residence was the wooden structures that served both as a home and the unifying effect, that seems lacking in some of the classes today. Those barracks. . . now resting under the barbed wire fences and chains that seem to display the modern, impersonal atmosphere necessary to a large institution . . . molded the course of many friendships, and proved to be a common sacrifice now recalled with pleasure. How many times did a freshman find himself visited by his next door neighbor . . . via the broken wall policy? Another memory of the barracks days is the vision of the members of Barracks Three enjoying a pre-dawn trot as a deterent from future infractions of the rules.

With the increase size of the classes, the campus started to undergo a face lifting which resulted in Sullivan and Dougherty halls . . . only after many months of mud and trucks on the campus did the present physical plant of Villanova University become a reality. With these new buildings came a vast number of butter watchers, tie checkers, and the sign out lists became a reality. No longer could an ancient Senior park his car in the space reserved for the Mission Band or the President. Captain Murphy's men appeared on campus, and the change was complete. Now Villanova had all the appearences of any other large Universiay, and the future looks brighter than ever for all but those who think of Villanova in the light of the "good old days".

The new generations of Villanovans will wonder what their friends and old grads are talking about when they hear them mention the barracks, Louie and his Pie Shoppe, or hear the modern radio station refered to as the "shack". The suit jacket and tie seems only natural to the "new breed" and a Saturday morning class at 8:30 is just another morning class.

The vast numbers of the classes now, and in the future, place several handicaps upon the social life of their members. The Junior and Senior Dinner Dances will become things of the past just as the barracks. This will result from the lack of accomodations for the class with a membership of a thousand, and the natural apathy of a large, impersonal group. The small number, some 46%, that voted in the Freshman elections this year paints a picture of what is to come. No longer will the president of a class be able to have real contact with his classmates, and the classes may be led by a group of sincere and interested students in place of the voice of the class as a group.

Within a few years Villanova should reach its peak enrollment of some five thousand students. The majority of these men will be of the type that comes and goes. The residents will probably number around 1500 men, and these will, for the most part, control the policy of the classes. There will be an increasing need for the positive participation of the day-hop members of the University in activities and class functons.

This will entail a good deal of personnel sacrifice on the part of these men, but the four classes and the University itself will only be as strong as the loyalty of the five thousand individuals that form the new Villanova. So far, strength and unity has been a mark of our campus, and the growth and development of Villanova can continue along these same lines if every man considers himself a true member of the University.

Dulles

(Continued from Page 3)

themselves."

After serving as a United States Senator from New York for a short period in 1949, he was chosen in 1950 as a delegate to the United Nations assembly. He was advisor to the State Department from 1950 to 1952 but resigned in the campaign year so that he might be free to criticize United States foreign policy. The capping of his career came in January of 1953 when President Eisenhower made his first cabinet assignment in appointing John Foster Dulles United States Secretary of State.

Mr. Dulles is also the author of two prominent books in the field of world affairs. The first, "War, Peace, and Change," published in 1939, is a philosophical analysis of war in which he expounds his belief that war had been tolerated as a means of settling disputes only because no procedure was available whereby changes in international relations could be made effective, while "War or Peace," published in 1950, is a survey of foreign relations since World War II.

What Must Be Done to Meet Challenge?

The Education Problem to be Faced; An Expert, A Student Air Views

EDITOR'S NOTE

The following material was written in the form of a column by Harrison W. Fry, education editor of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, and is reprinted here in its entirely, the Bulletin having granted permission fo its re-use on the pages of the VILLANOVAN. Mr. Fry's column is reprinted here to cast the light of professional observance and analysis on a problem that poses a distinct challenge to all Americans, not only her men of education. It is the problem of increased population, of the need for improved teaching methods, of greater overall pursuit of education, and of a dire shortage of teachers. It is a problem that concerns college men and women in particular.

From this nation's beginning its leaders have warned that its future depends upon an educated citizenry.

James Madison said that "popular government without popular education is a prologue to a farce or tragedy." And William James pointed out that "The teachers of this country have its future in their hands."

But today as William G. Carr, executive secretary of the National Education Association succinctly puts it, "America's schools are not holding their own. Indeed, they are actually losing ground, and have been doing so since 1930."

The Fund for the Advancement of Education in a statistical study issued on the eve of the four-day White House Conference on Education beginning next Monday says, "It will be impossible under the present pattern of teacher recruitment and teacher utilization to secure anywhere near enough good teachers for our schools and colleges over the next 15 years. The need is estimated at 500,000 teachers in schools and colleges.

It would take half of all college graduates over the next ten years to meet the demands for new teachers, the study shows. At the present time only about one-fifth of the graduates of four-year colleges enter school teaching.

(A doctor of philosophy degree has been considered the necessary preparation for a college teacher, the bench mark of quality. But that hall mark is rapidly fading from college campuses. While today only 40 per cent of college professors have a doctor of philosophy degree that proportion is rapidly declining.)

Industry and government are successfully bidding for the holder of the doctor of philosophy degree so that the fund finds that by 1970 on the projection of present trends, only 20 per cent of college teachers may be Ph.D.'s.

While our schools strive to remedy these present defects of crowding, a letdown in teacher qualification and a lack of classrooms and laboratories there are new warnings of quality erosion appearing.

Forty-six per cent of the nation's public high schools offer no foreign languages, 23 per cent offer neither physics nor chemistry in this atomic age and 24 per cent offer no geometry. There is a critical shortage of high school science teachers. To meet a need this year of 7,900 science teachers, the colleges produced 2,600 qualified science teachers and only 1,700 entered teaching. Industry and business took the rest. Almost 90,000 emergency teachers have been called into the schools.

All of which has of course shown its effect upon the student achievement. Of all the selective service registrants in the first year of the Korean conflict, 19.2 per cent failed the armed forces qualification test; 34 to 58 per cent failed in nine states.

There are three essential conditions for attracting and holding able people, the study points out.

The prestige and status of teaching must be comparable to other professions in the eyes of the community and young people.

The salary structure must be high enough and flexible enough to compete effective with other fields bidding for quality manpower.

And the teacher's job must be defined and organized so as to challenge and utilize effectively the interest and ability of talented people.

The Student-Teacher Relationship, Reappraisal Of System Seen as Heart of a Vexing Question

By Frank Sickleton

The preceding article, which appeared in the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin of November 25, 1955, is typical of a growing concern over the present and future state of education in this country. If the strictly national viewpoint urges us as citizens to safeguard, extend and improve our educational facilities, our position as world leaders adds enormously to the responsibility.

Mr. Fry's article suggests that the four year college is the key to the teacher shortage and offers some off-campus remedies to be applied in the vague future. The problem, however, is the immediate. It affects the present generation of college teachers and students. If the challenge is accepted on these terms, perhaps a real beginning of a solution can be constructed here and now out of materials at hand.

Co-operation Necessary

In the first place, nothing can be done without co-operation of students, teachers and the college administrators. The foundation for the whole structure is a deeper understanding of his teacher's problems by each student and the same undestanding on the part of the teacher of his student's problems.

Mr. Fry not only points out that we are short of men trained in the sciences; but especially science teachers who are of the greatest importance in turning out these men. Yet in many sciences about 50% of the students fail! If we ask the professor why such failure, he might answer that most people fail in science because of a weak foundation in high school. The high school teacher retorts that it is the lack of training in grammar school. The elementary teacher in turn, claims that the child is dumb. The mother feels that the child along this line should not be blamed because his father's people are all the same. Neither geneology nor Mendel's law of heredity will solve any immediate problems in education.

A False Barrier

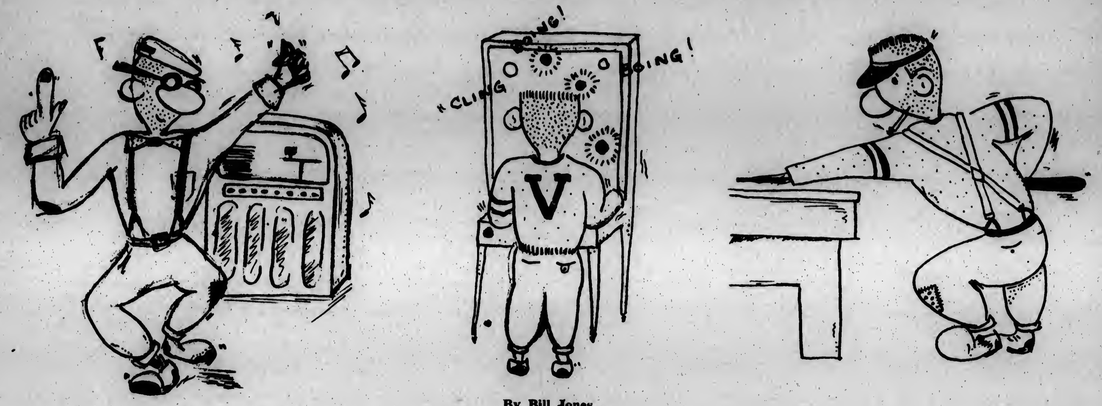
The attitude that only a certain endowed percentage are capable of finishing college is defeatist. What of those who never go to college or leave without diplomas, yet wind up employing graduates? Some of our greatest men did not finish school because of scholastic failure. Could it be that we are discouraging people with good minds from entering fields where they are needed most by raising a barrier of false standards?

It does not seem logical that a student should fail solely because of poor foundation work in the lower schools. One must pass an entrance exam to get into the college course. No course should be made so difficult that one who is able to pass the entrance exam and who puts forth an honest effort in his work, cannot pass the subject. This does not suggest that all courses should be "A" or "B" courses, for this too would do more harm than good. Something, however, should be done to save as many students as possible without lowering our standards, in the true sense of their value.

Three Remedies

There is no doubt that a poor foundation in the lower schools is a handicap to the student entering college. Three remedies are offered:

1. Give the student who lacks a foundation subject from high school a special course without credit dealing solely with the fundamentals in that subject. We cannot build a strong student upon weak fundamentals. More advanced students could take useful electives during this period.



2. Give different courses to students grouped according to their previous schooling. If this is done, we must take care not to make students without the proper foundation feel inferior. Perhaps special recitation groups could be held for these students, or extra classes.

3. Rebuild the student-teacher relationship modeled after St. Augustine's unity, truth and

(Continued on Page 11)

Venturing Inside the Old Pie Shoppe:

A Look at the Campus 'Penny Arcade'

By Bill Jones

We are now a university, a respected and honored Catholic university, and yet, squarely in the middle of our fine campus we have in the making a typical, run-down, useless "hangout."

The old Pie Shoppe was a time honored establishment. Only the upperclassmen remember it as it once was; a by-word for all Villanovans, a more-than-famous meeting place for residents, day-hops, faculty and friends alike. It was the center of everyday life on the campus. Here you could relax, grab a bite to eat and forget all your troubles for a few fleeting moments.

Old Spirit Sags

But, alas, the spirit of the old Pie Shoppe has quickly disintegrated and descended into the murky depths of a cheap amusement center. How completely it has changed in a little more than a year. Even before Dougherty Hall was erected, pin-ball machines were imported, and for some reason the administration set them up. "Rock 'n Roll" records began infiltrating the atmosphere; the decline had begun.

Upon construction of Dougherty Hall, which provided a new and cleaner snack bar along with a television set and a fine modern lounge where relaxation and study are aided by the strains of classical and semi-classical melodies, the old Pie Shoppe should have been, perhaps even with a small ceremony for the sake of posterity, closed forever.

A Pathetic Scene

How would you, a Catholic university student, like to be conducting visitors around the campus and have them come across the pathetic scene which the Pie Shoppe now presents; the scene of a small time penny arcade, the kind which can be found defacing the streets of almost any big city?

Here we see supposedly mature college students continually wasting both valuable time and money huddled over that pinnacle of junior high school entertainment, the pin-ball machine. Upholding this scene of immature enthusiasm is the once popular juke box now blaring away at top volume with surely the world's most feeble attempt at music, that conglomeration of suffering singers and pseudo-musicians, the ever-juvenile "rock 'n roll." As one of the souped-up lads so ably puts, it he is the "great pretender."

Men?

And what is that table which all the "men" are grouped around? Why it's a penny arcade, kiddies pool game naturally, worked only by feeding it money.

Is this college entertainment? It most certainly is not. It looks much more like something out of "Blackbard Jungle."

It must be stated, in all fairness, that these pin-ballers are merely a very small minority. Many students enter the old Pie Shoppe to have a pleasant game of pinochle or to hold a good old fashioned bull session between classes. But this "rock 'n roll" monority is becoming a serious threat to the name of Villanova University.

Take Them Away

It is my contention, therefore, that if these pin-ball machines, "rock 'n roll" records and other playland toys were taken, as Vivian Blaine would say, "back from whence they came," the old Pie Shoppe could once more assume a collegiate atmosphere, blending with the rest of our fine university.

If these toys must stay, the Pie Shoppe must go.

PUBlicly Speaking . . .

By JIM & MIKE

For the past three years, an unauthorized, subversive organization has been operating on the campus. Each spring witnesses a resurgence of power as the S.A.P.A. forum on nature study with the boy scouts is renewed.

On Saturday afternoons, the group assembles in the woods over a hundred strong, each carrying his own container wherein he stores any information he may pick up. Refreshments are rolled out and the aspirants huddle in little groups discussing such topics as Plato, Shakespeare and Freud. Athletic contests are undertaken as this modern day version of Robin Hood and his merry band compete for honors in rope-walking, log-rolling and chug-a-lugging events. Girls from surrounding colleges are brought in to add spice and variety to the conversations and inspiration to the games.

JIM AND MIKE

The supreme head of this organization and all its members cannot be ascertained, as each one at the outing claims merely to be guest.

Roll call is taken and two cuts are allowed each year; double cuts are allotted on the more prominent weekends. Very few cut themselves out, however, as "the spirit is very high."

On rainy days, the meetings are adjoined to the Pub, where the different factions within the club fight it out for their favorite television program. As of late, the Mickey Mouse party has become much too strong for the fading Howdy Doody and sports enthusiasts, and that is the prevailing program.

This organization has become an important part of the life of the undergraduate. The organization helps in making him a most well rounded college man.

Pet Peeve of the Week: Ants.

get acquainted with . . .

The Villanova Pharmacy

(ON LANCASTER AVENUE, AT THE WEST END OF THE CAMPUS)

High Praise for Belle Masque:

'Detective Story': A Critical Review

By JOHN EDDINGER

As I sat awaiting the opening curtain of the initial performance of Sidney Kingsley's drama, Detective Story, I could not repress a great many doubts that had arisen in my mind as regard the performance of this play by an amateur group. Chief among these doubts was the question of wether the great emotional interpretation that is an essential part of this play could be handled by this group. Any doubts that had existed in my mind previously were completely dispelled by the time the final curtain fell. They evaported as the play unfolded, and the truly remarkable acting ability of the members of the Belle Masque Society was revealed.

The wide reception and acclaim that the drama evoked here at Villanova is a tribute to the astute casting and directing ability of Father Wm. J. Krupa. Father Krupa worked long and tediously with a group of young men and women (none of them drama students), the highly sensitive, closely-knit group of performers that took the stage this past weekend.

Nothing but the highest praise and adulation can be given Mr. Brockman for his sensitive portrayal of the bitter, self-righteous detective, James McCleod. There was no doubt left in anyone's mind after seeing the play about the high-calibre, almost professional performance rendered by Brockman. I believe that he projected himself beyond his own personality, (a trait not often found among amateur performers) so that the true pathetic and emotional effect was reached and held from the middle of Act II until the final curtain.

Messrs. Barrett and Curran proved to be incisive and convincing in their respective roles. As Charley, "the four-time loser," Mr. Barrett commanded the attention of a somewhat fickle audience (Thursday night) throughout the play, but especially when his gun barked out death in the final act. Throughout the play, Mr. Curran's fine, workmanlike interpretation of the level-headed, seemingly tough Brody, whose job was to harness the volatile ravings of McLeod, was excellent.

I have singled out these three men as the most notable of the performers However, it would be a grave injustice not to commend the outstanding performances of the Messers. John Padova, James Grady, James Gilligan and David Franklin among the major characters. Among the minor parts, the Messers. Andrew Iaccarino, Ray Clarke, Paul Gormerly and Peter Selesky turned in equally adept performances.

The portrayal of the female parts was perhaps the most surprising feature of the entire drama. From the semi-sophistication of Mary McLeod, played by Miss Pat O'Connor, to the gum-snapping naivete of the shoplifter, portrayed by Miss Marcia Marlowe, the feminine roles wer for the most part handled with maturity and insight.

After a slow first act the play gradually gained momentum through the second act and its emotional catharsis and from that point proceeded smoothly to its denounement, the ultimate tragedy of Act III.

If there was a flaw in the play, it presented itself in the ineffective handling of the sub-plot, the evolution of the love affair between the young collegian and his girl's sister. Fundamentally, I believe that situation to have been too unimaginative and lacking in depth to be fully convincing.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Junior Week News:

Juniors Urged To Get Reservations; Talent Show Out

Hooker Announces Dinner-Dance Menu

Tom Hooker, chairman of the dinner dance at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, has announced the menu for the dinner: coupe of fruit Honolulu, hearts of celery, queen olives, consomme alphabet, roast Maryland turkey, cranberry sauce, rissole potatoes, eskimo roll with blueberry sauce, coffee and rolls and butter.

The Ben Franklin, according to Hooker, said that this menu is popular with banquets served at the hotel. The menu was selected by the class steering committee from several offered by the hotel's chefs.

Tickets, at $10 a couple, will go on sale April 3. Tables will accomodate five couples and specific tables must be reserved when tickets are purchased.

Hooker suggested that groups arrange the selection of tables so that an entire table may be purchased at one time. In this way Hooker said, groups will be assured of sitting together and reservations may be made more quickly.

Soph-Frosh Dance

Sophomore class president Paul Laughlin has set April 13 as the date of the combined Sophomore-Freshman dance in the Field House.

Steering Committee Nixes Show Idea

With less than seven weeks remaining until Junior Week, third-year men have been given one more chance to make reservations for Mothers' Day April 29.

Chariman Jack O'Rourke appealed to juniors to sign up by this Friday for the event which opens the big social week.

About 430 juniors have already registered, according to O'Rourke. He estimated 450 juniors and their mothers would attend.

Deadline March 23

Tickets, do not have to be purchased until March 23—all junior have to do is make reservations so their mothers can receive a letter asking for entries in the Diaper Dan contest.

Another reason for the reservations is to give the Mothers' Day committee an idea of how many persons to expect.

In other developments along the Junior Week planning front:

The talent show tentatively scheduled for Tuesday night was voted out at a steering committee meeting last Monday. An event to fill the Tuesday night spot has not been definitely set. The show was dropped because of the intense planning and work it would take prior to Junior

(Continued on Page 12)

Council Power Challenged

The Rev. George McLaughlin, O.S.A., dean of student activities, indicated Monday night that administration forces will override the Student Council's rejection of the Nursing Division's seating request.

The debate ended with the statement by Father McLaughlin that it was useless to get all upset because that was just the way it was going to be and it was final.

The whole eruption began with the announcement of the nurses that they would come right back with the same two vote request that was defeated before by the Council. A point of order was introduced that the same request once defeated could not be brought back within the same year without being changed. This point of order, however, was defeated by the Council, thus allowing the nurses the right of repetitioning for two votes in Council. It was at this point that Father McLaughlin stepped in with his ultimatum.

Previously, a mild commotion had been stirred up by a letter from the Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O.S.A., also curtailing the powers of the Council by stating that they had no right to ban anyone (fifth year R.O.T.C. men) from editing his Belle Aire. A motion was quickly brought up that all organizations having representation on the Council should be subject to its ruling. The motion was passed and forwarded to the Fraternities and Societies Committee. But with the subsequent ruling of the administration on the rights of the Council, this issue also was left up in the air.

Room Reservations

Student Council President Dick Peer has announced that under no circumstances will the interchange of numbers in today's and subsequent days' rooms reservations be tolerated. In any case where numbers and the order on the master list, all parties concerned will immediately be dropped to the end of the line. There will be no exceptions.

Plan Busy Spring Concert Schedule:

Singers Prepare For TV Appearance

The Villanova singers will make their second television appearance in five weeks tomorrow evening on Channel 12, WPFH Wilmington, at 7 p.m.

The choral group will be seen on the program "Panorama" which features Jack Reynolds as master of ceremonies. "Panorama" is a 15-minute telecast which appears twice weekly, on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and offers a wide variety of musical entertainment.

Second TV Appearance

Reynolds has had musical combos, pianists, soloists, quartets and larger singing groups on his program, but this is the first time a college glee club has been scheduled.

The Singers were last seen on television Feb. 8, between halves of the Penn-Villanova game. These are the only two times in which a campus organization has been televised.

Sang at CHC Sunday

For the Singers, this is the high-point of their season thus far. Early in December the club did a half-hour radio show WFLN-FM and since then it has sung for the Philadelphia and South Jersey Alumni Clubs, Chestnut Hill and Immaculata. The last two concerts were given Sunday and Monday, respectively.

On Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 7 Reynolds emcees a musical quiz game, "Word and Music." Contestants, called at home, indentify the tunes with the help of clues. He is assisted by the Manny Klien Quartet and soloist Clem Loeft. Reynolds

(Continued on Page 11)

THE FOUR ACES: SEMINARY GUILD PERFORMERS

(See story on page one)

Smith, Jones, Strayton In Charge:

Jr. VILLANOVAN Editors Handle Junior Week Issue

The 16-page Junior Week issue scheduled to appear April 30 may contain a cartoon feature for the first time.

Tom Smith, editor of the special issue along with Bill Jones, said the proposed cartoon layout will be handled by staff artist Phil Seefried.

Bob Strayton, VILLANOVAN sports editor, is assisting Smith and Jones with the Junior Week edition. He will handle the sports section in the special issue.

The Junior Week edition will be printed on special stock newsprint and will include articles on Junior Week activities and a two-page spread on winners of the Junior Queen contest.

Introducing "Billboard"

In the issue a new column is scheduled to be introduced. Bill Reich, who plans to write "BILLboard"—a column modeled after this year's "Peering"—has consented to turn out a column for the edition.

Any juniors who would like to work on the edition are asked to see Smith (106 Sullivan), Jones (211 Sullivan) or Strayton (338 Good Counsel).

DPM Initiates Executive Council At First Smoker

Marking another innovation in fraternity activity Delta Pi Mu fraternity inaugrated its new executive council with the nomination of representatives to the council at the first DPM smoker of the year last Thursday.

Two representatives from the junior class, two from the sophomore class and one from the freshmen will comprise the council. The function of the council is to aid and advise the president of the fraternity.

Paddles submitted by the pledges were judged by fraternity president Owen Hickey and Herm Eckridge. Herb Rammrath and John O'Sullivan took first and second place respectively, winning beer mugs. The paddles of Will Oates, Joe Clark, Joe Lynch and Bill Kelly won honorable mention.

Under discussion was the annual gift to the Library from the fraternity.

Herm Eckridge displayed film slides of his trip through Europe last summer, including England, France, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Austria and the Scandanavian countries. Eckridge provided a witty commentary.

EE's Travel to Lancaster for RCA Inspection

Villanova's electrical engineers are traveling to Lancaster, Pa., today. The A.I.E.E.-I.R.E. branch is making its monthly inspection tour to the Tube Division of the Radio Corporation of America in Lancaster. They will leave from the Dynamo Lab in Mendel basement at 11:00 a. m., arrive at the plant at 1:00 and oggle and ankle throughout the afternoon.

Last night the group heard a talk by the vice-president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Mr. C. T. Pearce. Mr. Pearce spoke about "An Electrical Engineering Career in a Manufacturing Organization," and he was applauded by a large enthusiastic audience of the e.e.'s.

The April meeting of the branch will consist of the annual prize paper competition, as three seniors will present technical papers before the group. Election of next year's officers will also be held at the meeting, said the chairman, Jack Downing.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

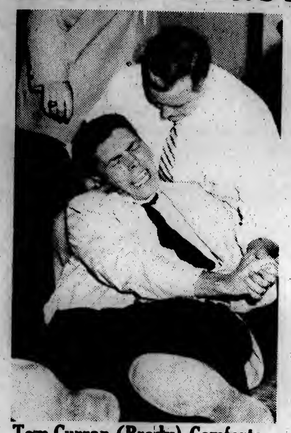
Invited to Annapolis Match:

Improved Pistol Team Looks To College Rivals, Letters

Capping two years of steady improvement since it first appeared on the Villanova campus two seasons ago the Villanova pistol team hopes to achieve varsity standings next year with regular intercollegiate competition and letters for the team members.

Although the team record this year of seven losses and four wins may not appear too impressive on paper, the real quality of the team may be read in the fact that they steadily improved as the season progressed against high quality non-collegiate competition in the area.

Spectular recognition of their worth came when the top rated Annapolis team challenged Villanova to a match at Annapolis with Annapolis paying expenses. Villanova lost but the match was analagous to our playing Notre Dame in football. The invitation itself was high praise.



Coached by Sergeant Waryha, USMC, assistant to the marine instructor attached to the Villanova NROTC unit, and captained by Walt Gould the team members are Lou Padula, Lawler, McLellan, Wescott, Scott, Bizzano, and Santoro. Lang has served as team manager.

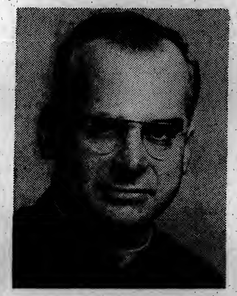
Individual high scorer this season with the team was Lou Padula with a 278.

Father Krupa's Troupe in Spring Success:

Belle Masque Presents "Detective Story"

Mike Clark and his colleagues produce one of Villanova's finest dramatic efforts in four-day treatment of Kingsley's realism

Tom Curran (Brody) Comforts Brockman



Chuck Brockman (McLeod) in Tense Scene With Pat O'Connor (Mrs. McLeod)

Mike Clark
Bm President

Carol Whalen and Father Krupa Make Up Susie Simmons

The Rev. William J. Krupa, pictured above, has once again directed his Belle Masque troupe to a smashing success in its powerful and stirring rendition of "Detective Story." For Father Krupa and for Belle Masque the play has constructed another solid link in their long chain of successes.

Curtain Call: For Franklin, Lucy Bell, Padova, Cunningham and Pat O'Connor

Ray Clark (Callahan), Lee Carson (O'Brien), Ward Cunningham (Dakis) and Tom Curran (Brody), L-R, Apply Clamps to Andy Iaccarino (Burglar Lewis)

Lucille Bell (Susan) and Peter Selesky (Mr. Pritchett). Question Dave Franklin (Art Kindred)

Junior Queen Entries

Long Slender Look Dominates Queen Entries, Deadline Three Weeks Off

BY TOM SMITH

A look as this week's contenders in the Junior Queen contest shows a tall gal could easily find a crown on her head the night of the Junior Prom.

This week's "golden eight" range in height from 5'3" to 5'7"—the top mark in the contest so far. Included in the latest crop of candidates is the first Villanova coed entrant.

C.H. Prexy

Mary Maines, president of Chestnut Hill's sophomore class, was entered by Dave Collins, a civil engineer. Mary, who's 19, stands 5'7", weighs 126 pounds, has brown eyes and keeps her ash blond hair close-cropped.

The first coed entry is Doris Irene Miller, a sophomore in the basic nursing program. Paul Gormley, a philosophy major, handed in Doris' picture, along with these statistics: Doris is 5'6½", 18 years old, weighs 135 pounds and is a blue-eyed blonde.

Roberta Rafferty, a senior at St. Katherine's Academy in the Bronx, will take in Junior Week activities with Eugene Donohue, a political science major. Standing 5'5". "Bobbie" weigh 112 pounds, and keeps her light brown hair combed back from her blue eyes.

Little Flowerite

Mary Elizabeth Loftus, another entrant with blue eyes and blonde hair, is a 5'5" secretary in Philadelphia. Her picture was submitted by Norman Pallato, a day hop in the C & F School. Mary, who weighs 125, graduated from Little Flower Girls' High School in Philadelphia.

This week's Irish lassie is Kitty Kelly, an 18-year-old receptionist from Brooklyn. Lee Pastore, a physics major, turned in her picture with this data: Kitty's 5'6½", weighs 118 and has light brown hair.

Sally Brownson will be Bill (Buck) Haley's prom date. A 20-year-old student nurse at Jersey City Medical Center, Sally is 5'7" and scales 134 pounds, has blonde hair and brown eyes.

Another private secretary who' been entered in the running is Sylvia Kenton, a 19-year-old alumna of Woodrow Wilson High School in Camden. John Nettleton, a chemical engineer, entered her photo, noting Sylvia combines 5'5" inches and 120 pounds, has black hair and brown eyes.

Fashion Model

Moneta Walsh, a fashion model, is a 19-year-old student at the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York City. She carries 110 pounds spread daintily over 5'3", and is a blue-eyed blonde. Bill Smith, a marketing major, sent along her picture.

Where can juniors leave their gals' photos? In the Dougherty Hall university shop, Jack Decker's room (49 Sullivan) or Dick Quinn's room (111 Fedigan).

Mary Loftus

Sylvia Kenton

Doris Miller

Mary Maines

Roberta Rafferty

Kitty Kelly

Moneta Walsh

Sally Brownson

Singers Plan

(Continued from Page 6)

plays the Hammond organ on both shows.

Arrangements for tomorrow's appearance were made by Ed Rofi, a member of the Singers.

Will Sing at Retreat

The 75 man organization has been busy recently working on music for the Retreat mass and other engagements on its schedule.

Next Thursday, March 22, the group will sing for the Evening School Lenten Service. This, like the Retreat mass, is an annual function. On the following Sunday, March 25, the Singers will present a concert at Notre Dame Academy. They will sing the Retreat mass March 28.

Members of the Opera-Classica Club gather with their moderator, Mr. A. Angeloine of the C & F School, before settling down to weekly record sessions last week.

Twenty-Five to Make Trip:

Villanova Chem Society Tours Glass Concern

The next activity of Villanova's student affiliate chapter of the American Chemical Society, the Villanova Chemical Society will be a field trip to the Diamond Glass Company in Royersford tomorrow. Approximately 25 members will take the trip. Earlier this semester the society toured the laboratories of the DuPont Experimental Station in Wilmington, Delaware.

For its March meeting the society will present a glassblowing demonstration featuring Dr. Percy Cole of the Barett Division, Allied Chemical and Dye. The exhibition by Dr. Cole is designed to supplement the course in glassblowing given to the freshmen chemistry majors, as well as to provide an interesting and entertaining evening for the members.

Show For High Schoolers

Scheduled for the evening of April 6, is an exhibition of chemical magic to be presented for the benefit of the high school students of the Philadelphia area who are planning a career in chemistry.

For its April meeting the society will call upon its faculty adviser, Dr. Clarence G. Heininger to speak on "Atomic Energy and the Chemist."

Slosing out the year's activities will be the Third Annual Dinner Dance of the Villanova Chemical Society to be held at the Conestoga Mill, April 14. Cornelius L. Downey and Vincent Cardella, co-chairmen of the affair, have announced the signing of a four piece orchestra.

Bob Fredericks, president, has stated that membership in the Villanova Chemical Society is now at 40, the highest in recent years. He pointed out that membership is now open to anyone in the University possessing an interest in chemistry.

ENGINEER at Printer; Will Appear Monday

Editor Jack Essig announced that the March issue of the VILLANOVA ENGINEER was being finished by the printer and will be distributed next Monday to all engineering students.

The March issue has been expanded and remodeled. The cover has been changed and more pages of articles have been added.

Among the articles is a study of the development of Philadelphia's Penn Center, written by junior Dave Collins. Senior Jack Gerrard has contributed an article on the sources of petroleum, and junior Dick Dolger has written on the propagation and transmission of radio waves.

Howell on a Truss

Junior Ron Howell is contributing an article on the use of the Vierendeel truss to solve a unique problem in the construction of a library in Hartford, Conn.

In addition, there are other, articles, some serious and some on the lighter side, and also the regular featured columns.

One of he regular feaures, "Engineer's Forum," discusses the pros and cons of extending the Engineering curriculum to five years.

The editors of the magazine are interested in anyone who has a topic and would like to contribute an article to the May issue of the ENGINEER. Please contact Jack Essig (325 Sullivan) or Len Bellanca (105 Sullivan).

VU Concert Band Dinner Dance Set At Exton

Chairman for the Villanova Concert Band dinner dance, Mike Guida, junior C & F student, has announced that this affair will take place on March 7 at the Exton Lodge, in Exton Pa.

After the dinner there will be the initiation of the new officers for the band and then dancing to the music of the "Craftmen."

The affair is closed to members of the marching and concert bands.

IRS To Meet

The International Relations Society has an important business meeting scheduled for tomorrow morning at 10:30 in 201 C. and F. for all members of the business staff.

Villanova Jars LaSalle, Drexel To Finish Season

Griffith, Smith Spark Last Two Wildcat Wins

Slight Al Griffith, a gritty six-footer, provided the spark which led Villanova's hard-pressed basketball team to victory in its last two contests during the past week. Last Wednesday night, the Wildcats romped to an easy 77-55 victory over Drexel Tech, and repeated on Saturday night to even the series with LaSalle, by winning 76-73.

The Wednesday night contest, played at Sayre Junior High School in Philadelphia, saw Griffith throw in 17 points along with teammate Marty Milligan's similar number to completely out rout the Drexel team.

Like Reaching Peak

For the Hollidaysburg, Pa. junior, the Drexel game was like reaching his peak. Griffith, it will be remembered, started the season in terrific form, but fell apart after the fifth game and for the season saw little action. Griffith's first sign of life came two weeks ago when he turned in a fine performance against St. Bonnies. After that, he was rewarded with a starting job.

For Villanova, Saturday's Palestra clash with the Explorers was sweet revenge for 71-64 setback which the club received two weeks ago at the hands of LaSalle.

The first half of the contest looked as if LaSalle might repeat its previous victory, as Al Lewis and Charlie Singley kept LaSalle a good distance ahead of the Villanova team throughout play. At halftime, the Explorers led 45-34.

Held To One Goal

In the second stanza of action, however, it was all Villanova's ball game. The Wildcat defense held the LaSalle five to a single goal for the first eight minutes of play, which was enough to enable the Wildcats, via a medley of Jim Smith field goals, to close to within one point of tying it up.

JIM SMITH
Nets 20 Against LaSalle

The last few minutes of the second half was a heated performance which saw the lead change hands several times before Villanova was able to pull it out with less than a minute remaining. Jim Smith and Marty Milligan were the spoilers for Villanova, as they notched five points between them from the free throw line to clinch the contest.

Smith Gets 20

Smith was the game's high scorer with 20 markers, and he was followed by Weissman and Milligan, who had 17 apiece, and Griffith, with 14. LaSalle's high man was Alonzo Lewis, who also threw in 17.

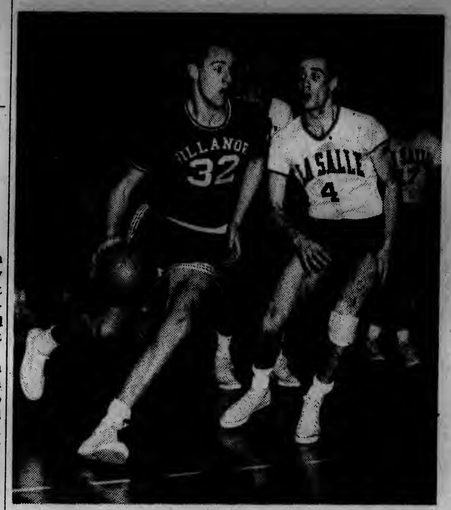
Frosh Lose to Drexel In Last Game of Season

By PAUL CLARKSON

A fighting Villanova Freshman basketball team was defeated by a mediocre Drexel team last Tuesday at Sayre Jr. H.S., Drexel's home court. The final score read 92-81, but it does not tell half the story.

Rubber-legged Ken Harrison was the Wildcat's high man with 21 points. In addition to his point making he assisted Gene O'Pella, who dropped in 16 markers himself, in artfully clearing the boards. It was touch and go the entire first half; the score at that point read an equal, 40-40.

Carey Scores 17



Pat Carey, playing with four fouls most of the contest, was superb and via the jump shot scored 17 big points. At the outset of the second half Drexel spurted into the lead mainly on the eye of "Whiz" Moran, a diminutive guard who made all his 23 points in the second half.

Red-topped Joe Ryan, although only accounting for 10 needed points, made himself even more valuable than usual by his frequent and timely assists.

Foul Shooting Away Off

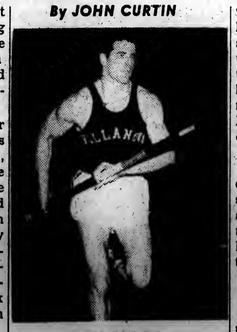
Perhaps the foul-line statistics best explain the outcome. Drexel converted 27 out of 30 tries from the 15 foot marker while the Frosh could negotiate only 12 out of 21. It is plausible that the team suffered a let down after having beaten St. Joe's last week.

Final results read Villanova 14, Opponents 3.

Tommy Brennan, 6-6 sophomore center, drives past a pair of LaSalle defenders during action at the Palestra last Saturday. Villanova won the ball game, 76-73, and at the same time evened up the 1955-56 series against LaSalle. Both teams have won one ball game and lost one.

'Sure Thing' Olympic Candidate:

Don Bragg Holds Second Highest Vault In History



By JOHN CURTIN

The crowd came to its feet with a roar as the young athlete's body twisted over the crossbar. Villanova's Don Bragg had just made the second highest pole vault in track history.

Bragg, one of the stellar attractions on the Wildcat's nationally renowned track team, is a 6'3", 190 lb. Junior in the Villanova Commerce and Finance school. Ever since he entered the school two years ago, Don has shown the ability to be truly great. He achieved this greatness on March 3, when he reached the astounding height of 15-5¼ feet in the New York Knights of Columbus meet in Madison Square Garden.

From New Jersey

Don Bragg came to Villanova from Penns Grove, N.J. where he attended Penns Grove high school. As a vaulter for his high school 'track sqaud, he reached 13-6 in the Penn Invitation Tournament at Franklin Field. Then, a week after his graduation, he went over the bar at 13-9 in the National AAU meet in Dayton, Ohio. It was on the basis of performances like these that Don was given a scholarship to Villanova.

DON BRAGG
On His Way to 16 Feet?

Did 14-6 As Freshman

In his first year here Bragg was already beginning to make a name for himself, setting a Freshman Collegiate Record with a 14-6 measurement. In his sophomore year, he was constantly up near 15 feet, and then this past summer, finally passed that marker. This past season, his highest vault, aside from the record smashing performance on March 3, was 15-2 in the IC4A's once again in the Garden.

"Try His Best" For Olympics

Right now, the next important challenge facing the 20 year old star is the Olympics. Although all he'll say is "I'll try my best to make it", everyone feels that Don Bragg is sure to be one of the men representing Uncle Sam in Australia this summer.

Like To Keep Vaulting

Don has no definite plans for after graduation, but says that he would like to continue his pole vaulting, if he can find a job in his field, Finance, which is convenient for practicing.

He'll have to wait and see, but Villanova track fans are waiting for something too. They're waiting for the day when Don Bragg,pole vaulter extraordinary, will become the first man ever to go over 16 feet.

Just What the Doctor Ordered:

Athletic Director Dudley Provides Impetus for "New Sports Era" at Villanova

By JOE SLAVIN

It is a national consensus that Ambrose "Bud" Dudley is the outstanding promoter of collegiate athletics. This opinion is justly deserved when one realizes his past accomplishments. The selling of over 400,000 tickets in three years for a school which was in a midst of a football depression is one noteworthy achievement.

Dudley attended St. Joe's Prep and Kiska Prep where he excelled in three sports and received top scholastic honors. His greatest achievements in athletic competition came while attending Notre Dame, where he participated in football and baseball.

His leadership ability was recognized at College where he was elected class president for 3 years and captained the baseball team. His greatest sports thrill came in 1942 when he threw a one-hitter against Great Lakes, which was led by such major leagures as Frankie Baumholtz and Mickey Cochrane.

Flew In Ploesti Air Raids

After graduating from Notre Dame in 1942 Dudley entered the Air Corps as a navigator and advanced to the rank of captain. He flew in 54 missions, 7 of these over the Ploesti oil fields in Rumania, which have been described as the fiercest air raids of the war. For his distinguished service he was honored with the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal with 3 clusters and received 7 major battle stars.

Sold Wallpaper

From his discharge in 1946 and until 1953 Dudley operated a wholesale wallpaper business in Philadelphia. During this period he was closely associated with collegiate athletics, doing scouting for Notre Dame, Georgia, and Cornell. His accomplishments both in business and sports were noticed by the athletic board of Villanova. In January 1953, he met with Fathers O'Leary and Donnellon, and the late Fr. Dougherty, who asked him to take over as Athletic Director.

Many problems faced Dudley when he began his duties. Villanova had 5 scheduled football opponents for the 1953 season. He left immediately for the NCAA meeting and interestingly enough Villanova played a 10 game schedule that year.

Only 711 Tickets Sold

Six weeks before the opening game with Georgia at Municipal Stadium the Athletic Department was schocked to find out that exactly 711 had been sold for the game. This caused Dudley to remark: "At least we don't have to worry about the weather, everyone can fit under cover." (The press box at the stadium seats 750).

What occurred in the next six weeks is athletics history. The largest single bloc sale of tickets, 40,000, was sold to the Acme Stores. Dudley immediately set out to promote Villanova athletics by delivering 62 speeches in 90 days. After such an exhaustive schedule, he relaxed at his suburban Philadelphia home with his wife and three children.

Revived Dead Sports

Soon after taking over as Athletic Director, golf and swimming were revived. He set precedent in Villanova history by inaugurating such events as Blue-White Day, the Swimorama, and the National High School Swimming Championships. After consideration of his past promotional accomplishments, a person must inevitably look to Villanova's future with optimism. In Dudley's own words: "Villanova is now on the brink of its greatest era in sports."

SPORTS CHATTER

Santee's An Exception

By BOB STRAYTON

Wes Santee, America's most famous miler, of whom too much has already been written, stand today symbolic of the degradation of American amateur athletics. Santee's pecuniary weaknesses, which have recently come into the national spotlight via a series of exposes by the various Athletic associations around the nation, are pointed to with malevolent wrath by the country's do-gooders as a forewarning of other mercenary skeletons which have taken up residence in the closets of other amateur athletes, and which sooner or later will be dragged into national prominence by the prolonged investigations of these same righteous people.

The Accusations Are Impotent

The accusations made by the pundits of amateur athletics, substantial though they may be in the case of Santee, seem frail and impotent when directed to other amateurs across the land.

RON DELANY

Whether Santee's money-grabbing exploits were right or wrong is a yet unresolved problem, but it is, unquestionably, an issue which must also involve the moral values of the money-soliciting promoters who obviously saw nothing unethical about extending Santee grants-of-aid for his banked-board exhibitions. Truly Mr. Santee is an attractive, crowd-begetting performer, worth his weight in children's piggy banks. The question is wether or not he is justly entitled to the pennies which those piggy banks contain. Messrs. Brundage, Sober, and Ferris vociferously do not think so. The American public, equally as vociferous, are of a different opinion.

Repercussions Have Already Begun

The repercussions which will, and already have to some degree, come about as a result of Santee's monetary misjudgment are bound to spread in increasing concentric circles to all amateur sports in the United States. The suspicions which puritanical moguls have recently begun to nurture as a result of the Santee case will be brought to bear upon the fold of amateur athletes who compete in anything from basketball to badminton. Since Villanova is included in the blanket coverage, some doubt will be focused along the Main Line. More particularly, however, the burden of doubt will be put on the shoulders of those closely allied to Santee's position in the world of sport.

Ron Delany, being engaged in the same enterprise as Santee, will receive his share of suspicious glances along with his mile compatriots George King, Len Truex, Ike Matza, and friends. The fears which might stem from the gruesome thought of an inquiry into the morals of Jim Elliot's youthful proteges might well be allayed in the minds of any soul who is up and around the campus at the wee hours of Sunday morning. Although he competes on Saturday night, the talented Delany boy can always be seen in the capacity of chief traffic officer for the Sunday Mass crowds at the chapel.

He's Up Before The Roosters

It would put quite a damper on the overzealous spirit of a suspicious do-gooder if he could see Delany's frigid form, wrapped in a blue and red muffler, fending off the freezing winds which seem to congregate at the cross-roads near the chapel. The subsidiary task of directing traffic on campus might not be his most talented or desired pasttime, but Delany is up every Sunday before the cows and roosters and into his extracurricular activity with the same amount of zeal he displays on the banked-boards. On especially nasty days, when the weather presents a challenge to even the most hardy of Villanova students, Villanova's affable and unbeatable miler is at his post, equipped with an outsize umbrella and a dauntless spirit, cheering on the parishioners with his friendly line of chatter.

So it might be well for the righteous ones, before they start their wholesale accusation of amateur athletics, to take particular notice of one Ronald Delany from Ireland, who has beaten Santee once this season in person, and once in clockings, and probably any other time when they have occasion to meet, and not be so rash as to point their puritanical fingers in such a general way at amateur athletics.

City Series, Dixie Classic Highlight 1956 Cage Season

Viewing in retrospect the fortunes of the Villanova University basketball team this season, many of the preseason questions are resolved. This year saw the inauguration of the City Series between the Philadelphia area's leading schools, participation in the Dixie Classic, and the usual number of exciting games.

Leading off with impressive victories over Kings College, St. Francis of Loretto, and N.I.T.-bound Niagara, raised the hopes of Wildcats followers and the pessimistic prognostications of pre-season observers were forgotten. However, losses to St. Joseph's in the opening of City Series play and to Duke's Blue Devils preceded a disastrous appearance in the Dixie Classic, in Which the 'Cats could only salvage a close victory over Oregon State.

Beat West Virginia

Rebounding after Christmas, Villanova defeated West Chester and nationally-ranked West Virginia by the margin of one point, 54-53.

A four-game winning streak at the expense of Washington and Lee, Delaware, Fordham in double overtime, and Penn followed losses to Temple, Dayton, and Xavier.

Juggling of the lineup by Coach Al Severance failed to produce the needed stimulus, as the 'Cats skidded into a five-game losing skein, only to rebound against St. Bonaventure and LaSalle, the latter game being a City Series playoff affair, and the season ended for both teams.

Injuries Hurt Team

Starting the season with a five composed of letterman Jack Weissman, John Cirino, Al Griffith, Bobby Powers, and Captain Jim Smith, prospects looked bright. Then an ankle injury to Cirino, which forced him to stay on the sidelines most of the season, and sickness which upset the starting lineup, caused several changes.

Particularly significant was the play of senior Marty Milligan, Jim Fahey, and sophomores Jack Kelly and Tommy Brennan. Both Brennan and Kelly were starters during the season and showed much promise.

Bob Mulcahy

Four Veterans Return To Bolster Villanova's Youthful Golf Squad

The first symptoms of Spring, witnessed with great delight by all the students of Villanova, hold for those members of our golfing team a special significance. For them it signifies the approach of the 1956 season.

Because collegiate golf may be considered as a minor sport, and the Villanova team still considered a young organization, very little is known about our golf team by the average Villanova student.

The present golf team may be traced to 1953, when, with the support of Athletic Director Bud Dudley, three enthusiastic students campaigned for a golf team here at Villanova. Since then the team has made rapid improvements both in their playing ability and also in the selection of a representative schedule.

In 1954, their second year in existence, the golf team had a record of six wins and five losses. That record was improved, however, to the highly impressive record of eight wins as against only two defeats last year.

1956 Squad Has Potential

There are many who believe this year's team has the potentials of equalling or even surpassing last year's fine record. Four letterman are returning from last year's squad. They are captain Ben Klemanowicz, Joe Gallagher, Jack Kelly, and Bob McIlhenny.

BEN KLEMANOWICZ
Captains 1956 golfers.

Realizing that victory is a team effort, the golfers are hoping to fill the vacant spots left by graduation with some talented newcomers. The schedule will be essentially the same as last year, with the addition of the strong Penn State team as the only new competition.

Inclement Weather Slows Baseball Team Workouts

ART MAHAN
Baseball mentor.

With the opening game just 15 days away, the Villanova Baseball Wildcats have been waiting for the weather to break in order that they might get in more extensive practice sessions.

Up until now, the daily drills have consisted only of loosening up and running. This is excepting the pitchers, who have been throwing reasonably hard the past week, rain or shine. Batting practice has been taken only one day because of the weather and condition of the diamond.

It looks like a long haul for the 'Cats, what with a 26 game schedule which includes Army, Navy, Fordham, and Ithaca, staring them right in the eye. A lineup must be found between now and March 29 that will fill gaps left by such players as Jack Helm, first base, Bill McGarry, center field, Jack Peters, left field, John Dougherty, right field, Don Muchetti, third base, Dick Scott, pitcher, Dave Hinnegan, utility outfielder, and Bill Pearson, catcher.

Severino Pitching Mainstay

In other words, the only returning starters are shortstop Ron LaMontagne and second baseman John DiGialorenzo. Dan Severino heads the list of three returning pitchers. The other two are Dick Black, a southpaw, and Bob Scalzi.

The picture is not quite as black as it appears, however, as there is a host of talented Sophomores who may be able to fill the bill come March 29. This remains to be seen.

Coach Art Mahan summed it up thusly, "We will show up at every ball game with nine ballplayers in the lineup who will give all they have."

Twenty-One Teams Compete For The Intramural Basketball Title

The Villanova University Intramural Basketball season draws to an end this week with the conclusion of the annual championship tournament. The championship will be determined this week when the Jazzers meet an undertermined opponent in Alumni Gym.

On their climb to the championship title the Jazzers downed The Animal Basketeers,, the team representing the N.R.O.T.C's Baker Co., and the No Eyes. In their first tournament game the Jazzers downed Artie Odabash's previously undefeated Animal Basketeers. 49-30. Lou Vinci contributed 13 points to the winning cause, as his teammate, Will Jones hit for 12. John Neal's 19 points greatly helped the Jazzers nip the Navy boys, 46-43. In the semifinal Tom Rodgers paced Jazzers, as the No Eyes became their third play-off victim. The eyeless warriors defeated the Easy Arts and Sullivan Sharpshooters before falling prey to the Jazzers.

The Jazzers' opponent will be one of the following: the Boys, the Clowns, Ture's Trotters, or The Beachcombers. The Boys have defeated the Hacks and The Clowns. The Jacks and Chuck Roellig's Ballantine A.C. were the tournament victims of the Royals. Ture's Trotters have downed The Gazelles and the Hottrotters. The Beachcombers, who drew a first round by, have reached the semifinals as a result of a win over Augie's Allstars.

The winners of the game between The Boys and The Royals will play the winner of the Ture's Trotters-Beachcombers tilt.

In other play-off games, the Clippers were downed by a strong Sullivan Sharpshotters team, while in an intra Navy game, Baker Co. nosed out their natural rivals, The Drill Squad, in a thrill packed game in which the N.R.O.T.Cers showed their usual competitive form. The Clowns out-played the Hopples before dropping a heartbreaker to the Boys. The "Hottrotters" squeezed through a last minute win over The Bums Ballantine A.C. did not look any thing like their name implies as they ran over the Dukes.

This year's championship tournament, one of the chief events on the Intra-mural calendar, is one of the largest ever to be held by the Villanova Intramural department with 21 teams participating.

Every team selected to take part in the tournament had no more than one loss during the regular intramural season, and some teams went undefeated through their season schedule.

WVIL Poll

(Continued from Page 1)

cent of the late owls on campus.

Alton Pleased

"It goes without saying that I'm extremely pleased with the results of the poll," said Station Manager Don Alton, "and the poll gives conclusive proof that the modern WVIL studios atop Dougherty Hall enable the station to cover the campus with the best in music, news and sports."

Reflections

(Continued from Page 2)

ual, completely unaware of this psychological enclosure, fruitlessly seeks an extended solution to a problem which cannot possibly be solved within the limitations of the obtained data. The mind turns, and twists, and delves into the more minute aspects of the problem. In an all out attempt to resolve the problem, the mind unconsciously colors, distorts, rationalizes and even slants the evaluation of results. Unless the individual experimentalist frees the mind of these unconscious barriers, the problem will remain unsolved.

Perhaps this is the real research distinction between the "thinking man" and the "thinking machine;" for the thinking man the patterns of search are temporary while for the machine the controlled patterns of search are permanent. Only man can escape the experimental trap. And only so with conscious effort.

ICG to Hear Guest Democrat Tomorrow Night

A delegate to the Democratic national convention this summer, Mr. Maurice Gerber, will address a meeting of the Villanova chapter of the Intercollegiate Conference on Government tomorrow night at 8:30 p.m. in 207 C&F.

The convention itself will provide the substance of Mr. Gerber's talk as he explains the procedure and events which usually mark these quadrennial shows.

This past Saturday, several I.C.G. members attended a southeast regional convention of the group at the University of Pennsylvania along with representatives from eight other colleges. Plans were initiated for the annual state-wide convention to be held in April.

Cruise Pictures To Be Shown To Physics Club

Films taken during Mr. John R. Sullivan's tour of duty while in the navy are the main attraction for meeting of the Physics Club tomorrow morning at 10:30 in the Physics Lab.

Mr. Sullivan, of the Physics department, is an amateur photographer and took films on many of his cruises, including scenes of such places as the Panama Canal Zone and the Hawaiian Islands.

This past Thursday, the Physics Club heafd Jim Shea give a resume on the history of geology with the minerals connected to the nitrates and followed this with a discussion of the methods used today.

Ground To Be Broken For Two New Buildings

(Continued from Page 1)

Villanova will definitely not become a day-hop university, he asserted. The enrollment will remain close to the present standard of half day-hops and half residents, ho added.

Enrollment Rises

When asked what the top enrollment of Villanova would probably come to in the future, Father stated that in 1954, the enrollment was expected to rise approximately 25 percent by 1963, but that figure has already been reached in the period of two years. Further enrollment jumps are being deliberated by the administration.

Father McGuire was asked why the Law School building was erected before the much-needed classroom building. He answered that the need for both was of equal importance, but the administration chose to erect the law building because it is of paramount importance to a university to have at least one building of this type to accommodate its post graduate course, thereby placing it ahead of the classroom edifice in priority.

Chapel Next

After the completion, in two years, of the present "big three," next on the list will definitely be the construction of a new chapel for the exclusive use of Villanova students. This chapel will not, however, be begun within these two years, but in all probability, immediately thereafter.

With the problem of new buildings, the question of a new Villanova Stadium was quickly proposed. Father McGuire said that a new stadium was definitely needed, but "first things come first." He hopes that the day will come soon when enough money can be set aside for the completion of such a project. This, however, appears to be much farther in the future than the more needed edifices to be erected. He pointed out that the only way in which a stadium can be built in the near future is if the school is fortunate enough to receive a large grant for this specific purpose.

Probable Placements

Also brought about by the official word on the completion of these new structures was the question of their placement on the Villanova campus. Father explained that long ago a mythical line was drawn between the P. and W. railroad station and the Pennsylvania railroad station; most classrooms and laboratories were to be placed west of this line and all dormitories east of it. Therefore, the new classroom building will probably be placed either on the Navy drill field, between Simpson and Delurey Halls or between Simpson and Fedigan Halls. The new dorm will be situated as close to Sullivan Hall as possible.

With the possible use of the drill field for a building, the question of intramural athletic fields was proposed. Father McGuire stated that it was the sincere hope of the administration that some of Villanova's vast property on the other side of the P. and W. tracks could be cleared for this purpose.

The possibility of a Villanova medical school was ruled out. Father explained that the operating cost of running such a branch would be too great and would hinder the operation of the rest of the university.

Also ruled out was the possibility of a future residence dormitory for Villanova nursing students.

Saturday Classes

Saturday classes were said to be a fairly sure thing, with the possibility that maybe the completion of the new classroom building would solve this problem. But Father McGuire warned that even with these new facilities, the rising enrollment might force the continuation of Saturday classes.

When asked how industry feels toward Villanova, Father McGuire said that eyes of industry are definitely upon us and it is the duty of every student to further the name and progress of Villanova in his relations with the business world.

In Conclusion

In concluding, Father stated strongly that Villanova has the opportunity of becoming the finest university in the East and making it so rests squarely on the shoulders of the students, faculty, administration, alumni and friends of the university.

The interview was conducted by WVIL's production manager, Bill Kelly.

Garey Hall

(Continued from Page 1)

walls and pipe trenches have been erected, and part of the basement sub-floor has been poured. Forms are now being constructed for the pouring of the first floor of the Library wing.

Outline Discernible

The outline of the new building is now readily discernible from the reinforced concrete foundation walls. Inside the foundation, walls of the central section and the classroom wing pipe trenches have been erected of cinder-blocks and the machinery room in the sub-basement has been constructed.

The Library wing is farther advanced. Forms are now being completed in this wing for the pouring of the concrete floor which will support the reading room. The concrete for the floor of the second stack level below the reading room will be poured shortly. Masonry work for the Library wing steps is complete.

Necessary plumbing installation has been completed in other sections of the building, and pouring of the basement subfloors is about to begin.

Education

(Continued From Page 4)

charity. Both students and teachers might examine their academic consciences. Is the student aware of his duty to do his best? Is he eager to match his parents' sacrifices in sending him to school by sacrifices of his own? Is the teacher's attitude toward his students like the doctors toward his patients? Does he honestly try to save as many as he can?

An Honest Effort

The next article will deal with more complaints and possible answers. It is to be hoped that the viewpoint of each group is seen by the other, and an honest effort is made toward mutual cooperation.

Softball Heads Intramural Dept. Spring Schedule

With the thought of warm weather slowly coming to a reality, the athletes of Villanova are turning their thoughts to baseball, golf, and the many summer sports. The Intramural office has come out with a schedule that should satisfy all.

With Ed Geisz in charge, all the popular sports such as softball, horseshoes, track, tennis, weighlifting, and wrestling have been billed for full participation. This does not include swimming which will close with the championship meet today in the Field House pool.

Weights Already Begun

At the time of this publication the weightlifting and wrestling will have started. This program will last until the end of April.

Entry blanks for the softball leagues will be available Wednesday. This seems to be the major sport and approximately ten leagues are expected to be functioning on April 4, opening day. Three fields, Mendel, Austin, and Simpson, will be used to hold the large turnout.

The horseshoe pits near Mendel Hall are now being repaired for the coming season. This also starts on the fourth of April.

Track Planned For April

Near the end of April, Geiz and Peter Murphy will combine in the director's capacity to get track underway. This sport should get a big boost in spirit from the showing that the intercollegiate trackmen have given.

A week and a half later tennis will start. All this action will be confined to the seminarian courts.

It is the desire of the administration that everyone participate and enjoy himself in at least one of the programs. Anyone wishing to get details or entry blanks can find them in the Intramural office in Alumni Hall.

READ THE VILLANOVAN

electrical • mechanical
ENGINEERS
PHYSICISTS
MATHEMATICIANS
bachelor • master • doctor

research development
field engineering
in computation communication
instrumentation

EMPLOYMENT INTERVIEWS WILL BE CONDUCTED...
March 22 and 23

PLEASE APPLY THROUGH YOUR PLACEMENT OFFICE

Remington Rand Univac
DIVISION OF SPERRY RAND CORPORATION
1902 WEST MINNEHAHA AVENUE, SAINT PAUL W4, MINNESOTA

Steering Committee

(Continued from Page 6)

Week. Rehearsals would interfere with practices for Turf and Tinsel's musical show which is scheduled for the last week of April in the Field House.

Juniors who want to help with decorations have been asked to sign up with decorations co-chairmen Den Rinkacs (156 Sullivan) and Dick Cooke (Simpson). The chairmen have emphasized that many workers will be needed.

A drive for patrons in the prom program will be launched "in the next couple of weeks" according to class president Jack Decker.

Dr. Quam

(Continued from Page 3)

commends that students interested in education think of science teaching. "Too many high school science caurses today are being taught by non-science teachers," adds the chemistry department head.

For the engineers, civil, mechanical and electrical, only general chemistry is required.

For the bio-major, general, organic, and analytical are required with a recommendation of Dr. Quam that the students thinking of med-school take physical and bio - chemistry which are elective courses.

Seminary Show

(Continued from Page 1)

Jimmy Dorsey television program, "Stage Show."

Taking top billing with the stars this year is the new low price. Tickets prices start as low as $1.50 this year and anyone inclined to go can ask someone who has seen such stars in the past as Rosemary Clooney, Rise Stevens, The Mariners and Sam Levenson, about the entertainment value of the Guild Variety Shows.

Its Purpose

The purpose of the show is to raise money for the Augustinian Seminary Guild. The Guild uses the money to defray expenses of seminarians here at Villanova and throughout the East.

The Rev. John J. Coffey, O.S.A., is handling all the production and promotion chores connected with the Show.

Curtain's going up at 8:15 on April 11.

Opera-Classica Presents Mascagni, Dennis Day

Shamrock Melodies with Dennis Day and Pietre Mascagni's "Cavelleria Rusticana" are on the agenda of the Opera-Classic club tonight at 7 in 208 C & F.

"Rusticana" is a one-act opera containing Sicilian folk music which should be palatable even to the novice. The feminine lead is sung by the much-heralded Maria Callas. A free Italian-English libretto will be furnished.

Next Wednesday the program will consist of Donizetti's "Don Pasquale." Students who plan to see the opera on March 27 must attend this meeting, announced Mr. A. L. Angeline, club moderator.

BOUQUET SHOP

Hartman Announces Addition:

"Place of Political Parties" New Fall History Course

"The place of Parties in National Politics" is the name of a new history course to be offered to Villanovans next year.

Dr. Harold Hartman, head of the history department at Villanova, said that the course would chiefly consider the role of political parties in our governmental structure.

Discussion will be centered on the nature, organization and functions of political parties, suffrage requirements and election methods, with incidental attention given to the activities of organized interests.

When announcing the new course, Dr. Hartmann said that a course entitled "The Rise of Political Totalitarianism in Eurdered as a possible new offering ope since 1917" is being consi- of the department. It would consider the Bolshevik revolution, the establishment of the communist dictatorship in Russia, the rise of facism in Italy and the emergence of National Socialism in Germany.

Fathers' Day

(Continued from Page 1)

show composed of a Turf and Tinsel and musical selections from the Mainliners Quartet, the Villanova Singers and the Concert Band.

Fathers' Day tickets will be ready for distribution for 35 upon return from the three-day St. Patrick's Day weekend. Seniors Tom Meaney and Nick Mazzoni, ticket co-chairmen, will handle the sale of the tickets for the April 21 affair and will have a number of committeemen assisting them. Seniors will be able to reserve tickets without money by seeing Fathers' Day Chairman Harry Nash.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Philosophy Club Meets Friday

All members of the Philosophy Club are requested to attend the monthly meeting Friday afternoon at 3:30 in 207 Mendel Hall. Wilfried Quinn, club president, also extends a cordial invitation to all interested non-members.

Featured at the meeting will be a talk by club member Mark Seidel, on Mathematics and and Reality."

Retreat Cards Ready Next Week

Cards to be turned in at exercises during the three-day retreat beginning Palm Sunday night, March 25 will be distributed in the Chaplain's Office next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday (March 20, 21 and 22) from 9 a.m. until 5 p. m.

Cherry Hill Inn
MAGNOLIA, N. J.

Father Kemme

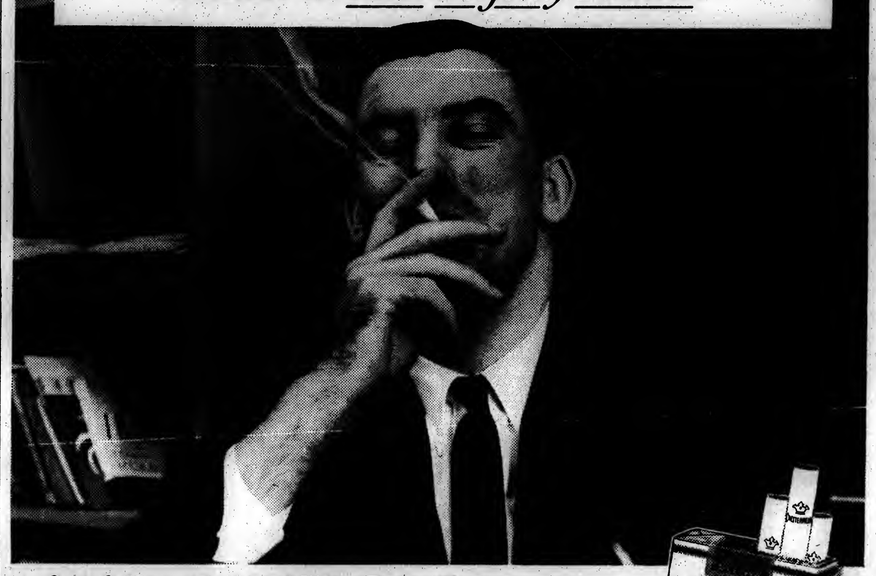
(Continued from Page 1)

tend conferences in the Field House, as in the past.

Dividing fourth - year men from the rest of the school made two retreatmasters necessary, explained Father Kemme.

Two Augustinians

Retreatmasters will be the Rev. Thomas Rogers and the Rev. James Sherman—both Augustinians and Villanova alumni.



Cards to be handed in at each retreat exercise will be distributed next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in the Chaplain's Office in Mendel Hall from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., announced Father Kemme.

In announcing the retreatmasters, the university chaplain said he did not know yet which priest would conduct the senior retreat.

Both priests are members of the Augustinian Mission Band. They have conducted three-day retreats at Villanova in the past, according to Father Kemme.

Father Rogers was born in Philadelphia and ordained in 1933. Father Sherman was born in 1916 and ordained in 1942.

PACKS MORE PLEASURE
because it's More Perfectly Packed!

Satisfy Yourself with a Milder, Better-Tasting smoke—packed for more pleasure by exclusive Accu-Ray

The more perfectly packed your cigarette, the more pleasure it gives . . . and Accu-Ray packs Chesterfield far more perfectly.

To the touch . . . to the taste, an Accu-Ray Chesterfield satisfies the most . . . burns more evenly, smokes much smoother.

Firm and pleasing to the lips . . . mild yet deeply satisfying to the taste—Chesterfield alone is pleasure-packed by Accu-Ray.

KING-SIZE & REGULAR

CHESTERFIELD MILD, YET THEY Satisfy!

© Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

PLANNING CHORAL FESTIVAL

Villanova Singers president Bob Ford (right) goes over plans for the April 14 Choral Festival with publicity director Jack Padova. (See story this page.)

Villanovan

VOL. 31—No. ~~14~~ 15 Villanova University, Villanova, Pa. March 21, 1956

Presentation Of Awards, Movies To Highlight Junior Week Sports Night

Retreat Exercises Open Sunday Nite; 2 Groups Planned

Villanova's 113th annual retreat, the leading spiritual exercise of the academic year, gets under way this Sunday and lasts until the start of the Easter holidays Wednesday.

This year the students listed as seniors will have their exercises in the University Chapel. All other exercises, including the Nocturnal Adoration, will be held in the Field House. Students are to turn in one retreat attendance card at each exercise. The schedule is as follows:

Sunday March 25.
7:30 p.m. Opening Excerises
1-Conference
2-Benediction

Confessions will be heard immediately after Benediction.

Monday March 26.
Mass and Holy Communion
7:00 A.M. On-Campus Residents
8:00 A.M. All other students
9:30 Conference
11:00 Conference
2:00 Conference and Blessing of Religious Articles.
3:15 Holy Hour
7:45 P.M. Night Prayers (Residents only).

Confessions 11:30, 4:15, 8:00

Tuesday March 27.
Mass and Holy Communion
7:00 A.M. On-Campus Residents
8:00 A.M. All other students
9:30 Conference
11:00 Conference
2:00 Conference and Blessing of religious Articles.

Holy Hour

3:15 Holy Hour. Exposition wil continue through the night until the beginning of Mass Wednesday morning at 9:00 o'clock.

Confession: 11:30 and 4:15.

Wednesday March 28.
9:00 Closing Exercises.
1-Mass before the Blessed Sacrament.
2-The Annual General Communion of the students of Villanova.
3-Benediction
4-Renewal of Baptismal Vows.
5-Papal Blessing

All-Night Vigil

Nocturnal Adoration has become a tradition on the last night of the annual Retreat. The Blessed Sacrament will be exposed after Holy Hour on Tuesday until the closing of the Retreat Wednesday morning.

Mass on Monday will be offered for the intentions of the students making the Retreat. On Tuesday the Mass will be offered for deceased students, faculty, and alumni. In thanksgiving for the graces received during the Retreat, Mass will be offered Wednesday.

Tickets For Choral Show Ready Today

Sale of tickets for the Choral Festival will begin this morning on the campus of all seven participating colleges and universities, announced Jack Jannucci, business manager of the Villanova Singers, at a meeting of the Singers last night.

The Choral Festival, scheduled for April 14, is sponsored by the Villanova Singers and the glee clubs of Pennsylvania, Temple, Rosemont, St. Joseph's, Immaculata and St. Peter's The two and a half hour program will be highlighted by two massed numbers: The Battle Hymn of the Republic and The Prayer of Thanksgiving. It is estimated that there will be 550 voices in the massed numbers.

Publicity directors Jack Padova and Jim Heffernan reported that publicity for the Festival is being handled by the Price School of Advertising of Philadelphia.

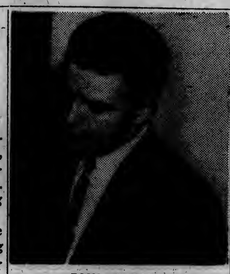
Tickets for the Festival are available for $1 from any member of the Singers or from Jannucci (317 Sullivan).

Mulcahy Sets Soph-Frosh Hop Date

The unsuperstitious sophomore class has chosen Friday, April 13 as the date for the second annual Soph-Frosh Hop. Decorations will be in keeping with the date, though.

Inaugurated last year, the Shop-Frosh hop is the spring dance sponsored by the sophomore class and is closed to sophomores and freshmen. Bob Mulcahy, chairman of the dance expects a good turnout for this affair, the only one of its kind each year.

Chairmen Named



Named as chairmen of the various committees to help general chairman Mulcahy are Henry Nichols, publicity; Dave Belcher, tickets; Clem Birch, refreshments; Tony Lisa, band arrangements and Tom Springer and Leo Rudegair, decorations co-chairmen.

Sophomores interested in working on one or more of the committees are requested to sign the list on the Dougherty Hall bulletin board and to watch for announcements concerning meetings or consult the committee chairmen.

As an added inducement for the expected large turnout, tickets will sell for $1.25, a quarter less than last year's price.

Retreat Cards

Cards to be turned during three-day retreat exercises are being distributed today and tomorrow in the Chaplain's Office from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

PHIL KEANE
BUSINESS WHIRL Editor

WHIRL Distributes New Issue Friday

First 1956 issue of the BUSINESS WHIRL will be distributed Friday and Monday after retreat exercises, Editor Phil Keane announced today.

He said Commerce and Finance students may pick up their copies from the publications office (second floor of Dougherty Hall) from noon until 6 p.m. Friday.

Copies will also be available in the lobby of the Field House after benediction Monday afternoon.

Mothers' Day Plate

Juniors have the chance to compose the verse or prose to be included on the backs of Mothers' Day souvenir plates.

Jack O'Rourke, Mothers' Day chairman, said entries may be left in the Student Activities Office (second floor of Dougherty Hall) by next Tuesday. They should express the Mothers' Day idea. No prizes will be awarded and a junior's offering does not have to be used, explained O'Rourke.

Innovation To Include MVP Trophy

A sports night highlighted by the awarding of a trophy to a senior athlete has been scheduled to fill the Tuesday night spot in Junior Week.

Besides the presentation, movies of past Villanova football and basketball games and track meets will be shown and a guest speaker will appear, according to Jack Shea, chairman of the event.

The award, donated by the Student Council's spirit committee, will go to the senior voted "most valuable to his team and to extra-curricular and scholastic life," according to Shea.

Students To vote

All students will have a chance to vote for the athlete. Shea said balloting will be held in front of Dougherty Hall prior to the sports night.

The committee has already begun contacting former Villanova sports stars in lining up a guest speaker, added the chairman.

The class steering committee is still looking for a jazz combo to feature on the jazz concert the Wednesday night of Junior Week. Class president Jack Decker told committeemen at a meeting March 12, that the budget is tight for the night and the class would prefer to line up a combo in a less expensive bracket.

Drake Hotel Site of Navy Spring Dance

Dedicate to senior midshipmen, the Villanova NROTC units spring formal will be held Friday, April 6, at the Drake Hotel, site of the unit's fall dance.

Bob Horton and his band will provided the music for the couples dancing in the recently renovated Drake ballroom.

Gowns for the girls and formal dress blue Baker for the midshipmen will be uniform of the day. Formal Dance Blue Baker is the blue uniform with a white cap cover and a bow tie.

Special guest at the dance will be Admiral von Heimburg, USN commandant fourth naval district.

Captain, Neil R. Curtin, USN professor of Naval Science at Villanova and Lt. Colonel Elliot E. Wilson, USMC, executive officer of the Villanova NROTC unit, will attend.

During operation of the streamlined room reservation system last week junior Joe Mamura (center) picks out a room as Greg Gehring (left) checks off his number. Student Council chairman Dick Peer indicated he was pleased with the plan'soperation.

Nomad Newsman

By MIKE RUSSO

This June, the class of 1956 will move out and the class of 1960 will begin as freshmen to complete the eductional cycle. We know that the freshmen will come from various high schools throughout the country, but we do not know where the seniors will go.

The question asked was, "Where will you be one year from now?"

Art Morgan, '56, C. E.

If Uncle Sam dosen't request my services or I manage to escape leap year, I will be here at Villanova planning what I am going to do between final exams and graduation.

Tom McCarthy, '56, Arts

This time next year I intend to live out my life-long ambition of active retirement. Many people plan away their life looking for peace and quiet in their old age. I plan a revolutionary movement to retire after college.

Frank DiSantis, '56, Arts

Well, if I can run faster than Uncle Sam, I'd like to go into my family's business. This should keep me occupied 'till I'm ready to take the big step.

J. James Bambury, '56, Arts

I hope to be playing soldier with the U. S. Army if Uncle Sam will let me in his very exclusive club, titled "dogfaces." If I can't make this club I hope to go to work with the executive council of the Mickey Mouse Club.

After graduation in June, I plan to spend the Summer working, and in the Fall I am going on active duty with the U.S. Marine Corps.

Richard J. Rodenhouse, '56, C. E.

The lease on my father's wallet has run out. I'll be working for the Army Engineers, civilian, that is.

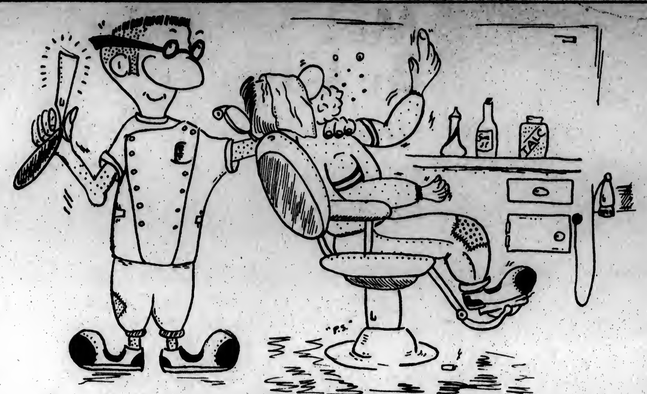
John W. Eddinger, '56 Arts (English)

On March 21, 1957 I hope to be at least started on a carreer in literature. If my present plans are realized, I'll be scouring up stories for the reading public. A career in the newspaper business is, I belive training for the aspiring young writer of fiction.

Because of the three-day retreat and the Easter layoff, no VILLANOVAN will appear next week. The next edition is cheduled to appear April 11.

Villanovan

Villanova University Villanova, Pa.
Tom Smith
Editor-in-Chief



Bill Jones ..... Feature Editor
Frank Delany ..... News Editor
Jack Downing,
Bill Brown ..... Copy Editors

Bob Strayton ..... Sports Editors
Sig Holtz
Joe Ezerski ..... Photography Editors
Nick Pedano ..... Circulation Mgr.

Faculty Advisor
Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Scholar, Gentleman, Athlete.
LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1928, under the act of March 3, 1879.
MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE PRESS' ASSOCIATION

"But Lou!!! All I want is change of a quarter!!!!"

Just Seventeen Days Left to Enter:

Rosemontite, Coed Entered; Queen Contest Nears End

By TOM SMITH

For the last four years gals entered by C & F students have reigned over the Junior Prom. This year the other two divisions may be putting up more fight.

At least that's the impression from this week's crop of entries. But juniors have until April 6 to turn in their entries. Contest chairman Joe Redmond reminded third year men that they have a chance over the Easter break to scout up a photo of the "one and only."

Another Coed

This week's coed entrant is Mary Ann Monaghan. Along with auburn hair and blue-green eyes, Mary stands 5'4" and weighs 128 pounds. She's a freshman nurse and was entered by Mike Clark, an English major.

Carol Galdieri, a Rosemont freshman, is 18, 5' 4½" and weighs 113 pounds. The blue eyed, brown haired girl will be taking in Junior Week with Ed Shea, a social studies major and WVIL basketball announcer.

Artist Enters Date

Phil Seefried, VILLANOVAN staff artist, passed along the picture of Mary Jane Bullock, who combines 5'7" and 128 pounds. Mary Jane, 18, is a green-eyed blonde and a secretary in New York City.

Sally Anne Grear is a 19-year-old strawberry blonde, who stands 5'5" and weighs 125 pounds. Bob Flynn, of the C & F School, submitted her photo.

Theresa Rigler, a medical secretary, is 21. She stands a petite 5'3", weighs 115, has brown hair and blue eyes. Dave Van Osten, of C & F, entered Theresa.

Connie Kline, a private secretary with strawberry blonde hair, was entered in the queen, race by Ben Klemanowicz, an English major. Connie, who's 19, is 5'5" and weighs 120.

Juniors may leave their entries in the Dougherty Hall university shop, Jack Decker's room (49 Sullivan) or Dick Quinn's room (111 Fedigan).

CAROL GALDIERI

CONNIE KLINE

SALLY GREAR

THERESA RIGLER

MARY JANE BULLOCK

MARY MONAGHAN

Maybe The Last

That trite says about "opportunity knocking but once" doesn't exactly hold for the annual three-day retreat. Each year at this time Catholic undergraduates have the chance to set aside the texts and slide rules and concentrate on the condition of their souls.

But for seniors it's the last time they'll have the benefit of a planned retreat schedule. For other students it might also be a last retreat. Drownings, automobile crackups, construction mishaps—they can all strike down collegians in the middle of a glorious, fun-filled summer.

Such a thought as that can pin-point the significance of the period beginning at 7:30 Sunday night and ending with the edifying sight of more than 2,500 students kneeling to receive their Saviour in the Holy Eucharist on Wednesday morning.

Before that, though, there is Mass each morning and a short period in the confessional box. The alarm may blare at a hour that would seem like dawn, but all day the undergradute has a break from studies and a chance to sit himself, mediate on those years after graduation and maybe browse through one of Bishop Sheen's books or some other spiritual works.

During the time between there will be conference. It could get hot and stuffy in the Field House, making it difficult to throw off the temptation to daydream.

Still, that thought about this being the last retreat . . . it might be the ideal anti-daydream tonic.

Signs Of Spring

Spring, that glorious time, is already upon us. Soon after the inauguration of this balmy season, we will depart on our Easter vacation. Upon returning from this brief Spring interlude, there will more than likely be a prominent demise in the student's interest for a concentrated effort in studying of any size, shape or form. The relaxing student will be most anxious to point out that he has just completed the mentally exhausting rigors of preparing himself for mid-semester exams, and he is entitled to a little rest.

The same student will quickly add that a new half-semester is just beginning and he has "plenty of time" to get back into the swing of things. If he were to glance at his calendar, he would find out, perhaps to his astonishment, exactly how little time he has remaining to the abbreviated semester.

When the Easter vacation has terminated, there will be less than seven weeks remaining before final exams. We therefore, have a mere six weeks plus to prepare ourselves for the examinations which will ascertain the course our future at Villanova is to follow.

Jazzers' Jack Neal is thwarted in an attempted shot by Tom Foley (left) and an unidentified Royal in the intramural championship game. (Photo by Sig Holtz)

Foley's 23 Points Help Royals Win Intramural Crown

By FRANK FLEMING

Last Tuesday night Alumni Gym became the scene of a coronation, when the Royals were crowned champions of the Villanova University Intramural Basketball League by downing the Jazzers in the final game of the championship tournament by the decisive score of 64-41.

In the championship game, the Jazzers quickly rolled up a five point lead before the Royals could correctly sight in the basket. Then Ed Batta threw in a two pointer to put the Royals in business; from then on it was a see-saw battle with neither team holding a decisive edge during the first half. At the half Royals held a 24-20 lead.

Suddenly former Wildcat Varsity basketball star, Tom Foley, and Jack Quinn became hot. Paced by the fine shooting of these two giants, the Royals quickly rocketed ahead. The Jazzers fought back valiantly, but were unable to catch the rampaging royalty.

Foley Gets 23

When the final whistle had blown and the final statistics were tabulated, it was found, much to the surprise of all present, that Tom Foley and Jack Quinn had together out scored the entire opposing team. Foley scored 23, while Quinn dropped 20 points through the hoops. Jack Neal contributed 12 points to the losing cause.

The Royals are made up of both resident and off-campus students. Ed Batta is team captain. Two of the stars are former all-state high school players, while another one is a former Villanova varsity hoop star.

Two All-Staters Play

The two all-staters are Fedigan Hall roommates, Jack Quinn and Dave Gallen. Quinn won his honors at Oratory Prep in Summit, N.J., while Gallen was doing the same at St. Thomas Aquinas High in Rochester, N. Y.

The former Wildcat hoopster is tall Tom Foley. Foley was a member of the 1953-1954 and 1954-1955 squads. In a game against Rio Grande and the famed scoring giant, Bevo Francis', Foley scored 19 points and was chosen "Player of the Week" by the Philadelphia sports writers. Other members of the championship team are Butch Lemole and Marty Dohaney.

Intramural Swimming Meet Won By Freshman's Two First Places

Walker Lloyd, a freshman Arts student, took two first places to win individual honors in the intramural swimming championships held last Wednesday in the Field House pool.

Besides his victories in the 50 yd. butterfly breaststroke and 100 yd. individual medley, Lloyd also placed second to Junior Jim Cunjak in the 50 yd. breaststroke. In his winning efforts, Lloyd recorded times of 32.2 and 1:16.8 respectively.

Other exceptional performances in the meet saw John Murray take a first in the 350 yd. freestyle, in a 27.2 clocking, and second in the 100 yd. freestyle to Lloyd. His time for the 100 was 1:28.3.

Klimgus Gets 58½ pts.

John Klimgus won the diving event by racking up 58½ points, beating his closest competitor by 11 markers. In the 50 yd. backstroke, Bill Meyer, a Senior engineer, was clocked in 33.4 to win that event. Cunjak took the 50 yd. breaststroke in 34.3, and in the plunge, Paul McCarty went 46 feet even, to edge Paul Jerning.

Met Swim Title Captured By LaSalle; Penn Second

Villanova Places Third In Intra-City Championships

LaSalle College captured the Philadelphia Metropolitan Swimming Championships last Monday night in the Villanova pool. In this third annual meet, LaSalle took the title away from the University of Pennsylvania, with 78 points to the Quaker's 58. Villanova finished in third place with 26 points, while West Chester State Teachers College scored 10, and Drexel Institute and Temple University each accounted for 3 points.

ED GEISZ
Intramural Director

It was a big night for the swimmers, as eight records were set. New marks went into the scorebooks for everything except the 220 yard freestyle and the diving competition.

The LaSalle Explorers went about regaining the title they had lost to Penn a year before and avenging the only black mark on their two-year perfect record in a very methodical way. The champions took first honors in four events and placed second in seven others.

The Explorers were paced by a sophomore swimmer, Jim Sheehan, who was picked as the Most Outstanding Swimmer by the judges, and awarded a trophy. Only LaSalle's heavy scoring in the last three events—440 yard freestyle, 200 yard breaststroke, and 400 yard relay—gave them such an overpowering victory, and Sheehan won both sprints in record time and was anchor man on the victorious relay team.

Penn Fought Well

Penn, defending titleholder, put up a strong fight, and even held a slight lead midway through the meet. The Ivy Leaguers main strength lay in the efforts of team captain Parland Johnstone, who also set two records.

For Villanova, Don Couig and Lou Schoener were outstanding. Couig took third place in both the 200 yard individual medley and the 200 yard backstroke, while Schoener placed third in the 220 yard freestyle and took fourth in the 100 yard freestyle. Denny Rinkacs took fifth place in the 50 yard freestyle, and Lou Pinto was fifth in the 200 yard breaststroke. Wildcat entries also scored in the relay matches, taking second in the 400 freestyle and third in the 300 yard medley.

Frosh Looked Well

Coach Ed Geiz said, that while he was disappointed in the meet, he was very pleased at the Freshman team's showing. In the 300 yard Frosh medley relay a team of Jerry Chacony, Larry Palacio, and Ken MacGillivray took top honors, and in the Frosh freestyle relay a Palacio, MacGillivary, John Rumbarger, Bob Pinto combine placed second.

Spring Softball Opener Slated For April 3rd

By PAUL LAUGHLIN

Having successfully completed the 1956 basketball season, the Villanova intramural department now turns its attention to the approaching spring season. In the opinion of the intramural department this spring should top all previous seasons for participation. These predictions are based on the increased enrollment, and the exoneration of resident students from their evening chapel duties early in the spring.

Evening Softball League

One of the most popular of all the intramural programs is the evening softball league. Every year a large percentage of students find this sport to be an excellent escape valve for the excess energy accumulated over the winter. Applications for the ten man teams will be accepted at the intramural office until March 28, and the opening games will be played on April 3.

Of course no official schedule is available, but it is believed that each team will play between 4 to 6 games with playoff games to follow. The league will again be under the direction of Ed Geiz, director of intramurals and coach of the Villanova tankmen.

Ex-Coach Otis Douglas Rejoins Villanova Staff

Otis Douglas, ex-Villanova football coach, is returning to Frank Reagan's staff this year, the University Athletic department announced last week.

Douglas, who was a member of the Villanova staff during the 1954 season, left Villanova last spring for a defensive coaching position with the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League.

Douglas first played football with his college team, William and Mary, during the 1928-29-30 seasons. He was a bulwark for the Southerners during those seasons, and made a good reputation for himself. After graduation, he remained with the William and Mary squad as an assistant coach for several years.

During the war years, Douglas served in the Navy, and after the war, played four years of pro football with the Philadelphia Eagles—from 1946 to 1950.

He left the Eagles to assume a head coaching position with Drexel University, but left Tech in 1951 to coach Arkansas University.

Championship intramural basketball team, the Royals, poses with its trophy after defeating the Jazzers, 64-41 in title game.

Cage Banquet Set April 12

The Villanova Club of South Jersey will honor the 1955-56 Villanova varsity basketball team with a banquet on April 12, announced general chairman John J. Brennan.

The affair will be held at Kenney's Restaurant, 531 Market Street, Camden. Tickets may be purchased at the Alumni Office in Mendel Hall.

Tickets on Sale Now:

Levenson To Join Herman, Four Aces On Guild Show

Sam Levenson, a comedian who made a hit in last year's show, has agreed to return for the sixth annual Augustinian Seminary Guild Variety Show April 11 in the Villanova Field House.

At the same time he made the announcement of Levenson's return, the Rev. John J. Coffey, O.S.A., promotion director for the show, said that tickets are on sale at five spots—Dougherty Hall book store, Library main desk, Mendel Hall information booth, Chaplain's Office and Augestinian Seminary Guild Office (St. Rita's Hall).

Tickets are priced at $1.50. Some 900 tickets have already been sold, revealed Father Coffey, in urging students to get theirs soon.

Starring on the variety are the Four Aces and Woody Herman. Herman and "Third Herd" have been cited by PARADE and TIME for bringing back dancing, Father Coffey said.

LKD Dinner Dance On April 14

April 14 is the date selected by the Lambda Kappa Delta brothers for their annual dinner-dance. The affair is closed to members of LKD, pre-med fraternity, and members of the Biology Department.

Germantown's Del Mar-Morris Dining Hall is the site selected for the dinner-dance.

Upon the suggestion of Mr. Joseph Gilligan, moderator of the fraternity, the pre-meds agreed to invite someone outside the Biology Department who has repeatedly given considerable aid to the hopeful future physicians.

For this year's event, Mr. Bernard Bonniwell, professor of psychology at Villanova and prominent author, was selected by a majority of LKD voters.

Dick McEntee, junior chemical engineer, who has been elected president of Sanctuary Society, subject to administration approval.

'Don Pasquale' Set For Opera-Classica

Opera fans can hear Donizetti's three-act comic opera "Don Pasquale" tonight at 7, when the Opera-Classica club meets in 208 C & F.

Melchiore Luise, Scipio Colombo, the Vienna Kammerchor and the Orchestra of the Vienna State Opera, conducted by Argeo Kuadri, will be heard.

Administration Accepts Nash's Resignation as VILLANOVAN Editor

Senior Harry Nash, charging "unjust and unwarranted censorship of the newspaper as a student publication," resigned last Friday as editor-in-chief of the VILLANOVAN.

He was immediately succeeded as editor by Thomas Smith, a junior English major.

Nash's resignation was accepted by the Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., university president.

Nash's action followed administration allegations of disloyalty to the university as a result of an editorial on dining hall and Pie Shoppe conditions in the March 14 edition of the VILLANOVAN.

(Administration Order

The senior English major said that he did not feel he could continue as editor under the censorship of the paper's editorial, column and feature material ordered by the administration. "We have been consistently loyal to the administration and the student body and would have continued to do so without censorship," stated Nash.

Nash expressed his thanks to the Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A., the paper's moderator.

BM To Stage 'Our Town'

Belle Masque, Villanova dramatic society, will take part in the Masque and Foil One Act Play Night at Chestnut Hill College this Friday night. Other organizations participating will be the St. Joseph's College Cap and Bells and the Masque and Foil of Chestnut Hill.

The Second Act of "Our Town" will be Belle Masque's presentation. This play, by Thornton Wilder, is unusual in that it uses little scenery and no props. Instead they are suggested by the narrator or by the players themselves.

Playing leading roles are Joe Barrett as the stage manager or narrator; Mike Clark as George Gibbs, and Faith Heller as Emily Webb. Also in the cast are Pete Selesky, Carole Whalen, Bob Lima, Barbara May, Dick Brothers, and Andy Iaccarrino.

Bryn Mawr College Offers 3 Lectures

The Following Three lectures will be given at Bryn Mawr College after the Easter recess.

On April 2 in Goodhart Hall, Boris Goldovsky, renowned pianist, will give a lecture-recital on Mozart operas. The program is under the auspices of the Friends of Music of Bryn Mawr College and commemorates the birth of the composer.

On April 4, Dr. Don Leet, Harvard Geology Professor, will deliver the Sigma XI lecture, in Park Hall.

On April 10 James Muilenburg, Davenport Professor of Hebrew, of the Union Theological Seminary in New York, will speak on the Dead Sea Scrolls.

AC Elects In April

Elections for next year's Officers and a schedule of lectures will occupy the Astronomy Club for the better part of the next quarter.

First in the series of lectures is "The Spring and Summer Sky", to be given tomorrow by the Rev. Edward Jenkins, club moderator. Upcoming are "Flying Saucers" by John Hunt on April 15, "Life on Other Planets" by John Risso on April 12 and "Possibility of Space Travel" by Frank Simon on April 26.

Free tickets must be picked up in the Chaplain's office the Tuesday before each lecture.

Election Forthcoming

Elections will be held and a constitution will be drawn up at an April 19 meeting of the club. Nominees for office are John Hunt, John Risso, Frank Simon, William Schmidt, William Ruiz, Eugene Malin and Edward Brown.

On May 3, the society will take a field trip to the Fels Planetarium of the Franklin Institute.

Sutula Gets CPA

Mr. Edward G. Sutula, part-time instructor in the Commerce and Finance School, has earned his certified public accountant's degree.

A graduate of Villanva in 1949 with a bachelor's degree in economics, Mr. Sutula took his master's degree from the graduate division of the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School.

ESSO RESEARCH works wonders with oil

Fabulous oil-made rubber in today's new cars

Weather-sealing the new wrap-around windshields calls for a rubber that can resist the toughest elements. That's Butyl rubber, made from oil by Esso Research! This remarkable rubber out-performs natural and other types of rubber in more than 100 parts of today's new cars. It's dramatic proof that ESSO RESEARCH works wonders with oil.

Esso

MORE PHOTOS FOR GARRY MOORE'S APPRAISAL (page 4)

RON DELANY BLASTS SPILLANE (page 3)

Villanovan

Vol. 31—No. 16 VILLANOVA UNIVERSITY, VILLANOVA, PA. April 11, 1956

Friday's Soph-Frosh Hop Plans Completed

This initial social function of the Class of '59 is closed to first and second-yearmen and will extend from 9 to 1 a.m.

A newcomer to Villanova dancegoers, Lou Denison, brings his locally-known group of musicians to the Field House Friday night for the Annual Informal Soph-Frosh Hop.

Bob Mulcahy
Soph-Frosh Chairman

Decoration Co-Chairmen Leo Rudegeair and Tom Sprenger explained that the stage will be dressed in a typical French street scene to carry out the seasonal "April in Paris" theme. They also stressed the ned of more frosh to assist with the decorations.

in the Pie Shoppe ticket booth from 11:30 to 1:30 under the chairmanship of Dave Belcher, assisted by Don Kempf, the freshman representative on the committee.

General Chairman Bob Mulchay announced that the price of each ducat—$1.25—will be lower than last year and that present ticket returns indicate a larger turnout than in '55, when the affair was inaugurated. Now in its second year, the dance will probably became an annual affair. Other chairman are Clem Birch, refreshments, and Henry Nichols, publicity.

Schleicher Named Editor Of Belle Air

Richard J. Schleicher has been named editor-in-chief of the 1957 BELLE AIR, the yearbook moderators announced today.

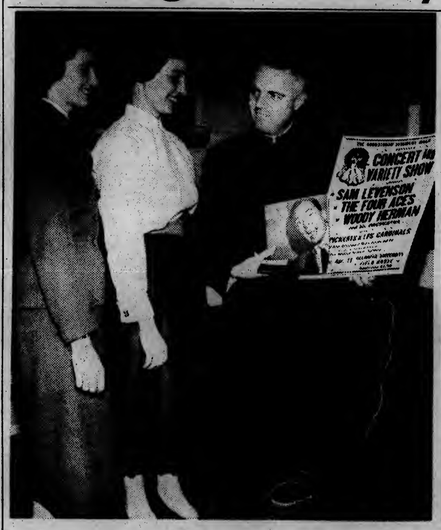
Schleicher, a mechanical engineer, is a contract student in the NROTC program and is scheduled to receive his degree in June, 1957. He matriculated at Villanova with the Class of 1956.

In announcing Schleicher's appointment, yearbook moderators —the Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O.S.A., and the Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O.S.A.—said that assistant editors will be appointed in the "near future" so that the

(Continued on Page 12)

Frosh to Get Tips Tomorrow on Soph Officers' Duties

What to look for in the officers who will lead their class next year will be explained to members of the university's Freshman Class tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. in C & F Audtorium.



Sophomore Class President Paul Laughlin has been asked to speak to the first year men on the duties that the sophomore officers have to perform.

The freshmen will be electing their first slate of class officers during annual elections after Junior Week in May.

Senior Class President Jerry Guerrisi turns over to the Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, university president, the sum of $500 thus completing the Class of '56 payments to the university scholarship fund. With this completion of payments, the senior class still retains a surplus $800 in the treasury.

Comic Levenson To Appear In Tonight's Variety Show

The Rev. John Coffey, O.S.A., Seminary Guild director, shows two secretaries posters for tonight's Variety show in the Field House. Catherine Wiley (left) and Margaret Patani have been working with Father Coffey on the show planning.

Joins Woody Herman And Other Stars

Sam Levenson, television's family comedian, will headline the fifth annual Augustinian Seminary Guild Variety Show in the Field House tonight at 8:15 o'clock. Tickets at $1.50 will be on sale at the door.

The rotund humorist, making his second appearance as the Variety Show's star, will be joined by the Four Aces, Woody Herman's Band and a host of other acts in a banner show designed to raise funds for Augustinian seminaries' educating young men for the Catholic priesthood.

Ed Herlihy, National Broadcasting Company announcer and Commentator for Universal Newsreels, will serve as master of ceremonies, the Rev. John J. Coffey, O.S.A., director of the Seminary Guild, has announced.

Tickets may be purchased at the Information Booth or Chaplin's Office in Mendel Hall, in the University Library, in the Guild Office in St. Rita's Hall, St. Mary's Hall, or in the University Shop in Dougherty Hall.

Since 1950, when the Guild first began staging its Variety Shows, thousands of dollars have been rasied for the Augustinian Seminaries, one of which is located on Villanova's campus. Others are located at Staten Island, N. Y., Washington, D. C. and New Hamburg, N. Y.

Some of the brightest names in show business have participated in previous offerings. Rosemary Clooney, Peter Lind Hayes & Mary Healy, Jessica Dragonette, Bud Collyer, The Mariner's, Betty Clooney and Rise Stevens

(Continued on Page 12)

Tickets in Pie Shoppe:

First Area Choral Festival To Combine 7 Glee Clubs

Saturday will mark another first for Villanova University. The Villanova Field House will play host to seven eastern colleges and universities, combining 550 voices in a massed glee club Choral Festival.

The Festival, duplicated nowhere else in the East, will consist of performances from the glee clubs of Villanova, Pennsylvania, Temple, St. Joseph's, Rosemont, Immaculata, and St. Peter's College of Jersey City.

Highlight of the program will be a massed glee club medley featuring all seven schools together. Dr. Harold Gill Reuschlein, Dean of Villanova's school of Law and Director of the Villanova choral group will direct this massed singing.

It is reported that the only other section of the country to duplicate or surpass this type of presentation is the mid-West where the "Big Ten" schools annually hold these affairs.

Besides the massed singing, each glee club will perform separately for approximately ten minutes.

Refreshments may be purchased during the concert, and there will be a dance immediately following the termination of the singing. The name of the band has not yet been announced.

The Festival will commence at 8 P.M. in the Field House. Tickets are $1 and may be purchased in the Pie Shoppe or from any member of the Villanova Singers.

First Junior Week Sports Night To Honor Outstanding Sr. Athlete

The Class of 1957, in conjunction with the Student Council will sponsor the first annual Sports Night on Tuesday, May 1.

Sports Night, which will feature the presentation of an "outstanding athlete" Award to a senior varsity performer, is the first night of its kind in Villanova history.

Chairman Jack Shea said the athlete would be chosen from a list of nominees submitted by the coaches to the Athlete Department. From that list, students would be able to vote for the outstanding senior of their choice. Voting will be held the week before Junior Week.

Qualifications for being nominated for the award will be based on athletic ability, extra-curricular activities, and the athlete's record with the school.

Movies To Be Shown

Beside the presentation of the Outstanding Athlete Award, Sports Night will also feature several movies of past Villanova Athletic events, and ex-Villanova athletes as guest speakers.

Shea stressed the fact the presentation of the "outstanding athlete" Award would be handled by the Student Council, while the remainder of the evening's program would be taken care of by the Junior Class.

Members of the Sports Night committee, besides Shea, include: Bill Reich and Joe Chinnicci, decorations; Pat Nicholson, Sophomore Student Council representative; Tom Curran and Joe McCullen, speaker arrangements; Dick Cooke, cameraman and Bob Strayton, publicity.

Peering . . .

With Dick Peer

At the bulletin boards around campus. I find that they still contain quite a lot of bull. Most bulletins go like this, "Will the person who 'borrowed' my—," or "Please come dance with us nursies. We're way over at—," and of course the official proclamations. "There will be no picnics, no parties, no monkeys, and much studying."

PEER

At all the sports about campus who donned their cord suits last week at the very first sign of warm weather. According to them, spring came sometime last February and summer is now here. House rules, however, will not permit the wearing of Bermuda shorts in the new Student Union Building.

At the Navy's recent announcement that swords will soon be required for all its officers. It has been "suggested" that the June N.R.O.T.C. graduate might like one as a graduation present. There's nothing like a sword you know for practicality. Rumor has it that the next "practical" thing to be required for Naval officers is a white charger, only a fitting compliment for your sword they say!

At the University Store which might appropriately be called the Villanova China and Glass Shop. There are now featured at least 300 different sized alcohol containers and a colorful collection of beer mugs. Besides all this glassware, we have a full scale stuffed animal kingdom plus a high priced shirt, sock and shorts selection. And, oh yes! I think there are some books.

At the proposed suggestions for the graduating class gift to the University, I find that a resident student parking lot is presently first choice. According to one spokesman, this would be placed directly in front of Sullivan Hall and be designed in a nicely matching fieldstone.

The VILLANOVAN'S editors welcome letters from readers on campus topics, or in answer to feature columns. Letters should be concise and must be signed. Pen names will be used on request.

Villanovan

Villanova University Villanova Pa.
Thomas E. Smith
Editor-in-Chief

Bob Strayton . . . . . Managing Editor
Bill Jones . . . . . Feature Editor
Joe Slavin . . . . . Sports Editors
Bob Mulcahy
Bill Brown
Jack Downing . . . . . Copy Editors
Frank Delany . . . . . News Editor
Sig Holtz, ... Photography Editors
Joe Ezerski
Phil Seefried . . . . Cartoon Editor
Nick Podono . . . . Circulation Manager
Joe De Grazia . . . . Business Manager
Faculty Moderator
Rev. Louis A. Rengione, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Scholar, Gentlemen, Athlete.

LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1928 under the act of March 3, 1879.
MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE PRESS ASSOCIATION

CAMPUS LIFE BY CARTOON

"Boy, the golf team is really LOADed this year!"

CAMPUS COMMENT

Outlooks of the Editor

Before The Handshakers Appear

In the next couple of weeks undergraduates will be called on to stand up and nominate the men who will guide their classes through dance weekends and other class activities next year.

Every year the cry may be heard around election time and even long afterward that members of the classes don't know the men they elect.

In a mushrooming university like Villanova, there may be some excuse. Perhaps a partial solution would be a large election rally during a Thursday morning activities period. All candidates for class offices would be introduced and class members will get an idea of how they would look in front of a class meeting.

But the answer to another complaint—that "the class is being run by one big clique"—can only be resolved by the freshman, sophomore, or junior himself or herself.

Look over the potential leaders in the class and pick out the men who show initiative and spirit for their school. Talk to the fellow, and casually check up on his academic standing. More than one nomination has been wasted by a slashing in the three-fold screening.

Another way to discourage any clique control is to carefully examine each candidate for an office. Treating the balloting as a popularity contest and marking checks beside names only because they were all splashed across the same campaign poster is a pretty effective way to put a clique in control.

Party affiliation on the national political level may be an effective way to organize the federal government but when it is carried to a length on the collegiate level, in the hands of inexperienced politicians, a small clique can easily grab control and dominate all class activities.

So The Grass Can Grow Greener

Progress, here at Villanova, is a concrete reality. But with the large scale progress of our university, it appears imminent that inconveniences on a smaller scale must inevitably follow. And until they are rectified, it is entirely up to us as Catholic college students to make the best of them.

Regardless of the inconveniences encountered by taking an alternate and more firmly established route from the P and W parking lots to Dougherty Hall and to the C and F Building, the gaping aperatures in the university's hedges and the ungainly catwalks of dead, well-trodden upon grass beginning to wind over our front lawns are in the process of defacing the university.

It is true, of course, that intramural athletes are permitted to stage their football and softball encounters on the very ground which we are forbidden to walk, but the occasional flying feet of an athlete in action are far less harmful to our struggling landscape than the steady cadence of thousands of students marching back and forth every day of the school year.

It is appropriate, perhaps, to call our southern landscape our window on the world. It constitutes our outward appearance to multitudes of "visitors" rushing daily by on Lancaster Pike. These "visitors," many of whom have never before seen Villanova, are forced to make an appraisal via a snap decision based entirely upon this external manifestation of our internal harmony.

Surely, if these people are met with the sight of a ragged, beaten-down hedge and a pattern of muddy furrows worn deeply into once green grass, this external appearance of internal laxity will not speak well for the most rapidly progressing university in the East.

Therefofe, men of Villanova, until the most needed pathways can be constructed and less conspicuous playing fields can be provided, it is your duty to keep off the grass for the good of your university.

GOT YOUR TICKET YET?

For his fifth annual Seminary Guild Variety Show, Father Coffey has spared no expense in lining up a first-rate attraction for area patrons.

Villanova students have the opportunity to see this star splattered attraction for one green bill and a half dollar.

But there's a warning, too. A sellout is anticipated, so students and their friends who want to grab good seats should get there early. The curtains slide apart at 8:15 o'clock.

Father Coffey's efforts to round up so many big-name stars for the benefit show seems to prove the old adage that performers with reputations draw crowds. This same principle has been tried by university classes in attempts to contract big-name bands for prom and dinner-dance engagements but budgetary limits have occasionally made this impossible.

But nothing can detract from the Seminary Guild show tonight . . . Sam Levenson, Woody Herman, the Four Aces . . . they'll all be there to draw applause from another packed Field House. Got your ticket yet?

Reflections: Rippled

By Bernard L. Bonniwell, M.A.

College Man

The college man is a symbol of life's finest hour. In four brief years the college man has advanced from a position of youthful uncertainty to a position of assurance, now intellectually keen and emotionally mature, somewhat uncertain of the long years ahead but confident that he will master the task. He is the fortunate possessor of health, stability and drive, the components of life adjustment. With poise and ease of expression, based on a clear knowledge of right and wrong, his vision is sharp-edged and realistic. He enters the business world and the professional world with equal competency, gaining positions of leadership and community influence with heartening facility.

The difference between the college man, and college men, appears to be in an area as complicated and yet as obvious as the problem of self-motivation. The college man persistently seeks, within at least remote limits, his ultimate goal and so directs all his energies towards its attainment. Like a chemical dye or stain, the goal-drive colors his entire personality. The other man in college, lost in the Great Average, exists in an area of bemused confusion, fretfully explaining personal error and failure on the instructor, the curriculum and the university in general. His failure is a personal failure. He possesses the same attributes as the college man but remains indifferent, and so begins the daily construction of a predictably limited future. Somehow we cannot feel sorry for this man, the little clerk of Tomorrow.

Thus those of us who are privileged to work with the college man are proud of our profession. To many of us, the college man is a brilliant reflection of Humanity's high purpose.

This Collegiate Whirl

* * *

ANY SALARY INVOLVED?

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—(ACP) — The Daily Trojan needed some girls to do secretarial work so the paper's city editor, Rich Reid, dreamed up a unique and enjoyable stunt to lure the ladies into the office. He agreed to bestow kisses on the first ten coeds who volunteered for the work.

"It's the least I could do," Reid said. "But ten is my absolute limit."

So far, there's been no report on the number of applicants.

* * *

NO ASSEMBLY

The student assembly listed in the university handbook for tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 will not be held the VILLANOVAN learned Monday from the Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A. university vice - president. No further details were given.

U.S. Foreign Aid Policy Shortcomings Seen; Type of Aid Should Be Considered

By GENE DONOHUE

Perhaps one of the most controversial problems facing the Eisenhower administration today is foreign policy, and in this general category, foreign aid plays a major role.

DONOHUE

The President, in his State of the Union Message, has asked Congress for permission to commit the United States to pledges of foreign aid over an extended period of time, rather than the present system of aid on a year to year basis, in order to meet the change in the foreign policy of the Soviet Union. However, there has been some controversy over not only how long and how much foreign aid will be given, but also on what type of foreign aid is necessary.

Our Present Policy

Since the start of the Korean "Police Action," the United States, and rightly so, has given a major portion of its foreign aid in the form of armaments. But, at the present, with the policy of Russia becoming one of exploiting the status quo, this need for armaments has fallen into a secondary position. It is true now, and will remain so for quite a long time, that armament, to a limited degree, will be necessary to avoid the threat of another war, and none of us ever want the United States to be unprepared for this again if such a horror ever descends upon us. However, the Russian policy of economic aid has made more inroads into neutral territory in these past few months than they did in the previous five years. And why? . . . because the U.S.S.R. gives these neutral countries what they feel they themselves need, not what Russia feels they need, as is the policy of the United States. Russia is willing to build power plants, roads, and public utilities plants, while we send foreign countries tanks and guns along with a division of troops. Then, only if they first accept our military assistance, will we send help in the way of civilian aid.

Non-Military Aid

If the United States would increase its economic aid over a long period of time so that these neutrals could feel they could depend on it and not have to worry about American politicians trying to win votes, and make this foreign aid the non-military type, substituting roads for army camps, there is no doubt that the respect this country has in and among foreign nations would be greatly increased.

Planned Curriculum Aids Student in Future--Burgess

By JOHN McGEE

The Villanova instructor under consideration this week is Mr. Frederick M. Burgess, M. B. A., associate professor of marketing.

Mr. Burgess obtained his bachelor's degree in English and economics from Haverford College and his master's in marketing and economics from Indiana University. His doctorate work is being undertaken at the University of Pennsylvania. In addition to this educational background, he has business experience in advertising, selling, journalism, and managerial work especially with the DuPont corporation. He has spent six years in the U. S. Army, four of them as an officer with the General Staff. He is a member of the American Economics Association, the American Marketing Association, the American Association of University Professors and the Pennsylvania chapter of a national honor society of business administration.

Clear Ideas

When asked about some of the problems of undergraduates, Mr. Burgess emphasized the importance of a clear idea of a student's goals for success after graduation. He advised all undergraduates to plan their curriculums so as to broaden their opportunities upon graduation. The most certain method of doing this, according to Mr. Burgess, is to make the most effective use of their time so that they might obtain the greatest fruit from their labor.

Mr. Burgess wishes to repeat the point made by Mortimer Adler in his speech at the Villanova Forum. The student should always keep in mind that his four years training does not educate him as such, but only initiates him into knowledge and teaches him how to educate himself after his formal graduation, which is truly a "commencement," not a finish.

An Age Of Business

"Because we live in an age of business and industrial speculation, there is a tendency," Mr. Burgess observed, "even in education to place studies in watertight compartments." He believes that we could strive for greater understanding between the disciplines so that the student can see the unity of all knowledge and the basic relationships between them all. From such an approach, Mr. Burgess maintains, the student would gain the maximum benefit in adjusting his knowledge to living.

On the university level of education, Mr. Burgess lamented the usually sematic misunderstanding between proponents of liberal and business education for the business student. As a liberal arts graduate himself, he feels that liberal arts is an essential core in any formal education. For the business student, however, who studies basic liberal arts courses, there is the need to adjust his college education to business situations. His business training in college facilitates this adjustment from the theoretical to the real world.

Management's Views

The claim of liberal arts to train a man to think does not necessarily train a student to think in terms of management's viewpoint. Neither does it give him the basic principles which

(Continued on Page 12)

Spillane Takes Back Seat to Great Authors:

Campus Poll Brings to Light Collegiate Literary Tastes

By FRANK DELANY and JOE KINNEY

If someone hasn't already come up with a cliche like, "You can tell what a man is like by the books he reads," we're sure its just an oversight and in due time someone of sufficient renown will make such a statement.

Anticipating this event, we have interviewed a cross-section of Villanovans from every class and every school to find out what the average university student at Villanova reads. Whether or not it is any indication of the caliber of the Villanova man (or woman) we leave up to you.

Questions Asked

The questions asked were: what magazines do you read regularly? What is your favorite book? What is the last book you have read? What type of reading material do you like most? What type of reading material do you like least? Because of space limitations, we present answers at random that are particularly interesting or illuminating.

Two senior English majors, Jack Eddinger, editor of the LYNX, and Dick Fitzpatrick, editor of the BELLE AIRE, seem to have similar tastes when it comes to books. Both name novels by James Joyce and Thomas Wolfe, as Eddinger picks Dostoievsky's "Crime and Punishment" while Fitzpatrick picks Tolstoy's "Anna Karenina."

Most Fascinating

Sophomore C&F track star from the Emerald Isle, Ron Delany, puts in another vote for Joyce, picking Joyce's "A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man" as his favoite book. "As an artist I delight in his genius. His innermost thoughts in life in general fascinate me. Always I am trying to understand him but I don't suppose I ever will," says Delany of Joyce.

"Mickey Spillane and his contemporaries who seem to revel in the indecent treatment of sex should be outlawed," holds Delaney. Eddinger concurs, condemning what he calls sex, sadism and sentimentality along with the Daily News, Mickey Spillane and True Confession type of writing.

Engineering sophomore, Norm Huddy has just read the Reader's Digest's condensed versions of "Andersonville," "Island in the Sun" and "An Episode of Sparrows." With an eye to an engineering student's schedule, Huddy recommends Reader's Digest condensed books for people not overburdened with spare time. Huddy is the only one who named a Hemingway effort as his favorite. The particular novel is "Farewell to Arms."

Current Readings

Novels currently being read around the campus are "The Man Who Never Was," named by Jack Dunn, junior C&F, "The War of Secession," named by Tom Breslin, Freshman engineer, and Herman Wouk's latest, "Marjorie Morningstar," named by Don Kempf.

Don Couig, Arts junior, voices the general sentiment when he expresses a preference for the short story and historical fiction, although Breslin plugs mystery novels.

Magazines read on campus show how the Life-Time publications corporation can influence our thoughts, for nearly everyone included at least one if not all the Life-Time publications in their list of regular read periodicals. Nudging Life, Time, etc. are Sports Illustrated, U. S. News and World Report and the Saturday Review. Dark horses are "Ireland," appropriately enough enjoyed by Ron Delany and the "Atlantic Monthly," listed by freshman coed Faith Heller.

EVEN RABBITS GO TO PICNICS

Of rabbits and wildcats and picnics and papers . . . "F. Scott" the rabbit, famous mate of "Zelda," contemplates the events in store for him as he prepares to don his Easter bonnet (picnic style) take beer mug in paw, carrot in teeth, VILLANOVAN under arm and set out for the weekly meeting of the Saturday Afternoon Picnic Association at the convenient recreation area, "Skunk Hollow."

Turf and Tinsel's stage crew engages in a bit of fun with director Charlie Ross as they prepare for the opening of "Barbara of Seville."

Strictly Opinion

By DON ALTON

". . .college kids. It's a transient class but a solid one, several million strong. It lives off the sweat of parents just as callously as the French aristocracy lived off the sweat of peasants."

— Herman Wouk in Marjorie Morningstar

This is a statement taken from one of the popular novels of the day which contains a strong criticism of one of America's most powerful minorities . . . the college crew. This group has in its number the future presidents of corporations, lawyers, doctors, and a few future citizens of the Bowery. Since we are in the midst of this transient class living off the sweat of our parents, we should be in the best position to thoughtfully consider this statement.

The first thing that might come into our mind is the use of the word "kid" in relation to the members of the collegiate minority. Many administrators, a few parents, and even fewer students accept this term for the undergrads around our nation. These "kids" have responsibilities commensurate with many of the hard working men of the "outside" world. Every class has its leaders, the various activities, and publications all have student executives who are responsible for many weighty decisions. However, these considerations are secondary to the knowledge we have as to the true decisions made during the four years amid the books and brews of a university.

ALTON

Few of us at Villanova can be classed as living as aristocracy off the sweat of our parents, in fact, one can safely say that the average Villanovan probably contributes more of his own energy and sweat to his education than does the average college man. These men come here, in the main, to gain the knowledge with which to establish themselves as solid Catholic citizens. A few never realize the importance of the undergrad decisions until too late, but they have at least managed to see the light of day. Men are graduated from college every year, and Villanovans have managed to live after graduations in the past. Therefore, we can assume that Villanova contains a good number of college men who do not fit into the unflattering definition of Mr. Wouk.

We must admit that college life is quite a bit artificial in the normal routine. The average student is on his own in relation to his attention to rules, study, and the amount of time alloted to pleasure. Every so often one finds that it is necessary to call the folks for the loot to support the coming weekend, but the summer usually find Joe College hard at work.

The one point that is really temporary about our present life is the amount of time alloted to the social endeavors. The energy and ingenuity of youth is on our side, and we can probably find more excuses for, and types of, parties than we will in another ten or fifteen years. With the coming of those listless spring days one thinks of a shade tree and a tall, cool glass before entering the late afternoon class. Here is where the flexibility of college life pays off for our benefit. Knowing that someone else will take the notes of the lecture, and that the same professor will be in the same room on some future day . . . off to the shady tree and cool stimulants.

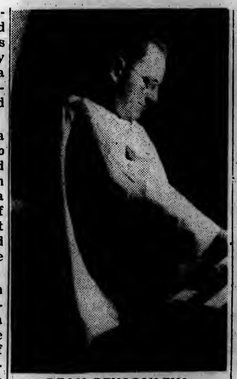
Some day in the future most of us will be shoulerding the normal responsiblities that are found in the married state, but now is the time that these thoughts are distant from many men on campus. These men are able to apply their present freedom in a most profitable manner. The social side of our life affords an opportunity most of us will have to forfeit sometime in the future . . . to explore the "aristocratic" havens which cater to the females who are living off their parents.

This is the period in life when both of these transient groups can get together and fully appreciate the great times and the hard work involved in living the artificial life that is college, so that they may fully enjoy seeing their children living in the style of the "French aristocracy" in the years to come.

Helped to Fill Embarrassing Campus Void: By JIM HEFFERNAN

Urban, Reuschlein Worked To Form Villanova Singers

Establishment of the Villanova Singers two years ago filled an embarrassing void on this campus. In the comparatively recent past — 1952-1953, as a matter of fact — two feeble singing organizations flickered and died.



The next fall found Villanova without a choir or glee club conductor, but several interested students, led by Conrad Urban of the Class of '56 and now a student at the University of Chicago Medical School, brought their problem to Dr. Harold Gill Reuschlein, Dean of the newly-formed Law School.

Dean Reuschlein brought with him to Villanova excellent qualifications as a choirmaster, a position he had held at the Church of Saint Bernard of Clairvaux in the Diocese of Pittsburgh. The temptation to keep active in choral work proved too much for him: he and the nucleus of faithful and enthusiastic boys rolled up their sleeves and set to work with the college choir, the Schola Cantorum.

This group made its first appearance at the Annual Faculty Dinner just prior to the Christmas vacation in 1953. The performance was a mild success, but it was at least a step in the right direction. At the close of the annual students' retreat the following spring the Schola made its second appearance, singing for the mass in liturgical vesture.

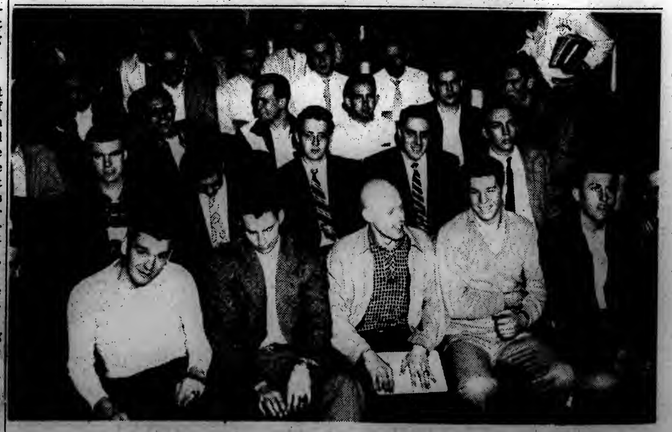
"Singers" Organized

At the end of the first year, the Dean took note of the difficulties in the way of fostering a singing group performing only the functions of a choir, of the absence of any student group dedicated to the singing of secular music and of the desire of the boys to sing both secular and sacred music. Accordingly, the Dean proposed to Father McLaughlin a plan whereby the old Schola Cantorum should henceforth act as both a choir and a glee club. To indicate the dualism of functions, a new name, "Villanova Singers," was proposed. The plan was approved and the Villanova Singers became a reality.

DEAN REUSCHLEIN

The new organization—sixty strong—made its first appearance at the Faculty Dinner in December 1954. They were received with tremendous enthusiasm and everyone knew that they had a really good singing organization well on its way.

Sing at Chapel



The Singers do a powerful lot of singing during the course of the academic year. They function as a choir for our evening Chapel service each week and do the High Masses incident to the solemn closing of the student retreat, the Mothers' Day Mass during Junior Week, the Senior Fathers' Day Mass, and for other occasions when a sung Mass is desired.

A good deal of secular music, college singing in the good tradition, has come to the Villanova campus and has radiated from the campus. Traditionally, the Singers open their concert season with familiar Christmas music at the Faculty Banquet. Later in the year there are the annual concerts with the neighboring girls' colleges: Rosemont, Immaculata and Chestnut Hill, and the yearly appearance with the University of Pennsylvania Glee Club at the Palestra.

Festival Novel Idea

This year the Singers have received invitations from parishes and alumni clubs to present concerts. The club was so well received by the South Jersey Alumni Club that it was invited back for the Basketball Banquet April 12.

The Collegiate Glee Club's festival, to be held this Saturday night, will mark the high point of the last few years for the Singers. It will be an event rarely attempted in college circles, bringing together so many glee clubs in one joint concert. And word around campus has it that, just like everything else the Singers have attempted, the Festival will assuredly be successful.

PKP pledges listen to instructions from pledge masters during the frat's initiation week.

Clark represents VU at PASCA Meeting

The Philadelphia Area Student Chemical Association will hold its last official meeting of the year on Friday in the Library of Commodore John Barry Hall.

This will mark the first meeting of the P.A.S.C.A. to be held at Villanova in several years. Villanova will be represented at this meeting by Joe Clark, junior chemistry major.

Election of next year's officers will take place and a site for the annual spring picnic will be determined. Final arrangements will also be made for a Meeting in Miniature on May 12 at the University of Pennsylvania.

The meeting will consist of presentation of student papers and talks by eminent men in the field of chemistry. A banquet will follow these afternoon activities.

READY FOR CHORAL FESTIVAL

The Villanova Singers, who will appear Saturday night at 8 with glee clubs from six other colleges in the first Choral Festival in the VillanovaField House. Tickets are $1.

And Still the Plot Remains Secret:

T'nT's 'Barbara Of Seville' To Open in Just Two Weeks

Two weeks from tonight, Wednesday, April 25, the Field House curtains will part, and Turf and Tinsel will unveil its 1956 presentation, "Barbara of Seville," inaugurating a five-night stand on the Villanova stage.

"Barbara of Seville," whose surprise plot is being kept tightly secret by the producers and cast, as far as can be ascertained, is a highly unusual Spanish presentation staged with many gala Spanish-American dances.

The singing leads this year are being filled by juniors Gene Donohue, with male lead, a Gypsy boy, and Don Mattingly, the female lead, "Jocinta," a Gypsy girl. Both singers are veterans of past T & T performances.

Mother and Father

Playing the "Mother" and the "Father" of the Gypsy girl, who is linked romantically with the Gypsy boy, are two more veterans, junior Bob Schiller and senior Bill Kelly, who is taking the place of junior Ed Shea who was forced to drop out of the show because of academic reasons.

Mal Didio, in his first year with T & T, will portray a comical, forlorn Arab peddler, while Paul Porecca, who shone in last year's presentation of "Jessica James" as the "Angel" will play the "Uncle" in this year's show.

The two four-year veterans of the organization, seniors Walt Doyle and Nick Rinaldi will portray the "Duena" and the "English Woman" respectively. Rinaldi is also the secretary of T & T.

Other parts of the cast are filled by Roy Zimmerman, senior class secretary, as the "Cousin," Andy Iacarrino, a Belle Masquer, as the "Director," Joe Redmond as the "English Man," and frosh footballer Dominic Chango.

Behind Closed Doors

The rehearsals are currently taking place behind closed doors in complete secret. Even the dancing chorus will not come in contact with the actual plot until a week before the actual opening.

The cast will be under the direction of Jack Kelly, a Villanova alumnus and director of numerous past Turf and Tinsel performances. The dancing chorus will be handled, as in the past, by George Heger Noake, and the music will be written in its entirety by Bob Whalen, Villanova's business manager of athletics. The script was again written by George Pequinot.

Villanova Named Testing Center For April 21 Law Test

Villanova University has been designated as a testing center for the nationwide administration of the Law School Admission Test April 21, Dean Harold Gill Reuschlein, announced today.

Depending upon the law school to which they wish to make application, college seniors, juniors, and in some instances sophomores are eligible to take the tests. Each applicant should find out as soon as possible from the law schools in which he is interested whether he should take the test and on what date. The Law School Admission Test is prepared and administered four times a year, in November, February, April and August by Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J.

Scores on the Law School admission test are used by many law schools throughout the United States along with previous scholastic record and other evidences of suitable personal characteristics, as a basis for admission of applicants.

N. B., ALL SPORTWRITERS - There will be an important meeting of the sports staff Thursday night at 7:30 in the VILLANOVAN office. Please be prompt unless otherwise excused by one of the sports editors.

To Be Held in Ben Franklin Hotel:

Junior Dinner Dance Ticket Sale Opens Tomorrow; Program Ready

Tickets for the May 5 Junior Dinner Dance will go on sale tomorrow, chairman Tom Hooker has announced. The dinner dance, which is the closing event of Junior Week, is being held in the Crystal Ballroom of Philadelphia's Benjamin Franklin Hotel. The sale of some 500 tickets is the final step in preparations which the Dinner Dance Committee began last May. All other arrangements have been completed—a roast turkey dinner will be served, some surprize entertainment has been secured, and a dinner combo and dance Orchestra, Leo Zollo, has been signed.

Tickets will go on sale tomorrow, at 10:30 a.m. in the Day Student Cafeteria of Dougherty Hall. From then, until Junior Week, tickets will be on sale in Dougherty Hall from 10:30 until 2:30 and in the evenings in ticket co-chairman Dick Mason's room (153 Sullivan).

Table Reservations

In a effort to facilitate the making of table reservations to conform with the seating plan offered by the Benjamin Franklin, Joe Martin and Mason, ticket chairmen, suggest that Juniors note the following points.

1. Tickets will be priced at $10 per couple. Five couples will occupy the circular tables during dinner.

2. From April 12 until April 20, only entire tables may be reserved. This must be done by paying the $50 required for each table—tables cannot be reserved unless the entire table is purchased. It is suggested that groups who desire to sit at the same table, pool their ticket money or purchase a block of tickets for one table. In this way, table reservations will be

(Continued on Page 11)

Junior Prom ticket chairman Jim McCormick, second from right, sells prom ticket to junior Joe Jenkins as other members of the committee look on. They are, left to right (front row): Bill Hatrick, and Mike Meehan; (back row) John McNeil, John Allen; Jim Holtzinger, Fred Howell, and Pat Briody.

Juniors Have Priority In Monday's Prom Ticket Sale

Sale of tickets for the May 4 Junior Prom moved into full swing yesterday, with juniors having priority until next Monday when sales will be opened to all students.

Ticket chairman Jim McCormick said the $6 per couple bids may be purchased from any of the members of his committee.

The Commanders will furnish music for dancing from 9 till 1 in the Field House for the formal affair.

Expecting 500 Couples

Junior Class officers, expecting some 500 couples, urge juniors to get their tickets before Monday. All Villanova students may attend the Prom.

Meanwhile, decorations committee work has started off slowly. Co-chairmen Den Rinkacs and Dick Cooke have asked all men who signed up to work on the committee to keep an eye on the Dougherty Hall bulletin board for notices of work sessions.

The chairmen have announced that the Prom theme will be kept under wraps until the night of the dance.

PKP To Install Officers At Saturday's Dinner Dance

Phi Kappa Pi, Villanova's engineering fraternity, will bid farewell to this year's officers and welcome incoming members at the fraternity's first annual dinner dance this Saturday night.

General chairman, Gary Moran announced that all arrangements have been completed and a record number of members will attend.

Last Day For Tickets

Tickets have been on sale since March, and Ticket Chairman John McNeil said that most members have already reserved tables. Ticket sale and table reservations close tonight for fraternity members. Tickets are priced at $5 per couple for members.

Ben Napier's Orchestra

The Dinner Dance is being held in Norristown at the Italian-American Club. The full-course turkey dinner will be served at 6:30, with dinner music provided by an instrumental combo. After dinner, music for dancing will be provided by Ben Napier and his orchestra. Novelty favors have been obtained by favors chairman Joe Corcoran, who promises that they will be well received by the young ladies present.

Honored guests at the Fraternity Dinner Dance will be Rev. George McLaughlin, Mr. J. Stanley Morehouse and Mrs. Morehouse, Mr. John Gallen and Mrs. Gallen, Mr. William Driscoll and Mrs. Driscoll.

Moran New Prexy

In brief ceremonies which will take place immediately after dinturn over the gavel to incoming president, Gary Moran, who was elected by the fraternity Monday. Incoming Pledges will be officially welcomed into the fraternity and graduating seniors will receive a gift from the fraternity at this time.

George Gorham

The dinner dance will mark the end of hell-week for some new members. Pledges have been performing tasks for their big brothers, as well as attending weekly meetings for several weeks prior to the dinner dance. With the dinner dance, this "hell-week" will officially close and the pledges will be accepted into Phi Kappa Pi.

Pledges will present their paddles at a final meeting tomorrow night. The ten best paddles will be entered in the annual paddle contest, with the winners being announced at the dinner dance.

J. Paul Sheedy* Was Up A Tree Till Wildroot Cream-Oil Gave Him Confidence

"Gorilla my dreams, I love you," said Sheedy outside his sweetie's window. But she was playing it cagey. "Get lost Gargantua," she said. "I've seen better heads on coconuts." Then Sheedy got wise to Wildroot Cream-Oil. Now he has confidence in his ape-earance because Wildroot keeps his hair handsome and healthy looking the way Nature intended... neat but not greasy. Contains heart of Lanolin, Nature's finest hair and scalp conditioner. So don't monkey around with messy hair. Get Wildroot Cream-Oil, America's largest selling hair tonic. In bottles or unbreakable tubes. It gives you confidence in any situation. Use Wildroot Cream-Oil every day and you Congo wrong.

 of 131 So. Harris Hill Rd., Williamsville, N. Y.*

Wildroot Cream-Oil gives you confidence

19 ENGINEERING GRADUATES 56

How KEARFOTT'S Training Program Works...

A "learning by doing" philosophy is basic at Kearfott. As an assistant Project Engineer, you are given assignments in several engineering laboratories to determine in which you can make your best contributions and find your greatest satisfaction. Under the guidance of senior engineers and specialists, each man takes his project through from inception to final production, thus acquiring a broad experience background. Success depends on individual initiative and resourcefulness.

KEARFOTT

is interviewing on your campus

Thursday, April 26

Make your appointment now with your College Placement Office

Kearfott is one of the country's foremost designers and producers of directional gyro compass systems... a recognized leader in the development of gyros, synchros and servomechanisms for industry and the armed forces, with increasing emphasis on the development of servo systems and components for the automation of industry. And Kearfott's roster of customers reads like a cross-section of American industry.

Young engineers at Kearfott have a bright future before them as the development of engineering talent is an integral part of the company's policy. Small-company flexibility backed by large-company stability and resources ...plus decentralization into 7 small autonomous plants provide for the young engineer an atmosphere conducive to rapid advancement. The salaries are high, and the benefit program liberal.

The location, too, provides advantages—in the suburban living in northern New Jersey, within easy reach of the cultural, educational and recreational facilities of New York City.

NOTE: If you cannot attend an interview on this day, please write for more information to Robert J. Sperl, Technical Placement Supervisor, Engineering Personnel Office.

Kearfott COMPANY, INCORPORATED

A Subsidiary of General Precision Equipment Corp.

1378 MAIN AVE., CLIFTON, NEW JERSEY

Sporting the traditional blond hair and blue eyes, Anne Jakubowski is a 20-year-old senior student nurse from Wilmington, Del. Leonard Bellanca, a civil engineer, gave these statistics with her picture: she's 5' 5", weights 120.

TV Celebrity Judge For Second Time:

Garry Moore To Choose Junior Queen; "More Than 100" Entries Submitted

Television star Garry Moore has agreed to choose the 16th Junior Week queen and the five young ladies who will make up her court.

Moore, master of ceremonies of the "I've Got a Secret" program and star of his own morning TV show, is taking over a familiar job. He did the judging in the 1954 Junior Week contest.

Joe Redmond, chairman of queen contest said the more than 100 pictures entered will be mailed to Moore tonight.

The queen and her court will be announced in the Junior Week issue of the VILLANOVAN, which will appear April 30. The royal court will be guests of the class at the Prom, when they will be crowned. The queen will attend all functions of the big social week as a guest of the Class of 1957. She will receive free hotel accomodations for the weekend, if from out-of-town.

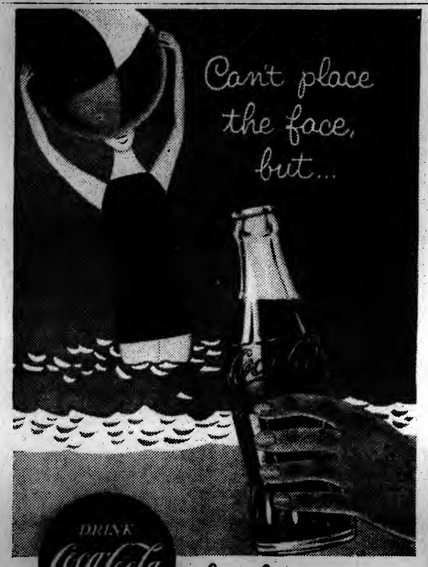
Scattered over this page are some of the entries which have been summited to the contest.

Thomasene Hayes, who combines 125 pounds with 5' 6", will be varsity football quarterback John Ferruolo's date. An X-Ray technician from Northwales, Pa., she's a blue-eyed brunette.

Auburn-tressed Simone Prendergast, a sophomore at Trinity College in Washington, stands 5' 2", weighs 120 pounds, flashes a pair of brown eyes. She was entered by Lee Carson.

Claire Ernst, a green-eyed blond from Bayonne, N. J., was entred by English major Vince Di Domenico, who's father is Mayor of Bayonne. Standing 5' 2", Claire weighs 108, has blond hair, green eyes.

Bobbie Tarella, 18, is a secretarial student from Fairlawn, N.J. She stands 5' 5", weighs 114, has brown eyes, dark blond hair and will be at the Prom with Daniel Conte.



Jerry Lee entered this picture of his fiancee, Carolyn Groff, 20-year-old bookkeeper in a Doylestown bank. She's 5' 4", weighs 110, has brown hair.

Charlie Jenkins, a hopeful for the Olympic track team, will be escorting Phyllis Randolph to the Prom. Phyllis, 19, is 5' 6", weighs 120, has brown eyes, black hair and is a secretary.

Another student nurse is Mary Elizabeth Moody, who was entered by Arts man Bill Reich. She's 5' 9", weighs 130, has brown hair, blue eyes, lives in Lynbrook, L. I.

... And familiar things are the best. Like Coca-Cola. Full of fresh, keen sparkle ... natural quick energy ... and it's so pure and wholesome—naturally friendly to your figure. Have it whenever you like.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY THE PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

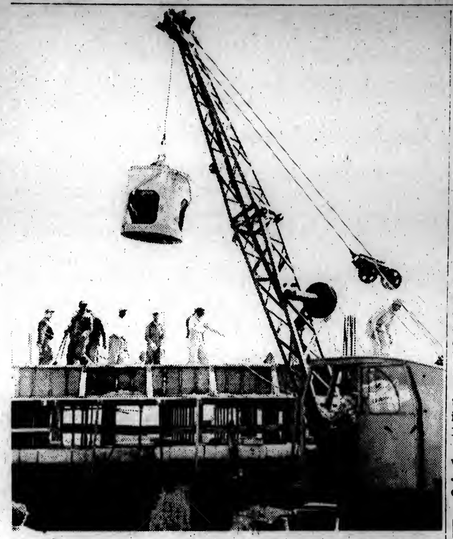
"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1956, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Mildred Moreno is a 20-year-old laboratory technician with blue-green eyes, reddish-brown hair. She stands 5' 8", weighs 125 pounds and was entered by Jack Shea.

A blond secretary from Gwinnurst, Del., Patricia McClelland will be Junior Weekending it with Pat Briody, of the Arts school. She's 18, stands 5'3, weights 110 pounds.

Karen James, a sophomore at Skidmore College, will be strolling around Junior Weekend events with John Skidmore Brown of the Arts school. She's 5' 5", weighs 123 pounds, has brown eyes and brown hair.



Joan Morell, a green-eyed blond, is a second-year nursing student at St. Luke's Hospital, New York City. She's 20, stands 5' 4", weighs 120, and was entered by civil engineer Fred (Ron) Howell.

Patricia Carr, a 19-year-old brunette with blue eyes, will be trying to win for civil engineer Con Gallagher. Weighing 110 pounds. Pat's 5' 3" tall.

Jackie Coderre, a Rosemont freshman, is a green-eyed brunette from Lawrenceville, N. J. She's 5' 4", weighs 120, is 19, will be with civil engineer Jim Schuster.

Workmen pour concrete on the construction of the new law school building, Gary Hall, as the structure begins to take form on the hill across the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks. The building is scheduled to be completed by September.

Nurses, Law School Graduates Receive Alumni Approval

Addition of divisions recognizing graduates of the Nursing Division and Law School to the General Alumni Association have been approved by the board of governors and will be voted on in June by the general association.

Alumnae and law school divisions would be set up, with each division having two representatives on the board of governors.

The action was taken at the board's third quarterly meeting March 18 in Dougherty Hall.

At the same session the board:

1. Considered a petition to extend from one to two years the terms of officers in the General Alumni Association and provide that the president may not succeed himself. These changes will also be considered on the June ballot.

2. President Joe DeLuca received George Harris' resignation as alumni secretary. Harris has been appointed chairman of the Department of Education. He was given a standing ovation by the more than 30 board members present.

3. Harris reported that the Alumni Foundation collected $25,414.49 during 1955 and that so far this year $1,873.26 had been collected.

John C. Kelly Appointed To Trustee Board

Mr. John C. Kelly, prominent New York City advertising executive, has been appointed to the Villanova University Board of Trustees, it was announced this week by the Very Rev. James A. Donnellon; O. S. A., university president.

President of the Kelly-Nason advertising firm in New York, Mr. Kelly succeeds the late William Simpson as a lay member of Villanova's seven-man governing body. The new trustee is a 1915 Arts graduate of Villanova and was awarded the honorary degree of doctor of laws by his alma mater in 1940.

An outstanding Catholic layman, Mr. Kelly received the Knighthood of St. Gregory and was made a Knight of Malta, and later a Knight of the Holy Sepulchre by Pope Pius XII.

A son, John, is a 1954 graduate of Villanova, and another son, Michael, is a member of the university's sophomore class. There are five childern and the family resides in Scarsdale, N. Y.

NO ASSEMBLY

The student assembly listed in the university handbook for tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 will not be held the VILLANOVAN learned Monday from the Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A. university vice - president. No further details were given.

Faculty-Students Tennis Matches Set For May 12

Warning to tennis-playing faculty members: Better get out the racquets and shorts and shoes and start working out.

The second annual faculty-student tennis tourney has been tentativevly scheduled for the second Saturday of May.

Faculty Lost in '55

Pete Quinn tournament director, said he hoped faculty members would begin working out right away. Last year, he said, the faculty could win but one of eight matches—mainly because they had not been playing much before the competion.

Quinn said he did not have the tourney date set but that it would probably be held May 12.

The only faculty member to win a match last year was Mr. James Mitchell of the English department.

NFCCS Congress At LaSalle Sunday

Senior Ed Fletcher heads the Villanova delagation to the annual NFCCS Regional Congress Sunday at LaSalle College.

The Congress will consist of panels and two plenary sessions at which the activities of the year will be reviewed as well as the election of officers conducted.

Jim Greenlee, Paul Donohue, John Coffey, and Frank Fleming will also attend.

Olympic Ball Fetes Wildcat Track Team

Villanova students will have a chance to honor the members of their track team tomorrow night at a dance to be held in the Broadwood Hotel.

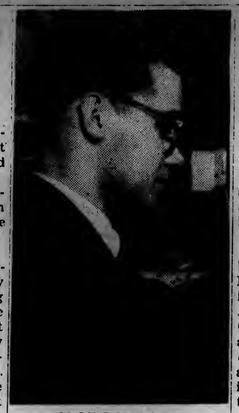
The dance, called the Olympic Ball, is sponcored by the students of St. Joseph's College for the purpose of raising funds to donate to America's Olympic athletes who will be sent to Australia this fall to compete in the Olympic Games.

Besides Villanova's track team, other outstanding local college athletes will be honored at the dance.

Buddy Williams To Play

Music will be provided by Buddy Williams' band, the same group which played at the Junior Prom last year.

Anyone wishing to attend the dance, which will be held from 9 til 1, may purchase tickets at the door.



Juniors Order Early . . .

Renting your formal is easy on the allowance

No need to make a big outlay for a big date! Renting formal wear is easy, it's convenient! Tux, dinner jacket—whatever you need is "cleaner-fresh", pressed to perfection, and fitted as though it were made just for you!

Campus Cleaners
Dougherty Hall

JACK DOWNING
Wins AIEE-IRE Award

Five Arts Seniors Named To Delta Epsilon Sigma

Five outstanding senior Arts students were added to the national honorary fraternity—Delta Epsilon Sigma—before the Easter vacation from a field of 12 candidates.

The dozen Arts students maintained a 3.00 average for six semesters and were required to submit a critique of Crain Brinton's "The Shaping of the Modern Mind" to a board of five judges consisting of Doctors McClain and McEnerney and Fathers McShea, Jenkins, and Sullivan.

Eight submitted reports, and the judges chose Francis Adams, Robert Farley, Wilfred Quinn, Charles Schwerdfeger, and John Sullivan.

Three Villanova E.E.'s Win Annual AIEE-IRE Award

"A Design for an Undergraduate Digital Computer" was the title of the prize paper chosen last Wednesday evening by Villanova's electrical engineering society, the A.I.E.E.—I.R.E., in its annual prize paper competition.

The winning entry, authored by Jack Downing, Jim McEowen and Mike Polgar, all senior E. E.'S, will be given at the A.I.E.E. District 2 Prize Paper Competition to be held this year at Carnegie Tech in Pittsburgh on April 27. The three authors and Professor John B. Clothier, the A.I.E.E. counselor, will travel to "the iron city."

Four papers were presented before the group for its selection, including "A Radio Controlled Model Helicopter," "Capacitance Control," and "Eddy Current Speed Control."

All four entries received a $5 award from the student branch, and the computer paper will receive an additional $10 prize at the Pittsburgh meeting.

Field Trip Tomorrow

The active electrical engineering society is holding its April Field trip tomorrow to the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia to watch the Institute's network analyzer in action. The group will leave from the Dynamo Lab in Mendel basement at 12:30 p.m.

Chairman Jack Downing announced that the branch's voting for next year's officers would take place this Friday. Ballots may be obtained in the A.I.E.E. office in the Dynamo Lab.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

PLAY THE RIGHT SPALDING BALL!

The new DOT® is made to give maximum distance for the long-hitting golfer. And its DURA-THIN® cover keeps the DOT uncut, unscuffed and perfectly round far longer. Priced at $14.75 a dozen, 3 for $3.75.

New tough Spalding TOP-FLITE® has an extra-strong cover that takes far more punishment than any ordinary ball . . . yet gives the maximum in long-distance performance. Priced at $14.75 a dozen, 3 for $3.75.

The popular-priced PAR-FLITE® gives an unbeatable combination of playability and durability. Its tough, resilient cover makes it an outstanding long-service ball. Priced at $11.40 a dozen, 3 for $2.85.

Spalding's economy-priced TRU-FLITE®, like all other popular Spalding golf balls, is made with True-Tension winding for a longer, more active game. TRU-FLITES are priced at $9.00 a dozen or 3 for $2.25.

*Trade-mark

Sold only through golf professionals.

SPALDING SETS THE PACE IN SPORTS

SPORTS CHATTER

From Chess To Wrestling

By JOE SLAVIN

From a humble, one-rom office in Alumni Hall originates one of the most extensive intramural programs of any college in the country. Under the capable direction of Ed Geisz, Villanova can boast of a top flight intramural program.

Some students complain of the lack of facilities for recreation here on campus. Such complaints are out of place when one considers the extensive opportunities which are offered. From early fall until time for spring final exams, the Intramural Department is busy planning, scheduling and supervising its programs.

Many complications beset director Geisz, last fall, after spending much time lining two football fields, the staff had to arrange schedules and obtain referees for the league. Since many of the teams consisted of students with late classes, provisions had to be made for a suitable time for games. As a result three leagues were formed, one in the morning and the others staggered throughout the afternoon. Thanks to the astute planning of Geisz, over 800 students participated in the touch football leagues.

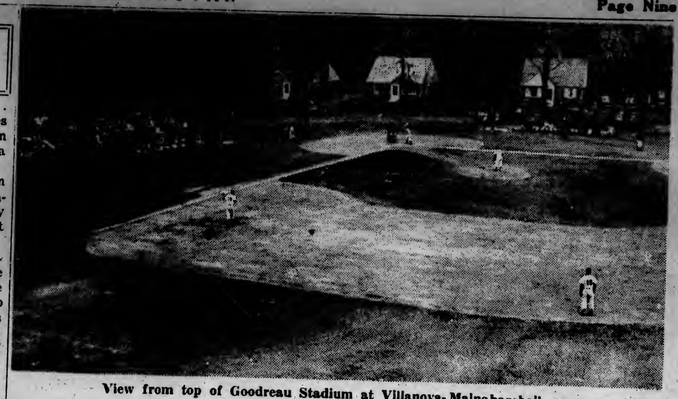
80 Teams In League

Shortly after the equipment was returned and awards given to the football champions, basketball season opened. A record of 80 teams entered the league and again the games were staggered throughout the day and evening to enable the day-hops to participate. At each game there was a referee plus equipment supplied by the department. The vastness of such a venture can be conceived by the fact that the league lasted from November until March.

In the past few weeks baseball diamonds had to be lined, and again more schedules planned. Six leagues playing on three fields will enable each of the 50 teams entered to participate.

A personal expression of appreciation should be extended to the Intramural Council. This group is made up of members of the student body who devote a great deal of their spare time to assisting Geisz. Without such students the intramural program would not be possible. They have been the referees, linesmen, umpires and judges and have been subject to the usual amount of discourtesy extended to athletic officials. For their work they receive no renumeration except the self-satisfaction that they have helped Villanova.

Sideline Spectator



An interested and ardent supporter of the Intramural Department is the Rev. John Dunne, who is its moderator. Throughout the year Father Dunne can be seen encouraging and assisting almost to a point of participation at each of the events. Father has been closely associated with the department since he began teaching at Villanova 23 years ago.

It is self-evident that the Intramural Department has kept abreast of the growth of Villanova. Last year over 3,500 participants engaged in one or more of the programs offered. It is expected that this year the number of participants will be greater yet. With such events as golf, wrestling, ping-pong, chess, volley ball, and track, to mention only a few of its 28 programs, it has appeal for every member of the student body.

Swimming Coach

Director Geisz also finds time to coach Villanova's swimming team. Ed was captain of the swimming team at LaSalle College and admits that it is still his favorite sport. Three years ago he was appointed coach of the revived sport and through his diligent coaching the squad finished this year with a boastful 8-2 record.

The success of the Intramural program is evidenced by the increasing student participation each year and directly responsible for its success is the moderator, director and the Intramural Council. A large vote of thanks from the student body should be accorded Father Dunne, Geisz and the Council.

View from top of Goodreau Stadium at Villanova-Maine baseball game.

(Photo by Sig Holtz)

Wildcats Defeat Maine For First Baseball Win

Lose Season's Opener To West Chester State Teachers

Jim Moran gets set to throw out the first pitch to officially open the intramural softball season.

Track Team Gains National Honors Under Jim Elliot

By JOHN CURTIN

The big attraction for Villanova sports enthusiasts the past year has been the track team, and definitely responsible for the success of Bragg, Delaney, Jenkins, and company is "Jumbo" Jim Elliot. Elliot has brought together and trained for Villanova a squad that is without precedence in the history of collegiate trackdom.

"Jumbo" was born here in Philadelphia 41 years ago. He attended West Catholic High School where he was a member of the track and basketball teams. In his senior year, the only year he went out for the track team, Elliot won the Catholic League Quarter Mile.

Track Captain at Villanova

Jim entered the Commerce and Finance division at Villanova upon his graduation from West, and became a member of the Wildcat track squad, running the quarter-mile, half-mile, and 600 during his college career. In 1934 he took third place in the first Princeton Invitation Quarter mile, and, one year later, as a senior, was chosen captain of the team. Still vivid in his memory are his best times in both the quarter and 600 which were 47.5 and 1:11.4 respectively.

Elliot graduated from Villa-

(Continued on Page 10)

Sophomore catcher Terry Hayes waits for pitch during game with the University of Maine Friday.

Golf Team Loses Opening Match To Haverford Squad

Villanova's varsity golf team lost its opening match, 6-3, to Haverford College last Wednesday at the Merion Club's west course. Playing in the number one slot, team captain Ben Klemanowicz, beaten only once in his college career, easily defeated Bob Schultz, 6 and 5. H. Stark Semans of Haverford outlasted sophomore John Suger, one up; while his teammate Marty Teem bested Jay Gibney, another promising soph, by 2 and 1.

Joe Green, playing number four for Haverford, beat Bob McElhaney, 6 and 5, and Jack Kelly, senior letterman, salvaged another win for Villanova by outlasting Jack Wilentz, one up. Hence, the final score was Haverford 6 Villanova 3.

Captain Posts 78

Ben Klemanowicz, playing well in the early season, posted a 78 for the day's best score. He was closely followed by Marty Teem, who carded a 79 for Haverford.

Due to inclement weather, the Villanova squad was unable to hold any tryouts or practice sessions prior to the meet. With Charley Stone, captain of last year's team which posted an impressive 8-2 record, declared ineligible by the N.C.A.A. because of his status as a veteran, there are only four returnees. They are Ben Klemanowicz, Bob McElhaney, Joe Gallagher, and Jack Kelly.

However, tryouts were held this past Saturday in an attempt to find new material. Everyone, except the captain, had to qualify for the team. Captain Klemanowicz expressed the hope for a good season, discarding the poor showing against Haverford. He believes the team will fare better after much needed practice.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Defeating the University of Maine 6-3 last Friday enabled Villanova University's baseball team to gain its first victory of the current campaign. The victory over Maine, following an 8-5 setback by West Chester State Teachers College two days earlier, evened the season's record at one win and one defeat.

Twelve hits sparked the attack on Maine as the Wildcats made their home opener a success. Single runs in the second and third innings coupled with two-run uprisings in both the seventh and eighth innings made it possible for Villanova to outlast a late spurt by the visitors.

Bob Scalzi, making his first start of the season, weakened toward the end but relief pitcher Dan Severino dashed any hopes of Maine.

A triple by shortstop John Donatucci and a sacrifice fly by Ron LaMontague folowed in the next inning by a home run by John DeGiallorenzo accounted for the first two runs.

DeGiallorenzo and Frank Cofone with three hits apiece and Sam Ferritti with two hits led the hitting assault by the Mainliners.

Lost to West Chester

Following two postponements, Villanova finally opened the baseball season at West Chester last Wednesday. A late, three-run drive in the last three innings fells short as the Wildcats fought an uphill battle.

West Chester scored two runs in the first inning and after Villanova crossed the plate twice in the top half of the third frame, tallied again to take a lead that they never relinquished.

Two Homeruns

Four Wildcat hurlers gave up nine hits and 14 walks to aid the Teachers, while the locals could collect only seven hits themselves, two of them being homeruns by Severino and Donatucci.

Significant in these two games was the play of the newcomers to the varsity, especially in the hitting department, despite the fact that three scheduled games against Colby, Vermont, and Fordham were cancelled due to the poor spring weather.

Weather Hampers Efforts Of Track Team In Relays

Despite inclement weather Villanova's track team won two crowns in the two-day, rain-marred Quantico Relays last weekend. Ron Delany and Charlie Jenkins continued their fine running to gain victories in the distance medley.

On Friday, Villanova was a poor third in the four-mile relay and failed to qualify for the finals in the 440-yd. relay. Delany was forced to start his anchor-leg in the four-mile 100 yards behind the pacesetter and decided it was not the occasion for an all-out effort, yet he ran a 4.25.2 mile which enabled him to finish third after starting in eighth position.

On Saturday, Villanova exerted its full efforts on the rain soaked track. Jenkins and Delany paced Villanova's medley distance team to win that event in 10:12.8. The biggest thrill of the two-day meet was provided by Jenkins who ran a blazing 47.8 anchor-quartermile that made up all but the final inch of a 30-yard deficit. Jenkins' performance was amazing as he ran in ankle-deep water with the additional handicap of a stiff cross wind. A last second lunge by Laird Sloan, of Michigan, nipped the effort of Jenkins by inches.

JOHN DIGIALLORENZO
His Homer Hurt

Delany Runs 4:12.2 Mile

Delany, Villanova's unbeaten Irish miler, passed up the open mile to aid his team in winning the distance medley. After Warner Heitmann's :53 quarter and Alex Breckenridge's :07.4 three quarters, Delany ran an 4:14.2 mile which was commendable considering the conditions. His final quarter of :52, over the rain-soaked track, equalled his fastest quarter of the indoor season.

Villanova's pole vault ace Don Bragg lived up to expectations to win his specialty. Bragg, who is making a habit of clearing 15 feet this year, had only to vault 14 feet to win the won with a jump of 6 feet 3 and event. High jumper Phil Reavis, who has cleared 6-10 indoors, had to be satisfied with third place with a jump of 6 feet 1 and ¾ inches. The event was won with a jump of 6 feet 1 and ¾ inches. The event was won with a jump of 6 feet 3 and ¾ inches.

Coach Jim Elliot kept his runners out of the University sprint medley on Friday because the race was run in heats. He feared that it would hinder Villanova's effort in other events the second day. Sprinter George Sydnor was withheld from the hundred for the same reason.

Filling Six Positions Is Big Problem For Coach Mahan

Unproven sophomores will be counted on to offset the varsity baseball team's lack of seasoned veterans as the Wildcats will attempt to improve on last year's record of fourteen wins and six losses during this season's twenty-seven-game schedule.

Ron LaMontagne, who starred at shortstop last year and is currently covering third base for the 'Cats, looms as the big threat in the hitting department. Last year LaMontagne led Villanova, batting at a .400 clip throughout the season.

Two Veteran Infielders

Tom Casey, one of two seniors on the team, at first, John DiGiallorenzo, another veteran from last year's squad, at second; and sophomore John Donatucci, at shortstop, round out the infield. Donatucci is a standout in the impressive crop of rookies.

Villanova's baseball game with Temple was postponed Monday because of wet grounds. The Athletic Department said the game would be played May 4 on the Temple Field.

The completely new outfield of sophomores Sam Ferritti, and Frank Cofone, and senior Ron Debiak patrol the fields from left to right. Two other new men, sophomores Terry Hayes and Hank Nichols are battling to see who will handle the catching chores for a top-flight pitching staff.

Returning Hurlers

Dan Severino led the hurlers last year with five wins, and with some expected strong support, should raise his total wins even higher during this year's campaign. Veterans Dick Black and Bob Scalzi, and promising sophomore southpaw Dave Scott will help in handling the pitching duties.

Wildcats Play Army Away Today; W. C. Return Game Fri.

With one victory in two starts under their belts the Villanova baseballers will try for three more victories this week, weather permitting.

This afternoon the Cats are at West Point to face the Black Knights from the Military Academy. Last year the Cadets turned back Villanova with a rally in the late innings. The Villanovnas hope that this year's young team and well-balanced pitching staff will be able to reverse the decision.

Friday Villanova will have a chance to reverse its only setback of the season when it meets West Chester State Teachers College nine on the Villanova diamond. Game time is 2:30 p.m.

West Chester thumped the Wildcats 8-5 last Wednesday.

Villanova was scheduled to square off against Temple Monday on the Temple Field. Temple brought a 1-1 record into the game. Both teams had been hampered by inclement weather which had cancelled three games for each club and cut down on batting and infield practice.

First baseman Tom Casey peers into the plate as Maine's first sacker sets himself for action.

Int'al Dept. Adds New Spring Sport

Last week the Villanova University Intramural Department announced that an intramural championship wrestling tournament will be held Thursday evening, April 12 at 7:30 p.m. in Alumni Gym.

The tournament will be open to all Villanova students and will be conducted on a weight basis. The various weight classes are: Heavyweight, 190 to 220 lbs.; Lightweight, 175 to 190 lbs; Middleweight, 160 to 175 lbs.; Welterweight, 150 to 160 lbs.; Lightweight, 130 to 150 lbs.; Featherweight, 120 to 130 lbs.

Five-Minute Matches

The five-minute matches will be conducted under collegiate rules with the winner being chosen by the judges if there is no pin during the match. Medals will be awarded to all class winners.

Spring Football Drills Open; 60 Answer Call

Villanova's football team opened spring football practice last Monday. Approximately 63 candidates reported to head coach Frank Reagan.

The first few practices will be taken up with exercises to round the squad into shape.

Freshman Candidates

Of particular interest this year will be the candidates from this year's undefeated freshmen. Several of the players showed particular promise during the season and are expected to offer much competition for varsity berths.

Coach Frank Reagan has been meeting for the past several weeks with assistant coaches: Otis Douglas, Joe Rogers, Dave DeFillipo, and Eddie Michaels. During these conferences plans formulated and strategy for next season planned.

Blue-White Day

After several practice sessions to round the players into shape for the spring practice were a full dress scrimmage will be staged on Father's Day (April 21). Spring practice will culminate with a game against the Villanova Old-Timers on May 5 the 5th Annual Blue-White Day.

1956 Spring Sports Schedule

The entire Spring Sports schedule for all Villanova athletic contests is printed below. For convenience, clip schedule out and keep it handy.

VARSITY BASEBALL
Apr. 13	West Chester	Home
Apr. 16	Seton Hall	Away
Apr. 18	Rutgers (So. Jersey)	Home
Apr. 20	St. Joseph's	Away
Apr. 21	Georgetown	Away
Apr. 25	Pennsylvania	Home
Apr. 27	P.M.C.	Away
Apr. 28	Ithaca	Home
Apr. 30	Temple	Home
May 2	Seton Hall	Home
May 5	LaSalle	Home
May 7	Pennsylvania	Away
May 9	Graterford	Away
May 11	Loyola	Away
May 12	Delaware	Away
May 14	Navy	Away
May 16	Penn State	Home
May 17	St. Joseph's	Home
May 19	La Salle	Away
May 23	Drexel	Home
VARSITY TRACK
Apr. 14	West Chester	Away
Apr. 20-21	New York Relays	Away
Apr. 27-28	Penn Relays	Away
May 5	St. Joseph's	Home
May 12	Georgetown	Home
May 15	La Salle	Away
May 25-26	LCAA Championships	Away
VARSITY GOLF
Apri 10	LaSalle	Home
Apr. 20	Temple	Home
Apr. 21	Penn-Penn State	Away
Apr. 23	St. Joseph's	Away
Apr. 25	Seton Hall	Away
May 3	Muhlenberg	Away
May 5	Old-Times	Home
May 9	La Salle	Away
May 11	Drexel	Home
May 18	St. Joseph's	Home

Jim Elliot

(Continued from Page 9)

nova in 1935 at the age of twenty and was named head track coach in 1936. He has been here ever since except for a four-year period from 1942 to 1946 when he served as a Lieutenant Commander in the United States Navy. While serving for Uncle Sam, he held several important posts. He was Executive Officer at Port Lyoutey in North Africa and the commanding officer of two French SPD squadrons at Cognac, France after the second invasion of Europe, to name just two.

Past Season His Greatest

After his discharge "Jumbo" returned to his work here at the university. Through hard work and the recruiting of many of the nation's finest high school stars, he has created many excellent teams, the greatest of which has astounded the sports world these past few months. His success is proved by the fact that several of his boys are acclaimed tops in their fields, and are given good chances for positions on the U.S. Olympic team.

Exhibiting his versatility, "Jumbo" also coaches the University golf team. Track, however, is his first love and in this he makes his finest showing. Jim Elliot and his boys are certainly worthy of the respect and admiration of a proud student body.

PKP

The presidency of the Phi Kappa Pi engineering fraternity will be taken over for next year by Gary Moran, senior-to-be mechanical engineer.

Other officers elected at last Monday's meeting were: John McNeil, junior M.E., vice-president, Tom O'Rourke senior E.E., Student Council representative, Charlie Boyle, Leo Rudegeair, and Frank Donahue, all sophomores, as treasurer, secretary and sergeant-at-arms respectively.

Intramural Loop

Sophomore catcher Norm Peer sets himself and junior Jack Kero swings bat in anticipation of pitch in the opening game of the intramural softball season on Mendel Field. Kero's team, behind the pitching of sophomore Pat Nicholson, emerged victorious.

Spanish Club Holds Yearly Dinner Dance at L.A.M.

The Villanova Spanish Club, under the direction of the Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O.S.A., has scheduled its annual dinner dance for the L.A.M. Club in Norristown Pa., Saturday night, April 21.

Dinner Dance Chairman Gene Donohue has announced that the dinner will begin at 7:30 and dancing to the music of the "Villanovans" will follow from 9 to 1.

Dr. F. X. Claro of the Spanish Consulate will be the guest of honor at the affair which honors the famous Spanish writer Cervantes.

Tickets for the dinner-dance are priced at $2.50 per person, and may be purchased from Father Lozano or any member of the Spanish Club.

At the last meeting of the Spanish Club, the new officers for the school year 1956-57 were elected. Mike Ford, a junior arts student from Philadelphia was elected president. Aiding him will be Joe Koman as vice-president, Bill Mahedy as secretary, and Bill Francis as treasurer.

MIKE FORD
New SC President

Judge Bolger Speaker For Fathers' Day

Judge Robert V. Bolger of Philadelphia Orphans Court will address the senior Fathers' Day banquet April 21 in the Dougherty Hall residents' dining room.

Fathers' Day Chairman Harry Nash made the announcement yesterday. He said that a class poll indicated that about 300 seniors would take part in the day's activities.

Judge Bolger, who is a member of the Villanova Deveolpment Foundation committee, serves as chairman of the citizenship committee of the American Bar Association.

Penn Graduate

A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and the Penn Law School, Judge Bolger gained national recognition in handing down the Girard College decision.

The orphans court which he presides over is one of the most distinguished courts in the nation. It handles wills and decedents estates.

HARRY NASH
Fathers' Day Chairman

Judge Bolger's address will climax a day which will begin with a 10 a.m. outdoor Mass, followed by a noon luncheon in Dougherty Hall residents' dining room.

Tickets, priced a $5, may be purchased from Senior Class officers, from Nick Mazzoni and Tom Meaney, class ticket chairmen or from Nash and his ticket committee.

A central ticket booth in the Dougherty Hall Pie Shoppe will be open all next week, Nash added.

Jr. Dance Tickets

(Continued from Page 6)

more quickly made and groups will be guaranteed of sitting together. A floor plan of the Crystal Ballroom will be available to those purchasing tables so that the exact location of the table is established. Tickets are sold for particular tables and bear numbers coresponding to the table selected.

3. After April 20 until ticket sales close Junior Week, individual tickets will be sold and tables assigned on a first-come first-served basis. Because of limitations on the number of tables available, and the desire to eliminate any crowding, after April 20 no guarantee of table parties can be made. Those purchasing tickets at this time will be assigned to tables which are vacant or partially vacant as they appear on the floor plan.

The committee stresses that ticket distribution and table reservations may be quickly and easily made if groups purchase entire tables.

ESSO RESEARCH works wonders with oil

Oil helps plastics bring a new note to modern living

New note in pleasure: non-breakable plastic records that you'll want to pamper—but don't really have to.

New note in easy housekeeping: beautiful plastic floors that resist dirt, wipe clean in a wink. Oil research leveloped an important chemical which contributes to the versatility of these plastics ....still another way in which ESSO RESEARCH works wonders with oil.

ESSO

Organization News . . . .

Physics Club

Professor William Driscoll head of the Physics Department and moderator of the Physics Club, will address the club tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. in the Physics Lab, 405 Mendel.

President Charles Schwerdtfeger invited everyone to see Professor Driscoll demonstrate the "Effects of Eddy Currents" with a development of the governing aquations.

Chem. Society

The Villanova Chemical Society, Villanova chapter of the American chemical society, will hold its third annual dinner-dance on Saturday night, at the Connestoga Mill.

Dinner-dance chairman Bob Fredericks has announced that the King's Men will furnish the music for the occasion.

Tickets are priced at $8.

DPM

Al Severance, Villanova varsity basketball coach, discussed the problem of juvenile delinquency and its possible cure with the brothers of Delta Pi Mu Fraternity last night.

Severance, a Villanova alumnus and member of the Arts school frat during his undergraduate days, is presently a magistrate in Tredyffrin Township. He lives in Berwyn.

Levenson

(Continued from Page 1)

are some who have already aided the Guild Fund. Approximately 5,000 people are expected to attend this year's star-studded show.

Besides Sam Levenson, The Four Aces, and Woody Herman's Orchestra the Augustinian Seminary Guild Show tonight will feature:

WOODY HERMAN
Variety Show Star

The Pickerts, unique and unusual stilt-dancers; Smith and Sayer, musical comedy singers; Les Cardinals, musical acrobatic trio; Ginny Stephens, singer on radio station WCAU; Lott and Joe Anders, dancing, unicycle, and juggling artists.

Opera-Classica

The Opera-Classica Club presents the recording of Flotow's "Martha" tonight at 7 p.m., in 208 C&F.

Originally "Die Zauberfloete" by Mozart had been scheduled, but moderator Mr. A. Angeline changed his plans and decided upon April 18 for the Mozart production.

The informal party also scheduled for this evening celebrating the first anniversary of O-C has been postponed.

Two weeks ago, 36 students and teachers attended the Metropolitan's twin bill of Britten-Rossini' "Soiree" and Donizetti's "Don Pasquale" and enjoyed it tremendously.

The highlight of the evening was an interview with Hilde Gueden who greeted O-C members with a warm welcome and with an autographed photo.

DPE

Delta Pi Epsilon's Commerce and Finance fraternity has named John Fusaro as Lou Donatelli's successor as the organization's president next year.

Other newly-elected officers are: Bernie Conroy, vice-president; Paul Seefried, secretary; Tony Tuzzo, treasure; and, Jack Dunne, student council representative.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Chem. Society Shows Off Labs At 'Magic Show'

Villanova Chemical Society, student affiliate chapter of the American Chemical Society, played host Friday night to a select group of 94 students from high schools on the Main Line and in Philadelphia at a Magic Show.

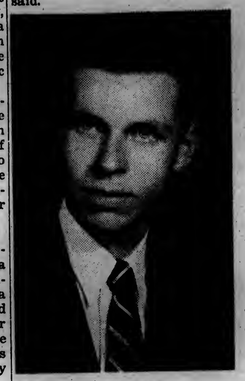
This was another of the progressive steps taken by the Society in cooperation with Villanova's Department of Chemistry, and was designed to encourage students to choose science, in general and chemistry, in particular as their career.

Showed Off Facilities

The Villanova Chemical Society felt that by reaching a select group of high school students and presenting for them a show of this type, they could make these students and their faculty advisors aware of the excellent facilities and courses available for the chemistry major at Villanova.

Burgess

(Continued from Page 3)



he must acquire in order to analyze business problems and reach good management decisions. Business education, however, will achieve these objectives. It will, moreover, give him the ability to analyze many problems of economic, social, ethical, and civil natures whose important relationships may not be so apparent on the surface.

Schleicher - Editor

(Continued from Page 1)

new staff will be organized to assist with the taking of senior portraits starting May 7.

Complete plans for senior portraits will be announced in a future VILLANOVAN, Schleicher said.

Richard J. Schleicher
New BELLE AIR Editor
(see story page 1)

A resident of Englewood, Cal., Schleicher has been associated with the VILLANOVAN ENGINEER, VILLANOVAN and the BELLE AIR staffs since his freshman year. He is a member of the drill and rifle teams and the Sanctuary Society.

Schleicher's father was a member of Villanova's Class of 1929.

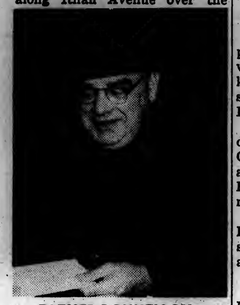
Villanovan

Vol. 31—No. 17 Villanova University, Villanova, Pa. April 18, 1956

8-Year-Old Structure to Be Relocated:

Architect's Plan To Move Belle Air Hall Might Avoid Saturday Classes

New C&F Building To Replace It



Whether eight-year-old Belle Air Hall can be moved to another campus location is the problem facing administration officials as they plan construction of a new Commerce and Finance Building and dormitory.

Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., university president, said that he is waiting for an architect's decision on the feasibility of moving the two-story classroom building.

No Saturday Classes?

If Belle Air can be moved and used for classes while the new classroom building is being constructed there is a good chance that Saturday classes will not be necessary next year, the Father President indicated.

Groundbreaking for the new classroom building—to be built along Ithan Avenue over the

FATHER DONNELLON
University President

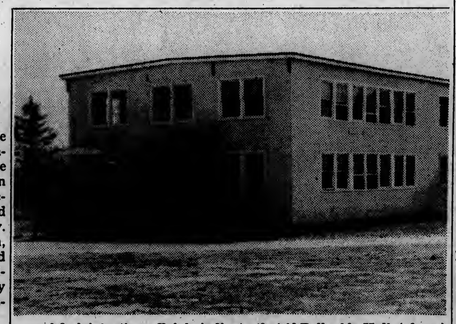
land where Bell Air stands is planned for "around the first of July," according to Father Donnellon.

Using Sullivan Plans

The dormitory, planned as a twin to Sullivan Hall, would house almost 420 students. Construction could be started about the first of June, explained the Father President, since plans used for Sullivan could be used with a few revisions.

But if Belle Air, set up in 1948 to alleviate crowded conditions after World War II, cannot be moved, other space would have to be utilized.

Other Possibilities



These possibilities for class locations were mentioned by Father President:

Renovation of the old Pie Shoppe.

Introduction of Saturday classes.

But Father Donnellon explained that these are still only in the suggestion stage and would

(Continued on Page 12)

Administration officials indicate that if Belle Air Hall (above) can be moved to another location for use while the new Commerce and Finance Building is under construction Saturday classes might not be needed next year.

Nash Completes Saturday's Program:

Fathers' Day Plans Set; Mass Cancelled If It Rains

A four-tiered entertainment program, water polo game and varsity football scrimmage will keep seniors and their fathers scurrying around during Fathers' Day this Saturday.

Activities open with an outdoor Mass at Our Mother of Good Counsel shrine at 10 a.m., and close with a banquet in Dougherty Hall residents' dining room at 6:45 p.m.

Judge Robert V. Bolger of the Philadelphia Orphans Court is scheduled to deliver the main address at the banquet.

Rain—No Mass

Fathers' Day chairman Harry Nash emphasized that the Mass will not be held, indoors or outdoors, if a heavy rain comes up.

In that case, the day's activities will begin with luncheon in the Dougherty Hall residents' dining room at 12:30 p.m.

Nash said the Mass cannot be celebrated if it rains because a wedding is scheduled for the Chapel and an altar could not be set up in the Field House in time.

Not Only Dads

Some 300 seniors and their dads—or uncles, godfathers or older male friends if their fathers are unable to attend—are expected to participate.

Performing in the entertainment program will be the Villanova Singers—who will also sing the outdoor Mass; the Villanovans, Turf and Tinsel Society and the Mainliners. Mike Potenza will be master of ceremonies.

Nash said the entertainment program will start about 3 p.m. after seniors and their guests have had a look at the varsity football scrimmage, scheduled for 2 o'clock. Following that is

(Continued on Page 11)

Fathers' Day

Here's a thumbnail sketch of Fathers' Day this Saturday:

10 a.m.—Outdoor Mass
12:30 p.m.—Luncheon (Dougherty Hall)
2—Football Scrimmage (Stadium)
2:30—Water Polo game (Field House Pool)
3—Entertainment (Field (Field House)
6:45—Banquet (Dougherty Hall)

Nominations For Class Offices To Be Held Next Week

Approval By Authorities Necessary

By BILL CHRISTY

Nominations for officers of all classes will be held Thursday, April 26 at 10:30 a.m. No other meetings are scheduled at that time.

The Class of 1957 will meet in 207 C&F. From 631 students the class will select candidates for president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, alumni representative and six Student Council representatives. Council representatives will be divided between dayhops and residents and among each division (C & F, Engineering and Arts and Sciences).

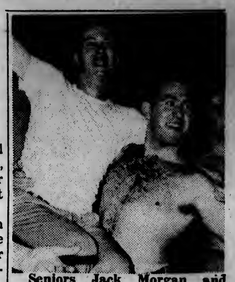
Sophs in C&F

The present sophomores will assemble in C&F Auditorium to nominate from their class of 759, candidates for president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and Student Council posts.

From 994 eligible students, the freshmen will select nominees for the four major offices and two Student Council representatives, a day hop and a resident. Two Council representatives, Al Sheppard and Don Kempf, were elected in February and will serve until the end of their sophomore year.

Subject to Approval

Rev. George McLaughlin, O.S.A., dean of student activities, reminds students that all nominees are subject to approval of the administration on the grounds of their chapel, academic and disciplinary records.



Nominees may not run if they hold offices in campus organizations and by Student Council rule, may seek only the office for which they were nominated, Father McLaughlin stressed.

Elections will be held Wednesday, May 9 from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. in Alumni Gym.

Election Ground Rules

Campaigning restrictions include, according to Father McLaughlin: no campaigning until Friday, May 4; no signs posted anywhere except on regular bulletin boards; no signs

(Continued on Page 12)

Seniors Jack Morgan and Mike Russo, members of T 'n T's "Barbara of Seville" dancing chorus, castinets in hand, rehearse for next Wednesday's opening in the Field House.

Turf and Tinsel Show Opens One Week From Today

With a plot still secretly guarded and known only to the cast and to the directors, Villanova's Turf and Tinsel society will open the curtains on its 1956 musical comedy production "Barbara of Seville" just one week from tonight, Wednesday April 25 in the university Field House.

Resounding from the stage of the heavily curtained auditorium will be the words and music of a festive Latin-American mix-up between a down trodden, washed up bull fighter, his amorous daughter and her handsome Gypsy lover, and hordes of gaily decorated, dancing Latin lovelies, with a bedraggled, forlorn Arab peddler thrown in on the side.

Ends on Mothers' Day

This mad-cap comedy, sprinkled with original musical ballads, tender romance of sorts and a big black cavorting bull will play for five days, terminating with a Mothers' Day Eve show Sunday April 29.

Featured in the singing leads of this merry musical will be two juniors, Gene Donohue with the male lead of the romantic Gypsy boy and Don Mattingly as "Joc-

(Continued on Page 11)

Accompanied by Ass't. General Father Doyle:

Father Eberhard, Prior General Of All Augustinians, Visits Villanova

Most Rev. Engelbert G. Eberhard, O. S. A., Prior General of the Order of St. Augustine, arrived in the United States from Rome yesterday for an extended visit of Augustinian Communities in this country, Canada, and Cuba.

Father Eberhard, accompanied by the Very Rev. Lawrence A. Doyle, O.S.A., Assistant General for English speaking countries, was scheduled to arrive in New York by air yesterday and come directly to the Augustinian Monastery at Villanova. The two were met by the Very Rev. Henry E. Greenlee, O.S.A., and other officials of the Order.

Succeeds Fr. Hickey

A native German, Father E-

FATHER EBERHARD

berhard succeeded the late Most Rev. Joseph A. Hickey, O.S.A., as Prior General in 1953. This is his second trip to America since being elevated to the Generalship. Father Eberhard served as a member of the University's faculty in 1925.

During his visit, he will be awarded an Honorary Degree by the University at graduation exercises in June.

The Head of the Augustinian Order will preside at the Provincial Chapter meeting of the Eastern Province with headquarters at Villanova, in June and in July will preside over similar meetings in Chicago, headquarters of the Midwestern Province.

Guest Editorial

Editor's Note: The following editorial is reprinted from The Gleaner, the newspaper of Nazareth College, an all-girl's school in Rochester, N. Y.

A popular custom among the teen-age and young unmarried adult set of this era is that of dating. This tradition built up from the formal courting of past periods has been so enlarged in a casual, indefinable way, that its boundaries extend even into the grammar school age groups.

Consequently, this social custom has now reached annoying and exaggerated proportions, absorbing a great deal of everyday effort, energy, time and money. Not only must young ladies spend all their available currency on clothing to attract and please the eye of eligible males, but they must also squander their time on primping for said creatures, and their thoughts on how to formulate or retain the attention of certain members of the opposite gender.

Then too, nights they might wish to invest in the furtherings of knowledge in certain subjects, that is, those which are open to quizzings in the next few days must be flittered away in dull, unladylike atmospheres in the hope that perhaps chance acquaintance might be struck up or developed to an extent that a "date" will be made for the following Saturday night.

All this is due to the simple factor that people are classified, regarded and respected according to their respective date life. This unstable measurement can only become a source of pain, depression, bitterness and inferiority complexes. It is, moreover, unnecessary and a simple solution can be obtained. Merely isolate the male from the female homo sapiens. When an age pertinent to marraige is reached, a suitable and satisfying union can be arranged through the prowess of disinterested parties by the matching of names, as in blind date lists for dances. This will not only eliminate the anxiety of adolescence but allow young people greater freedom in intellectual pursuits.

Let's abolish dating!

The VILLANOVAN'S editors welcome letters from readers on campus topics, or in answer to feature columns. Letters should be concise and must be signed. Pen names will be used on request.

Villanovan

Villanova University Villanova Pa.

Thomas E. Smith
Editor-in-Chief

Bob Strayton . . . . . Managing Editor
Bill Jones . . . . . Feature Editor
Joe De Grazia . . . . . Business Manager
Joe Slavin . . . . . Sports Editors
Bob Mulcahy
Jack Downing . . . . . Copy Editors
Frank Delany . . . . . News Editor
Sig Holtz, ... Photography Editors
Joe Ezerski
Phil Seefried . . . . Cartoon Editor
Nick Fedone . . . . Circulation Manager
Bill Brown

Faculty Moderator
Rev. Louis A. Rengione, O. S.A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Scholar, Gentleman, Athlete.

LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1928 under the act of March 3, 1879.
MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE PRESS ASSOCIATION

CAMPUS LIFE BY CARTOON

CAMPUS COMMENT

Outlooks of the Editor

ON CINDERELLA'S NEWSPAPER OFFICE

Putting out a college newspaper is a lengthy and sometimes tedious undertaking.

When the paper appears on campus Wednesday morning, work on the following issue is already in full swing. By Thursday night, and no later, almost the entire edition must be in the hands of the printer.

Any substantial amount of late copy turned in later than Thursday night makes it increasingly impossible for printer to meet the paper's Monday afternoon deadline. When the printer, deluged with this late copy, is forced to overrun this Monday afternoon deadline the work of final preparation for publication runs far into the wee and not so wee hours of Tuesday morning. As a result, there is no paper on the Villanova campus until late Wednesday afternoon.

It is particularly clear, therefore, that 90 per cent of the copy work and all the make-up must be completely finished Thursday night. No other alternative presents itself.

To do this work the VILLANOVAN is provided with a new fairy tale office in Dougherty Hall. And a fairy tale office it must be, for like Cinderella's famous carriage, it turns into a pumpkin at midnight. Varying a bit from the script, the coachman appears as a benevolent blue-coated security officer, gently hinting that the staff get out of his coach, or out of his pumpkin as the case may be.

So there is the VILLANOVAN staff perched atop Dougherty's steps at 12:01 a.m. with a university paper to put out and no place to do it in, and certainly no prince charming to come to the rescue. This must be a situation which exists no where else in the country.

Here are the facts. All Dougherty's doors are firmly locked at 11 p.m. by the officer in charge. This officer must remain in the building all night, whether the staff stays or goes. They have no bearing on either his remaining or his leaving. Still they are swiftly ejected at midnight with approximately two hours work remaining to be done on the VILLANOVAN in order to produce the kind of paper that the students, faculty and administration expect.

The question is, "What possible evil can be connected with a handful of editors remaining in what is allegedly their own office for approximately two extra hours in an effort to turn out a top notch paper?"

The answer appears to be "Nothing at all." Still, every Thursday night as the clock tolls twelve, the man in the blue flannel suit is faithfully on hand to evict the staff from his apparently private mansion.

The VILLANOVAN is still trying to get the situation cleared up, but until something is actually done to alleviate the present conditions it is requested of the heads of all student organizations that all news be submitted to any of the editors by Wednesday night. This procedure would make the after midnight work of the itinerant staff much easier.

In this way the conditions can be improved, but not until VILLANOVAN is once again given an unmolested office that was alwavs afforded it in the past and has only recently been rescinded, can the paper begin to function in a professional manner once again.

A STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

The progress which Villanova University has been making in the past few years was exemplified last Saturday night in the Field House with the presentation of the Choral Festival. The Festival, which is the first of its type in the Philadelphia area, brought together the glee clubs of seven different eastern colleges for an entertaining evening of choral presentations.

More than that, it established a precedent which might be followed to excellent advantage in future years. The idea of intercollegiate glee club festivals is not by any means a new one; it had been employed with gratifying results in many areas of the country. In the East, however, there has been a general feeling of apathy towards such an undertaking.

It took the extended efforts of Dean Reuschlein and several members of the Villanova Singers, particularly president Bob Ford, to restore interest in combined choral singing, and Saturday's successful endeavor was the product of their labors. Ulteriorly, the Choral Festival was just another evening's entertainment; interiorly, it was much more than that.

Villanova has its sights set upon being a "big-time" university. By sponsoring innovations such as the Choral Festival, the chool is achieving its goal.

Choral Festival, the school is achieving its goal.

Congratulations to Mr. Reuschlein, the Villanova Singers, and Villanova University for a significant step in the right direction.

Peering . . .

With Dick Peer

. . . Into the spacious Dougherty Hall dining rom last week. I've noticed that the clocks at either end read two hours apart. The official explanation was time zones. Set your watches accordingly when passing through. This situation has since been remedied because the time zones are gone. Keep a close check though, you can never tell when they might return.

. . . At last week's anouncement that Gary Moore wil select this year's Rose of Rittenhouse Square—better known as our Junior Queen. Let's hope that he doesn't prove just how good a comedian he really is. Rumor has it that King Farouk was originally contacted but declined.

PEER

. . . Over Rosemont way. It has come to my attention that a blind date bureau has been set up at poolside. (Reference: Junior Prom, 28 April.) Put your applications in early gentlemen, hardly any "suntanned beautics" left. It is interesting to note that the Bryn Mawr appliance stores report sun lamp sales booming. Yes sir, Hurry, Hurry!

. . . At the row of pine trees recently planted in front of the Stadium. Speculation as to what they are for has abounded. Perhaps since a new stadium is not in the offing, they're just going to slowly cover up the old one.

. . . Around campus. I've noticed that it's been over a week now since there's been any trace of snow. Perhaps spring has actually come to Delaware Valley, U. S. A! Most of the Main Line birds are back from Florida, and I've even heard a few positive statements from the feathered variety.

Reader Speaks

Variety Show Thanks

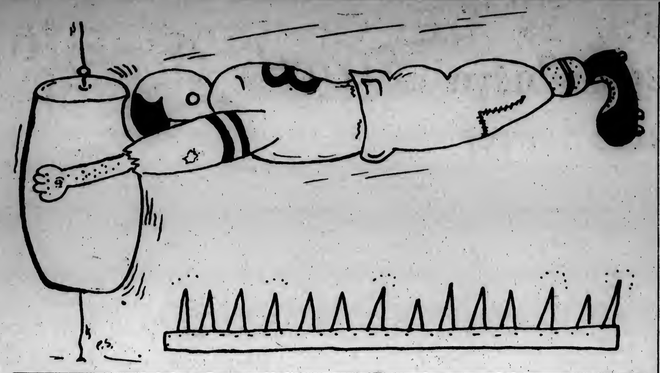
To the Editor:

Through your paper I wish to express my gratitude to many in the University who helped make the Variety Show such a success. I am grateful to:

(a) those on the staff of the VILLANOVAN for publicity given the show

(b) young women and men who ushered so well.

(c) various people in the Library, Information Booth, Chaplain's Office and Student Union Building who handled tickets



(d) men in charge of the local radio station who had me on the eve of the show

(e) magnificient backing we had from all in the Public Information office

(f) students who purchased tickets and added so much to the genuine enthusiasm of our crowd

There was, though, one unhappy note for which I alone was responsible. I regret the complete memory lapse I experienced after promising to make announcements

(Continued on Page 8)

Another Success For Guild:

Four Aces, DeJohn Sisters, Others Sparkle In Star-Packed Program

By FRANK DELANY

Star nudged star last Wednesday night for top honors in the Augustinian Seminary Guild's sixth annual Variety Show, produced to assist in the education of 200 young men for the holy priesthood in the Augustinain Order. And fast behind such stars as Woody Herman, the Four Aces, Sam Levenson and the DeJohn Sisters were top-flight supporting acts from every phase of show business in a well-paced, excellently produced show that made one wish that vaudeville hadn't died.

The Four Aces demonstrated that they were top showmen as well as top singers. With precision gestures and personality plus, the Aces went through a repertoire of their many hits of the past several years which read like a compiled Hit Parade list, ranging from the snappy "Perfidia" to the smooth and sweet "Love is a Many Splendored Thing". Their audience-pleasing harmony was heard to good effect on such other varied numbers as "Honey in the Horn," "Heart of My Heart", "Tell Me Why" and "Three Coins in the Fountain". The in-between numbers banter of Al Alberts, especially the introduction of the rest of the group, completely won over the audience. It is a tribute to the unique vocal talent of the Aces that they could do a whole act of so many songs widely known and loved through their own efforts.

Herman and Herd

Woody Herman and his Third Herd, hailed by top magazines such as "Time" as the band that brought back dancing, showed that it was a mighty good band for listening also with its distinctive, modern arrangements of such Herman hits as "Woodchopper's Ball".

America's foremost contemporary humorist, Sam Levenson, kept the huge Field House audience in almost continuous gales of laughter from the time he stepped out on stage to his exit over half an hour later. In his own disarming style, Sam delivered a monologue on kids and parenthood, poking fun and directing some deadly satirical anecdotes at his own family and childhood and the theories of modern child psychology. Whether in the currently popular "be a pal" idiom, Junior is taking Dad to the zoo, or wearing pop out in the style of the good old days by getting into mischief faster than Papa could slam him one for it, Levenson derives his humor from the tyranny of the children which is the curse and the joy of all family life. It's easy to picture jolly Sam as the willing victim of his own children's pranks and wants. When Sam says that his kid is the same little louse that he was, he says it with a smile. After two wildly successful appearances in an A.S.G. Variety Show, Sam is fast becoming an institution in these parts.

DeJohns Surprise

One of the most exciting acts of the whole evening, perhaps because it was such a complete and pleasant surprise, was the appearance of the DeJohn Sisters of recording renown. The two girls know their way around the audience funnybone as well as a recording. With zany and amusing patter and an arousing singing delivery they made the most out of sister Dux's size and personality and of their recording hits, "Hot Chocolata" and "My Baby Don't Love Me No More".

(Continued on Page 8)

A FIRST FOR THE CHORAL FESTIVAL

The Villanova Singers perform for the estimated 700 persons gathered in the Field House for the first area Choral Festival, which also featured glee clubs from Penn, Temple, St. Joseph's, Immaculata, Rosemont and St. Peter's (Jersey City). Dancing to the music of the Commoderes followed the festival.

Mid-East Problem Offers Supreme Challenge To UN

By GENE DONOHUE

In the year 1949, a conference comprised of the representatives of China, Russia, the United Kingdom and the United States met at Dumbarton Oaks in Washington D.C. for exploratory conversations concerning a world organization.

From that humble beginning, through the San Francisco Conference the following year where the organization was actually cemented together, through various political disputes and right down to the "Korean Police Action," the United Nations has managed to stay alive. Until the present day, Korea was the extreme test of the effectiveness of the U. N. But right now, it faces a problem much larger than Korea; it faces a crisis that has its roots directly in Article 1 of the United Nations' Charter, —the prevention of war.

The United Nations was founded with the chief purpose of stopping wars before they are given a chance to start. So far it has not had any really adequate chance to act in this capacity, as the Korean war had already begun before it stepped in. No one, however, denies that the U.N. finally did show its strength of convictions in Korea with its system of collective security, even though war did actually take place.

In the Middle East, however, the U.N. will meet the supreme test of its charter. Secretary Dag Hammarskjold is right in the center of the difficulties trying to get the Arabs and Israelis to agree on at least two points of the following four.

Four Main Points

1. Creation of a demilitarized "no man's land" one kilometer (0.621 miles) wide along the entire 595 mile frontier separating Isreal from Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon.

2. Reduction of armed forces on both sides facing the international frontiers to the maxium defined in the 1949 armistice agreement.

DONOHUE

3. Marking the lines between Isreal and her Arab neighbors.

4. Getting both Arabs and Israelis to agree to complete freedom of movement for U.N. observers and some increases in strength of the thinly spread truce terms.

According to INS experts who wish to remain anonymous, at least the first two points must be agreed upon in order to avoid an all out conflict. Finally, after what appeared to be months of indecision on the part of the United States, the President has plegded U.S. aid in accordance with its responsibilities under the U.N. Charter. Ike remarked, "The United States will observe its commitments within constitutional means to oppose any agression in the area." Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has wisely agreed to let the U.N. determine the agressor.

U.S. Backs U.N.

With the United States backing the United Nations, we can only hope that this industrial and military machine of ours, combined with the backing of other nations and the remember-

(Continued on Page 6)

Students Take Note: Prof. Solves Monetary Problem

By FRANK DELANY

Every university student at some time or another finds himself in want, if not in need of some ready cash and must look around for some legitimate means of procuring it when letters home start falling on deaf ears.

Now some, when faced with this predicament, caddy, others tutor and still others sell a pint or two of blood. There are many more of the usual ways of obtaining money that could be enumerated, but that's just it! They're all ordinary.

A New Solution?

Looking for a new solution to an old problem, a former undergrad who by virtue of his present position on the Villanova faculty deserves a hearing, was asked how he met the situation.

"It was easy," he said, "I just bought a new deck of cards each semester." Knowing that the monetary advantages of playing poker are often dubious, we asked him what his secret was. He then proceeded to outline his foolproof system of playing and winning at cards.

Not A Gambler

The important point is that this student was not a gambler. For him poker was strictly a game of skill with none of the angles left to chance. Note that we said for him it was skill. On this is based his first and most important rule for the prospective card player. If the cards don't talk to you, then don't play cards!

By the cards talking to you, he means that the relationships between the cards are apparent to you and that betting is done on the basis of scientific calculations of probabilities, and not on hunches. If this sounds complicated, it is. Unless you are a natural born card shark, you almost need a college education to play this kind of poker.

Another Aspect

Besides reading the cards there is another aspect to this scientific card playing—the psychological aspect. This is the ability to read people, to understand their expressions and gestures. For example, there are the following types our instructor has run in to: the person who gets more nervous as the stakes increase, the person who is certain of the strength of his cards and therefore doesn't bother to look at them, the person who assumes a peculiar mannerism as he acquires a strong hand (such as the hand on chin type) and the person who always fingers the cards nervously before raising.

This student demonstrated the validity of his theories of skill and misfortune of a friend. This friend decided to play him on the theory that by doubling the pot on each hand he was bound to come out ahead for the evening, for according to all the rules of chance he had to win at least once during the evening.

(Continued on Page 11)

Collaborated On Play with F. Scott Fitzgerald:

Comedian Garry Moore, Queen Judge, Preferred Writing To Radio Carrer

By DARRYL DITENFEST

The Class of 1957 Junior Queen contest will be judged by one of television's most humorous comedian's, crew-cut Garry Moore. Moore, who appears to millions of Americans daily on his coast-to-coast "Garry Moore Show", has had past experience in judging the bevy of Villanova's Junior Queen beauties. He selected the Queen for the Class of 1955.

Moore, who achieved national popularity as the master of ceremonies for the "Take it or Leave It" quiz program, got an odd start as a comedian.

Wanted To Be Writer

When he left high school in his home town of Baltimore, Moore desired to be a professional writer. At one time he collaborated on an unpublished play with the late F. Scott Fitzgerald. Later, he became a continuity writer for radio station WBAL in Baltimore.

Moore was quite satified with his ocupation, and had no desire at all to be a comedian. His glib-tongued satire, however, was noticed by the station managers, and one day, when the regular comedian failed to appear for his show, Moore was sent in as a last-minute substitute. His adlibbing humor was such an immediate success that WBAL executives decided to use him as a full time announcer.

GARRY MOORE
Judging Queen Hopefuls

On St. Louis Station

Although he wasn't in the least interested in being a comic, Moore took advantage of the break he got in radio, and in 1938 went to St. Louis, where he took a job as an announcer and sportscaster for station KBK. His inherent humor did not go unnoticed for long, however, and Moore once again was tickling the public's "funny bone."

The St. Louis audience was so responsive to Moore's genial wit that several writers called him the "funniest feller on the air."

Went to Chicago

Accepting his fate, Moore went to Chicago as a professional comedian, and in 1939 landed a job as comedian and script writer with the "Club Matinee" show.

In 1942, after running a contest to change his name to the present appellation, Garry Moore, he came to New York and took over the "Everything Goes" morning show. Eventually, he teamed with Jimmy Durante on the "Comedy Caravan" show on CBS, where he remained until 1947.

Emceed "Take It Or Leave It"

Moore rose rapidly after that time. He emceed the "Take or Leave It" quiz show, where he was tremendously received. Then, in 1949, he was assigned to CBS's top morning show, "Breakfast in Hollywood."

With the advent of television, Moore did several half-hour shows, and finally landed where he is now, on a national hook-up with his "Garry Moore Show."

Moore lives in upstate New York with his wife, Eleanor, and two sons, Mason, 16, and Garry Jr., 12.

Gail Lawlor is psychology major Hugh Davis' entry. She has black hair, blue eyes, stands 5'4", weighs 114.

A fourth grade teacher, Peggy Canning, was entered by chemistry major Joe Clark. She's 18, weighs 122, is 5'6", has brown hair, dark brown eyes.

From Vermont comes mechanical engineer Jim McCormick's entry — blonde Dolores Enstrom. She's 19, stands 5'4" and has blue eyes.

Blue-eyed blonde Eileen Moss is 19, weighs 120, stands 5'3". Electrical engineer Pat Gallagher submitted her picture.

Another blue-eye blonde, Monica Smith, will be at the Prom with civil engineer Bill Dawson. She's 19, weighs 118, stands 5'4".

Nancy Novicky, 18-year-old green-eyed brunette, will be John Allen's Junior Weekend date. She's 5'5", weighs 125.

Strictly Opinion

By DON ALTON

Just about this time of the year Villanovans are found in a variety of stages of panic. First and foremost on the list is the class of students, considerable in size on campus into whose hearts my next sentence will strike with devistating force. You are aware of the fact that your first final examination may be as close as twenty-one school days away! We assume that this column has just lost a few readers who will now classify this attempt as a tool of the administration employed to stimulate study on campus. Fear not fellow Villanovans! As soon as we finish this copy we will follow the suggested remedy for this situation. We will spend two entire minutes of our good day to worry about the impending crisis. This is but one of the choice problems on campus

Winterized Spare Tires

Pity is on tap in all of the dorms for the gentlemen of the social circle who have emerged from the Winter season with hope of Spring days for exercise. These contented Villanovans have cultured a slight spare tire and evidence a shortage of breath upon their arrival at the levels of classes and rooms above the first floor. All the members of this group have discovered, to their chagrin, that there is no Spring this year! Many have taken this in the proper spirit . . . how much can one expand in an abbreviated picnic (as my C&F roomie spells it on his carefully marked calender . . . "pinic" . . . season? These brave lads have launched the party season with a new idea in mind. There should be an appropriate prize for the party member . . . no Pink tint please . . . who attains the record bulge by the end of the season's festivities. We would suggest a guest card for one of the favorite pubs.

ALTON

Busy Spring Socialites

Then we find the socialite who has accepted invitations to all of the Spring . . . and I use this word with one eye on the "Farmer's Almanac" . . . proms from Rosemont to Manhattanville and back to Slippery Rock State Teacher's College. This poor bird will be changing into an abbreviated form of the middle age executive with too many appointments to meet. We trust that this man will take true Villanova attitude, and cut a few of his classes on Monday and Friday for travel time.

The Ever Elusive Buck

One of the pressing problems around here in the Spring seems to center on the inefficiency of the government in Washington. Just where did the Income Tax bureau put those W-2 forms that were turned in last January There are always those who have borrowed three times the value of the check . . . no check! The panic that overwhelms this unfortunate soul is that of having to place himself in the degrading position of getting a job. With the advent of the fine weather which will arrive, if Dan Kelly's sinus says so, in the near future the local doctors, lawyers, and advertising set will be fair game for the talented Villanova caddie crew. We have attempted to bribe our editors into publishing maps of the local golf courses, but they did not stand the strain of censorship since these same areas could be employed for various other uses . . . picnics, etc.

Rain Rain Go Away

There is a small group on campus that seems rather frustrated these days. It seems that some of our cohorts are engaging in the art of baseball for the greater honor and glory of Villanova, and these men are rumored to have small plots of turf in their rooms which they use to simulate playing games that have been rained out. It always seems to rain on game days, but it is always clear for practice. We wish that this paper could do something for this group and their many fans, but think of the leaders of SAPA . . . their plots have been dampened recently as well as the hopes of the local golf fans. There just seems to be nothing to do except lean on the rail and continue enjoying the television habit acquired during the Winter season.

We can do nothing for the local panic, but we can sit back and envision the Summer nights at the Shore, and the same old rail and T.V. sets.

Juniors Order Early . . .

Renting your formal is easy on the allowance

No need to make a big outlay for a big date! Renting formal wear is easy, it's convenient! Tux, dinner jacket—whatever you need is "cleaner-fresh", pressed to perfection, and fitted as though it were made just for you!

Campus Cleaners
Dougherty Hall

PUB*licly Speaking . . .*

By JIM & MIKE

Every year about this time a new affliction overtakes Villanova. It's called senior fever. When mixed with spring fever, which can fell any undergraduate, the ailment can become most acute.

The question which might be asked is "Why does the fever insist on afflicting only seniors?" Several reasons might be offered. For one thing, when the fuzzy-cheeked freshman first appears on the campus he is still endowed with athletic prowess, academic ambitions and all kinds of ideals about "changing the world."

Then, after a couple of trips to the "T" and various other similar spots around other neighboring institutions, the fellow begins to take to indoor pastimes, and girls and even picnics.

By the time the last quarter of senior year rolls around, the undergrad has attained excellence in such fields as progressive party planning, catnapping after the alarm buzzes at 8:26 and still staggering into that 8:30 ahead of the roll call, and of course, the scientific use of the cut system.

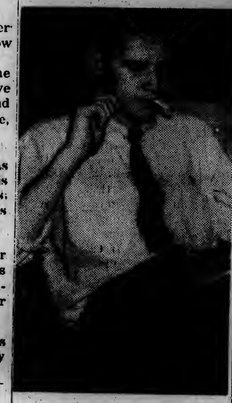
This senior fever might be excused by the casual observer as a last ditch attempt on the part of the fourth-year man, who is sadly aware that the time is near for separation from a classmates; and friends, to cram in as much fraternity, equality and booze as possible in the final days.

With the approaching sun-drenched afternoons just made for dashing off to the country and forgetting such things as Einstein's theory of relativity, Custer's last stand, Beowulf and where-ohwhere to hold that post-graduation party, these epidemics of senior fever can be diagnosed.

So, if you should happen upon a group of merrymakers cavorting about a stream, don't stop to reprimand them. For they are only seniors.

Coach Severance Speaks to DPM

Outdated laws, combined with broken homes, higher urbanization and the use of marijuana, make juvenile delinquency a more complex problem than people think, varsity basketball coach Al Severance told Delta Pi Mu fraternity last Monday night.



Delinquents are often harder to handle than hardened criminals, Severance continued. Most delinquents are between 11 and 15 years old but offenders as young as eight have been apprehended for felonies, according to Severance, who is magistrate of Tredyffrin Township.

The speaker was a member of the Arts school fraternity during his undergraduate days at Villanova.

Spring Issue of LYNX Continues 'New Look' Format

Co-editors Jack Eddinger and Joe Barrett announced today that the spring issue of the Lynx, Villanova's literary magazine, will be released sometime during the week of May 20.

Eddinger indicated that the magazine will continue its "new look" retaining its present format. The editors are still on the lookout for copy, especially in the fields of humor, satire, and essays of contemporary concern.

JOHN EDDINGER
LYNX Co-Editor

All potential contributors are urged to submit their work as soon as possible to either Eddinger, Barrett or any member of the English Department.

Freshman Casey Collins inserts a dime in one of the six new typewriters installed in the first stack of the Library. The machines may be used 30 minutes for 10 cents.

Nomad Newsman Inquires:

Villanovans Express Views On Blind Date Situation

By MIKE RUSSO

In the course of human events, there comes a time when someone will ask you, "How would you like a blind date?" On this campus it seems the first reaction would be, "What time does she have to be in?" It is the purpose of your Nomad Newsman this week to find out what a Villanovan really wants when he or she indulges in this most tricky game. We will give our future blind dates a chance to find out what is expected of them.

The question is, "What do you look for in blind date?"

Jim Grady, '56, Arts

I am against blind dates unless they are beautiful. In a position that I'm in, I can't afford to take chances. I usually also stray from girls who have "wonderful personalities," they are usually "dogs."

Tom Moran, '56, C and F

Holiness, temperance and a car are a few of the qualities which interest me. I dislike girls who play the "do you know so and so" game. I am not interested in other boys, as girls and studies are my only real interests.

Marcia Marlow, '59, Nursing

I expect a Christian gentleman who is very witty and who knows how to act. You would be surprised to know how many animals are walking around unchained.

Charlie Bowling, '59, C and F

All that I ask is that she has acquired a taste for beer. I can't stand these girls who drink scotch by the barrel, you can't afford them for very long.

Carol Whalen, '59, Nursing

If I had a choice, I would have him tall, dark and good looking and also with a wonderful personality. If he doesn't have some of these qualities, then he better have a lot of money.

Ray Clarke, '57, C and F

Just for once in my life I would like to get a blind date who doesn't spend the entire night telling me how many dates she has had and how lucky I am to be with her. In my opinion this is the worst kind of blind date.

Vinnie Buffano, '56, Science

All I want is an ordinary girl. The last blind date I had almost stood on her hind legs and barked at me when I asked her to dance. After a couple of these, a guy's faith in the whole system is completely destroyed.

Bob Durkin, '58, Arts

I'd have to say a girl who wasn't too good looking and who had a poor personality. This is different I grant you, but, a beautiful girl on a blind date would shock me to death.

John Nettleton, '57, Ch. E.

Listen, I'm an engineer and it's been so long since I've had a date I'd take out anything that wouldn't bite back.

Hank Nichols, '58, C and F

I'm an athlete, and the athletes around here don't have time to go out with girls. But if I did have the chance, you can be sure the first thing that I'd look for would be a girl. First things come first.

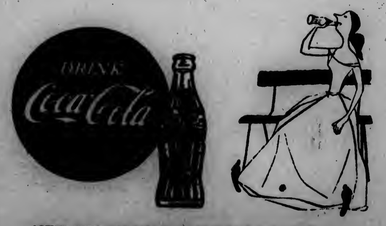
19 ENGINEERING GRADUATES 56

A "learning by doing" philosophy is basic at Kearfott. As an assistant Project Engineer, you are given assignments in several engineering laboratories to determine in which you can make your best contributions and find your greatest satisfaction. Under the guidance of senior engineers and specialists, each man takes his project through from inception to final production, thus acquiring a broad experience background. Success depends on individual initiative and resourcefulness.

KEARFOTT
is interviewing on your campus

Thursday, April 26

Make your appointment now with your College Placement Office



Kearfott is one of the country's foremost designers and producers of directional gyro compass systems . . . a recognized leader in the development of gyros, synchros and servomechanisms for industry and the armed forces, with increasing emphasis on the development of servo systems and components for the automation of industry. And Kearfott's roster of customers reads like a cross-section of American industry.

Young engineers at Kearfott have a bright future before them as the development of engineering talent is an integral part of the company's policy. Small-company flexibility backed by large-company stability and resources . . . plus decentralization into 7 small autonomous plants provide for the young engineer an atmosphere conducive to rapid advancement. The salaries are high, and the benefit program liberal.

The location, too, provides advantages — in the suburban living in northern New Jersey, within easy reach of the cultural, educational and recreational facilities of New York City.

NOTE: If you cannot attend an interview on this day, please write for more information to Robert J. Speel, Technical Placement Supervisor, Engineering Personnel Office.

Kearfott COMPANY, INCORPORATED
A Subsidiary of General Precision Equipment Corp.
1378 MAIN AVE., CLIFTON, NEW JERSEY

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY The Philadelphia Coca-Cola Bottling Co.
"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1956, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Taking a potato chip and Coke break during Friday night's Soph-Frosh dance are sophomore Hank Nichols, Villanova freshman Marge Bonner, Chestnut Hill freshman Mary Ryan and sophomore Bert Peterson.

Dinner Dance Sale Spurts; Decoration Crew Issues SOS

Sale of Junior Dinner Dance tickets jumped off to a fast start Thursday, but work on decorations was still lagging behind other plans.

Some 45 dinner dance tables were reported sold by nightfall Thursday, according to class president Jack Decker.

What has Decker and the decorations committee worried now is the lack of workers for designing decorations. Decker urged juniors to turn out for the work nights, which will be posted on the Dougherty Hall bulletin board.

Much Help Wanted

The theme is being kept a secret, Decker said, but help is needed in putting together the fancy work that will dress up the Field House for the Junior Prom May 4.

The Benjamin Franklin Hotel ballroom, where the dinner dance will be held, can accomodate 1,000 persons—100 tables—according to Decker.

Dinner dance tickets, at $10 will be on sale each day in Dougherty Hall snack bar from 10:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. At night they may be purchased in Dick Mason's room (153 Sullivan).

First-Come, First-Served

Until Friday, only entire tables may be reserved by paying the $50. After Friday, individual tickets will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis.

Within ten minutes after tickets went on sale Thursday, all 16 tables located in the balcony had been reserved.

Also on the Junior Week front:

DICK MASON
Tickets Going Fast

1. A drive for patrons for the Prom program is underway. Program chairman Joe Keffer said the cost is 50 cents a person and $1 a line. He suggested that juniors shell out a dollar and list themselves and their dates.

2. A surprise entertainment program has been organized for the May 5 dinner dance, according to Decker. He said no details could be given.

3. Prom tickets may be bought in the Dougherty Hall snack bar each day from 11:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m., from ticket chairman Jim McCormick (51 Sullivan), Phil Seefried and Bernie Conway (217 Fedigan) or Fraser (246 Good Counsel). Tickets cost $6.

Students Found Pre-Law Club; Fitzpatrick President

The Pre-Law club, Villanova's newest activity, has been formed by prospective law students. In the words of Larry Fitzpatrick, club president, the club was initiated "to provide a means whereby the members may, by mutual aid, supplement their formal education by becoming acquainted with law schools, law methods, and practical law problems."

The club will attempt to attain its purpose through the use of guest speakers, occasional courtroom visits, and literature from various law schools. This will give the undergraduate a clear prospective of what the years in law school will entail and also give him an insight into the fulfillment of the theory in actual practice.

A committee has been set up to collect information on law schools throughout the country for use of the members. The club is a must for students who intend to enter the legal profession, emphasized Fitzpatrick.

Fletcher And Greenlee Will Speak Sunday

Ed Fletcher and Jim Greenlee of Villanova will speak at the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine Day to be held by the National Federation of Catholic College Students Sunday at Holy Family College in Philadelphia.

Fletcher will speak on "The Parish Plan of Organization" and Greenlee will discuss "The Catholic College Graduate."

The day will consist of the discussion on phases of Christian activity, benediction in the college chapel and will end with a social hour in the Holy Family student lounge.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

LKD Honors Seniors at Dinner Dance

Villanova's Lambda Kappa Delta fraternity held its annual dinner dance last Saturday night honoring the graduating senior members. LKD's sixty members were welcomed at the door of the Del Mar Terrace with favors inscribed with the names of the member and his date.

Dinner was served at seven o'clock in the Del Mar's Morris Dining Hall. After the meal, those present danced until 12:30, to the music of Joe Morell and his orchestra.

In addition to the fraternity members at the flower bedecked head table, were Dr. Lowery, Mr. Joseph Gilligan, and Mr. Dicaro, all members of Villanova's Biology Department. Also present, as the honored guest of the senior members, was Mr. Bernard Bonniwell of the Psyhology Department.

UN Situation

(Continued from Page 3)

ance of Korea will be enough to head off what appears to be an inevitable war. If not, once again the ranks of the student bodies of our own and other universities and colleges across the country will be depleted and another waste of life will begin.

Here, at this point, is the time when politics and prayer form a union, especially for you and me who will be doing the fighting. It is imperative, therefore, that somewhere along the line God must be brought into the U.N. and given His permanent seat on the Security Council and not just be called on as a last resort.

Nurses Tour Guild

Freshman nurses in the basic degree program will tour Friends Neighborhod Guild Friday, accompanied by Sister M. Margarella, O.S.F., basic program director.

The trip is planned to supplement material the girls covered in the "Nursing and the Community" course. Last Friday the nurses toured the Lower Merion Board of Health in Ardmore.

J. Paul Sheedy* Was Always A Scapegoat Till Wildroot Cream-Oil Gave Him Confidence

It got Sheedy's goat the way everyone kidded him about his messy hair. Even his girl horned in: "Sheedy, you shaggy stinker, you lack confidence — you're pasture prime." Well J. Paul felt pretty sheepish about this, so he tried Wildroot Cream-Oil. Now he has confidence in nanny situation because he knows his hair looks healthy and handsome, the way Nature intended . . . neat but not greasy. Wildroot Cream-Oil contains the heart of Lanolin, the very best part of Nature's finest hair and scalp conditioner. Try it yourself. Butter get a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil today. With Wildroot on your hair, the girls will goat to any lengths for a date with you.

* of 131 So. Harris Hill Rd., Williamsville, N. Y.

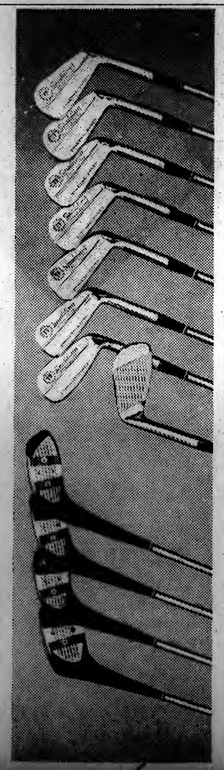
Wildroot Cream-Oil gives you confidence



DESIGNED FOR SCORING!

THESE 1956 Registered Spalding TOP-FLITES® are the sweetest-playing clubs in the book. Plenty of golfers are lowering their handicaps with them.

The secret? They're SYNCHRO-DYNED® Clubs — scientifically and exactly coordinated to swing and feel alike.

What's more, these beauties will stay handsome and new looking. The irons feature a new and exclusive tough alloy steel with high-polish finish that will last and last.

P. S. The new Spalding PAR-FLITES,® also fine-quality clubs, are offered at a popular price. The irons also feature Spalding's new tough alloy steel heads with high-polish finish. Like the TOP-FLITES, they're sold through Golf Professionals only.

SPALDING
sets the pace in sports

Spanish Fellowships Available

Six fellowships for study or research in Spain are available to American graduate students for the 1956-57 academic year, Kenneth Holland, President of the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York City, announced today.

The awards, given by a private donor, are administrated by the Institute. Closing date for application is May 1.

Candidates must be United States citizens under 30 years of age. Other eligibility requirements are: A bachelor's degree; Capacity for independent study or research; Good knowledge of Spanish; Good moral character, personality and adaptability; Good health; and Ability to provide for any dependents.

Applications may be obtained from the U. S. Student Department of the Institute of International Education.

Charley Jenkins breezes over the finish line in the 880-yard run in the West Chester meet. His time was 1:55.6.

SC Dinner Dance Tix On Sale Now

Tickets are still available for the Spanish Club's annual dinner dance Saturday night at the L. A. M. Club in Norristown, according to chairman Gene Donohue.

Dinner will be served about 7:30 p.m. The Villanovans will provide music for dancing from 9 till 1.

Tickets, priced at $2.50 per person, may be purchased from the Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O.S.A., club moderator, or from Spanish Club members.

Dr. F. X. Claro of the Spanish Consulate will be guest of honor at the affair, which honors the famous Spanish writer, Cervantes.

Prizes for the Spanish essay and the English poem which are judged best in a contest will be awarded.

Army Engineer Corps to Hold Interviews Here

Recruiters from the Engineer Research and Development Laboratories, Fort Belvoir, Va. will interview senior engineering students at Villanova April 25 in an effort to fill critical vacancies at the agency.

Vacanicies exist for mechanical and electrical engineers and for physicists at the laboratories, which are located near historic Mount Vernon, about 15 miles south of Washington.

Interested students may get complete information from the Engineering office.

ERDL, the Corps of Engineers' principal research and development agency, is responsible for 19 fields.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Final NFCCS Variety Show Slated For Friday Night

The Philadelphia Regional Council of the N.F.C.C.S. announced last week that the last presentation of its second annual variety show will be held this Friday evening, April 20 in the Field House of Holy Family College at Frankford and Grant Avenues in Northeast Philadelphia. Donation is $1, and tickets may be obtained from any member of the Villanova NFCCS delegation all this week or at the door on the night of the show. Curtain time is 8.

The show, which was presented earlier this year at Immaculata College features 16 acts from Philadelphia area Catholic colleges. Singing, dancing, comedy are at a premium, and these are complimented by several novelty acts.

Villanovans Will Play

Villanova University is well represented in the show. V.U.'s favorite sons, The Villanovans, provide the musical backing for the production and also do a little jamming in their Dixieland Jazz style. Comedians Jack Erdlen, John Nettleton and Jack Murry demonstrate Villanova's wit, while Turf and Tinsel star Don Mattingly and former Wildcat hoopster Tom Foley handle the male vocal chores. Foley is accompanied by Bernie Conway at the piano. Freshman Billy Hearne's steel guitar numbers brought applause at I.C.

Laurence To Attend

Bob Laurence, who conducts the "On the Town" program at 11:50 p.m. over WIP, reviewed the show at its last performance. The following night Laurence said on his program that this was one of the best college shows he had ever seen in his years of covering these and that many of the acts are capable of turning professional with fine results. He named in particular, the Murphy Sisters singing group from Immaculata and the Villanovans. Laurence who is a great blues fan said over the air that Bob Schiller's Villanovan's arrangement of "The St. James Infirmary Blues" is the best he has heard.

The show is produced, directed, and staged by Villanovan John Rosica. He is asisted by Bob Lawler. Frank Fleming is in charge of publicity for the show.

So Good to your TASTE — So Quick on the DRAW!

1. SUPERIOR TASTE

So good to your taste because of L&M's superior tobaccos. Richer, tastier—especially selected for filter smoking. For the flavor you want, here's the filter you need.

2. SUPERIOR FILTER

So quick on the draw! Yes, the flavor comes clean—through L&M's all white Miracle Tip. Pure white inside, pure white outside for cleaner, better smoking.

RELAX WITH L&M MAKE TODAY YOUR BIG RED LETTER DAY!

© LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

Taking a potato chip and Coke break during Friday night's Soph-Frosh dance are sophomore Hank Nichols, Villanova freshman Marge Bonner, Chestnut Hill freshman Mary Ryan and sophomore Bert Peterson.

Students Found Pre-Law Club; Fitzpatrick President

The Pre-Law club, Villanova's newest activity, has been formed by prospective law students. In the words of Larry Fitzpatrick, club president, the club was initiated "to provide a means whereby the members may, by mutual aid, supplement their formal education by becoming acquainted with law schools, law methods, and practical law problems."

The club will attempt to attain its purpose through the use of guest speakers, occasional courtroom visits, and literature from various law schools. This will give the undergraduate a clear prospective of what the years in law school will entail and also give him an insight into the fulfillment of the theory in actual practice.

A committee has been set up to collect information on law schools throughout the country for use of the members. The club is a must for students who intend to enter the legal profession, emphasized Fitzpatrick.

UN Situation

(Continued from Page 3)

ance of Korea will be enough to head off what appears to be an inevitable war. If not, once again the ranks of the student bodies of our own and other universities and colleges across the country will be depleted and another waste of life will begin.

Here, at this point, is the time when politics and prayer form a union, especially for you and me who will be doing the fighting. It is imperative, therefore, that somewhere along the line God must be brought into the U.N. and given His permanent seat on the Security Council and not just be called on as a last resort.

Nurses Tour Guild

Freshman nurses in the basic degree program will tour Friends Neighborhod Guild Friday, accompanied by Sister M. Margarella, O.S.F., basic program director.

The trip is planned to supplement material the girls covered in the "Nursing and the Community" course. Last Friday the nurses toured the Lower Merion Board of Health in Ardmore.

Fletcher And Greenlea Will Speak Sunday

Ed Fletcher and Jim Greenlee of Villanova will speak at the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine Day to be held by the National Federation of Catholic College Students Sunday at Holy Family College in Philadelphia.

Fletcher will speak on "The Parish Plan of Organization" and Greenlee will discuss "The Catholic College Graduate."

The day will consist of the discussion on phases of Christian activity, benediction in the college chapel and will end with a social hour in the Holy Family student lounge.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

LKD Honors Seniors at Dinner Dance

Villanova's Lambda Kappa Delta fraternity held its annual dinner dance last Saturday night honoring the graduating senior members. LKD's sixty members were welcomed at the door of the Del Mar Terrace with favors inscribed with the names of the member and his date.

Dinner was served at seven o'clock in the Del Mar's Morris Dining Hall. After the meal, those present danced until 12:30, to the music of Joe Morell and his orchestra.

In addition to the fraternity members at the flower bedecked head table, were Dr. Lowery, Mr. Joseph Gilligan, and Mr. Dicaro, all members of Villanova's Biology Department. Also present, as the honored guest of the senior members, was Mr. Bernard Bonniwell of the Psyhology Department.

J. Paul Sheedy* Was Always A Scapegoat Till Wildroot Cream-Oil Gave Him Confidence

It got Sheedy's goat the way everyone kidded him about his messy hair. Even his girl horned in: "Sheedy, you shaggy stinker, you lack confidence — you're pasture prime." Well J. Paul felt pretty sheepish about this, so he tried Wildroot Cream-Oil. Now he has confidence in nanny situation because he knows his hair looks healthy and handsome, the way Nature intended . . . neat but not greasy. Wildroot Cream-Oil contains the heart of Lanolin, the very best part of Nature's finest hair and scalp conditioner. Try it yourself. Butter get a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil today. With Wildroot on your hair, the girls will goat to any lengths for a date with you.

* of 131 So. Harris Hill Rd., Williamsville, N. Y.

Wildroot Cream-Oil gives you confidence

Dinner Dance Sale Spurts; Decoration Crew Issues SOS

Sale of Junior Dinner Dance tickets jumped off to a fast start Thursday, but work on decorations was still lagging behind other plans.

Some 45 dinner dance tables were reported sold by nightfall Thursday, according to class president Jack Decker.

What has Decker and the decorations committee worried now is the lack of workers for designing decorations. Decker urged juniors to turn out for the work nights, which will be posted on the Dougherty Hall bulletin board.

Much Help Wanted

The theme is being kept a secret, Decker said, but help is needed in putting together the fancy work that will dress up the Field House for the Junior Prom May 4.

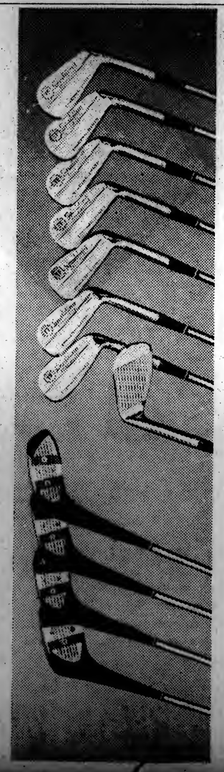
The Benjamin Franklin Hotel ballroom, where the dinner dance will be held, can accomodate 1,000 persons—100 tables—according to Decker.

Dinner dance tickets, at $10 will be on sale each day in Dougherty Hall snack bar from 10:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. At night they may be purchased in Dick Mason's room (153 Sullivan).

First-Come, First-Served

Until Friday, only entire tables may be reserved by paying the $50. After Friday, individual tickets will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis. Within ten minutes after tickets went on sale Thursday, all 16 tables located in the balcony had been reserved.

Also on the Junior Week front:



DICK MASON
Tickets Going Fast

1. A drive for patrons for the Prom program is underway. Program chairman Joe Keffer said the cost is 50 cents a person and $1 a line. He suggested that juniors shell out a dollar and list themselves and their dates.

2. A surprise entertainment program has been organized for the May 5 dinner dance, according to Decker. He said no details could be given.

3. Prom tickets may be bought in the Dougherty Hall snack bar each day from 11:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m., from ticket chairman Jim McCormick (51 Sullivan), Phil Seefried and Bernie Conway (217 Fedigan) or Fraser (246 Good Counsel). Tickets cost $6.

DESIGNED FOR SCORING!

THESE 1956 Registered Spalding TOP-FLITES® are the sweetest-playing clubs in the book. Plenty of golfers are lowering their handicaps with them.

The secret? They're SYNCHRO-DYNED® Clubs — scientifically and exactly coordinated to swing and feel alike.

What's more, these beauties will stay handsome and new looking. The irons feature a new and exclusive tough alloy steel with high-polish finish that will last and last.

P. S. The new Spalding PAR-FLITES,® also fine-quality clubs, are offered at a popular price. The irons also feature Spalding's new tough alloy steel heads with high-polish finish. Like the TOP-FLITES, they're sold through Golf Professionals only.

SPALDING
sets the pace in sports

Spanish Fellowships Available

Six fellowships for study or research in Spain are available to American graduate students for the 1956-57 academic year, Kenneth Holland, President of the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York City, announced today.

The awards, given by a private donor, are administrated by the Institute. Closing date for application is May 1.

Candidates must be United States citizens under 30 years of age. Other eligibility requirements are: A bachelor's degree; Capacity for independent study or research; Good knowledge of Spanish; Good moral character, personality and adaptability; Good health; and Ability to provide for any dependents.

Applications may be obtained from the U. S. Student Department of the Institute of International Education.

Charley Jenkins breezes over the finish line in the 880-yard run in the West Chester meet. His time was 1:55.6.

SC Dinner Dance Tix On Sale Now

Tickets are still available for the Spanish Club's annual dinner dance Saturday night at the L. A. M. Club in Norristown, according to chairman Gene Donohue.

Dinner will be served about 7:30 p.m. The Villanovans will provide music for dancing from 9 till 1.

Tickets, priced at $2.50 per person, may be purchased from the Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O.S.A., club moderator, or from Spanish Club members.

Dr. F. X. Claro of the Spanish Consulate will be guest of honor at the affair, which honors the famous Spanish writer, Cervantes.

Prizes for the Spanish essay and the English poem which are judged best in a contest will be awarded.

Army Engineer Corps to Hold Interviews Here

Recruiters from the Engineer Research and Development Laboratories, Fort Belvoir, Va. will interview senior engineering students at Villanova April 25 in an effort to fill critical vacancies at the agency.

Vacanicies exist for mechanical and electrical engineers and for physicists at the laboratories, which are located near historic Mount Vernon, about 15 miles south of Washington.

Interested students may get complete information from the Engineering office.

ERDL, the Corps of Engineers' principal research and development agency, is responsible for 19 fields.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Final NFCCS Variety Show Slated For Friday Night

The Philadelphia Regional Council of the N.F.C.C.S. announced last week that the last presentation of its second annual variety show will be held this Friday evening, April 20 in the Field House of Holy Family College at Frankford and Grant Avenues in Northeast Philadelphia. Donation is $1, and tickets may be obtained from any member of the Villanova NFCCS delegation all this week or at the door on the night of the show. Curtain time is 8.

The show, which was presented earlier this year at Immaculata College features 16 acts from Philadelphia area Catholic colleges. Singing, dancing, comedy are at a premium, and these are complimented by several novelty acts.

Villanovans Will Play

Villanova University is well represented in the show. V.U.'s favorite sons, The Villanovans, provide the musical backing for the production and also do a little jamming in their Dixieland Jazz style. Comedians Jack Erdlen, John Nettleton and Jack Murry demonstrate Villanova's wit, while Turf and Tinsel star Don Mattingly and former Wildcat hoopster Tom Foley handle the male vocal chores. Foley is accompanied by Bernie Conway at the piano. Freshman Billy Hearne's steel guitar numbers brought applause at I.C.

Laurence To Attend

Bob Laurence, who conducts the "On the Town" program at 11:50 p.m. over WIP, reviewed the show at its last performance. The following night Laurence said on his program that this was one of the best college shows he had ever seen in his years of covering these and that many of the acts are capable of turning professional with fine results. He named in particular, the Murphy Sisters singing group from Immaculata and the Villanovans. Laurence who is a great blues fan said over the air that Bob Schiller's Villanovan's arrangement of "The St. James Infirmary Blues" is the best he has heard.

The show is produced, directed, and staged by Villanovan John Rosica. He is asisted by Bob Lawler. Frank Fleming is in charge of publicity for the show.

So Good to your TASTE — So Quick on the DRAW!

1. SUPERIOR TASTE
So good to your taste because of L&M's superior tobaccos. Richer, tastier—especially selected for filter smoking. For the flavor you want, here's the filter you need.

2. SUPERIOR FILTER
So quick on the draw! Yes, the flavor comes clean—through L&M's all white Miracle Tip. Pure white inside, pure white outside for cleaner, better smoking.

RELAX WITH L&M MAKE TODAY YOUR BIG RED LETTER DAY!

© LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

Genuine PAPER-MATE Pen Silvered-Tip REFILLS in Red - Green - Blue - Black

Only 49¢ each

O'Leary Named Vice-Pres.

IRS Elects Donohue, Hears Talk On Russian Policies

John Alshefski Photo

George Sydnor chalks up a new West Chester track mark of 9.5 seconds for the 100-yard dash Saturday.

Gene Donohue, one of Turf and Tinsel's lead players this year, was elected president of the International Relations Society at its monthly meeting Thursday night.

He will asume office after spending a month learning the "ropes." Hailing from the Bronx, he majors in political science.

Other Officers

Also elected at this meeting were: Vice-President, Jack O'Leary Jr., English major from Bayonne, N.J.; secretary-treasurer John Camaioni, dayhop from Germantown; and Student Council representative Nick Vadino, who is a political science major from Chester.

Following the elections the group heard Mr. James Dougherty speak on "U.S. Defenses, Is Collective Security Possible." Mr. Dougherty, who teaches at

(Continued on Page 11)

Salisbury New Opera-Classica Club President

At a meeting of the Opera-Classica held last week the club moderator, Mr. A. Angeline appointed Richard Salisbury, a sophomore C&F student as president of the club. Nursing student Alice Manix, was selected as the organization's secretary-treasurer.

A sample constitution will be presented to club members for approval at tonight's meeting in 208 C&F. If accepted by the club members, the constitution will be sent to the adminstration whose approval will make Opera-Classica an official Villanova organization.

The club tonight will observe the bi-centennial of the birth of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart by featuring his famed opera, "Die Zauberflocte" or "The Magic Flute." The opera is sung in German with a cast headed by Hilde Gueden.

NEW FRATERNITY BOSSES

Newly-elected presidents of three campus fraternities—Jim Judge, Delta Pi Mu; John Fusaro, Delta Pi Epsilon; Gerard Moran, Phi Kappa Pi—look ahead to next year's activities.

Frosh Turn Out 1.5 Per Cent for Class Meeting

Out of a listed 994 students only 15 members of the Freshman class attended a class meeting held last Thursday morning in the Commerce and Finance auditorium.

The meeting was called by Paul Laughlin, Sophomore class president, to explain to the freshmen the need for electing conscientious officers to lead them in their sophomore year.

Laughlin outlined the duties of the class officers and explained their part in class functions. He explained the qualifications of a officer, both from the viewpoint of acceptance by the administration and interest in the activities of his class.

Judge Elected President Of Delta Pi Mu Fraternity

James F. Judge, the first social studies major to hold the job, will take over the presidency of Delta Pi Mu fraternity at the May meeting.

He was elected with five other officers and a newly-formed executive council, last Monday night.

Other Officers

Other officers are: Bill Hattrick, vice-president; Bob Arkison, recording secretary; Dave Belcher, corresponding secretary; Mike Rafferty, treasurer; Bill McCloud, Student Council representative.

The executive council, which will assist in scheduling activities and policy making, is composed of: Brendan Flynn and Jerry Lee, Class of 1957; Terry Hayes, varsity baseball catcher and Jack Moynihan, Class of 1958; Tom McPherson, Class of 1959.

Hattrick, Judge and McCloud are juniors and the other officers are sophomores.

President was Former Secretary

Judge, a resident student from Lockport, N. Y., moved up to his post from recording secretary. He is a member of Belle Masque dramatic society and the Intercollegiate Conference on Government. He was ring chairman for the Class of 1957.

The social studies curriculum in which he is enrolled was instituted at Villanova in September of 1953.

Judge succeeds Owen Hickey. A date for the May meeting has not been set.

25 ICG Members At Convention

Twenty-five members of Villanova's Intercollegiate conference on Government returned Saturday from a model political convention in Harrisburg.

Colleges all over Pennsylvania sent members to the convention, which started Thursday. Its purpose was to acquaint the delegates, through experience, with the workings of a political convention.

Dinner Set

Results of last Thursday's election will be announced at the Villanova Accounting Society's annual banquet tonight at the Wynnemore Inn.

Some 100 society members and accounting instructors are expected to hear the main speaker, Mr. Melvin Talus, a certified public accountant.

FROM CHOW TO CLASSES

The old chow hall is now serving as a brand new classroom in an attempt to slightly alleviate the current classroom congestion.

Debating Society Meets Temple On Television Sunday

Villanova's Beta Gamma Debating Society will meet Temple University's debating team on television Sunday over WRCV-TV at 12:30 p.m. This will be the Society's first TV appearance.

The Villanovans will take the affirmative on the question of the right of movie censorship.

Today the society will debate Haverford College. They will debate the national topic of the guaranteed annual wage. Anyone interested may sit in on the debate in 215 Mendel at 4 p.m.

McGee Elected

John McGee, of the Arts school, has been elected president of the society. He is up for administration approval along with vice-president Lucian Gagliardi, an education major; Sharin Trail, corresponding secretary; Robert O'Connor, treasurer; Gerald LaKarnafeaux, recording secretary.

Although the society is one of the smallest on campus, it is active. This year's activities included two debates a week. Beta Gamma also entered Brooklyn College and King's College debating tournaments.

The Society, one of the oldest on campus, was started 30 years ago. Mr. Joesph T. Jonas is moderator. This year's debaters are mainly seniors.

President Jim Welsh extends an invitation to all interested in joining. Meetings are held each Thursday at 10:30 a.m. in 101 C and F.

Guild Show

(Continued from Page 3)

Supporting the above-mentioned 'name' personalities was a well-balanced group of polished supporting acts. The most outstanding of these was Les Cardinals, a French group with a bright future. The two male members opened the act with a medley of numbers on twin xylophones. Gallic zest and electrifying technique commanded attention as they drew all the entertainment possible out of their instruments. Then they were joined by a good-loking gal in a combination of music, dance and acrobatics that thoroughly suceeded in its attempt to be novel and entertaining.

Supporting Acts

The pop singing of WCAU's pretty Ginny Stevens, the operetta singing of Smith and Sayer, the unique and funny stilt-dancing of the rythmic Pickerts and the unicycling of Lott and Joe Anders were all in keeping with the high quality exhibited throughout the show.

Congratulations are due the Master of Ceremonies, NBC's ace announcer Ed Herlihy. With just the right balance of humor and seriousness, he added something of his own to the overall entertainment in what could easily be just a routine job of introducing each act.

For those who sat in certain parts of the balcony, there was the additional kick of being able to see the performers backstage.

Reader Speaks . . .

(Continued from Page 2)

for two students. My sincere apologies to both gentlemen.

Assuring you that all who added to the success of the show will be in the prayers and Masses both of Augustinian priests and seminarians, I am,

Gratefuly yours in Christ.
John J. Coffey, O. S. A.
Augustinian Seminary
Guild Director

VISIT NAVY YARD

Philadelphia's Navy Yard played host recently to the sophomore members of Villanova's NROTC unit. Lt. V. M. Duronio, sophomore Navy instructor arranged the trip to supplement the classroom gunnery course with an actual view of ordnance aboard ship and ordnance installations in the yard.

Midshipmen inspected 5-inch 38 and 40-millimeter mounts aboard destroyer-escort U.S.S. Powell and then toured the gunnery shop and other shops ashore.

LEARN TO SWIM CLINIC

Swimming instructions for Villanova students is available this week and next week in the Field House pool, announces Intramural Director Ed Geisz.

Instruction will be given each day except Saturday and Sunday at 4:30 p.m., Geisz said.

SPORTS CHATTER

Should They Be Changed?

By BOB MULCAHY

Controversy centering around the recent charge of professionalism in amateur athletics has prompted Amateur Athletic Union president Carl Hansen to publicly state that a close scrutiny be given some of the Union's outdated rules on the subject. Certainly this investigation is necessary and is to be applauded as a step forward.

The two most famous examples which clearly indicate a need for either rule revision or firm adherence to the present laws are the cases of Wes Santee and the college basketball players.

A.A.U. vs. Wes Santee

After reversing itself in its stand on the amateurism of Santee, the A.A.U. found itself facing a battle in the civil courts.

In the case of Santee, one of America's best milers, the issue revolves around the point of whether he had accepted extra money, written off as expenses, for participating in certain California track meets. It was decided that he was guilty and he has been barred from competition after first being cleared.

The instance of the college basketball players brings in a different slant because it centers on the question of the connotations of intention. Five college seniors who were scheduled to play in the East-West college all-star game in New York had been advertised as appearing in the anual countrywide tour against the Harlem Globetrotters, commencing on the succeeding night.

The A.A.U., basing its decision on a rule which states in part that "public solicitation of employment for gain disqualifies him as a amateur," declared ineligible those athletes who were to appear on the tour. The actions of the ballplayers were construed to be in violation of the union's rule, bringing forth the question, why hasn't the governing body cracked down in similar instances before?

Question of Intent

Actually, the question of intent binding a man as a professional is open to much debate. The mere fact that an athlete hasn't openly proclaimed that he won't turn professional does not classify him as no longer a simon pure. Likewise in this case, the original verdict of one district, Missouri, was reversed.

Also, the recent public decision of the A.A.U. to bypass the normal red tape to assure the appearance of Australia's great miler, John Landy, in two California meets until after it has been arranged defintely, indicates favoritism and a changeable policy.

Another side of the issue which is not receiving as much publicity is the individual responsibility of all the non-professional athletes. They are expected to be honest and sincere in their dealings. Actions such as evidenced in the previously mentioned basketball case when a complete diregard for a signed affidavit stating that the player would not turn professional immediately was permitted certainly cannot be condoned. Such behavior shows an outright violation of authority.

Cooperation Is Needed

All of these enumerated instances definitely show that positive action must be taken. Both the A.A.U. and the athlete himself have definite obligations and should work together toward the answer.

It is necessary that the Union either revise its laws to permit many of the present day practices or set down an unwavering policy according to its present rules. Careful investigation must be made so that all the bungling and reversing witnessed in recent events will be eliminated. The consideration of this problem is worthwhile and necessary, and it is hoped the A.A.U. reaches a firm decision.

Jersey Alumni Club Names Jim Smith Most Valuable

Last Thursday the Alumni Club of South Jersey honored the 1955-56 Villanova basketball team with a banquet at Kenny's Restaurant in Camden. The sixth annual dinner was attended by 225 alumni and friends of the University.

After dinner Wildcat captain Jim Smith was awarded a trophy for being the team's most valuable player. Temple star Guy Rodgers received the Miche Saxe Memorial Award as the most valuable player in the Big Five, having been selected by the coaches of this organization. Track coach, Jim Elliot was recipient of the South Jersey Alumni Club Award for his "outstanding contributions to Villanova University athletics".

The main speaker for the evening was Villanova alumnus, All-American hoopster, and star of the world championship Philadelphia Warriors professional basketball team, Paul Arizin. Paul paid tribute to this year's Wildcat team and told of his experiences in the National Basketball Association. He credited the Warrior's great improvement on the fact that only ten games separate the league's first place team from the last placers. This year, Arizin said, his team had the necessary strength to win these games and thereby win the championship.

According to William C. Faulk, vice-president of the South Jersey Club and Joseph P. DiLuca, President of the General Alumni Association, this year's banquet was "the most successful ever."

Wrestling Champs

Four champions have been crowned by the Intramural Department after the annual wrestling meet.

They are: Don Luzzi, heavyweight; Ray Clarke, light heavyweight; Roger O'Dwyer, middleweight; Don Cavalier, lightweight.

All winners except O'Dwyer, who won by decision, pinned their opponents. Matches were scheduled for five minutes.

Left fielder Sam Ferretti drops a Texas leaguer into left field during Friday's 10-4 win over West Chester at Villanova.

Rutgers, St. Joe, Georgetown Next Wildcat Baseball Foes

Team Fights Bad Weather, Awaits Penn

Villanova's baseballers face Army at West Point in a game postponed last Wednesday. The game with Rutgers (South Jersey), scheduled for today will be played Monday at Villanova.

Friday afternoon Villanova will journey the short distance to 54th Street and City Line Avenue to renew its inter-city sports rivalry with St. Joseph's Hawks.

Saturday will mark another game on the road for the baseball Wildcats. The team will board a bus and travel to the nation's capitol to take on the University of Georgetown nine at the Georgetown Stadium.

Ron Delany snips tape after setting new district mile record of 4:04.9 at West Chester Saturday. John Alshefski Photo

Hampered By Weather

Hampered throughout the entire early season by the steady stream of inclement weather and cancelled games, Coach Art Mahan's charges undergo daily hitting and fielding drills in an effort to gain more seasoning for their Sophomore predominated team.

After the three games mentioned above, the Wildcats have their sights trained on their traditional annual battle with the University of Pennsylvania. This Game is to be played at home on the Stadium field on Wednesday, April 25 at 2:30 in the afternoon.

Delany Closes In On Magic Mile, Sydnor Sets 2 Marks

By JOHN CURTIN

Ron Delany ran the fastest mile ever run in the Philadelphia area last Saturday as the Villanova Wildcats downed West Chester Teachers, 73½-52½, in a dual track and field meet at West Chester.

Clocked in 4:04.9, the Dublin lad, who has never lost a mile race, was the outstanding performer in a contest in which five field marks were established and two other Villanova records were smashed.

Betters Bannister's Time

Delany, winning by 50 yards over his early pace setter, teammate John Kopil, broke the district record which had been held by England's Roger Bannister, the first man to run a four-minute mile. This timing was the fastest of the Irishman's career, outdoors or indoors.

Villanova's George Sydnor set new Wildcat and Teacher marks in both the 100 and 220-yard dashes. He won the 100 in 9.5 to eclipse an old record of 9.6, and then smashed a 21.4 mark with a timing of 20.9.

Wildcat Don Bragg erased his own field record as he won the pole vault with a vault of 14 feet, 8⅝ inches. He reached this height despite a slight bend he had put in his pole earlier.

Reavis, Holup Triumph

A high jump of 6 feet, 5½ inches won this event for Phil Reavis, of Villanova, and bettered the old field mark of 6-4. A record tying performance was turned in by Villanovan, Bob Holup, as he won the 120-high hurdles in 0:14.9.

Charley Jenkins, national AAU 440 champ, switched to the half mile for the meet and won easily in 1:55.6. Teammate Al Ligorelli was second. The 440-yard event was a Villanova sweep, as Rollie Simpson won in 0:50.4, followed by Al Peterson and Gene Maliff.

Breckenridge Wins Two-Mile

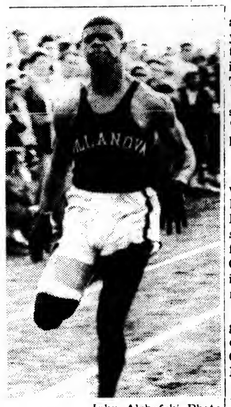
Alex Breckenridge and George Browne took first and second place respectively for the Wildcats in the two mile run, while Jim Fahey and Ron Cherubini duplicated their performance in the shot putting event.

The Wildcats won ten events against the Teachers, mostly on the track. West Chester won three of its four events in the field. This effort was definite proof that the disappointing showing of Coach Jim Elliot's boys on the rain-soaked Quantico track in the season's opener was nothing but a fluke. Outdoors, as indoors, Villanova is a top contender for national honors.

New Varsity Sport, Water Polo Added To V. U. Calendar

This spring a new intercollegiate team will join the squads that now represent the Villanova Wildcats. The new sport is water polo, which has been gaining prominence and popularity among the area colleges.

A water polo team is made up of seven members, who play four periods of four to five minutes each. Goals are scored by throwing the ball into a net that is four feet by ten feet. Rules regarding fouls are the same as those used in hockey, with time being spent in a penalty box for major infractions. All of the rules have been set down by the NCAA.



Couig On Team

Forming the nucleus of the Villanova squad will be Don Couig, Lou Schoener, and Denny Rinkacs, all of whom were outstanding mermen on this year's swimming team. Filling out the team will be Mike Russo, John Flynn, Bill Meyer, and Bill Steele. Ed Geisz, who masterminded the swimming team to a successful season, will also coach the water polo lads.

Meets are scheduled with most of the area colleges. The season will open on the 21st of April when LaSalle invades the Villanova pool. Other contests are scheduled with Temple, Penn, and West Chester.

O'Leary Named Vice-Pres.

IRS Elects Donohue, Hears Talk On Russian Policies

John Alshefski Photo

George Sydnor chalks up a new West Chester track mark of 9.5 seconds for the 100-yard dash Saturday.

Gene Donohue, one of Turf and Tinsel's lead players this year, was elected president of the International Relations Society at its monthly meeting Thursday night.

He will asume office after spending a month learning the "ropes." Hailing from the Bronx, he majors in political science.

Other Officers

Also elected at this meeting were: Vice-President, Jack O'Leary Jr., English major from Bayonne, N.J.; secretary-treasurer John Camaioni, dayhop from Germantown; and Student Council representative Nick Vadino, who is a political science major from Chester.

Following the elections the group heard Mr. James Dougherty speak on "U.S. Defenses, Is Collective Security Possible." Mr. Dougherty, who teaches at

(Continued on Page 11)

Salisbury New Opera-Classica Club President

At a meeting of the Opera-Classica held last week the club moderator, Mr. A. Angeline appointed Richard Salisbury, a sophomore C&F student as president of the club. Nursing student Alice Manix, was selected as the organization's secretary-treasurer.

A sample constitution will be presented to club members for approval at tonight's meeting in 208 C&F. If accepted by the club members, the constitution will be sent to the adminstration whose approval will make Opera-Classica an official Villanova organization.

The club tonight will observe the bi-centennial of the birth of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart by featuring his famed opera, "Die Zauberflocte" or "The Magic Flute." The opera is sung in German with a cast headed by Hilde Gueden.

Frosh Turn Out 1.5 Per Cent for Class Meeting

Out of a listed 994 students only 15 members of the Freshman class attended a class meeting held last Thursday morning in the Commerce and Finance auditorium.

The meeting was called by Paul Laughlin, Sophomore class president, to explain to the freshmen the need for electing conscientious officers to lead them in their sophomore year.

Laughlin outlined the duties of the class officers and explained their part in class functions. He explained the qualifications of a officer, both from the viewpoint of acceptance by the administration and interest in the activities of his class.

Judge Elected President Of Delta Pi Mu Fraternity

James F. Judge, the first social studies major to hold the job, will take over the presidency of Delta Pi Mu fraternity at the May meeting.

He was elected with five other officers and a newly-formed executive council, last Monday night.

Other Officers

Other officers are: Bill Hattrick, vice-president; Bob Arkison, recording secretary; Dave Belcher, corresponding secretary; Mike Rafferty, treasurer; Bill McCloud, Student Council representative.

The executive council, which will assist in scheduling activities and policy making, is composed of: Brendan Flynn and Jerry Lee, Class of 1957; Terry Hayes, varsity baseball catcher and Jack Moynihan, Class of 1958; Tom McPherson, Class of 1959.

Hattrick, Judge and McCloud are juniors and the other officers are sophomores.

President was Former Secretary

Judge, a resident student from Lockport, N. Y., moved up to his post from recording secretary. He is a member of Belle Masque dramatic society and the Intercollegiate Conference on Government. He was ring chairman for the Class of 1957.

The social studies curriculum in which he is enrolled was instituted at Villanova in September of 1953.

Judge succeeds Owen Hickey. A date for the May meeting has not been set.

25 ICG Members At Convention

Twenty-five members of Villanova's Intercollegiate conference on Government returned Saturday from a model political convention in Harrisburg.

Colleges all over Pennsylvania sent members to the convention, which started Thursday. Its purpose was to acquaint the delegates, through experience, with the workings of a political convention.

Dinner Set

Results of last Thursday's election will be announced at the Villanova Accounting Society's annual banquet tonight at the Wynnemore Inn.

Some 100 society members and accounting instructors are expected to hear the main speaker, Mr. Melvin Talus, a certified public accountant.

FROM CHOW TO CLASSES

The old chow hall is now serving as a brand new classroom in an attempt to slightly alleviate the current classroom congestion.

NEW FRATERNITY BOSSES

Newly-elected presidents of three campus fraternities—Jim Judge, Delta Pi Mu; John Fusaro, Delta Pi Epsilon; Gerard Moran, Phi Kappa Pi—look ahead to next year's activities.

Debating Society Meets Temple On Television Sunday

Villanova's Beta Gamma Debating Society will meet Temple University's debating team on television Sunday over WRCV-TV at 12:30 p.m. This will be the Society's first TV appearance.

The Villanovans will take the affirmative on the question of the right of movie censorship.

Today the society will debate Haverford College. They will debate the national topic of the guaranteed annual wage. Anyone interested may sit in on the debate in 215 Mendel at 4 p.m.

McGee Elected

John McGee, of the Arts school, has been elected president of the society. He is up for administration approval along with vice-president Lucian Gagliardi, an education major; Sharin Trail, corresponding secretary; Robert O'Connor, treasurer; Gerald LaKarnafeaux, recording secretary.

Although the society is one of the smallest on campus, it is active. This year's activities included two debates a week. Beta Gamma also entered Brooklyn College and King's College debating tournaments.

The Society, one of the oldest on campus, was started 30 years ago. Mr. Joesph T. Jonas is moderator. This year's debaters are mainly seniors.

President Jim Welsh extends an invitation to all interested in joining. Meetings are held each Thursday at 10:30 a.m. in 101 C and F.

Guild Show

(Continued from Page 3)

Supporting the above-mentioned 'name' personalities was a well-balanced group of polished supporting acts. The most outstanding of these was Les Cardinals, a French group with a bright future. The two male members opened the act with a medley of numbers on twin xylophones. Gallic zest and electrifying technique commanded attention as they drew all the entertainment possible out of their instruments. Then they were joined by a good-loking gal in a combination of music, dance and acrobatics that thoroughly suceeded in its attempt to be novel and entertaining.

Supporting Acts

The pop singing of WCAU's pretty Ginny Stevens, the operetta singing of Smith and Sayer, the unique and funny stilt-dancing of the rythmic Pickerts and the unicycling of Lott and Joe Anders were all in keeping with the high quality exhibited throughout the show.

Congratulations are due the Master of Ceremonics, NBC's ace announcer Ed Herlihy. With just the right balance of humor and seriousness, he added something of his own to the overall entertainment in what could easily be just a routine job of introducing each act.

For those who sat in certain parts of the balcony, there was the additional kick of being able to see the performers backstage.

Reader Speaks . . .

(Continued from Page 2)

for two students. My sincere apologies to both gentlemen.

Assuring you that all who added to the success of the show will be in the prayers and Masses both of Augustinian priests and seminarians, I am,

Gratefuly yours in Christ,
John J. Coffey, O. S. A.
Augustinian Seminary
Guild Director

VISIT NAVY YARD

Philadelphia's Navy Yard played host recently to the sophomore members of Villanova's NROTC unit. Lt. V. M. Duronio, sophomore Navy instructor arranged the trip to supplement the classroom gunnery course with an actual view of ordnance aboard ship and ordnance installations in the yard.

Midshipmen inspected 5-inch 38 and 40-millimeter mounts aboard destroyer-escort U.S.S. Powell and then toured the gunnery shop and other shops ashore.

LEARN TO SWIM CLINIC

Swimming instructions for Villanova students is available this week and next week in the Field House pool, announces Intramural Director Ed Geisz.

Instruction will be given each day except Saturday and Sunday at 1:30 p.m., Geisz said.

SPORTS CHATTER

Should They Be Changed?

By BOB MULCAHY

Controversy centering around the recent charge of professionalism in amateur athletics has prompted Amateur Athletic Union president Carl Hansen to publicly state that a close scrutiny be given some of the Union's outdated rules on the subject. Certainly this investigation is necessary and is to be applauded as a step forward.

The two most famous examples which clearly indicate a need for either rule revision or firm adherence to the present laws are the cases of Wes Santee and the college basketball players.

A.A.U. vs. Wes Santee

After reversing itself in its stand on the amateurism of Santee, the A.A.U. found itself facing a battle in the civil courts.

In the case of Santee, one of America's best milers, the issue revolves around the point of whether he had accepted extra money, written off as expenses, for participating in certain California track meets. It was decided that he was guilty and he has been barred from competition after first being cleared.

The instance of the college basketball players brings in a different slant because it centers on the question of the connotations of intention. Five college seniors who were scheduled to play in the East-West college all-star game in New York had been advertised as appearing in the anual countrywide tour against the Harlem Globetrotters, commencing on the succeeding night.

The A.A.U., basing its decision on a rule which states in part that "public solicitation of employment for gain disqualifies him as a amateur," declared ineligible those athletes who were to appear on the tour. The actions of the ballplayers were construed to be in violation of the union's rule, bringing forth the question, why hasn't the governing body cracked down in similar instances before?

Question of Intent

Actually, the question of intent binding a man as a professional is open to much debate. The mere fact that an athlete hasn't openly proclaimed that he won't turn professional does not classify him as no longer a simon pure. Likewise in this case, the original verdict of one district, Missouri, was reversed.

Also, the recent public decision of the A.A.U. to bypass the normal red tape to assure the appearance of Australia's great miler, John Landy, in two California meets until after it has been arranged definitely, indicates favoritism and a changeable policy.

Another side of the issue which is not receiving as much publicity is the individual responsibility of all the non-professional athletes. They are expected to be honest and sincere in their dealings. Actions such as evidenced in the previously mentioned basketball case when a complete diregard for a signed affidavit stating that the player would not turn professional immediately was permitted certainly cannot be condoned. Such behavior shows an outright violation of authority.

Cooperation Is Needed

All of these enumerated instances definitely show that positive action must be taken. Both the A.A.U. and the athlete himself have definite obligations and should work together toward the answer.

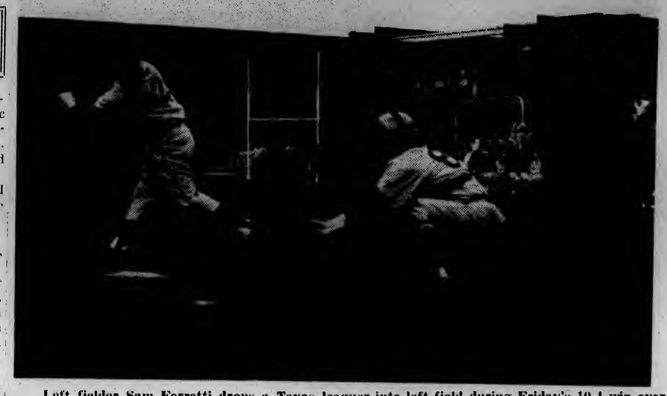
It is necessary that the Union either revise its laws to permit many of the present day practices or set down an unwavering policy according to its present rules. Careful investigation must be made so that all the bungling and reversing witnessed in recent events will be eliminated. The consideration of this problem is worthwhile and necessary, and it is hoped the A.A.U. reaches a firm decision.

Jersey Alumni Club Names Jim Smith Most Valuable

Last Thursday the Alumni Club of South Jersey honored the 1955-56 Villanova basketball team with a banquet at Kenny's Restaurant in Camden. The sixth annual dinner was attended by 225 alumni and friends of the University.

After dinner Wildcat captain Jim Smith was awarded a trophy for being the team's most valuable player. Temple star Guy Rodgers received the Miche Saxe Memorial Award as the most valuable player in the Big Five, having been selected by the coaches of this organization. Track coach, Jim Elliot was recipient of the South Jersey Alumni Club Award for his "outstanding contributions to Villanova University athletics".

The main speaker for the evening was Villanova alumnus, All-American hoopster, and star of the world championship Philadelphia Warriors professional basketball team, Paul Arizin. Paul paid tribute to this year's Wildcat team and told of his experiences in the National Basketball Association. He credited the Warrior's great improvement on the fact that only ten games separate the league's first place team from the last placers. This year, Arizin said, his team had the necessary strength to win these games and thereby win the championship.



According to William C. Faulk, vice-president of the South Jersey Club and Joseph P. DiLuca, President of the General Alumni Association, this year's banquet was "the most successful ever."

Wrestling Champs

Four champions have been crowned by the Intramural Department after the annual wrestling meet.

They are: Don Luzzi, heavyweight; Ray Clarke, light heavyweight; Roger O'Dwyer, middleweight; Don Cavalier, lightweight.

All winners except O'Dwyer, who won by decision, pinned their opponents. Matches were scheduled for five minutes.

Left fielder Sam Ferretti drops a Texas leaguer into left field during Friday's 10-4 win over West Chester at Villanova.

Rutgers, St. Joe, Georgetown Next Wildcat Baseball Foes

Team Fights Bad Weather, Awaits Penn

Villanova's baseballers face Army at West Point in a game postponed last Wednesday. The game with Rutgers (South Jersey), scheduled for today will be played Monday at Villanova.

Friday afternoon Villanova will journey the short distance to 54th Street and City Line Avenue to renew its inter-city sports rivalry with St. Joseph's Hawks.

Saturday will mark another game on the road for the baseball Wildcats. The team will board a bus and travel to the nation's capitol to take on the University of Georgetown nine at the Georgetown Stadium.

Ron Delany snips tape after setting new district mile record of 4:04.9 at West Chester Saturday. John Alshefski Photo

Hampered By Weather

Hampered throughout the entire early season by the steady stream of inclement weather and cancelled games, Coach Art Mahan's charges undergo daily hitting and fielding drills in an effort to gain more seasoning for their Sophomore predominated team.

After the three games mentioned above, the Wildcats have their sights trained on their traditional annual battle with the University of Pennsylvania. This Game is to tbe played at home on the Stadium field on Wednesday, April 25 at 2:30 in the afternoon.

Delany Closes In On Magic Mile, Sydnor Sets 2 Marks

By JOHN CURTIN

Ron Delany ran the fastest mile ever run in the Philadelphia area last Saturday as the Villanova Wildcats downed West Chester Teachers, 73½-52½, in a dual track and field meet at West Chester.

Clocked in 4:04.9, the Dublin lad, who has never lost a mile race, was the outstanding performer in a contest in which five field marks were established and two other Villanova records were smashed.

Betters Bannister's Time

Delany, winning by 50 yards over his early pace setter, teammate John Kopil, broke the district record which had been held by England's Roger Bannister, the first man to run a four-minute mile. This timing was the fastest of the Irishman's career, outdoors or indoors.

Villanova's George Sydnor set new Wildcat and Teacher marks in both the 100 and 220-yard dashes. He won the 100 in 9.5 to eclipse an old record of 9.6, and then smashed a 21.4 mark with a timing of 20.9.

Wildcat Don Bragg erased his own field record as he won the pole vault with a vault of 14 feet, 8⅞ inches. He reached this height despite a slight bend he had put in his pole earlier.

Reavis, Holup Triumph

A high jump of 6 feet, 5½ inches won this event for Phil Reavis, of Villanova, and bettered the old field mark of 6-4. A record tying performance was turned in by Villanovan, Bob Holup, as he won the 120-high hurdles in 0:14.9.

Charley Jenkins, national AAU 440 champ, switched to the half mile for the meet and won easily in 1:55.6. Teammate Al Ligorelli was second. The 440-yard event was a Villanova sweep, as Rollie Simpson won in 0:50.4, followed by Al Peterson and Gene Maliff.

Breckenridge Wins Two-Mile

Alex Breckenridge and George Browne took first and second place respectively for the Wildcats in the two mile run, while Jim Fahey and Ron Cherubini duplicated their performance in the shot putting event.

The Wildcats won ten events against the Teachers, mostly on the track. West Chester won three of its four events in the field. This effort was definite proof that the disappointing showing of Coach Jim Elliot's boys on the rain-soaked Quantico track in the season's opener was nothing but a fluke. Outdoors, as indoors, Villanova is a top contender for national honors.

New Varsity Sport, Water Polo Added To V. U. Calendar

This spring a new intercollegiate team will join the squads that now represent the Villanova Wildcats. The new sport is water polo, which has been gaining prominence and popularity among the area colleges.

A water polo team is made up of seven members, who play four periods of four to five minutes each. Goals are scored by throwing the ball into a net that is four feet by ten feet. Rules regarding fouls are the same as those used in hockey, with time being spent in a penalty box for major infractions. All of the rules have been set down by the NCAA.

Couig On Team

Forming the nucleus of the Villanova squad will be Don Couig, Lou Schoener, and Denny Rinkacs, all of whom were outstanding mermen on this year's swimming team. Filling out the team will be Mike Russo, John Flynn, Bill Meyer, and Bill Steele. Ed Geisz, who masterminded the swimming team to a successful season, will also coach the water polo lads.

Meets are scheduled with most of the area colleges. The season will open on the 21st of April when LaSalle invades the Villanova pool. Other contests are scheduled with Temple, Penn, and West Chester.

Wildcat Runners Top Contenders In 61st Annual Penn Relay Carnival

Charley Jenkins and Ron Delany, most successful runners in the recent indoor track season, have important roles on the Villanova relay quartets entered in the Penn Relays, April 27 and 28.

Coach Jumbo Elliot's talented runners captured the sprint medley and one mile relay championships of America at the Carnival last year as Villanova garnered its first titles in the 61-year history of the world's first and largest relay meet.

Blazing anchor legs by Jenkins brought the Wildcats victories in both races over Cornell. In the freshman mile relay a splendid quarter-mile by Ron Delany brought victory and a new Carnival record in the event for Villanova.

Top Contender

In addition to defending both titles this year, Villanova is rated among the top contenders for honors in both the distance medley and four-mile relays because of miler Ron Delany, unbeaten during the indoor campaign.

The sole triumph for Villanova in the rainswept Quantico relays was a convincing victory over New York University and Manhattan in the distance medley race. Charley Jenkins led off with a fast half-mile and Ron Delany ran away from George King, N. Y. U., and Manhattan's Jim Doulin on the anchor one-mile leg.

Villanova lost by inches to Michigan in the one-mile relay at Quantico as Charley Jenkins was clocked in 47.8 seconds for the final 440 yards and made up almost 30 yards in a fruitless effort to overtake Lloyd Sloan, anchorman for the Wolverines.

Sowell in Medley

In addition to facing Michigan in this same race at the Penn Relays Villanova also will be in competition against Indiana, recent winner of the Big Ten indoor mile relay, and Pittsburgh with Arnold Sowell handling the final quarter mile.

Although Elliot scratched his sprint medley team the Wildcats with Jenkins running the last half-mile in the one-mile race will be hard to beat.

Since the sprint medley race is usually decided on the anchor leg, Jenkins bears the brunt of the load as the Wildcats will be facing a Pittsburgh team anchored by the world's fastest half-miler, Arnold Sowell, as well as a well-balanced quartet from Michigan and a dark horse team in Ohio State.

Challenge Top Powers

With Delany, Alex Breckinridge and John Kopil forming the backbone of the quartet, Villanova is set to challenge Michigan, Manhattan and New York University for honors in the longest race on the Carnival program.

Villanova is pinning its hopes on Delany, Jenkins and company to come in first in the one-mile, four-mile, sprint, and distance medley events.

Converted Outfielder Now Top Hurler For Art Mahan

By JACK CURTIN

Rare is the occasion when a baseball coach finds a pitcher who is as dangerous to the opposing team with a bat in his hand as he is on the mound, but Villanva's diamond mentor, Art Mahan, has just such a find in Danny Severino.

Severino, the team's top pitcher last year with a 5-3 record, is regarded as a mainstay on this year's sophomore studded varsity. Danny helped win more than one game last year at the plate too, as he laced the ball for a .320 batting average.

Born in Somerville, Mass., 21 years ago, Severino found baseball his favorite in his youth, although he spent much of his time playing ice hockey in the cold Massachusetts winters.

Switched Positions

In high school Dan was a pitcher only in his senior year. In three previous seasons he had played in the outfield and at third base. When the ace right hander came to Villanova, Coach Mahan thought he would be of more use to the team on the mound than in the field and Dan has certainly proved his theory.

Looking back into his past, Dan finds that two no-hitters he threw in his youth still hold happy memories. As his best college efforts he names two thrilling games from last season, the first a six hit, 2-0 victory over Princeton, and the second a three hitter against Delaware which he won, 4-0. He chalked up 12 strike-outs in both games.

Prefers Third Base

A Finance major in the C & F school, Dan would like to go into pro ball after he closes his career at Vilanova. He still expresses a preference to play third base in the majors, but if he continues his outstanding work on the pitcher's mound, he may find he'll have a hard time convincing the big league scouts he belongs anywhere else.

A couple of varsity football hopefuls practice a little hand-to-hand combat in a "blood pit" session. The club began contact work last week as part of the 20-day spring practice ration of the NCAA

Al Stoughton Photo

Mahan's Nine Defeats West Chester 10-4

Villanova University's baseball team avenged its only defeat of the season last Friday by downing strong West Chester State Teachers College 10-4. West Chester beat the Wildcats in the season opener.

The game was a close battle with neither team holding more than a two-run lead until the Wildcats' powerful hitting broke the game open in the seventh inning. First baseman Tom Casey and rightfielder Ron Debiak both hit triples to highlight the seventh inning outburst when the Wildcats brought home five runs.

Ten Strikeouts

Ace hurler Dan Severino pitched Art Mahan's nine to its second win of the season by striking out ten of the opposing batsmen. Tom Casey led the hitting for Villanova by getting three hits for four times at bat, His timely hitting enabled him to drive in four runs.

Coach Art Mahan used the same effective lineup throughout the game. In the outfield were Frank Cafone, Ron Debiak, and Sam Ferretti, while the infield was covered by first baseman Tom Casey, second baseman Johnny DiGiallorenzo, shortstop John Donnatucci and third baseman Ron LaMontagne. Terry Hayes and Severino was the battery for the entire game.

Wildcat Golfers Gain First Win; LaSalle Victim

Villanova's talented golfers engaged the LaSalle Explorers at the Aronimink Country Club last Tuesday and won by a score of 9-0. The victory evened the season's record after an opening loss to Haverford.

Playing in his familiar number one slot, Ben Klemanowicz, junior from Hempstead, L. I. shot a three over par 73. In winning his eleventh collegiate match against only one defeat, the captain displayed near-perfect form in the young season. After carding three bogies in a row, he settled down to score an excellent 36 on the front nine.

Sophomores Excel

The promising sophomores led by Johnny Suger, won their matches easily. Suger beat Bill Goetz, 5 and 4. Jim Stark, playing number three ,won his match from Ed Higgins, 5 and 4. Ned Sherlock, showing great promise for a sophomore, beat Joe Sheedy 6 and 5 and Jay Gibney bested Dave Besselman 7 and 6. Rounding out the squad was three-year veteran, Jack Kelly, who played in the number four position and won handily 6 and 5.

Optimistic Football Squad Digs In For Spring Workout

BEN KLEMANOWICZ
Tames a Tough One

Last Year's Unbeaten Frosh Bolster Coach Reagan's 11

By DON KEMPF

Spring practice for the varsity football team has finished its first week and begun its second with the squad looking much improved over last fall's team, which won only one of ten games played.

Don Luzzi, Dave Parr, and John Bauer lead the twenty seven lettermen who are returning from last season's varsity team. Parr, a sophomore halfback, led the team in ground gaining last season and will be counted on for more yardage this Fall. His running mate John Bauer is another man who will play a major role in head coach Frank Reagan's plans for an improved squad. Luzzi, another soph, was the defensive standout in many of the games last fall and has looked impressive thus far this spring.

Grazione Impressive

About twenty-five freshmen have moved up from last year's undefeated freshman squad Quarterback Jim Grazione who sparked the freshman 'Cats to their perfect record has looked good in the spring drills to date. Other freshmen who have looked impressive are: Rollie West at halfback, Bill Boegly, who has been moved to fullback after running out of a halfback slot last year, six foot six inch end Gene O'Pella, and Bill Craig, a 220 pound tackle.

The combination of returning lettermen and outstanding frosh is expectd to give the Wildcats the depth they were missing last year. The added strength should run two or three deep in most positions if the squad continues to play with the amount of spirit and hustle they have been showing.

Coaches Pack Belts

As an added incentive to break away from the line of scrimmage with plenty of speed, Coach Reagan and his staff have equipped themselves with thin leather belts which, according to reports, pack plenty of sting.

A preview of next year's squad can be seen on May 5 during the annual Blue-White day game against the Old-timer squad.

Simons Elected Astronomy Head

Frank Simons has been elected president of the Astronomy Society and assigned to draft a new constitution, to be considered at the next meeting.

Other officers chosen were: John Hunt, vice-president; John Russo, secretary and Eugene Malin, secretary.

IRS Meeting

(Continued from Page 8)

St. Joseph's College, outlined the present Foreign Policy of both the U.S. and Russia, and showed precisely how and why each country has acted as it has in recent years.

Western Man's Dilemma

Russia's entire policy since the war has been to keep herself from being pulled into war. Western man has come to the point where he finds himself in a great dilemma, either total peace or total war, added the speaker.

The Association of International Relation Clubs held its annual national convention in Philadelphia, on April 4-7. Approximately 15 IRS members attended the conferences, round tables and banquets. August Hecksher, president of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, delivered the keynote address.

Navy Offers OCS Deal To Seniors

Graduating Villanovans who have passed up the NROTC program during their stay at Villanova still have the possibility of opening up for themselves a second career as an officer in the United States Navy. There are programs for line, staff, and aviation officers. Those interested can obtain complete information from Lieutenant V. M. Duronio, U.S.N., and Lieutenant D. M. Rowlands, U.S.N., in Commodore John Barry Hall.

The Officer's Candidate School at Newport, R. I., trains line and staff corps ensigns after a concentrated 16-week course. Excepting actual sea cruises, the course covers the same scope as that of the NROTC program. All college graduates over 19 and under 27 years are eligible for the OCS program.

ANOTHER WASHOUT

Villanova's baseball game with Seton Hall Monday at Seton Hall was postponed because of wet grounds. No postponed date for the game was announced.

Mystery Shrouds "Barbara Of Seville"; Opens In Week

(Continued from Page 1)

inta," his Gypsy sweetheart. Both Donohue and Mattingly are veterans of T 'n T who held down leading parts in last year's wide open western "Jessica James."

Kelly, Schiller Star

Holding down other key roles are two more members of the Class of '57, Bill Kelly, WVIL production manager as the father and Bob Schiller of "Villanovans" fame who will play the "Mother" of the romancing "Jocinta." Kelly and Schiller also played prominent roles in last year's T 'n T cast.

Mal Didio, a Turf and Tinsel first year man will portray the slightly weather-beaten Arab peddler adding to the zanity of the show. Paul Porecca, the grinning white and feathery guardian angel to the great Jesse James in last year's story of the old west lands a lead role this year as the comical "Uncle."

Two Four Year Veterans

The show also boasts two four year Turf and Tinsel veterans. Nick Rinaldi, T 'n T secretary in his last cast appearance will sashay about as the "English Woman," and Walt Doyle, also in his fourth and last Turf and Tinsel role plays the "Duena."

Other parts of the cast are filled by Andy Iaccarino of Belle Masque fame as the "Director," frosh footballer and varsity candidate Dominic Chango as an associate to the "Uncle," Joe Redmond as the "Englishman," and senior class secretary Roy Zimmerman as the "Cousin," thus rounding out the frolicking family.

Final Touches Being Applied

Director Jack Kelly, along with Bob Whalen who composes the entire score of all T 'n T performances and George Heger Noake, dancing director are applying the tedious finishing touches to the show behind the Field House doors which continue to be closed to all outsiders in order to assure complete secrecy.

Script writer George Pequinot has just about applied the finishing touches to his "Barbara of Seville" script.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Judge Biggs To Speak At Law School Banquet; Senior Award Announced

$100 Prize Offered By Corporation

A prize of $100 and an appropriate certificate will be awarded annually to the graduating senior in the School of Law who has excelled in the law of real property.

The award has been made possible by the Lawyers Title Insurance Corportation of Richmond, Va.

Award Begins in June

The award will be made beginning with the first graduating class this June, Dean Harold Gill Reuschlein announced. It will be based upon class standing in the five courses in property law covering the following fields: interests in land, land planning and development, conveyancing, leases, mortages, wills, trusts and future interests.

All students in the law school will compete for the prize.

Instituted as Public Service

The Lawyers Title Awards program was instituted during the past academic year by the corporation as a public service.

It has been made available in many approved law schools throughout the more than 40 states in which the corporation operates. The program is under a varsity water polo game in the pool at 2:30.

(Continued on Page 12)

Fathers' Day

(Continued from Page 1)

Menus

Tickets. priced at $5, are on sale in Dougherty Hall snack bar from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. each day this week, Nash said.

Luncheon menu will include a hot turkey sandwich for lunch and shrimp cocktail and roast sirloin will be served for dinner, the chairman announced.

Guests for the banquet include: Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., university President; Rev. Thomas A. Calpin, O.S.A., class moderator and celebrant of the Mass; Dean Harold Gill Reuschlein of the Law School; the father of Frank Hartmann, who was elected president of the Class of 1956 last May but entered the Augustinian Order in September; Mr. William Slavin, instructor in the electrical engineering department and a Villanova alumnus.

JOSEPH F. HALL
His Company Offers Award

New Editions Donated to VU's Library

The University Library has received additions, through donations, to the reference and Irish collections.

Reference additions were made by Mr. Martin Quigley of the Quigley Publishing Co. of New York and consist of: The 1956 International Television Almanac and The 1956 International Motion Picture Almanac. Both books provide a quick reference for pertinent facts in their respective industries.

Additions to the Irish collections, made by Mr. James Healy of New York, include: The Face of Ulster, a special W. B. Yeats issue of Irish writing and an autographed copy of It Isn't This Time of the Year At All.

Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O.S.A., librarian, announced that the next display in the library will feature two duplicates of Vatican Library books. These are: La Avarchide, an epic poem by Luigi Alamanni, and De dus Paredrois, by George d'Arnaud. Rev. Patrick J. Rice, O.S.A., of Long Island, is donor of these gifts.

An avocado that is ripe should be refrigerated; a banana (ripe or unripe) should not be kept under refrigeration.

Dinner Set Tomorrow At Barclay

The Hon. John Biggs Jr., Chief Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the Third Judicial Circuit, will be the featured speaker at the third annual dinner of the Villanova University School of Law at the Barclay tomorrow night.

The Hon. Horace Stern, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania and the Hon. Charles Alvin Jones, associate justice, will be honored guests. The Hon. Theodore L. Reimel, Judge of Common Pleas Coart No. 5, will serve as toastmaster.

Awards List

Judge Biggs will speak on the subject: "Hats, Bats and Terns of the Law." Dean Harold Gill Reuschlein will report briefly upon the progress of the School of Law.

These awards will be presented: Vincent A. Carroll award to the student attaining the highest average in the second year; the Theodore L. Reimel Award to the law club submitting the best brief during the final year of the moot court work; the James P. McGranery Award to the student completing the course in Constitutional Law with the highest average; the Roman Catholic High School Alumni Award to the student attaining the highest average in the first year; the Herman J. Obert Award to the student attaining the second highest average during his first year and the Colonel Wilfred Glen MacCarthy Award to the student presenting the best oral argument in the moot court work.

David P. Trulli is serving as chairman of the dinner and Albert E. Janke is president of the Student Bar Association which sponsors the dinner.

Card Sharp

(Continued from Page 3)

After losing steadly for a long while this person degenerated into a nervous wreck as easy to read as a grade school primer, and he finished up the evening a wiser and much poorer man. He has long since played his last hand of poker.

For Higher Pursuits

Our subject has also discouraged many a married friend from the card habit in line with his views that poker and a family don't mix—just in case something should go wrong with the theory.

In spite of his successful undergraduate days, this ex-student has foregone what might have been a lucrative career in the field of advanced poker for higher pursuits and has joined the faculty of our growing university.

If anyone has gotten an idea from this article for implementing his income, better not run out and buy a deck of cards—at least until you find out whether they talk to you or not.

6 Typewriters

Typeomatic

30 Min. for 10c 1st Stack, Library

Coming Soon . . . Fathers' Day

Rammrath Chem Society President; Fredericks Out

Herb Rammrath, junior chemistry major from Phillipsburg, N.J., was elected president of the Villanova Chemical Society last Thursday morning, Rammrath, a regular in the NROTC, succeeds Bob Fredericks.

The president-elect served this year as secretary-treasurer of the society. He is also connected with Delta Pi Mu fraternity and the Sanctuary Society.

To Continue Policies

Rammath said he hopes the society "will continue to be one of the most active on campus as it has been for the past few years."

Elected with Rammrath were Ollie Ludwig, vice-president and Joe Clark, secretary-treasurer. Both are junior chemistry majors.

Law School Prize

(Continued from Page 11)

the personal supervision of Mr. Joseph F. Hall, Chairman of the Board of the Corporation.

Mr. Hall, attending the American Bar Association Convention in Philadelphia last August, inspected the architect's drawings of the new law school building, talked with members of the Faculty, and expressed interest in the school.

Sorority Breaktast Attracts About 50

Pi Theta Chi, basic degree nursing sorority, assembled for its first communion breakfast Sunday with some 50 nurses students and faculty members attending in Dougherty Hall day hop cafeteria.

Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O. S. A., VILLANOVAN moderator, was the speaker. Sorority president Betty Ann Curran said her group planned to make the event an annual affair. Barbara Warner was chairman of the breakfast committee.

Dolores Cofield, vice-president and Susan Simmons, secretary-treasurer are other officers.

LEARN TO SWIM CLINIC

Swimming instructions for Villanova students is available this week and next week in the Field House pool, announces Intramural Director Ed Geisz.

Instruction will be given each day except Saturday and Sunday at 4:30 p.m., Geisz said.

Nominations

(Continued from Page 1)

posted at entrance to Alumni Gym until election day; loudspeaker equipment may be operated only between class periods on election day.

Erection of bulletin boards or billboards in the vicinity of the old Pie Shoppe will be permitted, according to Father McLaughlin.

The society's executive committee will be composed of Charlie Ross, junior physics major, and Jerry Siuda, Bill McCann, and Tom Gaynard, freshmen chemistry majors.

Tomorrow night the Society will present a demonstration of glassblowing in 215 Mendel at 7:30.

Dr. P. J. Cole, of the Barrett Division of Allied Chemical and Dye, will give the demonstration.

All students are invited.

Herb Rammrath (right), incoming president of the Villanova Chemical Society, is congratulated by retiring president Bob Fredericks.

A FIRST FOR THE NURSES

At Pi Theta Chi's first communion breakfast sorority president Betty Ann Curran (left) seems pleased at something Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A., said. Miss Dorothy Boyle, a nursing instructor, looks on.

Dave Dalva Photo

Building Plans

(Continued from Page 1)

probably not be pressed into use as long as Belle Air could be used.

Administration officials have heard conflicting opinions on the feasibility of moving Belle Air. Father Donnellon quoted contractor John Farrell as saying the building could not be moved.

Decision Expected Soon

However, architect Henry Dagit seems to think the structure could be set on rollers and left that way until the new classroom building is completed, according to the Father President.

A final decision is expected soon on the moving, Father Donnellon said.

The classroom building would be a home for the Commerce and Finance School and would face on Ithan Avenue. The dormitory would face Sullivan and form a quadrangle.

Because its rear would face Lancaster Pike, the back would have to be "decorated" in some way, Father Donnellon explained, with a smile.

DPE ELECTS

President John Fusaro heads a five-man slate of officers elected to guide Delta Pi Epsilon fraternity next year. Other officers are: Bernie Conway, vice-president; Phil Seefried, secretary; Tony Touzzo, Treasurer; Jack Dunne, Student Council representative.

Fusaro succeeds Lou Donatelli.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

YOU'LL BOTH GO FOR THIS CIGARETTE!

WINSTON has the flavor you want!

■ As the most popular new brand in cigarette history, Winston gives college smokers something special. It's flavor — the full, rich, tobacco flavor you want in a cigarette. Along with finer flavor, Winston also brings you a finer filter that works so well the flavor really gets through. Try Winston!

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.

Smoke WINSTON the easy-drawing filter cigarette!

Turf and Tinsel To Reveal 'Barbara of Seville' Tonight

Singing senoritas and picadors dodging a roaming, big, black bull highlight Turf and Tinsel's gay musical comedy, "Barbara of Seville," which visits the Field House tonight for a five-night stand, terminating with a special Mothers' Day performance Sunday night.

Tickets are being sold to the public for $1.50, but students may purchase a ducat to this Latin tempered mad-cap comedy for only one dollar. All performances begin at 8:30.

Director Jack Kelly refuses to reveal any hints about the details, except that the story involves a festive Latin-American mix-up between a washed up bull fighter, his lovely daughter, and her faithful Gypsy sweetheart.

Gene Donohue, New York political science major, VILLANOVAN columist and president of IRS as the handsome Gypsy lover and Don Mattingly, junior arts student from Maryland and NFCCS variety show singer, as his pretty seniorita, "Jocinta," share the singing leads.

Four year T 'n T veterans Walt Doyle and Nick Rinaldi, secretary of the organization, wind up their Turf and Tinsel careers portraying the "Duena" and "English Woman" respectively.

Juniors Bob Schiller, spirited conductor of the "Villanovan s" will appear as the "Mother," while Bill Kelly, another Junior and WVIL production manager will portray the "Father," the aformentioncd run-down bullfighter and center of the chaos.

Newcomer to the society's presentations, Mal Didio, characterizes a forlorn Arab peddler, while Paul Porreca, an old T 'n T performer and last year's show stealer as the "Angel," portrays the comical "Uncle." Roy Zimmerman as the "Cousin," Andy Iaccarino as the "Director," Don Luzzi as the Uncle's associate, and Joe Redmond as the "Englishman" round out the speaking cast.

(Continued on Page 6)

These two aren't doing the tango—they're Gene Donohue (left) and "senorita" Don Mattingly, and they have the singing leads in Turf 'n Tinsel's "Barbara of Seville," opening tonight in the Field House.

Villanovan

Vol. 31—No. 18 Villanova University, Villanova, Pa. April 25, 1956

Moms Join In Jr. Week Opening Mon.; Students Pick Top Sr. Athlete Today

Shrine Mass At 11 Starts Social Week

Juniors and their "best girls" of two decades converge on Villanova Monday to open Junior Week, which closes next weekend with the invasion of the current "best girls."

Villanova's most lavish social week opens officially with a high Mass at 11 a.m. before the Shine of Our Mother of Good Counsel, but moms who arrive Sunday will have a chance to take in the Turf 'n Tinsel offering Sunday night in the Field House, at 8:30.

This is It!

After the mothers—or other women guests if mothers aren't able to attend—depart Monday night, third year men turn their attention to:

The first annual sports night, Tuesday.

Jazz Concert in Dougherty Hall, Wednesday night.

Junior Promenade—highlighted by the crowning of the 16th Junior Week queen — Friday night in the Field House.

Junior Dinner Dance in the main ballroom of the Benjamin Franklin Hotel in Philadelphia, Saturday.

Field House Jumps

In the featured spots for the jazz concert will be the Esquire Boys, a five-piece rock and roll aggregation from Philadelphia and the Music Weavers Five, a Dixieland combo, concert chairman Tom Decker announced today.

The concert will go from 8 to 10 p.m., will be informal and open only to juniors, who may come stag or with dates. Admis-

(Continued on Page 12)

TOM DECKER
Jazz on the Way

Juniors Get Last Chance to Order Rings Tomorrow

Juniors get their last chance to order rings this semester tomorrow when a salesman from Dieges and Clust will be on campus.

New orders will be taken and adjustments made on old orders in the Student Activities Office (second floor of Dougherty) between 11:30 a.m. and 2 p.m., according to ring chairman.

Class rings ordered now would be delivered next fall, Judge indicated.

Winner To Get Sports Night Award

Villanova students will have the chance today to vote for the senior athlete whom they think is deserving of the first annual Outstanding Athlete award. The award will be presented by the Spirit Committee of the Student Council during Sports Night on Tuesday evening at the Field House.

Six seniors, all of whom have fulfilled the requirements and passed the necessary screening, will be eligible for election. They include Danny Severino and Tom Casey, varsity baseball; Al Ligorelli and Bill Reilly, track; Lary Tierney, basketball; and Pat Kean, swimming. No football players were nominated.

Requirements Must Be Filled

The requirements which must be fulfilled in order for an athlete to be eligible for nomination are: athletic competence, sportsmanship, sufficient scholastic achievement, and participation

(Continued on Page 11)

JUNIOR WEEKEND

Sunday—Turf 'n Tinsel show 8:30 p.m., Field House (for early-arriving moms, juniors).

Monday—Mothers' Day, 11 a.m., Our Mother of Good Counsel Shrine (Field House if it rains).

Tuesday—Sports Night, 8 p.m., Field House.

Wednesday—Jazz Concert 8 p.m., Dougherty.

Friday—Promenade, 9 til 1, Field House.

Saturday—Dinner Dance, 6:30 p.m., Ben Franklin Hotel.

Classes Line Up Officer Nominees Tomorrow at 10:30

DICK SCHLEICHER
BELLE AIR Editor

Machines of the political kind will be primed and cranked tomorrow at 10:30 as nominations for class offices are held. Campaign restrictions, however, will cause undergraduate soap box orators to be quite reticent.

Juniors will meet in 204 C&F to choose nominees from their six hundred and thirty-one class members. The class of '58 will meet in the C&F Auditorium. This class has seven hundred and fifty-nine potential candidates.

Both juniors and sophomores will nominate men for the offices of president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, alumni representative and student council representatives for residents and dayhops from the Arts, C&F and Engineering schools.

Freshmen: 207 C&F

The present freshmen meeting in 207 C&F, will select candidates for the offices of president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer as well as two men to join the previously elected Al Sheppard and Don Kempf on the Student Council.

Restrictions on the candidates were announced by the Rev. George McLaughlin O.S.A., Dean of Students Activities, last week. Foremost among these, said Father McLaughlin, is the prospective candidate's scholastic, disciplinary and chapel records. All nominees will be screened by the Administration in regard to these three points.

Official position in a campus organization will disqualify a prospective class official and the Student Council has imposed the regulation that a man may run only for the office for which he has been nominated.

Elections will be held on May 9 in Alumni Hall from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Rules Of Campaign

Prior to this date, the following campaign rules must be observed. To allow time for the screening of candidates, no public campaigning may begin before May 4. Signs may be posted only on regulation bulle-

(Continued on Page 11)

Junior Yearbook Portraits Taken Starting May 7

A new look in senior portraits will be in effect when two photographers begin taking pictures May 7, according to Dick Schleicher, editor of the 1957 BELLE AIR.

All juniors will be photographed in blazers—men in blue and coeds in white.

Week For Pictures

Schleicher said photographers from Carl Wolf Studios in Philadelphia will be on duty each school day from May 7 through May 16. Pictures will be taken between 10 a.m. and about 4 p.m. Appointment cards will be distributed, the editor explained.

Juniors without blazers were requested to borrow the jackets and to wear dressy trousers—not khakis, Schleicher stressed. Men will wear white shirts and any kind of neckties, according to the editor.

Schleicher urged all juniors to have their portraits taken as soon as possible to avoid a rush next fall aroud deadline time.

Peering . . .

With Dick Peer

. . . At the week's conversation piece, the classical conduct of our neighboring collegues. It seems we have a woman's West Point in our midst. According to the Philadelphia papers in their play by play reports, a campus blue law has been fractured with the assistance of a number of Villanova gentlemen. But alas, things have again returned to the sub-normal.

. . . At some of the answers to teen agers' prayers seen in the local town these days. Our fabled boy Eddy is actually nothing more than a long-haired, be-bopping, shifty-eyed delinquent who thinks that gravity is something rather "cool" which helps the world revolve on its rocking and rolling axis.

PEER

. . . At the blasted trees about campus which apparently haven't received the word. Spring is here trees, for Pete's sake, turn green.

. . . Around the campus in search of classroom area to replace doomed Belle Air Hall. The old Pie Shoppe looks like first choice with the elder Barber Shop taking the overflow. Then of course, there's the Power Plant for the engineers and Leary Hall for those smaller classes. And the P and W Station is hardly ever used.

. . . At the new Law Building going up so fast over there, it's hard to believe. "Once we start pouring cement," said one of the workers, "we don't stop for nothing. Just the other day poor Joe fell in and they wouldn't even let us stop to get him out." (Note: Joe now forms a small part of the Southwestern wall, the little lump near the bottom being his nose.)

. . . At Prince Reindeer and Queen G bobbing around the Mediterranean accompanied by ten peering crewmen. Just thought I'd note this minor miracle so that the VILLANOVAN wouldn't feel left out.

. . . At Fathers' Day and the Fathers who had quite a look at Villanova. As a result, the Fathers might find themselves slowed up a bit this week, while their sons might find their allowances cut in half. Will the sons who had anything to drink with their Fathers kindly turn themselves in.

Villanovan

Villanova University Villanova Pa.

Thomas E. Smith
Editor-in-Chief

Bob Strayton . . . . Managing Editor
Bill Jones . . . . Feature Editor
Joe De Grazia . . . . Business Manager
Joe Slavin . . . . Sports Editors
Bob Mulcahy
Jack Dunning . . . . Copy Editors
Frank Dolony . . . . News Editor
Big Heitz . . . . Photography Editor
Jon Enerski
Phil Seefried . . . . Cartoon Editor
Nick Pedone . . . . Circulation Manager
Bill Brown

Faculty Moderator
Rev. Louis A. Renglone, O.S.A.
This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Scholar, Gentleman, Athlete.
LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1928 under the act of March 3, 1879.
MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE PRESS ASSOCIATION

INSPECTING LIBRARY EXHIBIT

Four seminarians look over the Augustian Exhibit which is to be displayed in the Villanova Library as part of the local celebration of the 700th anniversary of the Grand Union of the Augustinian Order. Seminarians are (left to right): Bruce Fleck, Edward Andrews, Jim Sheridan and William Garland.

CAMPUS COMMENT

Outlooks of the Editor

★ ★

Main Line Olympics

Cortina may have its Winter Olympics and Melbourne its Summer Olympics, gigantic in scope and followed fervently around the world, but the day is quickly drawing near when the Main Line will produce its own version of these athletic games, the Villanova Olympics—otherwise known as Blue-White Day.

Saturday, May 5, will mark the annual occasion when between sun-up and sun-down every varsity athlete wearing the blue and white of Villanova's Wildcats will display his wares against a formidable group of alumni and intercollegiate competition.

From the initial crack of wood meeting ball on the first tee of Aronimink Country Club at 9 A. M., to the last crack again of wood meeting ball amidst the lengthening, late afternoon shadows on Villanova's baseball diamond, thousands of spectators, students, alumni and friends alike, will be afforded the opportunity of attending a panorama of sports almost unmatched in this country.

To pick one outstanding highlight of this sports carnival appears to be an insurmountable task. It could be basketball. Such former Wildcat stars as Arizin, Hennessey, Glassmire, Schafer, and Devine, to mention a few, return to the garb of blue and white to take on coach Severance's next season's charges on the Field House courts.

Then again, it could be track. A strong St. Joe track team invades Goodreau Stadium, led by the Middle Atlantic middle distance champion, Frank McLoughlin in a dual meet with Jumbo Jim Elliott's sprinters. Records are sure to be rewritten when Messrs. Delany, Jenkins, Bragg, Sydnor, Reavis et al dig into the cinders.

Then there is the football game. An energetic, even if a bit corpulent and short winded Alumni team featuring men like Gene Filipski, Bobby Haner and Don McComb clash helmets with next year's promising football Wildcats.

But how can you sell the baseball team short as it pits its fine record against inter-city rival LaSalle, or the Wildcat linksmen who take on some of the finest golfers in the city up at Aronimink. You cannot conceivably overlook alumni like Billy Albertus and Don Wieland, two former Villanova golf captains.

As Confucius would probably have said, if given the chance, "Don't miss the Villanova Olympics."

★ ★

Don't Believe Everything

All this talk out of Russia lambasting the late Stalin must strike some American observers as the Communist Party's change of pace pitch.

The lengthy denunciations of the man who ruled Russia for so long, and exiled so many of his subordinates to Siberia and to the grave, appear as deliberate attempts on the part of Khrushchev to lure the United States and other free nations to a belief that the Communists have abruptly changed their tactics.

It's like the pitcher standing out there on a sun-drenched mound, winding up and slipping a slow pitch by the batter. He's trying to catch that hitter off guard with his change of pace.

And there is much to support the belief that this is the plan Khrushchev and his fellow Russians have in mind, even though they wouldn't know Del Ennis from an umpire.

Especially in regard to the position of the Catholic Church should freedom-loving citizens be wary. Khrushchev is definitely not the man to persuade anyone that the time has come when Catholics may revise their opinions about the Church's treatment from the Communists. For it was Mr. K., as secretary of the Communist Party in the Ukraine, who was responsible for the liquidation of the entire Catholic Church of the Ruthenian rite in the Western Ukraine in 1945. The territory had been transferred to the Soviet Union from Poland under the Yalta Agreement.

Mr. K. was responsible for the arrest and deportation of the entire hierarchy. None has been heard from since.

Catholics throughout the world should wait until Mr. K. declares emphatically that his mind has changed about what happened before they revise their opinions about the man who is now intent on destroying the Russian peasants' respect for the departed Stalin.

Let Mr. K. come through with that high, fastball, first.

Collegiate Whirl

Scranton, Pa.-(ACP)-This is from the letters to the editor column of the Marywood College Marywoodian:

"Dear Editor,
If the teachers just knew
All that we girls go through
When is comes to taking a test,
On a day that comes after
A night full of laughter
They'd think twice, and give us a rest.

Who'd care to explain
A ballad's refrain,
Or fill in the blanks on a page?
When she's so full of knowledge
About some 'Joe College'
Her brain is still locked in a cage.

So now I petition
Anyone who will listen,
To join in my humble song
'Teacher, be nice and sweet,
Till we're back on our feet
Or the answers all will be wrong.'"

—Pat Clark

* * *

THIS AND THAT

FORT WORTH, TEX.-(ACP)-The following were gathered from the Skiff, published at Texas Christian University:

"Two students caught selling "hot" textbooks have been advised by Baylor officials to omit the usual registration procedure for the spring term. Students now selling used books to the store must leave their names in event the text has been pilfered. The trouble arose when a student bought another book to replace one which was stolen and discovered it was his long lost edition."

"It is not improper to kiss a girl's hand, but decidedly out of place."

"Another great danger of one-arm driving is that you are so likely to skid into a church."

And this notice from the Arkansas Traveler: "Members of the Ozark hikers club will meet behind Old Main before 1:45 Sunday for a trip to White river valley. Wear old clothes and heavy-soled shoes for hiking. Bring auto transportation if possible."

If not, the hikers will just have to walk!

* * *

THE FUNNIES

STOCKTON, CALIF.-(ACP-The next time there's a lull in the conversation, toss in the following. They're from the Collegiate Quips column of the Stockton College Collegian:

Getting the baby to sleep before midnight is perhaps the most difficult when she is about 17.

He will have little to say who never talks about himself.

How easy it is to do depends on how hard you're trying to do it.

* * *

MORE CHUCKLES

(ACP)—A couple more of the quips that turn up so frequently in papers all over the country. Passed along for what they're worth.

COURTSHIP—The period of time that elapses while a girl decides whether she can find something better.

FLATTERY—Soft soap . . . it's 99% lye.

Newly-Formed Soc. For Advancement Of Management Nat'lly Recognized

Economist Speaks To Phila. SAM

On March 6, approximately 25 members of the proposed Villanova Student Chapter of the Society for Advancement of Management along with Professor George Pearce and Dr. Walter H. Klein—co-moderators of the organization—were honored guests at the monthly meeting of the Philadelphia Senior Chapter at the Poor Richard Club.

The featured speaker, Professor Franco Modigliani, gave an informative report on a government-financed operations research project that is currently being conducted by the Graduate School of Industrial Administration of Carnegie Institute of Technology. The operations research team consisted of Professors Modigliani, Simon, and Hart.

International Reputation

Professor Modigliani is an internationally famous economist, having been educated both in Europe and the United States, and having taught at such institutions as University of Illinois, University of Rome, and currently at Carnegie Tech. He has written numerous articles for the learned journals. His article, "Liquidity Perference and the Theory of Interest and Money," is considered to be one of the outstanding contributions to modern monetary theory. Professor Simon, head of the Industrial Management Department of Carnegie Tech, is a political scientist and a pioneer in the new field of administrative theory and practices. He is one of the authors of Public Administration, and he also wrote Administrative Behavior which is sure to become a classic in the administrative field. Professor Holt is a mathematician and statistician and has made significant contributions in the area of statistical quality control.

Test Case

Professor Modigliani reported that a Pittsburgh manufacturing firm employing some 4,000 employees permitted the operations research team to investigate production programming problems within the firm. The team soon discovered that the yearly sales record of the firm experienced wide fluctuations. Consequently, one programming strategy would have been to allow production to follow the undulations of the sales pattern. In this case the cost of carrying inventories would be minimized, but the cost of hiring and firing would be maximized and the cost of run-outs would be substantial. An alternative programming stategy would have been to stabilize production at some "normal" or average rate of expected yearly sales. The advantage here would be that the cost of hiring and firing would be minimized and the cost of run-outs reduced, but the cost of carrying inventories would rise skyward.

Complicated Commerce

Neither of these alternatives was considered adequate from a cost viewpoint. Consequently, the O.R. team went to work and with the aid of game theory, matrix algebra, and quadratic

(Continued on Page 5)

TOM WHALEN
First SAM President

Inaugural Dinner In Dougherty

Another step in Villanova University's era of expansion will take place tonight when the Villanova chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management will hold its inaugural dinner on the campus in Dougherty Hall.

The Rev. Joseph C. Bartley, O.S.A., dean of the C and F school will accept the charter from Mr. Frederick Justin, current president of the Philadelphia chapter, as the official representative of the parent chapter.

Mr. Harold Fisher, Ph.D., vice-president and coordinator of all student chapters, from Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Pa., the Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., university president, as well as other members of the faculty and administration have been invited.

Chapter Growing

Plans have been underway for the past six weeks in preparation for the formal chapter presentation under the supervision of Dr. Walter H. Klein who will be faculty advisor of the Villanova chapter. Thomas J. Whelen has been elected president; Thomas McGuini, vice-president; David Franklin, secretary; Donald Morris, treasurer and Patrick Keenan, publicity director.

Thus far, more than fifty members have been enrolled in the Villanova chapter. The constitution has been drawn up and the student activities are under way. Arrangements are being made for a field trip to the Scott Paper Company, Chester Pa., in the near future. The new Industrial Administration Department has also been very active in the organization of the student chapter.

Attend Automation Conference

On August 13, the newly organized chapter attended an automation conference at Drexel Institute of Technology in Philadelphia. Dr. G. J. Anyon, Ph.D., was the main speaker, delivering an informative discussion of automation in business. Following Dr. Anyon's talk, the group broke up into seminars dealing with the specific types of automation used in the functions of the various departments.

Society's Functions Outlined:

The Society for Advancement of Management is the recognized national professional organization of management in industry, commerce, government and education, and is dedicated to the promotion and advancement of the art and science of management.

Through the University Chapter Program, the Society endeavors to further management education, making a significant contribution to the preparation of young men and women for careers in the business world and render a service to industry.

Aid Given Chapters

Sponsoring senior chapters, the National office assists the student groups in organizing and planning activities, in securing speakers and pulishing material. Dinner meetings, seminars, lecturers, conferences, research projects and plant visits provide a valuable supplement to the classroom.

Each student chapter is guided carefully by a faculty advisor and assisted by the sponsoring senior chapter through the student co-ordinator, while the University program as a whole is under the direction of a national society vice-president of university chapters, Professor Harold Fisher, Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Pa.

Objectives Outlined

There are three main objectives of the University Program of SAM. These include: (1)

(Continued on Page 11)

Political Round-Up:

Presidential Nomination Questions Serious Threat To Democrat Party Unity

By GENE DONOHUE

As early as it is in the election year, the campaigns of the major parties, especially the Democrats are taking on some very interesting aspects.

Unlike the pre-convention period of 1952, the presidential nomination of Eisenhower on the Republican ticket will be just a formality. Again, it is a fairly sure assumption that if Mr. Nixon decides to run for Vice-President, the convention will approve; and as far as the platform goes, there appears to be no serious division that will arise over its text.

Democrats Have Problems

The Democrats, on the other hand, have three fundamental decisions to make: the presidential nomination, the vice-presidential nomination, and the planks of the platform on which the Northern and Southern wings of the party hold contradictory opinions. The chief concern of the party leaders right now, however, is the presidential nomination.

DONOHUE

As anyone who picks up a newspaper today knows, there are two leading contenders for this nomination . . . Adlai E. Stevenson, well known Illinois statesman and loser to Eisenhower four years ago and Estes Kefauver, senator from Tennessee and head of the juvenile delinquency subcommittee.

Possible Standoff

Kefauver began strongly and had his opponents worried about his smashing victory in Minnesota over heavy odds. However, this win seemed to be well equaled by Steveson's victory in his own state, Illinois, and more recently in New Jersey. Each of the candidates has his good qualities and his bad, as do all men, but if things continue as they are there may be no need to consider them. As has happened in so many conventions before, it is possible that neither candidate may be able to muster the vote necessary to secure the nomination.

From this point, the situation resolves to the logical query of, "If neither of them, who?" Here once again we have two possibilities; Governor Averell Harriman of New York and Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri. Symington appears to be a nominee who could unite the factions, hold the South in line and have a ready made issue against the president—air defense. But perhaps the biggest asset of Harriman is that he has not committed himself specifically to any set policy. As Tammany inspired letters begin to circulate in favor of his nomination, his "inactive" status becomes more and more a figure of speech and less and less a reality.

Break For G.O.P.

If this trend in the Democratic Party continues, and a neutral or "dark horse" candidate must be chosen who has neither the national publicity nor prestige of Stevenson or Kefauver, there is a possibility that once again President Eisenhower will ride in to the nation's higest administrative office atop another Republican landslide.

VILLANOVAN Interviews Father Falvey:

Library Faculty Committee Increases Student Interest

This week, the VILLANOVAN has reached into the core of university learning, the library, and in an interview with the Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O.S.A., Villanova librarian, learned what it takes to supply the student body with the proper books so necessary for their education.

In first place, Father Falvey put the operation in the hands of the Library Faculty Committee. This committee is in its second year and is chairmaned by Dr. Walter Klein who has succeeded Dr. Harold Hartmann, chairman of the history division at Villanova. The specific job of the organization is to aid the librarian in administrating the library and in solving its many problems.

Committee Members

Members of the committee are: Rev. John P. Maher, O.S.A., Rev. John A. Klekotka, O.S.A., Father Falvey, Sister Mary Margarella, O.S.F., Dr. Joseph C. Savage, Mr. Frederick M. Burgess, Dr. Eugene P. Powers, dean of the evening division, Dr. John A. McClain, Dr. Edward J. Monahan, Mr. Joseph W. Ratigan and Mr. Charles P. Bruderle.

Father Falvey, encouraged by this committee, said, "The committee is currently working on suggestions how policy of the library can best be interpreted to the faculty and to the students. Since the information of this committee, the material, books and periodicals have greatly increased and have stimulated the interest of the faculty in the library."

By BOB O'CONNOR

Father Falvey also pointed out that the committee is working on a library manual for the faculty showing the faculty's privileges and uses of the library. It is hoped that next year a similar committee will be organized among the students.

Open Stack System

Father Felvey said that the open stack system gives the student a chance to derive a better education from choosing his own book as opposed to the system where the stacks are closed to the students and the library staff selects the book upon request.

In regard to future plans, the over-all facilities of the library will be greatly expanded. The present Law Library will become a reserve book reading room and the Villanova Room will be returned to the location of the present law offices.

In discussing student-library cooperation, Father Falvey said that the Delta Pi Mu Art Fraternity recently donated a valuable set of the Latin Classics, Corpus Christianorum.

Air Conditioning

In an observing position, the Reverend librarian pointed out that the library has always a trained member of the staff present to aid the students. The warm weather will be less noticeable also for the library had installed by the Delaware Valley Air Conditioning and Heating Company air-conditioning for the ground and main floors.

With every library, there must be a hard working library staff to aid the students with the vast amount of research work they must accomplish in four years at college.

The staff of the Villanova library consists of: the Rev. Michael J. O'Donnell, O.S.A., Miss Lucy Gates, Miss Mary Jane Kuhn, Miss Mary Dorian, Miss Anne O'Neal, Mrs. Joan O'Kane and Miss Margaret Speck.

It is the Villanova library, complete with its librarian, its Library Faculty Committee and its diligent staff which makes the work of the student of Villanova University just a little bit easier.

Benjamin Franklin, Kaiser Wilhelm Collaborate On Daylight Saving Time

By BILL JONES

At approximately 2 A.M. Sunday, April 29, thanks to two men, William II of Germany and "Philadelphia's own" Benjamin Franklin, daylight saving time will once more glide quietly into effect.

Oddly enough, these two men had absolutely no direct contact with daylight saving, its origin, or any of its contemporary aspects. But it was indirectly through Germany's Kaiser and the United State's Franklin that daylight saving time first appeared on the international scene in England, May 21, 1917.

When Benjamin Franklin first wandered out into the fields to go fly his famous kite, with famous key attached, through the howling electric storm, little did he realize that some day this little venture would necessitate an annual universal change in the world's time system.

Franklin Started It

For it was this discovery of electricity along with the subsequent invention by Thomas Alva Edison of the electric light bulb that necessitated the "saving" of daylight. With the electric light and the steady advance of after dark industry, the world began extending day far into night. As a result, instead of rising and retiring with the sun as had been the custom of the majority since the beginning of man, civilization was utilizing the dark evening hours for work, and sleeping away—wasting—precious hours of daylight early in the morning.

In 1907 in London, an obscure scientist, William Willett by name, published a booklet entitled "Waste of Daylight." His suggestion was to cut the hours between 2 and 3 A.M. of the first four Sundays in April to 40 minutes apiece and make these parallel four hours in October 80 minutes, thus restoring the time. In this way, he pointed out, people would be forced to rise over an hour early every morning and "gain" an hour of light. This extra time would give England more time for daylight leisure and recreation and also some thousands of dollars in electricity bills would be saved.

"Radical," Says Parliament

In 1908, and again in 1909, a daylight saving bill was introduced into the House of Commons and was rejected both times as being too radical. Commons saw the plan as nothing but the beginning of a huge mess, as a means of self-deception and comparable to changing the readings on the thermometers during the summer so it wouldn't appear so hot. A heated six-year debate thus ensued between its advocates and enemies.

When all seemed lost, however, the Kaiser (William II) stepped briskly into the picture. Now Wilhelm had never heard a thing about daylight saving, he had other things on his mind, things like conquering Europe and the world. With William came war.

War Pushes D.S.T.

England, being in fairly desperate financial straits, looked frantically around for ways and means of saving money. The answer was of course daylight saving time.

On May 21, 1916, thanks solely to the first World War, daylight saving was put into effect as an economy measure, and it has been in effect every summer since then.

In the United States, a bill drafted by the National Daylight Saving Association was introduced into the Senate by Senator Calder of New York. It was passed June 27, 1917 and put into effect the last Sunday of April, 1918.

It met with such a great success that after the war was over many states and large cities passed bills permanently accepting daylight saving time.

At the present time, besides the United States, daylight saving is practised in Europe, South and Central America and in the larger cities of Canada.

'Voice' Records Spanish Affair

For the first time in Villanova history a social event has been transcribed by the "Voice of America."

Dr. J. G. Fernandez, a "Voice" representative, recorded the speeches and songs at Saturday night's Spanish Club dinner-dance. The recordings will be played for Spanish-speaking countries.

PUBlicly Speaking . . .

By JIM & MIKE

This column offers a hearty welcome to all those loyal girls of a certain neighboring institution who packed up their honor in traveling bags and set off for an unscheduled vacation.

The camel hair coat set had left the "T" for bigger and better things. Who says camels never get thirsty? Venturing forth from the arid campus to a number of oasis parties proved to be their undoing.

Those remaining, out of mourning for the faithful departed and in anticipation of a date-starved spring, wore their finest black. Those who were missed for a week will be strongly welcomed back to their old habitats. Last minute applicants to the war's Honor Roll are still pouring in.

Men of Villanova should take note of a statement of a neighboring college wherein they say their young ladies cannot conduct themselves after one drink. The "T" has returned to the tea and Rosemont to a ghost town.

The paths to Chestnut Hill and Immaculata will be well beaten on the coming Saturday afternoons. This measure must be taken as the order of baseball bats and tennis rackets just ordered will not arrive for awhile. The source of blind dates must switch as constantly does Villanova allegiance. But SAPA must go on.

Pet Peeve of the Week: W.C.T.U.

Judges Hear Catania At Convention

Senior Charlie Catania delivered a paper before a panel of judges at the student convention of the American Society of Civil Engineers Monday at Princeton.

Fifty members of the local chapter and Mr. John J. Gallen, professor of civil engineering, attended the two-day convention which opened Sunday. Civil engineering students from all over the Philadelphia area attended.

Catania is president of the Villanova chapter.

Election Soon

Meanwhile, Catania announced that local chapter elections will be held "within the next few weeks." The final ASCE function of the semester will be a regular meeting near the end of May, Catania added.

get acquainted with . . .
The Villanova Pharmacy
(ON LANCASTER AVENUE, AT THE WEST END OF THE CAMPUS)
Finest PRESCRIPTION Service

Around Philly:

Button-Down Collars With White Jackets

By TODD PUCK

A male's attire for spring and summer formal occasions has come a long way since the days when black tie and tails were the style, even in hot weather.

In 1956 Philadelphia, even button-down collars may be worn, according to a spokesman for Jacob Reed's.

A less spectacular piece of attire is the single breasted white dinner jacket. Although the double-breasted style is still acceptable, the single has been catching on more and more with the crew-cut and balding sets.

Even Brocades

Cummerbund and tie combinations are a matter of personal taste—they range from the bright plaids to midnight blue and maroon. Brocades are also worn.

Fashion experts seem to prefer the maroon or midnight blue styles for something like the Junior Prom and Dinner Dance. Cummerbunds are worn with the single breasted jacket, but

(Continued on Page 7

6 Typewriters

Typeomatic

30 Min. for 10c 1st Stock, Library

We will be pleased to interview any June graduate interested in a career in the brokerage business.

Telephone or write Mr. Henry H. Fahrig for an appointment and one of our 12-page illustrated booklets portraying operations in our Philadelphia office.

REYNOLD'S & CO.
1526 CHESTNUT STREET
PHILADELPHIA 2, PA.
LO 4-0505

Thirty-six offices from coast-to-coast. Members of the New York Stock Exchange and other leading stock, bond and commodity exchanges.

J. Paul Sheedy* Had A Hangdog Look Till Wildroot Cream-Oil Gave Him Confidence

Poor old mangy Sheedy was hounded by a lack of confidence! Every girl he talked to told him he was barking up the wrong tree. "Fido'nt get a date pretty soon," he howled, "I'm gonna flea the campus and go home to mutter." Then he got wise to Wildroot Cream-Oil. Now he has confidence in any situation because he nose his hair looks healthy and handsome, the way Nature intended . . . neat but not greasy. Contains the heart of Lanolin, the very best part of Nature's finest hair and scalp conditioner. Get yourself a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil, America's biggest selling hair tonic. It gives you the confidence you need to be a gay dog.

*of 1,91 So. Harris Hill Rd., Williamsville, N. Y.

Wildroot Cream-Oil gives you confidence!

Wildroot Company, Inc., Buffalo 11, N. Y.

Football tackle Don Luzzi displays his "feminine charms" to members of T'n T's "Barbara of Seville" dancing chorus (left to right) Pat Callan, Larry Fitzpatrick, and Bob Van Dine.

Distribution Date Of Belle Air Listed

Editor-in-chief Dick Fitzpatrick announced today that the 1956 BELLE AIR will be distributed during the week of May 14.

Theme of the yearbook will be "Unities." It will reflect the solidarity of rapidly-expanding Villanova, the editor added.

The book, which will run to 291 pages, will include more pictures than ever before and will contain a number of fascinating surprises," Fitzpatrick said.

The BELLE AIR will be released first at a staff dinner to be held some night during the week of May 14.

Distribution to students will probably be made in the old Pie Shoppe, according to Fitzpatrick.

READ

THE VILLANOVAN

T'n T To Present Special Production For Early Moms, Stubs Needed All Day Mon.

Juniors are reminded that they should be sure to have their Mothers' Day tickets stubs with them for all events Monday.

Juniors looking for a way to entertain their mothers if they arrive Sunday night may take in Turf 'n Tinsel's "Barbara of Seville" for $1.

Class president Jack Decker said the dollar will admit the junior and his mother. A special section up front will be preserved for third year men and their mothers, Decker said.

The play opens Wednesday night and closes with the Sunday night performance. The reduced ticket plan was initiated by the Class of 1956 for last year's Mothers' Day.

Library Exhibit For May Features 7th Centennial

The seventh Centennial of the Augustinian Grand Union will be celebrated in the May exhibit in the University Library.

Augustinian Grand Union refers to the action of Pope Alexander IV in 1256 which united all Augustinian orders under the Order Hermits of Saint Augustine, which dates back to the year 388.

Library Exhibit

Work on the ambitious display of Augustians is a cooperative effort. The seminarians from St. Mary's Hall are working with The Rev. Daniel Falvey, University Librarian, and his staff and the House of Theology in Washington, D.C.

Modigliani

(Continued from Page 3)

programming were able to devise a statistical decision rule which resulted in an optimum strategy.

The rule was then tested to see how production costs under the rule would have compared with the production cost record actually established by management. The O.R. team worked out the rule assuming two different sales forecasts—one a naive forecast and the other a certainty forecast which they were able to do working with past data. Using the naive forecast, production costs under the rule would have been 30% below the cost record actually attained by management. Using the certainty forecast, the decline would have been 40%.

Uses Scientific Tools

One result of the study to which Professor Modigliani alluded is that perhaps programming problems which have been attributed to the inability to forecast sales with a high degree of accuracy have been over exaggerated. Note that there was only a 10% differential between the result under the worst possible sales forecast and the best possible forecast. In other words, even though sales cannot be predicted with a high degree of certainity, making use of rigorous, scientific tools of analysis seems to result in better answers than just "playing it by ear" or using over-simplified rules of thumb.

The firm, with limited help from the O.R. team, is now making use of the statistical decision rule in actually planning production. Professor Modigliani reported that one of the interesting by-products of using the rule has been improved relations within the firm. In other words, management apparently feels more secure under the rule so that they believe that they can spend less time worrying about cost problems and more time worrying about human relations problems.

Methods Made Clear

While Professor Modigliani's talk was by its very nature highly complex and technical, no one was at any time in doubt concerning the nature of the problem,the method that was being used in its analysis, and the significance of the finding. It showed that a lot of creative thinking and technical know-how can and must go into the intelligent solution of business and industrial problems. After the meeting many of the students had the opportunity to meet and talk with Professor Modigliani.

PACKS MORE PLEASURE
because it's More Perfectly Packed!

Satisfy Yourself with a Milder, Better-Tasting smoke—packed for more pleasure by exclusive Accu-Ray

The more perfectly packed your cigarette, the more pleasure it gives . . . and Accu-Ray packs Chesterfield far more perfectly.

To the touch . . . to the taste, an Accu-Ray Chesterfield satisfies the most . . . burns more evenly, smokes much smoother.

Firm and pleasing to the lips . . . mild yet deeply satisfying to the taste—Chesterfield alone is pleasure-packed by Accu-Ray.

KING-SIZE & REGULAR

CHESTERFIELD MILD, YET THEY Satisfy!

© LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

Strictly Opinion

By DON ALTON

"Prohibition aims by law to deprive the citizens of access to alcoholic beverages. It is neither an efficient nor human remedy for the drink evil. It is not efficient because it does not work but rather induces worse evils than those it attempts to remedy. It is not a human remedy for two reasons. First, it rests on the presupposition that all drinking is an absolute evil. There is a sober and innocent drinking which has its place in life. It is not use but abuse which makes the moral evil. Secondly, the human way to solve a moral difficulty is not by an attack on human freedom, that is, by violent compulsion to induce observance of the moral law. This is not the way Divine Providence treats human weakness. A free man is not made a better man either by compelling him to outward observance of the law or by depriving him of the opportunity of breaking the law." —"Man as Man," Rev. Thomas J. Higgins, S.J.

Once upon a time in the days of old there were two manors situated opposite each other divided only by a formidable rise in the land, which never seemed to present much of a problem to the residents of the divided castles. These two manors were of dissimilar size and stature, but they each had a common basis for considering them in the same light . . . they were stocked by members of the same flock. However, there was something to be noted about these havens. The larger of the two castles was inhabited by a large group or rams, while the smaller manor was noted for the fine quality of its stock of ewes, its famous pond, and the superiority of its roses.

ALTON

Rams & Ewes Allowed To Mix

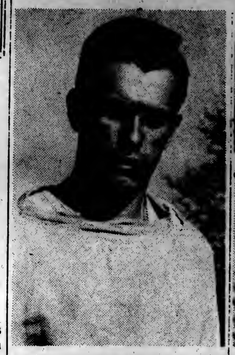
The good shepherds who controlled the rams made repeated efforts to combine the respective flocks while they were not occupied in training them in the ways proper to a superior quality ram. It often occured that the shepherds would allow the rams to get together and organize their playtime on their own. Since these rams recognized the quality of the ewes on the neighboring patch of grazing land, they would often stray over the rise at great hazard to their lives, due to the sudden appearance of large, loud dragons which would appear with great speed. The master of the shepherds recognized the fact that his rams were visiting the nearby patch, and he was very pleased that his charges had the opportunity to mingle with their own kind, all members of the same species of sheep.

But, alas, the ewes of the patch were, in the main, treated with less trust and confidence in their training than were the rams across the way, and the young sheep often found it quite difficult to graze in the same areas. It puzzled the rams to see the owners of the manor, the one with the pond and the roses of such quality, so eager to have the ewes travel to strange pastures, for the experienced rams knew too well the hazards involved in a trip of this kind. We all know the stories of wolves that garbed themselves in sheep's clothing!

Unfounded Fears Cause Difficulty

The families of the rams and the ewes looked with favor upon the mingling of these two flocks, but the desires and the unfounded fears of the strict owners of the smallest manor continued to make it difficult for the young sheep to get together. They considered the rams from the castle across the divide as indiscriminate in their manners, and they believed that some of the stock fell below the standards they desired. . .but they were all of the same flock!

All Sheep Flocked Together



As it came to pass, a great number of the ewes recognized that they could find the best times in the company of the local rams, and they decided to follow these youths in the pursuit of fun on their playtime. These sheep frolicked in many of the local pastures, and they even mingled with a few of the ewes and rams from the other manors in the vicinity. To sum it all up . . . a good clean time was had by all, and none of the ewes were contaminated by the association with rams from across the way. It even happened that some of these sheep, after their formal training ended, journeyed off to raise their own sheep . . . and these were all of the same flock!

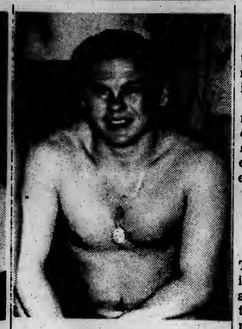
The divergence of trust and supervision between the guides of the two groups of sheep resulted in a great catastrophe. Many of the ewes were sent home to their parent flocks because they had imbibed in the accepted manners of revel for the developing of sheep. When the ewes returned to their own home pastures, their parents were no doubt amazed at the unrealistic attiude of the edict, which emanated from the basement of one of the wings of the castle of the roses. During the protracted visits the ewes make to their homes in the seasons that they are not being trained, they are allowed to act as if their training had produced the desired effect, and the mama and papa sheep never noted any unusual actions on the part of the young ewes.

The moral of this fable of the rams and the ewes across the divide is that the example of the good shepherds' liberal attitude and the value of the training of the rams for their later lives assures them of a more practical and substantial background for the pastures ahead and a safe journey to meet the shepherd.

Saint Paul said," stop drinking water only, and use a little wine for thy stomach's sake and thy frequent infirmities." .I Timothy, 5, 23.

SPORTS NIGHT AWARD CANDIDATES

AL LIGORELLI
Track, middle distance



TOM CASEY
Baseball, first base

BILL REILLY
Track, middle distance

DAN SEVERINO
Baseball, pitcher

PAT KEAN
Swimming, freestyle

Nominations

(Continued from Page 1)

tin boards except in the case of neat bulletin boards or billboards in the vicinty of the Pie Shoppe.

The entrance to Alumni Hall must be clear of all signs until election day and the use of loudspeaker equipment will be limited to between-class breaks on election day.

T'nT Tonight

(Continued from Page 1)

Geroge Pequinot, veteran T 'n T script writer, has put the finishing touches to the script. He and Bob Whelan, composer of the entire score, words and music, and George Heger Noake, faithful show choreographer, along with Kelly have succeeded in keeping the doors of the Field House closed to all outsiders during the long weeks of rehearsal in an effort to produce another typically surprising and hilarious Turf and Tinsel musical comedy.

Drake Hotel New Site of Villanovan Dinner Dance

Editor-in-chief Tom Smith, who has been approved by the administration for next year, will introduce other editors during the VILLANOVAN's annual dinner dance May 9.

The affair will be held in the ballroom of the Drake Hotel in Philadelphia. All students who have worked on the paper during the year are invited to attend. Tickets, priced at $3 per couple, may be purchased from Harry Nash (238 Good Counsel).

Besides the introduction of new editors, keys will be awarded to seniors who have worked on the staff this year.

Speaker To Be Heard

A guest speaker may be procured, Nash indicated. Dancing will follow the banquet, but no band has been announced.

Guests expected to attend are the Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A., the paper's moderator and the Rev. George A. McLaughlin, O.S.A., dean of student activities.

WANTED: WAITERS

Students who want to wait on tables for the Mothers' Day luncheon April 30 should contact chairman Jack O'Rourke right away.

O'Rourke said he would need about 40 waiters to serve luncheon from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

ICG Sends 24 To Convention In Harrisburg

The Intercollegiate Conference on Government held a model presidential convention at Harrisburg last week. The purpose of this convention was to give the participating students an insight on the workings of such a convention and to prepare them to assume the duties of citizens.

Villanova sent the largest delegation from the Southeast region of Pennsylvania, consisting of twenty-four members.

Butler and Chase Speak

The opening addresses were given by Paul Butler, National Chairman of the Democratic Party, and Senator Chase, of Nebraska, representing the Republican Party. Committees were then organized to formulate rules and agree upon a bipartisan election platform.

Presidential nominations then mentioned Eisenhower, Stevenson, Warren, Truman, McCarthy, and others. Individual voting followed with Stevenson winning the first ballot. Since this ballot did not give a majority to the Illinois Democrat, a second ballot named Eisenhower, who became the I.C.G. presidential nominee for 1956.

Sophomore Mike Rafferty Designs Seal For Singers

Charlie Ross, newly elected president of the Villanova Singers, has announced the completion, by Mike Rafferty, arts sophomore, of a seal for the two-year organization.

The seal, the first ever designed by a student for an organization, is basically a shield divided into three sections. On the left half is a "G" clef with the letters "VU" in one corner. The right half, divided in two, represents the dual function of the organization. On the top is a singing mask and two sixteenth notes which represent the club's secular activities. Beneath that is a crucifix, a bledding heart and candelabra, standing for the religious functions of the club.

Dates to '26

Above the shield is a scroll with the words "Villanova Singers" and the year 1926, the year of the first student singing organization on campus.

Below the shield is another scroll bearing the Latin inscription, "Cantate, Cantate," which means, "Music Soothes the Savage Beast."

Won Scholarship

Rafferty, whose interest in art work stretches back to grade school days when he won an art scholarship to Carnegie Tech, felt that the seal gives added significance to "one of the most successful young singing organizations in the country."

Busy Boy

In addition to his membership in the Singers, Rafferty is a diver on Ed Geisz' swimming team, treasurer-elect of Delta Pi Mu, and a member of the LYNX and BELLE AIR Staffs.

Doctor Heininger Presents Paper At Science Meeting

Dr. Clarence G. Heininger, one one of the new members of the Chemistry Department, will present a paper at the annual meeting of the Philadelphia Catholic Round Table of Science Saturday at St. Vincent College, Latrobe, Pa.

Title of the paper will be "Spallation of Vanadium by Bombardment with 60-240 M. E. V. Protons."

Dr. Edgar E. Stinson represented Villanova's Chemistry Department at the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Association of College Chemistry Teachers Saturday at Albright College in Reading.

Villanova Graduate

Dr. Heininger, who took his BS degree in chemistry from Villanova in 1950, came here last September. He was a research associate at Princeton in 1954-55, after receiving his doctorate degree in physical chemistry from the University of Rochester.

Clark Named Vice-President Of PASCA

Joe Clark, Villanova Junior chemistry major, was elected vice-president of the Philadelphia Area Student Chemical Association, April 13 at the organization's monthly meeting, held at Villanova.

Clark is the first Villanovan ever to hold an office in the PASCA. He has recently been elected as secretary-treasurer of the Villanova Chemical Society.

The other officers elected were: Alex Wolf, P.M.C., president; Joanne DiMarino, Rosemont, treasurer and Deborah Aronson, Penn, Secretary.

The meeting was held in the library of Commodore John Barry Hall. It was the first meeting of the group to be held at Villanova in several years.

Sophomore Mike Rafferty holds the seal he designed for the Villanova Singers. It has been accepted by the organization.

M/Sgt. John Waryha of the NEOTC unit shows drill team commander Walt Gould "hero" medal (top from a tin can) which members of the Pershing Rifles gave him during a banquet Saturday night.

White Jackets

(Continued from Page 1)

aren't needed with the double.

Besides the ultra-modern button-down style for formal wear, plain white shirts or pleated front shirts can be worn.

Loafers In Style

Now for the shoes. Plain toed loafers with a tassel—black, of course—are worn even more frequently than the traditional black dress shoes, according to one style man.

As far as trousers go, black or midnight blue are preferred. The fellow who shows up at the Prom or Dinner Dance in the shorts which are gaining converts around Florida and California resorts would be rather conspicuous.

One more little detail . . . a flower is worn by the man only if his lady fair is wearing flowers.

WANTED: WAITERS

Students who want to wait on tables for the Mothers' Day luncheon April 30 should contact chairman Jack O'Rourke right away.

Michaels, 'A Ballad on Don Cervantes' Wins Contest

A BALLAD ON DON CERVANTES

Off went Miguel to fight the Turks,
To win him fame at war,
But wounds soon had him homeward bound
To battle nevermore.

Much time at work Cervantes spent
With meanst recompense,
And troubles with the government
Saw jail for each offense.

Poor man, he sat within a cell;
His spirit, yet unbound
Traversed imagination's world.
His brain began to pound.

It pounded up, it pounded down,
His fancy wandered free.
Then came to him the pseudo-knight
And immortality.

Quixote paid him dividends
And brought the wealth he sought;
But probing hands from every side
Reduced it all to nought.

Cervantes was a mighty man,
Most busy writer he.
Although he had a single hand,
He wrote enough for three.

A dramatist, a poet too,
Much good will he begot.
The Master, loved the whole world through,
Lies in an unmarked plot.

Here is the poem which was awarded a prize in the English poem division of the annual Spanish Club literary contest.

Fatkin AIEE-IRE Chairman

Two tie votes harassed the annual A.I.E.E.-I.R.E. election of officers last week. Harry Fatkin was elected chairman of the student branch on the first ballot, Thomas Rasser was chosen as treasurer, and Anthony LaRosa was elected I.R.E. secretary.

Voting for the posts of vice-chairman and A.I.E.E. secretary, however, was tied. A second voting elected Thomas O'Rourke as vice-chairman and John Ellis as A.I.E.E. secretary.

All the winners are junior electrical engineers and will take office next year.

READ

THE VILLANOVAN

Opera-Classica Meets Tonight

Tonight Opera-Classica presents Tito Gobbi singing the title role in Verdi's "Rigoletto" in 208 C&F.

The recording of this Italian opera will begin promptly at 7 p.m. and features the orchestra and chorus of LaScala of Milan conducted by Tullio Serafin.

Next Wednesday night at the same time O-C offers a double ballet treat—Stravinsky's "Petrouchka" and Tchaikovsky's "Swan Lake."

Dr. Cole Gives Demonstration

Dr. P. J. Cole, an organic chemist of the Barrett Division of the Allied Chemical and Dye Co. gave a demonstration of glassblowing to some 75 members of the Villanova Chemical Society last Thursday night.

Two years ago he delivered a similar lecture to the society and was named an honorary life member of the organization.

Sophomore football lineman Eddie Michaels Jr. (left) and Robert Jones (right), accept awards for their English poem and Spanish composition respectively from Dr. F. X. Claro of the Spanish Consulate at Saturday's Spanish Club dinner dance.

Sig Holtz Photo

Here is part of the crowd of 500 seniors and their dads who converged on campus for the annual Fathers' Day celebration. Rev. Thomas A. Calpin, O.S.A.,class moderator, celebrates Mass. Villanova Singers are on the right.

Garbarino Receives 2 Law Awards At Annual Dinner

Robert P. Garbarino, a member of the first graduating class from Villanova's School of Law, was awarded two prizes at the school's third annual dinner Thursday night.

He received the Vincent A. Carroll Award ($100) for the highest academic average in second year of law study, given in memory of the Most Rev. Joseph A. Hickey, O.S.A., late Prior General of the Augustinian Order and the Lawyers Title Award ($100), given for the first time by Lawyers Title Insurance Co. of Richmond, Va., for the highest grade in property courses.

St. Bonnie's Grad.

Garbarino, who lives in Wanaque, N.J., was a 1951 graduate of St. Bonaventure College.

Other awards presented at the dinner by Dean Harold Gill Reuschlein:

The Roman Catholic High School Alumni Association Award for the higest average for first year of law study to John C. Voss of Philadelphia (St. Joseph's College, '54.)

Moot Court Prize

Theodore L. Reimel Award ($100) for law club winning the final year Moot Court competition to the Chief Justice Warren Club.

James P. McGranery Award for highest average in constitional law courses to John F. Gaffney (Villanova, '54) and Joseph R. McDonald (LaSalle, '50.)

Garland, Flores Win

Colonel Wilfird Glen McCarthy Award ($50) for best oral argument during final year of Moot Court work to James P. Garland (Loyola of Baltimore, '53) and Arthur R. Flores (Siena, '53.) Prize is given in memory of the late Rev. Joseph B. Moran, O.S.A.

Herman J. Obert Award ($50) for second higest average during the first year of law study to James A. Matthews (Duquesne, '52.)

Featured speaker for the banquet was the Hon. John Biggs Jr., chief judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit.

Martinelli Elected Concert Band Head

Mike Martinelli, a junior in the Arts school, has been elected president of the Villanova Concert Band for next year.

Martinelli, who succeeds senior Jack Gilfillan, said other offices will be filled at a band meeting which has not been scheduled.

A 21-year-old resident student, the new president lives in Landisville, N. J.

Philosophy Club

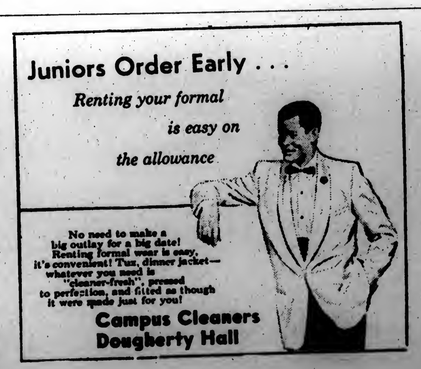
Philosophy Club will elect officers and draft a constitution at a meeting today at 2:30 p.m. in 207 Mendel.

Club president Wilfred Quinn urges all present members and any students interested in joining to attend.

Marketing Club Sells Tickets

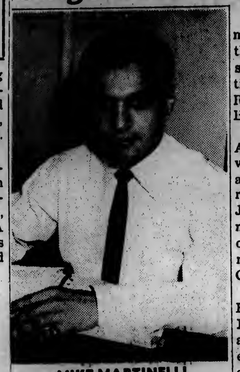
All members of the Marketing Club are requested to obtain tickets for the annual club field trip May 5 from John Kennedy, Henry Whalen or James Speitel. Tickets are priced at $3.

The field trip will include visits to the Breyer Ice Cream plant, The Philadelphia BULLETIN'S offices and Schmidt's, Ortleib's or Gretz breweries. A luncheon with guest speakers will be served at the Broadwood Hotel.



Engineers and Science Majors Get Summer Jobs

College students majoring in engineering and physical and biological sciencce are offered summer employment this year by many federal agencies. Some agencies also offer employment in typing and stenographic jobs.



These federal establishments, both in and outside of Washington, offer jobs with salaries ranging from $224 a month to $284. Rates for scientific jobs depend on the number of school years completed.

Students may obtain further information from the placement office in Mendel Hall, a Civil Service Commission regional office, or the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D.C.

Ross Elected President Of Singers At Thursday Meet

MIKE MARTINELLI
Heads Student Band

Charlie Ross, junior physics major, was elected president of the Villanova Singers for the school year 1956-57 at the elections last Thursday morning. Ross replaced outgoing president Bob Ford.

Sophomore engineer Joe D'Aquilla was voted the club's first vice-president. He moved up a a notch from the office of secretary which he held this year. Jim Judge, junior social studies major recently elected president of Delta Pi Mu, the arts fraternity will be the new Student Council representative.

Sophomore baseball catcher Hank Nichols and freshman Ken MacGillivray concert pianist and accompanist of the Singers were elected to the posts of secretary and librarian respectively. Both ran unopposed. Paul Clarkson, junior English major, was named publicity director. A new student conductor and business manager will be named in the future.

Outgoing president Bob Ford praised this year's officers for their fine work and he especially thanked everyone for the success of the recent choral festival.

New president Ross urged "continued cooperation in the future to insure further club successes," and stated that, "the club is always open for new members, especially for first tenors."

Phi Kappa Pi Bowling Title Won By "Boys"

The Boys have rolled their way to the championship in the Phi Kappa Pi bowling league. They defeated the Four Shots and a Chaser in the finals.

Vince Bresan captained the Boys. Other team members are Val Brasher, John Kiernan and Larry Marhoefer.

The runner-up lineup included Frank Okenka, captain; Billy Quinn, Jim Macdonald and Dick Stewart.

Make your pick
the "pick of the pros"—SPALDING

You'll stop a lot of horsehide with either of these fine Spalding gloves. These are the very same gloves used by two great names in baseball—Alvin Dark,* shortstop captain of the New York Giants and Phil Rizzuto,* veteran shortstop of the New York Yankees.

Both these gloves are made with the finest leather, deep grease pocket and solid web in trap. You don't have to break them in; Spalding does that for you. You can see the complete Spalding line of fine gloves at your Spalding dealer's. now.

*Members of Spalding's Advisory Staff

SPALDING SETS THE PACE IN SPORTS

Al Stoughton Photo

Left fielder Sam Ferretti tries in vain to beat a throw to first during Villanova's 11-0 walloping of St. Joseph's Friday on the losers' field. First baseman is Stan Patykula.

Wildcats Off Usual Form In Queens-Iona Relays

BY JACK CURTIN

Due to its previous showing during the indoor season and in thefirsttwo meets of the outdoor season, the Villanova track team was expected to dominate the Queens-Iona relays held in New York last Friday and Saturday. Instead, it was events they didn't win that made the headlines.

The Wildcats did haul off two of the big events of the meet, but they were far off their usual form. The biggest surprise of the day was the failure of Don Bragg to qualify in the pole vaulting competition.

Bragg, the top collegiate vaulter in the country, is considered a sure bet to win the Olympic crown in the event. Many authorities give him a good chance to become the first man to reach 16 feet in the vault.

Wasn't Bragg's Day

Saturday, however, just wasn't the celebrated six-footer's day. Allowed to start jumping at any height, Bragg chose 13 feet. He failed all-three attempts to make the distance and therefore failed to score.

The winning vault was only 12 feet, 6 inches by Jim Beckman, Yale, and George Paulides, NYU.

Ron Delany, Villanova's Dublin Flash, figured in both of the Wildcat victories. The speedy Soph ran in the mile and four mile relays which Villanova won handily.

The Wildcats established a new meet record in the four mile relay. A Villanova quartet of George Brown, John Kopil, Alex Breckenridge, and Delany won in 17:31.1. Delany was clocked at 4:09.5 in his anchor leg.

Delany Helps in Mile Relay

In the third quarter of the mile relay, won in 3:19, Delany was timed in 49.1 to give anchor man Charlie Jenkins a short lead which he lengthened. Roland Simpson and Al Peterson ran the first two quarters for the Wildcats.

Jenkins, running as anchor man in the sprint medley, met his match in Tom Murphy of Manhattan. The Villanovan, a newcomer to the half mile, started about six feet behind Murphy, but everyone expected him to easily make up the distance. Instead Murphy picked up two yards on the 440 yard champion to win by eight.

Villanova's Freshman mile relay team won its event in 3:22.3. The quartet was made up of William Rahn, Vic Dimeo, Charles Stead, and Ed Collymore.

In the individual events, Bob Holup finished second in the 120 High Hurdles, Jim Fahey took fifth place in the shot putting competition, and Phil Reavis took second in the High Jump with a leap of 6 feet, 4½ inches.

Wildcats Ready To Face Rivals Penn, Seton Hall

By STAN LUPA

The Villanova baseball squad, showing mid-season form in recent contests, will renew a traditional rivalry this afternoon when they engage Penn on the home diamond at 2:30.

Penn, a formidable opponent, and one the Wildcats are always glad to conquer, lost out to Villanova in a hard fought, extra inning battle last season. This contest featured a ten minute argument over a close call in the late innings.

Play Three at Home

A game is scheduled for Friday afternoon with Pennsylvania Military College, who is new to the Villanova schedule. Following this battle on the opponents field, the Wildcats will return for a series of three home contests.

Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. the team will play host to a strong squad. Last year, on their annual spring tour, the Ithicans downed Villanova on the home diamond.

After a game Monday with Temple, another new addition to the schedule, the Wildcats will meet Seton Hall Wednesday afternoon.

Carroll Coaches Seton Hall

Seton Hall, loaded with new talent this year, is coached by Ownie Carroll, a former major league pitcher. Carroll is firmly established as the baseball mentor at the college.

Dick Gaines, varsity basketball star, is playing first base for Seton Hall. In this, his first season out for the team, he is already emerging as one of the top players. Gaines won a contest for the Pirates earlier in the year with a tenth inning home run.

The Villanovans will then take a break until they perform for the Alumni on Blue-White Day against LaSalle.

Sydnor Sets 3 Records In First Year Of Competition

During the past indoor track season, a new name has risen to join the galaxy of stars that represent Villanova throughout the country, and now that outdoor competition has started, Sophomore sprinter George Sydnor should be bringing more fame to the Main-Line Wildcats.

George was born and raised in Bryn Mawr, practically on the Villanova campus. While attending Haverford High School, he achieved national recognition as an athlete.

National 60 Yard Champ

As a schoolboy runner, Sydnor was acclaimed the National 60 Yard Indoor Champion. He was Pennsylvania State Champion in the 100 and 220 yard distances, and a member of the State Championship 880 yard relay team.

Sydnor

To gain these honors, the young athlete recorded times of 6.4 in the 60, 9.7 in the 100, and 21.4 in the 220. George was also a halfback on the school football team.

Upon graduation, Sydnor accepted a scholarship to Villanova from among the offers of several colleges. In his Freshman year he was a member of the unbeaten Frosh mile relay team, which set a record in the Penn Relays last spring.

Wins in Boston

Entering his Sophomore year this September and becoming eligible for Varsity competition, George has again moved into the national spotlight. From the opening indoor meet at Boston in January, where he won the 50 yard dash, he has given evidence of being one of the top men in the intercollegiate sprint distances.

This year, the Sophomore star has achieved times of 20.9 in the 220, 9.5 in the 100, and

(Continued on Page 10)

Play In Orange Bowl:

Miami Added To 1957 Grid Card Which Already Lists Indiana, Baylor; One Away

By BOB MULCAHY

Miami University has been added to Villanova's football schedule in 1957, it was announced Saturday by Athletic Director Bud Dudley.

The addition of the powerful Hurricanes to a slate that already includes Baylor and Indiana brings to three the number of major power teams signed for the grid season two years hence.

Renewal of the series with Miami is set for the night of November 1, 1957 at the Orange Bowl in Miami.

Victories in 1948

In four previous engagements which extended over a five year period from 1946-1950 the Wildcats won one, lost two, and tied one. The first game played in 1946 the 'Cats lost 26-21, but tied 7-7 the following year, and were victorious 19-10 at Miami in 1948. Playing on a rain soaked gridiron, the Mainliners lost the last game in the series in 1950, 18-12.

Athletic Director Bud Dudley, who has negotiated with the Miami University athletic officials for a football game in the Orange Bowl during the 1957 season.

Baylor, a perennial Southwest Confeneence contender, and powerful Indiana of the Big Ten both appeared on last fall's schedule. Baylor defeated Villanova 19-2 in the seasons opener in Municipal Stadium and the Hoosiers from Indiana spoiled the Wildcats Big Ten debut with a 14-7 victory.

Baseballers Win 3 Games; Streak Now 5

By FRANK FLEMING

Last week the Villanova University baseball team ran its winning streak to five games, as it defeated Army, St. Joseph's and Georgetown all on the road.

At West Point on Wednesday the Wildcats took advantage of Army's wild pitching and defensive errors, to score three runs in the eighth inning and down the cadets, 7-4.

Dan Severino was the winning pitcher, and Ron Bellows—one of the five Army hurlers who saw action in this game—was credited with the loss. Severino struck out nine batsmen before the game was called because of darkness at the end of eight innings. In doing this he raised his season's total to 26 strikeouts for three games.

Hayes Hits Double

Army held a one run lead until the sixth when Art Mahan's prodigies tied the score at four all. V.U. broke the tie in the eighth frame when with the bases loaded as a result of two errors and a walk, Terry Hayes doubled and sent home two runs. Ron Debiak's sacrafice fly allowed the third tally of the inning to be scored.

Terry Hayes and John DiGiallorenzo were the big men with the bat for the Wildcats. Hayes had the double that pushed the winning runs across, while Di-

Rutgers of South Jersey fell before the heavy Villanova bats and the pitching of Dave Scott and Lou Isern in Monday's stadium game 21-2. Sophomore catcher Hank Nichols blasted a grand slam homer. Frank Cafone and Sam Ferretti added homers. Tom Casey collected three hits.

Giallorenzo contributed a mighty triple to the cause.

Friday afternoon the Wildcats journeyed to the home of their city rival, St. Joe's and shut them out 11-0.

Black Strikes Out 17

Southpaw, Dick Black struck out 17 Hawk batters and gave up only four walks. His teammates got 14 hits off opposing pitchers Jack Moran and Marty Casey.

The 'Cats made the fourth their big inning by pushing eight runs across the plate.

Tom Casey, John Donatucci, Frank Cafone, Sam Ferretti, and second baseman, John DiGiallorenzo all contributed two hits to the cause. Both of Ferretti's hits were good for two bases, and one of Donatucci's was a triple.

Kelly Stars

Saturday found the traveling Villanovans in Washington, D.C., where they routed Georgetown

(Continued on Page 10)

SPORTS CHATTER

Into The Dusty Past

By JOE SLAVIN

For the past two years, Father Michael O'Donnell has been compiling a history of Villanova athletics. Much of his spare time has been spent delving into Belle Air yearbooks, monthly Villanovan's (which were in existence before 1900), and leafing through newspapers of an era long forgotten.

Many records of athletic teams of Villanova had been lost, or in some cases, accurate accounts were never kept. Father hopes that some time in the future these records can be compiled into a publication. His intensive research to the present reveals many unusual and amazing accounts of Villanova athletic history.

Indoor Track Meets

Villanova participated in its first track meet in 1879. In the same year Hugh Breslin represented Villanova in an indoor track meet atthe Regiment Armory in Philadelphia. If many are suprised that indoor track meets were held in 1897, they will probably be astonished to know that in 1912 the fourth annual Inter-Collegiate and School Athletic Carnival was held at the Academy of Music in Philadelphia.

With several Olympic hopefuls on this year's track team it is interesting to note that besides Browning Ross and George Guida in 1948 Judge Caine represented Villanova in the 1904 Olympics by running in the 400 meters. Record holders also existed back in 1905 when Lawrence Brennan of Villanova Prep was the Inter-Scholastic title holder in the 100 yard dash.

First Baseball Game

Varsity Baseball originated in 1866 with three games being played. Villanova won its first game by a score of 47-9 over the Keystone Club of Philadelphia. James Winn, who was later a secular priest, holds the distinct honor of hitting Villanova's first home run on June 16, 1869. This same year Villanova suffered its first shutout 57-0 suffered at the hands of the Professional All-Stars. Intercollegiate competition began in 1870 with a victory over Haverford 66-21. LaSalle was defeated twice that year by scores of 51-11 and 33-15.

In a game which must be some kind of record Villanova defeated the Radnor Farmers by an unbelievable score of 103-9, (this game was called at the end of six innings because of darkness). For the satisfaction of skeptics this game was played on June 13, 1872. The Philadelphia Baseball Club, better known now as the Phillies, engaged Villanova in 1873. An cddity of baseball occured in 1922 when George Meader struck out five Leheigh batters in the first inning.

First Football Game

Football first appeared at Villanova in 1894 when the Logan A. C. of Philadelphia was defeated 24-0. In 1895 the South End Wheelmen Club was defeated 14-0. This team was captained by Judge Eugene Bonniwell, the father of Mr. Bernard Bonniwell of the physchology Department. The first intercollegiate game was in 18965 against Hahnemann College, who suffered a 12-0 defeat. This same year Vilanova defeated Philadelphia Dental College 10-0 and lost to Delaware 10-6.

The team in 1896 can be credited with giving the proverbial "all for the Alma Mater." Its schedule that year consisted of: October 10, Ursinus, October 14, Haverford, October 17, Philadelphia Dental College, October 18, South Jersey Institute and October 20, Swarthmore. Such a schedule causes one to wonder if such training devices as the "blood pit" and leather straps were in existence then.

Army Defeated

Mr. William Slavin of the Engineering Department played varsity football and returned in 1911 to coach the Prep eleven. The Very Reverend Patrick Dundon, present Prior of the Villanova

(Continued on Page 12)

Defensive halfback John Bauer (right) breaks up pass intended for freshman halfback Rollie West during Saturday's scrimmage witnessed by seniors and their Fathers.

Water Polo Team Splashes LaSalle In Opener Here

By TOM WRIGHT

Water polo is not a varsity sport as was first reported, but that didn't seem to bother the swimmers Saturday as they introduced the sport to Villanova —and to a crowd of seniors and their fathers—by outscoring LaSalle, 3-1.

Appropriately, senior Bill Meyer tossed in two of the goals. Walker Lloyd added the other. All scoring came in the second half.

The game was stopped several times while the refree explained rules to theconvertsto the rough sport. Many of the stimated 250 spectators who jammed into the pool area mirrored the players' puzzled expressions.

Meyer poked in the first goal after a pass from John Flynn, and scored the third with an assist from Den Rinkacs. Mike Russo's pass to Lloyd set up the second score.

Swimming coach Ed Geisz, who trains the water polo crew, reported that the sport would not have the status of a varsity sport. Other matches are scheduled with Temple, Penn and West Chester, according to a team member.

Before filing into the pool area, seniors had a chance to show their dads the hoped-for "new look" in Villanova football.

Coach Frank Reagan and his assistants drove the 78 varsity hopefuls through a bruising scrimmage in the Stadium. Even the highly-touted freshman quarterback, Jim Grazione, found the going rough.

"The Graz" retired to the bench after about ten minutes of action. On one play, he was hurled to the ground by sophomore tackle Don Luzzi, who rushed up to close a hole and grabbed Graxione around the neck. The impact sent a gasp along the bench and through the stands.

Reagan and the assistant coaches kept shifting the lineups to get a look at the men who have been butting heads since April 9.

Halfback Rollie West, who suffered a cut over his right eye in a mid-week scrimmage, impressed onlookers with his long-striding gains through the line.

Golfers Club Temple, Lose 3-Way Meet

Villanova's golf team was kept quite busy over the week-end, beating Temple on Friday by 7-2 and losing to Penn and Penn State in a triangular meet Saturday.

Playing on the home confines at Aronimink, the golfmen displayed winning form in besting Temple. The match was played in cold, rainy weather. Led by Captain Ben Klemanowicz, who won his tenth straight match, the sophomore-laden club did not lose a match.

Klemanowicz, with a team low of 80, defeated Ray Smolans, 5 and 4. Soph Joe Colitz, playing the number two slot, bested George Fleck, 3 and 1. Frank Cruse won his match, 2-up from Fred Simamura and Jim Birle took Jim Doyle by 3 and 2. Billy Mawn beat Barry Greenfield, 2 and 1 and Jay Gibney broke even with Stan Spritzler.

Following this win on Friday the team went to Penn State for the triangular meet, staged on a wind-swept, par 69 course. The outcome was never in doubt, with Penn State—one of the best in the nation—taking only 515 strokes in the medal play tourney.

Penn was runner-up with 564 strokes and Villanova trailed with 578. Klemanowicz led his team with a 78, followed by Bob McElhany with a 79. Penn State scored this way: Jim Mayes, 73; Jim Ginsberg, 76; Gus Gerhart, 74; John Branish, 73; Leo Kukola, 71 and John Boyanowski, 75.

Softball, Track Highlight Spring Int'al Program

By DON KEMPF

The Intramural Department disclosed this week the plans for intramural activities to be held during Junior Week, April 30 through May 5. Intramural Director, Ed Geisz, feels that if the events are as succesful as they have been in past years, they will help add to the enjoyment of Junior Week.

The events begin on Monday, April 30 with a double header softball game between two of the hottest teams in the Intramural Softball League, the Boozers and the Monarchs. The game will be held on Austin field beginning at 4:30.

Intramural Track Meet

Tuesday, May 1, spotlights the annual spring Intramural Track Meet. The meet, which will include all track and field events but the mile, will be under the direction of Pete Murphy, Senior C&F student, and Jim Moran, Sopomore Arts student. Assisting them will be freshmen Jim Corey and Jim Klein. All students except varsity trackmen are eligible for the events, which will be held at the stadium track. Entries will be accepted at the track on the day of the meet.

Sydnor

(Continued from Page 9)

6.1 in the 60 yard dash. This last mark ties the indoor record for the distance. He owns victories over both John Haines of Penn and Dave Sime of Duke, two other top 60 yard men, this past season.

Sets Record at West Chester

In the first dual meet of the outdoor season, at West Chester, April 14, Sydnor established new Villanova and West Chester field records in the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

As for the rest of the season, George says he is looking forward to the IC4A chamionships, and would "like to do good in that." Looking at his past record, we would say that he is certain to "do good" whenever and wherever he runs.

VARSITY BASEBALL

(Continued from Page 9)

14-5 behind the pitching of sophomore Jack Kelly. The Wildcat star gave up only five hits, and two earned runs. Kelly, who was making his first start in college was never in serious trouble, as he struck out seven Hoyas.

The Villanova hitters got hot early in the game and hit Joe Gallagher for four runs in the opening frame. An error, a walk and single by Frank Cafone started things moving, and the Wildcats scored three more before the end of the inning. Villanova spread its 14 runs out by scoring three more in the second, one in the fourth, two in the fifth, and finished up with four in the eighth. A home run by senior first-sacker Tom Casey proved to be the big hit of the game.

Jenkins, Delany, Bragg Are Featured In Penn Relays

Over 3,100 athletes from 529 schools and colleges will be competing in the 62nd annual Penn Relay Carnival at Franklin Field, April 27 and 28.

In the eight relay Championship of America races only the two-mile crown won by Syracuse will go undefended. Coach Jumbo Elliott's talented runners captured the sprint medley and the one mile relay championship at the carnival last year.

Jenkins vs. Sowell?

Included in the entries are four National AAU kings, Villanova's Charley Jenkins, 440, Indiana's Greg Bell the broad jump winner, hammer thrower Harlod Connolly, and Pittsburgh's middle distance runner Arnie Sowell, 880-yard run champion. Just how coach Carl Olson will use Sowell is a matter of conjecture. Fans have been clamoring for a race between Jenkins and Sowell for the past two seasons.

With Charley Jenkins and Ron Delany listed for heavy duty Villanova will be concentrating on retaining championships in the one-mile relay classic and the sprint medley. The four-mile relay event promises to be the highlight of the Carnival. The anchor legs will be handled by Ron Wallinford, Big Ten two-mile king, Manhattan's Jim Doulin, possibly Oxford's Ian Boyd and Villanova's Irish Ron Delany.

Villanova Out For Revenge

Oxford's talented quarter of middle distance runners headed by Derek Johnson, 1954 British Empire Games half-mile king, will be shooting for at least two and possibly three, titles in the two-day affair. Michigan's well-balanced track force, winner of the Big Ten indoor title are out to equal their success of 1948 when the Wolverines copped four championship races. Villanova will be out to avenge a defeat by Michigan in the Quantico Relays when Charley Jenkins made up 30 yards in the final 440 only to lose to Lloyd Sloan, Michigan anchorman by inches.

Bragg Defends Title

Champion Don Bragg returns this year to defend his pole vault title. Last year Don established a new Carnival record of 14 feet 4-½ inches. Wildcat speedster George Sydnor leads the entries in the century with Penn State's Art Pollard, Pitt's Herb Carper and Ken Kave of Morgan State.

High-jumper Phil Reavis, appearing for Villanova varsity for the first time in the Carnival, will be competing against three of the four men who tied for the high jump title last year, offering strong competition.

After enjoying outstanding success in the indoor season the Wildcat runners will be out to prove their worth against teams which are considered the tops in their respective sections of the country.

Students To Elect Senior Athletic Award Winner

(Continued from Page 1)

in extra-curricular activities.

The Student Council and the Junior Class announced that election of the outstanding athlete would begin at 10:30 and last until 3:00 p.m. today. Students may cast their ballots at the election center in front of the old Pie Shoppe.

Speech, Movies Planned

The presentation of the award, the first of its kind to be given out by the student body, will be just one phase of the Tuesday night show. Also included in the plans are: short opening address by Rev. George McLaughlin, O.S.A., Dean of Student Activities, the introduction of the members of the five major varsity sports, a speech on sportsmanship by an outstanding Villanova sports figure, and several motion pictures of past Villanova athlete events.

Father McLaughlin, who will give the opening Sports Night address, will also include a short explanation of the requirements which had to be fulfilled in order for an athlete to be eligible for the Outstanding Athlete award.

Teams To Be Introduced

Following Father McLaughlin's address, master of ceremonies Pete Quinn, the chairman of the Spirit Committee, will introduce the members of the five varsity sports—football, basketball, track, swimming, and baseball. Special recognition will be given to senior members of each team; one of these seniors will then be recipient of the award.

An address by a noted Villanova sports figure will follow the presentation of the award. Sports Night chairman Jack Shea emphasized the fact that the speech will be short. The speaker, who has not yet been chosen, will speak on sportsmanship.

Track Film Featured

The much-talked about race between Villanova's Ron Delany and the controversial Wes Santee in Boston last winter will feature the movie presentations. Films of the best Villanova basketball and football games in recent years will also be shown, along with a swimming film.

There is no admission to the Sports Night activities, and all Villanova students and their friends are welcome. The show will begin at 7:30 p.m.

This is the cozy setting where juniors may spend part of their time during the May 5 dinner dance at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel. It's called the Garden Terrace, and the hotel management said "name" bands are featured during dinner and later on.

Pepe Awarded Scholarship To Madrid U.; Others Cited

Spanish Club member Michael Pepe of Philadelphia was presented a scholarship to the University of Madrid during the Spanish Club's annual Cervantes dinner-dance Saturday night. The award was made for excellence in studies.

Varsity football lineman Eddie Michaels was awarded a prize for his English poem on Cervantes (see page seven.) Robert Jones, a junior, earned the Columbia University medal for the best composition in Spanish on Cervantes.

An address by Dr. Francis X. Claro of the Spanish Consulate followed the dinner in Norristown's L.A.M. Club. A Spanish Club choral group delivered a program of songs and dinner-dance chairman Gene Donohue gave a solo.

Dancing to the strains of the "Villanovans" rounded out the program.

Functions

(Continued from Page 3)

To bring closer together executives in business and students of business. (2) To serve as a medium for the exchange and dissemination of information on the problems, policies, and techniques of industry and management. (3) To provide the opportunity for participation in the organizing, planning, directing, and controlling of the activities of an organization dedicated to the promotion and advancement of the art and science of management. Another important way that SAM can help its student members is to offer examples of accepted management practices through student attendance at national conferences, parent chapter meetings, seminars and plant tours.

Program Of Awards

Each chapter is urged to and generally does take an active part in the University Chapter Performance Awards Plan. This plan is designed to measure the effectiveness of the operation of The University Chapter and to give national recognition to the successful accomplishment.

WANTED: WAITERS

Students who want to wait on tables for the Mothers' Day luncheon April 30 should contact chairman Jack O'Rourke right away.

All the pleasure comes thru...

the taste is great!

Here's the best in filtered smoking—Filter Tip Tareyton, the filter cigarette that gives you true tobacco taste and Activated Charcoal filtration. And Filter Tip Tareyton smokes milder, smokes smoother, draws easier. All the pleasure comes thru... the taste is great!

THE BEST IN FILTERED SMOKING

FILTER TIP TAREYTON

PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

©A. T. CO.

Mom's Day Starts "Lavish" Junior Week

(Continued from Page 1)

sion is $1.

All Villanovans may attend the Sports Night and the Promenade, Junior Week co-ordinator Don Kelly emphasized.

The Sports Night is stag and admission free. Bids to the Prom, which is formal, cost $6.

About Mothers' Day:

High Mass will be held outside unless it rains. In that case an altar will be set up in the Field House. The class tree will be planted in front of the Chemical Engineering Building right after Mass.

Ain't Gonna Rain . . .

"In case of rain we will have to ask some juniors to get up a little early and help us set up the altar," commented Mothers' Day chairman Jack O'Rourke. "But pray that it dosen't rain," he asked third year men.

Lunch will be served from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. said O'Rourke: "There will be no speakers and hence no set time for you to be there for lunch. We do ask, however, that you be prompt for the other activities."

But the chairman reminded juniors that the day is designed as a tribute to their mothers and that an attendance at any activity is not required.

Mother's Day List

Here's a check list of the rest of the day's program:

An entertainment is scheduled for 2 p.m. in the Field House and will last about 45 minutes. Juniors will be needed for a little while after that to arrange tables and chairs for the closing banquet.

Villanova's baseball club takes on LaSalle on the stadium diamond at 2:30 p.m.

Baby pictures will be on display in the Dougherty Hall Lounge (on the C & F Building side) all day. Winning pictures will be announced at 4 p.m.

JACK O'ROURKE
Mothers' Day Chairman

Benediction will be given at 5 o'clock and the banquet is set for 6. The day should come to a close between 7:30 and 8 o'clock, O'Rourke estimated.

Bring Your Cameras

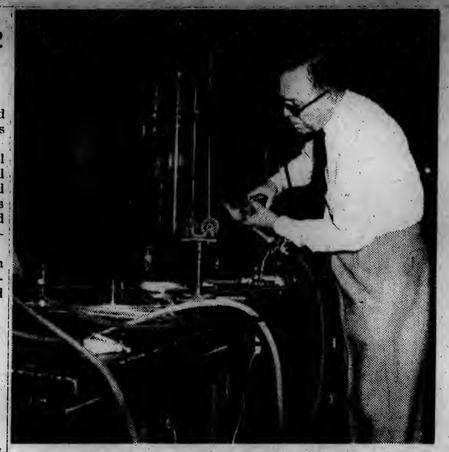
The chairman also reminded juniors that no photographers will be present so cameras might be brought along; mom may powder her nose in basement of the Library, first floor of Mendel, Dougherty Hall, or the Field House (left side, rear).

About the dinner dance:

Chairman Tom Hooker warned juniors that refunds on tickets will not be given.

He said some men had paid for whole tables when they did not have four tablemates lined up. And there were duplications—some juniors were marked down for more than one table—Hooker said.

Hooker said the Benjamin Franklin management has requested that all tables be filled with five couples.



Armed Forces Day To Be Celebrated By NROTC May 15

Armed Forces Day will be celebrated by the NROTC unit at Villanova on Tuesday, May 15. All parents of midshipmen and interested high school students are invited to attend.

From 2 to 3:30 p.m. Commodore John Barry Hall will be open for public inspection. All equipment will be in use with midshipmen to explain its function.

The officer instructors will be on hand to meet the parents of the midshipmen.

From 3:30 to 4:30 there will be a parade of the midshipmen and a presentation of awards to the outstanding midshipmen of the unit. On hand for the awards ceremony will be Admiral E. H. Von Heimburg, USN, Commandant Fourth Naval District and other senior naval officers and distinguished civilians.

Dr. P. J. Cole gives a demonstration of glassblowing for members of the Villanova Chemical Society. He is connected with the Barrett Division of Allied Chemical and Dye.

SPORTS CHATTER

Into The Dusty Past

By JOE SLAVIN

(Continued From Page 10)

Monastery, was a member of the 1915 squad which defeated Army.

Boxing had a short existence as a varsity sport in the late 1930's. Tony Salla gained national recognition by battling his way to the NCAA championship. Intramural boxing was active on the campus also. One of the outstanding performers in this program was Professor William Driscoll, who is well known to all engineering students.

Father O'Donnell's work causes present Villanovans to reflect on the past with amazement and sudden pride in the past history of Villanova. In the distant future Villanova will reflect on the era of: Filipski, Arizin, Bragg, Jenkins and Delany with similiar feelings.

When your big theme rates "A"
And you're feeling real gay
To top off the day—have a CAMEL!

—Man, that's pure pleasure!

It's a psychological fact:
Pleasure helps your disposition.

If you're a smoker, remember — more people get more pure pleasure from Camels than from any other cigarette!

No other cigarette is so rich-tasting, yet so mild!

Camel

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Villanovan

A Class of Change

Despite the myriad problems which the Class of 1957 has had to counter with as the first of Villanova's "king-sized" classes, the juniors have managed to be revolutionists in several ways.

They were allowed to purchase blazers half way through the second semester of their sophomore year—setting aside a tradition which made the jackets a junior standby.

In choosing the officers who would plan and set up its Junior Week, the class managed to bring about the first tie in a class presidential election.

And the class sponsored a dance with the Class of 1958 last May. This event apparently will become a permanent fixture on the university's social calendar, since the present sophomores held a similar informal dance with the freshmen earlier this month.

All this has been accomplished even as the class strove to overcome problems resulting from having an 800plus group on that sun-flushed September morning in 1953 when the group was herded through the unfamiliar registration procedures.

In other years, decisions on important class business could be discussed at class meetings and opened to a class vote. Even though some 200 students have been chopped from the original 800, this procedure is no longer feasible.

Although planning for the lavish social week which is now moving into full swing has monopolized the class' business agenda this year, there were two other years when the present juniors had few activities to worry about.

Not until second semester of freshman year was the group given representation on the Student Council, in keeping with Villanova's policy of allowing freshmen a whole semester to adjust themselves to the academic change from high school. Don Kelly, now class vice-president, and Joe Martin were elected to the Council, to serve through last year.

Then, in the unprecedented presidential tie last May, Jack Decker defeated Art Odabash in a run-off election. Odabash had negotiated with Rogers Peet for the tradition-shattering blazer order. After Decker's election he appointed Jim Judge ring chairman. Class members were wearing the class rings by last Thanksgiving.

With the delivery of the rings just before Thanksgiving, the class turned its attention to the events which fill Junior year—the party and "day on the town" for the boys from St. John's Home, taking place just before Christmas. Tim Kennedy, Mike Boruch and Odabash supervised the events.

Then all attention was focused on the events which are jammed into this week.

President's Message

Dear Junior,

I am very proud and grateful to be given this opportunity to write a few words to you.

As Junior Week is now upon us, we all realize that the work we have done to make it a success was well worth the effort. This will be a week that will be long remembered by all of us as the greatest of our college life here at Villanova.

It is only fitting that we commence Junior Week with Mothers' Day, as just a small token of gratification to the one we hold most dear. Today, therefore, we honor our mothers and say to them a warm, "thank you."

As for the rest of this "greatest of weeks," we will be looking forward to Sports Night, an evening of Jazz, The Junior Promenade and last, but certainly not least, the Dinner Dance.

But none of these events would have been possible without your fine co-operation and assistance in organizing Junior Week. I would like to thank you for everything, especially for the privilege of being your President. I am very proud to be associated with you, and to have served a great class.

I hope you enjoy yourself during this, your Junior Week.

John T. Decker

The editor expresses thanks to the following juniors who have helped put together this Junior Week issue and who have consistently served this publication: Bob Strayton, Bill Jones, John Alshefski, Bill Brown, Phil Seefried, Len Bellanca, Bill Reich and Jack O'Leary.

THE COVER

After burning out a couple of flourescent light bulbs and an equal number of frustrated editors, sophomore staff photographer Dave Dalva came up with this cover for the fifth Junior Week edition. "This is Junior Week" is about the best caption we could give it.

The VILLANOVAN will revert to its conventional newspaper format for the next edition, appearing May 16.

In An Unstable World, A Respite From Worry

With the front pages full of rumblings over the Gaza strip and a collegian taking a close look at the mailbox each day for a communique from the draft board, all this planning and dreaming about something as seemingly inconsequential as Junior Week might seem inappropirate to an outsider.

But anyone who has been around here at this time of the year will straighten out any non-believer.

Junior Week's compilation of social events came about during the early twenties when unrest after the "war to end all wars" was still causing confused feelings around the nation's campuses.

In the years since that time, other earthshaking events have come into the forefront. Educators have come to the conclusion that the present-day college man has a more serious outlook toward world problems than his raccoon coat-wearing counterpart of the "Roaring Twenties." This is evident here at Villanova, as it is in other institutions of higher learning.

But a respite is needed from serious thought on domestic and foreign affairs, just as it is needed from academic pursuits. The university recognizes this and attempts to organize a well-rounded social and intramural athletic calendar.

Of course Junior Week is something special. Maybe other colleges and universities, richer than Villanova in financial endowments and student populations and facilities for staging social events, can boast more lavish social wekends. For example, there are those much talked about weekends on Ivy Leauge and Big Ten campuses. But there does not seem to be another university, Catholic or secular, which can brag about an entire week including a Mothers' Day, jazz night, sports night, prom, dinner dance and of course that athletic extravaganza —Blue-White Day.

From the moment during freshman year when that magic phrase, "Junior Week" first tickles, the ears of even the most bookwormish freshman, that first weekend of May during junior year begins to loom as the weekend that will never get here. Then suddenly, there are hotel reservations to line up for smiling mothers and blushing "best girls" from the hometown. There are corsages to order, money to accumulate on nearby golf courses, and naturally, tests and term papers to take care of.

In another year or two such decisions as the type corsage Betty Coed will look best in will seem like a lot of nothing. Military service, voting in that first presidential election and worries about where the next payment on a sprawling ranch-type home is coming from . . . the junior will sooner or later have to cope with these problems.

But for a whole week, and perhaps a couple of days more, the junior won't have much time to mull over what might be in the future. Like a fellow once said: "You may as well enjoy yourself; you're only a junior once."

Villanovan

VILLANOVA UNIVERSITY — VILLANOVA, PA.

THOMAS E. SMITH ..... Editor-in-Chief
ROBERT G. STRAYTON ..... Managing Editor
J. WILLIAM JONES ..... Feature Editor
FRANCIS X. DELANY ..... News Editor
ROBERT MULCAHY ..... Sports Editor
WILLIAM BROWN, JOHN DOWNING . Copy Editors
PHIL SEEFRIED ..... Cartoon Manager
JOSEPH DE GRAZIA ..... Business Manager
SIGMUND HOLTZ ..... Photography Editor
NICHOLAS PEDANO ..... Circulation Manager
REV. LOUIS A. RONGIONE, O.S.A. Faculty Moderator

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; Scholar, Athlete, Gentleman—
LOU GOEDELAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1933. Under the Act of Mar. 3, 1879.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press. Member of Catholic Press Association, Catholic College Press Association.

Member
Associated Collegiate Press

Mothers' Day, A Moment To Remember From '34 To '56

By BILL JONES
Feature Editor

The Mothers' Day which has now, over a period of more than 20 years, become one of the highlights of Villanova's annual Junior Week was humbly and quietly born exactly 22 years ago today.

On April 30, 1934, Junior Week traditionally began with the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. Following the morning Mass were the also traditional flag raising and tree planting ceremonies.

Then at 1:30 in the afternoon in a small reception room in Mendel Hall, our finest Junior Week tradition was modestly inaugurated by a small group of happy, "pioneering" mothers. These moms, perhaps as an ever so small restitution for some 20 years of patience and understanding, had been invited by the college to spend a day at Villanova. It must have come as surprise to more than one mother that not only was she in line for a day long to remember, but also she would finally get more than a fleeting glance at that machine of higher academic and social education which was kept so well-oiled by the fleeting family funds.

The proud Juniors paraded their equally proud moms around the campus of Villanova College. A tour was made of all the laboratories in Mendel Hall. The mothers were treated to several special experiments and demonstrations which were met with a somewhat amazed enthusiam.

The tour then led into the College Chapel where the mothers reverently inspected their sons' spiritual home of recollection and meditation.

Down to the Field House the excursion progressed. The Villanova swimming team, combined with several mermen from the Penn Athletic Club, put on an exciting show of marine acrobatics, coupled with both speed and fancy swimming. Aqua-show over, the next stop on this initial excursion was back at Mendel Hall.

There the mothers were greeted at a tea held in their honor in the residents' dining hall by the Rev. Edward V. Stanford O.S.A., then president of Villanova College. Father Stanford warmly welcomed the slightly weary but happy mothers and expressed his gratitude to them for attending this first Mothers' Day. He concluded the festivities by declaring it was his most fervent hope that the day had brought these patient guardians of Villanova's juniors much closer to Villanova College in all its aspects.

From that time in 1934, down through memorable years torn by violent war and subsequently heartened by peace and a hearty, determined, American spirit, to this present day in 1956, Villanova has grown and prospered by leaps and bounds.

The college has become the university, shiny new buildings have appeared on the campus like so many newly grown trees. Villanova has, in these past 22 years, undergone a vast series of changes. Its face and faculty constantly become larger as the student enrollment reaches incredibly large proportions, but inwardly, deep down inside the heart of the university, its traditions will never change.

No matter how far into the upper class of larger universities Villanova progresses, the deep and sincere appreciation of the Villanova student, whether frosh, soph, junior or senior, for the person who brought him into the world, nursed him, pampered him, and guided him toward attaining the select position he now holds as an undergraduate of an outstanding Catholic university will never minutely decrease.

It's Your Day, Mother — From Mass To Baseball

Villanova Mothers, we welcome you to the university. Today it belongs solely to you. This is the day of days for Villanova juniors; it is the day when their own special best girls take over the campus. Mom, the place is all yours.

A series of festivities have been arranged by the Mothers' Day committee for your benefit, and we hope for your utmost enjoyment.

Mothers' Day will formally begin, as it has traditionally begun from its inauguration in 1934, with the most Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. The Mass will be offered, weather permitting, on the outdoor altar by St. Mary's Hall. If inclement weather prevails, the Mass will be said in the Field House. This inaugural Mass will be celebrated by the Junior Class moderator, the Rev. Dante Girolami, O.S.A.. The sermon will be delivered by the Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., university president.

After Mass, the contigent will file over to the Chemical Engineering Building where the class tree will be traditionally planted by Father Girolami and Mrs. Thomas O'Rourke, mother of Mothers' Day Chairman Jack O'Rourke.

Lunch will be served to the mothers and juniors from 12:30 to 1:30 in Dougherty Hall's resident dining room.

At 2 o'clock, one of the highlights of the day will take place when a variety show will be presented to the mothers in the Field House. The entertainment will be provided by the Villanova Singers, led by Dean Harold Gill Reuschlein of the Villanova Law School; by junior Bobby Schiller's swinging and swaying "Villanovans"; by a comical skit put on by Turf and Tinsel, producer of the hilarious "Barbara of Seville" which kept many early arriving moms in stitches last night; and by Villanova University's multi-pieced concert band.

For the sports minded mothers, there will be a varsity baseball game between Villanova's Wildcats and the invading intercity rival LaSalle Explorers on the Villanova diamond behind the stadium at 2:30.

At 4, the winners of the "Diaper Dan" baby picture contest will be announced to the assembled mothers in Dougherty Hall's largest lounge by Mrs. Francis Hartmann, mother of last year's Mothers' Day Chairman, Frank Hartmann, who is now studying for the priesthood in an Augustinian seminary.

Five o'clock will see the mothers once more congregated at the foot of the outdoor altar for Benediction exercises.

Finally, at 6 o'clock a banquet held in the Field House will formally close Mothers' Day for the Class of '57 and its weary mothers. At this closing banquet, mom will be presented with her special Mothers' Day favor. The memento this year will be a nine-inch plate with the Villanova Chapel picturesquely-painted on the front and a poem dedicated to the Villanova mothers, plus the date to long remember, April 30, 1956, on the back.

We sincerely hope you will enjoy yourself, mother. Our hearts are out to you, for you have made this fine day possible.

So take it away Villanova mothers, take this day and relax. Forget your worries. As the old refrain goes, "Pack up your troubles in your old kit bag and smile, smile, smile," and we might add, "have yourself a ball, Mom, you've more than deserved it."

Mrs. Thomas O'Rourke gets a kiss from son Jack, who is Mothers' Day chairman. The plate is one of the souvenirs which will be given to the Juniors' guest today. O'Rourke, class president during sophomore year, is a civil engineer and regular midshipman in the NROTC. He lives in Philadelphia.

THIS WEEK SHE REIGNS QUEEN

Miss Beverly Bowden, 1956 Junior Queen

By BOB STRAYTON
Managing Editor

A holiday trip to New York, a date that was almost broken, and a near shipwreck were the factors involved in the selection of this year's Junior Queen!

Miss Beverly Bowden, a charming, nineteen-year-old nursing student from Bloomfield, N. J., was the unanimous choice of judge Garry Moore and his committee to reign as Queen of the 1956 Junior Week festivities.

Beverly, the date of junior Ray Clarke, will reign as the sixteenth Junior Queen, but had it not been for the fortitude of her date's best friend, Beverly might never have won the top Junior Week honor.

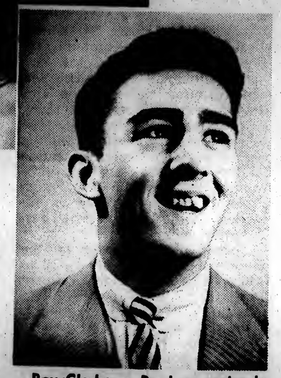
Last St. Patrick's Day, Ray and his friend, who had a date with Beverly later in the afternoon, were "living-it-up" in New York City. Because they were having such a good time, Ray attempted to talk his friend into breaking the date with our reigning queen. Not one to be dissuaded, friend kept the date, and Ray tagged along. And so, as it would happen in a fable, Ray and Beverly met "under the clock" in New York's famed Biltmore Hotel.

The story might easily end there, for Ray didn't see Beverly until several months later, and then only by coincidence. It was Beverly's graduation night, and Ray was escorting a friend of hers. The destined pair met again, and Ray decided that it was the time to ask her out.

Beverly graciously accepted the invitation, and Ray set about on his ambitious plan to impress this lovely young lady. A day on the water was the perfect means, and so Ray arranged for an outing with several other couples on a cruiser. The stage was set.

Ray still grimaces with anguish when he thinks of that day. As he puts it, "absolutely everything went wrong." First there was a time mix-up, and he arrived at Beverly's home an hour early. She was still in bed when he got there.

But that was only the beginning. After boarding the cruiser, they set sail for the deep blue sea, but never quite got there. The boat couldn't get out if it's harbor because of low tide; a member of the party became ill; and the ill-fortuned sailors bent the propellor shaft of their sturdy vessel.



An so Beverly and Ray had their first date. Beverly's good nature, however, overlooked the misfortunes which befell them on their sea voyage, and the two have been going out together since.

As a matter of fact, our lovely Junior Queen was pinned by her escort just one month ago last Monday ("Ray forgot all about it"), so it turned into a smooth sail after all.

Beverly, who is brown-haired and blue-eyed, is a graduate of Mount St. Dominic's High School in Caldwell, N. J. In her senior year, she was president of her class, and one of the school's outstanding seniors.

After graduation, Beverly attended St. Mary's School of Nursing in Orange, N. J., where she is presently in her first year.

Asked how she felt about winning the Junior Queen contest, Beverly replied "I almost fainted when I heard the news." It was the first time she had ever entered a beauty contest.

Ray Clarke, a Pre-Law major in the Commerce and Finance School, will escort the 1956 Junior Queen, Beverly Bowden, to the Junior Week functions.

Miss Bonnie Halfpenny

The Queen's Royal Court

Three blue-eyed lovelies, and one with grey eyes, comprise the 1956 Royal court for the newly crowned queen, Miss Beverly Bowden.

Bonnie Halfpenny, a pretty, honey-blonde Lansdowne, Pa. girl, was chosen Lady-In-Waiting to the queen from more than 100 entries. Pretty Bonnie, who is eighteen years old, stands slightly over 5-5, and weights 123 pounds.

Bonnie graduated from Holy Child Academy in Sharon Hill, Pa. last year.

Her escort for the Junior Week activities will be Bill Wescott, a civil engineering student from Pittsburgh, Pa.

Nineteen-year-old Joan Asay, an education major at the University of Maryland, will be the date of junior John Schoolmeester. Joan is 5-6, weighs 120 pounds, and has brown hair and blue eyes.

She is a resident of Washington, D. C.

A pretty Irish coleen, Miss Kitty Kelly, will also be one of the queen's escorts. Kitty is eighteen years old, and a graduate of Manual High School in her home city, Brooklyn.

Lee Pastore, a physics major from Brooklyn, will escort grey-eyed Kitty this weekend.

A Maryland girl, Danne Ann Brokaw, is the other member of the queen's court. Danne Ann is a 5-6, 117 pound brunette, and attends Manhattanville College in Purchase, N. Y., where she is majoring in English.

Her home town is Chevy Chase, Maryland.

Danne Ann's escort is Don Nalty, a Commerce and Finance School Marketing major. Don, a New Orleans, La. boy, is a diver on Villanova's swimming team.

Miss Danne Ann Brokaw

Miss Kitty Kelly

Miss Joan Asay

Tomorrow's Sports Night An Innovation Of Junior Class

By DARRYL DITENFEST

Tomorrow night at the Field House, the Class of 1957 will present the first annual Sports Night, an evening's entertainment which was instituted this year by the Junior Class.

Sports Night, which will feature the presentation of an Outstanding Athlete award to a senior athlete, will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Chairman of the affair, Jack Shea, has also arranged for movies of past Villanova sports contests, a noted guest speaker, introduction of each of the varsity teams, and an address by Rev. George McLaughlin, O. S. A., Dean of Student Activities.

The presentation of the outstanding athlete award to one of Villanova's Senior athletes however, is the major attraction of the Sports Night. Six seniors are eligible for the award, which is based upon proficiency in athletics, academic achievement, sportsmanship, good conduct, and participation in extra-curricular activities.

The six seniors eligible to receive the award are Larry Tierney, varsity basketball; Bill Reilly and Al Ligorelli, varsity track; Dan Severino and Tom Casey, varsity baseball and Pat Kean, varsity swimming.

Voting for the Outstanding Athlete was held last Wednesday in conjunction with the Spirit Committee of the Student Council, which will present the award. Every student at Villanova was entitled to one vote for the athlete of his choice.

Another feature which would be attractive to Villanova students is the showing of films of past Villanova athletic events. Featured among these films will be the race which was run during the past indoor season between Ron Delany, Villanova's ace miler, and the controversial Wes Santee. Basketball and football movies will also be shown, along with several other track films and a special Villanova-Michigan State swimming meet movie.

Shea emphasized the fact that there is no admission to Sports Night, and that the program is open to all students of Villanova and their friends.

This is the Main Ballroom of the Benjamin Franklin Hotel where Juniors and their dates will gather for the Junior Dinner Dance Saturday night.

'Rhapsody In Blue' Will Be The Setting As Juniors And Dates Dance At Friday's Promenade

By JACK O'LEARY

"Rhapsody in Blue" has been announced as the theme for the Junior Promenade Friday night, but other details about the decorations cannot be revealed.

That's the word from Den Rinkacs and Dick Cooke, decorations co-chairmen. The decorations are subject to alteration right up to prom time at 9 o'clock, the hard-working duo explained.

But just about all the other details have been squared away for the prom. Jack Fraser, general chairman of the affair and Tom Curran, band chairman, have lined up the "Blue Notes" as an intermission band. The group is well-known around the Philadelphia area, they said.

Prom chairman Jack Fraser is a resident of Washington, D. C., where he graduated from St. John's College High School. He is an marketing major in the Commerce and Finance School.

The Commanders, whom the Decca Recording people are pleased to announce are doing quite well, will provide an ample amount of danceable music for the proud junior and his date come Friday night.

The group is led by Eddie Grady, a drummer who performed admirably with Tommy Dorsey, Glenn Miller and Benny Goodman before organizing the young Commanders aggregation.

As far as decorations are concerned, the Rinkacs-Cooke crew has been doing some heavy work for more than a month on this phase, but, sad to say, they have been slightly hampered by a lack of cooperation from other members of the class.

Commented Rinkacs, who holds a union card as a carpenter: "We wouldn't have anything done without Cookie. He really knows how to find stuff."

Three more juniors who were mentioned by the co-chairmen as being of assistance in the hammering and planning are Joe Jenkins, Vince Cardella and Charlie Ross, a dean's list physics major who must be getting slightly ill just thinking about decorations. Charlie has been dividing his time between the Cooke-Rinkacs crew and late-night work on decorations for Turf and Tinsel's "Barbara of Seville."

Of course, there are other third-year men joining in to make the promenade a big success. Such fellows as Jim McCormick, who's been putting the strap to his ticket selling corps; Joe Keffer, who planned the prom program and then conducted a drive for patrons; Ty Rauber, who spent many minuets mulling over the question of what that best girl would cherish as a souvenir; Joe Redmond, who bundled about 100 portraits of all sizes and shapes and shipped them to Garry Moore so there would be a queen to rule over this lavish social festival called Junior Week; Bill Smith, the man who's planning the refreshments and Lee Carson, a handy guy who's been assigned the job of tying up any loose ends.

Looks as if a lot of work has gone into the preliminary planning for the affair that will kick off the weekend to make all other weekends seem as dull as if they were spent behind a stack of math books.

A Junior's View Of His Dinner Dance: Good Food, Good Music, And Good Times

By HARRY FATKIN

Saving the best for last has been a principle followed under a wide variety of circumstances with good results. This proven principle has always been applied to Junior Week, for traditionally the closing event—The Dinner Dance—is the long anticipated climax to an eventful week. This year's affair at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel will continue the tradition. Chairman Tom Hooker and his committee sincerely believe and promise that this will be the finest dinner dance ever to close a Junior Week.

Beginning last May and developing in earnest this September, the Dinner Dance committee's plans took form rapidly. The major problem was finding a suitable location. Faced with the probability of setting a new dinner dance attendance record, the committee began searching the area for a spot having a suitable capacity and all the features desired to assure a successful event. Country clubs, supper clubs and hotels were studied and considered. The Benjamin Franklin was contacted early and it was established that the hotel would satisfy the class—for capacity, facilities and the May 5 date—all at a reasonable price. Keeping this offer in mind, the other spots were rechecked in an effort to obtain the best deal. After several weeks, the Benjamin Franklin was contacted finally and signed for the affair.

Music for dancing will be provided by Leo Zollo and his orchestra. Zollo, a long-time local favorite, features "sweet" music designed specifically for dancing pleasure by an entertaining and versatile band. During dinner, combo music will be offered by Zollo and a trio from his orchestra.

- The Benjamin Franklin Hotel is located at Ninth and Chestnut Streets in Philadelphia. Maps will be distributed, but the best route to take is to go east on Chestnut Street, past City Hall and Broad Street to Ninth Street and the hotel.
- Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock. Short speeches will follow the dinner and dancing will begin around 9 o'clock. The dinner dance ends at 1 o'clock.
- The only beverages permitted in the ballroom will be those purchased from the hotel. These will be on sale in the foyer adjacent to the Ballroom.
- Immediately after dinner, before dancing begins, it will be necessary to clear the ballroom in order to prepare for dancing. Juniors are requested to cooperate with the hotel and leave the ballroom so that tables may be cleared to provide floor space for dancing.
- Parking will be available at Eighth and Chestnut or at the hotel lot located at ninth below Chestnut. There are several other parking lots in the immediate vicinity. Parking attendants will be waiting at the entrance of the hotel, eliminating all strain. Drive up to the Hotel entrance, give your key to the doorman, and your car will be parked for you at the hotel lot.
- Tables in the center of the floor will be removed or relocated along the edges of the dance floor. Additional tables will be placed in the balcony so that seats will be available for all juniors and dates. It will be necessary, after dinner, to double up so that more than five couples will occupy one table during the dance.
- Juniors are reminded to bring their tickets to the affair.

Villanova's First Queen And Her Beau – Then And Now

By TOM SMITH
Editor-in-Chief

About this time 15 years ago, Benny Goodman's swinging melodies were captivating Villanovans . . . the school newspaper was suggesting the elimination of 8 a. m. classes—they were considered too arduous for day hops . . . and Villanova was saluting its first dance queen.

Not long ago that first queen, now the attractive, 34-year-old mother of two cute little girls, dusted off a couple of pictures snapped at the Prom, when she was crowned.

Her broad-shouldered husband grinned sweetly, ran his hand through his sandy colored hair and asked timidly: "Is that me?"

It was. Gloria Spatola Anderson's eyes sparkled as nine-year-old Sandy suggested that her daddy's hair "comes out when he combs it." Anthony Anderson, who goes by the name Tony, didn't have to make any apologies. He still has plenty of hair and keeps his six-foot, 220-pound frame trim by frequent tours of the golf course.

And there was plenty of evidence to support his attractive wife's selection as the first queen of a Villanova social event. Until two years ago, Mrs. Anderson kept up her modeling chores—the type of work she was doing when she reigned over the 1941 Junior Week.

The Anderson's reside in a ranch type home about three miles from Villanova's campus—near the intersection of Conshohocken State Road and Spring Mill Road. Their daughters are Sandy, a nine-year-old who seems to have inherited her mother's friendly temperament and six-year-old Chrisy, who flashes an elf-like grin when she talks. The girls attend the School of the Holy Child in Rosemont.

Tony, a 205-pound guard on the 1939-40-41 Villanova football clubs, is in the wholesale food business and owns a Howard Johnson's Restaurant in Germantown. The couple was married on Thanksgiving Day, 1943, while Tony was coaching football, ice hockey and track at Mount St. Joseph's High School in Baltimore. Tony's roommate had introduced him to Gloria and the couple had been dating before Tony turned in her picture to the queen contest. Their relationship continued right on from the prom to the altar.

During his undergraduate days, 37-year-old Tony was labeled "the best bridge player in Fedigan Hall" and wrestled Dave DiFillipo—a football teammate and now one of Frank Reagan's assistant coaches—in a match described in the VILLANOVAN as "one of the most spectacular events in intramural history." A native of Needham, Mass., Tony had to turn down a chance to play professional football with the Detroit Lions when a shoulder injury suffered in his senior year failed to heal properly.

It isn't known why promoters of Villanova social events hadn't come up with the queen idea before 1941, but the Class of 1942 finally decided to add the regal touch to what was the most lavish social week at the Main Line school, even in that last Junior Week before the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Soon after the first semester started a committee began accepting photographs from juniors and other undergraduates. The queen was to be chosen from junior's entries, but her court was open to any Villanovan's date. A committee of faculty members picked out ten portraits and sent them along to the Thornton Model Agency in New York. Sammy Kaye, who still leads his band in smooth dance arrangements, also made a selection.

It was before an applauding audience of 550 couples that 19-year-old Gloria found a crown placed atop her long, dark brown hair, and a 36-inch sterling silver strophy in her arms. The crowning took place while the promgoers took a break from the music of Will Bradley's orchestra, and relaxed in the Field House—which had been transformed into a modern, "roof top" night club, with the New York skyline as a background.

The next night Gloria and Tony were dining and dancing at the Junior Dinner Dance in the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, where it's being held this year.

So things haven't changed much. Benny Goodman's "One O'Clock Jump" and "Let's Dance" are giving the rock and roll screamers a run for their juke box dime . . . there is administration talk about Saturday classes . . . and there's another queen to reign over another Junior Week.

The first Junior Week Queen and the escort who was to become her husband pose during the 1941 Prom.

Photo by John Alshefski

This is the first Junior Week Queen as she looks today. With Mrs. Anderson are her husband, Tony and two daughters, nine-year-old Sandy (left) and Chrisy, who's six. The Andersons live about three miles from the Villanova campus.

BILLboard

By BILL REICH

Dear Mom,

Today is yours. We have set this day of Junior Week aside for the woman in our life whose forebearance, love and understanding has made it possible for a boy to become a man of Villanova. It's our way of saying, "Thanks for everything."

You've waited for this day, just as long as we have waited for this week. In four years of high school, all you ever heard about was "Fathers' Night," "Father and Son Smokers" and "Father and Son Sports Nights." Well, his day will come again next year. This year it's all yours. Today we're out to make up for those past years.

Enjoy yourself . . . you've certainly earned it.

Your Junior Son

Freshman are amazed by it; sophs are striving for it; juniors are just plain lost in it; and seniors can only rermember it . . . such is the position held by the tradition of Junior Week.

Our hats go off to both the Class of 1922 and the Class of 1925. During the spring semester of 1921, someone, long forgotten, suggested that the class get together and have a chance to forget the war, final exams and schoolwork, in general. Thus, on May 20, 1921, an entire class of 40 juniors danced to the "rag time" of Herzburg and his jazz band. This was to become the annual event that we know as the Junior Prom.

A few white-flannel jokers, just three years later—in 1924—decided that the only way they might pacify all their loves would be to have a full week of social events. They discussed his idea as potential tradition and suggested it to their class officers.

In a bit of an understatement, the VILLANOVAN announced: "The Junior Class, in inaugurating Junior Week, hopes to establish something that will become an annual event." Yes, they established something. . . but they'd never recognize it today.

Their "Collegiate Week" consisted an inter-class tug-o-war, Soph-Junior baseball game, a varsity baseball game with Holy Cross, and an informal tea dance (now we know where Rosemont got the idea). Apparently the Class of 1925 enjoyed baseball, for on that Thursday, they gathered for the varsity's game with Boston College.

Ah, finally Thursday evening. . . the Prom. . . . The accepted attire was white flannels, white cap with class numerals, and believe it or not, a cane . . . a la Penn. The Class of 1926 gave birth to the Grotesque Dance, which we know today as the Blazer Ball.

Moms were first invited to the Villanova campus in 1934. Junior looked "washed out" and he blamed it on the food, so the first Dinner-Dance was started in 1935. Two years later, the first day of Junior Week was offically dedicated to juniors and their "very best girls."

As will be the policy of this column, we'll be picking a record or two for your listening enjoyment. This week, in honor of the Junior Prom and our "dear old Villanova weather," it's The Commanders and their recording of "A Foggy Day."

Junior Class Administrators

President Jack Decker, a 20-year-old civil engineer from Garden City, N. Y., is a regular midshipman in the NROTC. He's a member of Phi Kappa Pi and the American Society of Civil Engineers. At Garden City High School Decker played varsity baseball and basketball and was on the student council.

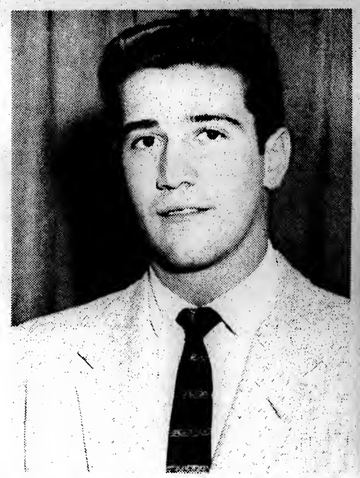
Don Kelly moved up to the vice-presidency after representing the class on the Student Council from the second semester of freshman year until the end of sophomore year. A 19-year-old civil engineer from Plainview, N. Y., Kelly graduated from Brooklyn Tech.

Secretary Mike Bcruch, an end on the varsity football squad, earned seven varsity monograms at Plainfield (N. J.) High School. He co-captained the football team with Milt Campbell.

Tom Hooker is rounding out his second year of handling the financial purse strings of the class. A graduate of St. Joseph's Prep in Philadelphia, Hooker edited his high schol yearbook and was active in student government.

President John Decker

1957 Steering Committee



The group relaxing in the picture at the bottom of the page has been a clearing house for all the ideas and plans for the biggest social week on the Villanova calendar.

Offically known as the class steering committee, the 27-man group works along with the class officers and class moderator in organizing all events sponsored by the class.

A steering committee has assumed greater importance with the entrance of larger freshman classes to the university.

Steering committeemen pictured below are: front row, left to riaht—Tom Smith, Eb McCall, Pat Gallagher, Joe Martin, Dick McEntee, Bob Schiller, Jack O'Rourke, Leo Kane and Jim Judge. In the back row are Jack Dunn, Art Odabash, Don Kelly, Jack Kero, Tom Decker (no relation to the class president), Joe Keffer, Tom Curran, Ed Schehl, Dave Borcik, Jerry Lee, Jack Shea and Dick Cooke. Up the tree is Den Rinkacs.

Missing from the picture are Lee Carson, Tim Kennedy, Jack Fraser, Dick Mason, Tom Scanlon and Fred Costello.

Vice-President Donald Kelly

Secretary Michael Boruch

Treasurer Thomas Hooker

Page Eight

Junior Class Athletes: Their Competence Has Brought Fame

CHARLIE JENKINS
Varsity Track

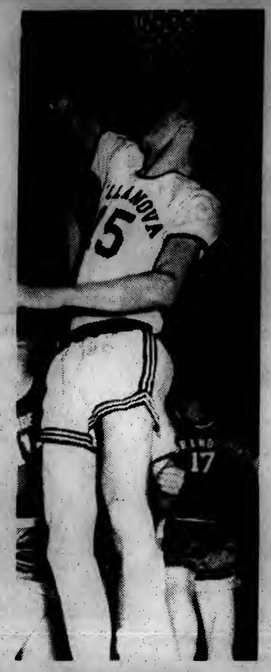
Accomplishments in academic and extra-curricular activities, important though they are, are only a part of the success story of members of the Junior Class. More popularity has come to Villanova Juniors through the medium of athletic endeavors than from any other source. The name which members of the Class of 1957 have made for their school will live in the pages of the various sports sheets long after the dean's list and the school paper are gone and forgotten.

The track and field world, for example, has felt the blow of Villanova athletics just this past winter. And two of the track team's members, Charlie Jenkins and Junior Don Bragg, were the pace-setters for the Wildcat squad. Jenkins, with his tremendous middle distance feats, set a world's record in the 500 yard run, as well as winning all but one of his indoor starts.

Bragg is held in high esteem by track enthusiasts for his exceptional feats in the pole-vault. The twenty-year-old Jerseyite is a shoo-in for the Olympic team on the strength of his better than 15 feet vaults.

Track, however, is just one facet of the Villanova sports program in which members of the Junior Class have turned in such admirable efforts. In football, basketball, baseball, swimming, and golf, the Juniors have proven themselves worthy of the acclaim which has been accorded them.

Football, for example, has had an ample share of Saturday heroes.



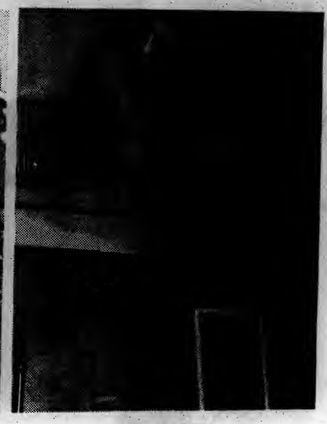
Against Indiana last season, Johnny Bauer ran 60 yards down a sideline before catching a touchdown pass. The line play of Ronny Wood, Mike Flynn, Joe Ryan, and Ron Cherubini was outstanding last season, in games which the team won and lost.

The backfield antics of Johnny Ferroulo, John Lammers, and Al Ciarrochi were bright spots in an otherwise dismal season.

Then basketball came in, and Juniors still proved themselves equal to the tack. Lean Al Griffith was a red-hot defensive and offensive star for the Wildcats, as was Jack Weissman.

Swimming and golf also were well-represented with a share of exceptional Juniors. Don Couig, a co-captain during last year's highly successful 9-2 season, holds at least a half-dozen swim records. He was helped by Denny Rinkacs, Bob Duffy, Jim Donnelly, and Lee Carson.

Ben Klemanowicz has been the headliner for the divot-men for the past two years. This season, during a triangular match play against Penn State and Penn, Klemanowicz incurred his only loss as a varsity golfer. He is captain of this year's squad. Bob McIlhenny, another Junior, also golfs for Villanova.



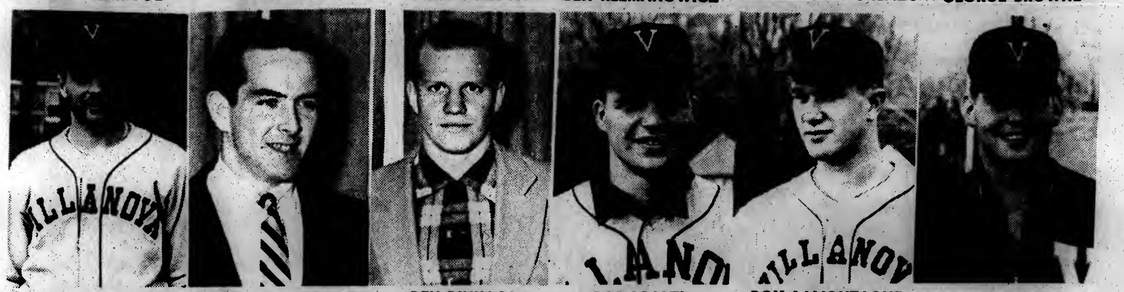
JACK WEISSMAN
Varsity Basketball

DON COUIG
Varsity Swimming

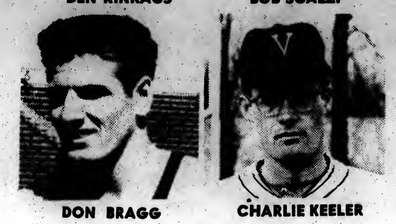
JOHN BAUER
Varsity Football

DON NALTY
Varsity Swimming

JOE RYAN | RON WOOD | RAY MACKO | MIKE FLYNN | RON CHERUBINI | JOHN BAUER



TONY ESGRO | JOHN GIANANTONIO | AL CIARROCHI | VAN INJAIAN | CHARLIE BRUNO | DARRYL STEARNS



DON GALLAGHER JOHN LAMMERS BOB DUFFY GENE MALIFF JOHN KOPIL JIM FAHEY

AL BRECKENRIDGE DICK BLACK MIKE BORUCH BEN KLEMANOWICZ JOHN DIGIALLORENZO GEORGE BROWNE

CHARLIE DIGIOVANNI AL PETERSON DEN RINKACS BOB SCALZI RON LAMONTAGNE LOU ISERN

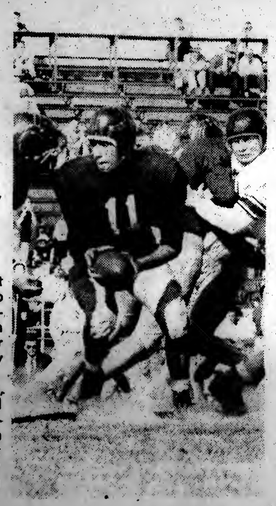
DON BRAGG CHARLIE KEELER

The sharp-strutting Navy unit puts on a half-time show for last year's Blue-White day crowd.

Saturdays' Blue-White Day Features Five-Sport Program

Villanova's fourth annual Blue-White Day, which will be held this Saturday at the University's Field House, will feature many of the Junior Class outstanding athlets.

Blue-White Day, orginated by Athletic Director Ambrose F. "Bud" Dudley, is a day-long sports carnival which includes basketball, football, baseball, track, golf, and swimming competition. Each of these events will be held at different hours so that spectators will have a chance to see all the action.



Highlighting the activities of the day will be the basketball game, in which Villanova's 1956-57 varsity team will challenge the Old-Timers, ex-Villanova stars, in an outdoor game. This year's Old-Timer squad will feature the five best basketball players ever to graduate from Villanova: Paul Arizin, Larry Hennessy, Bobby Schafer, Jack Devine, and Joe Lord.

The initial unveiling of next year's varsity football team will also be a key event during the day's program. Frank Reagan's 1956 team will try their stuff on an Old-Timer team composed of some of the very best ex-Villanova ball players.

Don Bragg and Charlie Jenkins, sensational Junior trackmen, will team with the much-heralded Villanova miler, Ronny Delany, during a track meet against St. Joseph's. It would be an understatement to say that anything can happen during that one!

The baseball team, which has gotten off to a ripping start this season, will play LaSalle in a big game for both teams.

Swimming events, in the University pool, and a Varsity-Old-Timers golf match will round out the day's activities.

JOHN FERROULO

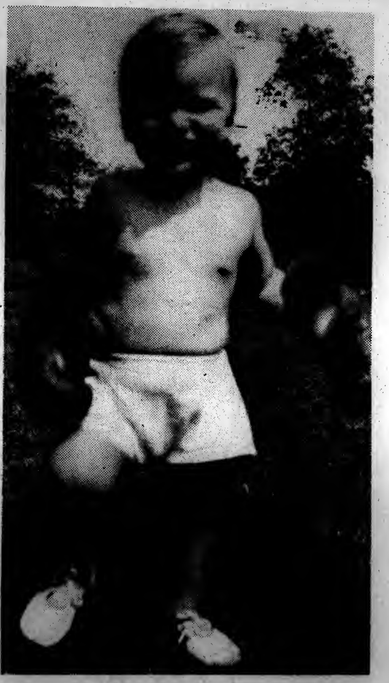
Ah, Those Carefree, By-Gone Days:

A Junior Album Of "Remember When"

Frank Fitzpatrick: "Who says I don't have dimples?"

Dave Borcik: "So then he said, 'let's play one more hand . . .' "

Tony LaRosa: "What kind of party is this, anyway?"



William Schmidt: "Don't worry, it's registered for the week."

William Wind: "That's what I call a dry martini."

Joe Kulak: "This Villanova chow is the greatest."

Dick Cooke: "Who said my sister goes to Rosemont?"

By PHIL SEEFRIED and BERNIE CONWAY

THE SERIOUS AND LESS SERIOUS SIDES OF JUNIOR WEEK BY CARTOON

By PHIL SEEFRIED

That's Phil Seefried's constant companion, Freddie, peering at his creator after the 20-year-old resident of Baldwin, L. I., N. Y., turned out the cartoons brightening up this page. Phil joined the VILLANOVAN staff in September and was appointed cartoon editor. His "Life at the Big V" drawings are featured in each week's paper.

SPECIAL ELECTION ROUND-UP

Villanovan

Vol. 31—No. 20 VILLANOVA UNIVERSITY, VILLANOVA, PA. May 9, 1956

BLUE-WHITE DAY IN PICTURES

Alumni Gym Polls Open Until 3 Today As Classes Elect 27 For Next Year; Matriculation Cards Needed To Vote

Out of all the apparent confusion taking place today in front of Alumni Hall will emerge the men who are to govern their respective classes for the coming academic year.

Once again, antiquated Alumni Gym has been turned into the campus polling station, where ballots will be accepted by the Student Council from 10 in the morning to three in the afternoon. The polls will close exactly at three. Under no circumstances will late votes be accepted.

No student will be admitted to the gym without his or her matriculation card. Once again, no exceptions will be made.

Each class, '57, '58, and '59, will elect a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and six representatives to the Student Council. Juniors, in addition, will elect an alumni representative.

The six Student Council men will be broken down to two apiece for each division: Arts, Engineering and C&F.

All the names appearing on the various ballots have been carefully screened by the administration. Their academic, disciplinary, and chapel records have undergone careful scrutiny. Only students of higher ability can be counted upon to run the various departments of their respective classes.

Results To Be Posted

The actual voting will be done by the voter marking his selections in pencil or ink on the ballot afforded by the senior in charge. Votes will be tabulated by the Student Council immediately after the three o'clock closing time. Results will be posted on blackboards outside the gym as soon as tabulations are completed by the Council.

In case of ties or extremely close races, votes will be recounted in an effort to determne a definite winner. In case of actual ties, a re-vote will have to be scheduled at a later date.

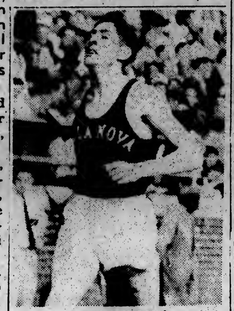
Electioneering Allowed

Those students seen milling about the entrance to the polls are not necessarily nervous politicians, but merely students engaged in electioneering and trying to sway the decisions of those who are not yet sure what or who they want.

Another purpose served by these pressure groups is to bring to the polls those who would not have either enough interest in their respective classes, or those who still may be in the dark as to just what is going on. Electioneering directly in front of the polls has been sanctioned by the administration for election day only.

Bob Fredericks, chairman of the Student Council elections committee, is in charge of the balloting and vote-counting.

Delany To Oppose Landy Once Again In Fresno Relays



Ron Delany, Villanova's crack Irish miler, will leave once more for California today, to race again against world mile record holder John Landy of Australia.

Delany will compete Saturday afternoon against Landy in the West Coast Relays at Fresno, Calif. Jim Bailey, Landy's fellow Australian who upset him last Saturday at Los Angeles in the fastest mile ever run on American soil will not compete. He is too valuable a member of his University of Oregon track team, which will be competing elsewhere Saturday.

Delany was not sure whether he would be able to run, as he would miss two more days of classes. But Athletic Director Bud Dudley said, "University authorities reviewed Delany's academic status and found him to be a student in high standing and therefore approved his competing at Fresno."

Jim Elliott, Villanova track coach, who was unable to accompany Delany to Los Angeles last week because of Blue-White Day, will be with him Saturday. Elliott will miss Villanova's dual meet with Georgetown at the Stadium Saturday, but Jim Tuppeny, assistant coach, will handle the meet.

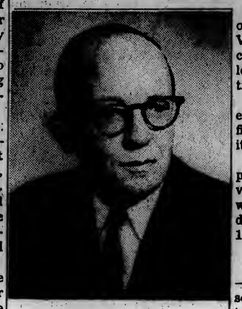
"I'm very anxious to compete again," Delany said, "I consider it a privilege to run in a race with John Landy, as well as a great experience. I hope to do better this time."

RON DELANY
Another Chance

JUNIOR PORTRAITS

Junior yearbook portraits were started this Monday on the second floor of Dougherty Hall and will continue until Friday May 18. Since no portraits will be taken in the fall, all juniors must sign up for their portraits in this period.

Appointments can be made in the day-hop cafeteria. Belle Air Editor-in-Chief Dick Schleicher urges all juniors to be prompt in keeping their appointments to expedite the heavy load of picture-taking.



As announced before, required attire consists of blazer, good trousers, white shirt and dark tie.

"ALL AMERICAN" AGAIN

Examining judge's guidebook which rated the VILLANOVAN "All-American" are the Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A., the paper's moderator; Harry Nash (left), editor of the editions judged; and Tom Smith, who succeeded Nash as editor-in-chief. The paper earned 1,730 points for issues published during the first semester. This total was the highest ever attained in the history of the VILLANOVAN.

Villanovan Earns Another ACP 'All-American' Rating

JAMES T. QUIRK
Medal Winner

Compiling the highest number of points it has ever earned, the VILLANOVAN has once more carried off the Associated Collegiate Press' highest journalistic rating.

Judged "All-American" were editions published during the first semester under former Editor-in-Chief Harry C. Nash III.

The ACP gave the paper 1,730 points, which surpassed the previous high of 1,706. This figure was earned by editions published during the first semester of the 1954-55 academic year.

Eight In Class

In the VILLANOVAN's class—weekly papers produced by schools with enrollments between 2,000 and 4,000 students—eight other papers were labeled "All-American." This indicates that the paper would rank anywhere from first to eighth place in its class. Other papers named for the high honor were not identified by the ACP.

The VILLANOVAN was analyzed and rated by G. D. Hiebert, columnist and former assistant city editor for the St. Paul (Minn.) PIONEER PRESS and DISPATCH.

Encouraging Words

Here are some of the comments included by Mr. Hiebert in the rating booklet: "Some fine straight news reporting" . . . "Seldom have I seen so many good columns and features in one paper" . . . "Your news coverage is outstanding" . . . "Good cartoons" . . . "Good action pictures and effective use of one-column cuts . . . "

Former editor Nash made this statement on receiving the news: "I would like to make very clear the extent of my appreciation to members of the staff, who were consistently loyal and who put in a staggering amount of time

(Continued on Page 10)

TV Guide Editor To Get First Villanovan Award

The VILLANOVAN tonight will inaugurate the presentation of an annual journalism medal when it honors Mr. James T. Quirk, publisher of the nationally-circulated TV GUIDE.

The medal will be awarded during the staff's annual dinner-dance at the Drake Hotel in Philadelphia. The Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., university president, is scheduled to make the presentation.

Patron of Printers

To be known at the "St. Augustine Medal," the award will be presented each year for achievement in the journalism field. It is named for the patron saint of printers, St. Augustine, fifth century bishop who is recognized as one of the most voluminous writers in history. The Order of St. Augustine, which operates Villanova, takes its name from the saint who died in 430.

Tonight's banquet, which is scheduled for 6:30, will be presided over by toastmaster Richard B. Fitzpatrick, editor-in-chief of the 1956 BELLE AIR.

Wide Reputation

In announcing Mr. Quirk's selection, the Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A., the paper's moderator, commented: "It is indeed fitting that Mr. Quirk receive our first St. Augustine Medal. Apart from the talents which have made him one of America's most successful young executives, his moral, personal and spiritual life might well serve as an example to young people entering the field of journalism."

Born and educated in Philadelphia, Mr. Quirk began his career in radio in 1934 after attending Villanova. He later joined Triangle publications where he obtained much of his newspaper training and background.

He has been with TV GUIDE since its inception in 1953. The magazine has expanded to cover the entire country with 40 editions and a weekly circulation of more than four million.

Assistant to Ridgway

During World War II, the medal winner served as public information officer for Gen.

(Continued on Page 10)

CAMPUS PROFILE

Doctor Schwartz Sees Key To Future

by John McGee

The Villanova faculty is ever expanding. Every year marks another step ahead in the building of a top flight staff of instructors to keep pace with the growing enrollment. Among the carefully screened new teachers completing their first year at Villanova is Dr. Donald Schwartz, assistant professor of chemistry.

Many Honors

Dr. Schwartz received his B. S. in chemistry from the University of Missouri, and earned his master's degree in the same field from Montana State College. Rounding out his education, he completed his doctorate work last year at the University of Pennsylvania. Active in the field of chemistry, Dr. Schwartz is a member of Phi Lambda Upsilon, the national honorary chemical fraternity, the American Chemical Society, the Franklin Institute, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Upon questioning, Dr. Schwartz did not hesitate to point out that chemistry is the key to the future of America. When a chemistry undergraduate thinks only of his life work in an academic or industrial field, he sells himself short. Chemistry, he emphasizes, is actually broader than most people realize.

Chemist's Choice Varied

For example, a major in chemistry has the choice of a host of varied professions through graduate study in chemical engineering, metallurgy, mineral preparations, geochemistry, petroleum refining, or even ceramics. If a student does not desire post-graduate work, Dr. Schwartz names many opportunities in sales, the F. B. I., U.S. Government Technical Service, engineering, and criminology, to mention a few. Further information can always be obtained from university catalogues and from a student's instructors.

Key to Future

Chemistry, Dr. Schwartz points out, besides being a diversified profession, is also the key to the future of American progress and eventual survival in the technological struggle with Russia. The emphasis is now, and will be in the future, the development and use of the world's natural resources.

Dr. Schwartz comments: "In his mind and hands, the chemist has the future of the world. He has barely scratched the surface of knowledge. In his research he is opening up whole new sciences. The ocean floor, with its infinite treasures of minerals and plant life, is, as yet, untouched by man. Here in marine chemistry the chemist of tomorrow can create a new world for man." He also points out that much of our uranium has been found in sea basins.

Using full technology, the chemist can discover new methods for securing better and new products from solid, liquid and gaseous fuels. Thousands of tons of Anthracite coal are waiting for the chemist to find new uses for its pure carbon. This is only another of many discoveries which challenge the chemistry student today to create a better, safer and happier world, according to Dr. Schwartz.

The VILLANOVAN welcomes letters from its readers. Communications should be brief and may concern any topic in good taste.

Villanovan

Villanova University Villanova Pa.

Thomas E. Smith
Editor-in-Chief

Bob Strayton ..... Managing Editor
Bill Jones ..... Feature Editor
Frank Delany ..... News Editor
Joe Slavin
Bob Mulchey ..... Sports Editors
Sig Ho'tz ..... Photography Editors
Jack Downing
Bill Brown ..... Copy Editors
Phil Seefried ..... Cartoon Editor
Nick Pedano ..... Circulation Manager
Joe De Grazia ..... Business Manager

Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A.
Faculty Moderator

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Scholar, Gentleman, Athlete.
LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1928 under the act of March 3, 1879
MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE PRESS ASSOCIATION

Member
Associated Collegiate Press

Select the Best Man

If you've already marked your ballot in Alumni Gym there's no need to read further.

But if a trip to the polling place is still to be made, there are a couple points you might consider.

That isn't a popularity contest the Student Council is running today. It is an election, in which all students have the opportunity to select the men who will make their class a success or a failure next year.

The fellow with the biggest or gaudiest posters isn't necessarily the individual who will be able to gauge class opinion accurately next year when he has to decide what classmates will most efficiently handle activities.

That fellow with the cutest or most clever billboards may be getting support from an element which will be looking for "pork barrel" remuneration next year.

Classes in the past have made the mistake of electing such a man only to find the big class jobs controlled by a clique.

As usual, the young men who will have Junior Week to look forward to next year have the most delicate task. Their elected officials will have to be men who will be able to follow through on all kinds of details from where that all-important dinner-dance will be held to what kind of favors the best girls will cherish.

But the other two classes have tough jobs. Sophomore year has been rising in significance lately. And the seniors-to-be will want to select a man for president who will stand out when he is greeting the fathers next spring.

They won't be picking men who will be out to change the United States' foreign policy over at Alumni Gym today. But they will be choosing the overseers of Villanova's student policy.

We won't urge you to vote . . . but you do have until 3 o'clock to put in your 13 cents worth.

Japan Symbolic of Catholic Growth

Elsewhere in this paper is a picture of the first parochial school built in Japan.

The ultra-modern structure is noteworthy here at Villanova because it was constructed by the Augustinian Fathers' mission at Nagasaki.

But the establishment of a center of learning for Japanese children who came into the world after the Japanese city was wrecked by atomic bomb assaults in August of 1945, has far-reaching effects, too.

This new school is just one of the tangible symbols of the Roman Catholic Church's growth in Japan during the decade since Japan's leaders accepted MacArthur's surrender terms on the hushed deck of the Missouri to close World War II.

The Church's membership has more than doubled in the past ten years, according to an article in the May issue of SIGN.

On top of this growth in church population, there has been roughly a 100 per cent gain through all the personnel categories of the Church in Japan.

Even with this rise in numbers, the cold fact still is there to inspire the Church's missionary priests and sisters—only one-half of one per cent of Japan's population is Christian, and only 40 per cent of the Christians are Catholics. But Christianity has left its mark on Japan. An example of this is the widespread celebration of Christmas, which has led the JAPAN NEWS to predict that "Christmas may yet become a national holiday."

It is with the working class that the missionaries have to do a selling job. Only one in more than 400 workers is a Catholic, and in reaching the laboring class the Church has these obstacles to hurdle: 1) Some 70 per cent of Japanese workers, according to one survey, deny the existence of God; 2) Japanese labor leaders "are not only ignorant of Catholic social teaching; they despise it and don't want to know anything about it. To them the Church is bourgeois, suspect."

The quotes are the SIGN authors' but they sum up the work facing the Augustinians and other religious orders working in Japan. It's a heart-warming sensation to think that a dance as informal as the Shamokanaki has helped build the first parochial school in Japan. Just one sign of the Church's increasing importance in Japanese life.

Letters to the Editor . . .

To the Editor:

May I borrow a few lines of your well-edited paper to thank Father Michael O'Donnell, O.S.A., and all the men of Villanova who assisted Father in the early March Shamokinaki Dance. We received the proceeds of the dance — $3,100 — recently through the Society of the Propagation of the Faith in Philadelphia.

There must have been a large crowd at the dance; almost as many—much to the chagrin of Father McKee— as we had in 1948 at the Sophomore Cotillion.

Here in Nagasaki we have just finished building the first parochial school for Japan. In our territory here we have mostly the old Christians—Catholics from the time of St. Francis Xavier. The second atom bomb exploded just over our mission here, so naturally the bulk of our Catholic population was born after Aug. 9, 1945. And it is these children who have entered the first, second and third grades of our school.

Since the people here are poor, they could never be able to do this themselves, and it is here that our superiors at Villanova and our friends in that area like yourselves, have backed us. In their prayers the children and the Japanese Sisters who teach in the school will not forget their benefactors.

We have about 1,500 Catholics in our area, and we conduct our parish church, child center, university students' hostel, parochial school, and of course our own mission center—Mother of Consolation Monastery.

God bless and keep you all.

Rev. Thomas Purcell, O.S.A.

POLITICAL ROUND-UP

Books: Effective As Foreign Aid

by Gene Donohue

Foreign aid has always been a stumbling block in our foreign policy because of its monetary burden on the American people. However, at this time, there is an opportunity for each of us to contribute to foreign aid without spending as much as a single penny.

Last Tuesday, May 1 the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia, at the urgent request of the United States Information Service, inaugurated its "Books Abroad" campaign. It is the purpose of this campaign to gather a collection of books to send abroad so that the people in foreign countries might come to know what life in America really comprises.

Immediately, of course, the average thinking person will wonder what good any of his books will be to someone abroad as they are all written in English; but, what perhaps many of us do not realize is that English is read by all educated people throughout the world. As a matter of fact, English is taught to school children as soon as they know the fundamentals of their own language. As proof for the use of books written in English is offered this fact . . . over 60% of the books printed by the Russians for propaganda purposes are written in English.

Another may ask, "Why send books at all?" The answer to this question is, to counteract the great effect that Russian propaganda is having throughout the neutral nations of the world.

DONOHUE

Not many people believe a lie the first time around, but if it is repeated often enough, it can begin to sink in . . . and that is just what is happening in many parts of the world today. Believe it or not, there are many people in foreign countries who do not believe that Americans can read, let alone possess a cultural life that is exemplified in our museums, libraries, symphony orchestra, etc. Russian propaganda has us pictured as mental midgets who spend all our time reading comic books and watching baseball games.

The problem which now arises, is that of deciding just what type of books are needed and where we, of Villanova University, come into the picture. Aside from good modern novels, fiction and non-fiction, which give a semi-accurate account of American life, there is also a great demand for technical books, history books, etc., or in general, all high school and college text books that are not more than ten years old.

Many of us, undoubtedly, have books that we are keeping because they are no longer required for the course and cannot be resold on campus, and other books are too good to throw away but actually we do not want to keep them. These are the books the World Affairs Council wants and needs, and this is how each of us can help.

All the big department stores in Philadelphia, the public libraries, and all ten Catholic high schools in Philadelphia have agreed to act as depositories for these books that will be donated. For any of you on campus who wish to contribute books, leave them in Room 211, Sullivan Hall anytime before May 18.

There is no need for any soul searching in determining what book can be sent in the way of novels just as long as you, as a university student, consider it in good taste. As a further check, all books will be carefully screened by the U. S. Information Service. Remember, this is your opportunity to do your share to help America in her fight against Russia, and one more step in this war of literature to avoid a war of blood.

THE SPOKEN WORD

Having trouble with English? Consider the plight of this fellow as reported in the LSU Daily Reveille:

A student at the University of Texas named Penn Barnett had a rather shaking experience the other day. Barnett answered the phone one morning and the voice at the other end asked: "May I speak to Penn Barnett?"

"It's me," Barnett mumbled.

"It's I," corrected the voice.

"Me, he, she, what's the difference?" Barnett retorted.

"Barnett, this is your English instructor. I phoned to remind you of the makeup quiz this week."

Man With a Military Background:

Quiet-Spoken 'Baron' Ernst Urges D.I.'s Not To Spare The Discipline

By TOM SMITH

Call a Marine "gung-ho" and he'll either poke you in the nose or pick up the restaurant tab.

That term can be taken as a compliment—if you mean a leatherneck who gets his chores done quietly—or an insult—if you refer to a loud mouth who tells everybody in a railroad club car that he went through Parris Island "the hard way."

Nose-Puncher

Ed Ernst, the well-built Indianian who stands in front of Villanova's NROTC unit each Tuesday afternoon, would fit into the "nose punching" category.

In his duties as midshipman lieutenant commander Ernst is drawing on the military know-how he has accumulated since freshman year in high school when he first learned the art of spit shining shoes and squaring corners.

Despite his soft-spoken temperament, Ernst has definite ideas about what he wants in his career as a Marine officer.

Approves of Training

He made it plain he approves of the training methods at Parris Island and San Diego recruit depots. "If they ever drastically change the recruit training methods, I'd think seriously of resigning my commission," commented "The Baron," as he's called by his subordinates.

ED ERNST

No Change Wanted

That statement fits right in with the 21-year-old mechanical engineer's character. He takes his military training seriously, and he feels that the Corps' basic training methods have always been superior to the Army's. Better trained men who look sharp in their dress blues or utility uniforms and follow orders are the result, Ernst feels.

Athlete

The six-foot, 185 pound senior came to Villanova on a regular Navy scholarship after playing quarterback in football and running track at Marmion Academy in Aurora, Ill. Ernst, who was selected to Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges last fall, lives in Fort Wayne, Ind.

Even though he'll lose some of his pinochle-playmates next year—he's on the usual Navy five-year engineering plan—Ed doesn't think he'll get lonesome. "We meet a lot of new friends from the class behind us, so there won't be any problem there," he explains.

Calls Curriculm Good

Incidentally, he thinks the five-year curriculm is a good thing for the NROTC engineers. It gives them a chance to dabble in extra curricular activities and still find time for the navigation and gunnery and engineering textbooks.

And Ernst has his name on the rolls of several activities—he was treasurer of the local chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers; supervised Phi Kappa Pi's first Christmas party for a girls' home in Wayne; and belongs to the Quarterdeck Society.

Tutti-Frutti, All-A-Rootie:!

Campus Critics Trample Those Blue Suede Shoes

By MIKE RUSSO

Beethoven or "Screaming" Jay Hawkins, which shall it be? Many people have their own ideas on Rock 'n Roll, but what do Villanova students think about this present musical crisis?

With this question in mind, your Nomad Newsman has queried the various factions of Villanova on their views of this much debated subject, asking, "Do you think Rock 'n Roll is here to stay?"

George Wimberg, '58 C and F.

It has its possibilities, but good old dixieland jazz will always come out on top in my opinion.

Charley Farley, '57, C and F.

No, I believe it is only a passing fad. Within a year or two, it will probably die down. It can't compare with the old dance bands which have been around for such a long time.

Lou Minotti, '58, C and F.

I think that Rock 'n Roll is favorable to most teen agers, but my selection for the best of all time would be the music of Les Brown.

Joe Devlin, '58, C and F.

I believe that Rock 'n Roll will last only a short time and eventually the good music provided by Sammy Kaye and the other top notch bands will always come out on top.

Dave Belcher, '58, Arts

If Rock 'n Roll is here to stay, I hope I don't have to hang around and listen to it. Perhaps one could understand its appealing to 14 or 15 year-olds, but it has no place on a college campus.

Frank O'Kenka, '58, C.E.

If Rock 'n' Roll stays, I'm leaving.

Francis Bonner, '58, Arts.

Rock 'n Roll is not here to stay, because it is definitely out of place on the campus.

Norm Peer, '58, Arts.

Here to stay? As far as I'm concerned, it never came. It's got as much place on a college campus as knickers, or peg pants. Spare us.

Hank Nichols, '58, Education

Well, it hasn't reached the level of Mickey Mouse or Howdy Doody yet, but I think it will soon come around.

Paul Finan, '58, Arts.

Rock 'n Roll is the worst thing that has happened to music since the arrival of Rudy Vallee. The most horrible feeling in the world is to tune in a program in the early hours of the morning and hear some mad young vocalist screaming at the top of his lungs, "Don't step on my blue suede shoes." This type of music is much too deep for me.

OPENINGS FOR ENGINEERS

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that the Navy Department is in need of engineers for positions overseas in the Pacific area. Salaries range from $4,480 to $7,570 a year.

To qualify, applicants must have had appropriate education or experience in engineering. No written test is required. Further information is contained in Announcement No. 12-95-1(56). Interested persons may get this announcement and application forms, or information as to where they may be obtained, at any post office or from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

Rippled Reflections:

by Bernard L. Bonniwell, M.A.

One is hardly aware of the barely perceptible drift of the highway towards the arid wastelands of New Mexico. Once deep within this region of color and heat and distance, the mind seeks out a new meaning for the word wasteland for this soundless land brings the spirit close to the beginning of time.

The hills are not peaked but flat; flat as the deck of a flight ship. The rivers are dry; dry with the dust and fine sand of the ages. The vast distances are not real; thirty miles of vision is a hundred miles of toil and travel. The isolated storms are black pygmies struggling in an enormous and indifferent field of vaulted bronze.

Impassive Indians

The Zuni Indians, hereditary possessors of the vast, lean stillness, are impassive and unresponsive. Mud hovels, colorful blankets, copper skinned children and poverty is the life pattern.

Pulling the long grades of the Sierra Madre, now seeking the cool relief of the Pacific, memory holds one clear fragment that is New Mexico. The Mission, rooted deep in the history of the New World, stands as the outpost of christianity. One remains deeply aware that the Spanish Missions, implacable and as enduring as the waste lands themselves, are the only true conquerers of Time. Time and Truth, of course are One.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Strictly Opinion

By DON ALTON

Ave atque vale Villanova . . . these ancient words are soon to be heard resounding throughout the halls and dorms of Villanova as the class of '56 packs its bags and prepares to enter the conflict that resounds this intellectual shelter of ours, commonly called college life. With this issue of the Villanovan the seniors pound their typewriters for the final deadline, and pronounced sighs of relief can be heard in several quarters . . . however, new faces will fill the boxes as the same subjects are exposed to the journalistic eye of other Villanovans.

There are several areas dear to the heart of the Villanovan columnists, and it would be only proper to mention them in the final attempt from this corner of the paper. Naturally one would have to mention the most radical change of the past four-year period during which the Seniors have managed to garner enough credits to graduate. We must realize that one treads on tender and young toes when the word is mentioned, but this column would not be complete without a final fling in the direction of the Villanova nurse.

A Dainty Invasion

Back in the dark ages when Villanova was a small men's college sans jackets, ties and butter watchers, the thought was never entertained that this haven of intellectual fervor would ever be laid bare to the dainty patter of the feminine white buck and glamorous knee socks. Who would ever have imagined that Villanova men would be found absorbing . . . by osmosis . . . the knowledge of our local pedagogues and the higher thoughts of the retreat master next to that which caused the fall of Adam . . . woman! However, we have learned that anything unexpected usually happens at Villanova, and in this instance it did. Now the incoming freshman class is spotted with assorted varities of the female race, and we have developed a pattern of life on campus which allows for this unusual development. Today the Villanova nurse sips her morning coffee and downs her party brew in the company of her brothers in arms.

ALTON
Ave atque vale

The next item on our agenda proved to be quite a source of material for these pages . . . The Pie Shoppes old and new. The grand old stag days would find a sloppy A.M. visitor dunking his doughnut next to one of the students that come and go who took an early P&W to get in on the first session of the graduate level pinochle course . . . Pie Shoppe 101-01. With the advent of Dougherty Hall, the eye of the campus journalist focused its caustic gaze upon the latest addition to our revised Villanova. The beat of rock and roll, the Mickey Mouse fan club, and the cardless lounges proved to be ample food for the literary mind.

Machines, Machines Everywhere

The battered old Pie House made its final bid for popularity in the eyes of the students with its slot machine-styled milk machines, the addition of the pool parlor, more room for the card players, and a fantastic record machine capable of soothing the hearts of the occupants of this pseudo-casino with 100 carefully selected rock and roll numbers. Now the Old Pie House faces the heights of degradation with the idea to transplant desks and blackboards in the present space devoted to the worshipers of the pinball machine . . . and they never did get automatic nickel dispensers!

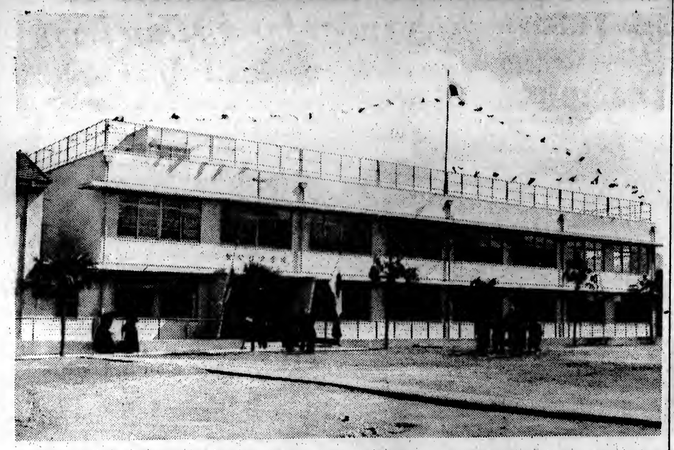
Rest assured that we could never print our final column without mention of those presently dehydrated lasses from the home for studious females across the tracks. Now that the Tea House is strictly stocked with the favorite blends of the Rosies, the path across the tracks now takes a sharp bend to the right in the direction of the town of Bryn Mawr. Here one can find Villanovans in pursuit of a new way of life . . . tea and bridge will never replace the matinee! With the present regulations and restrictions existing today at the local chapter of the W.C.T.U., Villanovans in need of a good night's rest and of the low social budget have a natural place to seek companionship . . . but the summer will arrive!

The Hangman Stays Aloof

Aside from the editors of Holiday, the Ivy league fans, the hermits of I.C. . . . with their sisters in crime from the "Hill," and good old Slippery Rock State Teachers College, we have just about paid our final respect to the varied sources of inspiration the columnists of this journal depended upon in the current year's literary efforts. Now we must make a personal note of appreciation to the administrations of the local colleges, our nurses, the Rosies, et al for the true Christian spirit they displayed in curtailing reactions to hanging us in effigy only . . . rather than in the flesh.

Ave atque vale . . . or in modern jazz terms for the benefit of the uneducated among us . . . roomie . . . farewell, so long, good-bye.

(Paid Political Advertisement)



SOPHS . . . . .

Ralph DiCicco

RESIDENT STUDENT COUNCIL

"The Best You Can Get!"

A SHAMOKINAKI BY-PRODUCT

This is the first parochial school built in Japon. It was constructed by the Augustinian Mission at Nagasaki, partly with funds donated by Villanova students at yearly Shamokanaki dances. Most of the school's pupils were born after the city was destroyed by atomic bomb blasts.

Peering . . . .

With DICK PEER

. . . . . At the Senior Dinner-Dance planned shortly before graduation. Bucks County's Fountainhead plays host to the sedate, 12-hour affair and claims a poolside setting with a saloon type atmosphere and everything else from horseback riding to croquet. Seniors plan to pass out of the collegiate picture very gracefully, and in view of this, the pool will be dragged hourly.

. . . . . At the Navy's assignments for those gentlemen who will be known as "Sir" within a very short time. Orders to Antarctica were limited this year, as were the garbage scow commands. The mothball fleet landed a few would-be admirals and the "Nav Cats" in the class will go to the Algerian Balloon Corps.

PEER

. . . . . At the Seniors' annual end-of-the-year furniture and car sale. One man actually claims to be selling a canopy bed, a Turkish smoking machine, and a house boy. He says he's been living in Galberry Hall or something.

. . . . . At all the smiling hand-shakers and back-slappers who appeared on campus about the same time as the election posters. A mother who wheeled her child across campus the other day claimed it was kissed 14 times and given a handful of cigars.

. . . . At the mammoth Dougherty Hall bulletin board. Chairs may possibly be placed in front of it so that students with a spare hour may read all the information on it without collapsing from fatigue.

Merit Awards Assembly Monday

Merit awards for participation in extra-curricular activities will be distributed during an assembly Monday at 1:30 p.m. in the Field House. Attendance is compulsory for all students. No classes will meet during the 1.30-2:20 period.

Sophomores

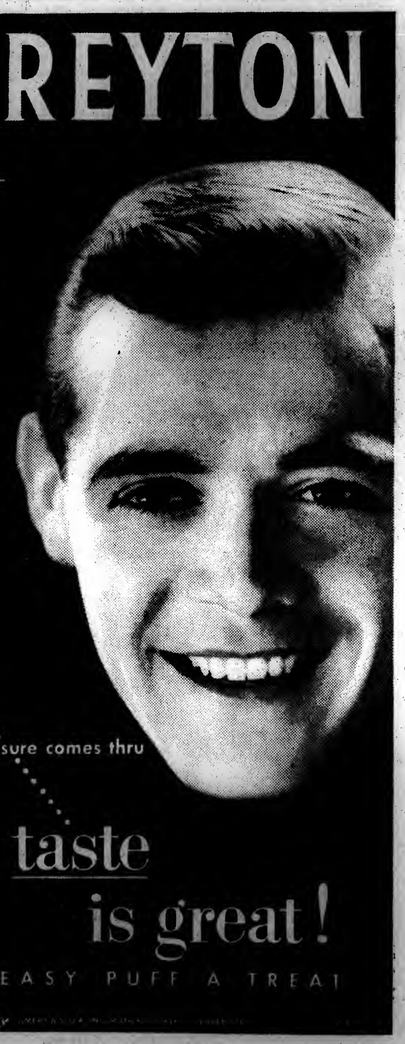
Pat Nicholson

An effective Student Council needs good men. It needs men with initiative, the will to work, and the desire to see Villanova develop into the outstanding University.

Vote today for the men who best meet these qualifications. Past records and constructive ideas for the future show that Pat Nicholson is the man best qualified to represent your class.

(Paid Political Advertisement)

FILTER TIP TAREYTON



Gives you more to enjoy—

Tareyton's Quality Tobacco

Tareyton's Real Filtration

Full King Size

Full Measure

All the pleasure comes thru

the taste is great!

EVERY EASY PUFF A TREAT

Nominees For Today's Elections

CLASS OF 1959

PRESIDENT

Bifferto, Vincent
Brennan, Matthew
Gordan, William
MacGillivray, Kenneth

VICE-PRESIDENT

Corey, James
Forkin, Thomas
Ludmerer, Victor
Matouk, George

SECRETARY

Fleming, Francis
Kelty, Patrick
Montgomery, Richard
Purcell, Anthony

TREASURER

Connelly, Francis
Hixson, William
Margraf, Donald
McPherson, Thomas
Roellig, Charles

STUDENT COUNCIL

Resident

Fraser, John
Fritz, Charles
Krackler, Joseph
Mara, Gary
Murphy, Robert
Quigley, James

Day Hop

Anthony, Richard
Christy, William
Hepburn, Gerald
McElhenny, James

Juniors

It Is Your Duty To Both The Present Alumni And Yourself, As The Future Alumni Of The University, To Elect A Man To The Office Of

Alumni Representative

Who Can Guarantee By His Extensive Extra-Curricular Activities A Firm Relationship Between The Class Of '57 And The Villanova Alumni.

BILL JONES

Is The Student Who Can Best Fill This Position And Maintain The Smooth Relationship Which Exists Today. (Paid Political Advertisement)

CLASS OF 1958

PRESIDENT

Mulcahy, Robert
Rafferty, Michae

VICE-PRESIDENT

Belcher, David
Birch, Clement
Egizio, James
Murphy, Joseph
Nichols, Henery

SECRETARY

Donatucci, John
Fixl, Leo
Herzog, Joseph
Kelly, John D.
McCarthy, Cornelius

TREASURER

Fraunces, George
O'Dwyer, Roger Delany, Ronald

STUDENT COUNCIL REPRESENTATIVES

Resident

ARTS
Laughlin, Paul
Peer, Norman

C & F
DiCicco, Ralph
Lesko, William
Mullin, Daniel
Nicholson, J. Patrick

ENGR.
Connelly, Gerald
Humphreys, Chris
Rudegeair, Leo

Day Hop

ARTS
Glackin, Gerald
Hamburger, Richard
Kinney, Joseph
Roache, Martin
Tagliaferri, Paul

C & F
Ciardi, Albert A.
Grey, Francis
Heaney, Michael
Seeger, William

ENGR.
Fogarty, Eugene
Lamprecht, John H.
Pinto, Louis

JUNIORS
Vote For JOHN S. BROWN
RESIDENT ARTS STUDENT COUNCIL
(Paid Political Advertisement)

CLASS OF 1957

PRESIDENT

Cronin, R. Neil
Fraser, John
Kelly, Donald
Shea, John
Sullivan, Vincent
Kelly, William

VICE-PRESIDENT

Borcik, David
Decker, Thomas

Secretary

Hattrick, William
Lutz, Alfred
Murray, Michael
Reich, William
Shea, James
Vadino, Nicholas

TREASURER

Costello, Frederick
Keffer, Joseph
Lammers, John
Nettleton, John

STUDENT COUNCIL REPRESENTATIVES

Resident

ARTS
Brown, John
Pastore, Angelo

C & F
Allen, John
Gundermann, Richard
Schiller, Robert

ENGR.
Bowers, Paul
Wescott, William
Wray, James

Day-Students

ARTS
Carson, Lee
Ford, Michael
Lee, Gerald
McCullen, Joseph

C & F
Chase, Joseph
Ellis, Frederick
Santoro, Louis

ENGR.
Collins, David
Gallagher, Patrick
Martin, Joseph

ALUMNI REPRESENTATIVE

Bellanca, Leonard
Brown, James
Fatkin, Harold
French, John
Newman, Richard
Jones, J. William
Meliado, Donald
Hamburger, William
Odabash, Arthur

Girls Walked A Mile From J. Paul Sheedy* Till Wildroot Cream-Oil Gave Him Confidence

"Dune anything tonight honey?" Sheedy asked his little desert flower. "Get lost!" she sheiked, "Your hair's too shaggy, Sheedy. Confidentially it sphinx!" Well, this was really insultan. So J. Paul got some Wildroot Cream-Oil. Now he's the picture of confidence because he knows his hair looks handsome and healthy the way Nature intented . . . neat but not greasy. Take Sheedy's advice. If you want to be popular, get a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. Nomad-der if your hair is straight or curly, thick or thin, a few drops of Wildroot Cream-Oil every morning will keep you looking your best. You'll agree Wildroot really keeps Sahara-n place all day long.

 of 1,31 So. Harris Hill Rd., Williamsville, N. Y.*

Wildroot Cream-Oil gives you confidence

MEN OF '59:

SUPPORT YOUR CLASS

GET OUT AND VOTE!

MATT BRENNAN, Pres.

TOM FORKIN, Vice President
DICK MONTGOMERY, Secretary
DON MARGRAF, Treasurer
JACK FRASER, Resident S. C.
JOE ARMON, Day-Hop S. C.

UNITY
LEADERSHIP SPIRIT

(Paid Political Advertisement)

Downing Gets IRE Award

John L. Downing, senior electrical engineering student, was presented with the Student Award for 1956 by the Philadelphia Section of the Institute of Radio Engineers last Wednesday, May 2.

The award was made on the basis of outstanding leadership, scholarship, and potential qualities as an engineer. It was presented to Downing at a Student Night Dinner of the I.R.E. at the Engineers' Club in Philadelphia.

Mr. Ray Kraus, Chairman of the Philadelphia Section of I.R.E., made the presentation of the award, which consisted of a leather diplomatic case and a certificate. The Philadelphia Section covers the eastern part of Pennsylvania and Delaware.

Downing is chairman of the Villanova University Joint Student Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the Institute of Radio Engineers. He is a member of the Student Council, Copy Editor of the VILLANOVAN and a staff writer for the Villanova ENGINEER. On April 27 he represented the Villanova Branch in the A.I.E.E. Prize Paper Competition at Carnegie Tech. and won third prize with a paper on "The Design of an Undergraduate Digital Computer." Co-authors of the paper with Downing were Michael Polgar and James McEowen.

Organization News . . . .

AICHE

Edwin G. Fleck, senior chemical engineer, won third prize at the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, held recently at Penn State University, for a paper on "Effect of Clearance on Heat Transfer and Power Characteristics in Agitated Kettles." Third prize netted Fleck $25.

Fleck was in competition with representatives from Bucknell, Princeton, Carnegie Tech, Penn State, Johns Hopkins, Delaware and Pennsylvania.

Opera-Classica

Rossini's "The Italian Girl in Algiers" is the bill of fare being served up tonight by the Opera-Classica Club at 7 o'clock in 208 C&F.

The opera will be sung in Italian by Mario Petri, Graziella Sciutti and Cesare Simionato with the orchestra and chorus of La Scala in Milan, under the baton of Guilini.

Richard Salisbury, O-C president, said that next season's plans include 14 cultural trips, and, on records, 16 operas and 16 classical and semi-classical works.

Six cultural trips will be to the Metropolitan Opera in Philadelphia, three will be to the Philadelphia Orchestra, two to ballets, one to a television production and two will be to Broadway productions.

Reservations for the 1956-57 met season are being taken now.

Biology Dept.

The University of Pennsylvania played host recently to the chairman of the Villanova Biology Department, Doctor John McClain, and Biology majors John Capelli, Greg Lignelli, Jack Asman, George Davis and Bob Weisenbaugh, for a pre-medical conference.

The conference consisted of a tour through the medical school's laboratories and lecture rooms, a tour through the University Hospital and several speeches.

Operation on Television

Highlight of the tour through the hospital was witnessing an operation on color television.

Talks were on such pertinent pre-med subjects as "The Selection of Medical Students" and "The Student's View of Medical School."

DPM

Palumbo's will be the scene of the annual Delta Pi Mu dinner-dance Saturday, the first time a fraternity dinner-dance has been held in a night club.

The regular floor show will provide the entertainment for the evening which will run from 6:30 until 2. Dance music will be supplied by Palumbo's band.

Reservations cost $6 per couple and may be made with Jim Bambury, (304 Sullivan) and Mike Horan, (305 Sullivan), co-chairman of the affair.

The menu will consist of a turkey dinner, but all plans are not complete.

Palumbo's is located at 824 Catherine St. in Philadelphia.

AIEE-IRE

Seventy-five junior and senior electrical engineers will make the trip to the big city this Friday as the A.I.E.E.-I.R.E. holds its May field trip to Radio City Music Hall in New York City.

The group will tour the backstage of the world famous show place investigating the intricate lighting, elevating stages, and the Rockettes, among other things. After the tour the group will be treated to the Music Hall's stage show and feature presentation.

Foreign Service

The Department of State Foreign Services Officers Examination will be given on June 25 throughout the United States.

Closing date for the receipt of applications to take this examination is Friday. Failure to submit application by this time will eliminate candidates from competing in the examination.

Applications and information are available at the Placement Office or may be obtained from the Board of Examiners for the Foreign Service, Department of State, Washington 25, D.C.

Juniors

LEONARD BELLANCA

For

ALUMNI REPRESENTATIVE

1958 1958

Vote Bob Mulcahy

VOTE for the man whose competence has already been proven...

Vote Bob Mulcahy

VOTE for the man who will work for you...

Vote Bob Mulcahy

(Paid Political Advertisement)

YOU'LL BOTH GO FOR THIS CIGARETTE!

WINSTON brings you real flavor!

■ When Winston came along, college smokers finally got flavor — full, rich, tobacco flavor — in a filter cigarette! Along with this finer flavor, Winston also brings you an exclusive filter that works so well the flavor really gets through to you. Join the switch to Winston — and enjoy filter smoking!

Smoke WINSTON America's No.1 filter cigarette!

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.

Sophomore Bill Lesko (left) newly elected chairman of the Intercollegiate Conference on Government shakes hands with the outgoing chairman Frank Stagnitto as the new vice-chairman Hugh Breslin (next to Lesko), and Jim O'Donnell, next year Student Council representative look on.

(Paid Political Advertisement)

SOPHOMORES:

ELECT

Dave Belcher

Vice-President

The Man Who Will Lead The Way

Area NFCCS Plans Clinic To Serve Budding Writers

The Philadelphia Region National Federation of Catholic College Students has established a Literary Commission to serve students who are interested in writing, especially as a career. Practical experience in college publications will be brought together under the Commission.

Tentative plans for next year include at least two publications, consisting of editorials, essays, short stories and poetry from the talent of the nine Catholic colleges in the area.

Five seminars during the course of the year are also being planned. The seminars propose to solve problems in newswriting, prose work, poetry, playwriting and literary criticism.

The first meeting of the Commission will be held at 7:30 Wednesday night, May 16 at Villiger Hall, St. Joseph's College. Those interested should contact John Eddinger and Joe Barrett, LYNX co-editors.

Seniors To Acknowledge Graduation with Day-Long Parting Festival May 29

A jazz concert and buffet dinner will highlight activities during the Senior Parting Festival, which will be held at Fountainhead, in New Hope, Pa., Tuesday, May 29.

The Parting Festival, a day long social event, is an innovation organized by members of the Senior Class to acknowledge their graduation from Villanova. It is the first time in ten years that a Senior Class has planned such a celebration.

The jazz concert, which will feature Billy Krechmer's famous band, is scheduled for the afternoon entertainment, and is only one facet of the day's program, which will begin at 2 p.m. and last until 1 a.m.

Full Day Planned

Bruce Martin and Owen Hickey, who are co-chairmen of the affair, have planned a full day of activities for members of the Class of 1956.

The afternoon's schedule will include full use of Fountainhead's facilities for softball, basketball, volleyball, horseshoes, putting green, horseback riding, and an Olympic size swimming pool. Seniors will be permitted to use all of these facilities.

Continentals To Play

In the evening, following a buffet dinner, the class members will dance to the music of the Continentals, a popular Philadelphia band which has played at several Villanova functions including the Delta Pi Epsilon dinner-dance. The Continentals are capable of playing all types of dance music, co-chairman Martin added.

Aside from the planned activities, Martin also added that there would be "several surprises in store" for the seniors who attend. He emphasized strongly that the affair would be open only to seniors, and that no one else would be allowed to attend.

Tickets for the affair are priced at $8.50, and are on sale now.

Officers Elected At Physics Club Meeting

James Shea has been elected by Physics Club members to succeed Charles Schwerdtfeger as club president for next year. Jack Solarski and Jack Carmosky were elected to the posts of Student Council representative and treasurer, respectively.

According to the unique system of the Physics Club, the incumbents are a junior, sophomore and a freshman.

Demonstrate Generator

On May 17, the Physics Club will hold its last meeting which will feature a demonstration of the newly acquired Von de Groff generator by Dr. Beiduk.

We will be pleased to interview any June graduate interested in a career in the brokerage business.

Telephone or write Mr. Henry H. Fahrig for an appointment and one of our 12-page illustrated booklets portraying operations in our Philadelphia office.

REYNOLD'S & CO.

1526 CHESTNUT STREET

PHILADELPHIA 2, PA.

LO 4-0505

Thirty-six offices from coast-to-coast. Members of the New York Stock Exchange and other leading stock, bond and commodity exchanges.

"I originally came from Atlanta"

That's where the pause that refreshes with ice-cold Coke began. Now it's enjoyed fifty million times a day. Must be something to it. And there is. Have an ice-cold Coca-Cola and see . . . right now.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1956, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Are you playing the right Spalding ball?

For the low handicapper, Spalding's new high-compression AIR-FLITE® offers maximum distance. The exclusive DURA-THIN* cover withstands scuffing and bruising far longer. $14.75 doz., 3 for $3.75.

The Spalding KRO-FLITE® couples distance with superb durability. The tough cover will stand up under surprisingly rough treatment and the ball stays round, white and puttable. $14.75 doz., 3 for $3.75.

The Spalding OLYMPIC® is a medium-priced ball with a very tough skin. It combines exceptional wearing qualities with a playability usually associated with higher-priced balls. $11.40 doz., 3 for $2.85.

Many golfers choose the Spalding HONOR.® Popularly priced, it offers good durability and playability. Like all Spalding balls, it features True Tension winding for extra resilience. $9.00 doz., 3 for $2.25.

Get economy and quality in this golf ball. Spalding's VICTOR® is an "economy" ball with plenty of distance. The extra-thick cover promises great durability. $7.00 doz., 3 for $1.75.

*TRADE-MARK

SPALDING

SETS THE PACE IN SPORTS

(Paid Political Advertisement)

For A Better Government

Class of 1957

R. Neil Cronin

PRESIDENT

Mike Murray

SECRETARY

GET OUT AND VOTE

For A Better Senior Year

Bobby Schafer, only man in Villanova basketball history to score over 2,000 points, dunks a lay-up for the alumni in annual Blue-White Day varsity-oldtimer basketball game as Jim Fahey tries to defend against the two pointer. Griffith, Harrison, and Brennan wait for rebound as Jim Smith looks on from the corner.

Captain Jim Smith drives through the key hole for the Varsity during the Blue-White Day Basketball game against the Oldtimers as Shy Raiken, (25), '50, and John Cirino, (5), '56, defend against the shot. Behind him are Ralph Kowalski, (30,Varsity), and Paul Arizin, (14, Alumni).

Blue-White Day: A Sports Panorama

Villanova pole vaulter Don Bragg uncorks a javelin heave as he competes in the strange event during the Blue-White Day track and field activities.

Mike Mayock, captain of the 1955 Wildcat eleven, chats with his former coach Frank Reagan in Goodreau Stadium before the Varsity-Oldtimers football game during the fourth annual Blue-White Day last Saturday.

Villanova's Ron Delany rounding first turn in his special mile race against Australia's John Landy and Jim Bailey last Saturday in Californ ia as seen on the screen of one of the Field House television sets.

Track Records Highlight Blue-White Day

Delany Finishes Third In Special Coast Mile Race

Ron Delany is no longer an undefeated miler.

Villanova's outstanding Sophomore star met his first defeat last Saturday afternoon in a nationally televised race against some of the best milers in the world. A third place finish was all he could salvage after a sizzling first half on the hard Memorial Coliseum Track in Los Angeles, California.

Bailey Upsets Landy

Australia's Jim Bailey finished with a terrific last lap kick to defeat his fellow countryman, John Landy, World record holder in the distance, to pull an astonishing upset in the epic race. Bailey finished in 3:58.6, with Landy a stride behind in 3:58.7, marking the first mile run under four minutes in the United States. It was also the first time two men ran the mile under 3:59 in the same race.

Both men were dangerously close to Landy's world record of 3:58, set in Turku, Finland, in 1954.

Then, in a surprise move five days before the meet, Elliott revealed that Ron would enter the competition. Delany left for Los Angeles the Wednesday before the meet, accompanied by Earl Eby, a member of the Philadelphia BULLETIN sports staff.

Delany, who usually is content to hang back early in the race and depend on his kick in the final leg, surprised the 40,000 fans present and millions watching on television by reversng this procedure for the race, and moving into his early lead.

Sunday morning, a smiling Delany was met by 300 cheering students upon his return to the campus. He is scheduled to return to California next Saturday, this time to run against Landy again in the West Coast Relays to be held in Fresno.

Charley Jenkins strides across finish line as he anchors Villanova's crack mile relay team to second straight Penn Relay crown in the meet record breaking time of 3:11.9. Jenkins was caught in a flashing 46.1 for the final 440 yards.

Delany finished third with a 4:05.6 clocking, the second fastest mile of his career. The Irish speedster was picked by the experts as the man who would give Landy the biggest fight for top honors in the race.

Delany Sets Early Pace

The youngest runner in the celebrated group, Ron set the early pace, with Landy and Bailey about fifteen yards behind. He held his lead until the 880 mark where Landy took over, running in front most of the last leg and setting the stage for his countryman's roaring finish.

Delany, discounting his age, was the youngest man in the race on another count—experience. The 20-year-old distance star has only been running the mile for ten months, beginning in Ireland last August. Dublin's gift to trackdom had won 9 races before the two stars from "down under" ended his undefeated skein.

Although Ron was invited to the feature event of the University of Southern California and UCLA Pacific Coast Conference dual meet earlier in the season, he wasn't expected to attend. Athletic Director Bud Dudley and Coach Jim Elliott figured that Delany was needed here at Villanova for the Blue-White Day festivities.

Wildcat Runners Dominate Penn Relay Festival

By JOE TERRILYNN

The hot sun blazed down on Franklin Field on Saturday, April 28, adding greatly to the pleasure of 35,000 fans watching the 62nd Annual Penn Relay Carnival. However, the hottest thing in the stadium was not the sun, it was the fleet-footed Villanova track team.

The trackmen wearing the blue and white uniforms of Villanova ran away with top honors in the cinder festival as they enjoyed the greatest day they have ever had in the sport. Successful juggling of performers and events by Jumbo Jim Elliot gave the Wildcats top headlines in the star-studded spectacle.

Wildcats Win Four Relays

Villanova won four relays during the two day program, climaxing their performance with a record breaking victory in the mile, the final event of the relays.

George Syndor, Rowland Simpson, Ron Delany, and Charlie Jenkins left the crowd whistling as they won the mile in 3:11.9 to beat Morgan State by four yards. Their time, which shattered the old relay record of 3:13.1 was just three and one-tenth seconds off the world record.

Sydnor started things off for the Wildcats with a 0:48.9 quarter, and Simpson retained the lead for Delany with a 0:48.5 timing. Ron's 0:48.4 quarter gave Jenkins a lead of about a stride, and, with the fastest quarter of the day, 0:46.1, Charlie capped the victory by four yards.

Jenkins Again

Jenkins also opened Villanova's drive to the sprint medley championships with a 0:47.6 quarter. Sydnor and Gene Maliff, both running 220 yards, opened up a lead for ace miler Delany, who ran the 880 final leg. The Wildcats winning time was 3:25.

Villanova's Freshman Mile Relay quartet won its event for the second straight year, as a new crop of yearlings sped to a 3:19 victory. Running for the Wildcats were Bill Rahn, Vic DiMaio, Charlie Stead, and Ed Collymore, in that order. Stead's successful battle to keep the lead for the frosh, and Collymore's last lap kick were the high points in the Wildcat victory.

Villanova's fourth relay championship came the day before when a surprisingly fast quartet set a new carnival record of 9:58.1 in the college distance medley to beat a strong Oxford team by 25 yards. Ron Delany's 4:09.6 anchor mile was the big factor in the victory, but due credit must be given Jenkins, Simpson, and Alex Breckenridge, who ran the first three laps and kept Villanova in the race.

ED COLLYMORE
Frosh Anchor Man

Bragg Ties for First

Don Bragg, defending champ in the pole vault, shared top honors in his specialty with John Gray, of Penn. The pair tied for the crown at 14 feet, one inch. Phil Reavis tied for third place in the high jump, another record breaking event, with a leap of 6 feet 6.

Holup And Bragg Set Marks; Baseball Football And Basketball Teams Triumph

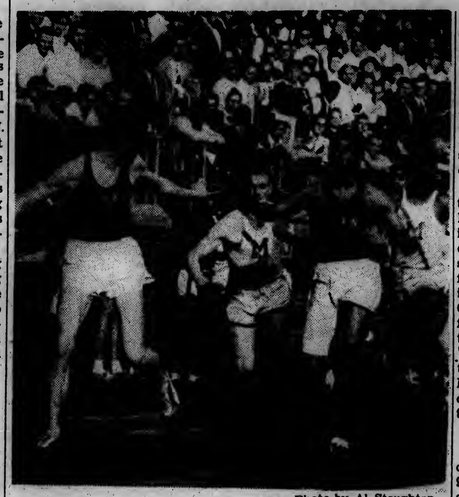

Photo by Al Stoughton

Ron Delany takes the baton from Roland Simpson a few yards ahead of Manhattan's Tom Murphy on the final leg of the sprint medley relay at the Penn Relays as Villanova is on its way to winning the event for the second consecutive year.

Varsity victories in every sport except golf highlighted the fourth annual Blue-White Day Saturday.

A record crowd of more than 7,000 turned out for this, Bud Dudley's most successful spring sports carnival to date. Three new track records and a one-sided football game featured the daylong festival.

Routing the Old Timers 47-0, the gridiron forces of Frank Reagan showed signs of regaining the high national ranking enjoyed in previous years. Outstanding for the varsity were freshman quarterback Jim Grazione and halfback Dave Parr. Operating smoothly in the "T" formation Grazione threw one touchdown pass of 27 years to Tony Varrechione and deceived the defense with his handoffs. Many others looked good but didn't play very long because of the one-sided contest.

Bragg Sets Record

Eclipsing his own stadium record, Don Bragg pole vaulted 14′ 9″, while Bob Holup set new records in the low and high hurdles with times of 0:17.4 and 0:14.9 respectively. These records were features of a dual track meet with St. Joseph's Hawks which the Wildcats won 72-36.

A unique sight occurred in the 440 yard race when Charley Jenkins and Rollie Simpson finished in a dead heat in 0:51.4. Villanova swept eleven first places while the visiting Hawks could only cop three.

Despite the fact that four out of five of Villanova's 1000 point club played for the Old Timers, the varsity romped off with a 62-57 in the basketball game, featuring the return of men like Paul Arizin, Bob Schafer, and La rry Hennessy. The college boys, however, were too much to handle as Tommy Brennan and Kenny Harrison led the assault. The Wildcats held a 30-28 halftime lead and were never headed.

Seven-hit pitching by Dan Severino highlighted the baseball game with LaSalle as the Mainliners had a comparatively easy time in disposing of the visitors 6-2. Scoring a single tally in the first inning and four in the second, the locals easily held off a two run uprising in the ninth frame. Instrumental in the big rally in the second were the hits of Frank Cofone and Terry Hayes.

The only losing venture for the Varsity teams was that suffered on the golf course where the graduates defeated the under grads 7½-5½. The only victors for the losers were Billy Mawn and Jack Kelly as even Captain Ben Klemanowicz lost 2-1.

Swimming Show

Rounding out the active sports contests of the day was a swimo-rama in the University Pool. The events consisted of a Water Polo game between the Varsity and Old Timers, relays between the Varsity and Frosh, and a demonstration of underwater equipment by Bobby Crew's frogmen.

The fourth annual Blue-White Day closed out with the televising of the Delany mile and the Kentucky Derby.

Freshmen Dominate Track Intramurals; 2 Records Set

Two records were broken in last week's annual Intramural Track Meet held on the Villanova stadium track. Freshmen speedster Joe Armon led the meet by taking two of the eight events and setting a new record in one of them.

Armon, a star for West Catholic's track team last year, won the 100 yard dash by nosing out Jim Cunjak in the second heat and again in the finals. His winning time was 0.10.4. It was Armon again in the 220 yd. dash as Geribasi took second with Cunjak coming in third. In winning the 220, Armon broke the Intramural record of 24.6 set by Bob VandeBeryhe. Armon's time was 24 seconds flat.

Hixson Wins

The other record shattered was in the half mile. The steady pace of Freshman Engineer Bill Hixson from Washington, D.C., proved too much for the rest of the field as Bill crossed the line in 2:11.7 to break the old mark of 2:12.5 set by Jim Nugent in 1951. Hirson was followed across the finish line by Freshman Kenny Harrison.

In the 440 it was another Freshman, John Morrissey, winning with a time of 56.5 seconds. Running a close second was J. Sutton. Vince Sullivan outleaped Joe Corcoran to win the high jump with an effort of five feet seven inches. Freshman Amil DeJesus won the broad jump over Kenny Harrison with a leap of eighteen feet ten inches.

The freshmen scored again in the shot put as Chuck Roellig won with a heave of thirty three feet. In the 880 yard relay it was DeJesus and Harrison combining with Larry Waterhouse and Jim Kievit to finish first with a time of 1:42.5.

Acek."

Sophomore track star Phil Reavis and junior Duke Conte in his leopard skin zoot suit clown their way through an unusual, spur-of-the-moment dance routine, much to the delight of the audience packed into Dougherty Hall during last Wednesday night's Junior Week jazz concert.

All-American

(Continued from Page 1)

on the paper.

Efforts Lauded

"The contributions of Tom Smith, Bob Strayton, Bill Jones, Frank Delany, Sig Holtz, Jack Downing, Bill Brown and Bob Ford in effort, encouragement and pride in the publication are the real reasons for its success. I am certainly grateful to them and their staff members. Father Rongione's counsel and loyalty and personal friendship was the finest feature of all.

"My association with the paper has been memorable and pleasant from the very beginning, mainly because of the work of a fine group of young men with whom I have worked."

Award

(Continued from Page 1)

Omar Bradley and the late Gen. George Patton. Colonel Quirk was recalled to duty in 1951 and served under Gen. Matthew Ridgway, then commander of the Eighth Army in Korea.

Nurses Receive Temporary Basic Accreditation

Temporary accreditation has been granted to the Basic Baccalaureate Program of the Division of Nursing by the Collegiate Board of Review of the National League for Nursing.

Application for permanent accreditation must be made to the Board again in September 1957, since no school is eligible for full accreditation until graduation of its first class.

Listed in Catalog

With temporary accreditation, Villanova's School of Nursing will be listed in the 1956 volume of "Nursing Outlook," the official organ of the National League for Nursing.

Official recognition of the Basic degree program implies approval of the program in its present stage of development.

Recognition was obtained on the basis of a visit to Villanova by Miss Eleanor Helm, secretary of the N.L.N. and information submitted by the Nursing Division.

Hauser Speaks At Law Forum

Milton I. Hauser, Esq., a member of the law firm of Garey and Garey, was the speaker at the final session of the Villanova University School of Law Forum. Mr. Hauser spoke on "The Problems and Techniques of Law Office Management."

The Administrative Law class at the Villanova University Law School was addressed recently by Filindo B. Masino, Esq., of the Philadelphia Bar, on problems related to immigration and naturalization.

New Law Explained

Another recent speaker on the Villanova campus was Fairfax Leary Jr., another member of the Philadelphia Bar, who addressed students of Negotiable Papers on important aspects of negotiable papers.

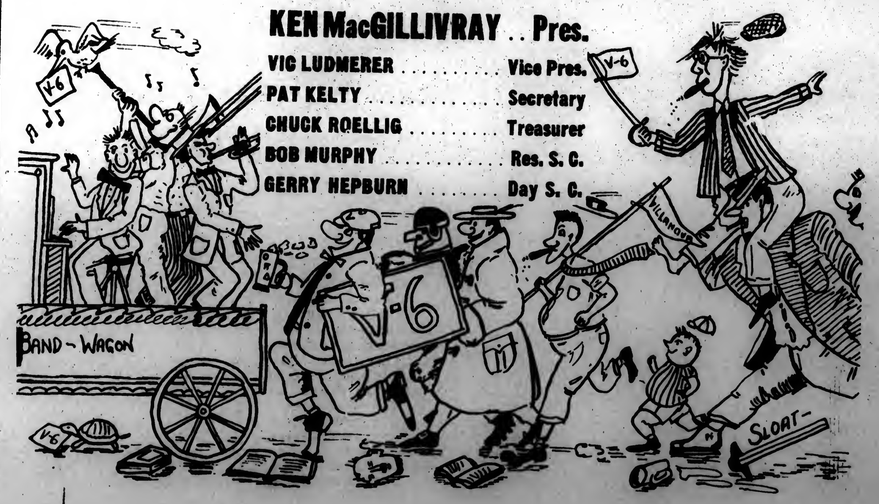
CLASS OF 1959

HELP WANTED

VOTERS, male or female, frosh only, experience unnecessary. Only those interested in good representation for the Class of 1959 need apply. Interviews Wednesday, May 9, between 9 and 3, Alumni Hall.

BILL CHRISTY

for



Day-Hop Student Council Representative

(Paid Political Advertisement)

HOP ON THE BANDWAGON

For The Class Of '59

KEN MacGILLIVRAY .. Pres.
VIC LUDMERER ..... Vice Pres.
PAT KELTY ..... Secretary
CHUCK ROELLIG ..... Treasurer
BOB MURPHY ..... Res. S. C.
GERRY HEPBURN ..... Day S. C.

Villanovan

Vol. 36—No. 21 Villanova University, Villanova, Pa. May 16, 1956

Ahearn To Speak On Graduation Day

For the fifth consecutive year, a NROTC midshipman will deliver the valedictory at Villanova's 113th commencement exercises.

George R. Ahearn, an electrical engineer from Augustinian Academy, Staten Island, N.Y., will address some 495 graduates and their friends and relatives at 11 a.m. on June 4 in the Field House.

Outstanding Student

Ahearn, a member of the dean's list and active with the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and Phi Kappa Pi Fraternity, was selected from a field of eleven candidates last Tuesday after an elimination series of speech tests. Judges were Capt. Martin Gillan, U.S.N (Ret.), Father Robert Regan, O.S.A., and Mr. Anthony Frayne, public speaking instructor.

Thus far, five outstanding men have been named to receive honorary degrees at the 113th graduation exercises. Doctor of Law degrees will be bestowed upon the Most Rev. Engelbert G. Eberhard, O.S.A., Prior-General of the Augustinian Order who is visiting from Rome and will preside over the exercises; the Hon. Charles S. Thomas, Secretary of the Navy and the main speaker; the Hon. Horace Stern, Chief Justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court; and the Very Rev. Edward G. Jacklin, president of St. Joseph's College.

A Doctor of Science degree will be presented to J. Stanley Morehouse, dean of Villanova's Department of Engineering.

GEORGE AHEARN
Commencement Speaker

BUSINESS WHIRL Appears Thursday

The second edition of the BUSINESS WHIRL will be distributed Thursday and Friday.

It is expected that all Commerce and Finance students will not receive their copies and therefore they can be obtained on the second floor of Dougherty Hall on the days when the BELLE AIR will be distributed.

Issue 'Surpasses'

The editors of next year's magazine have also been announced by the moderators. They are: Editor Bob DiJoseph, Assistant Editor, Bill Kelly, Copy Editors Dick Marvel and Jim Abel, Layout Editor Jim Clarke and Circulation Manager Dick Omrod.

The editors stated that "this issue has far surpassed all our other attempts." Included in the edition are articles on Operations Research by John R. Cassidy, a discussion of Group Techniques by Henry Whalen, a survey of the effects of the Trading Stamp Program and many other high level articles of current interest.

TO LEAD CLASSES NEXT YEAR

These are the men Villanovans elected to guide their classes during the coming year . . . (left to right) Vince Sullivan, Class of 1957; Bob Mulcahy, Class of 1958; Ken McGillivray, Class of 1959. Elections drew a 66 per cent turnout, slightly less than las year, according to the Rev. George McLaughlin, O.S.A., dean of student activities.

Sullivan, Mulcahy, And MacGillivray Win Offices In Record Election

Third Navy Engineer To Hold Post

The Class of 1957 has become the first Villanova class to elect to the presidency three regular midshipmen-engineers.

Vince Sullivan, who steamrollered his way to the top post Thursday, succeeds Jack Decker. Jack O'Rourke was president during sophomore year.

A chemical engineer from San Diego, Calif., he was listed on 135 of the 419 votes cast by a disappointing turnout of 66 per cent of the class. Last year 74 per cent voted. Joining Sullivan in the class offices are vice-president Tom Decker, a day hop from Ardmore; secretary Al Lutz, a day hop from Philadelphia; treasurer John Lammers, a varsity football quarterback from Plainfield, N. J. All are students in the C&F school.

Council Representatives

Also elected were these stu-

(Continued on Page 6)

71% Of Soph Class Turns Out To Vote

Amidst the hullabaloo of one of the noisiest and most colorful political campaigns in Villanova history, Bob Mulcahy defeated Mike Rafferty in a hard-fought race for the presidency of the sophomore class.

With 73% of the eligible voters going to the polls, the highest turnout of any of the classes, 338 out of 559 cast their ballots for Mulcahy, nineteen-year-old History major from Short Hills, New Jersey. Mulcahy is an NROTC student and is co-sports editor of the VILLANOVAN.

Expresses Gratitude

Mulcahy expressed his gratification at winning with the words, "I am privileged and honored to have been given the honor of serving the class of '58. With full cooperation and support of the class, I know that

(Continued on Page 3)

Frosh Prexy Elected In Landslide

With their appetites whetted earlier in the year for things political, the class of '59 went all out in a whirlwind campaign of four tickets and numerous independents with Ken MacGillivray emerging as the class president with an imposing total of 252 votes. Of the eligible voters, 60% exercised their privilege.

MacGillivray's opponents, Vincent Bifferato, Matt Brennan and William Gordon polled 59, 114 and 88 votes respectively.

Among Other Things . . .

A native of Evanston, Illinois, MacGillivray is librarian of the Villanova Singers, a member of the swimming team, and NROTC regular and the recipient of numerous awards for his piano-playing, including 1st place in the annual Chicagoland Music Festival before 100,000 people in

(Continued on Page 7)

Singers Audition

Auditions for anyone wishing to join the Villanova Singers will be held today from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Music Room on the second floor of the Library.

Singers President Charlie Ross said there is a drastic for first tenors since six of the present nine are scheduled to graduate next month.

This year the Singers enjoyed their most successful year, giving 13 concerts and appearing twice on television.

Ross urged anyone with singing ability to attend the auditions.

First Law Class Graduates

The first graduating class from Villanova's School of Law will receive Bachelor of Laws degrees June 4 during the university's 113th commencement exercises.

Twenty-nine candidates for degrees are now taking final examinations. Results will not be known until May 30, when a list of graduates will be announced, representing the survivors of an original group of 70 students, who opened the school in September 1953.

Prize List

Immediately prior to the university's commencement exercises, a brief convocation will be held in the School of Law to award final prizes.

These include: Colonel Wilford G. McCarthy Award to the senior "who has done the most for his class"; St. Thomas More Society Award to the student with the highest academic average in senior year; Herman J. Obert Award for the second highest average; Bureau of Natural Affairs Award to student who showed the greatest scholastic improvement in the third year.

To the student with the highest cumulative average for the three years will go a cash award from the Title Insurance Corporation and St. Ives Medal.

This medal, cast in silver, has been specially designed for the law school. The medal, a gift of the faculty, will be awarded annually.

Upon graduation, the young lawyers will become charter members of the Villanova Law School Association, which is affiliated with the Villanova University General Alumni Association.

Ticket Sale For Parting Festival Now

Members of the Class of 1956 may buy tickets now for the day-long Senior Parting Festival May 29.

Ticket sales are being directed by Nick Mazzoni, class ticket chairman. Tickets cost $8.50 and may be purchased each day from noon until 2 p.m. in the Dougherty Hall shack bar.

Seniors Only

The affair, which will be held at Fountainhead, in New Hope, Pa., is designed as a celebration of the class' graduation. It is open only to seniors, emphasized co-chairman Bruce Martin and Owen Hickey.

Along with his ticket, the senior will be given a map directing him to Fountainhead, which is about an hour's drive from Villanova.

A jazz concert starring Billy Krechmer's famed combo and a buffet dinner will top off a day which will allow seniors and their dates use of the Fountainhead's year-old facilities for softball, basketball, swimming, horseback riding, volleyball and horseshoes.

All Day Program

The day's program will begin at 2 p.m. After a buffet dinner in the evening, class members will close out their college social careers with dancing until 1 a.m. to the music of the Continentals, a Philadelphia band which has played at several Villanova affairs, including Delta Pi Epsilon's dinner dance.

O'Rourke Heads Student Council

Jack O'Rourke, former president of the Class of 1957, was elected chairman of the Student Council for the coming year during Monday night's meeting.

Pat Nicholson, newly-elected Class of 1958 representative, was elected vice-chairman and Joe Martin, Class of 1957 day hop, engineering representative, was named secretary.

O'Rourke, who succeeds Dick Peer, defeated Bob Schiller by a 33½-21 vote margin.

Doing The Job

Villanova's voters have spoken. They've done their part. Now it's up to the winners to make a serious attempt to gauge class opinion and get the job done.

The VILLANOVAN congratulates all the winners, and especially Messrs. Sullivan, Mulcahy and MacGillivray. They waged campaigns which, from all appearances, were intelligent and sportsmanlike.

Now the real test will come. Will these three men make intelligent appointments when it comes time to organize the committees and name the chairmen who work directly under the president? In this day of classes ranging in size from 600 to 900, it is all but impossible for the president to put all decisions to a class vote.

These liaison officers between the chief executive and the class must be serious-minded individuals who will attempt to survey a cross-section of the class—not just one floor of a dormitory or one division of the university—and be guided by the will of the majority, if that will is reasonable.

At Long Last

At long last, most of the exam time confusion has been done away with by the administration.

The addition of two days to the final examination period was a drastically needed move, and the administration is to be congratulated for putting it into effect.

The chaos caused around the university in the past few years by exam conflicts as the enrollment swiftly increased and the classes became more numerous and crowded was appearing to get out of hand. Something had to be done and done quickly. An eight-day exam period is just what the doctor ordered. It has cut away about 90 per cent of the confusion.

Moaning and wailing about exams is now confined to those unfortunate students who are endeavoring to digest such a heterogeneous mixture of courses that it is to be doubted that even two or three weeks would sufficiently take care of their needs.

Students are now afforded the opportunity of coming up for air and catching a welcomed breath or two between exams. It is also a most appreciated gift to those who have lagged far behind in their studies. If the case is not already hopeless, two days of preparation means a good deal more to the student just squeezing by than a few hours the night before.

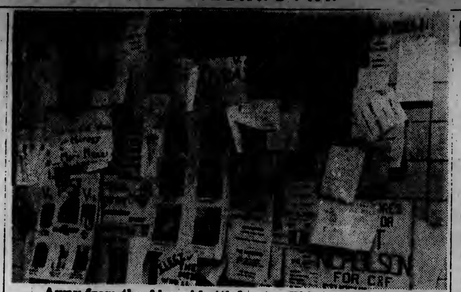
It is too bad that the extended schedule interferes with the seniors' Cecile B. DeMille-type extravaganza at the Fountainhead, but they have been around long enough to realize that studies cutting into social activities is an accepted occupational hazard of college life. It is to be pointed out to the still unhappy seniors that New Hope is less than an hour's ride from Villanova and that the circus is not scheduled to blast off before two. A student taking a 1:30 exam can easily make the midway before four.

The move also benefits the university faculty. They have enough trouble during examinations without the annual steady stream of tearful students requesting many different changes in the schedule. The move is to be even more loudly applauded by the student body. They are the ones who derive the greatest benefit from the extension.

With this edition, the VILLANOVAN's editors pack away their typewriters and copy paper for 133 days. They extend congratulations and best wishes to all the seniors and hope every undergraduate will enjoy a busy, sun-burned vacation, free of accidents but not Sunday Mass.

Villanovan

Villanova University Villanova Pa.



Thomas E. Smith
Editor-in-Chief

Bob Strayton ..... Managing Editor
Bill Jones ..... Feature Editor
Frank Delany ..... Feature Editor
Jim Slavin ..... News Editor
Bob Mulcahy
Sly Nultz ..... Sports Editors
Jack Downing ..... Photography Editors
Jim Brown ..... Copy Editors
Phil Seefried ..... Cartoon Editor
Mick Fedeno ..... Circulation Manager
Joe De Grazio ..... Business Manager

Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A.
Faculty Moderator

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Scholar, Gentleman, Athlete.
LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1928 under the act of March 3, 1879.
MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE PRESS ASSOCIATION

Away from the Alumni battlefront . . This is Dougherty Hall's main bulletin board at noon last Wednesday. It looks peaceful compared to the noisy scene in front of the Alumni polling place.

Looking Things Over

By BILL JONES

Various clusters of faces appeared on Villanova's finally greening campus last Wednesday looking a bit more worried than usual for the average Villanovan.

A quick check with the main bulletin board swiftly produced the answer. Exam schedules had been posted. That time of year had come again, and seemingly only a few short weeks after its January cousin had whirled through campus leaving a wide path of intellectual destruction.

Bearing in mind the problems which invariably attach themselves to this period of silent depression and social hibernation, we will attempt to present to you a few valuable studying habits for a cool, calm and collected exam week, or weeks as the case may be.

First A Dust Rag

Primary in purpose perhaps will be a sturdy, medium sized dust rag. It is a scientifically proven fact that excess dust inhaled from texts broken open for first time the night before the final exam tends to irritate the student's eyes, ears, nose, and throat, and further convince him that the whole business is completely useless. It may be hopeless, but never useless.

Dust rags may be purchased in the university book store.

Secondly, it is advisable to have a number of vats of good, hot, black coffee at your disposal, not to be confused with the warm, brown liquid gushing from the faucets of the chow hall. It is universally understood that an entire semester's work cannot be done in the four hours between eight and twelve, it takes at least another four to six hours to satisfactorily digest the semester's work. Coffee is recognized by leading medical authorities as the best way to fight off time-wasting sleep.

All sorts of fancy cups can be purchased at the university book store.

Beer No Substitute

Contrary to popular opinion, beer will not take the place of coffee. All campus AA cases must strive to avoid the demon rum during the exam time. No matter how dull the mind is, alcohol in any form or quantity will dull it to a greater degree, even though you may think in your case it is a physical impossibility.

Coffee has many advantages over beer: It is cheaper. You don't have to have a forged draft card to obtain it. A Rosemont girl can drink it with a clear conscience and you don't have to be bothered with hiding it every time a prefect should happen to wander into the room.

For post-exam celebration, alcohol containers of all varieties can be purchased in the university book store.

Another thing that must be watched is your food supply. Any excess of good food can cause a student to have a well satisfied appetite and become drowsy during study time. By far the best remedy for this problem is to eat only in the Villanova chow hall.

Dinner plates of any size, shape, form, or composition may be purchased at the university book store.

Respect Human Beings

It would also be polite on your part if you would refrain from tuning in rock 'n roll music all day on the radio, or "Bandstand" on the T.V. set, your roomate may be a human being and may not appreciate screamers like Elvis Pressly & Co.

For summer fun, radios may be ordered in the university book store.

It is advisable to purchase a good pen, or two or three bad ones, and plenty of ink. It is apparent that a few of our instructors feel that hieroglyphics in ink are much easier on the eyes than they are in pencil.

Writing utensils of all sorts may be purchased in the university book store.

Students must remember that anything they write during exam week may be held against them, this time, however, in a pleasant change, by the faculty, not the Administration.

Writing paper may be purchased in the university book store.

We have received word that all varsity athletes are required to take final exams this year by order of the NCAA.

Need eye glasses? Contact the university book store.

Nothing More Important

Saving the most important thing till last, it is urged that if you have not as yet purchased a text for your course, it is not too late. Any bits of knowledge picked up from them at the last minute will be a welcome sight to the instructors who in many cases expect nothing. It is almost impossible to pass a course without a text. A text book is your most important possession while at college.

First rate text books may be purchased anywhere in Philadelphia. There is no room for them in the university book store.

PUBlicly Speaking..

By JIM AND MIKE AND MIKE

For the benefit of those leaving these hallowed halls in June, we have decided to write on "work" and job opportunities.

Representatives of many companies have been visiting this campus for the past few months in hopes of interesting aspiring graduates. Everyone from the United States Army to the local zoo has put in claims for our abilities. Certain outstanding job opportunities have been reported to this column, so we have decided to pass them on to you.

The mining regions want window washers for coal holes. There is also a great demand for intelligent hole punchers in various enterprising doughnut factories. Mad Comic have put in their demand for new and more interesting characters. Pogo is in dire need of campaign managers. The one restriction placed on this well-paying job is that anyone who applies must be able to talk fluently with crickets.

Student nurses are again looking for student patients. Rosemont is in the market for some new dogs. Perhaps the best opportunities in this field lie in the temperance league, as only non-alcoholics need apply. Speakers who criticize the "demon rum" are asked to bring examples with them upon application.

There are many others, but due to limited space we have only printed those which we feel would truly interest our readers.

Since this is our last column, we thought we would give our readers a sneak preview of next year's Publicly Speaking. The column below is written by our successor.

If during the year we have said anything in this column which has offended or insulted anyone, we can only say that we meant it.

INTRODUCING MIKE KLESIUS

The year is rapidly closing and our four-year-olds are giving it a last, wild, frantic, and uninhibited fling. Any local beer emporium might be the sight of a few reminiscing grads-to-be mulling over their vast experiences of yesteryear.

A familiar phrase, "I remember when we were . . . ," can be heard at either end of the old mahogany rail. Only a couple more weeks remain to listen to the wail of these marked men fade slowly away as they join the ranks of the Wildcat alumni.

Onward underclassmen, continue your battle with the ever-pressing elements, for some day you too may graduate.

An interest should be manifested toward these departing dreamers; we mustn't shatter their fancies built up over four long, hard years If you have a special friend among the faithfully departing, you might even buy the lad a glass. The main tribute to these men will be made next year, we're sure, as they have paved the way for things to come.

The men now attending this hallowed institution will definitely feel the loss of the class of '56. Yes, always remember them each time you retire nightly with a prayer for their furtherance in the world of tomorrow. Genesis 1:23:43.

Will the Rosies have a major portion of their social life removed? Will the local Pubs see a startling decline? Will campus organizations fall aparts? The answers to these questions lie completely within you, within the reader's imagination. So imagine already.

If your intellect can't focus these problems into a clear picture, and you can't sleep until you learn the answers, tune in next year, same time, same station for first-hand results.

Credit Well-Earned

The man who accepted the first St. Augustine Medal awarded by the VILLANOVAN is the type of alumnus of which all Villanovans may be proud.

Mr. James T. Quirk is a successful businessman who took time out from his busy, cross-country schedule to give staff members and their guests a picture of such a businessman.

The morning of the day on which he accepted the medal he was breakfasting in New Orleans. The night before he had been in Los Angeles.

In a short, but fast-paced and humor-filled talk, Mr. Quirk had his listeners roaring. He spoke in such a down-to-earth manner that his audience must have felt it was sitting across a conference table from the speaker.

The VILLANOVAN thanks Mr. Quirk for the interest he showed in accepting this first award. The warmth and humanness with which he impressed his college audience will make it rather difficult to find a more deserving winner next year.

Clark Re-Elected To Belle Masque

Mike Clark has been re-elected for a second term as president of Belle Masque, the campus dramatic society. Elected with Clark are Joe Giusti as secretary and Tom Curran as Student Council representative. All three are veteran Belle Masquers.

Looking into the future, Belle Masque has several famous plays in mind for possible production next year. Among them are Agatha Christie's mystery "Ten Little Indians," Brandon Thomas' "Charlie's Aunt" and John Patric's comedy about American troops in Asia after the second world war, "The Hasty Heart."

Costume Production

Looking even farther into the future, the Belle Masquers are thinking of putting on a period play with some lavish costuming such as Oliver Goldsmith's eighteenth century comedy, "She Stoops to Conquer."

Perhaps the most outstanding of the lot of possible future productions being dickered for is John Patric's "Teahouse of the August Moon," Broadway's longest running dramatic play in years.

MIKE CLARK
President Again

Senior Recruiting Completed

Senior recruiting has been completed with the following results: 149 companies held 1,600 interviews with each company averaging ten recruits.

The record number of companies participating in the interviewing from February to May included every type of industry throughout the nation.

Engineering Emphasized

As usual the greatest emphasis was placed upon the various branches of engineering but there was a 50% increase of interest in students from the non-technical schools this year according to J. J. Redfern, Placement Director.

It has been established that the average monthly salary of the graduating Villanovan is between $300 and $530.

Besides the seniors, there were some junior engineers interviewed and hired for summer work.

Smith Retains Editorship, Appoints Strayton, Jones And New Editorial Staff

For the second consecutive year the VILLANOVAN will be edited by an English major from Virginia during 1956-57.

Tom Smith, 20, of Lynchburg, Va., will continue in the job which he took over from Harry C. Nash III, who lives in Portsmouth.

Bob Strayton, 20, English '57 from Rockville Centre, L.I., N.Y., will continue as managing editor. Bill Jones, English '57, a 21-year-old from Brooklyn, N.Y., will fill the newly-created associate editor's post. His job will be to coordinate the news and feature staffs.

From the Ranks

Smith, a junior, moved up to the editorship from managing editor. Strayton was sports editor before taking over his new duties and Jones is rounding out a trem as feature editor.

Other editors next year will be: Frank Delany, Arts '58, features; Joe Kinney, Arts '58, news; Joe Slavin, Arts '57 and Bob Mulcahy, Arts '58, sports; Phil Seefried, Pre-law '57, will be starting his second year as cartoon director; Dave Dalva, Arts '58, and Al Stoughton, Engineering '59, photography; Bill Brown, English '57, exchanges Lee Carson, Philosophy '57, copy; Joe DeGrazia, Pre-med '57, will hold his present job as business manager; Ed Tomezko, Pre-med '57 and Joe Clark, Chemistry '57, circulation.

Astronomy Club Plans For Fall Activities

Preliminary plans for next semester's activities were formulated at the last meeting of the Astronomy Club by the out-going president, John Repko, together with president-elect Frank Simon, and other members of the club.

To be initiated in the fall are two alternating club meetings. Every second week, a talk will be given by a club member and will be illustrated with slides. Projector, screen, and slides are to be purchased.

Boisterous Campaign; Mulcahy Wins

(Continued from Page 1)

we will have a junior year that every member of the class can be proud of."

Among the effective devices used by Mulcahy in defeating Rafferty, also an Arts school NROTC student, was the delivery of a letter to every non-resident member of the class promising them greater participation in the affairs of their class.

Veep

The vice-presidency of the sophomore class went to James Fazio, C&F school, who took the measure of his opponents with 206 votes, edging out Clem Birch at 166 votes.

Jack Kelly captured the post of secretary with 175 votes while champion C&F miler Ron Delany handily won the position of class treasurer with 311 votes.

In the race for the Student Council seats, Paul Laughlin and Richard Hamburger won the right to represent the Arts school, resident and non-resident, respectively. Laughlin polled 351 votes and Hamburger, 262 votes.

Nicholson Wins

Pat Nicholson, another of the letter-writing school of political thought, won the resident C&F seat on the Council with 335 votes while Bill Seger became his day-hop counterpart with 162 votes narrowly beating out Francis Grey who polled 154 votes.

Engineering representatives on the council will be Leo Rudegair who won the resident seat over Gerald Connely in another close race, 238 votes to 220.

Quinn To Speak

Wilfred Quinn, a senior education major from Philadelphia and president of the Philosophy Club, will speak on "Thomistic Metaphysics" tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. in 202 Mendel.

Political Corner:

Pitched Battles Ensue As Political Campaign Begins

BY GENE DONOHUE

After quite a few months of indirect assault on the Eisenhower administration by the Democrats, politics has at last taken on the form of an open battle.

Up until now, Mr. Eisenhower has been, so to speak, in an impregnable tower and his associates, chiefly John Foster Dulles and Ezra Taft Benson, along with the Republicans in Congress, have been the targets of the Democratic attack.

"Constructive Cooperation"

This apparent political phenomenon has had two causes. In the case of Congress, the Democratic leaders had preserved for three years their role of "constructive cooperation." Congress had operated in a largely non-partisan atmosphere on both foreign and domestic issues, the result of this being that controversy, both between the parties and within the Democratic party itself, has been minimized and a relatively pleasant atmosphere has reigned in Congress while partisan politics has lost much of its cutting edge.

Uncertain of Reaction

On the other hand, Mr. Stevenson and Senator Kefauver, as they started their campaigns for nomination, were under some restraint in the matter both because they did not wish to seem to be in conflict with their colleagues in Congress and because they were uncertain as to the outcome of a personal affront on the President.

However, now the mask is off and it is becoming a pitched battle, with personalities being the main issue and foreign policy, segration, and parity prices being the backdrops for this nationwide performance. The attack was started as the presidential veto of the farm bill broke the long immunity of Mr. Eisenhower to direct criticism from the Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill. Senate majority leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, who beforehand had been the symbol of the "Be Kind to Ike" movement in Congress, delivered a slashing attack on the President's farm record. He documented his discourse with many quotes and with newsreel shots from the 1952 campaign, tending to show inconsistencies in the President's position.

Eisenhower's Still Boss

But the Republicans are undisturbed about this turn of events, and as a matter of fact, have been expecting just such an occurrence. As the President said in a recent press conference, "Well, I think it is perfectly correct. I am the head of the Administration and I have been shot at before." There is little doubt in G. O. P. circles that Eisenhower's popularity remains at its highest peak, and barring some external catastrophe, these circles think it will be impossible to destroy his image as "the architect of peace and prosperity."

Twenty-seven per cent of all drivers involved in fatal auto accidents in the U.S. last year were under 25 years of age.

A Campus Institution Goes: Sarge Waryha Bids Farewell to Villanova

BY DAN WARNOCK

The academic year of 1955-56 will have seen Villanova lose two of its best-known institutions. First the old Pie Shoppe went and now the Sarge is leaving Villanova for broader horrizons in Formosa. The Sarge of course is Master Sergeant John E. Waryha, assistant to the Marine instructor here at Villanova who, by conducting those weekly meetings of the midshipmen on Mendel Field, heading up the championship Rifle Team and coming Pistol Team and generally being very much in evidence during the course of an average week, has become known to even the least military minded on the campus during his record stay of three and one-half years with Villanova's NROTC unit.

Many Honors

Sergeant Waryha, who was born in Hastings-on-Hudson, New York, made his way to Villanova via World War Two in the South Pacific and the Korean Conflict. It is inevitable that during that time he should have picked up a few things such as membership in the Solemn and Austere Company of the "Glorious and Illustrious Sons of Magellan" and the "Domain of the Golden Dragon." These two distinctions were earned by circumnavigating the globe and crossing the International Date Line respectively.

During his exploits, Sarge has also picked up a few nicknames. In Korea he was known as "Fearless," in Formosa, as the "beast" and here at Villanova, as a few other things that can't be printed.

THE SARGE
On To Formosa

Wounded in Korea

In a more serious vein, Sergeant Waryha picked up a few other things too, including the Bronze Star Medal and the Purple Heart for wounds received as a result of enemy action in the Hagaru-ri area, Korea, on Dec. 2, 1950. The Bronze Star Medal was awarded him for "heroic achievement in connection with operations against the enemy near Seoul, Korea on Oct. 2, 1950. The accompanying citation read, "He continually exposed himself in controlling the fire of his section and aided personally in the evacuation of the wounded from the front of his position. This action and disregard for personal safety inspired the men of his section."

During World War Two, Sergeant Waryha took part in the

(Continued on Page 3)

Immaculata Girl Awarded 3 Year Law Scholarship

A young lady who presided over her class three years but resigned this year to head the student council has been awarded a three-year scholarship to Villanova's School of Law.

She is Barbara Van Horn of Haddon Heights, N.J., a senior at Immaculata.

Resigned Presidency

Tall, dark-haired Barbara was president of her class during the first three years at IC and was elected to that post this year. However, she had to relinquish the class office when she was chosen to head the student council, because of a college rule prohibiting a girl from holding more than one office.

In her law career, Barbara will be following the lead of a paternal uncle, Joseph F. Van Horn, a Philadelphia lawyer.

Helped Organized Debates

But the blue-eyed senior hasn't confined herself to these activities since entering IC from St. Mary of the Angels Academy, Haddonfield, in 1952.

GRADUATION PRACTICE

Graduation practice will be held tomorrow in C & F Auditorium during the activities period at 10:30. All seniors must attend Permanent class officers will be elected at this time.

When June rolls around
And you're homeward bound,
For the best smoke you've found—
Have a CAMEL!

—Man, that's pure pleasure!

It's a psychological fact: Pleasure helps your disposition. If you're a smoker, remember — more people get more pure pleasure from Camels than from any other cigarette!

No other cigarette is so rich-tasting, yet so mild!

Camel

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Frosh Relay Squad Points To More National Stars

By JOE SLAVIN

With the outstanding accomplishments of this year's freshmen mile relay team, Villanova is assured of talented runners for the next four years. Running in seven meets this past season the freshmen team took first place in five meets while placing in the others.

Teammates of Jenkins

After running on the same track team with Villanova ace, Charlie Jenkins at Ringe Tech in Cambridge, Mass., Charlie Stead and Ed Collymore decided to follow Jenkins to Villanova. They both realized early in high school that their track careers would be greatly furthered by by running for Villanova.

National Champ

Collymore gained national recognition while in high school by winning the national high school 440 at Madison Square Garden in 1955. He was also the New England and Massachusetts title holder in the 220 the same year. His teammate, Stead, besides running on the relay team for Ringe, holds the New England high jump record with a commenable jump of 6 feet 3¼ inches.

Bill Rahan, pre-med student from West Catholic in Philadelphia gained recognition for his accomplishments in local high school meets and in the Penn Relays. In 1955 he finished second in the high school nationals, being edged out by his present teammate, Collymore. Vic DiMaio, engineering student from St. Aloysious Academy in Jersey City, rounds out the relay squad.

Record in First Meet

The frosh squad started its successful season by setting a freshmen mile relay record in the Knights of Columbus meet in Boston. Running a 3:22 mile, they broke the existing record set by Georgetown. First places were taken in the Inquirer, NYAC, Iona Relays and Penn Relays.

In the Penn Relays the frosh sqaud ran a blistering 3:18.5 mile relay, missing a carnival record by five tenths of a second. They were not disappointed in missing the record since it is held by Villanova's freshmen squad of last year. Each of the members of the team realizes that it still will take extensive training if they ever hope to equal the accomplishments of Delany, Jenkins, Sydnor and Brenckinridge. But with their record of the past season Villanova can look forward to capable replacements when the present members of the varsity have graduated.

Dan Severino (left), Villanova's number one baseball pitcher, gives a few pointers to Dick Black (center) and Bob Scalzi, who will be expected to carry the pitching load next year. Fastballing Severino, a converted infielder, is being looked over by major league scouts.

Delany Second As Landy Breaks Four Minute Mile

ED COLLYMORE
Frosh Anchor Man

By JACK CURTIN

Ron Delany, Villanova's mile star, got his second chance to beat Australia's John Landy, world mile record holder, last Saturday evening. However, Landy ran the mile under four minutes for the sixth time to beat the Wildcat ace by 75 yards.

Exactly eight days after their first meeting at the Coliseum in Los Angeles, the racing duo met in another feature mile in Fresno, Calif., in the West Coast Relays.

It was in the race at Los Angeles that Landy's fellow countryman, Jim Bailey, scored a stunning upset to best the record holder. Delany ran third in that race.

Delany Second in 4:09.2

In Saturday's contest, Landy won in 3:59.1, and Delany followed far behind in 4:09.2 Third place was taken by Danny Schweikert, of the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Actually, the race a week earlier, in which he finished third, was a better race for the young Irishman. Ron was clocked in 4:05.5 that afternoon, almost four seconds faster than in Saturday's mile.

The Fresno mile was the slower of the two for Landy, also. The Australian distance runner ran .5 of a second slower against a strong wind of five miles per hour. Landy was disappointed that he could not break his world record of 3:58 on what he described as a better track than the one in Los Angeles.

Landy Makes Blazing Finish

Landy took the lead in the mile after the first 100 yards. He soon stretched out his advantage over Delany and brought the crowd of 15,000 to its feet with a tremendous finishing kick. Many observers thought that he had broken his own record, but the wind ruined his chance.

Delany had a hard time with third place Schweikert who ran a much better race than the week before when he was badly beaten.

LaSalle, Drexel Defeated Easily by Wildcat Golfers

The superiority of Villanova in all types of springtime athletic endeavor is becoming more and more evident; a fact which is clearly indicated by the outstanding showing the university golf team last week.

The Wildcats continued their top showing on the golf links as they crushed LaSalle and Drexel, 9-0 and 7-1 respectively.

Easily downing LaSalle, the Wildcats swept all individual and best ball matches. Captain Ben Klemanowicz defeated Bill Goetz 9 and 7, while Jim Birle won over Joe Sheedy 6 and 4.

Frank Kruse, Bill Mawn, and Joe Colitz all won their respective matches 7 and 6 and Jay Gibney won 8 and 7.

In a home match against Drexel at Aronomink Golf Course, Villanova won handily 7-2. Ben Klemanowicz lost to Mike DiVenanzio who shot a 77 and Joe Colitz lost 2 and 1 for the only reverses of the day.

BEN KLEMANOWICZ

Baseball Team Defeats UP, PMC; Loses to Ithaca, TU

By FRANK FLEMING

On Saturday afternoon the University of Delaware pushed a run across in the last half of the ninth inning to down Villanova University's baseball team, 5-4. The Blue Hens scored four runs in the first inning and held the lead until the sixth inning when three Wildcat runs evened up the count at four all.

The score remained tied until the bottom of the ninth when Delaware's Jack Walsh hit a long single to left field which sent the winning run home from second base. The hitting of Sam Ferretti, Ron LaMontagne, Terry Hayes and John Donatucci, all with two hits, was not enough to stop the Blue Hens.

Severino 3 for 4

Earlier last week the Wildcats journeyed to Graterford to meet the penitentiary's nine. The game was tightly contested contest until the sixth when Villanova scored three runs and easily downed Graterford 5-1. The game was called at the end of sixth because of a curfew.

In another game the Wildcats scored a run in the ninth to down the University of Pennsylvania's baseball squad 6-5. Dan Severino was Villanova's big gun in this game. In addition to striking out 12 Quaker batters, Severino had three hits in four trips to the plate, including a double. Ferretti had a triple and Frank Cafone doubled for the winners.

Kelly Pitches Win

Two days later a three-run first inning helped the Wildcats down Pennsylvania Military College, 5-1, on the losers field. The Mahanmen were led by the hitting of Ferretti, Donatucci and Hayes. Hayes had a double, while Donatucci and Ferretti had triples. Sophomore basketball star Jack Kelly was the winning pitcher.

Eight hits, including doubles by John DiGiallorenzo, Cafone and Ferretti, were not enough to down Ithaca, as the New Yorkers hit safely 11 times to defeat Villanova, 7-5. Coach Art Mahan used three pitchers—Dick Black, Bob Scalzi and Severino—in an attempt to hold the visitors.

Catcher Hayes blasted a double and triple and Severino struck out six opposing batsmen, but the Temple Owls made their trip to Villanova's campus worthwhile as they downed the Wildcats, 7-2.

Delany's Irish Wit Steals Show At B'nai Brith Dinner

By JOE SLAVIN

Villanova and Ireland's ambassador of goodwill won more admirers this past week in Fresno, Calif. With such celebrities as John Landy, Bill Russell and K. C. Jones present at a B'nai Brith Dinner, Delany stole the show with his Irish wit.

Speaking extemporaneously, Delany brought down the house with his wit and humorous digs at West Coast Relays Director J. Flint Hammer. Mr. Hammer had been somewhat boastful of the city of Fresno in a previous address.

Battery Charger

"They say travel is an education and I certainly have been learning a lot about Fresno from Mr. Hammer," said smiling Delany. "He has told me this is the greatest cotton producing area in the world and the biggest wine producing area, also. I mentioned that the water tasted good and he told me that it is so pure that it can be used to charge batteries. If this is true I am going to drink a lot of it and attempt to charge my batteries enough to beat John Landy."

Ron again brought the house down by agreeing that Fresno produces many big things but commented that the "spuds" served for supper were small compared to those at home.

Coach Jim Elliott and Ron were guests for breakfast with Monsignor Dowling, a native of Naas, Ireland. Comment.ng on Delany's likeable personality, Monsignor Dowling described Ron as the finest ambassador that Ireland ever had in this country. Later in the week Ron visted privately with the Bishop of Fresno, the Most Rev. Aloysius Joseph Willinger, C.SS.R., D.D., and received his personal blessing. Besides the exhaustive schedule of training and spreading goodwill, Ron said he spent several hours each day "boning up" for next week's final exams.

RON DELANY Makes a Hit

WINS NEW AWARD

Mr. James T. Quirk, publisher to TV GUIDE, is congratulated by the Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A., VILLANOVAN moderator, as he was honored with the paper's first St. Augustine award. Tom Smith, VILLANOVAN editor-in-chief, holds the plaque which Mr. Quirk received during the staff's dinner-dance last Wednesday.

Soph Dick Costa Tries For Berth On U. S. Olympic Fencing Squad

Another Villanovan, in the person of sophomore Richard Costa, has placed himself in contention for an Olympic team berth in fencing.

Dick qualified for the National Championships to be held in New York in June by placing in the Eastern divisional foil competition two weeks ago in Philadelphia.

An Arts day student from Bala Cynwyd, Richard placed fourth in the Easterns, but the first three finalists are already on the Olympic team. If he scores well in the Nationals, he can gain a spot on the Olympic team.

To add to his laurels, Dick has been Pennsylvania state amateur champion the last two years and has been fencing for five years.

Old Pie Shoppe Site of Yearbook Distribution Mon.

Distribution of the 1956 BELLE AIR is expected to begin next Monday in the old Pie Shoppe, according to editor-in-chief Dick Fitzpatrick.

Because of a delay in production, the books will not be ready for tonight's staff banquet at Cavanaugh's Restaurant in Philadelphia. Forty-five staff members are expected to attend the dinner, which starts at 6:30 p.m.

JUNIORS, N. B.

Juniors have until 4 this afternoon to have their portraits taken for the 1957 BELLE AIR.

They should report to the second floor of Dougherty where pictures are being taken before the deadline. A $1 sitting fee is required.

Editor Dick Schleicher reminded juniors that portraits will not be taken in the fall.

Nash Asks Help

Harry C. Nash III who will edit the graduation edition of the VILLANOVAN, asks any seniors desiring to work on the second annual issue to contact him this week.

WVIL Quiz

George Karras and Don Kelly will be defending their title tonight on the last edition of WVIL's "Do You Know Music?" at 8:30. p.m.

They will be opposed by Tom McPherson and Bill O'Brien. Kelly and Karras won last week.

T'n T Makes First Payment To Start Scholarship Fund

Turf and Tinsel Club starts scholarship fund as President Jack Padova (center) hands check to the Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., university president. Joe Redmond, T n' T vice-president, looks on.

Ahead of the schedule which the club had set, Turf and Tinsel Club has made the initial payment in its newly-established scholarship fund.

The Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., university president, accepted the first payment Friday morning from club president Jack Padova.

First Such Fund

Padova said that T 'n T was the first campus organization to undertake such a project. The club had been working on the project for some time, but he had not expected the fund to be established so soon. Padova credited "the magnificent success" of last month's "Barbara of Seville" with bringing about the early start.

Father Donnellon expressed his appreciation to the club for the founding of the scholarship fund. He said he had no specific plan for application of the fund at this time, and that he would be happy to consider any suggestions that T 'n T would have to offer for the presentation of the scholarship to some worthy student.

Nasuti Replaces Gibley As LKD Head

Charles Gibley, outgoing president of the Lambda Kappa Delta Pre-Med Fraternity, will be succeeded by Floyd Nasuti next fall. Other newly-elected are Joseph De Grazia, Vice-President; John Pitelli, Secretary; and John Fisher, Treasurer. Martin Dohaney, a sophomore, will represent the fraternity on the Student Council.

Decker, Lutz and Lammers Elected; 419 Juniors Vote

(Continued from Page 1)

dent Council representatives:

John Skidmore Brown, resident Arts, from Hyde Park, N.Y.

Bob Schiller, resident C&F, from Malverne, L. I., N. Y., and leader of the Villanovans dixieland combo.

Bill Westcott, resident Engineering, and a regular midshipman from Pittsburgh.

Mike Ford, day hop Arts, from Overbrook and new president of the Spanish Club.

Fred Ellis, day hop C&F.

Joe Martin, day hop Engineering, and Student Council representative from second half freshman year through sophomore year.

Veteran of Run-Off

Selected alumni representative was Art Odabash, of the C&F School. He took 105 votes and his nearest opponent, Bill Hamburger, had 78. Odabash was vice-president during sophomore year and lost out in last year's historic run-off of the deadlocked vote for president.

Sullivan was followed in the voting by Don Kelly (87), outgoing class vice-president; Jack Fraser (59), Bill Kelly (56), Neil Cronin (51) and Jack Shea (31).

The new president graduated from Gonzaga High School in Washington, D.C. His father is a Navy captain and is stationed at Colorado Springs, Colo. Sullivan, 20, is a member of Phi Kappa Pi and the Student Council spirit committee.

Graduation practice will be held tomorrow in the Field House during the activities period at 10:30. All seniors must attend.

The secret—they're SYNCHRO-DYNED!

They're called the sweetest playing clubs in the book, and for good reason. Spalding's exclusive SYNCHRO-DYNED* club process, a scientifically exact system of weight coordination, gives each club in the set the identical swing and "contact feel" to help groove your swing.

And this new Bobby Jones set is as handsome as they come. The irons feature an exclusive tough alloy steel with a glistening high-polish finish that lasts season after season.

If you're interested in whittling strokes off your game (and who isn't?) see and swing the 1956 Bobby Jones SYNCHRO-DYNED clubs at your Spalding dealer's.

PLAY SPALDING CLUBS AND BALLS— golf's most winning combination.

SPALDING
SETS THE PACE IN SPORTS

"Coca-Cola does something for you, doesn't it."

You feel so new and fresh and good—all over—when you pause for Coca-Cola. It's sparkling with quick refreshment . . . and it's so pure and wholesome—naturally friendly to your figure. Let it do things—good things—for you.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY
"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1956, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Five Augustinians Will Celebrate Silver Jubilee

Five members of the Augustinian Order presently at Villanova will mark the Silver Jubilee of their ordination to the priesthood at a Mass of Thanksgiving to be celebrated in the Field House on Saturday, June 9, at 11 a.m.

Five Honored

The Reverend Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., university vice president and dean of men, and the Reverend Edward M. Dwyer, O.S.A., dean of the university, will commemorate the 25-year anniversary.

Also marking the occasion will be the Reverend John J. Vrana, O.S.A., of the Research and Development Department, the Reverend William J. Lunney O.S.A., assistant professor of religion, and the Reverend Edward F. Jenkins, assistant professor of chemistry.

A former president of Villanova University, the Reverend Francis X. N. McGuire, O. S. A. and now chairman of the Villanova Development Foundation, will deliver the sermon.

No Spring LYNX

Due to the difficulty in obtaining suitable material, "THE LYNX," Villanova's literary magazine, will not be released this spring. Co-editors Joe Barrett and Jack Eddinger had previously hoped to produce an issue around the middle of this month. The last edition appeared in January.

More Fun!

In the company of friends homeward bound you can make it a "party" all the way. There's room to roam, time to visit, and nothing to worry about.

More Comfort!

Restful coaches, loads of luggage space, refreshments and swell meals en route. No tough driving on crowded highways. No waiting for skies to clear. Yes sir! The rrain is tops in rransportation!

What Savings!

Team up with friends and enjoy these money-saving, round-trip bargains! GROUP ECONOMY FARES*—Save 25% when 3 or more bound for the same home town travel together both ways. Tickets good for 30 days. Grand if returning to summer school. COACH PARTY FARES—Savings of 28% when 25 or more travel together on going trip home. Return singly or together for summer school or fall semester.

*Except for local travel between New York-Washington and points east of Lancaster, Pa.

See your travel or ticket agent NOW! Ask about these big money saving plans!

EASTERN RAILROADS

Peering . . . .

With Dick and Norm Peer

. . . At the newly-elected class presidents, and wishing them the very best of everything during their reign. If any of them decide to resign, we hope they do it gracefully and retire to the seminary, as is the custom. The Senior Class wouldn't have made a dime if it wasn't for Frank Hartmann's prayers, we're sure. You might say they had a pious ringer.

. . . At the plans for all the new buildings we keep hearing about. According to the blueprints, the campus should look something like downtown Philadelphia in the Fall. Rumor has it that a new archeology building will be an eight-story affair in the middle of Mendel Field. Sounds great, but actually it will only be a removed Belle Air Hall with six more floors and a coat of paint.

. . . At the rush for summer jobs going on about campus. All C & F men have landed white collar jobs with good salaries. Most of the Arts men just plan to wander aimlessly around Europe for a few months in search of culture . . . or something. Quite a few nurses have applied for jobs with the local veterinarians and many have been accepted. How nice.

. . . At the various last-minute functions which seem to be taking the place of classes. One organization planned to schedule a dinner-dance during the Thursday morning activities period, but couldn't fit it in because of two previous Communion brakfasts and a picnic.

. . . At the marriage licences clutched in many seniors fists these days. At least a dozen weddings are planned immediately after the graduation ceremony, if not sooner. The outstanding wedding reception, however, will be held in the elder Pie Shoppe and catered by Russell of the Main Line.

. . . At the Senior Class to whom I extend my parting message: Felicitations on thy graduation. How smart thou art.

Talented Frosh President Swims, Plays Piano

(Continued from Page 1)

Soldier's Field.

Machine Men

Victor Ludmerer and Patrick Kelty, both members of MacGillivary's V-6 ticket, were elected vice-president and secretary. Ludmerer received 189 votes and Kelty 290.

Bill Hixson broke the run of MacGillivray candidates by taking the post of Treasurer with 168 votes.

In the Student Council seat race Joseph Krackeler won the right to represent the resident freshmen in the closest race of the election. After a recount, the vote stood at 154 votes for Krackeler and 150 for Bob Murphy.

Bill Christy, Arts, who waged a campaign against the ticket style of campaign, won the Dayhop council seat with 194 votes.

ALL A COED NEEDS TO KNOW ABOUT CAR REPAIRS

WHEN Mother was a coed, she didn't drive much. But when she did, a man usually went along. The man was an indispensable accessory—to fix the car when it got balky.

If today's coed takes a man along, it's strictly for company. Fixing her make-up in the rear-view mirror is the only kind of "car repair" she needs to know.

From the beginning, auto makers have aimed for a virtually trouble-proof car. They've spent millions to get cars that way. It helps explain why so many cars today use Timken® tapered roller bearings to overcome friction in vital moving parts—in wheels, in pinions, in steering gears. Every American car but one uses Timken bearings to keep them on the go with minimum maintenance.

Keeping cars rolling along smoothly is just one example of how the Timken Company keeps America on the go—by working hand-in-hand with all industry. By pioneering improvements in machines and machinery. By increasing speed and precision, decreasing wear and maintenance.

The pioneering spirit has helped make us the world's largest manufacturer of tapered roller bearings and removable rock bits, and a leading producer of fine alloy steel.

Because the best place to keep going—and keep going up—is with a company that's on the go, you may be interested in what lies ahead for promising college graduates at the Timken Company. For details, write for our booklet "This Is Timken". The Timken Roller Bearing Company, Canton 6, Ohio.

TIMKEN
TRADE-MARK REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
TAPERED ROLLER BEARINGS

Timken bearings keep America on the GO . . . and you keep going up when you go with the Timken Company

START OF A BIG DAY

At the Communion breakfast in Dougherty's day hop cafeteria, which opened Alpha Delta Chi's Ascension Thursday all-day outing, are the Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A., guest speaker; Mrs. Bertha Phillips (left), breakfast chairman; and Dot Abbott, president of the graduate nurses' sorority.

Opportunity In Communications: Quirk

Opportunities for alert college graduates in the communications field are more numerous than ever, the first St. Augustine Medal winner told those attending the annual VILLANOVAN dinner-dance last Wednesday night.

Renowned Journalist

Mr. James T. Quirk, publisher of the nationally-circulated TV GUIDE, expressed this opinion in a brief, humor-filled talk to staff members and their guests gathered in Philadelphia's Drake Hotel.

The speaker kept his audience roaring with references to his undergraduate days at Villanova in the middle thirties.

Here are a couple of samples Mr. Quirk's reminiscences:

Tempus Fugit

During his undergraduate days, he said, the highlight of the social season were dances at Rosemont. They were called "rat hunts."

Couples were allowed to leave the Rosemont dance floor and to congregate outside but they weren't allowed to go on the lawns, he noted. "Now I understand they've put floodlights on the lawns, too," Mr. Quirk added.

The first St. Augustine Medal was presented by the Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A., VILLANOVAN moderator, who introduced the speaker.

Lawler Succeeds Ed Fletcher As NFCCS President

Bob Lawler, a sophomore on the Varsity baseball team, has been named to succeed Ed Fletcher as President of the Villanova Chapter of the National Federation of Catholic College Students.

John Coffey, present Junior Delegate, will assume the Regional Treasurer's duties next year and turn over his current position to freshman Frank Fleming.

Discuss Dance

The trio will discuss plans for the Mardi Gras Ball, which usually raises money for the Augustinian Japanese Mission, at a policy meeting this week. Over three hundred dollars was contributed to the Missions this year through the combined efforts of Fletcher and his group.

On May 20 the Philadelphia Region of the NFCCS meets to prepare for the annual congress which assembles in Cleveland this year.

O-C Holds Final Meeting Tonight

Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsodies" and the second act of Rossini's "L' Italia in Algeri" will close Opera-Classica's recording season tonight at 7 p.m. in 208 C&F.

Herman Scherchen will conduct the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra of London's rendition of the Liszt selections, while a free Italian-English libretto will be provided to all listeners of the Rossini recording.

Tony Cholewiak Elected Republican Committeeman

A junior political science major may be the first Villanova undergraduate ever to be elected to a political office while still enrolled in college.

Tony Cholewiak, a 21-year-old day hop from Philadelphia, was elected a Republican committeeman during the April 24 primary.

He outdistanced four opponents to win the post in the 45th ward of the 22nd division.

A Start

"It's just a small job, but at least it's a start up the ladder," commented Tony, who speaks with jet-like speed.

The black-haired junior said he was interested in mixing politics with a law career. Right now he isn't sure where he'll study law, but he lists Villanova as a possibility.

What kind of campaign did he wage to get the job?

Aids Voters

"Well, it's a Polish neighborhood and I speak Polish, so I went around and talked to a lot of the older people. Then on election day I drove them to the polls and did stuff like that."

Tony, who was doing some campaigning for a friend in Thursday's election, graduated from St. John's High School in Erie.

Immaculata Dance Held Friday Night

An outdoor dance and a jazz concert highlight this pre-examination weekend for all Villanovans interested in visiting the nearby female college campuses.

This Friday at 8 p.m. Immaculata presents the Tennis Ball, an outdoor affair, for a $2.00-a-couple admission. On Sunday afternoon Rosemont's Social Committee will sponsor a Jazz Concert from 2 to 5 in the Tea House—featuring the music of Bill Kretchmer, an organization from Downtown Philadelphia.

Sgt. Waryha

(Continued from Page 4)

occupation and defense of Guadalcanal, the occupation of Rendova Island, and the occupation and defense of the Munda area of New Georgia Island.

Villanova Not Dull

After this it might seem that life at Villanova would have been dull, but Sarge set about such time-killing projects as Philosophy, Sociology and English courses and making civilian life a precarious proposition for anyone whom he could visualize in a Marine uniform.

Not to leave anything out, Sarge and his booming, commanding voice deserve no little credit for the success of the much-honored Pershing Rifles, the crack drill team.

We hate to see Sarge leave because you get used to a person after three and one-half years and besides, it will be a lot of trouble breaking in a new Sergeant.

Graduation practice will be held tomorrow in the Field House during the activities period at 10:30. All seniors must attend

YOU'LL BOTH GO FOR THIS CIGARETTE!

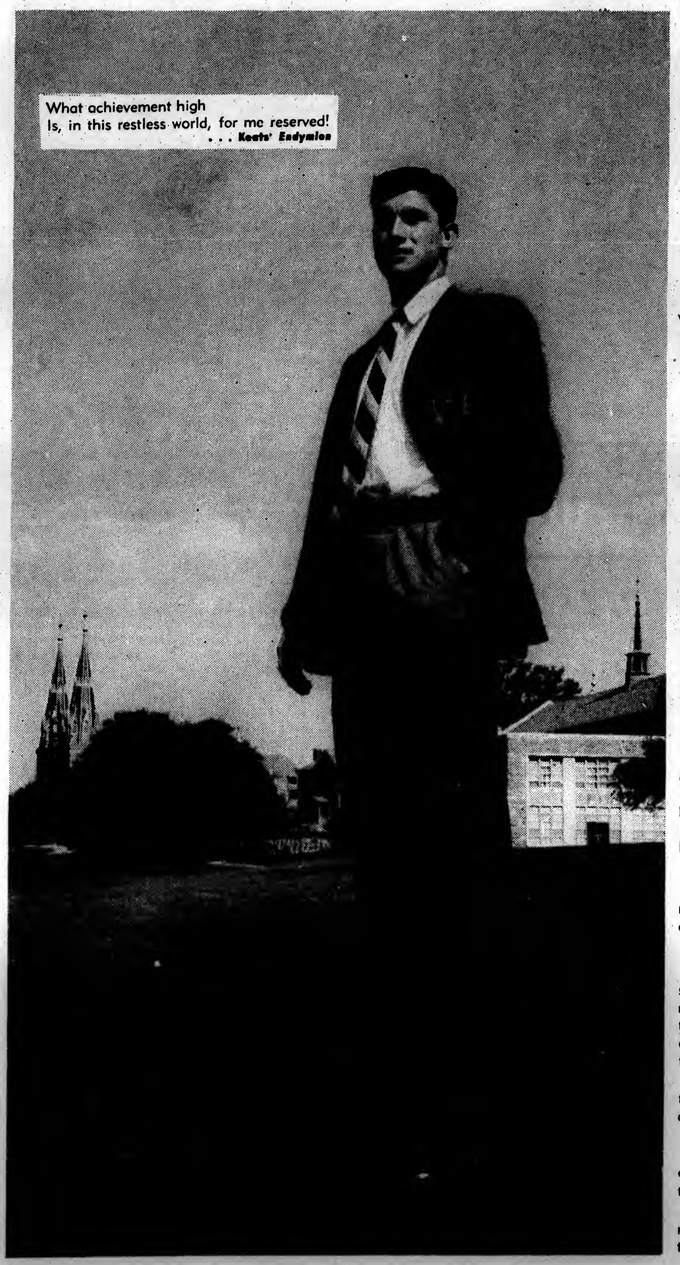
WINSTON lets you enjoy filter smoking!

■ Winston is the cigarette that gives you flavor in filter smoking — full, rich, tobacco flavor! No wonder Winston's so popular with college smokers clear across the country. Along with real flavor, Winston also brings you a finer filter that works so well the flavor comes right through. Try Winston!

Smoke WINSTON America's No.1 filter cigarette!

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.

Breakdown of Divisions, Top Men in Each Page 5



Villanovan

Vol. 31—No. 22 VILLANOVA UNIVERSITY, VILLANOVA, PA. June 4, 1956

The Class Looks Back Pictorially on Four Years . . . Page 4

To Four Years of Achievement and Enjoyment, An End:

For the Class of 1956: A Beginning

Commencement Honors 495 Members of Villanova's "Most Outstanding Class"

By W. Lawrence Collins

Four-hundred and ninety-five young men and women of Villanova's "most outstanding class" consign their collegiate lives to memory today.

At 11 o'clock this morning the Class of 1956 turns toward the challenge of a future that is as promising as the past has been productive.

University's 113th Year

The "beginning" comes about today in the Field House when the University's largest post-war class receives its degree in ceremonies marking the completion of Villanova's 113th year. The ceremony will set another first: the graduation of 31 members of the School of Law.

* * *

The valedictory oration will be delivered by George R. Ahearn, an electrical engineer from Staten Island, N. Y. Ahearn, a NROTC graduating midshipman, has achieved consistent Dean's List recognition and has been active in extra-curricular functions associated with the University's School of Engineering.

Secretary Thomas Speaks

The Honorable Charles S. Thomas, Secretary of the Navy, will deliver the Commencement address. He will be one of five dignitaries to be awarded Honorary Degrees. Honorary Doctorates will be conferred also on the Most Rev. Engelbert G. Eberhard, O.S.A., Prior General of the Augustinian Order; Very Rev. Edward G. Jacklin, S.J., President of St. Joseph's College; Honorable Horace Stern, Chief Justice of the Pennsylvania State Supreme Court; and J. Stanley Morehouse, completing his 35th year as Dean of the School of Engineering. Dean Morehouse will receive a Doctor of Science Degree; the others Doctor of Law Degrees. Secretary of the Navy Thomas will also confer commissions upon 55 NROTC graduates.

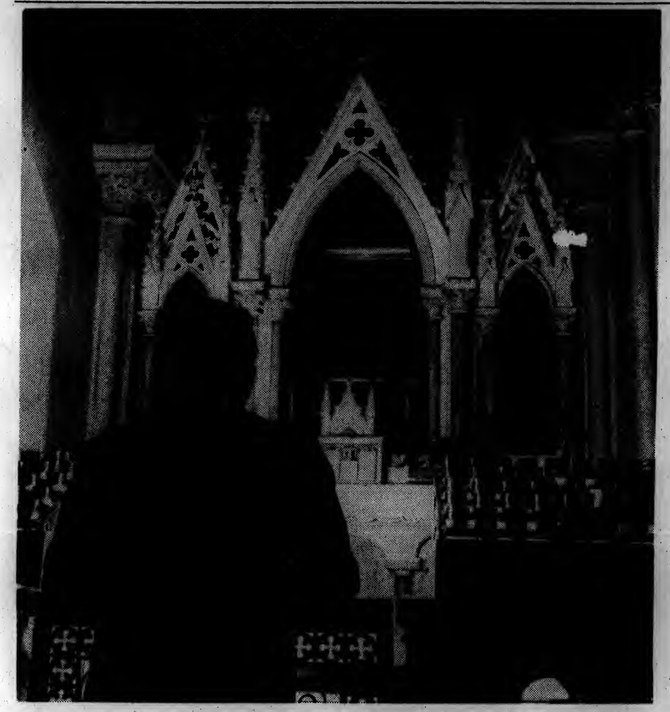
* * *

The School of Law will produce its first graduating class after three years of operation under Dean Harold Gill Reuschlein. Since its beginning from scratch in 1953, the Law School has distinguished itself in national moot court competitions and in the publication of what is regarded as an excellent Law Review, edited by the class' top man, Robert Garbarino.

Alumni Members

Upon graduation, the young lawyers will become charter members of the Villanova Law School Association, which is affiliated with the University's General Alumni Association.

* * *



The Class of '56 has from the very start been highly successful, especially in the field of extra-curriculars. It's moderator, the Rev. Thomas A. Calpin, O.S.A., at Fathers' Day this spring proclaimed the class "Villanova's finest of all time," an opinion that has been echoed in various circles in the past four years.

The class Baccalaureate Mass was held Sunday morning in the Field House, attended by all graduates and their families and friends.

Diplomas After Ceremonies

Immediately after Commencement exercises this morning all undergraduate members of the class are asked to pick up their diplomas in the offices of the various deans.

University officials, deans and professors will be in their respective offices immediately after this morning's ceremonies to welcome the graduates and their friends.

The Graduate and the Future:

Adjustment and Challenge

It seems difficult for the member of the Class of 1956 to realize that four years have have passed so hurriedly, and certainly there is much to be looked back upon with very fond memories.

But there is much to look forward to, and that is what today's graduate must do if he is be as successful in the outside world as he has been since the fall of 1952.

Primarily, he must be able to make a new adjustment—perhaps the most difficult of his life; secondly, he must accept a number of challenges, the gravity of which make all his old collegiate chores seem pale by comparison.

The adjustment of course, will make itself clear in a great number of channels. No longer will the young man have the benefit of learned instructors and a scholarly atmosphere, no longer will he be impressed continually with the truth. No longer will he be instructed as to the application of that truth toward good. No longer wil he be surrounded by individuals of similar beliefs, common ideals, no longer will he study and learn with those are know their end and nature as he does.

Thus comes the challenge:

The graduate will find himself face to face with warped philosophies and fallacies that wil contact him in everyday life. Perhaps he does not now realize the weight of their pressure, but the presure does and will exist—the pragmatism, the materialism, the tendency toward lircense and Godlessness—and these trends he must recognize as what they are, and counteract them with the spiritual and moral and intellectual tools he has been honing for the past four wears.

Most of all, he must be a positive force for good. He must bring forth what he knows to be right, not merely being content to reject what he knows to be fallacious.

Surely the graduate of the Class of '56 has been prepared for what is ahead, and surely he realize the task he faces. Certainly the thoughts uppermost in his mind this morning at Commencement will be of the future, and what it can bring, and the past, and what it has given. All the relationships of maturation and growth in all aspects should fit into a great concept today in the mind of the young graduate, for this is his finest hour thus far.

But what lies ahead can be even finer, even more productive, and he will grow and develop on to the basis of what he has been given here at Villanova.

The members of the Class of 1956 are proud today, and surely they should be, and they are appreciative.

Most of all, they are hopeful and ready.

Indeed they should be.

Villanovan

VOL. 31—No. 22

Villanova University — Villanova Pa.

Thomas E. Smith
Editor-in-Chief

Bob Strayton ..... Managing Editor
Bill Jones ..... Feature Editor
Frank Doherty ..... News Editor
Joe Slavin
Bob Mayberry ..... Sports Editors
Sig Holtz
Jack Downing ..... Photography Editors
Bill Berry ..... Copy Editor
Phil Sanfilippo ..... Cartoon Editor
Mitch Pedersen ..... Circulation Manager
Joe De Grezia ..... Business Manager

Rev. Louis A. Ronzione, O.S.A.
Faculty Moderator

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Scholar, Gentleman, Athlete.
LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1928 under the act of March 3, 1879.
MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE PRESS ASSOCIATION

Looking Ahead:

Jottings of a '56 Class Reunion

By the Ole' Grad, Debit, '56

A alumnus-eye-view of member of the Class of 1956 at the group's 25th reunion, 1981:

Frig Guida is having a martini in one corner of the lounge. He has just returned from his 328th consecutive crossing of the Atlantic on the liner Footpad. He is still in the Navy, in charge of a complement of seven junior officers on board, most of whom stoke the furnace.

Tom Meaney is sun-tanned as always. He's in the yacht-manufacturing business, has a company called the Desbar Yacht and Anchor Corporation, with principal headquarters somewhere on the Hudson.

John Eddinger is in conversation with Meaney, two old roomates. John has his won literary supplement in Bethlehem with a special section devoted to problems of city sanitation, John's summer work field some 25 years ago.

● ● ● ● ● ●

Joe Kovatch, who bought Kelly's immediately after graduation, is toasting Dick Rodenhouse. They brought their own pretzels with them, and somebody throws an egg to Tom Mullen, who got off from this job with the U.S. Mint long enough to attend.

Owen Hickey has retired from the Navy after twenty years at Little Creek and across the river. He flew in from Pittsburgh.

Jim Bambury and Mike Horan are columnists for the Haddonfield Herald. They still have a few pet peeves left. John Henry is around, with a brand new collar style that has everyone agog. He operates a Busboy School in Ocean City.

Mike Merz and Willie Meyer have on bermudas, for they plan to move some rocks at Darby Creek after the get-together. They will be joined by Jerry Guerrisi, who'll bring the food. Bill Sullivan will be along. Right now he's doing the mambo over in the corner. Bob McCaffery, who only recently won a fight for Southhold's recognition as a burg, is talking with Bob McDonnell. "Fats" is taking graduate work at Ohio Wesleyan.

● ● ● ● ● ●

Matt Heim is living just outside the base at Newport, and is considering returning to work in the Student Activities office. Friend Phil Taddeo runs excursion trains to Washington for college IRS groups in the area.

Joe Valenti, John Padova and John Jannuci are appearing nightly at Chubby's, and Joe's "My Sweetie" is reportedly as mellow as ever.

Pat Young drove up from North Carolina in a strangely familiar old Plymouth, and Dick Peer managed to get out of shore duty in Bayonne long enough to make an appearance. He just mumbled something about "White Elephant," and looks about furtively. Greg Gehring is here, has a friend with him by the name of Honney. Tom McInerney laughs the same as before, gay and spontaneous, and Nick Mazzoni, busy with his ticket-printing concern, comes in late, but very slowly, for Tommy McCarthy is with him. Tommy's finnishing up some footnotes on a Dryden and Pope paper.

Bernie Steinfelt and Jack Gebhard have taken over the University Clothes Shop and sell books. Hank Guerrisi is around that engagement party.

Bob Ford, singing professionally in New Jersey, is shaking hands with Joe Ezerski, caretaker of the two-dollar window at Garden State.

THE COVER

The young man facing the future in the cover shot is Arthur Voute, '56, an English major. In the background of the picture, taken by Richard Scleicher, are Dougherty Hall and the University chapel.

Commencement Issue Contributors

Editor Harry Nash expresses his gratitude to the members of the graduating class who have contributed to this commencement issue of the VILLANOVAN: Mike Merz, Willie Meyer, Dick Peer, Jim Bambury, Mike Horan, Dick Fitzpatrick, Dick Schleicher, Sig Holtz, Tom Meaney, Bob Cassidy, Don Alton, Mike Russo, Pat Kean, Jim Greenlee, John Downing, John Eddinger, Paul Menz, Frank DiSantis, Mark Connor, John Jordan, Gene Bilan, Bob Farley, Frank Psyk, Ed Allen, John Serena, Joe Kovatch, John Gilfillan, Frank Collins, Phil Butler, Pete Alberse, Jack Padova, Barry Ballister, Owen Hickey, Pete Murphy, Jack Morgan, Joe Mooney, Joe Barrett and Joe Myrtetus. Thanks also due the moderator of the paper, the Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O. S. A., for his assistance, the University's Director of Public Information, Mr. Gene Ruane, and Mr. Bernard L. Bonniwell, of the University's Psychology Department.

To Serve Five-Year Terms 'till Reunion:

Class Elects Alumni Officers

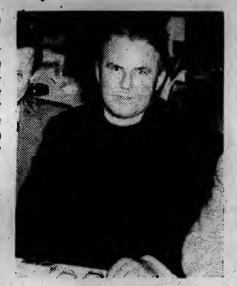
Harry Nash

Jerry Guerrisi

Harry Nash is President; Joined By Jerry Guerrisi, Dick Peer, Pat Kean

Harry C. Nash III, an English major from Portsmouth, Va., will serve as five-year president of the Class of 1956 in the University's alumni activities. Nash, president of the class during the junior year and former editor of the VILLANOVAN, was chosen in a general class election May 17.

Guerrisi Veep



Senior class president Jerome V. Guerrisi, of Lebanon, Pa., a Finance major, was elected vice-president. He was followed by Student Council chairman Richard A. Peer, also a Finance major, from East Orange, N. J., who will fill the secretary's position. Chosen as treasurer was Francis Patrick Kean, general Arts, the lone off-campus student, from Upper Darby, Pa., and recipient of the Most Outstanding Senior Athlete award. award.

These four men will carry on any necessary correspondence with the University and the Alumni organization in reference to the class' representation and activities after graduation. At the end of the five-year term, these officers will arrange a general class reunion, at which time new five-year officers will be elected.

Also Functional

Father George J. McLaughlin, O. S. A., Dean of Student Activities, addressed the class prior to the election and emphasized the responsibility attached to the positions, which are functional as well as honorary.

Nash, named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, as was Guerrisi and Peer, served as senior Father's Day chairman this spring.

Father Calpin
Class Moderator

He served with Peer on the four-man President's Committee for Students, the University's student - administration liason group appointed by Father James A. Donnellon, O. S. A., president. He was Delta Pi Mu vice-president in his junior year, worked for four years on the VILLANOVAN before assuming the editorship in September of 1955, and contributed to the BELLE AIR and the LYNX throughout the four years.

Former Prexy

Guerrisi, who guided the class to an extremely successful senior year, served as treasurer of the class in the junior year. He has been active with the Turf and Tinsel Society, Delta Pi Epsilon fraternity, the Spanish Club and the Accounting Society. Guerrisi is enrolled in the Marine Corps' Officers' Candidate Course, with a position in business in his future plans.

Peer, active with the class as well as the Student Council, is an NROTC contract midshipman. He wrote a regular column for the VILLANOVAN during the past two years, "Peering," served as chairman of the Junior Week Talent Show last spring, and has been consistently active with DPE, T N' T, the BELLE AIR and 150-lb. football teams. Business interests also dominate his future plans after Navy duty.

Dick Peer.

Merit Award Winner

Kean, contributor to a number of organizations for the past four years, was the recent co-recipient of the annual Extracurriculor Activities Award, given to the senior who during his college carrer earns the greatest number of merit awards. John R. Padova was the co-recipient of the award, receiving an equal number of the awards.

Pat Kean

DPE Contributes To Crucifix Fund

Delta Pi Epsilon, the Commerce and Finance School's fraternity, has contributed $100 to initiate a fund for the crucifixes atop the new C & F building, to be built next year. The balance of the payments will be carried on by members of the fraternity in the 1956-'57 term.

Dean Reuschlein's Initial Products:

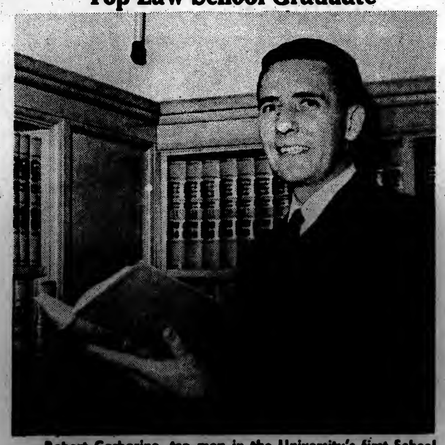
Garbarino Leads Villanova's First Law School Graduates

By RICHARD B. FITZPATRICK

Today, with the conferring of the degree of Bachelor of Law on 27 outstanding young men and women, the School of Law of Villanova University comes of age. Today's is the first graduating class of the school, begun in the Fall of 1953 under the direction of Dean Harold Gill Reuschlein.

Since the first classes convened back in September of 1953 on the second floor of the University library, the School of Law has made giant strides toward recognition as the finest school of its type in the State of Pennsylvania. The men and women who are graduating today will be the final proof of the excellence of the job done by Dean Reuschlein and his faculty. In the course of three years, the School of Law has to its credit many outstanding achievements.

Villanova was represented this past year in the National Moot Court competition by the team of Arthur J. Flores, James P. Garland, and Thomas J. Brady. For the second consecutive year, and only the second in which it has competed, this team succeeded in reaching the finals in the Judical District competition. While the Moot Court team was making itself known nationally, the first issues of the Villanova Law Review were being prepared for press. Editor Robert P. Garbarino, assisted by Thomas J. Brady and Joseph R. Glancy, prepared two preliminary editions in the spring of 1955, with two permanent editions in the Fall of that year. The success with which these issues met indicated both the excellence of the staff and the quality of the material contained.



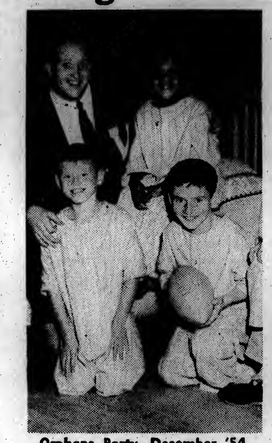
The tangible achievement of the growing young school is the magnificent building now under construction at the intersection of County Line Ave. and Spring Mill Road. The Law building, Garey Hall as it to be called, was begun early in the Fall of 1955, when during the Augustinian Centennial Celebration, Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, broke ground for the structure. In Garey Hall will be located all the offices, classrooms, libraries and lounges necessary to make the Villanova Law School the finest and most completely equipped school in the state.

There are undoubtedly many reasons for the unorthodox swiftness with which Villanova has taken its place with the fine law schools of the country, but chief among these is the original and present Dean, Harold Gill Reuschlein. Dean Reuschlein was faced with the problem of starting from the bottom when, as a faculty member at Pitt, he accepted the position of Dean. Staffing the faculty was the first task. He tackled this problem with his characteristic efficiency, and before long had assembled a group of men as outstanding and respected in the profession as the Dean himself. The faculty now consists of Thomas J. O'Toole, assistant Dean; Donald M. Collins, John George Stephenson III, Arthur C. Pulling, Law Librarian, Francis E. Holohan, William B. Ball, John T. Macartney.

A Law School without a library is a fairly ineffectual organization, so the job fell to Mr. Pulling to stock the shelves. Since the first semester of 1954, the Law Library has increased so that now it is considered to be the most complete in the area. When the School moves into Gary Hall, Mr. Pulling will have an entire

(Continued on Page 5)

Top Law School Graduate



Robert Garbarino, top man in the University's first School of Law graduating class and editor of the Law Review, from Wenoque, N. J.

The Class of '56 Reminisces, Pictorially:

Looking Back on "The Four Years"

Frank Hartmann, senior president-elect, now in Augustinian Novitiate.

Orphans Party, December '54

Bernie Steinfelt, Sophomore President

Dinner Dance, Junior Week, May '55

Mothers' Day, Junior Week, May '55

Charity Ball, December '54

In The Past Now, It All Bears Remembrance

Jazz Concert, Junior Week, May '55

SAPA Picnic, 1954-55-'56

Senior Prom, January '56

Two of the most outstanding graduates from the Commerce and Finance School are Frig Guida, left, and Henry Whalen, both of whom showed exceptional ability in scholastics and extra-curricular activities.

The Summing Up:

Peering . . . .

With DICK PEER

Peer

Around our beoutiful campus as the twilight shadows gather and the class of '56 prepares to depart. Many things happened during our four years at Villanova and I take the preprogative to review some of the lighter moments of what we've called college life.

At Freshman year and its orientation program which really lasted four years. Besides getting acquainted with the campus environment, the "well rounded" Senior got acquainted with the entire Main Line and all the young ladies living on it.

At Sophomore year, which for many brought the discovery of the Teahouse. This of itself isn't too difficult a feat; the challenge arises in WHAT you discover there.

At Junior year which saw the formation of a mysterous new society—the S.A.P.A. . . . Never before had picnic goers banded together for the common goal of bigger and better picnics. Perpahs they never will again since Darby Creek and Shunk Hollow are outlawed, and the Rosemont girls can't drink.

At Senior year and its crowning achievement—graduation. It's not really very funny ha-ha, but sort of funny peculiar. How did four years go by so quickly? How on earth did we ever manage to graduate?

At my tweed jacket and white bucks and wonder ing just what to do with them next year.

Extracurricular Excellence Cited

John R. Padova, co-recipient of the Extra-Curricular Award along with F. Patrick Kean, both accumulating the greatest number of merit awards over four years.

Breakdown of University's Academic Divisions:

Commerce and Finance Group Largest; Engineering and Arts Schools Follow

Mechanicals Dominate Engineering

By Thomas J. Meaney

Villanova will graduate its largest post-war Engineering class today.

Of 118 men graduating, there will be 12 in Chemical Engineering, 32 in Electrical Engineering, 41 in Mechanical Engineering, and 33 in Civil Engineering. Although the total graduating represents the largest Engineering group to graduate since the veterns-swollen war classes, this total will undoubtedly be exceeded next year and in years to come, since the Class of 1956 is the smallest now at th University.

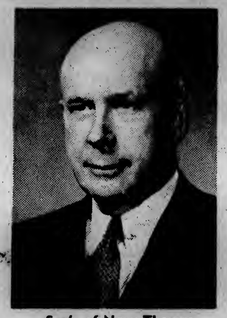
Nebzbala Tops

James Nedzbala earned the highest cumulative average for four years among the M.E.'s. He will continue his education at the University of Kansas, to which he has received a competitive assistantship. While undergraduate engineers part-time, Nerzbala will study for a Master's Degree in his field.

George Ahern and John Downing will graduate top men in the Electrical Department. The former, a fifth-year NROTC studentwill deliver today's valedictory. Downing has received several ellowship offers, and has elected to pursue an assistantship at M.I.T. He will study and teach on a part-time basis for one year, working simultaneously for a Master's Degree.

Smallest Group

Mike McCormick led Mr. Gallen's Civil Engineering grolp in cumulative average and will enroll at Columbia next fall with the aid of a straight tuition scholarship. Kirk Brennan will graduate first among the 12 men in Chemical Engineering, surviving Mr. White's exhausting pace.



Mr. Phil Allen, assistant professor of Mechanical Engineering, will also be leaving Villanova this month. Completing nine years in the teaching profession, Mr. Allen will begin work at the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia. Mr. Laurence McGinn, mathematics instructor well known to freshmen and sophomore engineers, will also assume a position at the Institute.

Law Graduates

(Continued from Page 3)

library section with which to work.

These and many other problems were faced by the Dean, who, arriving at Villanova with little more than a briefcast and a promise, has successfully steered the Law School through the first and most difficult of its formative years. Those whose interests are connected with the school, whether as faculty member, student or interested observer, recognize caliber of the man himself.

Sec'y of Navy Thomas

Arts Division Graduates

By John W. Eddinger

For 113 consecutive years Villanova has been graduating young men schooled in the tradition of the "soundly educated Christian gentleman." This year the Division of Arts and Sciences, the institution's oldest curriculm, will be represented by 92 graduates in majors ranging from History and English to Biology and Mathematics.

Arts and Sciences ,as name implies, provides the young graduate with the essential

(Continued on Page 7)

Most C&F Men Major In Marketing

By John R. Cassidy

When the last bars of the recessional finally reverberate through the vast spaces of the Field House this morning, the Commerce and Finance School will have graduated two-hundred and nine seniors. Of the three academic divisions of the University, the C & F School is the largest with 1370 students and will, proportionately graduate the greatest percentage of the Class of 1956. Forty-three percent of the class will receive degrees of Bachelor of Science in Economics.

Five Academic Choices

At the present time there are five academic curricula open to students who wish to make an academic preparation for a career in business. The Class of 1956 has members in four of the academic majors, the fifth being the newly-inaugurated Industrial Administration Major which has been in existence only for one year. The Accounting division, headed by Professor Leo H. Schaefer, will graduate fifty students; the Finance division, under Professor Patrick Doughterty. will graduate forty stu-

(Continued on Page 8)

Looking Back, Nostalgically:

A College Career Of Harmony and Success

By Mike Merz and Willie Meyer

Late in September, 1952, the class of 1956 arrived in a body on the Villanova Campus. Over 600 freshman lined up in front of the field house. Confused white hats tried to answer the questions of more confused freshman. After After many hours we squeezed into the field house, completed registration, and became an official part of Villanova.

With rolled-up pants, handbooks, and freshman dinks, we began acclimating ourselves to campus life. Day students quickley resigned themselves to the parking problem while residents became accustomed to having vistors through the Barracks partitions. We learned to call Russ by his first name and said hello to the "General."

Characters Arrive

Here and there, freshmen with imagination became prominent. Paul Porreca was sigled out for blowing his whistle during an orientation meeting. Bruce Martin received double milk in the chow hall because he was a freshman basketball player. Dick Doelger's bird call became famous in the Chemistry class.

Football season brought the memorable Parris Island game starring Gene Filipski and Bob Haner. During freshman year the now famous line, "My hands are tied," originated.

Our social life boomed as we were invited to the Rosemont Tea Dance, the Chestnut Hill Kindler and the Immaculata Mixer. Food was offered as compensation for the long drive to Immaculatta. Dates for the Owl Hop and Soph Cotillion tollowed these informal dances.

First Spring

Our first Springtime at Villanova was wonderful. Forgetting exams, we went swimming at the Quarry and visited the Penn House. All night jazz concerts were held in Bell Air Hall. Bernie Steinfelt was elected class president. He appointd the Orientation Committe and the chairman of the Soph Cotillion. We were ready for Sophomore Year.

The first official class function, the Sophomore Cotillion, was a huge success. All previous attendance records were boken. Fr. Calpin was named class moderator, beginning his association with the Class of '56.

The football team edged by Syracuse, amid cris of "What do we drink-Orange juice." Remember the muddy Boston College game after the one with Xavier which Villanova won, 51-6. Many of us attended the alumni party at the Bellevue,

(Continued on Page 7)

Final Social Affair Success

Fountainhead: Parting at Poolside, Krechmer, Dinner, Dancing to Boot

GRADUATES ENJOY KRECHMER'S JAZZ AT POOLSIDE

MESSIEURS RODENHOUSE, DOYLE, HORAN, PORRECA, KOVATCH, HELLER: PRECISION AND BEAUTY

By BRUCE MARTIN

Tuesday, May 29, brought to an end the official social life of the Class of 1956, and what an end it was. The "Parting Festival," as we called it, was a smashing success.

The idea of adding another first' to the class,s long history was proposed at the Senior Dinner Dance held Palumbo's in Philadelphia last January. Father Thomas A. Calpin's suggestion met with immediate approval.

Informal Affair

Jerry Guerrist, class president, appointed Owen Hickey and Bruce Martin chairmen and, with the class moderator, Father Calpin, the officers and the class steering committee, the idea of an informal country club type dance was decided upon. After surveying practically every club in the Philadelphia area either directly or indirectly, the Fountainhead of New Hope, Pennsylvania, was chosen.

Hickey

Martin

Facilities

Creation of James Michener, author of "Tales of the South Pacific" and Herman Silverman, president of Sylvan Pools, the Fountainhead offered unlimited facilitis—banquet hall, badminton, baseball field, horseback riding, basketball court, volleyball courts, and a large 85 by 55 foot pool. It was ours exclusively for the entire day.

The festivities began at two o'clock in the afternoon. Between refreshments, Villanovans and their dates took to horseback riding, volleyball, badminton, swimming, and falling down sheer precipices behind basketball courts. Billy Krechmer's famed jazz band began playing at three o'clock, with Tommy Sims leading the way with his trumpet.

Buffet Supper

After a short cocktail hour, dinner was served, buffet style, at eight. The buffet tables allowed the class to choose from roast beef, ham and lobster newberg, corn on the cob. Boston baked beans, potato salad and assorted breads. The big surprise of the day, aside from the earlier appearance of a number of swim suit-clad "lovelies," was the cutting of a giant cake, decorated with some of the high spots in the class' memory . . . "SAPA," "Father Tom Calpin," "Let's Go to Kelly's" and "Memories are Made of This."

After dinner, the members of the class and their dates danced under the stars and indoors to the music of the

(Continued on Page 8)

Rippled Reflections

By BERNARD L. BONNIWELL, M.A.

In the hour of high faith, when an understanding of mankind supercedes regard of self, there is created an all powerful knowledge of the profound reward of this life. There is need now to succeed only in hourly duties for the sharp silhouette of total success is clearly recognized and all things have become purposeful.

. . .

Mr. Bonniwell, a graduate of Georgetown, '29, is one of the University's most respected professors. A member of the Psychology Department, Mr. Bonniwell has been contributing "Rippled Reflections" to the VILLANOVAN through the year. His greatest contribution has been his idealism for all things Villanova.

Mr. Bonniwell

. . .

The gift of contentment is not given to an individual but only attained from purposive and persistent seeking. It is in part the outcome of highly individualized reflection. It is in the part the product of self-recognition. It is the partial outcome of recognizing reality in all its vastness, harshness and beauty, and arriving at a secure sense of equilibrium within these diverse elements. In brief, it is your total responsibility to evaluate, solve and adjust to this riddle of conscious and unconscious behavior which we, your fellowmen, define as Life.

The individual cannot escape or flee the challenge of adjustment to society for, so long as he lives, he must in some manner participate whether willingly or unwillingly. Thus yours is the responsible choice, ultimately, to be content or discontent.

Perhaps on this day of graduation it would be well to again seek help from the ultimate source of all understanding. May it be proposed, therefore, to the Graduating Class and to every man in the Class, that the motto be: Deo Juvante — God be with us.

A New Outlet:

Transition: From Campus to Parish

By JIM GREENLEE

The college student's heritage is a great one. Although he is quickly caught in the turbulent but refreshing shower of "must" events which permeate his entire collegiate career, he invariably manitests great ingenuity in becoming accustomed to his new social mileau.

The scholastic challenge presented is a stiff one but it also is eventually surmounted. The once-green frosh soon learns to live with the intricacies of the slide rule, Principles of Accounting, and English 101.

He becomes enveloped in the extracurriculars. Building stage props, selling tickets, meeting deadlines and . . . oh yes, cracking an occasional book are all a part of that magical cliche "going to college."

Then the inevitable happens. "All the world is a stage and all of us are players" . . . graduation brings down the curtain on a scene from that timeless play.

Suddenly there are no more tickets to be sold or deadlines to be met, and there are no longer decorations to be prepared. What now?

The interests developed over a four year span should not be dropped that suddenly. There is a close, ready-made outlet for these energies . . . the parish.

How may the college graduate aid his parish?

A complete reply is too lengthy for this column.

The graduate will surprisingly find that the parish has activities which are greatly similar to the college's. There are tickets to be sold for carnivals and dances, posters to be made, even plays to be staged and any help is always welcomed.

GREENLEE

But the most useful assistance that the college graduate may give to his parish is active participation in the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine. The Confraternity is an association of the laity whose purpose is to spread the doctrines of the church. The Catholic college graduate should be particularly fit for this project.

The principle functions of the C. C. D. movement are teaching religion to elementary and high school students in the secular schools; promoting religious discussion clubs for adult groups which include students attending secular colleges and universities, and providing for the instruction of non-Catholics. The C. C. D. also distributes Catholic literature, especially newspapers and magazines, and is always in need of workers.

There is no beter method for the Catholic to acquire advanced training in his faith than via the C. C. D.; nor is there a more rewarding or beneficial pastime.

The Catholic graduate could well borrow his motto for living in the post-graduate world from Pope Pius X, "to restore all things in Christ."

Four Years: Achievement & Harmony

(Continued from Page 5)

which was a grant affair.

Makin Whoopee

Our social life increased many fold. We no longer worried about making calls to Rosemont. Getting dates was no problem. Fraternity parties (one per fraternity) came into their own. Instead of the Pennhouse, we visited Thum's while those who looked older became regular customers at Kelly's

We ordered Blazer's from Rogers Peet and had ring fittings The class realized the importance of Junior Class officers and a record percentage voted in the spring elecetions. Harry Nash was elected president. Original plans were laid for Junior Week and chairmans were appointed.

The opening of Junior year brought with it a new million dollar dormitory, another increase in tuition and a 10 cent cup of coffee at the Pie Shoppe. Those of us who were fortunate enough to live in Sullivan Hall woke up every morning to witness the Amish clearing up the last remains of the Barracks.

Junior Year

That year the Blazer Ball was moved out of its traditional spot in Junior Week to early in October. It marked the first official wearing of the blazer by the class of '56. The Christmas season started early with the Orphans Outing. It was a long long day but a most gratifying one. The Charity Ball and the Orphans Party were tremendous successes.

The basketball season saw the team beat North Carolina State, second-ranked nationally and gain a berth in the NCAA tournment.

Spring saw the advent of a new "off campus" organization known to everyone as the S.A.P.A. Roll was taken to the tune of "This is college life," by H.C.N. III. The close of Turf and Tinsel ushered in the long awaited, never to be forgotten Junior Week. Monday Mothers Day; Tuesday, a picnic and the talent show; Wednesday and Thursday, picnics an dthe jazz concerts, Friday a picnic and the Junior Prom; Saturday S.A.P.A. on campus minus the coil box, and the Junior Dinner Dance and Sunday, sleep all day and study for Monday Physics test.

Hartmann Chosen

The following week saw a record turnout to elect Frank Hartmann class President.

In our senior year, a new election necessitated by Frank's entry into the seminary, gave us a new President, and Jerry Gurrisi took the helm as operations started for our last year at Villanova. The football season passed, and members of the class of '56 played their last game. Captain Don McComb was named Most Valuable Player. The Senior Prom, Dinner Dance and Tuesday's parting Festival were the last pages of the class of '56 social calendar. The yera book was aclaimed by all as the best one ever produced at Villanova.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Father Eberhard Visits Villanova

Augustinian Prior General Receives Doctorate Today

One of the five men who will receive Honorary Doctorates at Commencement exercises today is the Most Rev. Englebert G. Eberhard, O.S.A., Prior General of the Augustinian Order.

Father Eberhard has been here at Villanova since May 21, when he arrived from Rome to begin an extended tour of Augustinian communities in the United States, Canada and Cuba.

Travels With Assistant

The world-wide Head of the Order that operates the University was accompanied to this country by the Very Rev. Lawrence A. Doyle, O. S. A., Assistant Prior General for English-speaking nations of the world.

Former Foe Of Nazism On U.S. Tour

Father Eberhard was awarded an Honorary Degree at Merrimack College in Andover, Mass., Saturday. He will preside at the Provincial Chapter meeting of both the eastern and western Augustinian Provinces which will convene at the University on the 18th of this month.

A native German, Father Eberhard was elected Prior General of the Order in 1953. He served on the Villanova faculty in 1925 as a professor of German, and is making his second visit to this country since his elevation to the Generalship.

Foe of Hitler

The distinguished visitor was Prior of the Augustinian German Province during the rise of Hitler, and gained a reputation as an active and bitter foe of Nazism. He was arrested numerous times by the Gestapo, and soon became a hero to the German underground through his ability to resist imprisonment.

MOST REV. ENGELBERT G. EBERHARD, O. S. A., world-wide head of the Augustinian Order, is shown chatting with Very Rev. Patrick J. Dundon, O. S. A., Prior of the Monastery; Very Rev. Lawrence A. Doyle, O. S. A., Assistant General; and Very Rev. Henry E. Greenlee, O. S. A., provincial of St. Thomas of Villanova Province.

First Social Science Major Among Arts Graduates

(Continued from Page 5)

tools of life through the study of Literature, Philosophy, History and the five sciences.

New Major Announced

The Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O.S.A., Dean of the Arts and Sciences Division, has announced that his division will graduate men in the following major fields of study: Biology, 11; Chemistry, 1; English, 16; Education, 15; General Arts, 28 History, 6; Mathematics, 4; Philosophy, 3; Physics, 2; Political Science, 5; and Social Science, 1.

By John W. Eddinger

Father Sullivan stated that a new field of study, Social Sciences, was introduced into the curriculm this past year. This is the first time in Villanova history that the Degree of Bachelor of Arts in Social Sciences will be confered. James C. Gaffney of Washington, D.C., will receive his degree in the new course.

Five Men Honored

In April the Villanova University Chapter of Delta Epsion Sigma, the National Catholic Scholastic Honor Society for men who received A. B. and B. S. degrees, accepted Francis Adams, Robert Farley, John L. Sullivan, Wilfred Quinn and Charles Schwerdtfeger as new members. These men were chosen on the basis of excellence in scholorship throughout their collegiate careers, all attaining a cumulative average of 3.00 or better. They were chosen by a three man board of professors consisting of Father Sullivan, Rev. Edward Jenkins, O.S.A., Ph.D., of the Chemistry Department, and John I. McEnerney, Ph.D., professor of Classical Languages.

Secretary Of NavyThomas: His History

Commencement speaker Charles Sparks Thomas was born in Independence, Missouri on September 28, 1897, the son of Charles Rogers and Della (Rouse) Thomas. His family moved to Los Angeles, California, in 1911. There, he attended the University of California at Berkeley, and Cornell University at Ithaca, New York. When the United States entered World War I, he left Cornell to become a Naval Aviator.

In Merchandising

Between World War I and II, Mr. Thomas was active in the merchandising field. For several years he was president and general manager of Foreman and Clark, a chain of retail stores. He held directorships in Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, Byron - Jackson Company, Pacific Finance Corporation, the Broadway-Hale Department Stores and others. He was also active in civic and church affairs in Los Angeles and on the West Coast. He served as President of the Navy League in the 11th Region, as airport commissioner for Los Angeles, on the board of the Good Samaritan Hospital of Los Angeles, and as vice president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

Receives Call

At the outbreak of World War II, Mr. Thomas was called to Washington by the Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air, Mr. Artemus L. Gates, and asked to set up the Navy's aircraft procurement program. He also established the Navy's inventory and purchasing control program and originated the Navy Department's first contract negotiation section. Mr. Thomas later served as an assistant to the then Secretary of the Navy, Mr. James Forrestal.

Sgt. Waryha Leaves School For Formosa

THE SARGE
On To Formosa

A man whose intense enthusiasm for his field has given him reknown among many of the departing seniors is also vealing Vilanova.

Master Sgt. John E. Waryha, structor for the Marine Corps unit at the University, has been assigned to duty in Formosa.

Sgt. Waryha was very active at furing his three and a half tenure, leading the championship Rifle Team and the Pistol Team and conducting the weekly midship men drills on Mendel Field.

Missionary Returns

Father Purcell

Fr. Purcell, Laboring In Japan, Is Back

The priest whose mission work in Japan has depended on Villanova's annual Shamokinaki dance returned to Villanova last week to spend the summer here at the scene of his previous assignment.

The Rev. Thomas Purcell, O. S. A., whose labors in the Augustinian mission field of Nagasaki, Japan, have made him well-known on this campus, is completely wrapped up in the fruits of the Church's soul-saving ventures in the Far East.

Three Missionaries

The former Villanova faculty member described the needs of the Nagasaki mission that opened officially on St. Augustine's Day, August 28, 1953. The mission is operated by Father Purcell and two compatriots, the Rev. George Krupa, O. S. A., and the Rev. Edward G. Robinson, O. S. A., all of whom had a hand in the construction of the first church building there. The building accommodated 700, having no seats, the people following tradition by sitting on the floors. Also constructed by the three Augustinians have been a Child Center, a monastery, a "Villanova" dormitory, and the first parochial school in Japan.

First Mission

The present mission, said Father Purcell, a native of Shamokin, Pa., is located on the same site that accommodated the very first Augustinian mission in Japan 400 years ago.

Father Purcell spoke to his friends of the psychological impact of the atomic bomb blast in 1945. That tragedy, said Father Purcell, greatly reduced the number of Christians in the area and killed some 76,000 people in all.

Great Financial Aid

Father Purcell has expressed his appreciation to the Province of St. Thomas of Villanova for its financial assistance in developing the Nagasaki mission.

Christianity actually was latent in Nagasaki in 1600 after having been driven out during the 1500's. The Church had to go underground from 1600 until 1855, when first signs of prosperity began to show consistently.

Senior Athletes Leave Memorable Varsity Records

By F. Patrick Kean

Memories of the past four years will long linger with Villanova sports enthusiasts. The inauguration of the Blue-White Day sports festival, the overflowing Acme Bowl football crowds, the colorful City Series basketball competition, the reactivation and success of the varsity swimming team, and the smashing achievements of the University's track team will not soon be forgotten.

The Class of 1956 can well be proud of its many members who wore the Blue and White in all fields of athletic play.

McComb Captain

Don McComb was one of the most outstanding senior members of this year's football squad. The varsity captain made first string national All-Catholic and received the Most Valuable Player Award and the McLaughlin Award as the club's leader.

The class was also capably represented by football varsitymen Frank Beeunas, Pete Cassidy, Frank D'Alonzo, Pat Haley, George Karras, Ed Ortelli, Mike Potenza and Tom Rogers.

John Cirino won much well-deserved praise for his consistent hustle and rebounding ability for Al Severance's basketball team. His loss as a result of an ankle injury before the St. Joe's game was deeply felt.

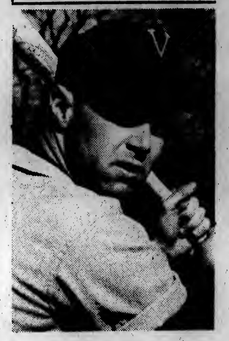
Smith Stars

Captain Jim Smith's heady floorplay, scoring and leadership were bright spots throughout the season. Smith is an "honorary" member of the Class of '56, since he still has a semester of eligibility remaining.

The sharp defensive play and scoring improvement on the part of Marty Milligan and the ball handling of Larry Tierney were consistently evident.

Pat Kean, recipient of the Outstanding Senior Athletic Award, led the swimming team for the past two years. Although only in its third year of varsity competition, Ed Geisz's men compiled the admirable record of seven wins and two defeats. Paul Donahue and George Sinnott placed consistently in ther respective events.

Trio of Trackmen



Al Ligorelli, Bill Reilly and Warner Heitman were outstanding members of a nationally-known track squad. These three men were valuable cogs in Jumbo's Elliot's relay team and all three turned in a number of memorable performances.

New Englander Dan Severino pitched his way to success with Art Mahan's baseball club. First-baseman Tom Casey was nominated for the Outstanding Senior Athletic award. Outfielder Ron Debiak played creditably after serving in reserve for the past two years.

Kelly Golfer

The lone senior on the golf team was Jack Kelly, one of the mainsprings in the recently-organized University team.

Class Athlete

Tom Casey

C&F Students Hold Number Of Offices

(Continued from Page 5)

dents; the Pre-Law division, under Professor William C. A. Henry, will graduate fifty students; and the largest in the Commerce and Finance School, the Marketing division, under Professor Joseph C. Savage, will graduate seventy students. The top scholars in each of these divisions are James Giordano, Carlos Conde, William Mowatt, and Henry Whalen respectively.

The interest of the seniors from the C & F School in extra-curricular activities has been particularly demonstrated by their founding of two new organizations within the school. Philip Keane, Henry Whalen, and John R. Cassidy inaugurated the publication of the "Business Whirl," the first magazine produced by and distributed exclusively to Commerce and Finance students. Larry Fitzpatrick was responsible for the formation of the Pre-Law Club, a unifying organization for all students interested in following the legal profession.

Several Campus Leaders

Senior Lou Donatelli is president of Delti Pi Epsilon, the business school's fraternity; Charles Stone is president of the Marketing Club; Joseph Mooney is president of the Accounting Society. In other campus organizations not immediately connected with the Comerce and Finance School Bob McDonnell, finance major, was president of the Sanctuary Society; Joseph Barrett, a pre-law major, was a co-editor of the Lynx, the campus literary publication; and Richard Peer a finance major, occupied the primary student office in the university, that of President of the Student Council.

"Parting Festival"

(Continued from Page 6)

"Continentals" of Philadelphia. During this time, a snack bar was serving hamburgers, hotdogs and coffee.

Return to School

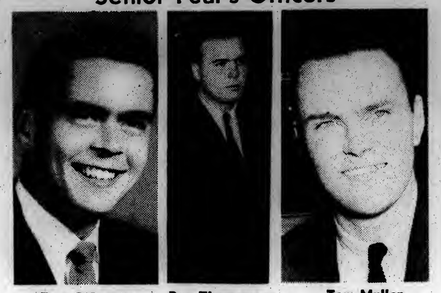
At 12:30 a.m., after "eleven hours of fun with six in the sun," the weary but happy members of the Class of 1956 started on the hour-long return trip to Villanova.

PUBlicly Speaking . . .

By JIM & MIKE

Jim and Mike

Graduation at Villanova can be accompanied by a variety of feelings; reminiscences of times past, fear of the future, confidence of one's ability or a lot of remorse. For this, our finanl column, we wish to bid our parting friends a bit of warning.



Many Myths

During the course of four years we have picked up many truths and fallacies alike. For the benefit of education and forewarning, we wish to print here our list of great American myths.

They include those things which we deem essential to every graduate's knowledge. They are as follows:

1. A word from our sponsors.
2. I'll write a letter as soon as I get there.
3. Just a couple of beers.
4. He won't take roll.
5. I'm going to save my cuts.
6. Blind date. She's got a lot of personality.
7. Was I gone that long?
8. They're not drafting anyone in my district.
9. I'm 4-F, anyway.
10. I think I'd like to be a bachelor.
11. Whose round?
12. It won't cost me much.
13. I'll never drink again.
14. I've got a check coming.
15. A good tip in the forth.
16. Don't I know you?
17. A cheap date.
18. Boy, I racked that test!
19. Sister said . . . . . .
20. They don't know what they're missing.
21. I never go out during the week.
22. Just a little innocent fun.
23. Conducive to study.
24. We'd have good team if only . . .
25. She'll understand.
26. They couldn't drink that much.
28. I could do better.
28. Next week's column.
29. (Special tip) They don't flunk seniors.

Senior Year's Officers

Tom O'Rourke, Treasurer — Roy Zimmerman, Secretary — Tom Mullen, Vice-President

The three men pictured above aided president Jerry Guerrisi in guiding the class to an emmensely successful senior year. They are greatly responsible for the success of the Senior Prom and Dinner Dance, Fathers' Day and the "Parting Festival," as well as for the class' financial achievement.

Leaders in Scholastics

Top men in the electrical engineering departments of the Engineering School are, left to right, John Downing, Lino Paoletti, James McKeon and James Nedzbala.

History of Villanova's Summer School . . . Page 5

Villanovan

Roving Reporter Unearths Golfer, Opera Star . . . Page 4

Vol. 31—No. 23 VILLANOVA UNIVERSITY, VILLANOVA, PA. July 17, 1956

Mercy Sisters:

Nuns From India In Undergraduate, Graduate Studies

If summer students think they have it hard, consider the Apostolic Carmelite Sisters from India, Sister M. Vera and Sister M. Beatrice, who attend weekly classes during the school year for undergraduate courses, and spend their Saturdays and summer doing graduate studies. These Sisters arrived in America on August 16, 1955, when the S. S. "UNITED STATES" pulled into the New York port. Contact with the Mercy Sisters in India had prompted the Superior General of the Mercy Sisters, Reverend Mother Gertrude Mary, to offer them hospitality at Merion, and the generosity of Villanova has allowed them to do their studies at the University.

Purposeful Venture

What is their purpose in coming to America? "To study educational problems and programs from the point of view of the New World," says Sister Vera. What are some differences that they note? "The cultural background here is different from that of the East. I note here a greater emphasis on the beauty and interior order, which no doubt has its beneficial influence on organization, both external and internal."

Looking Ahead

What are their plans for the future? "To go back to our educational work in India with a broader mental vision that has profited by an attempt at a synthesis of Western and Eastern viewpoints and experience in the field of education." University studies are not new to these Sisters, however. Sister

(Continued on Page 8)

If I don't get a degree, at least I'll get muscles.

Set Today, Tomorrow:

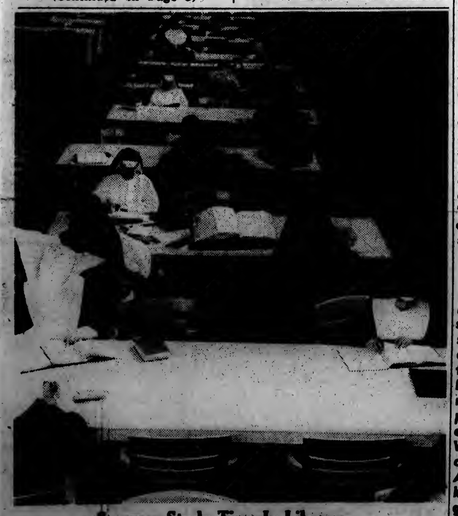
Public Relations Institute Planned

A "Public Relations Institute" dealing with the relationship of colleges and the modern public will be conducted by the University's Summer School division today and tomorrow at 2 p.m.

The third annual forum dealing with such pertinent problems, the "Institute" will deal specifically with the theme, "The School and Public Relations." The purpose of the two-day project, according to the Rev. Joseph I. Boyle, O.S.A., Dean of the Summer School, is "to arouse interest on the part of school administrators and faculty members in the influence and impact of schools on the public."

In Auditorium

To be held in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium, the Institute's activities will begin at 2 p.m. today. At that time three speakers will form the first panel: Franklin Waltman, Public Relations Director of the Sun Oil Co. will present a short talk on the subject "Concern and Consciousness of Industry for Good Public Relations."



Following Waltman will be Reginald E. Beauchamp, Special Events Director for the Philadelphia Evening and Sunday Bulletin. His topic: "An Outsider's Impression of the School's Approach to Good Public Relations."

Teacher Contributions

The third speaker of the day will be John J. Kelly, of Kelly's Associates, Philadelphia, whose topic will be "How the Teacher Can Contribute to Good Public Relations for the School."

The trio of speakers will be introduced by the panel's moderator, Brother David of La-Salle College.

The Wednesday panel will consist of a student, a parent, a businessman, a police commissioner, an alumnus, and a parish priest, all of whom will make critical analyses of the problem of schools and public relations. The audience will contribute its opinions during both today's and Wednesday's panels.

Summer Study Time In Library

PIONEER ISSUE

This edition of the VILLANOVAN marks the first such summer school publication since summer sessions were ordained in 1916. Previously, the LYNX, a literary magazine, had been produced by summer students, but this eight-page tabloid is the pioneering effort in the field of the VILLANOVAN. The moderator of the paper, the Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A., extends his thanks to all those religious and lay students who made contributions.

Total of 1876 Students In Summer Enrollment; 470 Are in Residence

Fifty Religious Communities Are Listed; 21 States Represented

This summer marks one of the largest enrollments in the history of the Villanova Summer School session. There is a total enrollment of 1876 students; studying on the Villanova campus are 1219 students: the Hallahan Center has 216 students; and there 441 students scattered throughout the various extensions. Of the 1219 campus students there are 470 residents who have taken over the many halls—the most recent addition being Sullivan Hall. There are 205 new students and 24 special students.

Canada Represented

Twenty-one out of the forty-eight states are represented. Stretching throughout the Eastern and Central parts of the country, the student body includes members of the New England, Middle Atlantic, Southern and North Central states in addition to the District of Columbia.

Canada is represented by the sisters who came from the provinces of Quebec, Ottawa, Montreal, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia. The international scope of the Villanova Summer Program includes representatives from Spain and India.

Among the male students are numbered 145 laymen, sixty-five priests, twenty-two brothers and ninety-five seminarians.

There are appriximately fifty communities attending class sessions, and the entire student body represents nine Archdioceses and fourteen dioceses within the United States, Canada, India and Spain.

In 16 Fields:

Summer Sessions Present a Wide Choice of Courses

Once again an entensive list of courses attracts thousands to the Villanova Summer Session. To accommodate the wide range of interest and needs of the summer students, endeavors are made to keep this list varied. If justified by sufficient enrollment, courses not enumerated may also be offered in some fields. Insufficient enrollment is usually the only reason for "drop courses." Ample courses have been provided in the fields of the arts and sciences to satisfy student needs and supply adequate academic challenge. Presently, the following courses are offered on the Villanova Campus:

ACCOUNTING ECONOMICS, FINANCE—Principles of Accounting II, Problems of Economics, and Mathematics of Finance.

BIOLOGY—Botany, Zoology, Anatomy (Nursing), Comp. Vertebrate Embryology, Protozoology, Genetics, Special Problems and Biological Literature.

CHEMISTRY—General Chemistry I, General Chemistry II, Organic Chemistry I.

EDUCATION — PSYCHOLOGY—School Art I, Introduction to Education, Principles and Techniques of Teaching, Educational Psychology, General Psychology, Visual Aids, Adolescent Psychology, Guidance, Methods in English, Seminar in Educ. Research, Current Problems, Seminar in Educ. Methods, Techniques of Educ. Counseling, Remedial Reading, Psychological Testing, Curr. Org. and Soc. Living, Supervision of Instruction, and Adv. Philosophy of Education.

ENGINEERING—Applied Mechanics, Strength of Materials, Descriptive Geometry, and Mechanisms.

ENGLISH—English Composition, I, English Compoaition II, Public Speaking, Speech Correc-

(Continued on Page 8).

Grand Union:

Order's Seventh Centennial Noted

Displays commemorating the Seventh Centennial of the Grand Union of the Augustinian Order are currently being shown in the University Library. The Centennial celebration began in April of this year and will extend throughout 1956.

For almost nine hundred years after their foundation in the fourth century, the Hermits of Saint Augustine lived in semi-independent monasteries throughout France and Italy Their only bond was a common founder and a common way of life based on his rule.

Official Approval

In 1256, realizing the potent force that a union of these groups would have in the Church, Pope Alexander IV convoked a meeting of all existing religious communities who could trace their origin back to the saintly Bishop of Hippo. He brought them all together under one name and decreed their organization, privileges, and exemptions the same as those of the recently founded Mendicant Orders. In April of the same year the Pope granted official approval to this union by presenting a Papal Bull to Father Lanfranc Setella, the first superior general of the re-united

(Continued on Page 8)

Some Campus Observations

Famous Last Words

We have a copy of that in our convent library—

Don't bother saving a place in chapel: there's always plenty of room.

Of course you can get from Belle Air to Mendel in five minutes!

Benediction is ALWAYS at six-fifteen . . .

Oh! He never gives an exam—

I'm sure Sister Superior wouldn't mind . . .

I think I saw a letter for you in the "M box"—

Let's go at 12:20, the line is short then!

There's no outside reading in that course.

Of course I'm on my way to study!

He said scan; that won't take long . . . .

It won't rain till I get back to Austin—

He never expects you to fill more than one blue book.

That's all right—I'll take the bottom tray.

Sure! Tuesday's OUR DAY for the pool!

by a Dominican Quartette

Profitable Summer

If you are looking for a place to spend a profitable summer, Villanova University is it. Don't judge the University by registration day, or you might get discouraged. Due to the tremendous crowds expected, the good Fathers set up temporary registration headquarters in the Field House. Soon the lines extended outside where a kindly policeman endeavored to keep the "scholars" in line and in good humor. Fortunately, before there was a chance to pick up a sun burn, the eager "registrees" managed to get inside the building. There for several hours they went wearily from one line to another picking up a bewildering number of cards in each line. The whole thing was more or less on the Super-Market idea. However, there were none of the delectable items around that please the eye and whet the interest, if not the appetite, in a Super Market. I do not mean to imply that the Professors were not attractive. The lines were so long and thick they couldn't be seen. In spite of the most heroic attempts to practise patience, the wilted "registrees" breathed a sigh of relief when he or she had finally accomplished what the University calls "completing your registration." However, it was worth it all to come over to Dougherty Hall where one could sit down to a delicious lunch in an air-conditioned dining hall. The soft music soon ruffled nerves soothed back to normal.

Sister Rita Patricia, SSJ

Villanovan

Villanova University Villanova Pa.

Faculty Advisor
Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Suhler, Gentleman, Athlete.
LEO GOODMAN

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1920, under the act of March 3, 1879.

MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS

MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION

She has hopes!

On the Faculty, Dougherty Hall

Summertime News and Views

A Tribute

By Sr. St. Anthony of A, CND

The Faculty are the first to say that the most important persons on the Campus are the students. The Halls are built for them; curricula arranged with them in mind; every thought is of them.

We, the students, think otherwise. The guardianship of men is not a lowly work. It is one of angelic responsibility. (St. Thomas) "Behold, I will send my angels who will go before thee!"

Three Cheers

We have a deep realization of the inspiring influence of the Augustinian Fathers at Villanova. Through the Faculty, the University has the best of Catholic tradition. The demanding task of maintaining and improving Summer School rests on Reverend Joseph Boyle, O.S.A., our Dean. He is supported by men and women of outstanding ability in their special subject fields, as Heads of Departments. We feel that the Fathers have been specially chosen to impart to us the Church's doctrines, to state it simply but absolutely and unswervingly. They are named for the Summer Faculty realizing that many of the Summer Students are Religious teachers who will be returning to their classes with a higher incentive because of the counsel and encouragement of the Religious Faculty.

Lay Teachers, Too

A special tribute must be paid to our Secular Faculty members whose gracious courtesy and unfailing patience is an unending edification to us. Their communal interest and enthusiam is an inspiration.

Though most of the students are clerical there is a certain youthful secular enrollment which brightens the Campus walks. Every Sister smiles to hear the tramp of boys' shoes in the halls and the gay chatter of girls in the Lounge. The Faculty have made this possible.

They're Angels

Yes, the Faculty are the angels who have gone before us in the weeks before registration. When we stepped into Dougherty Hall and realized its wonders we could not but marvel at the planning behind it all. For these conveniences and the many others ready for us, the Summer Students are grateful to the Faculty for allowing us to share in VILLANOVA GREATNESS.

Sister St. Anthony of A., CND

Seven Wonders

By. Sr. Mary Immaculate, O.P.

"You just have to take a drink of water!"
"Isn't the music wonderful?"
". . . and did you get cream in your coffee?"
"Why the milk comes out of the wall!"

And so went the conversation of the Sisters' first meals in the Cafeteria of Dougherty Hall.

There was no dearth of topics that night, and much room for laughter. For many Sisters, unfamiliar with this age of automation, were tricked by its simplicity. Such was the case of the cream that reached the saucer, but missed the cup. All of this enjoyment had an added lustre by the overtones of dinner music wafting down from the ceiling.

Everybody's Raving!

From the moment the doors of the new, air-conditioned building were opened that evening, until the tour was completed, there were enthusiastic exclamations heard from all corners. Everyone reserved the thought of retreating to one of the lounges on a hot day, to read, or even recreate, but definitely to be cool.

All are eager for an excuse just to browse in the University Shop, another one of the wonders.

It doesn't take much persuasion to desert the books for a trip to the Snack Bar. Besides, there is always the thought that one is really keeping up on the news by watching current events on the elevated T.V.

More Wonders

The many activity rooms on the third floor, as well as the Barber Shop and Campus Cleaner add to the Sisters' conviction that this surely is a tribute as a memorial to Father Dougherty.

To those Sisters who remember eating in Mendel Hall cafeteria, with snacks in the Pie Shop, this is indeed a welcome change with a note of nostalgia. To those Sisters who are newcomers, it is equally remarkable. But to all Sisters it will be as "A thing of beauty . . . a joy forever."

Sister Mary Immaculate, O.P.

A graduation issue of the Summer School VILLANOVAN will appear if enough material is submitted. A meeting to discuss plans for the issue will be held in Dougherty Lounge at 6.30 Sunday. All students interested are invited to attend.

The Inquiring Reporter

By Sr. Mary Adalbert, C.SS.F.

Which would you prefer: A six-week Summer Session excluding Saturdays, or a five-week Summer Session including Saturday?

Mr. Thomas R. Cook, O.S.A.: A six-week session is what I would prefer for the following reasons: for the sake of the lay students who need the free day for work; the leisure time afforded for learning due to the free day, can help us to think a little more while studying.

A. D'Antonio, R. Firneno, C. Mascolo: We would prefer a six-week session because the weekend helps not only as a rest but as an opportunity to put in a prolonged study period (as is sometimes necessary).

Sr. Mary Liguori, C.S.F.N.: When would we catch up with the procrastinated reading, laundry, and routine sewing? Saturday classes during the Vilanova summer session? Never! one such killjoy this summer was enough.

Sr. Anne, O.S.B.M.: Six-week summer session excluding Saturdays. It seems to me that on Saturdays, one can makeup some of the work that one was unable to do during the week because of the lack of time.

* * *

R. Scheible, O.S.A.: I would prefer a six-week session because weekends provide a good time for catching up on work that piles up during the week.

Sr. Clare Frances, S.N.J.M.: I prefer a six-week summer session excluding Saturdays. Later registration would be much more convenient.

Fr. Casey: I would prefer a five week session because it would be less of an inconvenience for the other priests in my parish who very graciously go "on call" on the mornings of my weeks on call. It would also provide a longer time to recuperate before the reopening of schools.

Joan Shannon: Since the content of each course would be the same, and since the time spent in each course would be adequate, I would prefer to have the sixth week for leisure time.

Sr. Agatha, O.S.S.T.: I prefer a five-week summer session including Saturdays.

Fr. Birkenheur: Because of a rather heavy teacher load during the school year (plus basketball and baseball coach), the annual retreat, summer school, beginning of football practice, Aug. 25th, the extra week off would be most welcome for physical and mental rehabilitation.

* * *

Sr. Ann Mary, I.H.M.: I would prefer a five week session because of the annual retreat and traveling problems.

Sr. M. Anastasia, O.S.S.T.: I prefer a five-week summer session including Saturdays.

Sr. M. Carmelita, P.B.V.M.: I definitely would prefer six week summer session excluding Saturdays.

Sr. M. Rose Ignatia, S.N.J.M.: We prefer six weeks; but later registration would greatly favor us.

Sr. Mary Jane, G.N.S.H.: Without question, the six-week session excluding Saturday. The voluminous garbs of a Sister necessitates a week-end to do nothing but keep them in order.

Don't mind them, Sister. They're in one of those terrible microscope courses.

Pool Most Popular:

Religious Enjoy Recreation; Recall Beauty of Shrine

A Pilgrimage

Have you ever had the wanderlust to make a pilgrimage to a famous shrine? One need not travel far to find a lovely shrine dedicated to Our Lady of Perpetual Help. This beautiful shrine is located on Mount Saint Macrina in Uniontown, Pennsylvania, which is also the Motherhouse of the Order of the Sisters of Saint Basil the Great.

An annual pilgrimage which begins on August twenty-eighth and closes on Labor Day, is held at this well-known shrine. Pilgrims of many denominations throng by the thousands from far and near to place their petitions before the altar of Our Blessed Lady.

Candlelight Procession

One of the many highlights of this pilgrimage is the evening candle light procession. Pilgrims with lighted candles assemble at the shrine to participate in this devotion. A cross-bearer leads this devout procession, followed by many acolytes who wear red cassocks and white surplices, the many clergy, Sodalists in white dresses and veils, and the fervent pilgrims. As the procession proceeds to the Grotto of Our Lady, the devotees sing beautiful hymns to Our Blessed Mother. Upon reaching the Grotto, the clergy and pilgrims recite the rosary. The climax of this heartlifting sight is an inspiring sermon about Our Lady.

by Sisters of St. Basil
Uniontown Province

Welcome Change

A vital part of every university is its recreational facilities.

The Sisters studying at Villanova in the summertime have ample means of physical exercise.

Probably the most popular place of recreation is the beautiful Villanova pool. The Sisters may and do enjoy a refreshing swim three afternoons a week.

Popular Games

Croquet is a popular game, too; and not infrequently both sets are in earnest operation. The other night's game at Sullivan Hall had a large number of spectators. The Sisters keep the tennis court busy as well; those who choose this game find in it a goodly amount of excitement and excercise. The rifle range is a recreational spot where the authorities of the naval ROTC generously give their time and efforts to any Sister interested.

Very Grateful

Such opportunities for a bit of sports are a welcome change, and the Sisters appreciate them. They are particularly grateful to Father Joseph Burns, O.S.A., for his interest and effort toward providing swimming pool facilities, croquet sets, and even golfing equipment. These activities, invigorating in themselves, provide balance and relief for the intellectual activity of summer classes.

By SR. M. JANE KEVIN, O.P.

First Issue Contributors

The following nuns have contributed to this pioneer issue of a summer session VILLANOVAN, and Father Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A., expresses his gratitude and reminds all summer students that a second issue will be published, so that all may contribute at any time.

Sr. Mary Rosanne, O.P.; Sr. Mary Marguerite, O.S.F.; Sr. Edmund Marie, O.S.F.; Sr. Mary Louis, O.S.F.; Sr. Mary Eugene R.S.M.; Sr. Nicholas Marie, O.P.; Sr. Mary Clare, O.P.; Sr. Mary Denise, O.P.; Sr. M. Francis Eileen, O.P.; Sr. Mary Alma, O.P.; Sr. M. Rose Anita, O.P.; Sr. Mary Elise, O.P.; Sr. Mary Pius, O.S.P.; Sr. Mary Victor, O.S.F.; Sr. Mary St. Joseph, O.S.F.; Sr. Mary Eleanor Christine, O.S.F.; Sr. Marie Josephine, S.S.J.; Sr. Rose Philippine, S.S.J.; Sr. St. Anthony, CND; Sr. Mary Philip, O.P.; Sr. Marie Imelda, O.P.; Sr. Rita Patricia, S.S.J.; Sr. Dolores, C.P.S.; Sr. Mary Adalbert, C.S.S.F.; Sr.

(Continued on Page 4)

Summer School Reflections

THE POET'S CORNER

The Pines

The stately pines rise heavenward
And touch the azure sky.
They whisper a softly pleading prayer
As we breathlessly view and sigh.
The bending pines dip earthward
And their sweet scent hoves nigh,
As they sweep green gowns o'er fleecy clouds
While we silently, sadly cry.
The blinding tears fall steadily
Till our hearts just seem to break;
Then from out of nowhere comes a friend
Who gently dulls the ache.
This new-found friend studies the pines with us
And their secrets are now quiet clear—
When the lordly pines do rise and dip
They're saying: "God is near!"
Slowly, slowly do we learn
The secret of the pines—
And our restless hearts grow calm and still
As we see portrayed in their dip and rise
Sweet submission to His Will.

Sister Marie Imelda, O.P.
1955

God's Presence

The sight of dainty flowers,
Stately trees, multi-colored sky
Leaves me breathless.
The sound of bubbling laughter,
Soothing music, mellow-toned voice
Leaves me speechless.
The touch of a friendly hand,
A baby's grasp, pine-scented breezes
Leaves me gratefully aglow.
But
The thought of the Presence of God
Leaves me prostrate, awe-inspired,
Yet
Calmly serene, overwhelmingly meditative,
Soul-stirringly alone.

Appeared in the National Poetry Anthology for Teachers, Los Angeles 1956.

Music Speaks

Music tells us secrets
We could not otherwise know;
It speaks of storms, of sky, of stars,
Of friend, of kin, of foe.
It whispers messages of love,
And I can sense that you are near.
It stills the fiery force of lust;
It calms all souls who fear.
It speaks its message without noise of words
Its tones are soft and low.
It grips the soul in a web-like vise,
Or leaves it with heart aglow.

Sister Marie Imelda, O.P.
1955

Tolerance

So few take the trouble life's hidden secrets to know;
Many heart-aches lie 'neath what we outwardly show.
I make, then, a plea for understanding and trust;
Display less intolerance, less griping flaw-lust.
Friend, consider the motive hid deep in each heart.
When faith is petitioned, please contribute your part.
Be firm in the statements that uphold what is right;
Deep in your kind heart let censure be slight.
Let your judgments take on an entirely new tone;
Consider the "Why?" and not the "Wherefore?" alone.
No true scholar lacks reasons for what he may think;
Consider the whole chain and not merely one link.
Unbiased opinion demands great poise of mind;
So balance your judgments on a scale that is kind.
Isolate not the parts from the unified whole;
Use not a stray thought to judge what's in a soul.
Let not your opinion use agreement as base;
Expression of views should not to bias give place.
Ferret to the soul-roots where true motives are found—
Understand the heart first; then to judgment give ground.

Sister Marie Imelda, O.P.
1955

The Novice

Like a gay elfin child clad in summery green
Is this tree in the orchard 'mid beauty serene,
And as though to encourage I smile when I see
Two small pears in the tender twig-hands of this tree.
How its delicate beauty delights me although
Many lovelier trees in its neighborhood grow—
Spreading trees that in springtime are tinted bouquets,
Whose broad branches are laden in brisk autumn days
As their lavish abundance they offer to share—
While the littlest pear tree is still just a care.
But, my Jesus, I smile (just as You smile at me),
When I see the first fruits of this tiniest tree.

Sister M. Cordia, M.S.C.

A Thought

Say a prayer for the beautiful Southland,
Where God's gifts are scattered with lavish hand;
Romantic scene of the shanty and the mansion fine,
Of the cotton field and the stately pine,
Where ancient custom, long condoned,
A supremacy of one race there enthroned;
In ignorance and poverty enslaved another,
Forgetting that each to each was brother
In the Fatherhood of God.
O pray that the gallant southern heart
Be not embittered as its privileges depart;
But with dignity and grace may bow
To justice and charity, which would allow
The opening of opportunities, great and small,
Cultural, economic, political, all—
To American Negroes, so long despised;
Let not our loved country be criticized
By the nations of the world!

Sr. Mary Pius, O.S.P.

Vocation

A night
A night of ignorance and sin enshrouds the world
A light
A flame from Jesus' Heart strikes out against the dark
But finds no ready waiting torch to set afire
Till soon this Heart must burst to hold its pent up heat
A call
A call of majesty and tender, pleading love
Does fall
Does ring and vibrate through the still and starless night
"Are there no daring souls to bear my light aloft,
To ease my throbbing furnace of its glowing charge?"
A choice
A choice responds within a noble youthful soul,
A voice
A timid voice gains courage at its own reply:
"Can it be true You could use such a thing as me?—
Lord, light me as Your torch to set the world aglow!"

Sister M. Cordia, M. S. C.

Nuns at Shrine

Nuns at Play

Nuns at Lunch

The Roving Reporter on the Job:

Ballerina, Opera Star, Champion Golfer Unearthed Among Religious

I have the worst time getting Sister to eat: she just loves the music.

By SR. JOHN CAMERON CAMPUS

* * *

Prospecting for gold in the religious hills of Villanova your raving (correction, please) roving reporter has unearthed the following nuggets:

This summer session boasts of a champion woman golfer, a premiere ballerina and a Metropolitan opera star whose favorite role was in Pagliacci. Names withheld due to religious modesty with just a little of "what would Rev. Mother think???" thrown in for good measure. Worthy of note and also a merit award of the Philadelphia Red Cross Chapter, Sister Auxencia of the Holy Family of Nazareth as a registered nurse has served as floor supervisor in almost every department at Nazareth Hospital. This versatile Sister had ten years teaching experience before she went in training, but the biggest thrill of her life on this planet was her audience with the Holy Father in 1950.

What A Relief

Flash! Flash! Sisters who used to major in commuting and transportation now have surplus time for studies. The Trinitarian Sisters from Bristol, Pa. are enjoying life as summer boarders for the first time this season. Formerly these Sisters shook dust of Bristol off their feet at 4:30 A.M. and didn't return to collect aforementioned dust until four in the afternoon—the transit company's loss is Villanova's gain. Sisters, enter thou into the joys of the summer boarder.

Do studies loom large? Is life beginning to pall? Console yourself with thoughts of Mother Mary Cosmos S.H.C.J. who leaves at the end of the current session for Africa. As we go to press Mother is not yet sure whether she will be trimming a Christmas tree in Nigeria or on the Gold Coast. Do we hear someone humming "Far Away Places"??

They're Back Again

After a lapse of too long, the Sisters of Christian Charity are with us again this summer . . . A station wagon (not jet-propelled but nun-propelled) expedites their travelling problems . . . for South American details, check with Sister Maria Jane, IHM; for she has just returned from a six-year sojourn in Chile . . . Sister Mary Louis, OSF's, solicitude for the success of the VILLANOVAN is not purely platonic . . . be advised, brethren and sistren, too!), that Father Rongione, moderator of the paper in question, is Sister's brother.

Cheaper by the Dozen

On the subject of things fraternal, Sister Ann Gertrude, SSJ, has three brothers serving in the priesthood, two as Franciscans, and one as a diocesan priest in the Florida diocese . . . completing the picture of this "Family Who Overtook Christ" in twentieth - century fashion, Sister Ann Gertrude also has a Sister in her own community.

A Good Substitute

The Erie Sisters of St. Joseph, who miss the view of the Lake and its breezes, heartily agree that an air-conditioned dining room is a splendid substitute (lest we make it sound too carnal, they like the air-conditioned library even much better) . . . Sister Joseph Mary's chin is a little higher these days because Reverend Wilfrid J. Nash, her cousin, was recently appointed President of Gannon College in Erie.

Great Relations!

Digging for current news, your faithful reporter turned up an item of interest to those who enjoyed the campus last summer . . . the flute player whose enchanting music soothed many a ruffled brow has been identified as Sister Dolores, CRS.

East Meets West

What stir is this . . . Small wonder the Sisters of St. Basil welcome proudly the Very Reverend Mother Zenobia, Superior General of their order. Rev. Mother is making her official visitation to the provinces of the order. From Brazil, one month ago, comes Sister Leonilda, a Bernardine Sister picking up some English before starting her work at Catholic University . . . to which institution she was awarded a government scholarship. In South America studying medicine is Sister Mary C.S.P. Those who

(Continued on Page 8)

Air-Conditioned Intellectuals:

Browsing in the Library

By SR. MARY EUGENE, R. S. M.

Along with twenty-nine cross-reference cards, a meal ticket, and room key came sage counseling, "Do your studying in the library. It's air-conditioned." For math students at least, most reference consists in someone's year-ago notes and a kind but clever friend. However, as the summer stretches the mercury way up, you begin to realize that no matter how valuable a friend may prove, she simply is not air-conditioned.

So you trip your way from Belle Air (what irony!) over to that mecca of over-worked and over-heated students. Even if the books have no value, still you are entitled to a dollar's worth of something there, so it might as well be air. Feeling rather shady about bringing in your own books which bristle with cultured equations in that "fine arts" atmosphere, you straighten your veil for confidence and push open the door and swing rapidly past the desk.

Movable Pens

In this Seventh Centennial summer, no one will deny that that simply done act is enough to shake Sister Gibraltar, herself, as she finds herself in an immediate papal audience. After thanking St. Rita or some appropriate Augustinian saint that you were too startled to move rather than kneel for the blessing—imagine the disdain in the lifted coif!—you move self-consciously into the reading room. There it is difficult to decide where the statuary ends. Oh yes, these have moveable pens.

Intellectual Gulp

Actually you wouldn't dare take that sliver of a math book next to the Latin Seminar scholars who are digesting a 4-inch Oxford Classical Dictionary for Modern Scholarship and in the same intellectual gulp are swallowing a 5-inch Dutripor's "Concordantiae" as they mumble (in soft, well-modulated mumbles of course) something about finding the "asterico" in the preface to the "Thessurus Linguae Latinae." If Latin is not a dead language, the scholars will be trying to lift these tomes at a minimum cost of three meals in energy—but of course Dougherty works hand in hand (or is it hand to mouth) with the library.

In or On Circles?

Some consolation to the lowly equations is the Dominican studing Chemistry. It was difficult to decide if that Sister of the Congregation of Notre Dame was working on circles or in them. She just sat and stared at them. You try to remember to pray for her tonight. After poking around, your popularity reaches such a 5-star Hooper-rating that a glance at a Dominican reading up on machine guns make you dart through the door back into the equally frightening papal audience which you had forgotten was there.

How about the stacks? That's a good place to be unobserved. Just as you enter you recall that the Sisters of Mercy are bewailing one of their number who took Library Science only to become a card addict. Used to hold about three hundred cards in each hand as she went about, they claim. Some maintain that she got lost somewhere among the stacks and was sent to the bindery. They expect to find her next summer secure in Volume II of the Review for Religious.

Periodical Room

In the periodical room a Sister of the Blessed Sacrament who spent the previous year in Harlem leafs through the American Sociological Review—probably she could match every article with personal experience. You decide, as you pass through the Browsing Room, that you are really one with the Dominican enjoyed the resolute "From This Day Forward" . . .

With such a variety of topics getting a summer renovation those motley equations should be aired in the proper atmosphere. You have joined the air-conditioned intellectuals.

Sister Mary Eugene, R.S.M.

"They Serve Him Best":

Blindness: A Study in Courage

By. SR. MARY ALMA, O. P.

If you happen to be in C. & F. any morning betwen 8:15 and 10:55 yau may have met Dorothy Collins and her faithful dog, Vesta. You have probably seen her working with Sister Theresa Christa, S.N.J.M., over a History lesson or perhaps with Sister Ellen Francis, O.S.F., paging through American Literature I.

Miss Collins is a Social Service worker among the blind in Philadelphia and vicinity. Her primary task is to help those who have been recently stricken to adjust themselves to the new life which, of necessity, they must undertake. Most of her time is spent with elderly people who find this adjustment difficult. Her own blindness, rather than being a liability, is chalked up by Dorothy as a asset in this particular field of Social Service work. Her attitude towards her own blindness is most admirable and exemplary and, as a result, tends to gain the confidence of those with whom she works.

Education Helpful

Since Social Service is becoming such an important field today, Miss Collins has found it necessary to further her education along these lines. She was educated at Saint Mary's Institute for the Blind at Lansdale, Pennsylvania. She took Social Service courses at Michigan State and then went to Catholic University to specialize. There Miss Collins took Education Methods courses in teaching the blind, and psychology courses to discover the psychological reaction of blindness upon an individual. Having been blind herself since she was three months old, she knew nothing of those who had seen and then lost their sight. Hence, the psychology courses proved invaluable.

Finally, in 1954, Miss Collins decided it would be well to work towards a degree. She made a wise choice in coming to Villanova.

To you, Miss Collins, we say with Milton, the blind poet:

". . . who best bear his mild yoke,
They serve Him best."

Sister Mary Alma, O.P.

First Issue

(Continued from Page 3)

Mary Immaculate, O.P.; Sr. Michael Bernard, O.P.; and Sr. Estelle Marie, O.P.

Former VILLANOVAN editor Harry Nash handled lay-out of this issue and assisted contributors in preparation of copy.

In charge of photography for this issue was VILLANOVAN Photography Editor David L. Delva. Assisting in proofreading was VILLANOVAN ex-Editor Edwin Daly, '55.

Living Saints

They embrace life each day
With clear eyes on their goal,
Dare to live to the full
With a smile on their soul!

Sister M. Cordia, M.S.C.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

From 1918 to the Present System, 1956:

History of Villanova's Summer School

Religious View VU's Modern Day Summer Set-Up

By SR. MARY ELISE, O. P.

The three of us descended from the Paoli Local and hurried up the steps of the station for our first view of the campus. We were all new here that summer of 1949 and had been looking forward to our six weeks at Villanova for several months. Our first impression was that of an expanse of green lawn, a shaded walk, and many buildings.

A Pleasant Return

Since then, the campus has become so familiar that certain views can be called to mind when we are far away, and the first sight of the Chapel's twin spires each June produces a sense of return to pleasant associations.

Since then, also, several new buildings have been added. Just as "old timers" pointed out to us the new library that summer, we in turn explained to this year's new members that Sullivan and Dougherty Halls are most recent.

* * *

One zealous member of our group, indicating Dougherty Hall, explained, "For the last two years this spot was either a mud hole or a dust spot, depending on the weather man."

It's Really Grand

However, we all agree that the lovely air-cooled cafeteria, lounges, University Shop, Snack Bar and other features of this new building are worth the inconvenience.

But come, let's be a bit systematic and take you for a walk around our "Campus Green."

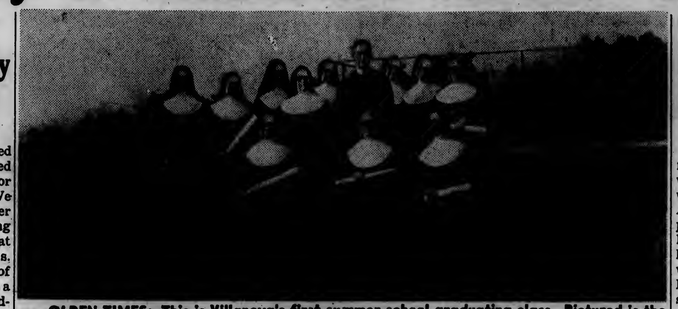
It is good that we choose the evening for our stroll; during class time traffic is rather heavy. Some folks claim that the cars are more endangered by the nuns than the nuns by the cars.

The Tour Continues

Let us start at Fedigan Hall on the western end of the campus. Fedigan is a dormitory. That busy highway to your right is Lancaster Pike. Between the Pike and our walk are Simpson, O'Dwyer and Delury Halls. The Infirmary is in Simpson, the others are used to house the students.

Along the walk to our left is Mendel Hall, the Administration Building. There are also classrooms and dormitories here. The Book Store and cafeteria were located in Mendel Hall before Dougherty was built.

* * *



Don't you like those copper beeches? They are such beautifully shapped trees and their dark color compliments the various tones of green from the grass and trees.

Now here is Saint Thomas Monastery. You'll see bright red geraniums like these in front of many of the buildings here. That blue spruce is one of my favorities, too. The statue of St. Thomas of Villanova, in front of the monastery is recent. He's terribly serious looking, isn't he?

The Place of Places

This is the Chapel, as, of course, you can easily see. We'll make a visit on our way back, but let's stand in front of it for

(Continued on Page 7)

OLDEN TIMES: This is Villanova's first summer school graduating class. Pictured is the then Dean of the Summer School, Most Rev. Joseph Hickey, O.S.A., later General of the Augustinian Order, and the 11 nuns who comprised the pioneering group.

Strictly Opinion:

A Nun's Look at Villanova

By SR. M. VICTOR, O.S.F.

Through the hallowed halls of the University can be heard the echo of its Alma Mater . . . "Loyal Sons of Villanova." Did you notice the large number of eager Nuns crowding into the Field House on Registration day? Even the sample course card was addressed to its venerable Mr. ——— er ——— Sr. Mary. The only features missing were Beanies and Wildcat T-shirts.

Villanova has been traditionally an engine house for "Man Power." The very structures and landscapes betray the spirit of those able-bodied individuals who have gone before us through long semesters of hard labor; not to mention that there is some tangible evidence. However, in keeping with modern trends and an indiscriminate character, she (because I like to think of her as a Mother) has opened her doors to those "Teachers of Men" who are interested in the advancement of Education.

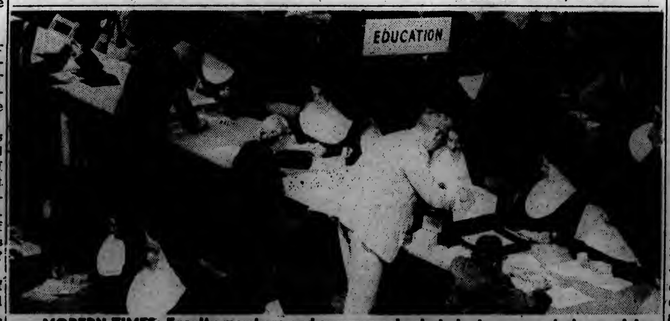
Changes on Campus

Invaded by its present "army of you— er — truth," the administration is most happy to accommodate these welcomed intruders. Needless to say, they have come well prepared—trunks, washing machines, heaters, mops,—even a few school supplies. Courses are usually prepaid, but in the future wise students will apply for a painting job. Window decorating at Commerce and Finance is one easy way to imbibe the spirit of the Renaissance period. There is one restriction, however; good children don't call out in class.

The University policemen are finding the summer "beat" rather perplexing. They wouldn't be policemen if they didn't. Perhaps it would be of more signifiance to call them "Guides." The Sister have a problem. Either the men lose their jobs or, well!, the ramp would make a good roller skating alley. Cheer up, the boys will soon be marching home.

The new dining hall is an added attraction to those individuals who have a love for art and mechanics. The Sisters are enjoying the beautiful flow of "spiritual reading" during meals, as well as the cool sea breezes. Lining up has now become just a minor problem. Watchful observers of past years must certainly miss the"Change of the Black Brigade." Only one question, "What color are the electric eyes?"

People who just don't understaad Nuns must be undergoing great torments. Women in general are usually problems; but a variety of twenty five specimens, each individually dressed and mannered, is no joke. Wouldn't it be a dreary world if we were all alike? You would say No . . . maybe we would see the movies a little better.



Summer School Education

For the most part, the Summer session presents an opportunity to replenish the cup which has been drained during the past year. Both spiritually and educationally each Sister feels that Villanova offers the best it can give. Unitas . . . Veritas . . . Caritas . . . are the words inscribed in the emblem ofourschool. Wemay not be mindful of their actuality, but their symbolism is present in the towering steeples of the ancient Villanova chapel. One stands for Unity; the other—Truth. As for Charity, there has recently been added a third. Not over the chapel itself, but o'er the structure dedicated to the man who loved the very walls of this institution of learning. Some might think of it as being a principle of charity "to feed the hungry," but for the Sisters it is a memorial to a great bestower of spiritual and intellectual nourishment.

With these words then, we join the ranks of the Villanova Wildcats in their echo across the campus green:

"Loyal Sons of Villanova
Sing a hymn of praise
To our dear old Alma Mater
And our college days."

Sister M. Victor, O.S.F.

MODERN TIMES: Faculty members and summer school students concur during registration processes in the Field House.

Seventy Students First Enrolled; Growth Traced

By SR. ROSE ANITA, O.P.

Villanova University was founded as a college in 1842, when the Augustinian Fathers, who had been established at St. Augustine's Church in Philadelphia since 1796, purchased Belle Air, a tract of about two hundred acres of land. This land was located in the township of Radnor, Delaware County, Pennsylvania. The new educational venture was placed under the protection of St. Thomas of Villanova, an illustrious Augustinian saint. The College and the surrounding area soon came to be known as "Villanova," a name which today is synonymous with excellent educational opportunities.

The College flourished and prospered and by the turn of the century was recognized as one of the educational arsenals of learning. By 1916-1917, due to the many requests which had been made, the faculty of Villanova began to realize the necessity of a Summer Session for the teaching communities of Sisters and Brothers in the surrounding area. Seeing the value of giving educational courses to these Religious Teachers, those in charge prepared to organize the course of studies to meet the demands of the time.

First Summer Sessions

The first Summer Session was conducted at Villanova for the month of July and the early part of August, 1918. Doctor Joseph Hickey, O.S.A., recently deceased, was the first Dean of the Summer School. Dr. Hickey remained in this office until 1921, and later became the General of the Augustinian Order. To him, we, who now study during the Summer, owe much.

* * *

In 1918, there were about sixty or seventy students enrolled. It seemed as though the venture would prove successful. During the following years the enrollment increased and as early as 1920-1921, the number of students attending Summer and Extension classes was one hundred sixty-seven, all of whom, except four, were Religious. In the Catalog for that year, we find the following Communities of Sisters listed:

1. Sisters of St. Dominic, Newburgh, New York . 12
2. Sisters of St. Francis .. 30
3. Missionary Sisters of St. Francis 6
4. Sisters of the Holy Child of Jesus 29
5. Sisters of the Immaculate Heart 40
6. Sisters of St. Joseph .. 21
7. Sisters of Mercy, Harrisburgh, Pa. 4
8. Sisters of Mercy, Merion, Pa. 19
9. Sisters of Mercy, Plainfield, N.J. 2
10. Lay Students 4

Credit Computation

At this time credits were computed in units instead of Semester Hours. Sixty-four credits were necessary for a Degree because one unit represented an equivalent of what is now two semester hours. The maximum allowance for a Summer Session

(Continued on Page 8)

Around the Campus

Summer School Sidelights

By SR. MARY FRANCIS EILEEN, O. P.

The new modern design in architecture has been matched by at least one community on campus. The one thing the Blessed Sacrament Sisters and the building have in common is the fact that they are both "real cool."

Comes breakfast time and the Sisters trip Lightly (?) down the ramp in time to the latest Rock 'n Roll release. (We'd love to ta try it on skates!) We sit quietly enjoying Glen Miller's "Sunrise Serenade" with our bacon and eggs. What would add to the atmosphere (musically, that is) is an out door amplifier to play the "William Tell Overture" as we dash in all direction for that 8:15 class. Those who have an 8:30 class might settle for "I'm Walking Behind You."

CAMPUS

There's no chance of getting "out of line" while Captain Murphy and his men are on duty. They provide cheerful "uniformed" information. Added to that, for the friends of the Emerald Isle, there is even humor in brogue.

A nice cool corner-room to spread out your books and papers —no one near to interrupt your train of thought—just you and Chaucer, or Horace, if you prefer—deep silence . . . and the fulfillment of this dream? NOT the library—it's too crowded!

New Improvements

Now Sisters, truthfully, don't you miss the mad meander through that "fugitive from a Poe short story?" If you timed it right, you could manage to get there just as the Pittsburg Express rumbled overhead. Cheers for the campus mailboxes!

Math Majors beware! That striking blue geometric design in Dougherty Hall may lead you to zig when you should zag. Who has the new theorem for this one?

Sister M. Francis Eileen, O.P.

Shall we go right or left?

Tops in Modern Technique

Dr. Power's Field Trip To WCAU Great Event

By SR. RITA PATRICIA, SSJ

Every class on the campus offers something new and different, but Doctor Powers' class is way up front according to books on modern technique. Why? Because his students had just settled into the routine of summer school after the first hectic days of adjustment when there was a field trip. (That is what the book calls it; Dr. Powers calls it a school journey.) The Immaculate Heart Sisters kindly lent their bus, the Mercy Sisters, their car, and about seventy members of the Visual Aids class were transported on a forty-minute ride through beautiful Montgomery County to Station WCAU. There they were each given a ticket that entitled them to a door prize, and escorted to a seat in the auditorium. They were present for the telecasting of "Cinderella Weekend."

How Many?

Once the program started, the interest in the "know-how" of telecasting took place to the desire of the summer school students to see how many of the questions being fired at the contestants they could answer. Some acknowledged they were happy to be spectators rather than contestants. Of course these particular students would'nt be expected to identify the modern songs, but they certainly should have been on their toes for the geography and the current events.

By the time the fascinated viewers had made a mental picture of the lay-out, counted all the men involved, and tried to identify the equipment for their homework, the broadcast was over, and not one had won a sample of the things advertised. Some of the Sisters were disappointed they did not get a sample of "My Sin" perfume. By the way, the camera had focussed on the Villanova Summer School for a few seconds. Without a doubt, WCAU's prestige rose considerably with the television audience after that shot.

Tour of WCAU

After the telecast, the group was divided by Mr. Donohue, one of Villanova's own students, who is a guide for the summer visitors to WCAU. He shared the honors with Miss Vicky Brown, who with Dr. Powers endeavored to explain the intricacies of television. The students viewed with great interest the various sets, the equipment, the highly efficient newsroom, and the musical library. There was not a nook or cranny of WCAU left unexplained or unexplored by the time the students got back to the parking lot to board the bus for the return trip.

Thank You, Dr.!

Those who were fortunate enough to be in the bus with Dr. Powers received a lot more information than either Mr. Donohue or Miss Brown could provide. How many of the technical points all his students remember is another thing again, but one thing was unanimously agreed upon — everyone thoroughly enjoyed every minute of their first field trip from Summer School. Thank you, Doctor Powers!

The new DOT® is made to give maximum distance for the long-hitting golfer. And its DURA-THIN® cover keeps the DOT uncut, unscuffed and perfectly round far longer. Priced at $14.75 a dozen, 3 for $3.75.

SPALDING

Meet Sr. Mary Pax:

Travels of a Citizen-Missionary

By SR. MARY PAX

Meet Sr. Mary Pax, who was a citizen of several lands. She experienced World War II in Germany, her native land. "Those were the times that tried men's souls."

Then followed happy years in Austria, the land of her Novitiate, in the Convent "Schloss Wernberg." This is a typical twelfth-century castle with four watch towers and high strong walls and three iron-clad portals. There are other things which one would not ordinarily find in a convent, such as the armor-hall with suits of armor, with spearheads and weapons of the medieval type. In the cellar of the north side is an old underground passage (no longer "secret") and other cellars that had been dungeons. The Chronicle of the castle tells about fierce attacks of marauding Turks who pressed in from the Balkans. How many actually starved in the dungeons or died on the gallows, who knows!? Where the gallows had been erected there is now the Sisters' Recreation ground, a wide circular platform, in the park.

Many Changes

In the sixteenth century the castle was in the lands of Benedictine Monks who built a large Church there. As the Chronicle tells, the Monks had to leave the castle after several years of hard work. The Church was changed into a stable for the horses of the Baron who had come into possession of the castle. The names of these horses are still to be seen on the Church walls. Please God, we hope one day the old Church will be rebuilt.

After a varied history of seven centuries, the castle was changed into the District Motherhouse of the Austrian Province of the Missionary Sisters of the Precious Blood, in 1935. There entered candidates from Germany, those who escaped the Hitler regime, from Austria, from the Czechoslovakian and Hungarian borderlands, until the Communists drew the iron curtain around the last two countries.

War Ends

The war had caused comparatively little destruction to Austria. In the last year of the war the Austrian people spent many nights in their cellars during air-raids. On Holy Saturday at noon, Convent Wernberg was surprised by the first, the last, and the only shower of bombs. In less than five minutes over a hundred bombs were dropped around the castle, in the garden, near the farm, in the forests and parks. Many windows were broken, but nothing else had happened to the Convent. The Sisters had much to thank Our Lord for on the following Easter Day.

Then on May 8th, 1945 the terrible War was over and the victorious powers occupied Austria. Castle Wernberg was taken over by the English Army as "Retreat House for British Soldiers" Divine Providence protected the Sisters, the Castle and the English troops in Austria and Italy.

Splendors Lure

In this beautiful spot in Austria the Alps of the three countries meet; the Austrian snow-covered Alps in the North, the Yugoslavian Alps to the South-east, and the Italian Alps, pointing to the South. Every newcomer yearns for a trip to Rome, because it seems to be just behind the mountain. However, she is told to stay home and be ready for the call that is sounded after her Profession. This may be to the African Missions, to New Guinea, or to India; to further study in Germany, Holland, or Belgium; or to a trip to America. "I am ready. Deo Gratias!"

This time three newly Professed were called to Africa and Sister Mary Pax was one of them. After months of waiting for their visa the three chosen ones were transported as Prisoners of War to Germany. It was grand to see father and mother again and sisters and brothers all of whom had returned home from prison camps and Army hospitals. The ruins of Germany told the lesson of pride and punishment.

Holland, America

The next trip was to the General Motherhouse in Holland. It was a pretty land, a tulip garden in Spring, and a Wonderland in Winter. It is flat and wide and excellent for riding on bicycles. Some of our Sisters ride on bikes on their daily round of ambulant nursing period. In the Motherhouse the newcomers had no time to spend in wishful thinking of Austria and the Alps.

Then it happened that Sister Mary Pax had her mission-plans crossed — came the call for America! Soon two young Sisters, with a meager knowledge of English, were carried across the Atlantic in a brand new Dutch freight boat. How different America seemed to them, until they got accustomed to their new surroundings. They feel part of this country now and they love the American way, generous, cheerful, and democratic. It is an honor to be an American citizen and to have duties toward a country that really offers much.

The Religious and Missionaries are truly at home in many lands. They can say, "Lord, all this— and Heaven, too."

Religious View of Villanova In Summertime

(Continued from Page 5)

a minute and look back along the way we have come. That's one of the views I can remember all year long. Isn't it lovely?

Well, about face. We're walking toward the cemetery now. The path straight ahead leads to Dougherty Hall beneath two more copper beeches. We'll sort or bear left, though, around the cemetery. So many have died these last few years. May they rest in peace.

We're passing Saint Rita's Hall now. It houses some students, and the Seminary Guild. Here also live the Sisters who take such motherly care of the seminarians all year. They are the Daughters of the Most Holy Redeemer, whose Motherhouse is in Germany. Their Motherhouse in the United States is in Meadowbrook, Pennsylvania.

Next to Saint Rita's is Austin Hall, a well-known dormitory. How do you like our petunias? Here, too, is a ginkgo tree. The topmost branches form a cross. As the tree grows those branches fold in and the new branches push out. Otherwise, the tree resembles a poplar.

Coming Along?

We'll make a sharp right turn here and go around Dougherty Hall. It's really the back, although it faces the Pike. This is the cafeteria section. We had looked forward to eating here, and we certainly do enjoy it now.

* * *

Hm-m, we've turned a corner right into the service area. It won't take much to get back on our regular walk, though. Now here's the Commerce and Finance Building. It is for classrooms, and also contains the auditorium. That's where we see movies every Friday—one of the most popular spots on the campus.

There isn't much use in crossing Ithan Avenue. The Field House is certainly locked by quarter of seven. The Stadium is just beyond the Field House.

Belle Aire

Turning left here, brings us past Belle Aire, a temporary barracks for classrooms. Another left turn and we pass Sullivan Hall. This is the newest dormitory.

Directly ahead we can see the dome of Alumni Hall, the oldest building on the campus. Not the first, you understand. It also is a dormitory, and houses the Maintenance Department.

Across the tracks to your right is the Law School going up. A bit closer is the Villanova Power Plant.

That architectural skeleton in front of us is, or was, the Barber Shop. The men will have it all apart in another day or two, and a similar fate will befall Belle Aire before too long. Said Barber Shop has moved into—you guessed it—Dougherty Hall. Also moved into Dougherty and rechristened "Snack Bar" is the pie shop. It was in that long barracks next to the skeleton.

Complete Tour

And here we are, finally, in front of Dougherty Hall! We'll schedule a complete tour of it for Thursday, shall we?

We're coming along to the back of Austin Hall and through what I call the "Park". To our right is the Seminary, Saint Mary's Hall. Listen, you can hear the Salve chanted.

More Conveniences

Did you notice the mail box? You'd have to be blind not to—red and blue, most convenient. There's a daily pick-up at one o'clock.

* * *

Yes, I see you looking longingly at the benches. This is a grand spot for study or meditation, or just watching the squirrels. I always steer my family here when they come to visit.

The Shrine of Our Lady of Good Counsel is a recent addition, there to our right. The Sisters say a Rosary there each evening.

These last few yards are more hazardous than any other part of our walk.

The path takes us past a group to nuns playing croquet behind Alumni Hall. There are some savage mallet swingers and wicket wackers among them.

Ah! Comfort

Ah, here's an empty bench and from this vantage point we can see the rest of the campus. Along the path to our right is the library. The display for the Seventh Centennial of the Grand Union of the Order of St. Augustine is most interesting. We'll take that in another day. Beyond the Library are the tennis courts, railroad station, and post office.

* * *

Directly across from us is the Naval Building, dedicated to Commodore John Barry. Next to it is the Chemical Engineering Building.

To the left is the rear of Mendel Hall, and the Monastery, and the Chapel.

Rested enough? Suppose we walk over and get a better look at the statue of St. Augustine. The flaming heart he is holding symbolizes his great love for God.

This path leads to Chapel. Shall we go there now to thank God for His many gifts and ask His continued blessings upon this University and all who work and study here?

A number of nuns enjoy a red-hot game of croquet behind Alumni Hall, an activity that has become increasingly popular during the early evenings of the summer sessions.

History of Summer School

(Continued from Page 5)

was three credits, comparable to the six semester hours allowed today.

Courses were offered leading the Degrees: Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Philosophy, and Bachelor of Literature. The Degree for Bachelor of Arts, according to the catalog, was granted only to those, who, as admission and graduation requirements, presented Latin and Greek. The Degree for Bachelor of Philosophy was conferred on those who followed extra courses in Philosophy in addition to the required minimum. The Degree for Bachelor of Literature was bestowed upon those who pursued the study of modern languages in preference to Greek or Latin.

Deans 1921-1950

In 1921, Father Walter G. Rafter, O.S.A., became Dean of Summer School, succeding Doctor Hickey. In this year, the enrollment increased to two hundred eighty-nine Sisters and eight lay students, making a total of one hundred thirty new registrations. The increase was very encouraging to those so interested in the growth of this educational experiment. Under the leadership of Father Rafter, the Summer School flourished and maintained a high scholastic rating.

* * *

Father Rafter was Dean until 1926, when he was suceeded by Father John Sparrow, O.S.A., also deceased, who was Dean until 1931.

In 1931, Father Joseph Bartley, O.S.A., now Dean of Commerce and Finance at Villanova University, was appointed Dean of the Summer Session. To this office Father brought those elements of administrative genius, which would be so called upon in the years to come. Through the depression years, World War II, and the Post War years, the Summer School retained the same high scholastic standards as always. Father Bartley, always courteous and patient, provided recreational facilities for the use of the Sisters living on the Campus. To the present day these facilities are still at the Sisters' disposal.

Competent Assistant

During these years, the heavy secretarial work so necessary in achieving order and success, particularly in an administrative capacity, were capably handled by Miss Katherine Kelly. Miss Kelly, with her competent assistance, helped Father Bartley firmly established the Summer School on the foundation it now has. To Miss Kelly, the writer of this article is indebted for much of the material here included.

Increased Enrollment

Students were now coming not only from the surrounding area, but from as far away as Canada. It is of interest to note, that today on campus, there are Sisters from India. How the pioneers little dreamed of such developments for their original endeavors!

* * *

In 1940, an attempt was made to begin a Summer School newspaper similiar to the "Villanovan." It was called the "Cornucopiae," but saw only about two issues. In these issues, however, one can see the developments from 1918 to 1940 of scholastic achievement and general growth of the Summer School.

In 1950, Father Edward McCarthy, O.S.A., succeeded Father Bartley as Dean. Once more, able, competent direction was afforded all those Sisters who attended class on the campus. Father McCarthy, in 1953, left Villanova to begin a new Mission of the Augustinian Fathers in Cuba.

Our present Dean, Father Joseph Boyle, became the successor of Father McCarthy in 1953. To him we are all indebted for his patience and kindness in the administration of Summer School. Under such efficient direction, the Summer Sessions have successfully maintained the true spirit of Villanova.

Spiritual Opportunities

Scholastically, the summer students are offered all that is available, but, the religious aspect of our lives is not neglected. Here, on the campus with all the wonderful spiritual benefits offered to us, we are unable to lose sight of the purpose for which we are here. As religious teachers, we are not here to learn erely for the satisfaction it affords, but rather must we ever keep in mind the ideals of the early pioneers of Summer education. Here at Villanova, respite from our busy routine is offered, and in the quiet of the Chapel, let us remember to pray for those who have gone before, and who did so much to obtain all that we now enjoy.

* * *

During this year of 1956, when we celebrate the Seventh Centennial of the Grand Union of the Order of St. Augustine, it is fitting that tribute be paid to our predecessors. It is with gratitude that we humbly accept the benefits they so arduously procured for us.

In spirit of him whose sons teach us to come nearer to Christ, we say, "Thou hast made us for Thyself, O Lord, and our hearts cannot rest until they rest in Thee."

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

Nurses

(Continued from Page 1)

Vera received her M. A. degree from the University of Bombay, majoring in philosophy. Sister Beatrice obtained her B.A. at Madras University. The Sisters summed up the interview thus: "We are grateful to God for this unique and most educative opportunity of seeing things from different standpoints, and very thankful to the authorities of Villanova University and the Sisters of Mercy at Merion, whose charity has made this possible."

Centennial Display

(Continued from Page 1)

order.

Outstanding Augustinians

Since that time the Augustinian Order has greatly flourished. In the past seven hundred years from its ranks have come such famous saints as St. Rita of Cascia, Clare of Montefalco; Nicholas of Tolentine, patron of the Holy Souls; and Thomas of Villanova, bishop and father to the poor. Augustinians were among those commissioned by the Pope to preach the Crusades and great saints such as Joan of Arc and Catherine of Siena chose Augustinian confessors.

Council of Trent

In the midst of the unrest that shook Europe prior to the Protestant Revolt it was the Augustinian monastery at Windesheim in Holland whose name was synonymous with ecclesiastical reform. And after the first fury of the Revolt had spent itself to the Council of Trent to take the first steps toward a true reform came fifty Augustinian theologians headed by the Papal Legate, Cardinal Seripando O.S.A.

See of Philadelphia

During the past seven centuries Augustinian missionaries have traveled to innumerable places throughout the world. In 1794 our own country benefited as a result of their missionary endeavors. Father John Rossiter was sent from Ireland to Philadelphia and in 1801, thirteen years before the foundation of the See of Philadelphia, established St. Augustine's Church whose list of subscribers included such familiar names as George Washington and John Barry. It became the mother church from which many missionaries were sent throughout the eastern states.

Villanova University

In 1842, the purchase of a farm in Delaware County, twelve mile from Philadelphia, saw the beginning of the Order's greatest achievement in this diocese and in the United States, Villanova University.

Augustinian Standard

Today over five hundred Augustinians laboring in parishes, schools, and colleges across the country carry proudly forward their standard of Veritas, Unitas, Caritas—the union of the truth and charity of Christ which alone can make men free.

Summer Sessions

(Continued from Page 1)

tion, Survey of American Literature, Survey of English Literature, The English Essay, Forms of Drama, The American Short Story, Modern English and American Drama, Modern English and American Poetry, History of the Language, Chaucer, Literary Criticism, Shakespeare, The Age of Johnson, and Seminar.

GEOGRAPHY—Principles of Geography and Geography of the Americas.

HISTORY — POLITICAL SCIENCE—United States History I, Modern European History II, Growth of the European Civilization II, The American Colonies, Civil War and Reconstruction, Depression and New Deal, History of Europe, Establishment of the Church, Early American Church History, Historical Methodology, Era of Jefferson, Constitutional History, Seminar: Unted States History, Age of Metternich, England Since 1815, American Government, and Devel. of International Organ.

LANGUAGE—Intermediate French, French Lit. Criticism, Medieval Literature, Latin Prose and Poetry, Livy, Ab Urbe Condita I-II, Latin Paleography, St. Augustine: De Civitate Dei, and Latin Proseminar.

LIBRARY SCIENCE—Fundamentals of Library Science, Library Instruction, Advanced Cataloging and Classification, Evaluation of Library Materials, Reference I, Development of Printing and Libraries, Language and Literature, and Reading Interest of Adolescents.

MATHEMATICS—College Algebra, Trigonometry, Differential Calculus, Differential Equation, Theory of Equations, Modern Algebra, Number Theory, Modern Geometry, Applied Mathematics.

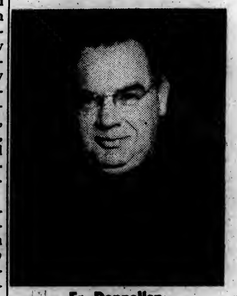
NURSING—Current Problems in Nursing, Maternal and Child Health, Nursing, and Intro. to Social Case Work.

PHILOSOPHY—Logic, Epistemology, Rational Psychology, History of Philosophy, General and Special Ethics.

PHYSICS—General Physics I-II.

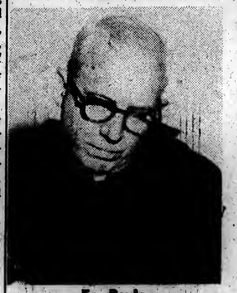
RELIGION—Christian Moral Ideal I, Sacraments, Apologetics, The One True God, Sacraments, The Theological Virtues, Supernatural Moral Virtues, New Testament II.

SOCIOLGY—Principles of Sociology, Social Problems, Juvenile Delinquency, Marriage and the Family, Catholic Social Principles, and Industrial Sociology.



The Roving Reporter

(Continued from Page 4)



were on campus two summers ago remember Sister and wish her Godspeed. Going to the Canines? Next summer Sr. Margretta, O.P. from Pensacola, Fla. hopes to register Kingfish in a nearby school which offers courses for the higher education of dogs.

There must be more gold in them thar hills . . . till next time . . . this is Sister John Cameron Campus saying . . . . "Good Night, Glad we could get together."

Administrators

Fr. Donnellon
President

Fr. Boyle
Summer School Dean

The Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A., moderator of the VILLANOVAN, poses with a number of his summer school students at Hallahan Center in downtown Philadelphia, where the University's summer extension sessions are held.

TIMKEN
TRADE-MARK REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
TAPERED ROLLER BEARINGS

Villanovan
Vol. 31—No. 25 Villanova University, Villanova, Pa. August 2, 1956

Summer Commencement Ceremonies To Confer Degrees on 196 Saturday

"I wish one would bring some Soda Bicarb!"

Exercises To Begin at 10 With Mass

By SR. MARY ADALBERT, C.S.S.F.

Commencement excericises for 196 summer school students will be held at Villanova's Field House Saturday, August 4, at 10 o'clock.

Presiding at the commencement will be the Very Reverend Henry E. Greenley, O.S.A., Provincial of St. Thomas of Villanova Province. The Rev. Vincent A. M. McQuaid, O.S.A., President of Merrimac College, Andover, Massachusetts, will deliver the graduation address. Both Father McQuaid, and the Very Reverend Xavier Crowley, T.O.R., President of St. Francis College of Loretto, Pa. will be recipients of honorary degrees which will be conferred by the Very Reverend James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., President of Villanova University.

Graduation Mass

A Solemn High Mass celebrated by the Very Reverend James A. Donnellon, O.S.A. will immediately precede graduation excercises. Deacon and subdeacon assisting at the Mass will be the Rev. Joseph I. Boyle, O.S.A., and the Reverend Edward B. McKee, O.S.A. respectively.

The Cum Jubilo directed by Dr. Harold Gill Reuschlein will be sung by the Sisters who have participated in the Church Music Workshop during the summer school session.

After Mass candidates for degrees will be presented by the Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A.,

(Continued on Page 8)

To House 500 Men:

Ground Broken For Second 'Sullivan Type' Dormitory

By SR. MARY AUGUSTINE, O.P.

As wonders of earth awe inspire,
So man's genius, with arts,
Attiring simple lines,
Make of them
New wonderment!

Ground breaking commenced anew at Villanova University on July 13, 1956, and this time for a million and a half dollar dormitory, to be ready for use by September 1957.

The new structure, which will house nearly five hundred students, will be erected to the same dimensions and appearance as Sullivan Hall, a dormitory completed two years ago on the east end of the campus. The two buildings will face each other.

In the midst of the tremendous expansion program, the Main Line School will begin construction on a new classroom building which will house the rapidly expanding school of Commerce and Finance and relieve the present seriously overcrowded present seriously overcrowded campus conditions. The two new structures together with Sullivan Hall and the present Commerce and Finance building will form a quadrangle on the east end of the campus.

Law Plant Too

The Villanova Law Building, already under way, is scheduled for completion by September of this year.

By August, three buildings will be in various stages of completion. Funds for the expansion will come from the recently begun Villanova Foundation Program a twenty-year campaign for twenty one million dollars, under the direction of the Very Rev. Francis X. McGuire, former President of the University. Nearly fifty Philadelphia business and industrial leaders are aiding the former President in this endeavor.

The new units will be the seventh and eighth new major structures to be built on the campus since 1949. Latest completed was Dougherty Hall, mammoth student union building, which was dedicated by Francis Cardinal Spellman last September.

Father President Breaks Ground For New Dorm

The Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, University President, breaks ground for new hall; looking on, left to right, the Rev. E. B. McKee, the Rev. Edward M. Dwyer, the Rev. Thomas Roland, the Rev. Joseph Paquette, the Very Rev. Henry E. Greenlee, Provincial, the Rev. John J. Curran, and the Rev. Thomas A. Burke.

Fr. Donnellon Reappointed:

Re-organization of VU Administrative Offices Announced

New Vice-Presidents

Three new vice-presidential posts: Father Boyle, left, VP for Academic Affairs; Father Curran, center, VP for Finance, and Father Kemme, VP for Student Affairs.

By SR. MARY ADALBERT, C.S.S.F.

A broad reorganization of the administrative structure of Villanova University and appointments to four newly created offices were announced today by the Very Rev. Henry E. Greenlee, O.S.A., Chairman of the University's Board of Trustees.

Changes do not effect the office of President. The Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., was reappointed President following the triennial chapter meeting of the Augustinian Order's Eastern Province last month.

The reorganization provides for an office of an assistant to the President and the creation of three Vice-Presidencies: Vice President for Academic Affairs; Vice President for Finance; and Vice President for Student Affairs.

The Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., formerly Vice-President of the University, now becomes assistant to the President. Rev. Joseph I. Boyle, O.S.A., who has been serving as Dean of the Extension and Graduate Divisions, assumes the new post of Vice-President for Academic Affairs involving both the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Rev. John Curran, O.S.A., formerly controller, was named to the post of Vice President for Finance. The Rev. Joseph Kemme, O.S.A., University Chaplain for the past four years, has

(Continued on Page 8)

Graduate Saturday:

Thirteen Receive Nursing Degrees; 2 Nuns Included

By SR. MARIA PAX, O.P.

Two members of religious communities will be included among the thirteen graduates of the Division of Nursing at the University's 23rd summer graduation exercises. The two religious are Sister M. Gertrude Joseph Regan, O.S.F., and Sister M. Eucharia Carmichael, O.S.F., who will receive decrees of Bachelor of Science in Nursing.

Lay students receiving their Bachelor of Science in Nursing are Loretta Blumenstock, Beatrice Cirillo, Elizabeth Estrin, Justina Gutzler, Eugenia Kappler, Anna Lung, Elizabeth McAleese, Lois Hopkins Woodall.

Nursing Education

Lay students receiving their Bachelor of Science in Nursing Education are Michael Buggy, Lawrence Lescisko, and Margaret Starr.

It is interesting to note that a graduate, Lawrence Lescisko, R.N. presently supervisor in Veterans' Hospital near Lebanon, attended Saturday School for a number of years to obtain his degree, has four children, among them a set of twins.

Brother Also

Another graduate, Michael Buggy, is contemplating entering a religious community of Brothers for Missionary Work, which has been recently established by Father Garesche, S.J.

Sister Gertrude Joseph is stationed at St. Francis Hospital, Wilmington, Delaware, and Sis-

(Continued on Page 8)

On Dedicated Professors

By SR. MARY IMMACULATE, O.P.

Were we asked to tell about one of the many things that has impressed us at Villanova, I am certain we would all be of accord in regard to the faculty.

In a general way we are all familiar with the consecrated lives of the Augustinian Fathers. This we learn both from their Rule of life and their admirable example in the classroom as well as on the campus. Indeed, we are deeply grateful for their interest in our complete well-being.

Masters at Home and School

However, I would like to devote this article to the honor of the dedicated lives of the professors. Whatever we know of the professors we learn through the medium of their subject. Yet many of these teachers whom we see as professors, masters of their major, bachelor of their arts or sciences, are at the same time masters of their home, with families to rear; the care of providing education for their own; and, if not masters of a home, then wholly dedicated to their profession, fulfilling the responsibility to it and themselves, through the lengthy hours of preparation and study.

General Awareness

Perhaps they will ask how it is that we are aware of this dedication and all it entails. They are indeed too humble to realize that it is through the very wholehearted and interested manner in which they present their subject matter, that we arrive at this awareness. More often than not, we are in awe that one who is so full of the many facets of general knowledge, and is so willing to have us share of this fount, could at the same time be rearing a family or pursuing further studies, or perhaps even working at a job completely foreign to the field of education.

The good humor by which they stimulate the class participants, the complete preparedness with which they confront us, and the willingness to be of help whenever possible, further convinces us that this tribute is surely due to them.

Dedicated Lives

We assured that this can be no selfish motive which brings them to the classroom, for it is universally known that this knowledge could be put to use, and with greater remuneration in other fields of endeavor. Their dedication to their profession must arise from their desire to impart the truth. Thus they share the freedom only dedicated lives can know, or in the words of St. John: "You shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

Villanovan
Villanova University Villanova Pa.
Faculty Moderator
Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O. S.A.
This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Scholar, Gentlemen, Athlete,
LEO GOODREAU
Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1928 under the act of March 3, 1879.
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION

CAMPUS LIFE BY CARTOON

"Is that what Physics does to you?"

Campus Observations:

Summertime News and Views

Ave Atque Vale

by Sr. Mary Alma, O.P.

On August 4 the graduates will solemnly proceed up that all-important aisle. It is important for an almost endless number of reasons. Among these reasons lies one very often overlooked.

What have you gained at Villanova besides a sheepskin? Besides learning that Horace was truly a great Roman and Shelley and Keats (or if you prefer, Kelly and Sheats were inspired poets or a slide rule isn't too complicated, you imbibed that true Villanova spirit!

Do you remember your first summer on Campus? Were you really a stranger? You found out that everyone was out to help everyone else. After the first few days you joined the crowd to help out others. Do you recall often you heard or perhaps said "Wait a minute Sister, I'll help you" or "I'll show you how to use the stacks."

You're going to miss those things, Graduate —Miss them—but don't forget them.

When you were struggling through those last two summers (and winters, too, at dear old Hallahan) it seemed endless. Now it is over and the thought strikes you—How close are the "Hail" and the "farewell."

Yesterday you came. Today you are ready to leave but tomorrow—

"You shall come to Alma Mater
In your dreams again
With a prayer for Villanova
And a Sweet Amen."

Sister Mary Alma, O.P.

Traffic Jam

by Sr. Marie Hope, O.P.

Those who think that traffic jams occur only at busy intersections in large cities, have never lived on Villanova's Campus during the summer session when the "Two Little Nuns" and the great variety of their little sisters take over the University and the Campus.

The Traffic problem reaches its height when "The whistle blows," and the last morning class pours its students out upon the Campus at 12:20. At this time those who "board" and even some of those who don't head for Dougherty Hall, the beautiful new building which houses the various cuisines. This in itself is quite harmless. The trouble arises when their "day-hop" sisters follow them in their various vehicles from station wagons to Volkswagens on to meet the "conventman"—that rare specimen with rubber neck and rubber heels driving the big yellow bus to collect whole communities of sisters, each small group boarding (and blocking) at the different intersections.

Crisis

The crisis came on the twenty-fourth of July, when all the above-mentioned vehicles and nuns came head-on.

Three yellow buses lined up at "Times-Square"—in front of Dougherty Hall, two station wagons full of nuns met them. Behind each group, car began to pile up. After ten minutes, someone realized that no one was doing anything. Everyone was waiting for someone else to take the initiative. Indeed someone did take the initiative. One group of nuns was seen driving over the lawn in front of Austin to get out. One of the boys watching the phenonmenon was heard to say, "The nuns get away with murder around here!"

(Continued on Page 8)

The Inquiring Reporter

By Sr. Mary Adalbert, C.S.S.F.

WHAT IS YOUR OPINION OF THE VILLANOVAN

BROTHER DAVID DAMIAN, F.S.C.: The printing of a summer edition of the Villanovan is a very worthwhile achievement. It affords the part-time student a chance to become acquainted with the many facets of life on the campus, an opportunity which his scant hours might not allow. The happy combination of humor, history, and news make its reading a pleasure.

SISTER MARY INEZ, C.S.F.N.: The joyous smiles and the favorable comments with which the summer edition of the Villanovan was received attests its universal appeal. When is came, it conquered the hearts and thoughts of the Sisters on the campus.

SISTER M. HERMANETTE, S.C.C.: Judging from the intense absorption evinced by all its readers here, there, and everywhere, the Villanovan has what it takes to make a campus publication both interesting and appealing.

REV. O'DAY, T.O.R.: I especially liked the pertinent human interest articles, which were there. I speak pointedly on this type having read sidelights, a cleverly-written article, a type of article which I would call human interest. The article was 'real cool'—using a very polite slang expression.

It would indeed be wonderful if some system could be devised —no matter how mad this may sound—of printing future happenings today, instead of what is usually read: yesterday's or today's news, today.

Since an article was devoted to types of Sisterhoods on the campus, and otherwise, what about the variety of clerical characters?.

SISTER MARY LAURA, R.S.M.: The enthusiasm with which it was received speaks for itself. The cartoons were a good mid-semester "pick-up" and the many "who's who" features were interesting, for we all like to know more about that little nun who sits in that 8:15 class. We like the realism in the Villanovan which all the fiction in the Lynx could never provide. Congratulations to the pioneer staff!

HENRIETTA CAMPITELL: A gay, delightful informative school paper. The good Sisters must be given much credit and many thanks for taking time from their already too heavy schedule in order to provide us with such a pleasant experience.

SISTER JOHANNA, S.S.N.D.: A bright touch of humor, a warm, cheerful spirit, the Villanovan touches each community making us all one not only in the Sisterhood, but one in our love and appreciation for all that Villanova means to us.

MR. GENE RAUNE, DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC RELATIONS: The Villanovan was excellent. It was a refreshing issue with a different touch.

SR. MARY TARICILLIA, C.S.S.F.: Villanovan . . . a real compendium of campus information. It is a delightful avenue

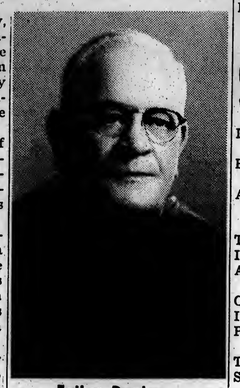
"No more jazz for breakfast, young man!"

Appointment Is Announced:

Father Hurley Replaces Father Dundon as Prior Of Villanova Monastery

The Rev. James Hurley, O.S.A., is now Prior of the Villanova Monastery. He succeeds the Rev. Patrick Dundon, O.S.A., in an appointment announced by the Very Rev. Henry E. Greenlee, O.S.A., Provincial of the Eastern Province.

Father Hurley, a native of New York City, attended Villanova from 1923 until his ordination in 1926. He is former pastor and prior of St. Mary's Church, Lawrence, Mass.



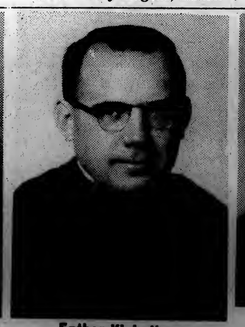
Father Hurley is a past president of St. Thomas of Villanova University of Havana, Cuba. He also served as Master of Novices at the Augustinian Novitiate in New Hamburg, N. Y., and was a former rector of Villanova Prepatory School, Ojai, Calif.

By appointment to the position of Prior of the Monastery, Father Hurley also becomes a member of the University's Board of Trustees.

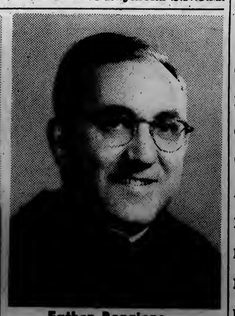
Father Dundon was born in South Bethlehem, Pa., in 1893. He first entered Villanova in 1919 and was ordained in 1923. He was first transferred to Sacred Heart Church, Lewisburg, Pa., and later served as prior of Sacred Heart.

Later Father Dundon filled the post of chaplain of Newman Club of Bucknell University.

Father Dundon's new post is that of assistant chaplain at the Pennsylvania State Penitentiary.



Father Dundon



Prof. L. N. Rechtenwald of the Psychology Department demonstrated the administration, scoring, and interpretation, of the Kwalwasser-Dykema Music Aptitude Test in the Mendel auditorium on Monday, July 23.

Father McKee
Assistant to the President

Father Kiekotka
Chaplain

Father Rongione
Dean of Graduate and Part-Time Divisions

Summertime Reflections:

The Poet's Corner

Evening

Evening is like autumn,
A time of slow, thought steady pace;
Evening is so solemn,
When twilight comes to every place.

What are your thoughts at eventide
As deepening shadows fall,
As trees yield their colors bright,
To the Lord God of all?

Do you waste so precious a time of grace?
Do you crowd those minutes with useless things?
Or do you pause as we need must do,
And thank our God for what he brings?

Where can you see Him at eventide?
As the deepening shadows fall?
In the golden glow of a setting sun,
In the lilt of a robin's call.

Where can His love smile down on us
As a family prays to its God?
In the light of an innocent baby's eyes
Though wearily we've trod.

In innocence, in purity,
We find Him at eventide,
In kindly thoughts of those He loves,
In the conquering of pride.

Evening is like autumn
As on through life we go;
Evening is so solemn,
When we feel He loves us so!

Sister Mary Joan, O.P.

Clay Feet

When first you spoke of Beauty
I felt its silent touch . . .
But you talked on and on
And said . . . too much.

That very night
I blew out your vigil light
And I took the statue I had molded
Of you and I rolled
It off the roof . . .
Poof!

The Church is wise
She waits to canonize.

Sister Mary Eugene, R.S.M.

The Nun at Evening

The Object of my love has satisfied
All childish yearning and mature desire;
The One Who stirred my being in early courtship,
Still must possess me—burnt-out fire.
The love that was a fragile bud when first it bloomed
Has blossomed into passion flower bright;
And ardor that He kindled in life's dawning
Still warms my heart when it is night.

To the Modern Skeptic . . . On His Blindness
How swiftly we who know the truth can hurry on;
Down well-marked ways we hasten to the feet of God.
Others grown old in all the world can teach
Stumble through pathless wastes and futilely plod;
Plucking wisdom's kernels from a withered tree,
Yet Still obscured by brambles, their God they cannot see.

Lines Written on the Dedication of a Chapel
Majestic mansion man-wrought upon a hill,
A stately edifice . . . a gilded shell till—
By words of consecration and priestly power,
Through sacerdotal finger in this holy hour;
The God-Man appears—Body and Blood to atone,
And to make of this lofty temple His earthly home.

Renunciation
The human touch is not so much . . .
Unless it's been denied
By absence long, or promise deep
Or when love in hate has died.
The touch of fingers, a hand on sleeve
Show what a love could be;
But one warm glance from Face Divine
Is love enough for me.

Sister M. Laura, R.S.M.

In Memoriam

For Father Dougherty

Medalion—like against the sky,
the Sign cries out
for all to hear:
no man
who builds his house
with everlasting stones, shall die.

Sr. Charles Raymond S.N.J.M.

Your Broken Heart

Just like a little child so busy playing,
I did not see Your Heart was near at hand,
And carelessly I bumped until I broke it;
My game of life did not then seem so grand.

If I had only been a little faster,
I might have caught Your Heart before It broke,
But selfishly I failed to sense the danger;
Your heart was lying, torn, e're I awoke.

I cannot say how sad I was when I discovered,
The Fragments lying there upon the ground,
I tried to tell You how I felt, but my lips quivered,
And my weak voice could utter not a sound.

As hours passed and I stood blindly gazing,
Upon Your Heart, there, clinging to the sod,
Although I could not weep or voice my sorrow,
My soul kept crying out, "I'm sorry, God."

Sister M. Judith, O.S.B.M.

Time

How silently the trees mark time outside.
And season falls on season noiselessly.
Who heard when Autumn came or Winter died?
Oh Nature grows not old; 'tis only we.
The wrinkles come, caress my face and lie
To mock the minutes chasing minutes fast.
Her clear or clouded countenance shan't dry
As days and months and years slip into past.
Sometimes I near forget my faith, dear God,
And fear that sleep upon my mother earth.
But I must walk the path all men have trod
And trust to thee to give this clay rebirth.
These trees, this grass outlives me for a space,
But when they've gone, I shall live on by grace.

Sister Jane Kevin, O.P.

Morning Prayers

Thank you, dear Lord, for good night's rest!
Grant in thy love that this day be blest.
I give you my heart, my love, my life;
Give me Thy grace that I fail not in strife.
The world, the flesh, and Arch-enemy, three
Alert and cunning, lie waiting for me.
But Thou art my God, I need not fear;
From morn 'til night Thou art ever near.
May the hours of this day all blessed be
For all God's children as well as for me!

Sister Mary Colette, O.S.F.

(Continued on Page 8)

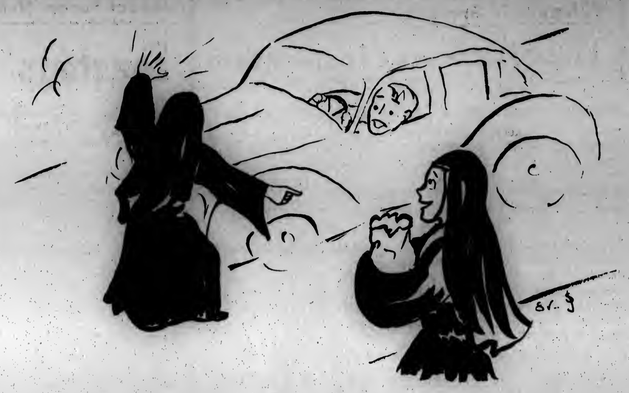
Strictly Opinion

By Sr. Mary Eugene, R.S.M.

But I Don't Wanna Go Home

Even if you were to give a Mid-Winter Whirl you could never had the same crowd that attended the Mid-Summer Sisters' Soiree. Face reality: there can never be a night to equal that one—outside of Villanova. Now honestly, do you know anyone else who would dare to go to a party of three hundred Sisters and when they crooned out some old sweet tunes (for diplomatic reasons, "old" will not be defined), call out "Say that's my time;" and boom right in—anyone else except an Augustinian Provincial and Prior? And how can you ever be satisfied again with Ed Sullivan's forced smile and synthetic humor after listening to Father Burns' Variety Hour?

Gone Are the Days



Besides all that, at home there is no opportunity to sing "Air-cooled meals, Song-filled meals, Oh! what you do for me!" (Suggestion: You may be able to, Sister if Reverend Mother has not yet completed the changes. Just drop her a line telling her to put your name down only for a convent that can support you in the manner to which you have been accustomed—this summer. Of course you have to be firm with Reverend Mother, Sister—But if she is like most Reverend Mothers she'll see things your way.) True, in the convent you may run with a broom—but you can't waltz with it! Even renovated habits do not include a balloon at the ankle—and in most convents they simply do not give prizes for breaking things.

And where also but in Belle Aire do eyes glisten and voices sparkle "Great idea! Fine—see you at two!" when you say, "How about getting together this afternoon for a few orthogonal trajectories?" In the community room the unknowing become suspicious and inform the Kremlin and the knowing smile indulgently, "We'd like to help you out, Sister—which way did you come in?"

League of Nations

You are not only made to feel at home here, you are incorporated. Within three weeks a Halifax Sister of Charity and a Sister of St. Casimir begins calling a R.S.M. our Sister Cunegunde—why you have a voting membership in the International Community of the Villanova Province.

And you realize, don't you, that the seminarians are secret Public Relations men. Tell one of them you've been teaching chemistry for ten years and he chirps out the melody of an embryoprior: "Why, Sister, you must have started when you were fourteen!" Now how can you equal these Augustinians or Villanova? All you can do is pray that everything and everyone will still be here next summer—and you too!

"Mister, would you ride sister back to Sullivan, the ice cream's melting?"

Around the Summertime Campus:

Father Dunne's Companion Noted; VU's 'Perfect Atmosphere' Praised

Iwahog II

One evening in October, 1945, six-week-old Iwahog II, (SNUFFY) found Father Dunne. This is the way it happened: the owner of the barracks, to which Father was assigned, invited him and a friend to dinner. There followed the customary Japanese after-dinner gift giving, which today would be a pleasure. With the preliminary bows and presentation over, SNUFFY, a breed of dog special to the Iwahog area, became the property of her present master.

Soon after October, 1945, it was time for Chaplains to return to the U.S. Was there a problem!! Father says, "I had to fight the whole Eighth Army to get out of Yokahama and Okinawa with her but we reached Seattle where Iwahog II was accorded all the papers and immunities "necessary and proper" to any American citizen . . . Thence to Villanova."

The friendship which began more than eleven years ago,—religious as well as lay. Although the "snuffines of SNUFFY" reaches out to all departments, she is a HISTORY MAJOR and still a One-Man-Dog.

Sister Marie Dominica, O.P.

A Typical Day

It used to be that schooling was strictly on a September to June basis, with time off in the summer for good behavior. At Villanova, the "Imparting of knowledge" continues throughout the summer, but with one vast difference. For nine months of the year, Villanova is predominately a Men's College; for six weeks every summer the campus takes on a new look, and is "home" to hundreds of Sisters from various Communities in and out of the U.S. These Sisters, who are mostly teachers or nurses themselves, exchange their classroom and hospital wards to be on the "other side of the desk." In this way, they learn the most highly developed methods and means of best fulfilling their positions.

A typical day at Villanova provides the Sisters with a perfect atmosphere of prayer, study and recreation.

Nuns pratice Cum Jubila, under direction of Law School Dean Harold Gill Reauschlein, in preparation for Saturday's Solemn High Mass prior to commencement exercises.

Members of the University's summer school nursing division graduates discuss Saturday's commencement exercises in the Field House.

A Bit of Background:

History of Nursing Division

By Sr. Mary Alma, C.R.S.M. Dean, Division of Nursing

The Division of Nursing of Villanova University was established in June of 1951 when two nurse administrators were appointed to the faculty.

Immediate revision of the nursing program took place and courses were established on a part-time basis on the Villanova Campus. Classes were scheduled from 4:30 to 9:00 P.M. This was quite a departure from the old-time regime when students attended Hallahan Evening Sessions from 7:00 to 9:00 P.M.

In Feburary, 1952 the first full-time female student registered. Mrs. Majorie Morris Buckley resigned her position as operating nurse in order to continue her education. She was followed in September by seven students. February, 1956 saw thirty-five students registered in the full-time school.

Change in Official Title

It is interesting to note that with the organization of the curriculum in nursing in 1951, the title of the degree was changed from Bachelor of Science in Nursing Education to Bachelor of Science in Nursing. Previous to that time, a blanket credit of 45 semester hours was granted the nurse for work in the basic diploma school of nursing. In 1951 a regulation was put into effect requiring all registered nurses to write the Graduate Nurse Qualifying Examination in order to substantiate the credit for the basic diploma school. This examination is similar to the State Boards and is given from New York, National League for Nursing.

At the present time work is on its way toward national accreditation. The visitors will be with us during the week of January 7, 1957.

Villanova is Grateful:

The Sisters and Inspiration

By an Augustinian Professed

Besides promptly paid bills, the University of Villanova is grateful for something which hundreds of Sisters have contributed unknowingly. This something has never been measured and can never be evaluated. Yet without a doubt many of our students have, and will benefit because of its existence. To us, a wonderful and objective reality is the INSPIRATION which the presence of so many Sisters at Summer school affords.

Pay Tribute

The Reverend Fathers, Clerics, Brothers and Laity alike have reason to pay tribute to our classmates, the Sisters. Though habits, Rules, and customs are diversified, in their company we observe a unified search for knowledge. True enough, we are working side by side with them. Nevertheless their quiet, steady pursuit of knowldege should prompt us to pause and reflect upon their due merit.

Interest Necessary

In the sight of our loving Creator each Sister must render an account, be she subject or superior. So too, in classes Reverend Mother Principal, Sister Mary of the first grade and Sister Marie of the sophomore year become equals. Each must present outside assignments and earn her mark. The chief recipients of their efforts are our Catholic children. But how many of US have appreciated their value and willingness to participate in group work? Indeed, to work on class projects in their company makes us aware of their keen, sincere interest in study. Over the years, professors have been elated to find true scholarship in their class assignments.

More and More

Through the blessings of God, the University of Villanova has been able to welcome each year, an increasing number of Sisters to our summer School Division. No, all Sisters do not reside on its spacious, tree studded campus. Yet we believe the spirit prompting their endeavors extends from the nooks of Hallahan to the crannies of Trenton.

We of Villanova are proud of our Sisters who daily join our classes. On behalf of today's youth in Catholic Schools, their efforts are most commendable. To us older folks, their efforts are an inspiration. To God, their efforts are sanctifying.

(An Augustinian Professed)

Law School Construction Well Under Way

Annual Forum Held on Campus Recently:

Teachers' Institute A Step Toward Improved School-Public Relations

Mr. Franklyn P. Waltman, Public Relations Director of the Sun Oil Co., is shown chatting with two Sisters prior to the first session of the Institute on Public Relations. Looking on is Brother David Cassian of LaSalle College, who directed the Institute, entitled "the School and Public Relations." Sister Nicholas Marie of Glouscester, New Jersey, and Sister Nathanael, were among 100 of the Sisters who attended the two-day forum, July 17-18, in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium.

By SR. NATHANIEL, R.S.M. and SR. NICHOLAS MARIE, O.P.

"The School and Public Relations" was the subject of the third annual teachers' Institute at Villanova Unversity on June 17-18.

The Institute was held in connection with the University's Summer School Program which is attended by Nuns, Priests, Brothers, and Lay Persons, many of whom teach in the nation's parochial school system. The Institute sessions were under the direction of Rev. Joseph I. Boyle, O.S.A., Dean of the Summer School, and began at 2:00 P.M. in the auditorium of the Commerce and Finance Building.

Experts Speak

Speakers for Tuesday's session were Mr. Franklyn Waltman, Public Relations Director of the Sun Oil Company. His topic was "The Concern of Industry for Good Public Relations." Following Mr. Waltman was Mr. Reginald Beauchamp, Special Events Director of the Evening and Sunday Bulletin, who spoke on "An Outsider's Impressions of School's approach to Good Public Relations." The third speaker was Mr. John Kelly, of Kelly Associates, a Philadelphia Public Relations Firm. The Panel's Moderator was Brother David Cassian, F.S.C., Dean of La Salle College.

The speakers brought out the fact that Public Relations are the sum total of our impressions on others and the essential factor in the success of every enterprise.

Public Speaks

In the Wednesday panel, the public spoke through John R. Cassidy, a Villanova student; Mrs. John I. McErnerney of Bala-Cynwyd, Pa., parent's viewpoint on the school; Mr. J. O. Crawford, Assistant Vice President for Public Relations, the Bell Telephone Company, viewed the subject as a business man; John Jones who saw the school as a law enforcement officer; Reverend John J. Murphy, of Transfiguration Parish, Phila., spoke on the clergyman's attitude and Mr. Charles Drull, of Cynwood, Pa., reflected upon his school impressions as an alumnus.

Teaching Carry-over

Father Boyle added that the effects of Catholic teaching should carry over into all phases of daily life and extend through vacation time. Catholic students should be made ever more conscious that they mirror everywhere their home and school training.

Ultimately, genuine sincerity in all our relations with the public will promote the acceptance of the nobling ideals entrusted to us.

Speaking of Villanova:

What Is Your Opinion?

By SR. MARY PHILIP, O.P.

The ability to converse with one another is God's way of letting each of us share his thoughts with another. Permit me now to share with you the thoughts of several students attending Villanova this summer.

"I always get a thrill as I ride along Lancaster Turnpike and spy in the distance the twin spires of Saint Thomas' Chapel."

"When I arrived at Villanova for the first time many happy memories of my childhood days returned to me because I was about to renew my associations with the Augustinian priests once again."

"Although it is difficult to get here, once I find it most refreshing because of the added spiritual blessings, extra Masses, weekly conference, and daily Benediction, and the humble, simple attitude of the Augustinian Fathers."

"The friendly smiles and gracious attitude of the Sisters make me feel right at home."

"The peace and quiet along with the scholarly atmosphere that permeates the Campus is most conductive to study."

"Research work in the Library is not quite as arduous now because we can keep cool as we search out our necessary material."

"Freedom of discussion in the classroom is quite beneficial because through this we can better understand what is being taught. Furthermore, as a result of these discussions we learn how others cope with their everyday classroom problems."

"The various recreational activities given for our enjoyment bring relaxation to both body and mind."

"A very enticing spot is the Snack Bar, for there we can stop for a bit of refreshment in mid-afternoon or early evening."

"Keeping up on national affairs can be done by watching the news on the television which can be found at the Snack Bar."

"The Cafeteria's window display reminds me of a modern Howard Johnson's."

"After studying elsewhere for several years I deeply appreciate the friendly atmosphere, untiring labor and encouragement given to all by the various members of the faculty."

"On August 3, many will be saying I wish I were smart instead of good looking."

Villanova is a wonderful institution for furthering Catholic education."

These are the various opinions of just a few but no doubt they are yours too. Opinions if strong enough can either destroy or build up an institution. Each year many go forth from this University into the world about us. Let us hope and pray that the opinions held by others concerning these graduates will be instrumental in bettering the world about us.

Sister Mary Philip, O.P.

Perhaps Credits in Summer of 1957?

Music Workshop Enthusiasm Possibly Heralds Liturgical Music Courses

Law School Dean Directs Religious

By Sr. Mary Eleanor Christine

O sing unto the Lord a new song;
Sing unto the Lord, all the earth.
Sing unto the Lord and bless His name,
Tell forth His Salvation from day to day.
Psalm XCV

This summer the Sisters of the Music Workshop, directed by Dr. Reuschlein, dean of the Law School, executed the command of the psalmist as they prepared their missa cantatas. In singing the Masses, they were fulfilling the desire of Mother Church who has always realized the value of wedding proper music to public acts of worship. In the early Church the faithful participated actively in the sacred functions. Singing was a vital part of the liturgy. Through the centuries various cultures, especially the Greek, Roman, Hebrew, Byzantine and Syrian, influenced Church music. In the fifth century the chant arose and reached its zenith in the twelfth century. From the sixteenth to the nineteenth century it declined to an undeserved nadir. One of the last tragedies of the misnamed Reformation was the abolition of Gregorian Chant.

Restoration of Chant

In the mid-nineteenth century, the Benedictine monks at the Abbey of Solesmes in France inaugrated the restoration of the chant. Before long, the United States caught the spark. In 1886, the Second Council at Baltimore stated:

"I'm sorry, Sister, we have only 2 credits in penmanship on your records." "But I've been coming here for 10 years!"

"We consider it very desirable that the elements of Gregorian Chant be taught and exercised in parochial schools."

In November, 1903, Pope Pius X wrote the "Motu Proprio" on Sacred Music. The term "Motu Proprio" is significant since it stresses the fact that our Holy Father wrote the encyclical entirely on his own initiative, that is, without the suggestions or advice of his cardinals. He was distressed at the decadence of church music. To remedy this, he promulgated fundamental principles of Sacred Music in this encyclical. He reminded the faithful that the purpose of music is "to clothe with suitable melody the liturgical text."

The characteristics of sacred music are:

sanctity—freedom from profanity;
goodness of form—which makes it true art;
universality—or suitable to all nations.

Gregorian Chant possesses these qualities in the highest degree. Because of its musical proximity to Gregorian Chant, classic polyphony has a place in the church functions. Our Holy Father advised great care in choosing modern music for the church. It should never bear the slightest resemblance to the popular music of the theatres. Music should always be secondary to the liturgy in the ecclesastical functions. The organ is the only instrument permitted to be played in the church. Other instruments need special permission for their playing.

Most Emphatic

Pius X was most emphatic in his desire to have these principles put into practice. He wrote: "We will with the fullness of Our Apostolic Authority that the

(Continued on Page 8)

Fascination in the Bio Lab:

A Visit to Mendel

By SR. M. ALICE IGNATIA, O.S.F.

One of the most active sections of the campus during Summer School is Third Floor Mendel. A visitor to these quarters will probably wonder at the eagerness and the seriousness of students bending over microscopes or dissecting pans, or working amidst variously shaped bottles containing all sorts of colors. He may also wonder at an occasional burst of enthusiasm over something which he really cannot see. But this wonder will not last very long. He will soon realize that these students are intent on studying LIFE—for this scene of such vital activity is the Biology department.

Spirit Prevails

One does not have to be part of this very long before he has caught imperceptibly at first, then with increasingly more realization, the Spirit which prevails here. Spirit in all its many applications is usually difficult to define, and here in this instance that is very, very true. We might, however, be able to answer, Whence this spirit? It did not come—it never does—in a day, or in a year. It was not days or years that brought it, but those noble personalities who for many days and many years have given unselfishly of their talents, of their energies, of themselves.

Mention of the names of these personalities will help to crystallize in the minds of some of us just what this spirit is—Father Dougherty and Father Ludwig, of happy memory; Father Donnellon, our President; Father Kropp, now teaching in the department; and Dr. McClain, present department Head.

Teachers to Remember

Of Father Dougherty and Father Ludwig—their devotedness to their students and their work; their zealous desire to make God better known and loved through knowledge of His Handiwork; and most of all their priestliness—this is what most people remember.

Father Donnellon, whose manifold duties as president are causing him very reluctantly to relinquish his direct connection with the department, was associated with them, contributing to and sharing their spirit. By his students, past and present, Father Kropp is considered to be one of the finest teachers of their college career. Not only his clarity of presentation will long be remembered, but also his willingness to assist his sutdents in their many and varied needs.

Now as head of the department, faithfully carrying on the traditions of his predecessors, Dr. McClain is earnestly endeavoring to hold high its ideals and standards. Understanding, intense interest, dynamic energy and dedication epitomize his personality.

We who have been so fortunate as to be receipients of this selfless giving are most grateful. We hope to be able always to keep with us this indefinable spirit—their spirit.

Sister M. Alice Ignatia, O.S.F.

Nuns attending summer school inspect the first summer issue of the VILLANOVAN ever published, distributed several weeks ago.

A Pair of Villanovans:

Daughter Follows Dad To Campus - 64 Years Later

By SR. M. MADELON, R.S.M.

Here at V.U., "Like Father-Like Son" is not unusual. But daughter following in father's footsteps to said campus is unique in that sixty-two years have elapsed since Mr. James McCrea, of Chestnut Hill and his daughter, Sister M. Madelon, R.S.M. of the Plainfield Sisters of Mercy have enrolled at Villanova.

In a recent visit, the seventy-eight year old former student reveled in recounting with boyish enthusiasm the "good-old-days." Age tends to romanticize the past, but his keen memory for detail as to names and incidents would warrant a more than average rating in historical research.

Swimming-hole Gone

"How the old place has changed! They even moved the cemetery!. The old swimming hole is gone! I remember when we had a holiday because our enrollment had reached 80. Many a night we were off study because air got into the gas line and we had no light."

Dad's loyal feeling for his dear old Alma Mater glows ever brighter at each retelling of these and many more fond memories of his school days. Now that they are mine to enjoy, I can appreciate more fully my father's deep regard, reverence and gratitude toward the good Augustinian Fathers for their outstanding work in the field of Catholic Education. May God bless them always!

Issue Contributors

Former VILLANOVAN editor Harry Nash handled lay-out of this issue and assisted contributors in preparation of copy.

In charge of photography for this issue was VILLANOVAN Photography Editor David L. Delve. Assisting in proofreading was VILLANOVAN ex-Editor Edwin Daly, '55.

Summer Sidelights:

Here and There On Campus

Villanova University has everything!—even early morning excercises provided by the friendly dishwashers. Be sure to watch tomorrow morning and you'll see the Sisters doing push-ups as they push-in their trays, bend, and answer his cheery "G'mornin, 'Ster!

And that ramp . . . the things the quiet observer observes there! Overheard today on the light-lunch-line, "I had to read in Chaucer class this morning and I sounded like a First Grader struggling through a Third Grade Reader. Woe is me!"

The cloak room proves interesting on rainy days as one wends one's weary way through a forest primeval of forbidding black umbrellas in search of an oversized raincape. (Dey come mit hoods und mitout hoods). The "whiter" become blacker and the "blacker" become grays." Captain Murphy must wonder if what comes out of that cloak room is really what went in? ! ? Such a transformation.

Rainy days, too, are often "bargain days" . . . Sometimes one comes out of the melee a bit richer—with a "whole umbrella" in place of the broken one she left only minutes before.

Speaking of rainy days—a commuter was almost late for class Wednesday morning. His excuse, "I got lost; I couldn't find my way in the sunshine."

Did you hear about the boy in the summer session who wrote home for a little extra cash? One of his professors added: P.S. "Don't send it; he spends money like its going out of style."

Missionary to Japan Speaks on Keeping Faith

By Fr. Thomas P. Purcell, O.S.A.

We have often heard the little phrase that was used so much in Ireland when a foreign power was trying to take away something thait the Isle of Sants and Scholars valued greater than anything on earth . . . a phrase that is probably being used much in persecuted Poland today: "Keep the Faith!" However, I think there is probably no place on the face of this earth where the Faith was kept more nobly in the whole glorious history of the Church than in Nagasaki, Japan.

Great Apostle

St. Francis Xavier was the great Apostle who brought the Faith to Nippon. The grace of God was with St. Francis, for by 1600—the whole of Nagasaki City—and many other cities in Southern Japan were turning to Our Lord. But, as is the case in every country, the sowing of the seed of Faith saw persecution, too, for by 1638 in Nagasaki City alone there had been already 10,000 martryrs, including about 15 of our own Augustinians and hundreds of their faithful—many of whom had affiliated themselves to the Augustinians through the Third Order. By 1638, every Church was destroyed, every priest either martyred or exiled, every sign of Christianity erased—and to make the job more complete they put a wall around Japan that was not broken until 1854.

Feudal Age Ends

In 1854 Admiral Perry steamed into Yokohama harbor and demanded that the Japanese open their ports to the West. The feudal age of Japan was about to end, Yokohama and Nagasaki ports were opened, and Japan joined once again the family of Nations.

Into Nagasaki came the French, and with the French a priest-Father John Petijean of the Paris Foreign Missions. Soon a church was built—the famous Oura Tenshudo, overlooking the port city—then Father Petitjean set out to search for remnents of the ancient Faith in Nagasaki and its environs. He searched and searched but he found nothing, and he presumed the Church died completly 225 years before his arrival.

Most Unusual

Then it happened: on St. Patrick's Day, 1865 Father Petitjean saw 15 Japanese standing in front of his Church—and this was unusual. He went out to them, but they were very reluctant to speak—finally he broke them down and they asked him the famous question, "Do you know Mariasama"—do you know Our Blessed Lady, as Mary our Mother came to the rescue of her children again. When Father Petijean heard the question he almost fainted on the spot, and he joyfully hurried his welcome guests inside the Church to the altar of Our Lady, where they stared then prayed with great joy. The Father was asked f he was married—and of course, he explained to them about the celibacy of the Catholic priesthood. This was what these poor Japanese were waiting for for 225 years—a priest—and they told Father how there were thousands of like heart in and about Nagasaki. These famous 15 returned home then soon another group came—this time they wanted to know if he had a Father in Rome—and of course, Fr. Petitjean told them all about the then reigning Pope Pius IX. This was it. They were satisfied now that broken chain was linked.

Legal Problem

The Christians were found, about 30,000 of them, on the outskirts of the city, but no one knew what to do for the laws of persefution were still in the books. Father Petitjean could not go near the Japanese, or it would mean immediate trouble.

Finally he planned to meet them on the outskirts of the city in the mountains early in the morning, and about 5000 assembled. What a glorious morning—the first time they ever saw a priest, the first time they were to hear Christ's Ambassador. Soon after they assembled, however, the police came—and they were all caught. They should have been put to death, but due to the foreign powers' intervention they were exiled instead—so they had to leave everything behind and go to other places.

Laws Revoked

Finally, in 1874 the laws of persecution were revoked, and the Nagasaki Christians were allowed to return home, poor and despised by the bigoted Nagasaki pagans. Nevertheless, at the turn of the century, with the aid of the French Foreign Mission Priests, they built a monument to the Faith that they had kept—the big Urakami Catholic Church, the largest in the Orient (it held 6000).

The War with Russia passed, then World Mar I passed. Then came World War II, and as 1945 began they began to have suspicions that the much broadcasted "big victories" of the Japanese Navy were lies, and soon the planes of USA began to appear in the skies. All knew that it would not be long

A Grand Social Success:

'Futurama of 1970' Holds Midsummer Medley

By SR. MARY HELENE ST. PAUL, O.S.F.

"Futurama of 1970" opened the second annual Midsummer Medley Program in Dougherty Hall on July 20th at 7:30 p.m. Reverend Joseph Greenlee, Provincial, Reverend James Hurley, Prior, and Reverend Dante Girolami were guests of honor. Without doubt the party was a grand social success. The Bernadine Sisters and a Franciscan Sister of St. Joseph cavorted in clever disguise causing peals of laughter at "Futurama". Sister James Miriam and Sister James Alberta, S.U.S.C., played trumpet and clarinet duets. Parodies were done to "Whiffenpoof Song" and "Galway Bay" by the Dominican Sisters.

Next followed the Blessed Sacrament Sisters whose singing of spirituals reminded all of their especial dedication. Strains of "Mighty Like a Rose" floated through the cafeteria as Sister M. Colette, O.S.F., rendered her solo.

Much Harmony

Chuckles of delight changed to murmurs of appreciation as the Sisters of St. Joseph swung from the snappy "Hot Diggety Dog" parody to one on "Because You're You". Sisters Maurice, O.S.F., and Thomas Aquinas, S.B.S., sounded a different note with their harmonica playing.

"Ma Chatka Rodzinna" and "How Quickly Flies Every Moment," sung by a group of Felicians, Franciscans, Trinitarians, and Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth, reminded the audience that Villanova is a "native home" (in the summer at least) and the moments do fly very quickly.

Sister M. Edward, O.S.F., sang "Eileen O'Grady" and Sister John Dolores, S.U.S.C., told everyone to "Look for the Silver Lining". Closing the program, the Glen Riddle Franciscans portrayed the "Wedding of Jack and Jill" and sang the "Orchestra Song" and "Trees". Piano accompaniments were played by Sisters Laura, C.S.S.F., M. Mildred Francis, O.S.F., and M. Margarella, O.S.F.

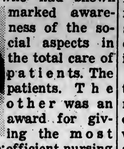
Good Fun

A spirit of fun and good-fellowship was evidenced in the hearty singing of some of the old favorites by the entire assembly between acts. Novelty dances brought gales of laughter and sighs of delight accompanied the presentation of prizes. All in all, it was a never-to-be-forgotten event.—And not to be forgotten are those who sponsored, planned and carried out the preliminary hard work.

To Father Burns: a great big God bless you for your leadership and interest which have helped to inculcate the real Villanova spirit in the Sisters.

For Cooperation

To Father Curran: Thank you for your ready cooperation. To general chairman, Sister M. Eleanor Christine, O.S.F., and committee chairman, Sister M. Arthur, O.P., and Sister M. Victor, O.S.F.: Thank you for the time, thought and energy which went into the organization and execution of the many details which inevitably accompany such a project.



To the committee members, and Mrs. Paul, Mr. Spescha, Mr. Benninger, the cafeteria and maintenance forces: Please accept our grateful thanks for all you did to make the party such a tremendous success.

Miss Cirillo To Receive Nursing Degree Saturday:

Young Villanovan Leads Double Life

By Sr. Mary Louis, O.S.F.

Outstanding among our nurses is Beatrice Cirillo. Entering nurse's training in the fall of 1948, Mrs. Cirillo graduated Mount Sinai Hospital School of Nursing in September of 1951. Upon graduation, Mrs. Cirillo, then Beatrice Dorazio, was presented with two prizes:—one given to the member of the graduating class who had shown marked awareness of the social aspects in the total care of patients. The other was an award for giving the most efficient nursing service in the operating room. After graduation came her appointment as head nurse and supervisor which position she held for four years.

Mr. and Mrs. Cirillo

Wedding Bells at V..U.

Came September 1952 and with it came wedding bells at Villanova. Here then she was married by Father Robert Sullivan to Vincent Cirillo of Merion. It is interesting to note that this young husband, now a lawyer, financed his way through Villanova and Temple Law School by snipping hair and holding his own in expressing and exchanging opinions with customers.

Mrs. Cirillo started working toward her degree here at Villanova in June of 1953. We Sisters can understand and sympathize with the program of part-time and summer school session.

Husband An Alumnus

When asked why she chose Villanova, Mrs. Cirillo stated quite simply that her selection was due to the fact that her husband was an alumnus; she was married in the Chapel here; and there is a personal and close feeling conected with going to Villanova. After one summer on Campus all the Sisters will readily agree with you and we are proud of the fact that you too, feel that Villanova is one of the finest schools and, moreover, one of the best places to receive a well-rounded Catholic education.

Now—An Alumna

Congratulations on your graduation and may you have continued success in your clinical supervision at the new Lankenau Hospital where I am sure your former teachers will be able to point with just pride to a product of Villanova and Catholic Education.

in the Summer of 1945. Then came word of the A-bomb that dropped on Hiroshima on August 6, and they shuddered at the tremendous power of this new type bomb that destroyed a city, and a dozen of their fellow townsmen who had been in Hiroshima when that bomb dropped, quickly returned to Nagasaki with great fear.

Great Feast

The feast of the Assumption is a great feast in Nagasaki. Every true Catholic receives Holy Communion. And especially this year in Nagasaki, as the bombings became more frequent, there was more ferven than usual for the preparations. Since there were 12,000 in the parish, the two Japanese Fathers had to start hearing confessions a little early—a week before the feast. And so, on the morning of August 9, 1945, at 8 a.m. Father was in the box, as the faithful gathered for confession. 10 a.m. passed, and the lines went down a bit, then others arrived. At 11 a.m. there were still a goodly number waiting—but they never reached the confessional, for at 11:03 a.m. on August 9, 1945 the "Dies Irae" became a reality—light, wind, heat—as the 2nd atom bomb was dropped almost on top of the Church. All that remained of the Fathers in the box were the buttons from their cassocks. In an instant—8000 Catholics were sent before their God without knowing a thing that happened. Some ran mad down the street with their eyes melted over their faces screaming in the death agony. And then the fires stopped and all was quiet. Deep in the souls of those who remained was seared an unforgetable nightmare—but deeper in their souls was a Faith that 400 years of persecution and hate, of martyrdom and poverty—no a Faith that even an Atom bomb could not burn out. The war ended then.

Great Sacrifice

In the Fall of 1952 three of us left Villanova to re-establish the Augustinian Order in Nagasaki after an abscence of over 300 years. It was into this very atom-bombed Urakami section of the City that we went as our Bishop gave us part of the bombed-out parish that then numbered 7,000. Fifteen hundred of these became the spiritual children of the Augustinians, and the Order was re-established. A Church has been built for these poor and devout Christians, and the Fathers have a House for University Students who attend the State University of Nagasaki, then came a Child Center, and this past May we opened the first parochial school in Japan for the Catholic Children of the parish, a school that will accommodate 450 when completed.

Now, on a spot that was seared and reduced to ashes 10 years ago, happy children run and play on their way to Maria Gakuin—St. Mary's Academy, with the Japanese Sisters as their teachers. These children didn't know the A-bomb. Joy fills their hearts. And they have the faith because their parents', parents', parents' . . . suffered and even died so that they may "Keep the Faith".

READ THE VILLANOVAN

Graduation Ceremonies

(Continued from Page 1)

Dean of Graduate and Part-time Divisions. The Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A. will confer M.A., M.S., and B.A. degrees on students who will have completed graduate and undergraduate work.

RECIPIENTS OF THE M.A. DEGREE

The followingwill receive the Master of Arts Degree:

Mother Marie Madeleine Amy, S.H.C.J., Reverend John J. Burkhart, O.S.A., Sr. Maria Rose, I.H.M., Reverend John J. Clark, Rev. Michael F. Cunningham, O.S.A., Rev. Eugene Anthony Delconte, O.S.A., Valerio M. Duronio, Mother Therese Margaret, R.S., Sr. M. St. Edward, I.H.M., Virginia B. Fetter, Rev. Lavern James Flach, O.S.A., Sr. Mary Camilla Flanigan, C.R.S.M., Sr. Mary Bernadette Joseph, O.S.F., John Frederick Geary, Leo T. Gladnick, Mother Mary Berchmans, S.H.C.J., Sr. M. Agnes, C.S.F.N., Sr. Mary Carmelita, C.R.S.M. Philip T. Heese, Richard F. Herman, Sr. Mary Ambrose Hewitt, R.S.M., Sr. Florence Mare, O. P., Rev. Michael P. Hogan, O.S.A., Francis A. Hughes, Rose A. Iannotta, Sr. M. Ann Marguerite, S.S.J., Edward A. Konarski, Sr. Mary Marcellina, C.F.N., Mother Mary Loyola, S.H.C.J., Sr. Mary Brendan, C.R.S.M., Sr. Mary Leonide, C.S.B., Sr. Francis Elizabeth, S.N.D., Sr. Marie Denise, C.R.S.M., Sr. M. Gertrude Helene, S.S.J., Sr Mary Antonia, S.N.D., Sr. Mary Catharine, O.S.F., Ralph L. Perkins, Sr. Margaret of Cortona, S.C.H., Rev. Jerome D. Rawa, S.M., Josephine A. Roman, Sr. M. Daria. O.S.B.M., Sr. M. Grace Gerald Ryan. O.P., Ralph F. Sene, Ernest Carmen Trois, Rev. Francis J. Urbanowicz Sr. Mary Matilda, R.S.M., Sr. M. Benigna, O.S.B.M., Sr. Margaret Teresa, O.P., Sr. Mary Naomi, R.S.M.

MASTER OF SCIENCE IN LIBRARY SCIENCE

Sr. Mary Francella, C.S.S.F., Mother Thomas More, S.H.C.J., Rev. Regino Diez, O.S.A., Sr. M. Frances Bernadette, S.S.J., Sr. M. Genevieve, O.S.B., Mother Mary Thaddeus, S.H.C.J., Mother Mary Sessions, R.S.C.J.

BACHELOR OF ARTS DEGREE

Sr. Mary Hugh, C.R.S.M., Thomas Joseph Casey, Jr., Mother Charlotte Mary, R.A., Sr. M. Jane Kevin, O.P., Sr. M. Albertine, C.S.B., Sr. Mary Delaney, C.R.S.M., Sr. M. Ann Imelda, O.P., Mother Katherine Mary Dougherty, R.A., Bruce F. Fleck, O.S.A., Mother Marthe Emmanuel, R.A., Sr. Mary Amadeus, C.R.S.M., Sr. Catherine James, O.P., Sr. Anastasia Marie, C.R.S.M., Sr. Robert Marie, O.P., Sr. Mary Alma, O.P., Sr. Marie, C.R.S.M., Sr. Marie Lenahan, C.R.S.M., John Richard Maharek, O.S.A., Sr. Mary Theresenia, C.S.S.F., Sr. Mary Aquin, O.P., Harry Cowper Nash, III, Sr. M. Joan Francis, O.P., Sr. Mary Demetria, C.R.S.M., Peter Lawrence Scott, Mother Rose Agnes Serriades, R.A.

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE IN BIOLOGY

Sr. James Marie, S.B.S.

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE IN EDUCATION

Sr. M. Rose Albert, O.S.F., Mother John Bosco, S.H.C.J., Sr. M. Danielette, C.S.B., Sr. M Agnes Helene, S.S.J., Sr. M. Josella, C.S.B., Sr. Mary Lorraine, O.P., Sr. Joseph Elizabeth, S.S.J., Sr. Corda Marie, O.S.F., Sr Agnes Philip, S.S.J., Sr M. St. Kathleen, I. H. M., Sr. M. Paulita, C.S.B., Sr. Mariangela, S.S.N.D., Sr. Maria Domina, C.R.S.M., Sr. M. Ann Cecilia, S.S.J., S. Mary Antonino, S.S.N.D., Sr. M. Antonine, C.S.F.N., Sr. Miriam James, S.B.S., Sr. Mary Clara, O.S.S.T., Sr. M. Eulalia, O.S.F., Sr. M. Capistran, O.S.B., Sr. Mary Cecil Gabriel, O.S.F., Mother Mary Donald De Viller, S.H.C.J., Mother Mary Clare Donnelly, S.C.H.J., Sr. Mary of St Angela, R.S.G., Mother Mary Perpetua, S.H.C.J., Sr. Marie Consilii, S.S.J., Sr. M. Ellen O.S.F. Sr. Mary Sancta, S.S.J., Sr. Mary Peter, S.S.J., Sr. Michael Marie, O.P., Sr. Marie Hugh Feeley, S.S.J., Sr. M. Thomas Aquinas, S.B.S., Sr. M. Helen Frances, O.S.F., Sr. Mary Catherine, C.S.F.N., Sr. M. Melrose, C.S.B., Sr Mary Victor, O.S.F., Sr. M. Eleanor Christine, O.S.F., Sr. Mary Leonetta, C.S.F.N., Sr. Ann Miriam, C.R.S.M., Sr. Pauline Marie, O.S.F., Sr. Mary Theodore, O.S.F., Sr. Mary Melchior, C.S.B., Sr. Mary Madeleine, C.S.B., Sr. M. Wannita, C.S.B., Sr. Rose Mary, O.S.B., Sr. M. St. Reginald, S.S.J., Sr. M. Claire of the Passion, S.N.G.M., Sr. Carmelita Marie, O.S.F., Sr. Mary of the Angels, O.P., Sr. Marina Lynch, S.D.S., S. M. Felicia, S.B.S., S. Anne Miriam, S.B.S., Sr. M. Marcia, S.S.J., Sr. Mary James, C.R.S.M., Sr. M. Gertrude Helene, O.S.F., Sr. Marie Patrice, O.P., Sr. Mary Cyrus, O.S.F., Sr. M. Helen Walter, S.S.J., Sr. Miriam Joseph, O.P., Sr. Lawence Marie, O.P., Rita McNamara, Sr. M. Baptista, S.S.J., Sr. Mary Virgila, Sr. Mary Edwina, S.H.C.J., Sr. M. Henriella, C.S.B., Sr M. Alma Loretto, S.S.J., Sr. Marie Bride, O.S.F, Sr. Mary Marina, O.S.F., Sr. Mary Ruth, S.B.S., Sr. Mary Carmencita, C.S.B., Sr. M. Bonaventa, C.S.B., Sr. Maryalma, S.S.N.D., Sr. Mary Florian, O.S.F., Sr. Maria Vicenta, O.S.F., Sr. Mary Elise, Sr. Maur, O.P., Sr. M. Anne Perpetua, S.B.S., Sr. M. Laurian, C.S.F.N., Sr. Mary John Gabriel, S.D.S., Sr. M. Carmelita, S.S.J., Sr. M. Malachy, S.S.J., Sr. M. Suzanne, C.S.B., Sr. M. Angela, O.S.B.M., Sr. Mary David, O.P., Sr. M. Carmelita, O.S.B., Sr. M. Francis Georgia, O.S.F., Sr. M. Laurentine, C.S.B., Sr. Miriam Edward, S.S.H., Sr. M. Aldona, C.S.B., Sr. M. Amabilis C.S.B., Sr. Ann Dorothy, S.S.J., Sr. M. Marilyn, C.S.B., Sr. M. Fabine, C.S.B., Sr. M. Evelyn, C.S.F.N., Sr. Nicholas Marie, O.P., Sr. M. Dona Marie, C.S.B.

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE IN ECONOMICS

Warner Heitmann, Henry, Edwin Knoblock, Jr., James Thomas Maloney, Edward John Novasatka, Henry Joseph Papiernik, Thomas Edward Rehill, Michael Benjamin Russo, Henry Donovan Seaton, Jr.

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE IN NURSING

Loretta Anne Blumenstock, Sr. Mary Eucharia, O.S.F., Beatrice Marie Cirillo, Elizabeth R. Estrin, Justine Lorraine Gutzler, Eugenia Margaret Kappler, Anna Theresa Mary Lung, Elizabeth Anne McAleese, Sr. M. Gertrude Joseph Regan, O.S.F., Lois Hopkins Woodall.

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE IN NURSING EDUCATION

Michael Robert Buggy, Lawrence Joseph Lescisko, Margaret J. Starr.

Poet's Corner

(Continued from Page 3)

Summer Morning

Today's was a morning glorious
Thefeeling of wanting to live the fullest
The remaining bright hours
Dominated one's soul

Shafts of overpowering sunlight
Sifted through the greyish clouds of dust
Lifting slowly—slowly
From the sandy road.

The breeze stirred dainty aspen
And graceful boughs of verdant willows
Leaning over river bank
In graceful humility

Clouds, almost non-existent
Fled along the unmarked paths of blue
Were captured at length
By sunny rays.

The night cricket quiet
The daring katydid speaks of morning cool
Only to be followed
By stifling heat.

And this morning hours
Are bouyant, exhilarating, as new-born life
To grow weary of labor, well done
When morn is o'er

Sister M. Matthew, O.S.B.M.

Mary

There once was a lovely lady
Maid of noble birth
Who lived in humble poverty
When here, upon our earth.

Born of the Family of David
We speak of her with pride,
This pure, Immaculate Virgin
Who was Joseph's royal bride.

At midnight, in a cold stable
She bore her First-born Son,
She knew as she saw His manager
Trials had just begun.

With sorrow came joy in knowing
He was the Son of God,
No matter how hard her trials
It was His Way she trod.

All her life was spent in silence
No failures or complaints
And now she is known in Heaven
As Mary, Queen of all Saints.

Sr. Mary William, O.P.

Lucretia

I sing the glory of a maid of Rome.
Lucretia, chaste and constant in her task,
Shall shine like lustrous gold of ancient tome,
Or waft as fragance seeping from a flask
Of precious metal snatched from absent Prince,
A theft to shatter hearts of gods and men,
And this the Lares mourn and weep e're since:
A hearth bereft of grace and love and ken.
This Sibyl of a Dian yet unknown
Will die again, O Rome, upon thy hill,
For thou hast failed to learn of her laid prone
That power stems from disciplined will.
The Hesperus of thy glory fell from sight
Before Lucretia, morning star of might.

Sister Jane Kevin, O.P.

Music Workshop

(Continued from Page 6)

force of law be given and We do by Our Present handwriting impose its scrupulous observance on all." In conclusion he urged all associated with sacred music "to favor with all zeal these prudent reforms . . . so that the authority of the church may not fall into contempt."

The publishing of the 'Motu Proprio" by Pope Pius X heralded a new era of church music in the United States. Many dioceses devised their own regulations and published lists of approved music. Another important development has been the institution of courses in church music given at colleges and universities. The Pius X School of Liturgical Music of the College of the Sacred Heart is the most outstanding of these.

Dr. Reuschlein deserves special commendation for inaugurating the singing of the chant here at the Villanova summer school last year. The Music Workshop then consisted of lectures in church music and the participation in one missa cantata. This summer the Workshop has sung a missa cantata for the feasts of St. Bonaventure, Our Lady of Mt. Carmel and St. Anne. After the first two Masses, they sang the Blessing of St. Francis put to music by Sister M. Bonagratia, O.S.F. Both the Dean and the Sisters merit sincere congratulations for their prayerful rendition of the chant at these Masses. They will sing the Graduation Mass on August 4th, the feast of St. Dominic.

Many Represented

The Sisters in the Workshop represent a cross-section of religious communities. Those represented are:

Missionary Sisters of Precious Blood, 1.
Order of the Most Holy Trinity, 2.
Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament, 8.
Sisters of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary, 3.
Sisters of St. Francis (Glen Riddle), 28.
Sisters of St. Dominic, 18.
Felician Sisters, 2.
S. S. C. M., 2.
Sisters of St. Curil and Methodius, 3.
Missionary Franciscan Sisters, 1.
Daughters of Mary of Immaculate Conception, 1.
Religious of the Assumption, 3.
C. F. M., 1.
Sisters of Mercy, 1.

Cantores:
Sister Alma, C.R.S.M.
Sister Francis Georgia, O.S.F.
Sister Amadeus, O.P.
Sister Marcellina, C.F.M.
Mother Charlotte Gary, R.A.
Mother Marie St. Paul, R.A.

The Sisters are united in their desire to participate correctly in liturgical functions and thereby lead others to do the same. If time permitted, they would have appreciated receiving instruction on the musical theory of the chant.

This would include means of improving one's skill in sight reading and interpretation of rhythmic patterns. Yet this cannot be accomplished in twelve hours per summer. This desire could find expression in reality if many more would catch a spark of the Dean's love and zeal for the chant. He looks upon the Workshop in Church Music as a prelude to courses in liturgical music offered for credit in the regular Summer Session program at Villanova.

Great Opportunity

He belives that what the teaching orders are or ought to be called upon to teach in the parochial schools in the way of liturgical singing during the academic year, they should have an opportunity to study on the campus in the summer. Such opportunities, he believes, should not be offered only to the comparatively few religious who have the opportunity to study at such places as the Pius X School or at the various centers operated by the Gregorian Institute of America. Dr. Reuschlein is hopeful that a beginning in offering courses may be made during cal music may be made during the 1957 Summer Session.

Inquiring Reporter

(Continued from Page 2)

for exploration and getting together especially to those who have so little time and want to know who's who and what was when at Villanova. I do hope it will be tagged "Here to Stay" during the summer months.

SISTER CLARE FRANCES, S.N.J.M: Sincere congratulation to all who contributed to our first Villanovan high-light of this summer session. Some of the friendliness and enthusiasm pervading the campus was captured in the newsy articles, the clever cartoons, and the candid shots of student activities. It will certainly be a happy reminder of another memorable six weeks.

MISS M. A. DORIAN, LIBRARIAN: I think the paper was wonderful. A fine sense of humor pervaded the entire issue.

BROTHER FLAVIAN, F.S.C.: I was very happy about the last issue of the Villanovan. It gives the students more school spirit.

SISTER MARY MARGUERITE, O.S.F., : The first summer issue of the Villanovan and with what expectancy it was awaited! Distribution centers were scattered throughout the various halls, and it was a pre-luncheon treat. Yes, the luncheon trays went slowly along the ledge, but they were secondary. Each student was perusing a copy of the paper.

Automobilists were going at a snail's pace also because the "shank's mare" students were reading the paper.

From the expression of the faces, and interchange of conversation, one realized that the paper had been a success. Indeed it was! A combination of the serious and lighter veins of campus life was written and portrayed within its sheets. It was the topic of discussion for many days afterwards. The issue captured the hearts of all: religious and laity.

To Father Rongione, the editor, the photographer, the typesetters, and the staff of contributors and assistants, a big "Thank You" is due, and may the eagerly awaited graduation issue surpass in content and acceptance its predecessor.

SISTER M. R., O.P.: When a paper so capitvates its reader that she becomes momentarily oblivious of the studies, readings, and assignments with which he mind had previously been filled, and reads the interest, pleasure and amusement th entire edition, then it is certain that the reader found the Villanovan most enjoyable.

SISTER AGNES ANGELA, S.S.J.: I think the paper was most wonderful!

MR. JOHN OLIVIERA: I believe the summer school edition of the Villanovan to be most informative and interesting. The annual Villanova forum had not received too much notice to my knowledge, and the Villanovan deserves much credit for publi cizing the very worthwhile event. Articles concerning activities which are taking place in various classes within the school are also very interesting.

READ THE VILLANOVAN

Nurses Graduate

(Continued from Page 1)

ter M. Eucharia is a supervisor at St. Joseph Hospital in Reading, Pennsylvania.

Former Experience

Among the former graduates, one had nursed in the White House during President Truman's administration; another is consultant in Orthopedic Nursing in Pennsylvania State Department of Health; a third is a Sister of the Holy Child Jesus working in the mission field in Africa; and a fourth is working in counseling and placement of Pennsylvania State Nurses' Association.

Administrative Changes

(Continued from Page 1)

been named Vice President for Student Offairs, which will include the school's athletic department.

The Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A., now becomes Dean of the Graduate and Part-Time Division.

Rev. John A. Klekotka, O.S.A., is Chaplain.

Rev. George J. McLaughlin, O.S.A., is Dean of Men.

Rev. Dante J. Girolami, O.S.A., is Dean of Extra-Curricular Activities.

Rev. Joseph J. Burns, O.S.A., is Dean of Women.

Changes will become effective immediately, according to Father Greenlee's announcement.

Volume 32

n. 1-25

September 18, 1956 - July 29, 1957

Villanovan

Vol. 32—No. 1 Villanova University, Villanova, Pa. September 18, 1956

Class of 1960 Arrives in Midst Of School's Greatest Growing Spell

From the smiling faces, this seems to be a successful dance for those attending, and, judging from that crowded dance-floor, for the class treasury, as well. Dinner Dances like these are the most spectacular of the year's many social events at Villanova.

Widespread Expansion Is Noted

By ED DALY, '55

The Villanova scene has been a constantly changing one since the end of the Second World War. Hardly had the readjustment from military to civilian status been made than work was commenced on three new buildings—the Library, the Naval Science Building, and the Chemical Engineering Building, all of which were completed in 1948. Three years later, a new Central Heating Plant, providing steam for all campus buildings, was built.

To Meet Enrollment

Then, in 1954, a long-range Development Program to map out the needed changes to meet the increasing enrollment was announced, and Very Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, President of the University, took over a campaign announced to provide for the raising of $18,000,000, during the coming twenty years, and designed to produce the construction of new buildings, the expansion of the faculty, and a raise in faculty pay.

Since that time considerable progress has been attained toward the goals originally set. With the assistance of a million-dollar estate left the University by the late Eugene Garey, New York attorney, and numerous private and corporate contributions, two of the expected buildings — Sullivan Hall, the largest dormitory on campus, and Dougherty Hall, the Student Union Building containing dining facilities, student offices, and shops have already been completed.

(Continued on Page 11)

To Broaden One's Education:

Great Variety Of Activities Beckon; Benefits Awaiting

Designing paddles is one of the highlights of the annual initiations by Villanova fraternities. Ken MacGillivary (kneeling), Dick Brady and Mike McClosky examine some paddles at Delta Pi Mu's initiation last spring.

Alongside expansion on the spheres of buildings and enrollments, Villanova has been witnessing rapid growth in the variety of student activities and in the myriad of meetings, outings, dances, and lectures sponsored by the various organizations.

Student groups at Villanova, in addition to the Student Council, which is in a class by itself might be divided into three groups —publications, clubs, and fraternities.

Most Active

The publications are generally among the oldest organizations on campus and among the most active. The most obvious, of course, is the VILLANOVAN, the weekly newspaper which has come up with several All-American awards in the last few years. Then there is the BELLE AIR, the yearbook. Also appearing at various intervals during the year are the MENDEL BULLETIN, organ of the Science School: LYNX, the campus literary quarterly; the BUSINESS WHIRL, the youngest publication on campus and voice of the Commerce and Finance School; and the VILLANOVA ENGINEER, the Engineering School magazine. All of the publications are anxious to enroll new members who are willing to put in work toward making these Vilanova products even better than they are now.

Clubs Galore

Then there are the clubs—so many of them that it would be pointless to list them all here.

(Continued on Page 11)

The University's Social Life:

Parties, Dances, Picnics Await the Eager Freshman

By TED MACRI, '58

Man is a social being, and, as such, must learn to get along with people and to enjoy himself while doing so. This thesis is the basis of the many and varied efforts in development of the social side of the Villanova man's character. Keeping in mind the basic duties of intellectual achievement and religious enrichment, a student can find no better place to go about rounding out his character and enjoying himself than here at Villanova.

Fr. Girolami Leads

Social events here are under the supervision of the Dean of Student Activities, Rev. Dante Girolami, O.S.A., and are generally sponsored by one of the classes, organizations, or fraternities.

The Fraternities at Villanova, Delta Pi Mu, Phi Kappa Pi, Delta Pi Epsilon, and Lamda Kappa Delta sponsor numerous parties, smokers, dinner dances, and picnics during the course of the school year. PKP also stages the Owl Hop, traditionally the first dance of the Fall semester.

The organizations and publications here at the University also hold various functions, such as dinner dances, Communion breakfasts, and outings. Some of the more notable events are the annual blowouts sponsored by the Belle Masque Dramatic Society, the Turf 'n Tinsel Club, and the VILLANOVAN.

There exists at Villanova, as well as many similar institutions, the singularly collegiate institution known as the Football Weekend. From the Friday night rally right on through the parties, the game itself, and the traditional Sunday Mass date with your girl, until that sigh of exhaustion just before falling asleep Sunday night, each weekend seems more memorable than the one before.

Each of the upperclasses has a

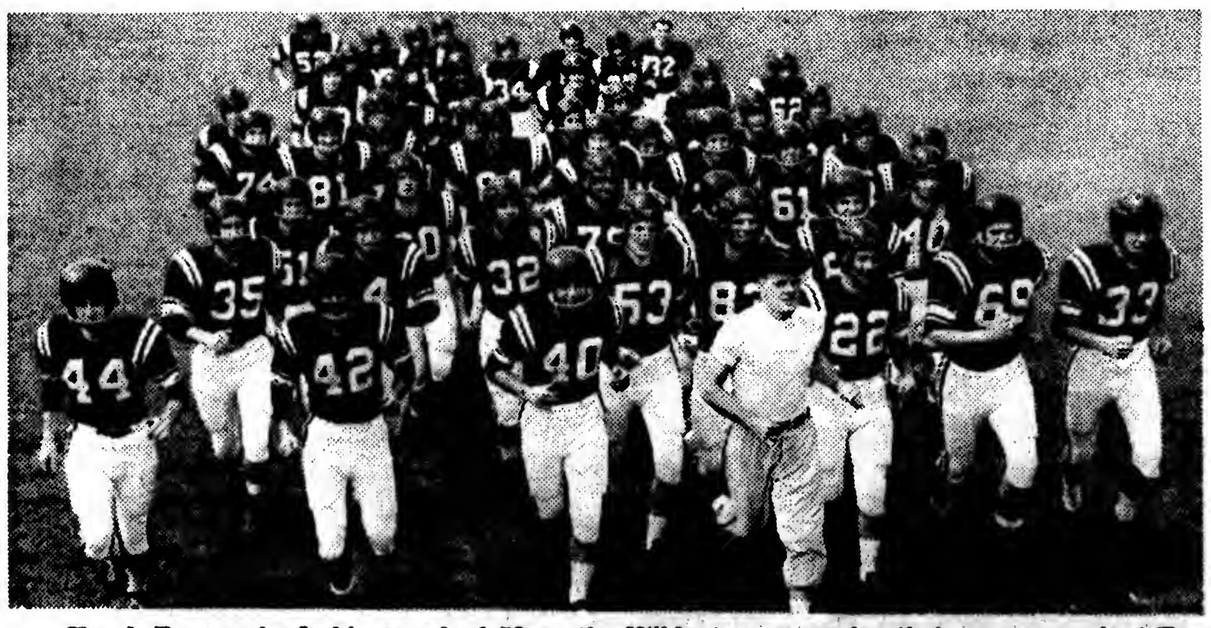
(Continued on Page 11)

Many Changes:

Three Veeps In Administrative Set-up Anno'ced

The Villanova Administration, faced with the problems of a growing enrollment and physical plant, underwent substantial changes during the past summer. The number of Vice-Presidents has been increased to three, the new office of Assistant to the President has been established, and the post of Dean of Men has been separated from the Vice-Presidency.

Three Veeps



The new vice-presidents are Rev. Joseph I. Boyle, O.S.A., former Dean of the Graduate and Part-Time Division, Vice-President for Academic Affairs; Rev. John J. Curran, O.S.A., Vice-president for Financial Affairs, as well as Comptroller and Procurator; and Rev. Joseph W. Kemme, O.S.A., formerly Chaplain, Vice-President for Student Affairs, as well as Moderator of Athletics. Rev. Edward B. McKee, formerly Vice-President and Dean of Men, has moved into the newly created post of Assistant to President, Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A.

Other Changes

Assuming Father McKee's old post as Dean of Men, general superintendent of student discipline, is Rev. George J. McLaughlin, O.S.A., formerly Dean of Student Activities. Succeeding Father McLaughlin in the Student Activities post is Rev. Dante L. Girolami, O.S.A. Also moving into new posts are Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A., as Dean of the Part-Time and Graduate Divisions, in succession to Father Boyle; and Rev.

(Continued on Page 11)

Villanova's Wildcats Are Heading For You, Frosh!

Frank Reagan leads his squad of 52 as the Wildcats prepare for their opener against Texas A & M this weekend at College Station, Texas. Three home games this season will give the freshmen an opportunity to show real Villanova spirit in turning out and rooting for the club, which seems headed for a winning season.

On The Clothing Question

By CLEM BIRCH, '58

Always a major problem in the minds of new-comers to college is what to wear. This article is not intended to produce either the Ivy League model or the typical Joe College, but only to suggest what is up-to-date dress for college days.

One of the leading men's magazines which always devotes considerable attention to fashion states that "college is the home of the true individualist" and stresses the theme that college dress should be left to individual tastes.

Conservative Note

The most notable piece of college wear in the past year was the charcoal gray suit with a suitable rep tie which could either contrast or blend. This season, as a conservative change, we find the Cambridge or medium-grey suit with an added chalk stripe running either vertically or diagonally. The tie can be either a challis (English wool) print, a rep tie, or a knit solid-color version, according to the personnal taste of the wearer.

This combination is not an extreme version of any particular kind of dress but a good blend of them all. The Ivy League enthusiast might see fit to have natural shoulders and dark socks to match a tie of the same shade. Joe College might want to add bright socks to an already bright tie; ordinary dress might combine suggestion of the other two with a plain tailored shoulder.

Natural Shoulders

Long popular at college are the variations of gray worsteds or flannel trousers with no pleats, combined with a sport coat. The colors in the coat run in stripes or vertical combinations—the accepted style, by the way — or in a sharkskin or speckled grain. The usual tailoring is shoulders with light padding, and three buttons on the jacket. The two-button jacket is much less popular on campus.

Shirt Important

At long last the shirt has become as important as the suit itself. This past week a new man's fashion magazine displayed a wardrobe that every young man should have. It consisted of a broadcloth English tab-collar in a coffee color, a Tartan plaid with button-down collar, a plain blue Oxford cloth button-down, a pin-stripe with ordinary

(Continued on Page 11)

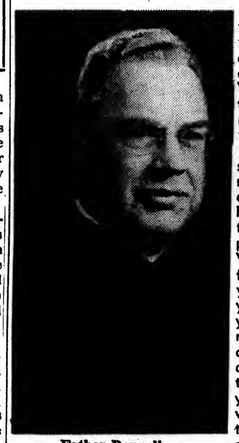
Villanovan

Villanova University Villanova Pa.

Faculty Moderator
Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: Scholar, Gentleman, Athlete,
LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1928 under the act of March 3, 1879.



MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION

Thomas E. Smith
Editor-in-Chief

Bob Strayton . . . . Managing Editor
Bill Jones . . . . . Feature Editor
Frank Delany . . . . . News Editor
Joe Mavin . . . . . Sports Editor
Bob Mulcahy . . . . . Photography Editor
Ed Hoehr, ... Photography Editor
Jack Bowring . . . . . Copy Editor
Bill Brown . . . . . Copy Editor
Phil Seefried . . . . Cartoon Editor
Nick Podano . . . . Circulation Manager
Joe De Grazia . . . . Business Manager

MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE PRESS ASSOCIATION

The President's Message

Father Donnellon

On behalf of the Administration and Faculty, I would like to extend to all of our students a most sincere and hearty welcome upon their return to Villanova. I sincerely hope that the summer vacation was most enoyable and profitable to all of you.

I would like to extend to a special welcome to all of the members of the freshman class. We are sincerely and humbly grateful to you for the confidence you have expressed in us by selecting Villanova as the University you feel best equipped to prepare you for the particular vocation you have chosen. I can assure you that your confidence has not been misplaced and that all of us — Administration and Faculty — will do everything in our power to train your minds and direct your wills along lines best suited for the accomplishment of the goals you have selected for yourselves.

At the beginning of the new academic year I would strongly suggest that all of our students apply themselves diligently to the particular courses they have selected. Your parents are making great sacrifices in order to provide you with the education you need in order to make your way in the world. Show your gratitude to them by making the best use possible of the opportunities afforded you.

Rest assured of my continued remembrance of all of you in my daily Mass. May Our Divine Saviour and His Blessed Mother watch over you and guide you during your stay here at Villanova, so that eventually you may enjoy eternal happiness with them in the paradise that has been promised to all men of good will.

CAMPUS COMMENT

Outlooks Of The Editor

A Freshman Becomes a Gentleman

It is remarkable how much meaning can be pried from a simple sentence. Like the one which apears on Page 28 of the neat little handbook that the freshmen have been glancing through.

"The standard of correct living set forth as the ideal of Villanova is that of a Catholic gentleman."

First of all, a gentleman is friendly. If the freshman takes the 'hello habit' to heart and practices it, he or she will find all kinds of fellow students just looking for companionships and new friendships.

Secondly, a gentleman makes a good appearance. He dresses nicely, conservatively, he is well groomed.

A gentleman is sincere and unaffected. He doesn't spend half of his day displaying the Brooks Brothers label in his jackets nor does he apologize for his father's occupation. By being sincere, the freshman will find himself part of a staunch and true comaraderie that cannot be founded on shallow fronts and ambitious hypocrisy.

A gentleman is sociable. The most bashful freshman will find some extra-curricular activity in which he can broaden his outlook and develop special interests. That's very much a part of the reason for his being in college. Surely, the freshman should feel that basically "I came here to get an education," but an education is not limited to mere books and laboratories. Study must come first, but there will be many opportunities when the freshman can spin records on WVIL, write a news story on an essay for a campus publication, absorb the benefits of fraternity activities.

This is the editor's way of welcoming the members of the Class of 1960 to the growing, potentially great university that is Villanova. Study. Have a good time. Get a lot out of these four years, they pass much faster than you can now imagine.

Issue Marks Pioneering Edition

This Registration Issue of the VILLANOVAN, the first ever to appear before the beginning of the regular school year, is the product of a special editorial board of students and alumni, headed by former editors-in-chief Edwin K. Daly, '55, and Harry C. Nash, III '56. Assisting in the writing, proofreading, and composition of the issue were VILLANOVAN Editor-in-Chief Tom Smith, Thomas Mentzer, '55, P. David Vachon, '55, Bill Brown, Clem Birch, Frank Delany, Ted Macri, John McGinley, and Peter Scott, '56.

The regular VILLANOVAN publishes about 25 times a year and is open to contributions from all students. The VILLANOVAN recently established another first when it published twice during the 1956 Summer School session.

The Faith and the Villanovan

By TOM MENTZER, '55

The brief conversation was loud enough to overhear and interesting enough to consider. "This place really has it," remarked the taller, sun-tanned frosh. His buddy, a stocky, red-haired lad, nodded his assent enthusiastically. Tugging at the peak of his blue "beanie," the latter added in a strong Boston twang, "Yeah, that cafeteria is really sharp. And Sullivan Hall, that's the place to have a room."

Needless to explain, this was Villanova's "new look" making its impression on two first-year men just as it has and is impressing past and present students and friends of the University. The striking scene of rising and risen edifices of the most modern design had already excited a sense of pride in these newest Villanovans. Clearly discernible in even their bit of casual chatter was the desire of both to become real parts of the modern institution that is Villanova.

More than Pride

To become a part of Villanova however, requires more than merely a feeling of pride in her material achievements. Other universities — Pennsylvania, Michigan State, California— have also expanded their facilities at a rapid pace in recent years. If members of the freshman class desired only the benefits which modern university might offer educationally as a result of these improvements and expansions, then any of the other institutions might have been chosen.

The spirit in which the men of the Class of 1960 might have used the up-to-date and endowed conveniences of other universities might easily admit them to the ranks of "men of ——— University." But requirements differ somewhat here at Villanova. To qualify as a real 'man of Villanova' each freshman must make use of this institution's "old" Catholic facilities in the spirit of the Blue and White. Gentlemen, make the chapel your constant stop!

Religion the Keynote

Do not mock this advice. Do not consider it too childish for older temperaments. Do not dismiss it as an opening day sermon, for past Villanova graduates have illustrated the validity of its claims. One VU graduate entered one of the country's leading graduate schools where every type of dissenter from

(Continued on Page 12)

Transportation

The most direct means of transportation from the University to central Philadelphia or Main Line communities is the Pennsylvania Railroad, whose Paoli Local provides half-hourly service to Broad Street, Suburban and 30th Street Stations, as well as to Paoli in the opposite direction. The Philadelphia and Western Railway, located across Lancaster Avenue from the main part of campus, has quick and frequent service to the 69th Street area and to Norristown. The Red Arrow busses travelling along Lancaster Pike also provide service to Ardmore and to 69th Street section.

Whether he needs to ask for inspiration on an upcoming test or give thanks for an "A" term paper, the freshman will find the Chapel open. Masses are offered from 6 till 8 each morning and confessions are heard during the Masses.

A Cook's Tour of the Campus:

A Freshman Looks at Villanova

By ED DALY, '55

The first thing to come to the attention of the newcomer to Villanova is the university's material side—the numerous buildings either built or being built on the campus. Since such a maze of structures might confuse those who are not already familiar with them, a brief descrition of Villanova's physical plant might be in order.

Tour Starts

Since the one building known to all students is the Field House, where Registration takes place, a tour can be started from there. The Field House itself contains basketball courts, the swimming pool, bowling alleys, shower rooms, and all the standard conveniences of a large college athletic structure. Adjoining is the Stadium, seating twelve-thousand persons.

Across Ithan Avenue from the Field House, a new dormitory is being built, scheduled for occupancy next year. It is to be a twin of Sullivan Hall, the large building located beyond the construction, toward the railroad tracks. Sullivan, incidentally, is the newest and largest dormitory on campus, having been completed in 1954, and having room for 400 students.

The wooden building is Belle Air Hall, a classroom building, the only survivor of a group of barracks built as temporary structures during the Second World War. Originally it stood closer to the main campus road, but it was moved this past Summer to make room for a new classroom building to be started this Fall.

The gray stone building on the right of the campus road houses the classrooms and offices of the Commerce and Finance school, as well as an auditorium seating 700.

Dougherty Hall Newest

Across the road is Dougherty Hall, the Student Union Building, opened last year in which are the Cafeteria for Residents, the Pie Shoppe, the various campus stores, a barber shop, and the offices of most campus organizations, including the VILLANOVAN and Radio Station WVIL.

The next building (other than the wooden structure which once housed the Pie Shoppe and now is a sort of recreation hall), is Austin Hall, a dormitory, which also includes Austin Lounge, headquarters of the Nursing Division.

If one next takes the pathway which enters the road from the right just after Austin is passed, he will see on his right, Saint Mary's Hall, the Augustinian Seminary, and, on his left, Alumni Hall, the oldest building on campus, which now serves as a dormitory. Directly in front is the Library, opened in 1949, containing a collection of close to 150,000 volumes, plus thousands more periodicals. In addition to the stacks, the Library includes a Reference Room, a Periodicals Room, a Browsing Room for relaxation, and various upstairs rooms which are now the headquarters of the Villanova Law School, until that division moves into its new home, Garey Hall, now being completed across the railroad tracks to be ready for occupancy later this year. Across the Navy Drill Field from the Library are John Barry Hall, headquarters of the NROTC unit, and the Chemical Engineering Building.

Chapel Campus Center

Returning to the main campus road, one comes to the Chapel, erected in 1888, the center of religious activities on campus. Next building is the Augustinian monastery, home of the religious members of the faculty.

The next building is Good Counsel Hall, really a wing of Mendal, used as a dormitory. Next comes Mendel Hall, headquarters of the various administrative offices, also containing classrooms and laboratories, as well as an annex for dormitory purposes. An observatory is located upon the roof of the annex.

Beyond Mendel is one other main dormitory, Fedigan Hall, traditionally a senior dorm. Between Mendel and Lancaster Pike are three other dormitories, Simpson, Delury, and O'Dwyer Halls, as well as the University Infirmary, Middleton Hall, all of which are located in convérted residences.

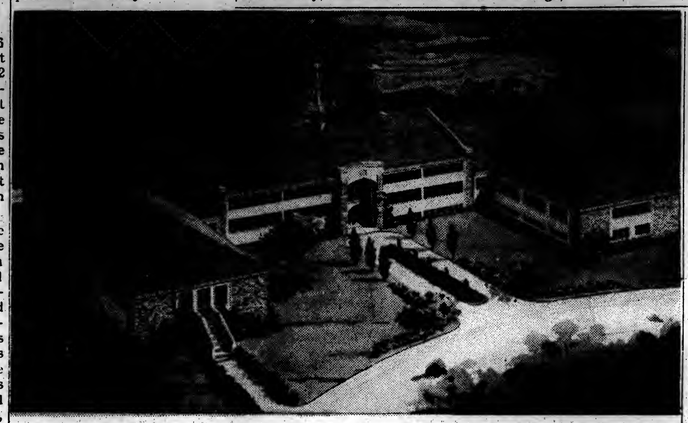
Many more building will arise on the Villanova campus during the next few years, several of them, perhaps, during the four years the present freshmen hope to spend on campus.

Dean Reuschlein's Pride:

Institution's Law School Has Made Great Strides

Villanova's fledgling Law School, now in its fourth year, has achieved nationwide recognition during its brief existence under the leadership of Dean Harold Gill Reuschlein. This year, having turned out its first graduating class, and preparing to move into its new home, Garey Hall, toward the middle of the year from its present rather cramped quarters in the University Library, the Law School is ranked as one of Villanova's most important assets.

Exacting Standards



This year's enrollment of 136 students, composed of 70-first year, 44 second-year, and 22 third-year students, bears witness to the increasing interest which prospective lawyers are showing in the new law school, as well as the high mortality rate of applicants unable to maintain the heavy work load or meet the exacting standards which have been set.

Featured alongside of the scholastic work is considerable moot-court activity in which the students are expected to participate, thereby developing the faculties of research and exposition needed for the handling of actual cases. The success of this training at Villanova is illustrated by the fact that the Villanova moot court team has made the finals for the judicial district for the last two years, the only two in which it has competed.

Good Review

Villanova's first Law Review, prepared by an edtorial board chosen on the basis of scholastic attainment, appeared last year and met with widespread acclaim in legal circles. It is expected to take its place among the country's leading legal periodicals within the next few years.

Particularly the pride of the Law School Faculty is the fast-growing law library, non-existent a few years ago, which is already the second largest of any Catholic law school in the United States, and is well on its way toward taking the lead. This library expansion is the department of Law Librarian Arthur C. Pulling, who served as Law Librarian at the Harvard Law Library, the largest in the nation, for many years, before coming to Villanova. The new law building, when completed, will have facilities for the proper storing of 150,000 volumes, which will allow far greater freedom of legal research than is now possible because of the lack of space in the temporary quarters. The expansion of the Law Library is parallel to that of the Law School itself, from nothing four years ago to a position of preeminence today.

Garey Hall, new home of Villanova's Law School, is now being completed and should be ready for occupancy around February. This is the third building to go up under the University's present expansion program.

On The Clothing Question

(Continued from Page 2)

collar and French cuffs, and a blue broadcloth shirt with checked front and short button-down tabs. These may sound outlandish, but check your nearby stores.

Ties tend this year to prints, both in challis and silk. Be careful when eyeing them; the cost of more than four ties can be considerable. Rep ties are still popular, though; so don't just overlook them because their popularity has dropped slightly.

Cordovan Favorite

In shoes black and cordovan are the current favorites, with the styling kept to low-cut, plain lines. Loafers can be obtained which can serve many purposes. Cordovan is prominent in the standard everyday shoe and in some fine, Italian-styled casual shoes.

For resident students and those day-hops living nearby, we would recommend shopping at Jacob Reed's in Haverford, long known for its good clothing and styles; Strawbridge & Clothier's Men's Store; or Spritzler's, both located in Ardmore; at Joe Keefe's Sport Shop in Haverford, or Lord & Taylor's in Bala Cnywyd, if you have a car. At most of the places mentioned clothing can be found at prices within the average student's range. In Philadelphia, try John Wanamaker's, Boyd's, Arrow, Gimbel's, Snellenberg's or the down-town Jacob Reed's. Wanamaker's also has a store in Wynnewood, a good place for residents to investigate.

Jazz
Friday
7:45

Official Calendar

FIRST SEMESTER

September 18-21—Registration
September 24—Opening Mass
8:30 A. M.—Residtnts
9:30 A. M.—Day Students
Classes begin
10:30 A. M.
October 4—Day of Recollection —no classes
November 1—All Saints' Day—no classes
November 10—Mid-Term
November 20—Thanksgiving Recess begins after last class
November 26—Classes resume
November 27—Student Assembly—1:30 P. M.
December 8—Feast of Immaculate Conception—no classes
December 19—Christmas vacation begins after last class
January 3—Classes resume
January 21-26—Final examinations
January 27-30—Annual Retreat —All Freshmen and Sophomores.

SECOND SEMESTER

February 4-6—Registration.
February 7—Classes resume
February 22—Washington's Birthday—no classes
March 23—Mid-Term
April 14-17—Annual Retreat—All Juniors and Seniors
April 17—Easter Recess begins after final Retreat Service
April 23—Classes resume
April 25—Student Assembly—1:30 P. M.
May 20-29—Final Examinations.

This is College Life?

The Frosh Meets Senior, 'Roomie', Takes to Both

By DARRYL DITENFEST

FROSH: "Excuse me, is this the way to the campus?"

SENIOR: "You mean 'excuse me, sir', don't you, young fellow?"

FROSH: "Yessir, that's what I mean, sir." (Dropping his handbook).

SENIOR: "Well, no, not really, young fellow, it's that way . . . across the tracks." (Pointing to Rosemont).

FROSH: "Thank you very much, sir."

Business Interest?

The freshman turns toward the tracks on Ithan Avenue, followed by several hundred of his compatriots, individualists that they are. They are later straightened out, and finally find their way to the Field House.

FROSH: "I'm looking for the Arts section for freshmen, sir. Could you direct me, sir?"

SENIOR: "Well, yes, young fellow, get at the end of that line to the left."

FROSH: "But that line goes back all the way across that big road outside this place. That can't be it."

SENIOR: "Well, that's it, sonny. There's another longer one, if you like. If you have a leaning toward C&F, there's another line to your right."

FROSH: "But that line goes into the stadium. Besides, I'm not interested in business."

SENIOR: "Well, that's up to you, of course, sonny. Let me know if I can give you any further aid."

X-Rays A Plenty

Later on after Regs and chest X rays have been obtained, his patience exhausted the Frosh heads toward the campus.

FROSH: "Excuse me, sir, I'm looking for Belle Air Hall. Could you direct me, sir?"

SENIOR: "I don't know quite where it is right now, but it used to be just to the side of Sullivan Hall, young man. If you can locate it, let me know."

FROSH: (To himself) "What a modern university! They even have movable buildings. I am impressed." (He later finds Belle Air leaning, in great danger of collapse, against the Pennsy tracks.)

Bringing Up Freddie

SENIOR: "You there, sir, roll up those pant-legs."

FROSH "But, sir, I cannot. The peg is much too tight already." (With this admission the frosh is led off by force to the University Shop, where he is rapidly outfitted, against his will, in a three-button jacket and khakis.)

Later he emerges. He is now Joe College. At least in appearance. He is in the Student Union Building.

FROSH: "Excuse me, sir, but am I to walk or slide down this strange ramp? I hear there is food being served down there."

SENIOR: "That, sonny, is misrepresentation of the facts. Dinner is being served down there, however."

Hialeah Returned

The frosh is now in the dining hall. He is suddenly taken back by the music and the chatter and heads by force of habit for the two-dollar window.

"You leave your trays here, sonny boy," says the voice from within. The frosh moves into the food line.

FROSH: "Excuse me, sir, may I have another serving of peas?"

This question is not even worth answering.

SENIOR: "You there, sonny, clean off this table."

FROSH: (To himself) "This is not in the handbook. I shall refuse."

This freshman is now at Haverford.

FROSH: "Excuse me, but my name's Freddie and I'm from Coatesville. You must be a freshman also. Let's be friends."

STRANGER: "Well, my name's Murphy, and I teach English."

FROSH: "And you're not a freshman? But you have on white bucks. Well, let's be friends anyway!"

This freshman is now in maintenance.

(Continued on Page 5)

This is how the campus looked around 1952. The Student Union Building had not been built, not had Sullivan Hall. These barracks in the foreground housed freshmen students. They were torn down to make room for Sullivan in 1954. Belle Aire Hall (to the right) has just recently been moved down toward the RR tracks tomake room for the newdormitory now in progress and eventually the new classroom building.

The Advantages Downtown:

Philadelphia Awaits the Scholar

By DAVE VACHON, '55

Philadelphia is the third largest city in the United States and the eighteenth largest in the world. In the metropolis two million people of all races and nationalities live and die each day. A blessed event occurs once every 8½ minutes, or 175 times a day. Industry ranges from the importing of iron ore to mass production of fine foods.

As a fellow Villanovan let me conduct you, through this article, on a grand tour of Philadelphia which will introduce you to this great city. Requisities: a healthy curiosity, one day, a good sleep the night before, and a pair of comfortable and not too thin-soled shoes.

We will want a good start, so so suppose we take the 8:17 Paoli local some Saturday morning.

The Main Line

Looking out through the window as the train moves toward the city you can observe signs of the growing metropolis. Coming into Bryn Mawr you can see blocks of new fashionable apartments on your left. In Wynnewood are the new suburban stores of two old Philadelphia department stores—Bonwit Teller and John Wanamaker. Once past Overbrook, the train enters the Philadelphia yards surrounded by the row homes that characterize the intown residential areas. Just before entering 30th Street Station, you pass the new home of the Philadelphia Bulletin, one of the city's three daily papers. Coming out of 30th Street, if you look to the right you will see the new Vine Street bridge which will form a part of the main traffic artery which will funnel traffic from the Pennsylvania Turnpike along the Schuylkill Expersswayalong Vine Street through Philadelphia across the Delaware River Bridge to the New Jersey Turnpike and then to New York City. Beyond the 30th Street Station on your left are the Market Street Bridge and the main post office building. Also on the left as the train enters the tunnel to Suburban Station are a few remnants of the old "Chinese Wall," a crossway which once carried trains to the old Broad Street Station which was torn down in 1952 making way for the new Penn Center development.

First Stop

Once off the train, walk forward to the end of the platform, where a set of moving stairs will bring you to the street level. Off at an angle to your left is City Hall, first stop in our tour. Behind you are some of the city's large hotels. Off in the distance in the same direction is the 30th Street Terminal.

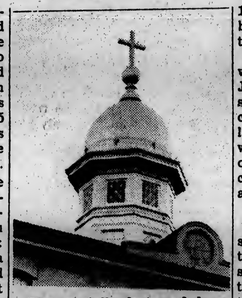
Walk south past Penn Center to Market Street and then through the East arch of City Hall, the geographical center of Philadelphia, clearly marked in the pavement in the courtyard. Note, as you pass it, the 15th Street entrance to Suburban Station, where our tour will terminate.

The corner stone of City Hall was laid on August 12, 1872. By July of 1901, the building was substantially completed at a cost of twenty-four million dollars, a considerable part of which was spent for the numerous statues and reliefs which cover the building, both inside and out.

City's Highest Point

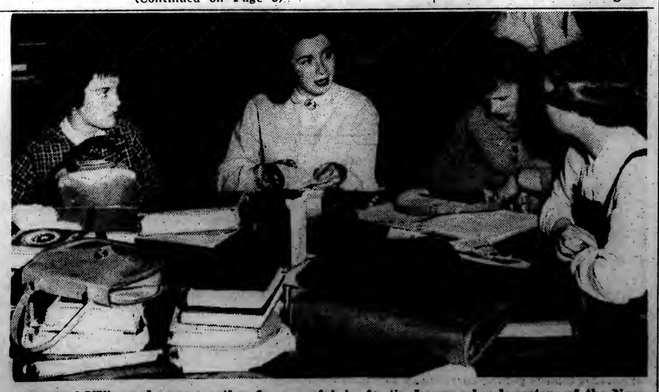
In order to get a comprehensive view of the city, let us take the elevator to the base of the statue of William Penn at the top of City Hall Tower, traditionally the highest point in Philadelphia. To get there take the elevator in the northeast corner of the first floor to the seventh floor.

Next walk around the corner to your left past the Police Department offices and up the ramp to the door of the tower room. The elevator makes one trip every twenty minutes. While you are waiting, there is a large map of the city on the wall you can examine. Circulars describing City Hall and the city government are also available.



As you emerge on the observation platform, Market Street stretches out before you. In the distance is 30th Street Station and beyond it marked by two large storage tanks is the 69th Street shopping center. Above you is a large statue of William Penn. The statue which is thirty-seven feet high and weighs fifty-three thousand three hundred and forty-eight pounds was raised to the top of the tower in sections in 1894 after a year of exhibition in the courtyard below.

Art Museum



Moving clockwise around the base of the statue we have a view of Benjamin Franklin parkway with the Art Museum at the end. Halfway down the parkway is Logan Circle with its beautiful fountain. This is all that remains of one of the five squares originally set apart by William Penn as green spots in the city. Ranged counter clockwise around the square are the Cathedral of Saints Peter and Paul, the Courthouse, Library, Franklin Institute, and the Museum of Natural History.

The northern view from the

(Continued on Page 12)

Fire partially destroyed dome atop Villanova's oldest residence hall, Alumni, during an early June electrical storm. Damage has been repaired.

Four of VU's coed nurses gather for a confab in Austin Lounge, headquarters of the Nursing School. The girls first appeared here four years ago, have becoome an accepted part of the Villanova scene since then.

This is College Life?

The Frosh Meets Senior

(Continued from Page 4)

FROSH: "Excuse me, sir . . . I . . oh, my, you're a nurse freshman. Surely let's be friends."

FROSH NURSE: "It depends, sonny boy. How do you feel about nurses on the Student Council?"

Later on, and the frosh has got his room key and is heading toward Sullivan Hall.

The Room-Mate

FIRST FROSH: "Excuse me, sir, where is room 56?"

SECOND FROSH: "Oh, are you looking for that room, too? Why, so am I."

FIRST FROSH: "Then we must be roommates." (This is the freshman's first logical statement and no doubt his last.) Oh, goodie, let's be friends. Mother, bring the trunks!"

SECOND FROSH: "Oh, don't let your mother carry those trunks. Here, Father, you take them, and don't mash my wicker chair, either. Here now, be careful of my tennis racket."

FIRST FROSH: "My name's Freddie. I hope we can be friends." This one begins unpacking.

SECOND FROSH: "Perhaps we can be . . . what are you, an engineer?"

FIRST FROSH: "Goodness, I'm not sure. They x-rayed me several times down there. Perhaps I'm a pre-med student."

SECOND FROSH: "Perhaps you are. By the way, how about letting me borrow that sports jacket tonight. I have a date."

FIRST FROSH: Heavens, you can't go out tonight. This is orientation period. We have to stay in and memorize the handbook tonight."

SECOND FROSH: "What handbook? Besides, rules don't mean nothin' and I'm going home every weekend I can, anyhow. Ain't that right, Ma, huh?"

MA: "That's right, junior, and you let us know if they don't treat you right and we'll come right up here and see the registrar."

This parent is now in Dutch.

Later.

FROSH: "Excuse me, sir, but I would like to join the Astrology Club, and I am told you are president."

SENIOR: "What recommendations do you have, sonny?"

FROSH: "Well, I'm a member of 31 other clubs, two fraternities and I read proof for the Mendel Bulletin and I've only been here a day and a half."

SENIOR: "Sonny, we don't take in members who belong to more than ten other organizations."

FROSH: "But I can't quit all the others. What will happen to all my merit awards?"

Later.

Gambling Already?

FROSH: "Roomie, where are you going?"

ROOMIE: "We've got a great card game going in 18456." (This is a room in one of the larger new dormitories.)

FROSH: "Oh, but I do love games of chance. Shall we play fish for nickles?"

ROOMIE: "You go read your handbook, Freddie, me and de boys are gonna play cuttroat for quarters."

This freshman is now in debt.

Later. The roomies have retired for the evening.

FIRST FROSH: "What time shall be arise, roomie? I should like very much to have breakfast with this nurse freshman whom I met today."

SECOND FROSH: "Don't be silly, those babes can't even get in the Student Council, much less the dining hall. Besides, I wanna sleep in."

FIRST FROSH: "Very well then, I shall see you in the first orientation period."

(Continued on Page 12)

Naval, Marine Training Units At Villanova Among Nation's Finest

Contract Regular Division

By Frank Delany

Grizzled Marine Sgt. John Waryha is far from the Mendel drillfield now, but last spring he was honored by the drill team he commanded. Former drill- master Walt Gould does the pinning.

Since aproximately on etenth of the class of 1960 will be affiliated in some way with Villanova's Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps in pursuit of a commission in the Navy or the Marine Corps, a word directed especially to them is in order. At Villanova, you will have a unit commanded by Capt. Niel R. Curtin, U.S.N., which is comparrable to the best in the land.

Your first hurdle is adjustment to a straddling of civilian and military life. For the regular students this is complicated by two months at sea next summer on your youngster cruise. The contract goes along blissfully until the summer following his junior year.

The only piece of advice I would presume to forward regarding the successful integration of five or so hours a week of Navy with the rest of your college life is this: in any difficulty use your common sense, figure that the Navy very often knows what it is doing and accept advice from upper class judiciously. This may not keep you entirely out o ftrouble but you haven't lived anyway until youv'e written your first demerit letter, a literary genre that won't be found in the best of English texts.

During your first few days, you should become an expert at filling out forms, DD-93, DDT, etc. After this, however, you will settle down to what should be one of your favorite courses of the next two semesters. The Naval Orientation and History courses offer a general outline of the United States Navy(its organization, its laws, its traditions, and its history in a broad, interesting panorama.

You won't fully realize that this is the military until Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Although Villanova lost what was almost an institution in Sargent Waryha, you can expect the Marine Corps to come up with something above the ordinary as a matter of course and drill should continue to be lively. You start out by learning the basics; namely, which foot is left. That's the one that you start out on. From there it's easy. You'll be surprised at how fast you'll feel military with a good shave and haircut, smart uniform (it better be) and a well-cleaned rifle on your shoulder.

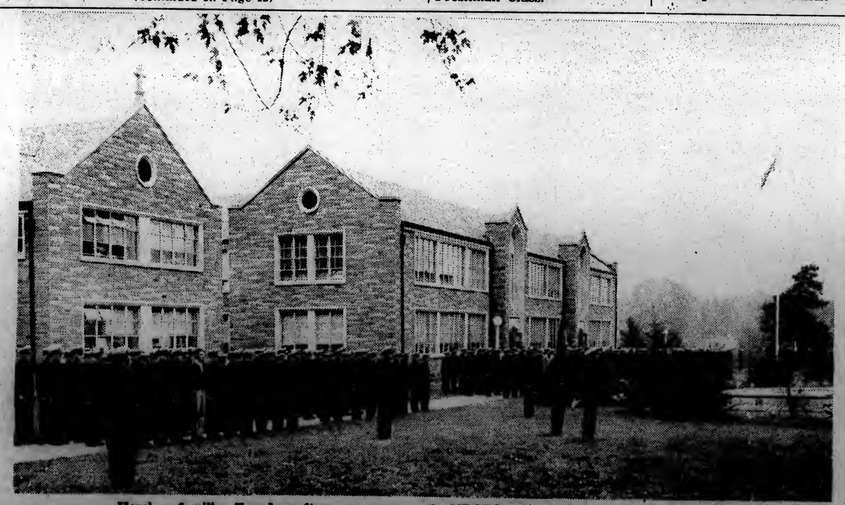
On those rare days in the spring and fall when the weather interferes with drill and during the winter months, your weekly two hours will be spent indoors with a lab period. These run the gamut from lessons on mooring vessels to "Victory at Sea" movies. You may even get to see "Hell Raiders of the Deep" which offers besides an account of man driven torpedoes of the Italian Navy, the charms of Eleanor Rossi Drago.

Those with sufficient time and interest will find joining the band, rifle and pistol teams and the drill team to be very re-

(Continued on Page 7)

Soph President's Welcome

Dear Member of the Class of 1960,



With every regard for your welfare during your initial days at Villanova, the Orientation Committee extends to you a most cordial welcome.

The afternoon and evening events scheduled for this week are designated to integrate you as soon as possible into the life of the University.

The members of the Orientation Committee, better known as the white hats, sincerely hope that we can carry out our duties with the full co-operation of the Freshman Class.

KEN MACGILLIVRAY
Soph Class President

Here's a familiar Tuesday afternoon scene as the NROTC units gets squared away for another session of maneuvering to the throaty cadences of potential officers in the Navy and Marine Corps. Tuesday afternoon drill periods last from 2:30 until 4:30. On rainy days midshipmen retire to Commodore John Barry Hall (right) for training films and classroom work.

From a Country Estate to Creatures Since 1842:

The Tradition That Is Villanova

St. Thomas Guides Path Of Villanova

By DAVID VACHON, '55

Someone passing by the rear of the Villanova monastery on a warm afternoon would most probably find the members of the Augustinian community seated on the benches chatting and enjoying the sun.

These men largely embody the one-hundred fourteen year tradition of Villanova, for long before the last wing of Alumni Hall was built or the present chapel was constructed, the Augustinian fathers were holding class on Villanova soil. The old Randolph mansion is gone, generations of Villanova graduates and teachers have passed away, yet there are still Augustinians guiding their university through the problems of an era of expansion.

Country Estate

Villanova began its long history by the acquisition of a country estate known as Belle Air, the property of a leading Catholic layman and Revolutionary War veteran, John Randolph, by the Augustinian community of Philadelphia on October 13, 1841. The following August, community life was established at Villanova, and a novitiate was founded in December.

The new monastery was placed under the patronage of Saint Thomas of Villanova, a former Augustinian provincial in Spain, who had served also as Archbishop of the university city of Salamanca. It was Saint Thomas who, in 1533, sent the first band of seven Augustinians to the New World. One of these pioneers, Father Alonso, was the co-founder of the first university in North America, that of Mexico City.

Thirteen Begin

In keeping with the Augustinian tradition as educators, the fathers were quick to open a school at Villanova. On September 18, 1843, classes were opened with thirteen "youths", probably of grade school, or high-school age in attendance. The curriculum, in line with traditional concepts of "classical education," consisted of courses in French, Latin, and the classics.

Lab work is both fascinating and time-consuming to students taking scientific studies. Here Bob Fredericks is waiting for his preparation to come to a boil.

Threatened with imminent danger of the "Know-Nothing" riots in Philadelphia, which resulted in the burning of the Augustinian headquarters at old Saint Augustine's Church in Philadelphia, and which threatened to involve all other Catholic establishments in the area, and under-staffed as a result of the illness of three out of four faculty members, Villanova closed its doors February 20, 1845.

First Commencement

Not daunted by its temporary set-back, Villanova reopened in September with twenty-four students in attendance. The first public commencement was staged July 21, 1847.

A charter from the state of Pennsylvania empowered the new college "to grant to graduates or persons on whom such degrees may be conferred, diplomas or certificates as is usual in colleges or universities." The objective of the newly chartered school was declared to be "the education of persons in the various branches of science, literature, and ancient and modern languages."

James F. Dooley and Henry C. Alexander became, on June 27, 1855, the first to receive the degree of Bachelor of Arts at Villanova. In 1857, Mr. Dooley went on to receive his M. A.

College Closed

The severe depression of the late 1850's, plus a desire to devote more time to ministering to the parishes assigned them, induced the Augustinian Fathers at Villanova to close the college again, in June of 1857, the same year in which the first seminarian educated at Villanova was ordained.

Although no lay classes were taught for the next eight years, the seminary went on, producing twenty-seven clerics by the end of the period. During the Civil War, Villanova devoted its facilities to the direct service of the country by converting them into a hospital.

In 1865, Villanova College reopened its doors to lay students, with Father Ambrose A. Miller as President assisted by a faculty of twelve. The subjects taught were Greek, Latin, English, mathematics, natural philosophy (physics), book-keeping, history, poetry, French, German, and music. The following year, a course in drawing was added. In 1871, the first catalogue was published.

New Growth

The next step in the growth of Villanova was the addition of a west wing to the original class room structure erected in 1848 to complete the building now known as Alumni Hall.

The most revered structure on campus and the focal point of Villanova life, the college chapel, next took its place among the buildings of Old Villanova. Ground was broken on March 29, 1883, and the cornerstone was laid on June 3 of the same year, the feast of the Most Pure Heart of Mary.

In 1893 Villanova marked its Golden Anniversary with ninety students, of average age fifteen and one-half years, in attendance, fifteen of whom were ecclesiastical. Sixteen priests comprised the the faculty.

"Fedigan's Folly"

The Anniversary celebration past, work began on two gigantic new buildings, the monastery and "College Hall," under the instigation of the then provincial Father John J. Fedigan. So far beyond the needs of the moment were these two structures, both completed in 1902, that the project was dubbed "Fedigan's Folly." The growth of the Order and the rapid expansion of the college, however, soon turned these structures into momuments to Father Fedigan's foresight.

Up until 1904, Villanova had been a combined prep school and college. In that year administrative trends were begun which ultimately resulted in the removal of the prep school to Malvern. In accordance with the growing emphasis in the country on specialization, the opening of the School of Engineering was announced. The idea of the new technical courses was well received, and classes in Civil Engineering were begun in the Fall of 1906.

New Additions

Economics, sociology, and pedagogy were added to the Arts curriculum in 1905 in a step foreshadowing the establishment of two new schools. In 1906 and again in 1908 two more strides were taken into the technical fields by the establishment of Electrical and Mechanical Engineering departments. In 1909, two electrical and two civil engineers, the first in a long line of Villanova engineers, strode forth to meet the technical problems of a growing America.

Another Junior Week is the object of attention above as the ticket seller is ready to accomodate all visitors to his booth.

In 1915 the School of Science opened. Beginning with a one-year pre-medical program, the school rapidly expanded its curriculum to meet the increasing demands of the medical schools, until a four-year course leading to the degree of B.S. in Biology was offered. With the pre-med course grew the rest of the Science School.

Call to Colors

With the spread of the First World War to include the United States, Villanova's services were again to the colors, this time to train prospective officers. By the end of the war on November 11, 1918, the regular college students in the government-sponsored A.S.T.C. (Army Students Training Corps.) had taken their place. During this period the influenza epidemic that was sweeping the eastern part of the country spread over the campus. To the unaffected few fell the lot of caring for the sick plus attending to drills, classes, and the other details of military life; the entire first floor of Saint Mary's Hall was turned into an infirmary.

War No Deterrent

Even the war had been unable to stop Villanova's traditional growth. During the summer of 1917, the Augustinians were invited by two communities of teaching Sisters to offer courses which would enable the Sisters to meet the increasing requirements of the State of Pennsylvania for elementary and high-school teachers. The program soon became popular, and, in the Summer of 1918, after requests from other communities for inclusion, a Summer School was set up on campus. Again on the request of the nuns, Saturday sessions were opened in 1919.

From 13 Students To Today's 3300

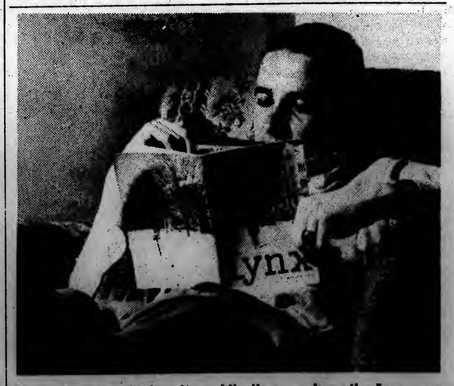
Once the war had ended and life had returned to normal civilian patterns, expansion was resumed in earnest. In 1920 courses designed to train Catholic businessmen were added to the Arts curriculum. By 1922, interest had reached such a height that it became necessary to establish a separate School of Commerce and Finance. Father Bartley was appointed Dean of the new school. At the same time, Austin Hall was built to provide more dormitory space for the growing enrollment.

Sports Growth

In 1927, in response to the growing popularity of intercollegiate sports, the south side of the stadium was erected, and the playing field, track, and stands transferred from the main quadrangle behind the monastery. The north wing of the stadium was completed in 1929.

Night classes were also begun in 1928. Expansion was proceeding at a moderate but steady pace when a disastrous fire gutted College Hall, thereby requiring the immediate construction of a classroom and laboratory building as a replacement. Mendel Hall was built with funds solicited throughout the province in 1929 to fill the vacancy left by the fire.

Building continued with the completion of Fedigan Hall in 1930, the Commerce and Finance in 1931, and the Field House in 1932. In 1934, the present monastery was erected to replace a building leveled in another fire in 1932.



New 'Dorms'

During the years which followed, because of the Depression and War, no new buildings were added to Villanova's physical plant. However, by September, 1934, the three "dorms" and the infirmary on the west side of

(Continued on Page 7)

The last few minutes before the "on the air" light flashes are always tense. Here, the principals in one of WVIL's production shows wait for the signal.

The various University publications, such as the Lynx, campus literary quarterly, are avidly and thoroughly read by the student public. The high quality of Villanova prints has merited several national awards in recent years.

From a humble beginning in Alumni Hall to its present status on the threshold of greatness the institution has progressed

Wars, Fire No Deterrent To Growth

(Continued from Page 6)

campus had been acquired from their former private owners.

The year 1941 brought the United States into the conflict then raging in Europe. Soon after this nation's entry into the War, the president called twelve leading college presidents to Washington to formulate a training program for prospective officers.

V-12 Program

In recognition of the outstanding tradition of capable administration leadership, the then president of Villanova, Father Stanford, was among those summoned. The "V-12" program these men formulated, combining the academic and the military lives, occupied nearly all the daytime teaching facilities of many of the largest colleges and universities in the country, among them Villanova.

The program, and with it a new era, were inaugurated here on May 30, 1942, when the naval commander of the new V-12 unit called to present his credentials to Father Stanford.

With the military in control, life at Villanova during the war was completely transformed. Uniforms were to be seen everywhere; only a handful of lay students remained. All administrative duties were handled by Navy personnel, and the Fathers and their lay associates were left free to concentrate their attention to teaching. Many of the priests were called into active duty as chaplains. To those remaining fell the conduct of government-sponsored night classes for war workers wanting to increase their knowledge and skills.

Return to Normalcy

With the end of the war came a gradual return to normalcy. The last of the V-12 students graduated around 1947. Their thinning ranks were soon augmented by older men returning from the war to the educational opportunities afforded them through the G.I. Bill. So great was the increase in enrollment that a new classroom building (Belle Air Hall) and four new dormitories (the old Barracks, since replaced by Sulivan Hall) had to be erected. Meanwhile the overflow from the dormitories took up residence in the Field House, where blankets strung in clothesline fashion partitioned the gym into makeshift rooms.

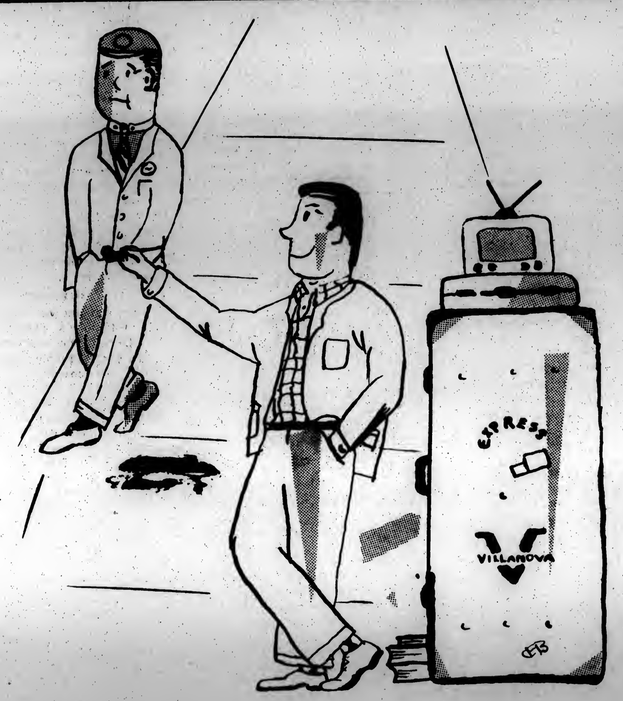
The return to peacetime also saw the resumption of Villanova's building program. A new Chemical Engineering Building, the finest in the country, was erected. Next to it rose Commadore John Barry Hall, which houses the NROTC unit, one of fifty-two in the country. A new Library to house the college's overflowing collection of books was also built.

This was Mendel Hall after the January 1928 fire, the second time the building had been gutted by flames. Mendel Hall, the university's administration building, is named for Gregor Mendel, Augustinian priest who made oustanding contributions in the field of Genetics.

Presently In Great Development

On Wednesday, November 18, 1953, at 10:30 A.M., by virtue of the signing of a new charter, Villanova College became Villanova University. Signs of change were everywhere. Enrollment had tripled since the war. Sullivan Hall was already under construction. The new Nursing and Law Schools were taking their places at Villanova.

On December 9, 1953, Father Francis X. N. McGuire President of Villanova, announced a twenty-year, $21,150,000. development program, the first goal of which, after the completion of Sullivan Hall, was a new Student Union Building, which is now Dougherty Hall. So as to be able to devote his full time to the expansion of Villanova, Father McGuire was released from his duties as president, to take over the newly-created post of Director of the Development Program. With him are working numerous leaders of the Philadelphia business community anxious to see Villanova take its proper place among American universities.



Administrative Change

Villanova University today reflects its tradition of growth. Already, more new buildings, fruit of the Development Program, are rising to serve the expanding student body. A recent contribution from the Ford Foundation is helping to maintain the University's traditional quality of faculty and course work. In keeping with the changing times, the structure of the administration was completely revamped this past summer.

To the Villanova of the past belongs the Villanova of the present; to the Villanova of the present belongs the future, Villanova's future and that of its men.

Yearbook Needs Freshmen Workers

Freshmen have been invited to an organizational meeting of the 1957 BELLE AIR yearbook staff next Monday night at 7:30 in 201 C & F.

Freshman Violators Beware

Consequences

Tonight 8:30 C&F

Division

(Continued from Page 5)

warding. All three organizations, especially the drill team, have earned well-deserved recognition over the past few years. You can be proud of them. As an extra added attraction, they offer the opportunity to earn merits to balance your demerits.

The real treats come to the regular students at the end of the year. To you regulars are reserved such pastimes as getting shots, stencilling gear, getting shots, stopping and rolling gear, getting shots and preparing for seabag inspection. All this prepares you to embark with the fleet for a two-month training cruise. For the first time the military will be the dominant side of the picture. It's said that after this cruise, you will either love or hate the Navy. This is too pat a generalization. Even those who have decided long since that the Navy air or the Marine Corps is for them can find it a rewarding and enjoyable two months if they meet it half way. Many won't even have to meet it half way to enjoy it. And others just abuse the privilege of being seasick but at least they can be sure it's Navy Air or the Corps for them. I liked it.

An Analysis of the Team, the Opponents, the Outlook:

Wildcat Football, 1956: The Prospectus

Reagan Nurses Cautious Optimism; Performance vs. Aggies Will Tell

By TOM SMITH

Frank Reagan is a sad-eyed former halfback who should be pardoned if he displays more optimism this fall than he has since he first accepted the rigorous job of tutoring Villanova's football team in 1954.

And why shouldn't he feel more secure? Finally, he has more depth (except for tackle and guard) than ever before, plus the return of some 27 lettermen, half of whom started more than one game in 1955, when the Wildcats defeated only Richmond.

Of course, Reagan must temper his optimism. A lot depends on a half dozen sophomores and the amount of support the veterans will be able to contribute in their third year under Reagan's system. The ex-Eagles' star so far is very pleased with the spirit and attitude of the club, and believes that the biggest problem will be getting over the negative psychological effects of the past two seasons.

Reagan Rates Team

Here's the breakdown on the club as Reagan sees it:

Ends: The most improved position. Tony Varrachione, Van Injaian, sophomore Gene O'Pella, Mike Boruch and Paul Laughlin are the top men here.

Tackles and Guards: Most

(Continued on Page 11)

Villanova's optimistic footballers apparently want to get the roughest part of their season over with first.

Texas A & M, which has its eyes focused on its first Southwest Conference championship in 15 years, will entertain the Wildcats in the opener for both teams Saturday at College Station, Tex.

While the 6,000 students of the all-male military school chant the Aggies War Hymn, Frank Reagan's collection of hopeful, inexperienced sophomores and game-seasoned juniors and seniors will attempt to beat the heat and the 22 Aggie lettermen who administered the only loss Texas Christian incurred last season. A & M lost only eight lettermen—six by graduation and two by academic deficiences.

Aggie Prospects Good

Paul (Bear) Bryant, the master recruiter who recalls several meetings with Villanova football teams when he was head man at Kentucky, feels he has fair team speed and a good first team defense. He also expects the young Aggies to be improved in both passing and running.

Weak positions, according to Bryant, are quarterback—where there are three above-average candidates—right halfback and the ends. He anticipates starting the same line which helped surprise Southwest football experts last year when the Aggies finished second in the league race after being a pre-season choice for the cellar.

Heat a Factor

The heat mentioned above is another factor bringing grey to Reagan's hairline. In past years—one exception was 1949 when the Wildcats met A & M in an early season game—the local behemoths have all but withered in the sweltering heat while doing

(Continued on Page 11)

Football Roster

Grazione, Jim
Ferruolo, John
Lammers, John
Magee, Bill
Bauer, John
West, Rollie
Bruno, Charlie
Sapienza, Rick
Intrabartolo, Dave
Esgro, Tony
Devereaux, Jack
Nardo, Joe
Paja, Gene
Ciarrochi, Al
Van Horn, Don
Parr, Davey
Gallagher, Don
Gianantonio, John
Ryan, Joe
Chaverini, Vince
DeLucia, Mike
Kane, Frank
Vincent, Bob
Lyons, Ray
Wood, Ron
Flynn, Mike
Fletcher, Tom
Luzzi, Don
Cherubini, Ron Szablowski, Al
Michaels, Ed, Jr.
Craig, Bill
Durgin, Hal
Tobin, Jim
Laughlin, Paul
Injaian, Van
O'Pella, Gene
Varrechione, Tony
Billipgs, Jerry
Boruch, Mike
Blackwood, Pete
Byrne, Dick
De Stephano, Art
Etter, Tim
Halligan, Bill
Mc Pherson, Tom
Montgomery, Dick
Morra, Paul
Palmer, Jim
Rookre, Ed

Tickets $1:

Olympic Fund To Get Profits From FSU Game

By HARRY NASH, '56

A venture unprecendented in college athletics will be undertaken on the evening of Saturday, October 27, at Municipal Stadium, when the Wildcats of Villanova University take on the Florida State University football team in a game from which all net profits will be given to the United States Olympic Fund.

Dudley Announces

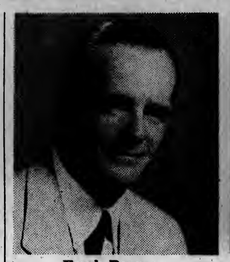
The announcement of the plan was made today by Villanova Director of Athletics Ambrose F. "Bud" Dudley, who has the wholehearted support of the United States Olympic Committee and officials of Florida State in putting over the unparalleled project. Dudley said that "all profits derived from sale of tickets, over and above the actual expenses," will be turned over to the Olympic Fund. All seats in the 100,000 capacity stadium are reserved and will sell for $1, with the first applicants for tickets getting the best seating positions.

Dudley also announced that Food Fair, Inc., a large chain-store concern, will act as "the official ticket distribution agent" for the game. All Food Fair stores throughout Greater Philadelphia and Delaware Valley will set up special booths for the sale of tickets.

K of C Ushers

For the fifth straight time at Villanova ball games, the members of the Knights of Columbus will serve as ushers at Municipal Stadium.

Mr. J. Lyman Bingham, executive director of the United States Olympic Committee, and Mr. Asa Bushnell, secretary, have welcomed the project and have been working hand in hand with Dudley in the plan's execution.



The venture could set a new record amount of money turned over to the Olympic Fund. The Rose Bowl of 1956 garnered some $36,000 to help finance the travels and equipment needs of U.S. athletes in Olympic competitions; Dudley believes that his latest bonanza could break the record.

The Olympic attraction is only part of this ambitious project set around the Wildcats' fifth game of the season and the club's first of three home games.

Great Band

Florida State's 128-piece band, one of the nation's finest, and the visitors' all-student circus act will enliven the pre-game

(Continued on Page 11)

Frank Reagan
Head Coach

Ambrose F. "Bud" Dudley
Athletic Director

'Bud' Dudley Still Faces Home Game Problems

By TOM SMITH

The question of home football games will surely be uppermost in the minds of sports-minded and enthusiastic freshmen once they have put aside ponderings of a heavier academic nature.

That same query has been of a singularly prominent nature for the past several years. It is nothing new.

Since January 1952, when he took over as Director of Athletics, Ambrose F. "Bud" Dudley has been working most of the day and part of the night to build a big time football team and a sufficiently effective big-time policy and inner official working to accompany the rejuvenation on the gridiron.

Dudley's Headaches

A man of less courage would have long since retreated to the relative security of the wallpapering business after facing these obstacles, the first two of which Dudley still stares squarely in the face:

1. No stadium to speak of in the same breath with a general big-time football policy and schedule;

2. A case of gridiron "isolation" that has made natural rivalries all but impossible, forcing Villanova's football team of late to become a group of autumulan nomads engaging in intersectional battles throughout the nation, especially the southland; and finally

3. Competition from the University of Pennsylvania, long entrenched in scenic and spacious Franklin Field on seven or eight of nine football Saturdays a season, playing the role of sacrificial lamb before the altar of such powers as Notre Dame, Army, Navy, Ohio State and California under the "victory with honor" program instituted by former Penn president Harold Stassen, himself somewhat of a sacrificial lamb of late.

Tough Struggle

Dudley has been meeting his obstacles head on, but he still hasn't been able, despite several widely-publicized and financially successful mass ticket promotions through a supermarket chain, to build a substantial following of Wildcat fans who would shell out cash to watch Villanova play some of the top teams in the nation.

These top clubs that have been engaged for Philadelphia battles with the Wildcats in recent years don't travel for geographical experience, and the guarantees they have required have made it difficult for the University to stay in the black on games in Franklin Field or Connie Mack Stadium or Municipal Stadium, or even at Villanova, for that matter. Parking downtown is a problem; space and facilities at Villanova is a problen; playing away constantly is no permanent answer, because of the resultant bad effect on the student body and potential local fans who never get a chance to view their heroes in action.

New Stadium Remote

Perhaps a new stadium on campus is the answer. There's a great deal of parking space around for patrons to utilize, but the stadium is rather far down on the list of expansion projects. More classroom buildings and dormitories require immediate attention and must take priority.

Prospects Better

There is a brighter side. Wildcat followers keep telling themselves that the victory path is right around the next goalpost, and this year there is a good bit of justification for such an attitude, according to those close to the ball club. The caliber of scholarship ball players is steadily improving.

And Dudley may be looking forward to the years when Villanova will be the only other area football team capable of competing with big-time schools. The other local big name, Penn, is going back into an Ivy League schedule this year, playing only two outsiders, Penn State and Navy. The home-and-away basis for Ivy League scheduling will probably reduce the Quakers' home slate to five or six home games a year in subsequent years, and Villanova, if it is able to sufficiently improve on the gridiron itself, will have more drawing potential against top-notch intersectional competition.

Let's Win First

Right now, however, the first step is winning a few ball games. That's the best tonic for alumni and students and outside rooters alike. If the Wildcats win, they will draw and will gain recognition; enough improvement in that field may eventually bring a new stadium and a flock of home games.

Football Schedule

1956 SCHEDULE

Saturday, September 22
Texas A & M ... College Station, Texas
Sunday, September 30
Detroit ..... Detroit, Michigan
*Saturday, October 13
Dayton ..... Dayton, Ohio
*Saturday, October 20
Boston U. ..... Boston, Mass.
*Saturday, October 27
Florida State .. Municipal Stadium
*Friday, November 2
Boston College Boston, Mass.
Saturday November 10
The Citadel ... Villanova Sta.
Saturday, November 17
Houston .... Houston, Texas
Saturday, November 24
Iowa State .... Villanova Sta.
*Indicates night game.

1955 RESULTS

Villanova		Opponent
2	Baylor	19
0	Kentucky	28
14	Boston College	28
7	Indiana	14
13	North Carolina St.	34
16	Richmond	14
13	Florida State	16
0	Detroit	6
14	Houston	26
7	Dayton	19

Won 1—Lost 9

Basketball Schedule

1956-1957

Dec. 5 Canisius ..... Palestra
Dec. 8 Delaware .... Palestra
Dec. 15 William & Mary ..... Palestra
Dec. 20 Indiana ..... Palestra
Dec. 27
Dec. 28
Holiday Tournament ..... New York
Dec. 29
Jan. 2 Muhlenberg .... Away
Jan. 5 St. Bonaventure ..... Away
Jan. 7 Duquesne ..... Away
Jan. 12 West Virginia .. Away
Jan. 16 Pennsylvania . Palestra
Jan. 19 St. Joseph's .. Palestra
Jan. 26 Seton Hall ..... Away
Jan. 30 Drexel ..... Home
Feb. 6 Temple ..... Palestra
Feb. 8 Dayton ..... Palestra
Feb. 13 Fordham ..... Away
Feb. 16 Richmond ... Palestra
Feb. 18 Scranton ..... Home
Feb. 20 Washington & Lee ..... Palestra
Feb. 23 North Carolina State ..... Away
Feb. 26 Brandeis ..... Home
Mar. 1 Mt. Saint Mary's ..... Palestra
Mar. 6 LaSalle ..... Palestra
Mar. 9 CITY SERIES ..... Palestra

General Information About Your University

Address—Villanova, Pa. Located approximately 12 miles and 30 minutes from downtown Philadelphia. U.S. Route 30 passes in front of the University campus. It can be reached by local Pennsylvania Railroad trains from Suburban Station (16th Street) or 30th Street Station. It is 10 minutes by high-speed Philadelphia and Western Railroad trains from 69th Street Terminal.

Denomination—Catholic.

Founded—1842—at its present location, by the Order of St. Augustine.

President—Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., Ph.D.

Major Courses—Villanova grants degrees in engineering, economics, liberal arts, science, chemistry, physics, education, naval science, nursing and law.

Enrollment—3100.

Colors—Blue and White.

Nicknames of Teams—Wildcats, Main Liners.

Moderator of Athletics—Rev. Joseph K. Kemme, O.S.A.

Director of Athletics—Ambrose F. "Bud" Dudley.

Business Manager of Athletics—Robert M. Whelan.

Sports Information Director—Harry C. Nash III.

Head Football Coach—Francis X. Reagan, Pennsylvania '41.

Line Coach—Edward Michaels, Sr., Villanova '36.

Line Coach—Otis Douglas, William & Mary '32.

Backfield Coach—Joseph Rogers, Villanova '50.

Freshman Coach—David DiFilippo, Villanova '40.

Team Trainer—John Nevin.

Equipment Manager—Charles Farnan.

Team Physicians—John Healy, M.D. Jeremiah Lee, M.D.

A Look at the Squad

Paul Laughlin—A scholarly wingman who saw a lot of action late last season. An "A" student in the Liberal Arts school, majors in Philosophy, represents Junior Class on Student Council. Added a few pounds since '55, should be even better on defense.

Van Injaian—Minor injuries kept Van from being a full-time starter in '55. Scored Cats' first TD and played consistently well throughout the campaign. Named to All-Armenian team for the past two years.

Gene Opella—A giant soph who rates well in all departments. Could be the first Villanova athlete to combine football and basketball talents since prewar days. Sparkled on both frosh squads last year.

Tony Varrechione—Saw only limited duty last year but was a standout in spring drills. His TD grab of a Grazione aerial highlighted the Varsity's win over the Oldtimers in May. Plans to become a Marine after graduation in '58.

Mike Boruch—With two full varsity campaigns behind him, Mike is looking to '56 as his best year. Has a knack for snaring the "impossible" ones, has been active in class activities.

Don Luzzi—Earned a starting role as a soph in '55, held it throughout the season. His play was one of the bright spots of the campaign. A real strong man, he holds Villanova's heavyweight wrestling title, has good speed despite his burly 230 pounds.

Ron Cherubini—A first-line tackle at the season's outset, he capably filled in at center when injuries riddled the Wildcat squad midway through '55. A weightman on Villanova's very fine track team, Ron is a pre-law major.

Bill Craig—Rugged all-purpose performer who could win a starting job in his first year. Mainstay of a formidable Frosh line and a brilliant springtime prospect, Bill has the poise of a veteran.

Eddie Michaels, Jr—Son of Villanova's line coach, "Young Eddie" showed some excellent defensive work as a frontline reserve last year. A fine student and an award-winning poet, he has speed enough to hold down either a tackle or guard spot.

Ron Wood—A solid senior with good football sense. A former scholastic All-American, "Skip" is a quick, dependable blocker and a rugged defenseman either at the middle spot or as a line-backer.

Mike Flynn—A hard-working, soft-spoken Electrical Engineering student who was a regular all last season. Spear-headed Villanova's five goal-line stands against Indiana. An ex-Marine, he likes to play "fifth man" in the opponent's backfield.

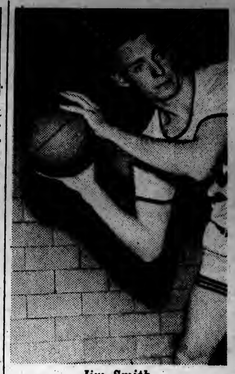
Ray Macko—Brightened spring drills with his standout play. An ex-GI, Ray is the most experienced of three senior guards. Slowed down by minor injuries a year ago, his return to full-time availability bolsters the Wildcat line corps.

Bill Magee

Vince Chaverini—Slated for reserve duties in '55, Vince finished the season as a starter. A good offensive pivot-man, his poundage should enhance his stock as a linebacker.

Joe Ryan—Came to Villanova as a line-busting fullback but made the switch to the pivot post successfully last season. A robust backer-up, Joe is a spirited competitor whose year of varsity experience should pay off in '56.

Mike DeLucia—A top soph prospect who is slated for heavy duty on the strength of his excellent spring work. A center by trade, Mike can also perform with equal ability at a guard position.



Jim Grazione—One of four former Southeast Catholic (Phila.) City titlists on the Wildcat roster, Jim maneuvered and passed the Frosh to an impressive undefeated season in '55. Served notice on the veterans that he is ready for varsity duty with remarkable poise in the Oldtimers' tussle at the end of spring drills.

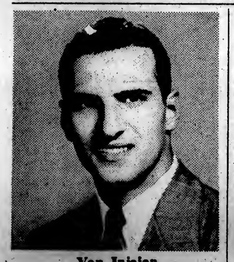
Bill Magee—Earned the title "Billy the Kid" for his fine sharpshooting exhibition against Houston last year. Won the top spot midway through the '55 campaign and is determined to keep it. Has an active and accurate throwing arm.

John Bauer—The team's leading groundgainer for '55, Johnny operated from both halfback and fullback. Has excellent speed, outraced the Indiana secondary to haul in a sensational 67-yard scoring toss. Big enough to go well on quick inside thrusts.

Davey Parr—Showed tremendous speed and promise as a sophomore starter in '55. Always a scoring threat, Davey sprinted to 4 TD's last year. Could be the Cats' top leatherlugger in '56.

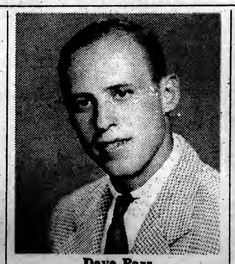
Rick Sapienza—A potential breakaway artist, Rick earned his spurs as a regular last season, handled the punting chores. Maintains a long line of former Everett, Mass. scholastics who have furthered their grid careers at Villanova, including former Coach Art Raimo, and Harbor Bowl fullback Ralph Pasquariello.

Jim Smith
Basketball Captain 1955-56



John Ferruolo—Has developed into a surprisingly good runner after being switched to halfback mainly to make use of his outstanding defensive ability. Possesses a formidable backlog of game experience.

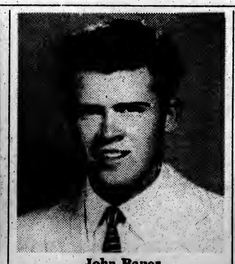
Al Ciarrochi—Starts his senior year with experience at both halfback and fullback. Scat-back type, Al averaged 5.7 yards per carry in '54, was slowed up by injuries last year. Showed his best efforts in spring practice.



Gene Paja—Unheralded as a freshman, he hurtled into the limelight during spring practice. Paja's running style is reminiscent of former fullback stalwarts, Pete D'Alonzo, and Bob Haner. Has good power and tremendous desire.

Rollie West—The real running machine of the Frosh squad, Rollie packs a lot of power, reaches top speed quickly. Tagged the "Abington Express," he also rates well as a receiver.

Tony Esgro—Has shown up well in pre-season drills as understudy to West. Has a lot of power and may be very valuable in chewing up those tough short yardage gains.

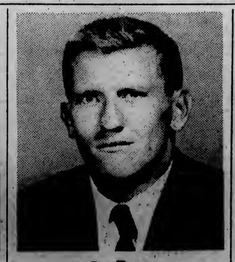


Van Injaian

Dave Parr

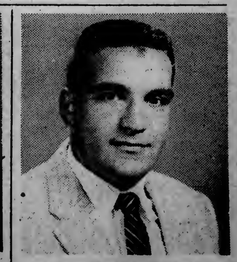
Rollie West

John Bauer



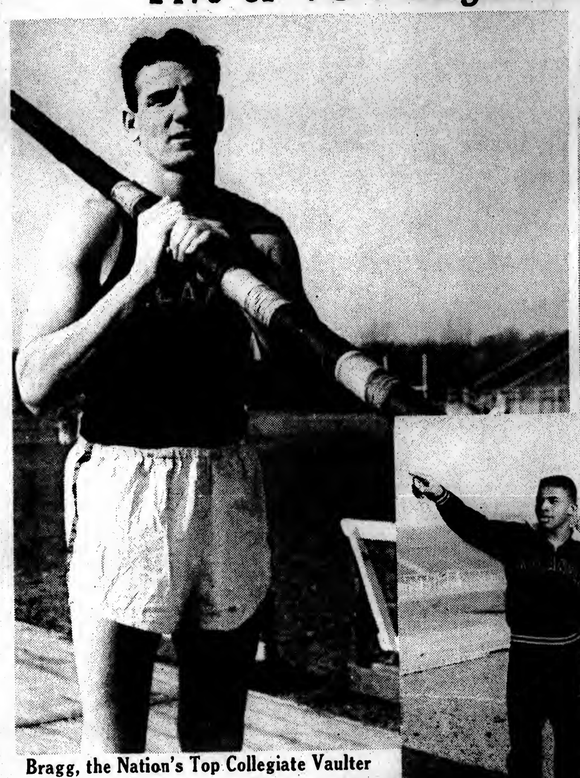
Tony Varrechione

Ron Cherubini



Ron Wood

Joe Ryan

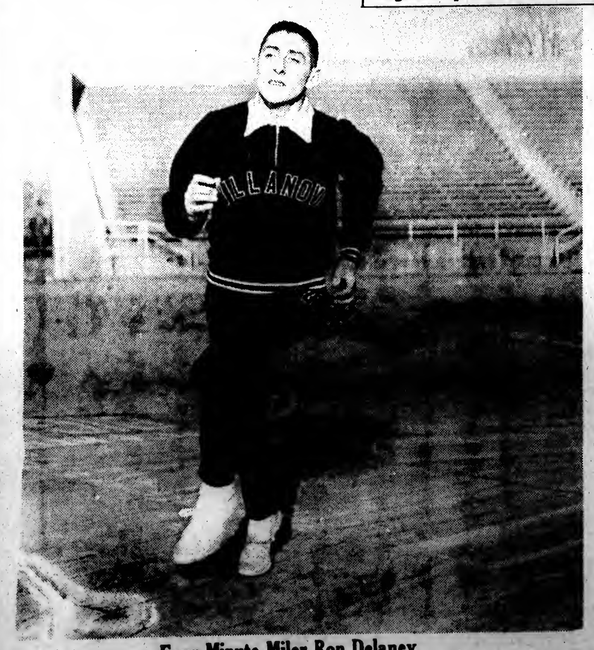


Mike Flynn

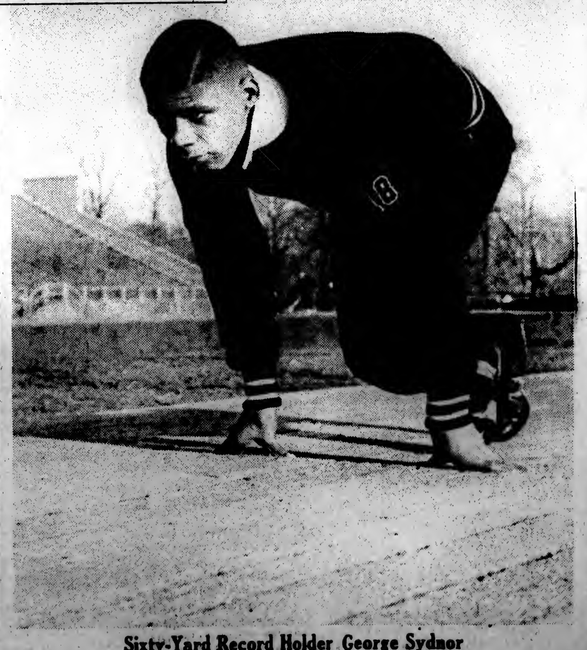
Don Luzzi

Delaney, Bragg, Jenkins, Reavis, Sydnor and their Coach:

Five of VU's Brightest Track and Field Stars



Bragg, the Nation's Top Collegiate Vaulter



400-Meter Star Charlie Jenkins

High-Jump Star Phil Reavis with Coach Jumbo Elliot

Four-Minute Miler Ron Delaney

Sixty-Yard Record Holder George Sydnor

Blind Dates Available:

'Dancing on Moon' Theme Highlights Sept. 28th Hop

They'll be dancing on the moon at the year's first social event Sept. 28 in the Field House.

The Owl Hop committee has announced the theme will be "2056 A. D."

Phi Kappa Pi, the engineering fraternity, annually sponsors the affair, which serves as an introduction to college social life for freshmen and the start of a new social whirl for upperclassmen.

Tickets are priced at $2 a couple and may be purchased any day next week during class hours in the Dougherty Hall day hop cafeteria.

Dance Chairman Bob Repin reminded freshmen that attaire is informal-coats and ties for the males and party dresses for the girls.

In keeping with the space man theme, decorations chairman Jack Walsh and his committeemen have been designing sets during the summer. Decorations will be rather "elaborate," according to publicity chairman Bill Wescott.

Freshmen interested in blind dates for their first college dance may sign up at the ticket booth, according to Wescott. They will list their names, addresses and heights. A similar list will be compiled at Rosemont.

Wescott said the deadline for signing up will be Thursday, Sept. 27. That same day freshmen will be given names of their blind dates and where they may pick them up at Rosemont.

Yearbook Needs Freshmen Workers

Freshmen have been invited to an organizational meeting of the 1957 BELLE AIR yearbook staff next Monday night at 7:30 in 201 C & F.

Any upperclassmen interested in working on this year's book were invited along with the freshmen by Editor - in - Chief Dick Scheicher.

Performance

(Continued from Page 8)

battle with Texas teams.

After this weekend's engagement with the Aggies, locking up with Detroit may sound tame. But Coach Wally Fromhart has four halfbacks, four ends, two guards and a center back to form the core of a club that will attempt to defend its co-championship of the Missouri Valley Conference.

The Titans, one of Villanova's oldest rivals (VU has won 13 of 22) won their last five games in 1955, one of the victories being over the Main Liners, 6-0.

First Home Game

Members of the Class of 1960 won't get their first look at the team until the evening of October 27, when the Wildcats entertain Florida State at Municipal Stadium. Big things are due that night, what with all profits over and above actual expenses and guarantees going to the United States Olympic Fund. FSU, bringing in its own student circus and one of the finest bands in the country for added color, works out of the intriguing I formation of Coach Tom Nugent.

Three Veeps

(Continued from Page 1)

John A. Klekotka, O.S.A., succeeding Father Kemme as Chaplain.

WELCOME FROSH

FROSH EVENING ACTIVITIES

By Bob Mulcahy

Wednesday . . Team Sendoff, Show
Thursday . . . . . Sports Night
Friday . . . . . Jazz Concert, Dance

Highlighting this year's orientation week for the class of 1960, will be the inauguration of a full schedule of evening activities to supplement the usual daylight doings.

Orientation Co-chairman Ken MacGillivray and Pat Nicholson revealed the plans Monday at a meeting of orientation committee members preliminary to freshmen registration.

The program started off last night with a parade around campus followed by a pep rally behind the stadium. A great display of spirit gave the team the needed impetus to defeat Texas A & M.

Violators To Perform

Tonight is featured Truth or Consequences show and song fest at 8:30 in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium. Contestants for the show will be violaters of "Frosh Rules." However, this is all anti-climactic to the send off of the varsity team from the Villanova station at 7:30.

Sports will feature Thursday's program. Under the Chairmanship of Matt Brennan and with the cooperation of the University's Sports Publicity Department films of Villanova's athletic history will be shown starting at 7:45.

Jazz and Dancing

Jazz and dancing will provide the material for a fitting end to the week on Friday. Girls from the local colleges will be invited to attend the jazz concert and dance at a place to be announced. The festivities commence at 7:45.

Class of 1960 Arrives

(Continued from Page 1)

Law Building Up

A third building—Garey Hall, home of the new Law School, is nearing completion and is to be occupied in the course of the present scholastic year. Two others, a new dormitory to be the slightly larger twin of Sullivan Hall, and a new classroom building which will complete a quadrangle with Sullivan, the Commerce and Finance Building, and the new dormitory, are now underway and will be completed within the next two years.

Still on the drawing boards are other buildings which will house the Engineering School and the Seminary (thereby presumably freeing Saint Rita's and Saint Mary's Halls for student use), and a new Chapel building which will be sufficient to accommodate the entire student body. After them, it is expected, still other buildings will follow.

Great Variety of Activities

(Continued from Page 1)

It might suffice to say that there is a club devoted to practically every conceivable purpose, and that the few vacant fields are fast being preempted by new organizations. Indeed, so many organizations have been formed in the last few years that the Student Council has been seriously debating limits on its membership from the organizations.

Among the most conspicuous of the clubs are the dramatic societies, Belle Masque, which puts on two plays a year, and Turf 'n Tinsel, the University's all-male musical-comedy company, which presents original performances and dance routines. Another organization very much in the fore-front of student attention is WVIL, the campus radio station, with its studios in Dougherty Hall.

Pro Fraternities

Then there are the professional engineering fraternities, which feature lectures and outings designed to improve their members' knowledge of their particular engineering fields as well as to provide occasions for social contacts with others in the engineering profession. Somewhat akin are such clubs as the Physics, Mathematics and Chemistry Clubs, which also feature lectures in the appropriate scientific fields.

Beyond this are various other organizations, such as the International Relations Society, which features trips to United Nations meetings in New York and to various Embassies and press conferences in Washington. There are also an Astronomy Club, clubs devoted to the studies of foreign languages, and to particular major fields of study. If a student still can't find a club devoted to his favorite interest, the procedure is very simple. All he has to do is find a few other students interested in the same thing, locate a faculty member interested in being moderator, and see the Dean of Student Activities about the proper procedure for founding a new organization and getting it cleared by the administration.

Many Functions

In a somewhat different class are the fraternities. These are campus organizations with no national affiliations, a separate fraternity being devoted to each school. Delta Pi Mu serves the Arts School; Delta Pi Epsilon unites the Commerce and Finance students; Phi Kappa Pi is the Engineering fraternity; and Lamda Kappa Delta represents the Science majors. These are social organizations which sponsor dances, Communion breakfasts, and numerous other functions; they also serve as professional organizations in that they present speakers in the fields in which their members are majoring to keep the student apprised of recent developments in his chosen field.

Great Broadening

Villanova's varied activities form an important part of university life; for the most part, development of the faculties of leadership which the student wishes to possess upon his graduation is entrusted to the extra-curricular activities. The Villanovan who shuns the activities is depriving himself of this major part of his education. He is also missing a great deal of good, old-fashioned pleasure besides. The Villanovan who is active in extra-curriculars, on the other hand, is making use of all the opportunities the University offers for his development. By doing so, he is making himself a better man.

The University's Social Life

(Continued from Page 1)

Varied Interests

period of time during the academic year during which it becomes the center of campus attraction. The of these is Sophomore Weekend, held in October. This initial class-sponsored function includes The Sophomore Cotillion and a football game with the entire weekend generously sprinkled with parties. Late in January the Seniors hold the spotlight with the Senior Prom, the Senior Dinner Dance, and Father's Day. Probably the outstanding social event at Villanova is Junior Week, held the first week in May. Renowned in collegiate circles as one of the outstanding events of the year, Villanova's Junior Week begins with Mother's Day and the planting of the traditional Class Tree. The week continues its hectic pace with a Jazz Concert and other special events leading up to the Junior Prom, the outstanding social event of the year. In rounding out the week, Juniors hold their closed and highly festive Dinner Dance.

SAPA Picnic

Mucho Mixers

The neighboring girls' colleges often hold mixers and other events, the most noteworthy of these being the Rosemont Jazz Concerts. Villanovan's have enjoyed many Sunday afternoons at the "Patch" listening to Dixie by bands like Eli's Chosen Six, and Billy Krechmer's jazz group from Philadelphia.

Villanova's nearness to the City of Brotherly Love has great social advantages. Philadelphia offers many opportunities, a list of which would include the pre—and post—Broadway showings of the legitimate theatre, the Monday, Wednesday, and Friday concerts of the Philadelphia Orchestra under its world-renowned conductor, Eugene Ormandy, six performances annually of the Metropolitan Opera, and numerous sports events held during the year.

A group of diversions which seem to many to be the exemplar of Villanova social life is the picnics. Usually impromptu and always exciting, the picnics provide an excellent opportunity for the demonstration of the spirit of comradeship prevalent here at the University.

Olympic Fund

(Continued from Page 8)

and half-time festivities.

In addition, FSU, coached by Tom Nugent, runs out of the very intriguing I formation, in which the four backfield men line up behind one another in a straight line and then dash out in separate and indeterminate directions once the ball is snapped. Nugent originated the idea while coaching at Virginia Military Institute several years ago.

Earlier Promotions

Dudley, who earlier in his career at Villanova, had attracted national attention with food-chain ticket sales, feels that the elements of the game and the Olympic tie-in comprise a remarkably appealing package. He is hopeful that a check of record proportions will be presented to Mr. Bushnell and Mr. Bingham during halftime ceremonies.

Reagan

(Continued from Page 8)

shallow position from standpoint of depth. Don Luzzi, Ron Cherubini and Bill Craig are the front-runners at tackle; Ron Wood and Mike Flynn, both defensive stalwarts last season, are the leaders at guard. They'll be aided by Mike DeLucia and Ray Macko.

Center: Reagan says he is "satisfied" with the work of starter Joe Ryan and Vince Chaverini here.

Quarterback: Junior Bill Magee will be the starter; he's been hitting his passing targets with outstanding accuracy in practice. Magee, a smart field director as well, will be pushed by sophomore Jim Grazione, who led the frosh club to an unbeaten season in 1955.

Halfback: Reagan says the problem here is a lack of outstanding talent past the front-runners. Davey Parr and John Bauer, John Ferruolo, John Gianantonio, and Rick Sapienza. Parr and Bauer are expected to carry the brunt of the ground game; both are explosive breakaway boys; Ferruolo is perhaps the club's finest defensive man.

Fullback: Sophomore Rollie West, a 215-pound powerhouse, is the top man here. The only question with West is experience. He's shown the talent necessary after switching over from halfback. He'll be backed by Tony Esgro.

March of the Wildcats
Thursday 7:45

The Faith and the Villanovan

(Continued from Page 2)

the truth have long held out. His faith made him a target for intelligent yet insulting minds. He held his ground. He answered every verbal barrage and demonstrated the strength and validity of his Catholic education in finishing in the top 10% of his class.

Another man from the same recent graduating class is an officer in the Navy, where a man's fancy often turns to "dames and damns." He conducts a Holy Hour that he himself organized each Sunday on board his minesweeper, out at sea. A graduate of the Class of 1948 sits at a $6000 a year desk job with one of the leading railroads. His buddy with whom he entered the company at the same time earns $7500. The difference—his buddy wears a Masonic ring, and the graduate of '48 wears only the Villanova ring.

Just a Few

These men who were and are Villanova men are but a few among many to whom the Catholic faith and way of life is a vital, virile, living thing. They are real Villanova men because they are real Catholic men. Will not the young men of the Class of 1960 be Villanova men also? The time to begin is upon the 1000 freshmen entering a singularly significant phase of their lives today.

How they conduct themselves in the next four years will determine whether they will be men of whom Villanova can be justly proud.

Philly Awaits the Scholar

(Continued from Page 4)

tower is chiefly composed of Broad Street. The white towered building four blocks away is the home of the Philadelphia Inquirer, the morning paper. In the left background the Greek Temple-like Girard College rises above the surrounding brickwork. This school was established by Stephen Girard in 1931 as a home and school for orphaned boys.

Nation's Busiest Port

To the northeast is the Delaware River Bridge, an eight lane suspension bridge which also carries subway surface trains connecting Philadelphia and Camden, New Jersey, which is a heavily industralized city. Franklin Square, another of Penn's squares, can be seen at the bridge entrance. The Philadelphia waterfront area, which borders on the Delaware, handles more tons of freight per year than the port of New York, and with a fraction of that port's labor troubles.

Along east Market Street the big department stores— Wanamaker's on the near right, Snellenberg's, Gimbels', Strawbridge and Clothier's, and Lit's are readily apparent. In the rear left background is the white spire of Christ Church.

On the south, Broad Street stretches miles to the Philadelphia Naval Base, located at the point where the Schuylkill River empties into the Delaware.

To the southwest, the trees of fashionable Rittenhouse Square can be seen through the buildings.

Meeting Places

Once out of City Hall, cross the street to Wanamaker's, entering through the doors at the corner of Juniper and Market Streets, walk south along the main aisle through the arch to the famous Wanamaker eagle, one of Philadelphia's popular meeting places. You are now in the center of a large hall—especially beautiful during the Christmas season. Looking up you will find the Wanamaker collection of flags hung from a lower balcony. At the southern end is one of the largest pipe organs in the world.

Proceed through the arch and out the revolving doors to Chestnut Street. Turn left and walk East eight blocks to Independence Hall. If you prefer to ride there is a convenient car stop across the street.

Historic Independence Hall

There are four buildings in Independence Square. The central structure, which has two wings connected by archways to the main building, is Independence Hall. West of it is Congress Hall, and East of it is old City Hall. Behind the latter is the home of the American Philosophical Society, founded by Benjamin Franklin.

Independence Hall, built in 1732 to house the Provincial Assembly, which first met there in October, 1735. The "Declaration Chamber" in the east side of the first floor corridor was the home of the second and subsequent Continental Congress. On June 16, 1775 George Washington accepted here his appointment as General of the Continental Army. On July 4, 1776, the Declaration of Independance was adopted here, as were the Articles of Confederation on July 9, 1778. The room, however, is currently being restored to its appearence on September 17, 1787(when the Constitution of the United States was completed here. Note the rising sun chair on the dais.

The room across the hall housed the Pennsylvania Supreme Court from 1741 to 1802. Independence Hall also served as the State House until 1799, when the capital was moved to Lancaster.

In the center of the stair well at the rear of Independence Hall is the famous Liberty Bell, bearing its inscription from Leviticus, XXV, 10; "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof." The bell was orginally ordered from England to commemorate the 50th anniversary of Pennsylvania, under Penn's charter of 1701 and recast twice once it had arrived.

During the British occupation of Philadelphia it was housed by the rebels in Allentown. It cracked on July 8, 1835 while marking the death of Chief Justice Marshall.

The large banquet hall upstairs, which served as a hospital during the revolutionary war, later became the private museum of the famous portrait painter, Charles Wilson Peale.

Many Portraits

Lining the walls of this and adjoining rooms are the portraits of nearly all the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Congress Hall, completed in 1879 was used by Congress from December 6, 1790 to May 14, 1800. The House of Representatives is on the first floor and the Senate in the south chamber on the second floor. Here Washington and his successor, John Adams, assumed the presidency. During its stay here, the states of Vermont, Kentucky, and Tennessee were admitted to the Union.

Old City Hall, during the government's stay in Philadelphia housed the Supreme Court. The court was housed in the rear room on the second floor, the city government being on the first floor. The building later became the police station. It now houses a collection of notably ancient fire engines.

Across the street from Independence Square is the new Independence Mall, which will eventually extend to Franklin Square. To the southwest is Washington Square, another of Penn's public squares, since renamed. Parts of the adjoining area are being cleared to bring out the old historic sites long concealed by surrounding buildings. The first of these we come to is Carpenter's Hall.

First Continental Congress

Carpenter's Hall was erected as a meeting house by the "Carpenters' Company of the City and County of Philadelphia" formed as a benevolent society by a group of the city's master carpenters in 1724. The structure was first occupied on January 21, 1771. This was the site of the meetings of the first Continental Congress in 1774. Here the first Bank of the United States opened its doors in 1791, as did the Second Bank, twenty-five years later. In 1857 the Carpenters' Company, recognizing the historical value of the hall, restored it to its original condition.

Andy Jackson's Bank

Proceeding east along Chestnut Street we pass on the right, between Fifth and Fourth Streets, the Second Bank of the United States. This was the institution with which Andrew Jackson so bitterly waged political warfare, vetoing a renewal of its charter in 1832. Later the the building became the United States Customs House for the port of Philadelphia.

Looking south as you cross Third Street you will see a grey building at 116 South Third Street. This was the home of the First Bank of the United States. Once its twenty year charter had expired in 1812, Stephen Girard bought the building from the Bank, conducting his private bank there until his death.

Proceed one block further east to Second Street and there turn north across Market Street. You walk north along Second Street half a block to Christ Church.

Famous Pews

Christ Church is Episcopalian. It was founded in 1695 under a clause in the charter granted to William Penn. The present church, the third to stand on this spot, was substantially completed in May, 1747. The eight bells in the tower were removed to Allentown along with the Liberty Bell during the British occupation. Within the church you will find many beautiful stained glass windows picturing highlights of early American history. Here also are the pews where such eminent early founding fathers as George Washington, William Penn, Benjamin Franklin, and Robert Morris worshipped. Betsy Ross' pew is also to be found here. The gravestones in the floor and in the churchyard mark the resting places of such notables as the last Governor Penn and James Wilson, signer of the Declaration.

Betsy Ross's House

Emerging from Christ Church, turn left and walk north to Arch Street. Turn left again and proceed west to Betsy Ross's house, which is marked by a large thirteen-starred flag hanging from the upper window. This house, which you may tour completely; traditionally regarded as the place where the first American flag was made, furnishes a typical example of the homes of the day.

Coming out of Betsy Ross's house, turn right and walk again west on Arch Street. On the opposite side of the street at Fifth and Arch Streets is the Christ Church burial ground, purchased in 1719. Here, though an iron fence, you may view the graves of Benjamin Franklin and his wife, Deborah.

Turn south on Fifth Street and proceed to Market, where you may catch a car to City Hall. Note, as you pass the sign at Nine South Ninth Street of Leary's Book Store, the largest and oldest book store in the country.

H and H, Boy!

By now it should be lunch time. As a fine and inexpensive place to eat, let me recommend a Horn and Hardart cafeteria, either the new shop in Penn Center, or the old favorite at Sixteenth and Chestnut.

The second part of our tour, devoted to the cultural aspects of Philadelphia, begins somewhere on Walnut Street, west of Sixteenth Street. The many small, exclusive shops make Walnut Street between Sixteenth Street and Rittenhouse Square one of the most fascinating streets in the city.

When you have examined this square, richest and the most beautiful in Philadelphia, to your satisfaction, turn north on Nineteenth Street and proceed to Logan Circle. You will come out beside the Museum of Natural History. Within you will find many rare and striking exhibits of animals in their natural habitats. On the balcony of the hall on the right as you enter is an exhibit on the history of the Delaware River.

Scientists' Paradise

Do not tarry long, for the next stop, the Fels Planetarium, has a schedule to meet. Performances on Saturday are at two and three in the afternoon. The Planetarium is most easily entered through the door on the Parkway side of the Museum. While you are waiting you will find many exhibits of scientific interest. This is one of those museums, however of which it takes at least a day just to take a good survey.

Next on our list is the Rodin Museum of Sculpture at Twenty-first Street on the Parkway. Here you will find copies of the works of Rodin, notable among which are the statue of "The Thinker" at the front gates, and the "Gates of Hell" at the entrance to the museum proper. Once inside, note the statue of Balzac one of Rodin's most famous. The best "Thought" symbolizing the life of study, is also noteworthy.

Emerging from the Rodin Museum, turn right and proceed up the Parkway to the Philadelphia Museum of Art. It is better not to try to cross the traffic circle at the base of the museum directly. Note the monument to Washington in the center of the circle. You will find one of the finest views of Philadelphia is to be had from the top of the mussum steps.

Leading Art Museum

Once inside the museum proceed up the main stairs and enter the gallery to the right. On both sides of this main galley are beautiful period rooms. Note especially the Louis XIV room. The wing at the end of this gallery to the right is also worthy of note. To get a quick survey walk down the side gallery of rooms on the left. At the end of the corridor, spend a moment in the gallery of minatures. Then return through the English rooms on the right side gallery. There are some beautiful Gainsboroughs here. Next take the stairs at the beginning of the left side gallery of the wing you are now in to the first floor. Through the door at the foot of the stairs on your left is a gallery of beautiful paintings of the Dutch school. Here also is to be found the famous "Crucifixion" by Peter Paul Rubens. Rembrandt also figures in this collection.

Modern Art

Returning in the direction of the stairway through the adjoining corridor, you will pass a section devoted to modern sculpture. At the end of the corridor is a large rotunda, in the center of which is a beautiful fountain. Ranged around the room there are paintings of the Renaissance period. Goya is, as always, prominent.

Exit to the main door through the gallery to the left of that from which you just emerged.

The other wings of the museum are devoted largely to prints, ceramics, glass, woodwork, and rugs. There is some exotic crystal work in an Oriental setting in the second floor wing. Notable also is the collection of period dress at the far end of the first floor wing. Here again we have a museum which will provide days of study and relaxation.

Seat of Archdiocese

Emerging once more into the main courtyard of the museum, head down the parkway toward the Cathedral of Saints Peter and Paul, the last stop on our journey. Here is the seat of the Archdiocese of Philadelphia, currently presided over by the Most Reverend John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., former President of Notre, Dame. Although old, the Cathedral, imposing in its carefully proportioned hugeness, has many beautiful paintings hung about the walls. Its stained glass windows also are very magnificent.

Our tour closes at the entrance to the Pennsylvania Railroad Suburban Station at Sixteenth Street. This is the huge grey building two blocks from the Cathedral along the Parkway. The station is downstairs. Here you will find cases listing timetable data. Make sure to check and see that the train you take stops at Villanova. Some of them don't.

The Frosh Meets Senior

(Continued from Page 5)

SECOND FROSH: "Are you kiddin'? Me and de boys are going over to Rosemont to get some early contacts. There're havin' a kindler or somethin' over there this weekend and we gotta get in on de ground floor."

FIRST FROSH: "Why, that's a women's institution, isn't it? Are we allowed over there? I read a lot about them last year. I forget just what it was about . . . extra holidays, or something. You'd better not go."

SECOND FROSH: "Go to sleep, Freddie. And don't forget to lay out that jacket for me tomorrow. By the way, can I borrow a dollar tomorrow?"

And so it goes.

Orientation In Pictures (Page 8)

Villanovan

Vol. 32, No. 2 VILLANOVA UNIVERSITY, VILLANOVA, PA. October 3, 1956

Day of Recollection Set For Tomorrow; SC To Sponsor Boston Football Excursion

Grouping By Classes Inaugurated

A new schedule for Villanova's annual day of recollection to be conducted Thursday, October 4, has been innovated to relieve the former crowded conditions in the Field House.

All full-time Catholic undergraduate students will be divided into three groups:

Male freshman and sophomores will attend Mass at 8 o' clock in the University Field House. This exercise willbe followed by two conferences at 9:00 and 10:30.

Exercises will be held at these times for all female students in the University Chapel.

At 12:30, male juniors and seniors will attend Mass in the Field House followed by conferences at 1:30 and 3:00.

Retreat Masters

Rev. Thomas Mahoney, O.S.A., will conduct the exercises for the male students in the Field House, while Rev. William McDermott, O.S.A. will assist the women in their recollection day.

Friday Masses in Chapel

Confessions will be heard at 9:30, 11:00, 2:00 and 3:00 in preparation for First Friday Mass the following day. First Friday Masses in the University Chapel are at 6:45, 7:30, 8:00 and 12:00.

Holy Communion will not bee distributed in the Field House on Thursday.

Photo by Dick Schleicher

Villanova's happy footballers arrive at International Airport early Monday morning. This was just before they marched through the estimated 200 cheering students gathered above the runway. Cyril J. Burke trophy, awarded to Detroit-Villanova game winner each year, is in right foreground.

Students Will See BU Game

Pat Nicholson, chairman of the Spirit Committee, has formally announced Villanova's first student trip in five years at the Detroit pep rally last Thursday night.

Pat stated that the trip, which is open to all students, alumni, and friends of the university, for the Villanova-Boston University game will be played at Braves' Field Boston on Saturday night, Oct. 20.

Ticket Sale Opens

Special buses will be chartered for the occasion. These buses will leave Villanova, via the Field House parking lot, at midnight Friday, Oct. 19 and arrive in Boston early Saturday morning. This early arrival will enable the students to acquire sleeping accommodations at the colleges, universities or hotels of their own choice.

Buses will leave Boston at 10 a. m. Sunday. This departure will give the students time to attend Mass in Boston. They will arrive home about 7 or 8 p. m. Sunday.

This marks the 20th anniversary game between the two schools. Villanova leads in the series and an optimistic team will be out to avenge its loss in 1954.

Tickets will go on sale today in Dougherty Hall and from various members of the Spirit Committee. These tickets will include, in addition to the round trip bus fare, a 50-yard line seat in Villanova's own special section. The price will be $13.25 for V. U. students, $14 for alumni and friends, who are urged to attend. Sales of the tickets will be under the direction of Leo Rogers and John Fixl.

Penn State Last

The last time such a trip was undertaken was during the 1951 season when a large group made the trip to State College, Pa. for the Penn State game.

VU Scholarship Awarded Dorsey, Patrolman's Son

The three-month-old son of an heroic Philadelphia policeman wounded in a gun battle with a fleeing bandit has been awarded a full-tuition, four-year scholarship to Villanova—to be used around 1975.

Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., university president, announced the award last week to the son of George Dorsey.

His Father Wounded

The patrolman, who is almost completely paralyzed, was wounded, Sept. 14. He was struck in the throat by a bullet.

Dorsey and his wife are parent of two daughters in addition to young George.

Father Donnellon announced the scholarship through the Philadelphia Inquirer Charities, Inc., which valued the grant at more than $3,000, and estimated it will be worth more by the time it is used.

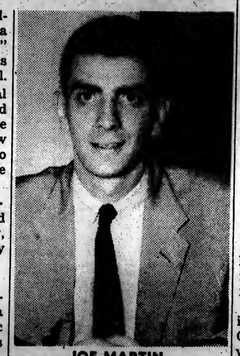
(Continued on Page 6)

SC Installs Martin, Offers 3-Point Goal

Pledging to work with the administration to make Villanova "an even greater university," Joe Martin was installed as chairman of the Student Council.

Martin, elected at a special meeting last Monday, replaced Jack O'Rourke, who entered the Augustinian seminary. The new chairman polled 18½ votes to 13½ for Bob Schiller, his lone opponent.

A 21-year-old senior mechanical engineer, Martin resigned his post as Council secretary, which he had assumed last May when O'Rourke was elected.



Shea in New Post

Jack Shea, senior history major from Philadelphia and a graduate of Northeast Catholic High, was elected secretary. His only opponent was John Skidmore Brown of the Arts school.

Martin was first elected to Council in second semester of his freshman year and served through his sophomore year. He was voted to Council in May as engineering day hop representative.

The new chairman lives in Norwood, Pa., and took his high school diploma from Glen-Nor High, which was closed last year.

In an informal acceptance speech, Martin outlined the program he plans to operate for Council this year. "We are counting on a lot of harmony and cooperation between the student body and administration," he commented.

JOE MARTIN
New SC Head

3-Point Platform

He also elaborated on his three-point program, calling for:

Elevation of the Council to a position of respect among all students.

Enrollment of all organizations as members of Council.

Insistence that all organizations on campus abide by the Council's rules.

Pat Nicholson, Council vice-chairman, conducted the meet-

(Continued on Page 7)

Council Approves Sr. Parking Plan; Goes to President

A plan for regulated parking of senior residents' cars has been approved by Student Council and will be passed on to the President's Committee for Students.

Approved at Monday night's meeting, the plan will be submitted by the new President's committee, at a meeting to be called later by Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A.

This is the way senior Tom Curran outlined his proposal: Seniors with a 2.0 and above cumlative average would be allowed to park in university parking lots after they paid a $10 registration fee.

They would be assigned parking stickers and a specific space. Cars found in any other spaces would be tagged with $5 fines for first offenses, with loss of parking privileges on subsequent offenses.

A letter from parents would be needed before seniors could register. Student Council members would handle the bookwork for the plan.

Another measure suggested by Curran to be turned over to the Father President is supervised cocktail hour during seniors' Fathers' Day in the spring.

Senior Jack O'Leary suggested a WVIL broadcast from Houston of the Villanova-Houston football game Nov. 17. Council Secretary Jack Shea countered that

(Continued on Page 7)

Seniors To Meet

University's senior class will meet at 11.30 p.m. tomorrow in C&F auditorium to nominate candidates for the vacated Student Council post.

Class president Vince Sullivan said all seniors are welcome. No date for the election of the resident engineering representative to replace Jack O'Rourke was announced by Sullivan.

O'Rourke's post was left open when he entered the Augustinian Order.

Senior Class steering committee will meet today at 5:30 p.m. in 207 C&F, Sullivan announced.

They Didn't Need A Victory To Show They Were Villanovans

If it's true that spirit is contagious, there's some sort of epidemic brewing at Villanova. The cause of it all—the most spirited crop of freshmen ever to descend on the campus.

From their first morning in the elongated registration line, this group of new college men and women demonstrated promising signs. They joined right in when an energetic junior turned on a football fight song and the "Alma Mater."

And they cooperated, right from the beginning, with the alert, hard-working orientation committee. When the "white hats" commanded in a pleasant way that a frosh should carry an upperclassman's TV set and golf clubs three flights up Alumni Hall, that gear was lugged up. No back talk.

Perhaps the most fitting demonstration of the "new Villanova spirit" was the way the freshmen sent off a pleasantly surprised Frank Reagan and his optimistic footballers. They even sent more than one "white hat" home with an aching throat.

Upperclassmen on their return during orientation week, seemed to unconsciously join in the new attitude. There was plenty of optimism among students before the Texas A&M game and just as much before the Detroit game at last Thursday's pep rally.

But what amazed upperclassmen even more was the mob that cheered and cheered when the team pulled in by train from Texas the first class day. Freshmen dominated the crowd which was yelling "Beat Detroit" even before the football players rolled in as freight and express trains roared through the station.

We think this epidemic is right in line with the bigger and better Villanova that's rising. It's a good thing, too, for these freshmen to jump right in and make these upperclassmen take notice. The football team showed it had plenty of spirit, and one of the main reasons could be of the sendoff they got.

We want these freshmen to keep up their yelling, even if they blow the roof of the Field House at those rallies. What's a roof where a fresh, spirited attitude toward football teams and schoolwork and extra-curricular activities is concerned?

All For Harmony

In selecting Joe Martin as its new chairman, the Student Council has made its first and perhaps most important step of the coming school year. It is to be congratulated on its choice.

Martin, a Council member from his freshman year, brings with him all the savvy necessary to make this year one of the most successful in the history of the Council. The key to the success of the Council is student enthusiasm in its operation. It is up to the student to make sure that the intricate gears of all organizations on campus mesh correctly to assure complete Council harmony.

Martin's three-point program to bring this ideal cooperation into existence, if adhered to by the student body, appears to be another sound plank, perhaps the soundest plank in the Council's platform. Harmony among the student organizations of the Council can assure without doubt the harmony between the student body and the administration.

The success of any enterprise depends almost wholly upon the cooperation of the factions involved. Martin's plan for renewed student interest in the Council seems only to lead to a level-headed, smooth-running organization making matters simple for itself and to be sure, quite a bit easier for the administration.

Pioneering Move

The administration is to be congratulated for jumping in and making it possible for Ed Shea and his mobile unit to get to Detroit and send back a play-by-play report of Sunday's football victory.

With the team playing four weekends on the road before showing off before the home folk, the pioneering move was especially appropriate. Shea, Jim Judge and Dennis Kuwahara deserve the "pioneer" tag, too. It was the first time ever that a Villanova athletic contest was broadcast back to the campus over the university radio station.

It was refreshing to stroll around campus and hear the blaring of radios . . . note the intense faces as Shea's professional commentary of the action came through . . . observe a group of seminarians clustered on the grass near Dougherty.

Shea and Judge are also to be congratulated for the professional way they described the action and analyzed the intricate offensive maneuvers, Kuwahara for his engineering chores at the scene and Len Bellanca for the way he handled the relay in the Dougherty Hall studios.

We hope the administration will approve similar trips in the future. There's no better way to keep the flaming spirit kindled.

Don't Give Up The Foundation

In the midst of all this talk of overcrowded parochial schools and the scarcity of religious teachers there pops up a suggestion that Catholic children in the first four grades be shunted to public schools.

Exponents of this plan feel that this would relieve the shortage of religious teachers, leaving a lot of classroom space available for older boys and girls. This would bring more teenagers in the range of religious teaching. And teenagers, the supporters claim, are the students most likely to run into trouble.

This brings up a question. How important do these people feel a foundation is to a first grader? It would seem that a child starting into this educational process for the first time should be immediately exposed to a Catholic atmosphere, whether there is a nun in front of the class or a carefully-screened lay teacher.

Catholics in the United States have sacrificed plenty to construct a strong school system. They have continually paid taxes to finance the public school system, and then contributed just as much to see that their children could attend parochial schools.

Why give all this up, asks Katherine Burton, in the current issue of SIGN magazine? She adds a few of her own proposals for maintaining the parochial school system as it now exists. They include persuading some members of cloistered orders to teach, and hiring more lay teachers.

We agree with Mrs. Burton. The money can be found to cover the expense of lay teachers. And buildings can be erected. The Bishop of Sacremento right now is gazing wistfully at three modern school buildings in his diocese which have never been entered by bashful first graders. One of those buildings has been sitting unoccupied for three years now. Why can't they be used? Not enough religious teachers.

A parochial school, to function as an instrument for spreading the Catholic faith, must have a mixture of religious as well as lay teachers on its faculty.

The best place to begin, therefore, would be in encouraging Catholic high school students to follow the religious life. And the best place to start this education is at the very beginning of their school careers.

Don't let all those primary graders be shoved into the public schools. They have impressionable minds and if they're able to observe the contentment of the religious life as it is mirrored in the face of a good nun from the start, they will be more inclined to leave father and mother later on.

BILLboard

By BILL REICH

A most pleasant welcome to the Class of 1960. You are a very spirited class and are to be congratulated. Keep up the good work and not only will Villanova be proud of you, but you will be equally proud of her. A word of praise must also go out to the members of The Orientation Committee for doing such a swell job in these first few trying weeks. Maybe the Class of '60 will be more successful next Muff Day.

Owls A Hoppin'

The Social Calendar began with a real bang last Friday night in the Field House with the "Owl Hop." We all hope that every event, social or otherwise, here on the University campus will be met withsuch enthusiasm. For this forthcoming weekend we have here and around, the Annual Catholic High School Press Conference to be held Saturday on the V.U. campus. The vine has it that the Bryn Mawr Nurses are holding a Dance this weekend. Check! There's always the "Race" at St. Colman's, Ardmore. We have been asked through to keep the crowds down at both these gala affairs, since there was a reported crowd of over 600 'Cats' at the Harcum free dance last weekend. Also barns, legions and picnic grounds should provide for a restful weekend. In the line of good movies this week, we find and recommend: "High Society" (Arcadia) and "War and Peace" (Stanley) in Philadelphia. So there's no reason for complaining of boredom this weekend.

The Town And Country

Soon to be opened in Ardmore Square will be a new restaurant for a dinner out or just a snack after the show. It's called the "Town and Country." You should be able to get good food at reasonable prices with a nice atmosphere. We'll be having more about it in the near future.

Coming up a lot of good radio shows over WVIL. So for a good College coverage of music, news and sports, keep your dial at 645. Last Sunday's play by play of the Detroit game by Ed Shea, is a fine example of what we can expect.

The record we pick this week as our up and coming is the Four Lads' "A House With Love In It," (Columbia).

Quotable Quips

This being a Presidental-election year the following quote seems in place. "Politicians are like old cars—too much exhaust, not enough horsepower." From DesMoines, Iowa comes the story of Raymond R. charged with leaving his car in front of a church. "I thought I had a right to leave it there ," he said to the Judge, "I was getting married inside." Case dismissed.

Items around campus . . . Boots have become a prerequisite for all Belle Aire classes . . . With an increase of the Security Force and Gate Houses at both ends of the Campus, we might see a large grey wall around us any day now . . . The change in

Peering . . . .

With NORM PEER

At the way buildings are moving and disappearing. Is it true that Belle Aire Hall is alive? It was seen in Bryn Mawr the other day with the old barber shop. Plans are also in the offing to move Mendel Hall to a more central location, and up-to-date maps of the campus will be issued daily.

. . . . At those be-dinked boys who swarm like flies, and are afraid to ask questions. One didn'te at for the first week because he didn't know where the chow hall was, and every time he opened his mouth, one of the ever-present "white hats" fined him.

. . . . At the new course that's being offered. So far though, we only have seven attendance majors. Just think, some day . . . . the Villanova School of Attendance,, with medallions for all.

. . . . At our feminine friends across the tracks whose recent rule change may affect the lives and wallets of many. Stop over to their smoke-filled chow hall and reminisce about the good old days of newspaper headlines and sudden trips home.

. . . . At the pleased looks on the faces of the profs as a pile driver interrupts their every word in ideally located Belle Aire Hall. Teachers are to be issued megaphones to shout at the students who would care to listen.

Villanovan

Villanova University Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS E. SMITH
Editor-in-chief

ROBERT G. STRAYTON — Managing Editor
J. WILLIAM JONES — Associate Editor
Francis X. Delany — Feature Editor
Joseph A. Kinney — News Editor
Lee J. Carson, John D. Kennedy — Copy Editors
Joseph A. Slavin, Robert B. Mulcahy — Sports Editors
Philip Seefried — Cartoon Editor
Al Stoughton, John Alshefski — Photo Editors
Ed Tomeszko, Joseph Clerk — Circulation Directors
Joseph DeGrazio — Business Manager

REV. LOUIS A. RONGIONE, O.S.A.
Faculty Moderator

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova—
Scholer, Gentlemen, Athlete:
LEO GOODREAU

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post Office, Dec. 27, 1928, under the act of March 3, 1879.
MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION
MEMBER OF CATHOLIC PRESS ASSOCIATION

Political Roundup:

Adlai Gains Farm Support, Vote May Decide Election

By GENE DONOHUE

From all visible signs, this year's presidential election is going to be decided by the farm vote. The majority of the voters in the urban areas are holding approximately to their 1952 candidates and it is fairly safe to assume that the big cities, while important, are taking a secondary place on the campaign schedules. It is in these farm areas, however, that Mr. Eisenhower seems to be having the most trouble, and Adlai Stevenson is riding high.

The Republican Side

From the Republican point of view, too many of the farmers are returning to the Democratic party just on principles. Many of them, while agreeing that Mr. Eisenhower has done a good job as Chief Executive, insist that they have always been Democrats and do not see why they should bolt the party a second time. However illogical this may seem, it is the case with a good percentage of the farmers.

Young Farmers

Many of the younger farmers have a different outlook on the situation. They believe that Ike promised them 100% parity supports during the 1952 Kasson ploughing contest in Mississippi. In his bid for the farm vote in Peoria, Illinois, last Tuesday night, the President "explained" his promise of full parity. According to Mr. Eisenhower, "In a free agriculture, farmers attain the kind of parity only in the market place. That's what I spoke for at Kasson four years ago—the attainment of that full share for the farmer—the preservation of free agriculture. That's what I've been working for. I shall keep working on it." This all sounds very good, but it doesn't appease the young farmer. He still insists that Ike is twisting words.

Post-War Farmer

The type of farmer that is taking part in this "revolt" is the post-war farmer; the farmer who had to take out loans to buy land and expensive farm machinery. Older farmers paid their land off during the war and accumulated enough money to buy their farm equipment outright. They have no mortgages or the like pressing them and are willing to wait and give Mr. Eisenhower a chance to make good his promises. But the young farmer is continually harassed by notes on his farm and equipment. Without at least 90% parity supports he finds it almost impossible to make ends meet. These men do not care what the situation will be ten years from now. What they feel they need is immediate aid.

Soil Bank Plan

Many of them do not believe that the soil bank plan by which the government pays them not to plant is doing them much good. To begin with, they feel that too many people are taking advantage of this "political grab-bag" by registering land they would never plant anyway. They look upon it is an election year measure. Many of them believe that it was morally wrong to be asked to plow under crops. The soil bank plan was still in Congress when the spring planting was done and many farmers had to plow under some of their crops t obe eligible for this aid.

The present administration appears to have quite a fight on its hands in the farm belt and as one Iowa farmer summed up farm opinion . . . "Mr. Eisenhower may be all right, he just listens to the wrong people."

Inquiring Reporter:

The sudden resignation of Villanova's head line coach, Otis Douglas, after the Texas Aggie game, to accept the head coach position with Calgary Tigers in the Canadian pro football league was met with much surprise about the campus. Douglas, an all-American lineman at William and Mary in 1928, was well liked by both students and players.

Your inquiring reporter has gathered the opinions of various Vilanovans by asking them the question:

"What do you feel the effect on the team will be because of the departure of line coach Otis Douglas?"

Dick Cook, C&F '57: I think Coach Douglas' leaving is a loss to Villanova. When he came to us the first time, it wasn't long before he was known and liked by everyone. When he came back this year the team's spirit picked up, and they all worked hard for him. I only hope they can hold on to the "fight" they had for the Texas A.M. game.

Kenny Harrison, C&F '59: I feel that Otis Douglas did his part, in pre-season practice, shaping the linemen to a razor's edge, both physically and mentally. I don't think he would have left if he thought it would hurt the team.

Bill Hattrick, Arts '57: I think it would have been worth it to the school if the administration had matched the Canadian offer

(Continued on Page 10)

New Day For Broadway

By GERALD TREMBLAY

After a fellow takes a girl out a couple of times, questions about "going steady" arise. Then when this friendship continues, questions of engagement and marriage also arise. American musical comedy started like many a young fellow who is seeing a girl. This friendship was only of minor interest for the field in the beginning was young and limited. It grew, however, and show attendance rose. Finally, and in my opinion, over this summer, musical comedy, like a young fellow seriously courting, has entered the American home and the marriage of musicals and the masses is imminent.

A Steady Advance

During the last decade American musical comedy has made new advances from the song-and-dance, happy-ending comedy that was so popular before this new era. Plays, like "Finian's Rainbow" with its plea for tolerance, "Oklahoma" with its villian who needs to be understood, and "South Pacific" with tragedy, tolerance, and understanding, formed a transitional period for musical comedy. These plays became great hits. They had the sparkle, fun and music of former musicals, but something more had been added—the third dimension of depth.

The songs of these plays did not escape this third dimension. In "Oklahoma," "Poor Jud is Daid" is a highly farcical number with undertones pleading for understanding. In "South Pacific," "You've Got To Be Taught" is a direct curse of intolerance; "Soliloquy" in "Carousel" attempts to portray the inner emotions of a character. The American public took these plays and their songs with deep-interest. Now in the fifties, I think that we have reached a new peak on our way to building a cultural and popular American institution — a serious play with serious musical expression.

A New High

Leading the new high is "My Fair Lady." Where else in all American theatre is there such a marvelous blend of theatre and music? The musical numbers in "My Fair Lady" are equally important in telling the story as the spoken parts of the play. In two excellent cases, "I'm An Ordinary Man," and "Just You Wait," the inner feelings of the character are completely and delightfully revealed. "My Fair Lady" is the quintessance of taste and development of American musical comedy.

Soon after "My Fair Lady," there appeared a musical by Frank Loesser titled "The Most Happy Fella." In my opinion this musical helped toward building another step in the development of American musical comedy. Where depth had been added mostly in the story line of musicals, in "The Most Happy Fella" the deepest factor is the music. The plot of "The Most Happy Fella" is as serious as "Carousel" or "The King and I." However, more often the music sweeps to new heights. Songs like "My Heart is So Full of You" and "How Beautiful the Days" form the basis for a new trend in musical comedy.

A New Trend

Two other contributions to American musical comedy development were revaluated recently, when "Porgy and Bess" completed its European tour, and when "Three Penny Opera" continued to run on the off-Broadway threatre circuit. When "Porgy and Bess" first appeared in the thirties, it was appreciated, and except for the popularity of Broadway's closet rival on campus is the Turf and Tinsel Club. Each year, T 'n' T put on an original musical comedy; not too serious, but a lot of laughs. This shot from "Jonh Smith, Esq.," vintage 1949.

(Continued on Page 12)

Looking Things Over:

By BILL JONES
Associate Editor

Wayward Belle Air, Redecorated Pie Shoppe Greet Awed Students

The scholastic year of 1956-57 is quickly upon us as once more summer reluctantly disappears into the memories of the past.

The average Villanova student now finds himself with a period of somewhat painful transition. Gone are the warm summer sun, the soft summer job, and the carefree days off at the beach. Gone with them are the warm summer nights free from the heavy hanging obligations of tomorrow's homework and topped off with a cool, tasty draught of one's favorite beverage.

Reality Returns

Reality has again poked its pesky little head into the picture. There is work to be done, and progress to be made.

Upon returning to Villanova, the minor, and at times humorous problems of progress are becoming apparent to the usually bewildered frosh, the perplexed soph, and the slightly confused third-year man. It appears, however, that the senior has finally become used to the little mysteries sprung upon the summer-softened returns to the "Big V.".

Some soft summer breeze has somehow gently lifted picturesque Belle Aire Hall from its steadfast plaster of paris foundation and rudely deposited it halfway to Rosemont. No longer can the student badly in need of diversification from the various rigors of classroom lectures happily watch the cars roll lazily by on Lancaster pike. He can be seen brooding silently to himself nursing small pains of envy for the lucky men across the hall who now have a much better view and a similarly easier task of counting freight cars.

Labor's Silent Symphony

Scores of laborers tiptoe quietly around Belle Air Hall, gently, ever so noiselessly returning the staunch edifice to its old, sturdy self. All that can be heard from these cautious workers are the soft plink, plink of the 16-pound malls, the gentle hum of assorted hammers, saws, drills, and the quiet chug, chug of those little 10-ton diesel tractors just outside the windows. Lending variety to this mechanical harmony are the quiet instructions given from one worker to another, from about 100 yards.

Sore feet is another problem which rises before our summer-softened returnees. The law students stationed in Dwyer Hall have been heard with worried voice denouncing the impending hike over hill and dale upon completion of the new law school building on the outskirts of Conshohocken.

The "T" Beckons

Students from Fedigan Hall have been seen to pause for a rest at Belle Air Hall and then

(Continued on Page 11)

Fr. Krupa, Superb Director, One of the Boys

After ten years Father Krupa has left Villanova. Those remaining here who knew him well are in perfect agreement on the thing he liked most about his long and fruitful tenure as moderator of the Belle Masque, campus dramatic society. His greatest pleasure was in the young men and women he worked with, directed, trained and played with.

This was mutual admiration as the Belle Masquers thought the world of Father Krupa. Says Mike Clark: "He had a close relationship with all the members and they all thought the world of him. He seemed to know every guy inside and out." This was a tremendous asset in casting as Father got to know just where to put a young man when filling the parts for a new production.

Priest-Teacher-Producer

What kind of a man was this versatile priest-teacher-producer who has left an indelible mark on Villanova dramatic history? Most important for Belle Masque and theatergoers over the past decade, Father loved the theater and everything connected with it. Jake Krupa, Father's brother, recalls that Father would talk theater hour on hour.

This theater addiction stemmed in part at least from the Krupa's parents. Jake Krupa tells of times when he and his brother would wake up their parents in the theater after the place had been closed for the night. Jake also inherited the theatre bug. He has worked with Father over the years in charge of the stage crew which he has directed to many memorable physical production's in many of Father's memorable plays.

The play's the thing and good plays even more so. Good plays were what Father Krupa gave us, from Shakespearean productions, his favorite, to dazzling modern successes such as "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" and "Detective Story."

Each play began as one of several under consideration by Father as a possible production for Belle Masque. Father would spend considerable time mulling over the potential productions and after making up his mind, he would sound out the boys on it, finally submitting it to their judgment.

After a play had been selected and agreed upon, came the casting, the stage at which many a play is made or broken. Father enjoyed the casting tremendously. He considered it a challenge and occupied several weeks with the auditions and decisions.

(Continued on Page 11)

FATHER KRUPA

N.F.C.C.S. Mardi Gras On Nov. 30

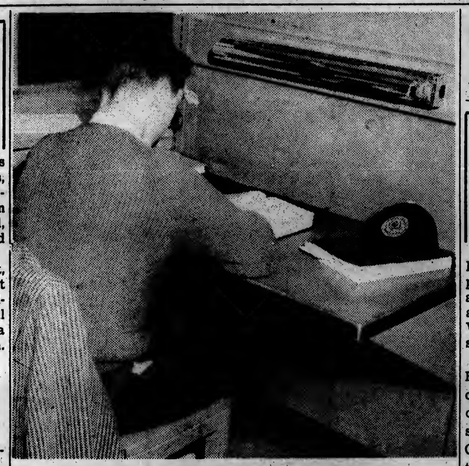
After two successful dances over the past couple of years, the National Federation of Catholic College Students will again present the Mardi Gras Ball, Nov. 30, in the Villanova Field House.

Bill Lawler, NFCCS president, made the announcement last week to eighty members, including 25 freshmen nurses, and will arrange a dance committee at a meeting tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. in 101 C. and F.

'56 Yearbook Head Completes Training

Dick Fitzpatrick, editor-in-chief of the 1956 BELLE AIR, has been graduated from the Naval Pre-Flight School at Pensacola, Fla.

Now assigned to Whiting Field Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Milton, Fla., for primary flight training, he received his degree in June.



JIM JUDGE
DPM President

DPM Readies Tonight; Year To Be Planned

Delta Pi Mu fraternity will hold an organizational meeting tonight at 7:30 in 201 C & F.

President Jim Judge said the agenda for the coming year will be discussed and urged all members to attend.

At a meeting of the newly-organized executive council last Tuesday night, the agenda was planned for tonight's meeting, Judge revealed.

Rallies! Dances! Bull sessions! Not for this studious freshman. What, after all, is college for? Maybe, perhaps, he's just jumping the gun on his colleagues and creating the good impression with the profs. Hmmm! Maybe he's not so dumb at that.

Photo by Al Stoughton

Appointed in August:

Jim Gallo Resigns Post; Ex-Editor Nash to Direct Villanova Sport Publicity

Harry Nash, former VILLANOVAN editor-in-chief and class president, is Villanova's new director of sports information.

He assumed his duties in August after the resignation of Jim Gallo, who returned to his Allentown home because of the illness of his mother.

A native of Portsmouth, Va., Nash majored in English. His father is connected with the Norfolk bureau of the Associated Press.

Nash was president of his class during junior year, worked four years on the VILLANOVAN, and was sports editor during sophomore year. He has worked professionally for newspapers in his hometown and in Norfolk.

New Duties

In his new position he is responsible for preparing releases for area newspapers on Villanova's athletic squads and takes all road trips with the teams.

On his first trip to Texas he appeared on three television programs.

Think This Over!

Mustache wax, an item that hasn't been popular since Teddy Roosevelt left the White House has gone to the head of the college class. . . . . .

One mustache-wax manufacturer, according to an article in the new issue of Look Magazine, has traced a recent boom in the sales of his product to, of all places, the college campus.

The demand came not from the facially hirsute, it turned out, but clean-shaven college boys.

Undergraduates, after adopting the crew cut, couldn't make their hair bristle, the Look article said.

Then someone remembered great-grandpa and found that nothing works like wax in stiffening reluctant ruffs.

Staggered Retreat Dates Increase Effectiveness

Rev. John Klekotka, O.S.A., newly-appointed chaplain, has announced a new three-day retreat schedule designed to give a more effective retreat to the increasing number of University students.

Under the new plan the Freshman and Sophomore men will meet in the Field House from January 27 to January 30 under the direction of Reverend John Corley, O.S.A.

From April 14 to 17, the Junior and Senior males of the University will have their retreat under the guidance of Father Corley. During these same days Reverend Thomas Mahoney will conduct days of recollection for the women of Villanova in the chapel.

Seniors Alone Last Year

Until last year the student body met as a unit in the Field House for the three-day retreat, but due to the increasing student body of our expanding University a departure was made from this system last year when the Senior students were given a private retreat in the University Chapel last spring.

However, this proved unsatisfactory due to the great number of underclassmen.

Father Klekotka hope that the new method provided an effective solution to this particular problem of Villanova's "growing-pains."

John Blong Given Post By Alumni

The Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O. S. A., university president, today announced the appointment of John S. Blong as Executive Secretary of the Villanova National Alumni Association.

Mr. Blong succeeds George Harris, present Dean of the Education Department. Mr. Harris came to Villanova in 1947, since serving as Veterans Guidance Counsellor and Alumni Secretary.

Mr. Blong, who hails originally from San Francisco, served in the Armed Forces from 1943 to 1946. He then came to Villanova, majored in English, and graduated in 1950 with an A.B. degree. As an undergraduate he participated in varsity basketball and baseball. Blong received his master's degree from Fordham in 1952.

During the past three years, John coached basketball and baseball at Saint Joseph's Prep in Philadelphia's Catholic League.

Mr. Blong is married and the father of two sons, Lawrence 4 and Stephen 3.

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

13% Law School Increase Marks Further Expansion

In keeping with Villanova's all over expansion program the Law School has also encountered an increase in its enrollment of 13% over last year.

Seventy-two men were admitted as first-year students of which 53 are from Pennsylvania, 10 from New Jersey, and 5 from New York.

Poland Student

There is also one student from Poland and three from parts of the United States.

Of the group, 20 are graduates of Villanova, 9 are LaSalle alumni, and six are from St. Joseph's.

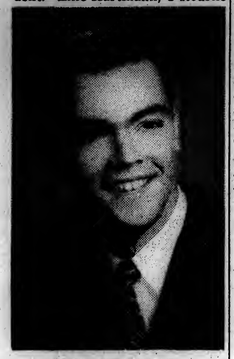
IRS Meets Today

President Gene Donohue announced that the first meeting of the International Relations Society will be held today in 204 Mendel. The meeting, to take place at 3:30, will deal with the program for the coming scholastic year, both with regard to speakers on campus and conferences at other colleges.

Already this year, I.R.S., has been invited to Trinity College in Washington, D.C., for a three-day conference on world affairs. The conference will take place Nov. 9 through 11.

Photo by John Alshefski

Another modern dormitory, to house some 440 students, rises in front of Sullivan Hall. Construction was begun during the summer. The dormitory is expected to be ready for occupancy next September.



Jack O'Rourke Resigns Post; Enters Augustinian Seminary

For the second consecutive year a senior elected to a prominent campus office has resigned to enter the priesthood.

Enters Augustinians

Jack O'Rourke, named chairman of the Student Council last May, entered the Augustinian Order in August. He is now studying at Good Counsel Novitiate, New Hamburg, N. Y.

In resigning his position O'Rourke followed Frank Hartmann, who entered the Augustinian Order last year after being elected senior class president. Like Hartmann, O'Rourke

JACK O'ROURKE
A New Career

was a regular midshipman in the NROTC unit.

Political Figure on Campus

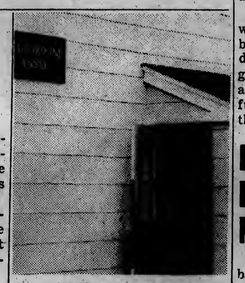
A native of Philadelphia and graduate of Northeast Catholic High, O'Rourke was a leading campus figure who advanced from class president during his sophomore year to Student Council secretary the following year.

O'Rourke, in a letter read by new Council chairman Joe Martin immediately after his election last Monday, promised Council members that "I will remember all of you in my prayers . . . and hope you will pray for me."

"I want to take this opportunity to thank all of you for the trust you placed in me; had it been God's will, I would have liked to have been with you all . . . next year," he commented.

New WVIL Staff Begins With Play By Play of Game

Ed Shea's play-by-play description of Sunday's Detroit-Villanova football from Kyle Stadium inaugurated WVIL's broadcasting season.



Besides being aired throughout all the halls on campus, the game was piped throughout Dougherty Hall for the enjoyment of visiting guests.

Shea Top Man

Shea, a senior science major from Summit, N.J., succeeds Don Alton, who graduated in June, as station manager and is assisted by program director Hank Miller and Bill Reich, chief announcer.

The Music programs will be jointly supervised by Hank Nichols, spinning the pop tunes, and Dick McEntee with classical recordings.

Walt Murphy will direct all news flashes and Pat Nicholson will handle sports.

Another one of the post-World War II campus additions has traded its name for five modern classrooms. It's now the Classroom Annex, not the Pie Shoppe.

Garey Hall Is 7th Project In Seven Yrs.

The completion of the Law School building, scheduled for November, will afford Villanova's campus its seventh new major structure since 1949.

Named in memory of the late Eugene Garey, a prominent New York attorney who received an honorary degree from Villanova eight years ago, the edifice containing faculty offices, receiving rooms, lounges, and a library will be opened for classes next semester.

Another building currently under construction — a hugh dormitory almost identical to adjacent Sullivan Hall on the east end of the campus—was started during summer vacation.

The four-floor dormitory, which is expected to be ready by next fall, will house 440 students and will form a quandrangle with Sullivan, the Commerce and Finance Building, and the future classroom building for the business school.

Debaters Offer Exibition Under New Moderator

The topic of Beta Gamma debating society's exhibition debate to be given by the varsity members tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. is "Direct Economic Aid To Foreign Countries."

The members of the society will be coached by a new moderator, Mr. Richard McDonough of the Speech Department.

Intramural Program Planned

Beta Gamma, which has par-

(Continued on Page 12)

Twenty-Five New Profs Added To Growing Faculty

To accommodate the noticeable increase of both undergraduates and graduate students at Villanova this fall, the Administration accepted 25 new instructors to the University faculty.

C&F Gets Most

Six new members conducting classes in the Commerce and Finance School are John De La Cour, Andrew Jackson, Robert Lyon, Richard McMonigle, Jerome Kopensky, and Robert Porter.

The Mechanical Engineering and English Departments each received four. John Carroll, Edwin Gabriel, Francis McFarland, and Ping Shiu Tu are lecturing the Engineers while James Cleary, Richard DuPrey, Joseph Price, and Charles Smith are offering several courses in English.

Nursing Instructors Added

A couple of female teachers, Mary Dougherty and Helen Griner, were added to the rapidly-expanding Nursing School.

William Dannacher and Tobias Hahn were added to the Mathematics Staff and Max Hartman and James Markham have offices on the fourth floor of Mendel Hall in the Chemistry Department.

George Cressman, Education; Bernard Dean, History; Joseph Hicks, Engineering; James McKenna, Sociology; and Frank McGurk, Psychology also held their first class sessions on the Main Line campus last Monday.

12 Part-Time Profs

Twelve part-time professors including a trio in the Department of Law, are now teaching in the University's full-time school.

The Law professors are Peter Liebert III, Michael Von Moschzisker, and Charles Vogan, in addition to English instructors, William Costello and William Walsh; John Collins and Joseph McDonald, both in Business Law; and Donald McMorrow, Physics; Vincent Ryan, Mathematics; Franklin Reeder, Nursing; Edward Sutula, Accounting; and Michael Toconita, French.

Villanova "New Look" Seen in Dorm, Law School Emphasizes Growing Pains

A "new look" has definitely been added to the Villanova campus since the closing of classes last May, and the hustle and bustle of maintenance and construction men is apparent throughout the school grounds.

Construction work on the new dormitory, relocation of Belle Air Hall and the conversion of the Pie Shoppe into a five-room classroom annex were but a few of the projects undertaken during the summer months to meet the increased enrollment at Villanova.

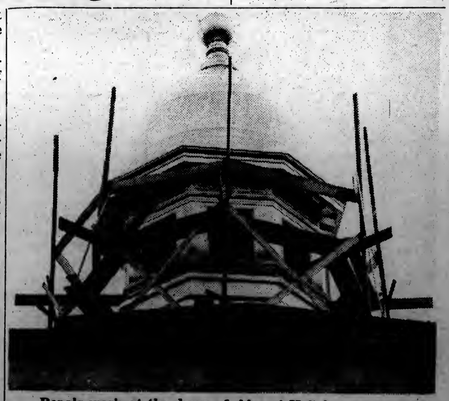
"Sullivan Twin"

Fast progress is being made on the dormitory which will be the same type structure as Sullivan Hall and will house some 400 students.

Finishing touches are being put on Belle Air Hall which has been moved a few hundred yards from its old site. Although an asphalt sidewalk has been erected to Belle Air, no information about whether the building would be in permanent use could be obtained from the administration.

The Pie Shoppe has been renovated and is now the site of five spacious classrooms.

Exterior cleaning and painting of the Villanova Chapel have recently been completed. In addition, the two crosses on the chapel steeples are being given a gold finish.



The dome on Alumni Hall is under repair after lightning struck it in June.

Law School Near Completion

The new law school which was begun last winter is expected to be completed by late October.

Dougherty Hall also shared in the campus beautifying program as a guard chain was erected around the building to protect the grass and an additional sidewalk leading to Austin Hall was laid.

Rooms in several dormitories were also painted during the vacation period.

Repair work at the dome of Alumni Hall is near completion. The dome was damaged extensively by fire after being struck by lightning in early June.

Fr. Krupa, Superb Director, One of the Boys

After ten years Father Krupa has left Villanova. Those remaining here who knew him well are in perfect agreement on the thing he liked most about his long and fruitful tenure as moderator of the Belle Masque, campus dramatic society. His greatest pleasure was in the young men and women he worked with, directed, trained and played with.

This was mutual admiration as the Belle Masquers thought the world of Father Krupa. Says Mike Clark: "He had a close relationship with all the members and they all thought the world of him. He seemed to know every guy inside and out." This was a tremendous asset in casting as Father got to know just where to put a young man when filling the parts for a new production.

Priest-Teacher-Producer

What kind of a man was this versatile priest-teacher-producer who has left an indelible mark on Villanova dramatic history? Most important for Belle Masque and theatergoers over the past decade, Father loved the theater and everything connected with it. Jake Krupa, Father's brother, recalls that Father would talk theater hour on hour.

This theater addiction stemmed in part at least from the Krupa's parents. Jake Krupa tells of times when he and his brother would wake up their parents in the theater after the place had been closed for the night. Jake also inherited the theatre bug. He has worked with Father over the years in charge of the stage crew which he has directed to many memorable physical production's in many of Father's memorable plays.

The play's the thing and good plays even more so. Good plays were what Father Krupa gave us, from Shakespearean productions, his favorite, to dazzling modern successes such as "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" and "Detective Story."

Each play began as one of several under consideration by Father as a possible production for Belle Masque. Father would spend considerable time mulling over the potential productions and after making up his mind, he would sound out the boys on it, finally submitting it to their judgment.

After a play had been selected and agreed upon, came the casting, the stage at which many a play is made or broken. Father enjoyed the casting tremendously. He considered it a challenge and occupied several weeks with the auditions and decisions.

(Continued on Page 11)

FATHER KRUPA

N.F.C.C.S. Mardi Gras On Nov. 30

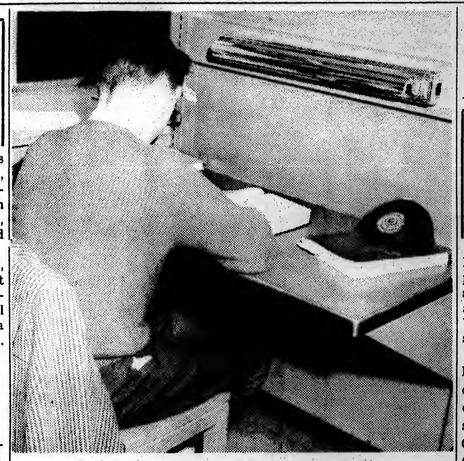
After two successful dances over the past couple of years, the National Federation of Catholic College Students will again present the Mardi Gras Ball, Nov. 30, in the Villanova Field House.

Bill Lawler, NFCCS president, made the announcement last week to eighty members, including 25 freshmen nurses, and will arrange a dance committee at a meeting tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. in 101 C. and F.

'56 Yearbook Head Completes Training

Dick Fitzpatrick, editor-in-chief of the 1956 BELLE AIR, has been graduated from the Naval Pre-Flight School at Pensacola, Fla.

Now assigned to Whiting Field Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Milton, Fla., for primary flight training, he received his degree in June.



JIM JUDGE
DPM President

DPM Readies Tonight; Year To Be Planned

Delta Pi Mu fraternity will hold an organizational meeting tonight at 7:30 in 201 C & F.

President Jim Judge said the agenda for the coming year will be discussed and urged all members to attend.

At a meeting of the newly-organized executive council last Tuesday night, the agenda was planned for tonight's meeting, Judge revealed.

Rallies! Dances! Bull sessions! Not for this studious freshman. What, after all, is college for? Maybe, perhaps, he's just jumping the gun on his colleagues and creating the good impression with the profs. Hmmm! Maybe he's not so dumb at that.

Photo by Al Stoughton

Appointed in August:

Jim Gallo Resigns Post; Ex-Editor Nash to Direct Villanova Sport Publicity

Harry Nash, former VILLANOVAN editor-in-chief and class president, is Villanova's new director of sports information.

He assumed his duties in August after the resignation of Jim Gallo, who returned to his Allentown home because of the illness of his mother.

A native of Portsmouth, Va., Nash majored in English. His father is connected with the Norfolk bureau of the Associated Press.

Nash was president of his class during junior year, worked four years on the VILLANOVAN, and was sports editor during sophomore year. He has worked professionally for newspapers in his hometown and in Norfolk.

New Duties

In his new position he is responsible for preparing releases for area newspapers on Villanova's athletic squads and takes all road trips with the teams.

On his first trip to Texas he appeared on three television programs.

Think This Over!

Mustache wax, an item that hasn't been popular since Teddy Roosevelt left the White House has gone to the head of the college class. . . . . .

One mustache-wax manufacturer, according to an article in the new issue of Look Magazine, has traced a recent boom in the sales of his product to, of all places, the college campus.

The demand came not from the facially hirsute, it turned out, but clean-shaven college boys.

Undergraduates, after adopting the crew cut, couldn't make their hair bristle, the Look article said.

Then someone remembered great-grandpa and found that nothing works like wax in stiffening reluctant ruffs.

Staggered Retreat Dates Increase Effectiveness

Rev. John Klekotka, O.S.A., newly-appointed chaplain, has announced a new three-day retreat schedule designed to give a more effective retreat to the increasing number of University students.

Under the new plan the Freshman and Sophomore men will meet in the Field House from January 27 to January 30 under the direction of Reverend John Corley, O.S.A.

From April 14 to 17, the Junior and Senior males of the University will have their retreat under the guidance of Father Corley. During these same days Reverend Thomas Mahoney will conduct days of recollection for the women of Villanova in the chapel.

Seniors Alone Last Year

Until last year the student body met as a unit in the Field House for the three-day retreat, but due to the increasing student body of our expanding University a departure was made from this system last year when the Senior students were given a private retreat in the University Chapel last spring.

However, this proved unsatisfactory due to the great number of underclassmen.

Father Klekotka hope that the new method provided an effective solution to this particular problem of Villanova's "growing-pains."

READ
THE VILLANOVAN

John Blong Given Post By Alumni

The Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, O. S. A., university president, today announced the appointment of John S. Blong as Executive Secretary of the Villanova National Alumni Association.

Mr. Blong succeeds George Harris, present Dean of the Education Department. Mr. Harris came to Villanova in 1947, since serving as Veterans Guidance Counsellor and Alumni Secretary.

Mr. Blong, who hails originally from San Francisco, served in the Armed Forces from 1943 to 1946. He then came to Villanova, majored in English, and graduated in 1950 with an A.B. degree. As an undergraduate he participated in varsity basketball and baseball. Blong received his master's degree from Fordham in 1952.

During the past three years, John coached basketball and baseball at Saint Joseph's Prep in Philadelphia's Catholic League.

Mr. Blong is married and the father of two sons, Lawrence 4 and Stephen 3.

13% Law School Increase Marks Further Expansion

In keeping with Villanova's all over expansion program the Law School has also encountered an increase in its enrollment of 13% over last year.

Seventy-two men were admitted as first-year students of which 53 are from Pennsylvania, 10 from New Jersey, and 5 from New York.

Poland Student

There is also one student from Poland and three from parts of the United States.

Of the group, 20 are graduates of Villanova, 9 are LaSalle alumni, and six are from St. Joseph's.

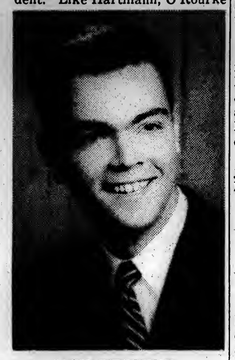
IRS Meets Today

President Gene Donohue announced that the first meeting of the International Relations Society will be held today in 204 Mendel. The meeting, to take place at 3:30, will deal with the program for the coming scholastic year, both with regard to speakers on campus and conferences at other colleges.

Already this year, I.R.S., has been invited to Trinity College in Washington, D.C., for a three-day conference on world affairs. The conference will take place Nov. 9 through 11.

Photo by John Alshetski

Another modern dormitory, to house some 440 students, rises in front of Sullivan Hall. Construction was begun during the summer. The dormitory is expected to be ready for occupancy next September.



Jack O'Rourke Resigns Post; Enters Augustinian Seminary

For the second consecutive year a senior elected to a prominent campus office has resigned to enter the priesthood.

Enters Augustinians

Jack O'Rourke, named chairman of the Student Council last May, entered the Augustinian Order in August. He is now studying at Good Counsel Novitiate, New Hamburg, N. Y.

In resigning his position O'Rourke followed Frank Hartmann, who entered the Augustinian Order last year after being elected senior class president. Like Hartmann, O'Rourke

JACK O'ROURKE

A New Career

was a regular midshipman in the NROTC unit.

Political Figure on Campus

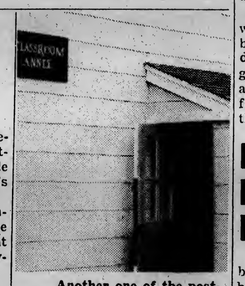
A native of Philadelphia and graduate of Northeast Catholic High, O'Rourke was a leading campus figure who advanced from class president during his sophomore year to Student Council secretary the following year.

O'Rourke, in a letter read by new Council chairman Joe Martin immediately after his election last Monday, promised Council members that "I will remember all of you in my prayers . . . and hope you will pray for me."

"I want to take this opportunity to thank all of you for the trust you placed in me; had it been God's will, I would have liked to have been with you all . . . next year," he commented.

New WVIL Staff Begins With Play By Play of Game

Ed Shea's play-by-play description of Sunday's Detroit-Villanova football from Kyle Stadium inaugurated WVIL's broadcasting season.



Besides being aired throughout all the halls on campus, the game was piped throughout Dougherty Hall for the enjoyment of visiting guests.

Shea Top Man

Shea, a senior science major from Summit, N.J., succeeds Don Alton, who graduated in June, as station manager and is assisted by program director Hank Miller and Bill Reich, chief announcer.

The Music programs will be jointly supervised by Hank Nichols, spinning the pop tunes, and Dick McEntee with classical recordings.

Walt Murphy will direct all news flashes and Pat Nicholson will handle sports.

Another one of the post-World War II campus additions has traded its name for five modern classrooms. It's now the Classroom Annex, not the Pie Shoppe.

Debaters Offer Exibition Under New Moderator

The topic of Beta Gamma debating society's exhibition debate to be given by the varsity members tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. is "Direct Economic Aid To Foreign Countries."

The members of the society will be coached by a new moderator, Mr. Richard McDonough of the Speech Department.

Intramural Program Planned

Beta Gamma, which has par-

(Continued on Page 12)

Twenty-Five New Profs Added To Growing Faculty

Garey Hall Is 7th Project In Seven Yrs.

The completion of the Law School building, scheduled for November, will afford Villanova's campus its seventh new major structure since 1949.

Named in memory of the late Eugene Garey, a prominent New York attorney who received an honorary degree from Villanova eight years ago, the edifice containing faculty offices, receiving rooms, lounges, and a library will be opened for classes next semester.

Another building currently under construction — a hugh dormitory almost identical to adjacent Sullivan Hall on the east end of the campus—was started during summer vacation.

The four-floor dormitory, which is expected to be ready by next fall, will house 440 students and will form a quandrangle with Sullivan, the Commerce and Finance Building, and the future classroom building for the business school.

To accommodate the noticeable increase of both undergraduates and graduate students at Villanova this fall, the Administration accepted 25 new instructors to the University faculty.

C&F Gets Most

Six new members conducting classes in the Commerce and Finance School are John De La Cour, Andrew Jackson, Robert Lyon, Richard McMonigle, Jerome Kopensky, and Robert Porter.

The Mechanical Engineering and English Departments each received four. John Carroll, Edwin Gabriel, Francis McFarland, and Ping Shiu Tu are lecturing the Engineers while James Cleary, Richard DuPrey, Joseph Price, and Charles Smith are offering several courses in English.

Nursing Instructors Added

A couple of female teachers, Mary Dougherty and Helen Griiner, were added to the rapidly-expanding Nursing School.

William Dannacher and Tobias Hahn were added to the Mathematics Staff and Max Hartman and James Markham have offices on the fourth floor of Mendel Hall in the Chemistry Department.

George Cressman, Education; Bernard Dean, History; Joseph Hicks, Engineering; James McKenna, Sociology; and Frank McGurk, Psychology also held their first class sessions on the Main Line campus last Monday.

12 Part-Time Profs

Twelve part-time professors including a trio in the Department of Law, are now teaching in the University's full-time school.

The Law professors are Peter Liebert III, Michael Von Moschzisker, and Charles Vogan, in addition to English instructors, William Costello and William Walsh; John Collins and Joseph McDonald, both in Business Law; and Donald McMorrow, Physics; Vincent Ryan, Mathematics; Franklin Reeder, Nursing; Edward Sutula, Accounting; and Michael Toconita, French.

Villanova "New Look" Seen in Dorm, Law School Emphasizes Growing Pains

A "new look" has definitely been added to the Villanova campus since the closing of classes last May, and the hustle and bustle of maintenance and construction men is apparent throughout the school grounds.

Construction work on the new dormitory, relocation of Belle Air Hall and the conversion of the Pie Shoppe into a five-room classroom annex were but a few of the projects undertaken during the summer months to meet the increased enrollment at Villanova.

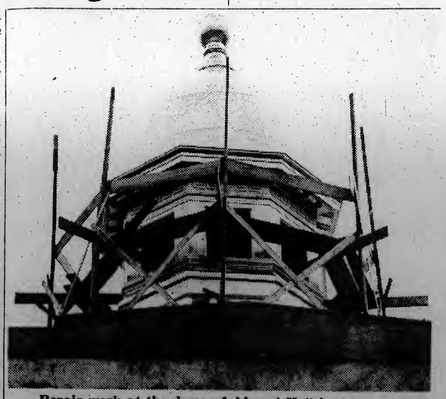
"Sullivan Twin"

Fast progress is being made on the dormitory which will be the same type structure as Sullivan Hall and will house some 400 students.

Finishing touches are being put on Belle Air Hall which has been moved a few hundred yards from its old site. Although an asphalt sidewalk has been erected to Belle Air, no information about whether the building would be in permanent use could be obtained from the administration.

The Pie Shoppe has been renovated and is now the site of five spacious classrooms.

Exterior cleaning and painting of the Villanova Chapel have recently been completed. In addition, the two crosses on the chapel steeples are being given a gold finish.



The dome on Alumni Hall is under repair after lightning struck it in June.

Law School Near Completion

The new law school which was begun last winter is expected to be completed by late October.

Dougherty Hall also shared in the campus beautifying program as a guard chain was erected around the building to protect the grass and an additional sidewalk leading to Austin Hall was laid.

Rooms in several dormitories were also painted during the vacation period.

Repair work at the dome of Alumni Hall is near completion. The dome was damaged extensively by fire after being struck by lightning in early June.

Fall Plans Announced:

Belle Masque Holds First Meeting; Members Welcome New Director

Belle Masque dramatic society greeted its new director with an "enthusiastic turnout" Thursday.

DuPrey New Director

Mr. Richard A. DuPrey, a member of the English department and a seasoned college director, replaced the Rev. William J. Krupa, O.S.A., as director.

Belle Masque President Mike Clark said more than 60 new members turned out at the opening meeting. Plans for the fall play, which is already in rehearsal, were announced.

Tryouts for the play—Clark wouldn't announce the title—were held over the weekend.

MIKE CLARK
President of Belle Masque

Father Krupa Transferred

Father Krupa served as moderator-director of Belle Masque for 11 years before being transferred to parish work in Lawrence, Mass., during the summer.

Mr. DuPrey, a native of New Hampshire, will confine his duties to the directing end. A moderator will be named later, according to Clark.

He took his master's degree in theatre arts from Tufts University after turning out original scripts during his undergraduate day at St. Anselm's College.

Commenting on the new director's appointment, Clark said: "Belle Masque is greatly pleased with the new director and would like to publicity welcome him to Belle Masque and to Villanova."

Freshmen To Present Play

At the same time Clark announced that Belle Masque was introducing a new setup this year for freshman members. "They will present their own play and will be trained separately from upperclass members," the president explained.

Strictly Opinion

By PAUL FINAN

And so another school year has begun, and the returning Villanovan observes many changes. There have been new appointments within the Administration, the new class absence rule has been introduced, and Belle Air Hall has been moved to its new location. Garey Hall, the new home of the Law School, is nearing completion and should be ready for occupancy in the near future.

Yes, the Villanova scene is a rapidly changing one, and with every passing year the student observes the expansion program in action. And with expansion, especially the rate at which Villanova is growing, improvements have to be made. New theories must be tested, new ideas must be introduced. This is being done.

Improvement in the Student Body

Perhaps the improvement which I am going to discuss will seem minute compared to others being made, but an improvement within the student body is one which directly benefits the University. This improvement has been made in a program which deals with the Freshman Class. What could be more ideal?

The task of putting into action a successful orientation program is indeed a very difficult one. Many problems are to be confronted along the way, such as the selection of able committee members, the proper enforcement of the orientation rules, and also the ability to help the new class with its "first year at college" problems.

Total Strangers Make Good

It is safe to say that when the average freshman arrives at Villanova, he is here for the first time. He is a total stranger to the rules and regulations of the University, to the ways of college life, and to the day to day existence of a Villanovan. He is anxious to be exposed to the religious, educational and social advantages offered here. He has perhaps traveled a great distance to come to Villanova that he might learn her ways, and yes, to become what a true Villanovan should be.

